11th ANNUAL STREET FESTIVAL SATURDAY NIGHT

Newarkers ready to showcase their town!

NEWARK NITE, the city's annual extravaganza of entertainment, shopping, food, music and games will sparkle under the stars on Main Street tomorrow night.

New this year for the 11th annual street fair is a dunking booth sponsored by the Newark Rotary Club. As of press time, locals already scheduled for a wet evening included city manager Carl Luft, Newark police chief William Hogan, Newark High School principal Frank Hagen, and Michael Guilfoyle of the Christina District School Board.

Also new this year are additions to free parking for the event at the University of Delaware parking garage and the Bob Carpenter Center. A free shuttle bus will take fairgoers between the Carpenter Center and the Newark Shopping Center every 15 minutes starting at 4:30 p.m.

As in previous years, free parking is also available in Newark Parking Authority lots.

Plenty of free parking this year!

- Newark Parking Authority (NPA) lots in the downtown area
- University of Delaware parking garage at Main Street and New London Road
- Bob Carpenter Center parking lot off South College Avenue. Two Unicity buses will provide a free shuttle from the bus shelter and Field House to the Newark Shopping Center every 15 minutes between 4:30 and 10 p.m.

Street entertainers planned for the evening are Delaware Dance Company, the Juggling Hoffmans courtesy of Dean Witter Reynolds, Newark Deltones Barbershop Quartet courtesy of DuPont Co., Professor Hitt the Magician courtesy of SuperFresh Food Markets, Num Num Clowns, the Hearts of Worship Christian dance and drama group, pony rides, children's games, chalk drawing, and carnival games and a petting zoo in the Newark Shopping Center.

The Wall of Bubbles will be back but this year it will move up and down Main Street throughout the night. "We had a problem with the street getting slippery when it stayed in one place," explained organizer Deirdre Peake of the Newark Business Association.

Antique autos will be on display throughout the night at the

NHS snags state championship

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

WILMINGTON – The Newark High baseball team's roller coaster season ended with the Yellowjackets on top.

Newark ripped St. Mark's 11-2 in the championship game of the Delaware High School Baseball Tournament Wednesday afternoon at Frawley Stadium. The win completed an improbable 19-3 campaign that began with its long-time coach stepping down before the first game of the season. Assistant Curt Bedford took over the coaching reins but the highly touted 'Jackets stumbled to a 2-2 start.

Wednesday's victory, however, culminated a turnaround which saw Newark win 17 of its last 18 games including four straight in the state tournament.

"We've been through a long year . . . to say the least," said an emotional Bedford after the championship. "This team has a great bunch of guys and they deserve it.

"They had a lot of pressure on them. They were picked as the number one team before the season ever started; then they were the number one seed and picked to win the state tournament. They really came through."

Jason Bedford, Curt's brother, pitched a five hitter and the 'Jackets pounded out 15 hits on their way to the win over the Spartans. Sean McCullough, Tom Emig, Scott Hunt, Bedford and Curt Vincent all had two hits apiece to lead the offense.

JUDGE GETS TOUGH

Budd site on the market

By MARY E. PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Newark's largest and most decayed factory site has been listed for sale and could be demolished within a year.

According to controlling partner Thomas Ruger, joint venturers Del-Chapel Associates listed the old Budd Company/Continental Fibre site with Century 21 four months ago and have already shown the site at Delaware Avenue and North Chapel Street to prospective buyers.

"We don't have any offers, yet," said Ruger, following his appearance in criminal court on Wednesday. "But we'll definitely sell it if anyone's interested."

On Wednesday Del-Chapel was forced to appear to answer charges that they have failed to keep the the vacant industrial site free of openings, thus rendering it unsafe; and failed to maintain exterior windows and doors as required by the city maintenance code.

Judge Loreto P. Rufo found Del-Chapel guilty on both charges but waived the $200 in fines and told the litigants "I don't want to punish–I just want to fix it."

Agreeing with city assertions that the site is an "attractive nuisance" to children, Rufo ordered Del-Chapel to immediately secure and keep secured all openings, including fences, doors and windows on the first-floor level.

"(One of the witnesses) mentioned nails and plywood," said Loreto. "You need a lot of nails–maybe you should consider screws."

Loreto ordered Del-Chapel to return within 120 days and have a "viable plan to demolish the property–and I mean a closed-end deal–or else board up every (opening) at the site."

Rufo said if he was a child "this is exactly the kind of place I would want to explore and I don't want anyone hurt in this property."

The former industrial site has also been a source of concern because of safety hazards to those who enter the site both legally and as trespassers.

Adjacent to the Newark High School, Newark Police officers have told both the city and school administrators that the site is an "attractive nuisance to kids." According to Captain Charles Townsend, police have been called to the site as much as eight times a month to investigate reports of trespassers. "Most of the juveniles (found there) are truants," said Townsend.

In addition, a worker employed to do maintenance at the property for Del-Chapel stated in court that "kids have gotten in over the fence on the Delaware Avenue side–we caught some on the rail spur, some in the building."

The judge cautioned Ruger that he would not be so lenient if Del-Chapel did not secure and/or demolish the property. "If the building department comes in here in a few weeks with more pictures of openings on the first floor you'll see how unhappy I can be."

Ruger said the owners are willing to divide the site into three or four parcels and have sought city help in rezoning to make it more attractive to buyers.

Newark planning director Roy Lopata said Del-Chapel has never applied to rezone the property–the majority of which is presently zoned for light manufacturing.

In previous comments city officials said the property has been largely vacant and steadily decaying for the past 20 years. Lopata said the city has actively tried to market and develop the site since he came here in the 1970s.

"The city tried to be a conduit between the owners and potential buyers," said city manager Carl Luft. "We encouraged a sale in the city's best interest and the owner's interest."

However, according to Luft, the owners of the property have refused to cooperate or even discuss possible development and more importantly, have allowed the property to fall into an alarming state of disrepair.

ZONING AMENDMENTS EXPECTED

City regulate, but not outlaw towers

By MARY E. PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Telecommunications towers may yet become part of the Newark landscape, according to city manager Carl Luft.

"My assistant Fred Herald recently attended the National League of Cities meeting where this was discussed," said Luft. "It appears that under the Federal Telecommunications Act of 1996 a city can regulate these towers, but cannot outright prohibit them."

Luft said he has asked planning director Roy Lopata to look into amending the zoning code to allow towers and related equipment within city limits. "Roy will be using information from other cities and professional articles in drafting the amendment," said Luft.

Herald, city solicitor Roger Akin, and electric director Richard Vitelli will review the amendments proposed by the planning department before Luft makes any recommendation to city council.

In a related matter, Luft said Police Chief William Hogan met with the State Office of Telecommunications Management on Tuesday to discuss whether the elimination of the tower on University of Delaware land originally proposed as part of the statewide 800 megahertz system will affect coverage in the city of Newark? Luft said he would be making a report on the meeting to city council on Monday night.

"It seems so easy to not build the university tower and just make the one at the I-95 toll plaza higher," said Luft. "But at the meeting held in Glasgow High School they said moving a tower even a few feet would hurt the service."

Luft said the city wants to be sure the coverage now planned is "the same or equal to" what would have been available for emergency communications in Newark with the university tower.

There is a bill coming eventually for participation in the statewide system, added Luft.

"According to a state survey reported by the Delaware Police Chiefs Council, every police department in Delaware will have to pay a share for this service," said Luft.

Newark's estimated share will be $312,000 but Luft hopes that half of that will be paid by the state.

"We also have not been told yet whether the payment will be due in full or over a time," said Luft. "If I have my way, it will not be paid very quickly."

In order to ease the strain on the city budget, Luft proposes to pay Newark's share of $156,000 over three years. Cost shares are based on the anticipated amount of use by the police in each locale.

Funeral home fire

On May 31 an unknown male left a message on the answering machine at the Jones & Foard Funeral Home on West Main Street that he put out a fire there at 5:15 a.m.

According to police, the home's plastic fence facing New London Road was set afire by unknown means.

Problems continue

On May 31 around 7:36 a.m. unknown persons burned a sleeper sofa in the intersection of Wilbur and Prospect streets. Police said this is an ongoing problem at this location.

Electronics stolen

On May 29 between 8:15 a.m. and 6:15 p.m. unknown persons forced entry to a house on Creek Bend Court causing damage to the door. Taken were a Yamaha stereo receiver, Sony CD player, Goldstar VCR, Hitachi turntable and two pillowcases valued at $1,430. Police are investigating.

Naked man visits Kinko's

On May 29 around 4:50 a.m. employees of Kinkos on Elkton Road said a totally naked white male, with blond hair, 6'2", 190 pounds, ran into the store. The man ran toward an employee, yelling, and then ran out of the store and got into a blue Honda Civic occupied by three other suspects. Police checked the area but did not find the suspects.

Suspicious activity

On May 30 around 11 p.m. police saw a possible drug transaction taking place on Terrace Drive. The police approached one person involved and instituted a search but found no drugs on the suspect who claimed to have been buying firecrackers. Police did not find firecrackers but a small package containing 5 units of crack cocaine was found nearby. No charges have been filed.

Teenager attacked

A 19-year-old man was attacked in Woodrose off Polly Drummond Hill Road on May 29 around 1 a.m. a by two men who apparently followed him home from the vicinity of Route 2 and Possum Park Road.

The man was walking toward his home when he was hit by what he believes was a handgun and then held on the ground by one suspect while the other removed his car stereo from his car. The suspects fled in a vehicle later located together with a majority of the stolen property in Wilmington.

Nelson S. Meadows, 19, was arrested in Wilmington and charged with robbery in the first degree, possession of a deadly weapon during the commission of a felony, aggravated menacing, conspiracy in the 2nd degree, felony theft and terroristic threatening.

Police are attempting to locate the second suspect. The victim sustained bruises and abrasions to his face and legs but refused medical treatment.

Police stop thieving children

An off-duty policeman stopped two children from stealing a Craftsman lawnmower from a residence in his Old Mill Village neighborhood on June 2 around 10:30 p.m. A

According to New Castle County police, the officer heard a truck driving up and down the road continuously and looked out. He saw the children get out of the truck which had its lights off.

The children were attempting to take the lawnmower from a nearby home when the officer stooped them. Subsequent investigation showed that Gary L. Martin, 30, of Stephenson Way, Woodland Trails, had told 9-year-old son and nephew to steal the lawnmower. Martin was charged with theft, two counts of endangering the welfare of children and one count of criminal solicitation. The children who were not charged were turned over to relatives.

Bear woman dies on Rt. 273

A 19-year-old Bear woman died following an accident at Route 273 and Old Baltimore Pike on May 30.

Police said Marcia L. Woods of Salem Woods, was a passenger in a car driven by Denise M. Barnes, 20, of Woodson Drive. According to police, Barnes turned into the path of an oncoming pickup truck driven by a Eric W. Gaberlein, 21, of New Castle who was not injured. Barnes was treated for injuries at Christiana Medical Center. Investigation of the accident is continuing.

Driver dies after crossing line

A 42-year-old New Castle woman was killed and a 21-year-old Pennsylvania woman was injured in a head-on collision on Route 273 near the Avon underpass on June 1. According to police, Diane Turner crossed the center line for unknown reasons and hit a car driven by Amanda Hastings of Oxford, Pa.

Turner was taken to Christiana Hospital where she died from her injuries. Hastings was admitted with a broken leg and other injuries. Witnesses told police that Turner was driving erratically prior to the accident and the investigation is still continuing.

Police want to return goods

Three teenagers were arrested on June 3 after being found breaking into autos on Balmoral Street in Newtown Village.

According to police, a 15-year old male and two 17-year-old males, all of Newtown Village, were found with loose change, a cellular telephone and personal property and jewelry taken from a vehicle.

The youths were charged with underage consumption, resisting arrest, theft and conspiracy. Subsequent investigation showed they had entered 14 vehicles in all and 13 additional counts of theft and conspiracy were added to the charges.

Police are attempting to return recovered property to owners and ask that persons who think they may have been victims should call county police at 571-7930.

Newark Police detectives are requesting investigative information regarding a bank robbery complaint which occurred Monday, March 18, at the Wilmington Trust branch, Suburban Plaza, Newark, at approximately 10 a.m.

According to police, the suspect walked into the bank and immediately approached one of the tellers. The suspect advised the teller, "This is a robbery," and was given an undisclosed amount of currency.

The suspect fled on a bicycle. No weapon was displayed and no injuries were reported. The suspect is described as being a white male, 6'0", 160 lbs.

Newarker's life revolves around wolves

By MARY E. PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Angelo and Stephanie Piner are raising two children aged 16 months and 11 years in a house with wolves in the backyard. "My whole life revolves around wolves," said Angelo Piner. "I been studying and raising them for 14 years."

Piner's activities have recently caused concern among his Rosetree Hunt neighbors who have complained to the county and the state because the wolves have gotten loose on two occasions.

Rose Tree Hunt is located off Route 40 and is near the Delaware-Maryland state line.

According to Margaret Aitken, press officer for New Castle County, Piner has been cited for violating a county ordinance requiring wild animals to be kept on more than a half-acre of land because the wolves are not kept for educational purposes.

Piner said he had not been cited as of June 4, and also produced copies of letters and other information demonstrating that he regularly gives talks and shows his wolf, Lobo, at schools in Delaware and Maryland.

Among the schools he has visited are West Park Place Elementary School in Newark, Elkton High School, Elkton Middle School, and Mount Aviat Academy in Childs, Md. Piner has also given presentations to summer programs in Wilmington.

"Anytime you have wild animals, people are concerned," said Piner, who previously raised wolves in Indiana and in Laurel, Del. "People don't understand these animals."

Five British Colombian, Arctic and Tundra, and Timber wolves are housed in pens behind Piner's house. A perimeter fence outside the pens keeps people from being able to get too close.

Piner said wolf "hybrids" or wolves bred with dogs are actually more dangerous than his animals because they "don't know whether they're a wolf or a dog" and their behavior can be erratic.

"I never sell my wolves to private owners," said Piner. "I don't believe in keeping them as pets because my interest is in preserving the wolf species. These animals are not pets."

Most of Piner's adult wolves never leave their large pens and are kept only for exhibit to groups like local Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops and others. A sign next to the pens requests donations and gives rules for visitors.

"Many people come here to see the wolves and learn about their different characteristics," explained Piner. "I don't really like to be this close to other homes but this is the best I can do right now."

At his Rosetree Hunt home Tuesday, Angelo Piner showed off one of the wolves that he keeps in pens behind his house.

Pancake breakfast rescheduled

The pancake breakfast originally scheduled to be part of the grand opening celebration of the new Newark Senior Center in May has been rescheduled. A delayed opening of the kitchen forced the sponsors, the Rotary Club of Newark and the Newark Lions Club, to postpone the event. The event now will be held Saturday, June 29, 7 a.m. to noon at the new senior center off Marrows Road.

Tickets for the original breakfast will be honored at the June 29 breakfast. As well, tickets are available from any member of the two Newark clubs and will be available at the door.

District reassignment plan up for vote Tuesday

By MARY E. PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

After more than 50 public meetings in the past two months, the new Student Assignment Plan will come before the Christina District School Board for a vote next Tuesday night at Newark High School.

"We've actually been talking about this since 1994," said school superintendent Dr. Iris Metts. "The Community Consensus Task Force started meeting then to come up with ideas."

When the complicated plan was unveiled in March, Metts and members of the school board urged people to get informed and comment on the plan.

"As of May 30, we have had 212 written responses to our questionnaires handed out at the informational meetings," said Metts.

Based upon the surveys, school officials said that 46 percent of the people responding indicated they would choose a theme school in some instances. "Some people said theme schools might be good for one of their children but not the other," explained assistant superintendent Peter Demyan.

Demyan added. "The principal at Pulaski, where a pilot theme program starts in September, said 40 families have already applied for their children to be in it."

Metts said it appeared that about 350 people had attended the 13 informational meetings scheduled around the district. Many more heard presentations at faculty and PTA meetings regularly held at schools.

Come on down..town!

NEWARK NITE is quickly replacing the Deer Park Tavern and Stone Balloon as something Newark is known for beyond its borders.

What started as a way for Newarkers to reclaim their Main Street after the university students depart has mushroomed over the past decade into one of the state's best family-oriented street festivals. This Saturday night will be no different.

We tip our hats to the Newark Business Association and executive director Deirdre Peake and vice president Domenick Sicilia, in particular. The NBA, which has a full plate these days when it's not organizing a street party for 15,000 people, has whipped up a gala that will provide fun and entertainment for Newarkers of all ages.

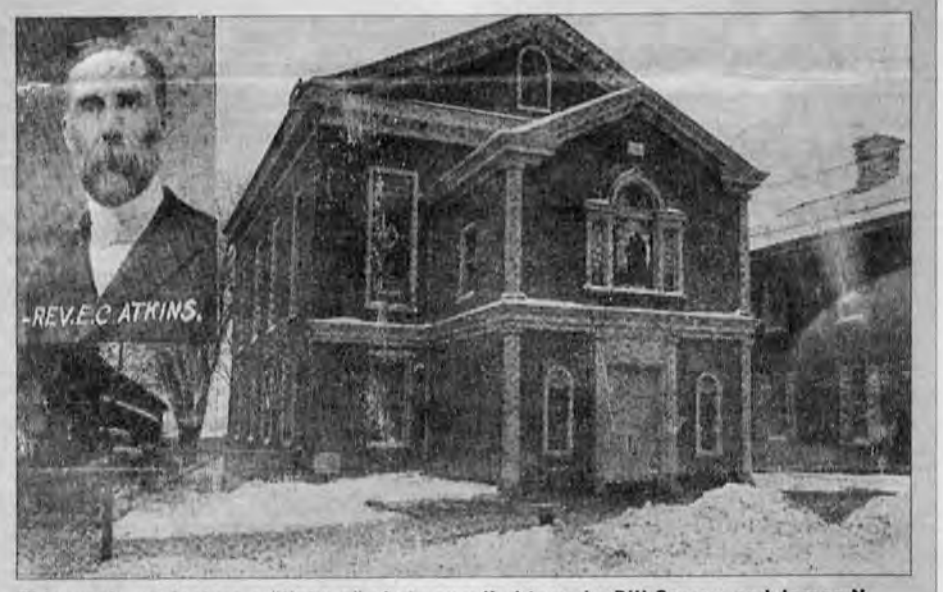
We also salute the commercial sponsors, who have ponied up so that the rest of us can enjoy the festivities free of admission charge.

From the antique cars to the frozen fruit drinks, from the top-notch entertainment to Felix Cartagena's Rube Goldberg-like bubble machine, the thing we like best about Newark Nite is that everybody shows up! It truly has become the place to be each June and new residents and oldtimers alike enjoy conversation and fellowship as they stroll up and down Main Street.

Not every town has a bustling downtown like ours and even fewer host an annual party like Newark Nite. We're grateful to those who conceived the festival and the volunteers who keep it growing from year to year.

If you haven't been on Main Street recently, this Saturday night you'll notice the many positive changes and see why Newark is getting a lot of outside attention.

Out of the Attic



This week, we feature a "tintype" photo supplied to us by Bill Carrow and James N. Taylor. It shows the Newark United Methodist Church on Main Street and the Rev. E. C. Atkins, who was pastor there from 1904 to 1906. The picture of the church is from the same time period, we suspect. "Out of the Attic" features historic photographs from Newark's history, recent and long ago. Readers who have a historic photo and would like to share it with other readers are invited to loan their photos for reprinting in this space. Special care will be taken. For information, call the Newark Post, weekdays, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., at 737-0724.

PER CHANCE

A memorable evening

By ELBERT CHANCE

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

SEVERAL YEARS AGO, perhaps influenced by the furor created by Alex Haley's "Roots," my wife and I agreed that before being sidelined by mental or physical infirmity, we would travel to Great Britain, the land of our ancestors.

When we received an announcement that the University of Delaware Alumni Association and 4 Seasons Tours & Travel were sponsoring a 1996 trip to England and Wales, it seemed an ideal opportunity to implement that plan. Having recently returned from that 12-day adventure, I must report that our dollars (make that pounds) were well spent.

Chance

Upon arriving at London's Heathrow Airport, we learned that our guide throughout our stay would be Kenneth Harland, whose father had been a member of the House of Commons from Scotland. We soon discovered that he not only was a walking compendium of British history, but an actor with extensive repertory and motion picture experience. His most recent venture had been reading Thomas Hardy's "The Mayor of Casterbridge" for presentation by the BBC.

PASSING THOUGHTS

Stepping out of the 3rd person'

By JAMES B. STREIT, JR.

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IN MY NEWSPAPER CAREER, seldom have I felt the need to abandon the usual "third person" point of view and instead offer "first person" account. But to author only a photo caption or short story about Philip Stewart's award seems shallow, short-sighted and insufficient. The usual "who, what, when, where and why" of this remarkable youngster needs to be interpreted beyond the surface facts.

Streit

But before I tell you Philip's story, I offer my own.

Several years ago, the family and friends of two local youngsters paid tribute to Asia Price and Nicole Cantera by establishing an award in their honor following their untimely deaths.

I never met Asia or Nicole; I only learned about them through the fond recollections of those who knew them. What I've heard is that they were extraordinary youngsters, ones who, at a young age, exhibited the best qualities of what all of us who are parents hope for in our offspring. They were articulate and polite, caring and loving of all they met.

So it was appropriate five years ago when the Christina Educational Endowment Fund (CEEF) established the criteria for the Price/Cantera award. It would be presented to a student in each of the Christina School District's K-3 schools who best exhibited

New fire engine to be housed Saturday week

"The biggest celebration Newark has ever had." This, in the words of Fire Chief E. C. Wilson, is what may be expected when the handsome new Stuz fire engine recently purchased, is installed on Saturday, June 18.

Proceeding the housing ceremony a parade will start at 2:30 and an eloquent speaker has been secured to receive the engine upon its presentation and everything arranged for a gala time.

Council votes to improve street drains

Town Council at the regular meeting on Monday evening voted a number of improvements to be made to the streets of the town.

A new drain is to be installed on Main Street near the B & O Station and at Main and Chapel on both sides of the street.

The congestion at this point in time of heavy rain has been a source of complaint for some time.

A new enclosed gutter of concrete will be placed on West Main Street from the town limit to Corbit Street.

Construction to begin on Barksdale development

Construction of the 180-unit residential Abbotsford community, to be located on Barksdale Road in Newark, may begin as soon as this summer, said local developer Robert F. Teeven.

Teeven, whose holding company recently selected Ryland Homes of Columbia, Md., as home builder for the project, said Abbotsford will occupy 62 acres.

It will consist of 108 single-family homes and 72 townhomes, he said.

Newark's Blue Hen Beer celebrates anniversary

The Newark-based Blue Hen Beer Company, Ltd., is currently celebrating the first anniversary of its flagship product - Blue Hen Beer, a craft-brewed specialty beer that has been available in Delaware since May 1990.

In addition to building a local identity and following, the company has recently expanded its distribution to include parts of northern Maryland and eastern Pennsylvania.

Negotiations are also underway to secure the export of Blue Hen Beer to Japan and Europe.

'The chance for local control will be jeopardized'

To: The editor

From: Stephanie A. Ulbrich
State Representative
25th District

As parents we all have the responsibility to provide the best possible education for our children. Educators in Delaware and around the country know the importance of having parents play an active role in their children's learning. Research shows that children not only do better academically when their parents are involved, but improved student behavior and attitudes toward school are also documented.

It is vital that our education system provide parents with the opportunity, and sometimes the extra incentive, to be involved.

With several new initiatives underway in public education in Delaware, including Choice among public schools, Charter schools and the lifting of the federal busing order, I believe we have the perfect opportunity to encourage and enable parental involvement.

Parents must take advantage of what is available in this new environment.

As the responsibility for shared decision-making increases at the local level, parents must make their concerns, suggestions and questions known to their local school board members in order for positive change to occur.

I believe it begins with parents deciding where their children should attend school.

In declaring the four northern New Castle County school districts unitary last August Judge Robinson afforded parents the privilege of local control, leaving the decision up to them on what is best for their children.

However, the Christina School Board is on the verge of adopting a Student Assignment Plan that maintains racial balance guidelines in our schools, thereby negating the freedom our parents won through Judge Robinson's decision. If the board approves the proposal on June 11, the chance for local control will be jeopardized.

Parents must make their feelings known, and urge the board to reconsider adoption of such a proposal. If parents want the choice to truly be theirs, then get must get involved in every aspect of their kids' education.

According to Anne Henderson, Education Policy Consultant at the Center for Law and Education, "Parent involvement is not a quick-fix; it is absolutely fundamental to a healthy system of public education...We cannot look at the school and the home in isolation from one another..."

I encourage parental involvement in public education. It is essential to children's learning, and I believe our kids deserve it.

'Hey, chief, give me a break!'

To: The editor

From: Ken Seaman
Newark

I am sending with this letter a copy of the ticket I received in front of my own home on a quiet, two-way street at 27 minutes after midnight on Friday, May 31.

It just fries me that the Newark police have nothing better to do then issue tickets to its sleeping citizens for pointing their car the wrong way in front of their own homes.

Perhaps if the officer would have put out his radar gun while waiting for the ticket to be printed out, he could have caught one of the many speeders that typifies this short stretch of street, perhaps a more useful project for our grand police force.

I believe this action is nothing more than an income-generating exercise, and I see it as harassment. I have lost what little faith I had in our police force and suggest they re-evaluate their mission and who they should be citing and who they should he serving.

Hey, chief, how about a break, maybe a warning at least for such a petty little violation. This absolutely disgusts me.

Change school board elections

To: The editor

From: Pamela S. Maier
21st District
State Representative
Newark

The job of an elected school board member is one of tremendous responsibility. Those elected to the local school boards should be a true representation of the district they serve. But, too often members are elected by only a small percentage of those actually eligible to vote.

In the last contested Christina School Board election in May of 1994, fewer than 2,000 voters cast ballots. I believe it is time to improve the system. If school board elections were held the same day as the General Election, research shows that voter participation would increase. House Bill 380, which I have sponsored, is designed to get more people involved in the democratic process by holding school board elections during the General Election. This measure would lead to greater awareness of public education issues, as well as emphasize the importance of electing well-qualified people to make decisions about our children's schools.

This legislation would also ensure a better-managed system by giving State Election officials the authority to run the school board elections, instead of the various school districts. The process by which those elected to serve as our schools' policy-makers should be as inclusive as possible. If that means changing the date of school board elections to that of the General Election as a way of increasing voter participation, then I support such a move and urge my colleagues in the General Assembly and the Governor to do the same.

NEWARK OUTLOOK

Keeping farming healthy

■ Newark Outlook is a weekly column supplied by the Newark-based Cooperative Extension Service.

I OFTEN USE this column to demonstrate the importance of the agricultural industry, particularly here in New Castle County. Frequently, I include an appeal for the consideration of agriculture's future when land-use and development plans are formulated by the decision makers. Where I may be remiss is in keeping you abreast of the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware and Cooperative Extension's agricultural activities on a broader, statewide basis.

Dr. Richard E. Fowler, director of Delaware Cooperative Extension, recently wrote an article about keeping agriculture in Delaware competitive for the College's OUTREACH newspaper. He has given me permission to reprint his comments.

Helping farmers remain competitive is a primary concern of the College of Agricultural Sciences. Farming isn't an easy business. The risks are many and the rewards are sometimes hard to find. Agricultural land will be preserved only as long as it returns a profit. University of Delaware is involved in research and Cooperative Extension programs that will increase Delaware's agricultural competitiveness.

This week's author: Carl Davis

University and Extension personnel research and then field-test the practices growers use to produce food and fiber. In 1995, a team of Delaware researchers and specialists established a program to reproduce harvest loss in three major vegetable crops grown for processing: peas, lima beans and pickling cucumbers. The team identified immediate steps to reduce loss until research could lead to long-term improved recovery, reduced trash and less product damage. At harvest, 300 more pounds of lima beans and peas per acre were recovered. On more than 20,000 acres of peas and lima beans, these immediate improvements enhanced grower incomes by $500,000. As for pickles, farmers earned an additional $150 per acre because of a 2 percent reduction in damage to the crop.

Poultry manure was used as a substitute for commercial fertilizer in trials for lima beans, pickles and watermelons. The potential for savings in Delaware alone is more than $1 million.

Kenaf and sorghum, crops new to Delmarva and with better potential for economic returns in dryland cropping systems, were introduced into rotations with soybeans last year. Twelve farmers adopted production practices.

Newarkers play role in Summer Games

By JULIA R. SAMPSON

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

"I ALWAYS WANTED to be involved with the Olympics," said Newark resident Neil Semmel, "and this is one way."

Semmel was nominated to run in the Olympic torch relay to Atlanta because of his volunteer efforts with the blind and visually impaired.

The 32-year-old volunteer coach and athlete was the winner of the 1994 Delaware Award for Excellence and Commitment in State Service for his professional work with visually impaired and blind children.

Semmel set up the state's only Comprehensive Low Vision Program, volunteers for the Delaware Association for Blind Athletes as a coach, and obtained a donation of track and field equipment worth $1,300 for the Delaware Association for Blind Athletes.

Semmel teaches blind and visually impaired students in schools throughout the state the skills that help them cope in everyday situations. Braille, large print, and adaptive technology are just a few of the tools he has used during his eight years of teaching.

JOHN MILLER will have two moments of glory as an Olympic torch runner this year. The 45-year-old Newark resident will run a one-half mile leg of the Summer Olympics relay to Atlanta another for the Special Olympics being held this weekend in Newark.

"I didn't even know I was nominated to run in the (Atlanta) relay until I received a letter stating I was chosen," explained Miller, who was nominated by executive director of Delaware Special Olympics Ann Grunert.

Miller, who has been coaching for the past 15 years, has volunteered with Special Olympics for 9 years and is a member of their board of directors. He also chairs the annual appeal for Special Olympics, donates platelets for leukemia and cancer patients, and chairs the Gary Celeste Memorial Scholarship Fund in memory of the victim of an accidental shooting.

In addition to his volunteer efforts, in which he reports he has a "very understanding and wonderful wife," he also recruits hundreds of law enforcement officers to volunteer for Special Olympics.

"I try to organize my time to get involved not only through police work, but by volunteering," said Miller, a retired Delaware State Police Captain.

Miller currently works as a special investigator for the Department of Justice.

Scouts become 'bag ladies' for Goodwill

By JULIA R. SAMPSON

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

THE CHESAPEAKE Bay Girl Scouts and Goodwill Industries teamed up for a statewide, month-long clothing drive known as "A Bag Full of Opportunities."

Brownie troop 104, in Newark, collected over 360 gallons of clothing which equals approximately 30, 12-gallon bags.

"These girls did a terrific job getting donations," said Mary Russel, troop leader of Brownies 104. "We had neighbors calling us wanting to donate!"

Donated items were dropped off at various Goodwill sites throughout Delaware, including the Goodwill Store on Main Street in Newark.

This year was the first time 'A Bag Full of Opportunities' became a statewide effort. The goal for 450 Girl Scouts from 43 troops was to collect over 10,000 gallons of clothing by the end of the drive.

As of May 8, the Girl Scouts collected over 15,804 gallons of clothing or approximately 1,317 bags, said Nancy Nelson, communications director for the Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council.

Mindy Heck, associate manager of the Newark store, said the Girl Scouts "were a pleasure," and they are looking forward to working with them again next year.

"It was a feel good project that was very successful and beneficial to both organizations," Nelson said.

Have fun on the train, fun at the fair

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

THE DELAWARE State Fair is indeed a venerable institution. It has been with us for 76 years. The fair is extremely important to some segments of the Diamond State, of passing interest to other segments and of no importance at all to still other segments.

Were my column "True Confessions" instead of "The Arts," I might be moved here to admit that for many years I fell somewhere between the last two segments.

As a young New Castle County boy I was dutifully taken by my parents to the then "Kent and Sussex County Fair" for a day to learn more about my state. I remember liking the carnival rides but not much else.

When it was time for me to take my children to what was by that time the Delaware State Fair, traffic was such a problem that I put it off for another time, and another time and. . . I'm sure you get the idea. My daughter finally did make it as an adult, but it was not to be a family event for this generation of Tomans.

Truth to tell for residents in this area, traffic in and around Harrington, rather than a lack of interest in the fair, caused many to stay away. That problem disappeared about five years ago with the arrival on the scene of "Rails to the Fair."

The train was a joint project of the Delaware Rail Administration, Amtrak, Conrail and the Delaware Railroad Passenger Association. It provided fast, clean, air-conditioned comfort from several locations in Delaware to within a few hundred yards of the gate to the Delaware State Fair.

What I discovered after my first Rails to the Fair was a world I never remembered as a child. The Delaware State Fair is much more than the "Two Cs" (cattle and carnival) that New Castle County residents often think it is. To be sure, the Two Cs are there in abundance, but the fair is truly a folk art festival as well. Many of the fine arts are represented there. I have enjoyed a juried photo exhibit, quilt making, decorative arts and much more.

I am very fortunate to have as a friend a true fair aficionado, Scott Lawrence, and with his help I have been exploring a different part of the fair each year. Since Rails to the Fair was launched, I haven't missed a year. Both Scott and I are interested in Delaware history and each year the fair provides me with new knowledge about my state. Doug Andrews, rail specialist for the Delaware Transit Corporation, also provides an excellent geographic and historical narrative on the way down and back. His comments add much to the day!

Now, I will share a "secret" with you. Skip the junk food places on the midway. The best place to eat on the Fair Grounds is the Grange Hall. Great home cooking at great prices! Of course the entree is Delmarvelous chicken — surprise!

The Delaware State Fair does appeal to all ages so it is for your whole family. Some children in this area really have never had the opportunity to get close to farm animals and the people who raise them. They can at the fair and the 4H students who tend the animals are delighted to tell you all about them.

As a reader of the Newark Post, may I suggest two places to board the train to Harrington on July 20? You may board at the northbound track of the old Pennsylvania Station in Newark with a departure time of 11:03 a.m.

For information about a free shuttle service from the DelDOT lot at Route 4 and 896 to the Newark Station, you may call 302-577-2025.

The other place is at the old Middletown Station at the west end of Main Street in Middletown. Departure time there is 11:49 a.m. (That former Pennsylvania Station is also out of service but there will be plenty of people around that day — there are every year.)

The train will leave Harrington at 6:21 p.m. and arrive in Middletown at 8:15 p.m. and Newark at 8:56 p.m.

Adult round trip fare from Newark is $32.50 and children, $18. From Middletown the fares are $22.50 and $12. By the way, that ticket price hasn't gone up since the train service began. You may call the same number as above for reservations and reservations are required. May I suggest an early call. The last two years late callers were disappointed. A word to the wise?

For a full day — and evening — of fun on a train and at the Delaware State Fair, may I suggest a family outing on Saturday, July 20?

Rails to the Fair is ready for another great trip and the Delaware State Fair is ready to entertain and educate. What more can you ask from one day?

The future of farming

which included crop rotations with cover crops, banded pesticide sprays and changes in cultivation. The results were fewer applications on 2,500 acres, saving more than $60,000 and a 75 percent reduction in fertilizer inputs.

Farming's future in the United States—a country where less than 2 percent of the population feeds the rest of us—depends on a profitable, globally competitive agriculture. New crops with new uses, current crops with better yields and refinements in production systems will help the nation's farmers remain the most efficient in the world.

On a personal note, Dick Fowler will retire from the Delaware Cooperative Extension in June after 28 years of distinguished service. We will all miss him greatly, but trust that the Lord will bless both Nancy and him with a long and rewarding retirement. I am sure that Dick would appreciate cards or phone calls from any of you who have been associated with him.

Parents' input changes plan

questions and comments, Metts said the district has made some changes to the original proposal.

Elbert-Palmer, slated to become a primary center, will now be phased in as a grades 2-6 theme school for ecology, health and fitness. "First, it would have been difficult to meet fire code regulations for an early childhood center," said Metts. "And second, the staff and parents wanted to maintain a school for all grades as a focal point in the Southbridge community."

Metts said parents developed their own theme program and presented it to the district. "Our decision to make this change goes back to our desire to be considerate of community concerns."

Metts emphasized, "We listened and changed where we could, but some things we could not do. There are not enough buses or space in schools to have all children go to neighborhood schools."

Bancroft and Bayard elementary schools, already planned as theme schools, will now also have early childhood centers. Douglas Elementary School, originally to be a primary center, will house the district's alternative programs. "These are currently spread all around the district and we would like to consolidate them," said Metts.

All elementary and theme schools will go through grade 6 by the year 1999-2000. "There just wouldn't be enough space for grade 6 in middle schools," said Metts.

Feeder patterns for elementary schools throughout the district have been changed to accommodate the grade reconfiguration and theme school programs.

Nevertheless, by the year 1998-99, suburban schools will already be 617 seats over capacity if parents do not choose theme schools. "We will know by January 1998 after Choice applications are filed if we can continue to phase in the plan," said Demyan. "We only need 10 percent of parents to choose to shift for Choice reasons or to theme schools in order to meet our capacities and I think we can do it."

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL)-- A new drug has been approved that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain. This material has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis™" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis™ relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis™ is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work. Use only as directed.

A different kid that makes a difference

good citizenship, helpfulness and perseverance.

Three years ago when my wife, Linda, and I were summoned to a dinner in the Shue-Medill cafeteria, we had never heard of the CEEF, the award or Asia and Nicole. We only knew that our son, Tyler, then a third grader at John R. Downes Elementary School, had won an award. There, though, for a few moments, all of our efforts as Mom and Dad were rewarded. The speaker talked about our son's sensitivity to others and his efforts to help students less fortunate than himself. He hadn't told us these things. But as the presenter reeled off his accomplishments, we felt as though our sometimes struggling efforts to do what's right as parents were validated. Later, that night in 1994, Tyler was picked as the district-wide winner and was given a summer camp scholarship.

The winner from any school and their parents should be proud to be honored at the Price/Cantera banquet. An elementary student can do no better than be labeled as "loving" and "caring" and as an example for others to emulate.

But winning the district-wide honor certainly is a remarkable and distinguished accomplishment.

Since Tyler won the award, I've joined the CEEF board. His receipt of the honor had a profound effect on me and I want to do what I can to offer other parents the same endorsement of their parenting.

As a result of this new affiliation, late last month I was able to be on the stage when 14 district students were singled out for the 1996 Price/Cantera award. I filled with emotion as I watched Philip Stewart – unaware that he would moments later be named the district-wide winner – struggle to the stage to receive his plaque. The handicapped youngster did nothing to mask his enthusiasm as he signaled a "thumbs up" to the crowd.

Phil is a REACH student, who was initially put into "regular" classroom 32 at Thurgood Marshall Elementary School for "inclusion purposes." But, as explained by his teacher, Karen H. Fredricks, he soon became a full-fledged member of the class.

Thurgood Marshall's Philip Stewart, center, beams his excitement after he was named the districtwide winner of the Asia Price/Nicole Cantera Memorial Award. To his left is the 1995 district winner, Benjamin Binder-McLeod, and to his right is the 1994 winner, Tyler Streit. Looking on, left to right, are: Les Dukart, president of the Christina Educational Endowment Fund board; Sharon Cantera, superintendent Dr. Iris T. Metts; Philip's parents; and Cynthia Oates, of the school board.

A metamorphosis occurred as Phil quickly taught the teacher and his new classmates how to become more tolerant, patient and respectful of others. He has the uncanny ability to detect when a child is unhappy or pensive and bring it to Karen's attention. He is always accurate in reading the moods of others and often helps his teacher get a handle on a problem that a student has brought to school. "No one goes unnoticed by him," his teacher said.

"Phil is a role model for everyone at Marshall," Fredricks said. "He has taught us to be understanding of diversity and to be supportive of everyone." She believes his positive effect on his classmates will make them more caring adults. After watching Phil that night of the awards, I suspect she's right.

To say only that Phil Stewart won an award would deprive readers of this newspaper of learning about this amazing youngster's spirit and enthusiasm.

To his parents and family and all 13 other Price/Cantera winners, I offer my heartfelt congratulations.

The CEEF presented the Asia Price/Nicole Cantara Memorial Award to: Mallory Onisk, Brader; Travis DeLuz, Brookside; Christine Martinez, Christiana/Salem; LaTifah Hall, Douglass; Michael Carr, Downes; Christina Tran, Gallaher; Sarah Cebula, Leasure; Robert Novy, Maclary; Nathaniel Harrison, McVey; Susana Lemus, Smith; Keenon Grinnell, Sterck; Emi Ling, West Park; and Laura Wildey, Wilson.

'Audience joined in'

▶ CHANCE, from 6

Through periodic interrogation, we found that he had appeared on stage with Richard Burton and Peter Ustinov, that he knew Molly Sugden, the Mrs. Slocombe of TV's "Are You Being Served?" and had met John Thaw, star of the Inspector Morse mysteries. Even more intriguing was his appearance some years ago in a supporting role in the Alfred Hitchcock thriller, "The Man Who Knew Too Much".

Moviegoers will recall that the climatic scene in that popular film starring James Stewart and Doris Day took place in Royal Albert Hall where an assassin attempted to kill a visiting foreign diplomat. Our Kensington Park Hotel was no more than a half mile from Albert Hall and, more importantly, we learned that a concert was scheduled there on our third evening in London.

We immediately vowed to attend, if possible, though our return from the English countryside on that day left little margin for error. When our anticipated 6 p.m. arrival was delayed by a monumental traffic jam, we almost abandoned hope. Pausing only to wash our faces, change our shoes and bolt down a sandwich, we raced through a light rain to the box office. Fortunately, a few of the 7,500 seats in the auditorium were available, and we soon were catching our breath in a box near the stage anticipating what was to be one of the most memorable evenings we have ever spent in the theater.

What we had stumbled upon without prior knowledge or plan was the inaugural Cathcart Prom, a tribute to Dr. George C. Cathcart, who had founded the Promenade Concerts in 1895. These events were said to have had an incalculable influence on musical appreciation in Great Britain.

The performers we heard in this all-British composers' program included the Royal Philharmonic Concert Orchestra, the Royal Choral Society and the Band of Her Majesty's Grenadier Guards. Richard Baker, distinguished BBC journalist, was the presenter.

Several times during the evening, conductor David Arnold urged the audience to join in singing well-known numbers and the response was enthusiastic. When, at the close of the first half of the concert, the orchestra played Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory", the audience rose as one, waving tiny British flags, napkins and handkerchiefs during the stirring lines, "God who made thee mighty, make thee mightier yet." Similarly rousing displays erupted during the second half during the hymn "Jerusalem" and Thomas Arne's "Rule Britannia".

Did I join in the singing? You bet I did—at least until tears began to stream down my cheeks and I could only applauded the display of national pride I so greatly admired.

Special Olympics here this weekend

By JULIA R. SAMPSON

This weekend the University of Delaware will host the 1996 Delaware Special Olympics Summer Games at the Bob Carpenter Center.

More than 600 athletes, ages 8 to 80, with mental retardation or other significant learning impairments will participate in games today and tomorrow.

Governor Thomas Carper, Senator Joseph Biden and Attorney General Jane Brady will attend the opening ceremonies starting at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

A parade of athletes, fireworks, and the lighting of the Olympic Cauldron by the Special Olympics athlete of the year are some of the evening's highlights.

Special Olympians compete in aquatics, track and field, tennis skills and doubles, powerlifting, softball and bocce.

"We work with a broad spectrum of abilities and these athletes are treated the same as any other athlete," said volunteer coach John Miller.

"Life is 10 percent of what your dealt and 90 percent how you handle it and these athletes handle life pretty well."

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the torch run for Delaware Special Olympics.

The torch, carried by law enforcement officers and Special Olympians from Fenwick Island to Newark, arrived today after traveling a distance of 112 miles.

OUR HERO!

NASCAR racing champion Jeff Gordon is the hero of fifth graders in Elaine Simmons' class at Bayard School, but the winner at Dover Downs last weekend is, himself, pretty impressed by the youngsters!

Early this school year, the students – many of whom live in the Newark area – developed a scheme that might (with a lot of luck) land them a meeting with Gordon. Their efforts paid off last Thursday when the popular racing figure visited their classroom for more than an hour.

Under Simmons' tutelage, the students wrote Gordon and asked that he donate a damaged hood from his colorful, Dupont-stickered race car to them. They would then conduct a raffle and give a portion of the proceeds to leukemia research.

Last week, Gordon went to the school to meet the kids, sign autographs and receive a check for $5,012 for the Leukemia Society. All told, the children raised more than $12,000 in the raffle that drew entries from all 50 states. The remaining money raised by the students will be used to buy computer equipment for their school.

NEWARK NINE CAPTURES CROWN

Jackets rip St. Mark's in final

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

WILMINGTON – When a team's goal is a state championship and nothing else, it often sets itself up for disappointment. That was not the case, however, with the Newark High baseball team.

Despite losing two of their first four games of the season, the Yellowjackets roared back to win 17 of their final 18 including Wednesday's 11-2 romp over St. Mark's in the championship game of the Delaware High School Baseball Tournament before over 1,000 fans at Frawley Stadium.

"That's been our goal all season," said senior second baseman Jeff Myers. "I think after we lost our third game of the season, after losing just two all last year, we just became determined to play our best. We knew we were better than the way we started the year and we believed we could win a state title."

Jason Bedford pitched a five-hitter and the Yellowjackets' offense pounded out 15 hits en route to the win over the Spartans.

"I talked to some of their guys and they were practicing hitting curveballs all week," said Bedford, who is known for throwing his good curve ball often during a game. "So I tried to mix them up early and threw some fast balls. But then as the game went on I just went back to my game."

Mark Thomas, with two outs, doubled home two runs in the second inning to give Newark a 2-0 lead. The 'Jackets then struck for five runs in the third inning with Scott Hunt, Chris Adams, Bedford, Curt Vincent and Myers all collecting hits.

Kevin Mench doubled home two runs in the Spartans' third inning to close the gap to 7-2 but that was all the offense St. Mark's was able to generate.

State titles nothing new for the Bedfords

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

Winning state championships for a Newark High baseball team is nothing new for the Bedford family.

In Newark's 11-2 win over St. Mark's Wednesday night Jason Bedford pitched a complete game. Curt Bedford, his brother, was in the dugout as the first-year coach of the Yellowjackets. That, though, is just the tip of the iceberg when it comes to Bedfords and titles.

Curt and his other brother Chuck played on Newark's 1990 state championship team and their father Ray played on the 1971 Newark state championship baseball team.

Little League connection

The Newark American and Newark National Little Leagues should be proud of their graduates as most of the starters for both teams played in the local leagues. In fact, seven of Newark's starters and four of St. Mark's played together in Newark American.

High school title best

Wednesday's win added another state championship to a number of the Newark High players' resumes. This one, however, was the first high school championship.

After years of winning little league state and regional titles as well as various other summer league crowns, this was the first time the group combined to dominate on the high school level.

"This was the best," said senior catcher Tom Emig. "We've won a lot together but this one's the best."

Spartans have one of those days

By ERIC FINE
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

WILMINGTON – St. Mark's 11-2 loss to Newark in the state baseball tournament finals should go down in the books as one of those days.

The Spartans seemed to have everything in their favor Wednesday at Frawley Stadium: They had the momentum from Saturday's 12-4 win over William Penn. And they also had ace pitcher Dan Sullivan and his nearly perfect 8-1 record on the mound.

But things fell apart quickly. The Spartans' fielders made four errors, and Newark capitalized on almost every one of them. And the Yellowjackets pounded Sullivan for seven runs in 2 2/3 innings before he was relieved by Kevin Murphy.

"They were hitting everything that I threw," Sullivan said. "I had decent stuff. It just wasn't my day. They had my number."

Things weren't much better at the plate.

Newark pitcher Jason Bedford changed speeds especially well en route to his second complete game of the tournament: There was his slow stuff. And there was his slower stuff. Everything either broke or danced.

"We swung at too many curveballs early in the count," St. Mark's Coach Tom Lemon said. "But the kid pitched a good game. He held a pretty good hitting team to five hits."

Kevin Mench, whose third-inning triple nearly cleared the center-field fence, also gave Newark credit.

"They've been just a great team," said Mench, an All-State outfielder who played on the Spartans' state championship team in '94. "We just didn't come through when we needed to. The errors went to our heads."

Still, Sullivan and his teammates handled defeat gracefully. "We had a great year," the right-hander said. "We have nothing to hang our heads about."

Indeed, the Spartans, who

Glasgow falls to S. Central in state softball semifinals

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

CAMDEN – The semifinal game of the Delaware High School Softball Tournament quickly turned into a learning experience for Glasgow High.

Defending state champion and undefeated (19-0 through the semi-finals) Sussex Central scored six runs in the first inning and held on to beat the young Dragons 9-5 last Thursday at Caesar Rodney High. The win advanced the Golden Knights to the championship game where they were defeated 1-0 by Brandywine, the team Glasgow split two regular season games and shared the Flight A title with.

> "I'm happy with the way we came back."
> LARRY WALKER
> GLASGOW SOFTBALL COACH

The Knights had three extra base hits in the six-run first inning and were also aided by a walk and two hit batters.

Glasgow battled back with one run in each of the first and second innings and three more in the third to make the game interesting.

Sussex Central, however, added two more runs in the third and one more in the fourth to seal the victory.

"That was a real good team," said Glasgow Coach Larry Walker of Sussex Central. "They hit the ball well – up and down the lineup they hit it well. They get my vote for best team of the year."

Trailing 6-0 in the bottom of the first inning, Julie Van Deusen led off with an infield single. Two batters later, Kristin Nau singled her home for the Dragons' first run.

Glasgow chipped away at the Knights' lead again in the second inning when Erica Richardson led off with a single, stole second base and scored on a two-out error.

After Sussex Central stretched the lead to 8-2 in the top of the third inning, the Dragons fought back in the bottom of the inning. Kirsty Lloyd and Megan Hart collected singles and Missy Latta reached base on a walk to load the bases. With two outs, however, the inning appeared to be over as Melissa Pettee hit a grounder back to the the Knights' pitcher Stacy McIlvaine. Throwing from her knees, McIlvaine overthrew first base and as the ball bounced down the right field line all three base runners came home to cut the lead to 8-5.

Sussex Central answered with an unearned run in the fourth and McIlvaine didn't allow a base runner the rest of the game.

"I thought that run (Sussex Central) got in the fourth was the killer," Walker said. "We had cut the lead to three runs and had some momentum. But then they get a runner on that should've been out and score another run. Then McIlvaine did a great job of pitching the rest of the way.

"But I'm happy with the way we came back. It would've been easy to just pack it in after that first inning."

Walker also thought the game would be a great learning experience for his young team. Just two seniors start (catcher Megan Hart and left fielder Carolee Lenoir) while the rest of the lineup is made up of two freshmen, five sophomores and a junior.

"Oh, this is great for us," Walker said. "We'll certainly miss Megan and Carolee but the rest of the team is coming back. Anytime you can win a couple close games in the state tournament and play a team of this caliber in the semi-finals it's going to help."

Dragons best-ever season ends

By ERIC FINE
NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Glasgow's best-ever baseball season ended with the Dragons' 5-2 loss to St. Elizabeth in the quarter finals of the state tournament.

The Vikings played the role of opportunists in the first inning, getting three runs on only one hit off Glasgow pitcher Mike Duncan. And the Dragons twice failed to get hits with the bases loaded and nobody out.

Glasgow finished the season 13-7. The Dragons' 12-6 regular-season record was the best in the school's history. Their 10-3 win over Milford in the tournament's first round marked the first time any Glasgow baseball team qualified for the post season play.

The first inning all but doomed Glasgow. Duncan loaded the bases in the first on a walk, a hit and an error. A balk, sacrifice fly and a fielder's choice gave the Vikings a 3-0 lead. And they never looked back.

"We just didn't hit for him [Duncan]," Kohan said. "That's what killed us."

In the second inning, Brian Barone singled and Duncan and Justin Taylor walked. Two strikeouts and a pop-up got the Vikings out of the inning unscathed.

In the fifth, Matt Telep was hit by St. Elizabeth pitcher B.J. Haggerty. Shaun Watson walked and Matt Lantagne both singled, but two pop-ups and a ground ball ended the inning.

While the Dragons struggled, the Vikings put up another run to take a 4-0 lead. They loaded the bases on a walk, a single and a bunt, then scored after Duncan hit a batter.

Taylor's second home run of the tournament finally put the Dragons on the scoreboard in the sixth to make the score 4-1. Taylor's shot shook up Haggerty.

The Vikings' pitcher walked Telep, who reached second on Watson's single. Telep scored on Latagne's single to cut the Vikings' lead to 4-2.

But St. Elizabeth picked up an insurance run in the seventh on two singles and a stolen base. Mike Sheehan put the Dragons down in the bottom half of the inning to pick up a save.

"Wait till next year," Kohan said. "We have a good group of kids returning," including Duncan, ace pitcher Bob Trzonkowski (8-1), Watson and infielder Roger Richardson.

Talons capture state crown

The Kirkwood Talons under-12 boys soccer team earned its fourth consecutive DYSA First State Cup championship by posting two victories over the weekend.

Behind second-half goals from Jordy Hoerl, Patrick Johnston and Evan Thompson, the Talons defeated the DSB Kickers 3-0 Saturday. Garrett Neff and Mark Facciolo each had an assist.

The Kirkwood team also blanked the Concord Wolverines 3-0 in Sunday's championship match. Thompson scored the game's first goal and Joey Santo and Hoerl added two more to provide the final margin.

Nate Bush and Josh France picked up assists.

Goalkeeper Zach Golden earned both shutouts while receiving support from GJ. Williams, Alec Zirkenbach, Tyler Akin and Brian Healy. Timmy Biliski and Jeff Merrill contributed to the offensive attack. Jim Bates coached the team to title.

Braves roll to Babe Ruth win

The Newark Braves defeated Feralloy 30-3 in the 16-18 year-old division of the Newark Babe Ruth.

Gary Logan pitched a complete game four-hitter for the winners while Jesse Cogin collected two hits for Feralloy.

Tryouts slated

The Kirkwood Soccer Club will hold tryouts for its boys under-9 rep team for players born from Aug. 1, 1987 to July 31, 1988. Tryouts will be held at the Kirkwood Soccer complex from 5:30 to 8 p.m. on June 10, 12 and 18. Players should bring a soccer ball, water and shin guards. Newark 's Jason Bedford fires a pitch in the Yellowjackets quarter final win over Brandywine.

Newark ousts St. Elizabeth

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

It's often the little things that decide big games. Newark High's 2-0 victory over St. Elizabeth in the semifinal of the Delaware High School Baseball Tournament was no exception.

With the Yellowjackets' George Griebel and the Vikings' Mike Sheehan hooked up in a classic pitcher's duel, it was the hustle of Jeff Myers and Shaun Bandy that enabled Newark to advance to Wednesday night's state championship game against St. Mark's at Frawley Stadium.

Myers, in a one-man rally, broke a scoreless tie in the fifth inning. The senior second baseman, with one out, turned his shoulder into an inside pitch and reached first base. He then stole second and moved to third on a wild pitch. Sean McCullough followed with a pop up to short center field. The Vikings' second baseman B.J. Haggerty and center fielder Mike Kirkpatrick converged on the ball that Haggerty eventually caught with his momentum carrying him away from the infield. Myers tagged up and faked like he was attempting to score up by scurrying a quarter of the way down the third base line. Haggerty reacted by firing the ball home. Myers correctly saw that the throw was going to sail over the catcher's head and scrambled home to give Newark a 1-0 lead.

"Jeff was heads up," said Newark's first-year Coach Curt Bedford. "We wanted to at least draw a throw in that situation because you never know what's going to happen. Jeff saw that the throw was going high and took off."

The 'Jackets added an insurance run in the top of the seventh inning when Bandy, in the game as a pinch-hitter, reached on a single. He moved to second on Myers' sacrifice bunt and to third on a wild pitch. Another wild pitch by Sheehan enabled Bandy to score Newark's second run.

"That was big," an emotional Bedford said. "Sean has been a big part of this team and has really contributed over the last half of the season. It was great that he could get in the game and come up big for us."

Griebel's pitching effort, however, was what kept the game close. The junior allowed just one hit and struck out eight batters. Only one St. E runner reached as far as second base.

"I was just trying to do my job but as the game went on I realized that it was 0-0 and we were trying to get into the final," said Griebel. "I just pitched my game and let my defense to its job. We have the best defense in the state and I know they'll make the plays."

"All year George has been coming up big for us," Bedford said. "We started the year and thought he might be our second pitcher. But, instead, he's been the number one guy all year. ."

Scott Hunt and Nick Jones each had two hits for Newark while Chris Adams added one.

Spartans fall in state final

reached the finals for the third time since 1985, finished the season 17-4. They also won the Catholic Conference, perhaps the toughest prep league in the state.

"I'm just disappointed we didn't play our best game," Lemon said. "I think we hung in there, [but] they were clearly the better baseball team today. ...They out-hit us. They out-pitched us. And they out-fielded us. They made a couple of great plays when we still had a chance to win.

"That's baseball, man. We just didn't play real well today. My hat's off to Newark."

But hats off to the Spartans, also. "I think we over-achieved a little bit," the coach said. "Though we were ranked high in the state, I'm not sure that people thought we were as good as we are. I'd like to play Newark again."

"What can you do?" third baseman Andrew Veveiros said. "They out-played us, and we've got to accept that."

"Let's get it next year," designated hitter Billy Cooper said. "We'll work harder, that's for sure."

University site well liked the state tournament, it also enabled the tournament committee to schedule a semifinal doubleheader at the University of Delaware.

Two good crowds provided a great atmosphere and the field by all accounts was in immaculate condition.

"I think it's a great place to play these games," said St. Mark's Coach Tom Lemon. "I just thank the University of Delaware for giving us the opportunity to use it. The field was just in great shape and I think all the kids enjoyed it."

The two games drew crowds of about 450 for each.

Spartans roll over Wm. Penn

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The St. Mark's High baseball team scored early and often en route to a 12-4 romp over William Penn in Saturday's semifinal of the Delaware High School Baseball Tournament at the University of Delaware.

The Spartans scored 10 runs in the first two innings against the Colonials and cruised into Wednesday's state championship game against Newark at Frawley Stadium.

"We came out hitting the ball real well," said St. Mark's Coach Tom Lemon. "We scored a lot early but you never really feel comfortable against a good team like William Penn."

Andy Burt ignited the Spartans' assault with a three-run home run in the first inning that also scored Joe Vignola and Kevin Mench.

"I thought the key was Andy Burt's salvo," Lemon said. "That really got us going."

The real onslaught, however, came in the second inning that saw St. Mark's send 12 batters to the plate and score seven runs. Vignola, Billy Cooper (triple), Burt, Brian Guest and Adam Moore all collected hits in the inning. Runs were scored by Vignola, Cooper, Burt, Guest, Chris Birch, Andy Veveiros and Pat Deas.

Pitcher Kevin Murphy kept the Colonials in check allowing just four hits over six innings. He did, however, give up 10 walks but William Penn was unable to take advantage of the base runners.

"Kevin Murphy did a good job for us," Lemon said. "He didn't have one of his best games but he did what he had to do for us."

William Penn scored twice in the third inning and once each in the fifth and sixth inning. But the Colonials could never put together the big inning they needed to get back in the game.

St. Mark's added single runs in each of the third and fourth innings to close out the scoring.

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK

Newark High Baseball – 1996 State Champs

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

Newark High's 1996 state baseball championship was certainly a result of a total team effort.

The Yellowjackets, after a 2-2 start to the season, won 17 of their last 18 including an 11-2 victory over St. Mark's Wednesday in the championship game of the Delaware High School Baseball Tournament.

The team got superb pitching all season from George Griebel and Jason Bedford and was helped by one of the best defenses in the state.

"Everyone really contributed to this team," said first-year Coach Curt Bedford. "This has been a great group to work with and they deserve this."

The team was more than just a group of baseball players, however, it's a group of closely knit friends.

"This was the best way for this to end," said senior Sean McCullough. "We really wanted to win a state championship before we all went our separate ways."

Many of the seniors have played together since Little League.

"This is the best finish I can think of," said senior Tom Emig. "I'll have memories of this forever. These guys were more than just good athletes and good baseball players. These were guys I've played baseball with since I was eight-years-old. These are some of my best friends. We have a great bond between us and there's nothing better than for us to get a high school state championship."

Another run in the fourth inning and three more in the seventh provided the final margin.

"We just came out hitting the ball," said senior center fielder Scott Hunt. "We knew if we could get into the tournament we would have a good chance of winning it."

Despite the two schools proximity and the friendly relationships between players from both teams, the game was the first between the two local schools since the 1988 season.

"It definitely makes it more special," said senior shortstop Sean McCullough of beating local rival St. Mark's. "We never got a chance to play them during all four years. They've always had a great team and we know and played with a lot of their guys. It's absolutely the best way to win."

Other Yellowjackets to get hits in the championship game were Ryan Troutman, Curt Vincent and Nick Jones.

"This is the best finish possible to this crazy season," said Coach Curt Bedford. "We saved our best game for last. We hit the ball; Jason pitched a great game and we played great defense. Everything went right and this team has a great bunch of seniors that I am so happy for."

The Apostles of the Historic Christian Church taught the truth about God the Son, Jesus Christ, and they taught the truth about salvation through faith, not by works. In these end times compromise of the truth or apostasy as God calls it has entered into the doctrines taught by many "Christian Churches" of the 20th century. In all of the 2,000 Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod Churches through-out the world, the historic truth about God is still proclaimed and taught.

The same historical truth of Jesus Christ is the underlying assumption of the academics taught at all of our schools and colleges.

Newark youth plan trip to Nicaragua

McClellansville, S.C., Yonkers, N.Y., Reynosa, Mex., Zuni, Va., Harlan, Ky, Lowell, Mass–what do these places have in common?

No, they aren't a listing of cities in North America, but rather places to which the youth of the First Presbyterian Church of Newark have traveled over the past seven years on annual work camps.

Headed by Ann and Ray Negstad, approximately 40 teenagers from over ten high schools bring the love of God to needy communities through summer work projects.

The camps follow a four-year cycle of working with rural, urban, international and special needs populations. This summer the cycle has led the group to its greatest undertaking yet in Teustepe, Nicaragua.

This trip is different because more than half of the 46 workers are adults. The volunteers plan to construct a community building for laundry facilities, a daycare and a sewing commune.

Since local villagers do not have cameras, the youth also plan to make and present photographs for each family. Upon departure from Nicaragua, the group will leave clothes, work tools, money and all other belongings behind.

An entire year of fund-raising by selling wreaths, candy, t-shirts and pizza helped to make the June 15-26 trip possible. The fund-raising reduced the $1,000 travel costs to $300 per person. Group members said they anticipate an exciting and spirtually exhilarating mission.

Storyteller Nana Karantemaa entertains Brader kindergartners at a recent assembly.

Holy Angels students compute, compete

Computer students at Holy Angels School in Newark toyed with Lego blocks this spring but it wasn't child's play.

During a computer fair featuring control technology, students in grades 4-6 were required to build a machine capable of performing a task, such as a transport system to move objects, using Lego components.

Each grade had to build a different type of machine. The Lego machines were then connected to computers, and the students had to write a computer program to control the machine.

Students participating were Matthew Brozek, Deborah Carlson, Lindsay Colosi, Joey Davis, Philip Gardner, Peter McGivney, Billy Parag, Natalie Pochomis, Justin Scheinholtz, Stephanie Stevens, Melissa Wilson, Bobby DeNicola, Paul Kudlick, Terry Mierzwa, Meghan O'Neill, Sean Naughton, Jeannine Records, Steven Shipe, Mike Hartman, Matt Hutchison, Lisa Potochney, Bryan Fitzgerald, Mike Martin, Julianna Records, Stephen Scally, and Gina DeNicola.

The students are coached by computer teacher, Carol Sadowski.

NATIONAL RECOGNITION

Robbie Poore (left) of Newark is congratulated by Sen. Bill Roth in Washington recently for receiving the Prudential Spirit of Community Awards. The award was given to salute outstanding youth nationwide for self-initiated community service. Six thousand students were nominated for the award but only 104 were selected. Poore is an active member of the student council at Gauger Cobbs Middle School. He was recognized for enlisting and organizing over 20 kids from his neighborhood to participate in a trash clean-up day in his community.

Accentuating the positive at Brader elementary

By MARY E. PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Brader Elementary School has been accentuating the positive this spring with a behavior incentive assembly and other experiences for students.

More than 700 students who were not referred to the school office or written up for bus infractions during April earned the right to attend the assembly featuring Crash the Clown. Those who could not attend reflected on their behavior and set goals for May's assembly. Shoestring Productions provided entertainment at the assembly.

Nana Karantemaa treated kindergartners to a visit with African songs and an opportunity to wear traditional African clothes while playing authentic African instruments.

Other events included Family Math and Science Night, a PTA Craft Fair, Teacher Appreciation Week and the PTA Plant Sale.

Everybody's coming downtown!

▶ FESTIVAL, from 1

east end of Main Street courtesy of the Martin Dealership.

Performing on stage in front of Speedy Muffler courtesy of NuCar Pontiac will be Mike Mason and Southern Pride from 5-7 p.m., and Dallas and the Stillwater Band from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

At the corner of Main and Academy Streets music will be offered by Jerry Haines from 5-6:15 p.m., Jerry Elderly and the Juveniles from 6:30-8 p.m., and Membhru from 8:15-9:30 p.m.

Lined up to play in front of the University Mall courtesy of Saturn of Newark are Blain Newnum & Bluegrass Friends from 5-6:15 p.m., Larry Unthank from 6:30-8 p.m. and Vic Sadot's Planete Folle from 8:15-9:30 p.m.

Lined along the entire length of Main Street will be shopping ideas galore, including handmade wooden items, clothing, paintings, dolls, jewelry and stained glass, as well as specials and sales by many merchants. Gift-A-Day will be near the Mellon Bank to take orders for gift baskets and the Newark Afghan Political candidates who will be available throughout the evening for comment and questions are 25th District state representative Stephanie Ulbrich (R-Newark South); Brad Zuber, Republican candidate for Wilmington mayor; Ray Clatworthy, Republican candidate for the U.S.Senate; and Karl Kalbacher, Democratic candidate for the 25th District state House seat.

There will be plenty of food to fuel the crowd with funnel cakes, soft pretzels, cinnamon twists, snow cones, hot dogs, sausages, lemonade , water ice, BBQ, vegetarian sandwiches, ice cream, fruit smoothies, southwestern food, and grilled sandwiches only some of the possibilities. Most downtown restaurants will also be open with their house specialities and Newark Nite treats available.

Many local organizations and professional groups will have booths including a Carevan with information for seniors, City of Newark Parks and Recreation, Girls Inc., the Christina Educational Endowment Fund, the Newark and Glasgow Lions clubs, Citizens against Traffic, AIDS Delaware, Main St. Chiropractic, and Individualized Health Care with information about homeopathic medicine.

The New Castle County police will be offering IDs for children in the Newark Shopping Center and the Newark Free Library will have a story time set up next to the Main Street post office.

Groups will also be available to provide information about World Team Tennis coming to the University of Delaware in the Fall and the Delaware Blue-Gold Game.

Newark Nite is co-sponsored by the Newark Business Association and the city of Newark, in cooperation with the University of Delaware.

Former Budd site up for sale

▶ BUDD, from 3

In addition to broken windows and dilapidated walls and flooring, the site contains at least one 40,000-gallon holding tank of water as well as possible underground hazardous waste.

Ruger said he had no knowledge of any hazardous waste at the site but would be willing to have an environmental study done for potential buyers.

According to Junie Mayle, city building director, the city has taken the owners to court repeatedly over the past few years for back taxes and building violations. "Usually they would fix whatever it was, but as the building deteriorated more and more, we took more and more action," said Mayle.

An appearance over a year ago before the city Board of Building Appeals dragged on for months through a number of appeals and refusal by Del-Chapel to comply with the board's order to make the required repairs. As a result, the city filed a criminal complaint in an effort to enforce the order.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

All real estate advertised herein is subject to the Federal Fair Housing Act, which makes it illegal to advertise any preference, limitation or discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status or national origin or intention to make any such preferences, limitations or discrimination.

State laws forbid discrimination in the sale, rental or advertising of real estate based on factors in addition to those protected under federal law. In Maryland, discrimination based on marital status or physical or mental handicap is prohibited.

We will not knowingly accept any advertising for real estate which is in violation of the law. All persons are hereby informed that all dwellings advertised are available on an equal opportunity basis.
