The announcement that a debate between Delaware U.S. Senate candidates Christine O'Donnell and Chris Coons was big news for a start-up media company based in Newark.

Delaware First Media, www.delawarefirst.org, went live online this summer with a website focused on issues facing the state. That was to be followed by debates in the fall that included one for the U.S. Senate seat formerly held by Vice President Joe Biden.

Then the Senate race would become a national sensation when O'Donnell upset former Governor and current Republican Congresman Mike Castle. She now faces New Castle County Executive Chris Coons who did not face a primary as a Democrat and Delaware First will be a key player, partnering with CNN and the University of Delaware to hold a debate on Oct. 13 at the University of Delaware.

"The Delaware Senate race has become a national phenomenon since last week's Republican primary election, when O'Donnell defeated longtime Delaware Congressman and former Gov. Mike Castle, said Micheline Boudreau, president of First State Media. " She added, "We're delighted that CNN proposed to carry our debate nationally."

Boudreau said Delaware First has actually been in the works for more than a year. Debates geared to a statewide audience were also

City Council presented three ordinances for a second public reading at Monday's meeting, amending statutes dealing with garbage collection for non-profit entities, sewer unit charges, and fines for failure to remove snow and ice from sidewalks.

While the temperature outside is still on the warm side, the council had the most trouble with the issue of shoveling after a big storm.

The first bill, dealing with garbage collection, amends Chapter 16, Sec. 18, and will provide free pickup services for garbage and recyclable materials from nonprofit entities. According to the amendment, "For private, non-profit entities, the city will provide and collect two (2) carts of garbage and two (2) carts of recyclable materials at no cost to the non-profit entity." The bill furthers states, "If a non-profit entity generates more garbage or recyclable materials than can be contained within said two (2) carts, city will not collect any garbage or recyclable materials from such non-profit entity except upon payment of certain stipulated fees." By MARK CORRIGAN

MCORRIGAN@CHESPUB.COM

In an emotional announcement at Monday night's City Council meeting, Councilman Paul Pomeroy stated that he will not seek re-election in April, 2011. Pomeroy is councilman of Newark's 1st District and has served on the council since April, 2005.

Stating that he needed more time to devote to his job as a Marketing Director at Aloysius, Butler & Clark in Wilmington, and did not want to miss any more time with his young family, calling them "without a doubt, the most important thing in my life." His wife Catherine and his children were in the audience as the statement was made.

The councilman thanked the residents of the 1st District for their support and said that it was "a true pleasure to serve on the Council." Coucilmen Temko, Athey, Clifton, Tuttle, and Markham all thanked Pomeroy for his boundless energy and the creative ideas he imparted to the council.

Pomeroy stated that the timing of his announcement would allow any interested candidates ample time to prepare for their campaigns. He also stated that he has not "anointed" any successors.

Alert detective catches Newark area robbery suspect

Editor's note: Police Blotter items are derived from reports from area law enforcement agencies. For the latest police news, log on to newarkpostonlinecom.

An alert County Police detective Thursday apprehended a man linked to a string of bank robberies, nearly all taking place at Citizens Bank supermarket branches.

After Detective Angie Dolan detained the suspect at the Department of Motor Vehicles site in New Castle, Delaware State Police arrested the Newark area man in connection with the bank robberies committed in New Castle County including one Thursday, just south of Newark.

The suspect was identified as Scott A. Ginegaw, 37, Travertine Way.

In the latest robbery, the suspect entered the Applied Bank located on Plaza Drive in the Four Seasons Shopping Center near Newark at 2:15 p.m. The suspect approached the 24 year-old bank teller and presented her with a note demanding cash. A weapon was not implied or displayed. The teller complied and turned over an undisclosed amount of money to the suspect who then fled from the bank.

After further investigation it was determined that the suspect in this incident was the same man who had committed five other similar robberies at various banks throughout the county since June.

At approximately 3:25 p.m. on Thursday, Dolan observed a white Ford Ranger pick-up truck matching the description of a possible suspect vehicle that had been at the scene of one of the previous bank robberies, in the area of Airport and Churchman's Roads, in New Castle.

The detective realized that the man driving the truck matched the description of the robbery suspect. She then followed the vehicle into the parking lot of the Division of Motor Vehicles on Airport Road and detained the operator, who was later identified as Scott A. Ginegaw. A subsequent search of Ginegaw's vehicle revealed evidence linking him to the robberies.

Ginegaw was arrested and charged with six counts of Robbery 2nd degree. He was arraigned at JP Court 2 and committed to the Howard Young Correctional Institute for lack of $150,000.00 secured bail.

He is linked to the following robberies. With the exception of the Applied Bank branch, which was near Ginegaw's home, he is tied to the following robberies of Citizens Bank supermarket branches:

Sprinkler caps removed from hotels

Last week, employees from Embassy Suites and Homewood Suites, both located in the 600 block of S. College Ave., reported that unknown suspects had removed 12 brass sprinkler riser caps from each hotel. The caps were able to be removed by hand and were taken from stairwells and exterior locations in both businesses.

Police officers are working with recycling authorities in both Maryland and Delaware and are monitoring a central database that tracks transactions. The caps are worth $55 each.

911 callbox damaged

Authorities with the Newark Parks and Recreation Department told Newark Police that 911 callbox #7374324, located in the 200 block of E. Delaware Ave., had had its phone line connection sheared off with a cutting tool. A metal band connecting the box to the light pole was removed. The total damage is estimated at $500. No suspect information has been listed.

Fugitive caught at motel

Newark Police have reported that they have apprehended fugitive Whitney Stewart, 20, of Wilmington. Stewart was found in the Super 8 Motel at 268 E. Main St., after police were notified about her whereabouts. Stewart was wanted in relation to seven active capiases with pending charges from Alderman Courts 40 & 42, JP Court 11, and New Castle Superior Court.

When apprehended, Stewart was uncooperative and resisted arrest by yelling obscenities at officers, banging her head in the police cruiser, and attempting to choke herself with a seat belt. She was issued a $20,800 bond, which she was unable to post. She has been transported to the women's correctional facility in Wilmington.

Cutout MIA at KFC

Police are on the lookout for a white male who entered a KFC restaurant at 1365 Marrows Rd. and removed a life-sized cardboard cutout of Col. Sanders worth $30. He is described as 18 to 21 years old, 5'08" to 6" tall, and having short black hair. The suspect then entered a white Jeep Wrangler with a brown top and drove off down Ogletown Rd., heading towards downtown Newark. Employees at the KFC said that the suspect was not alone in the vehicle, but could not see well enough to give a description.

Smash and grab at liquor store

The Newark Police Department is investigating a burglary and theft that occurred on Tuesday Sept. 21 at 1:20 a.m. After responding to a burglary alarm at Peddlers Pit Stop, 610 S. College Ave, Newark, officers found that a window had been broken.

The investigation showed that the suspect attempted to pry open a door at the business. When that proved to be unsuccessful, he opted to break out the window. The suspect was then able to steal one case of beer from inside the store and leave before police arrived.

During the course of the burglary, the suspect walked and drove through the field of view of a surveillance camera. The image from the camera shows a white male, appearing to be 20 to 25 years of age, with a shaved head and possibly a light moustache.

The vehicle appears to be a Mazda B300 extended cab pick-up truck, or other similar model. It is a shade of green and has a lighter colored striping/design down the side (passenger side visible in photo). There is a black tool box mounted in the bed of the truck. At the time of the burglary, there was also a clear plastic tote box with a white lid in the bed.

Information regarding the identity of the suspect should be reported to Det. Fred Nelson at 302-366-7110 ext 136 or Frederick.Nelson@cj.state.de.us. Information can also be anonymously reported to Crime Stoppers at 1-800-TIP-3333, where a reward may be available.

Shots fired into car

New Castle County Police are investigating a shooting that occurred Sunday night in the community of Newark Oaks, southeast of Newark.

At 11 p.m., County Police were called to an address in the unit block of Leader Drive for a report of "shots-fired." When the officers arrived, they discovered a 2000 Dodge Neon parked on the roadway had been damaged by multiple gunshots. The officers then contacted the owner's father who indicated he heard the gunshots and looked outside. He observed a light colored vehicle fleeing the area without its headlights on.

Police searched the area, but no suspects were located. To offer information regarding this crime, please contact the New Castle County Police Department at 395-8110 or visit our website at www.nccpd.com. Citizens may also provide a text tip at: 847411 (TIP411), begin your message

Robot breaks down door

A 35 year-old male, who was responsible for shooting at automobiles on Route 1 and at least one police officer, was arrested by SWAT officers Friday morning shortly after his front door was breached by explosive technicians. A robot was then deployed into the apartment which was able to locate the gunman inside. He surrendered without incident to the robot and SWAT officers.

He was identified as David W. Stanley, 36, who resides in building 2800 in the Christiana Meadows Apartments. He has been charged with reckless endangering in the first degree and two weapon offenses after he fired approximately 10 gunshots from his apartment window Thursday toward the nearby heavily traveled highway. At least one car, that was traveling north on Route 1, was struck by a large caliber bullet. No injuries were reported.

A search warrant was executed at his home early Friday morning after his surrender.

Ginegaw

Inside, police located and seized several guns.

At approximately 1:40 a.m., Friday, a tactical plan was executed at the apartment in Christiana Meadows which led to the surrender of the armed suspect. Several guns were observed throughout the apartment by SWAT officers as they "swept" the dwelling for other suspects or potential victims. The suspect's identity and charges will be released later Friday

County Police first went to building 2800 for a report of shots fired or possible fireworks. When the officers arrived, they immediately heard gunshots and observed the "muzzle flash" from a weapon that was fired from an apartment window in the complex. The apartment building was surrounding by police as SWAT and hostage negotiators were dispatched to the complex.

Stinkbugs making their way into homes

The University of Delaware has seen a recent increase in the number of phone calls regarding stink bugs infesting homes. Although stink bugs do find their way inside homes in the fall, looking for a warm place to spend the winter, they do not cause house hold damage, and are harmless to humans and animals.

Your best bet to keep the stink bugs out of your house? Caulk and seal windows, cracks, crevices, screens, and vents. Pesticides are rarely warranted; when applied, they seldom last more than a week to 10 days. The length of protection will vary because of the amount of rainfall received post-application.

Because stink bugs are primarily a threat to fruits and vegetables, stink bug research at UD is limited to that of an agricultural nature. In recent years, native stinkbugs have caused increased agricultural damage in Delaware.

The brown marmorated stink bug (BMSB) (Halyomorpha halys), a non-native stinkbug, has recently been spotted in Delaware. It is a relatively new pest in North America. Sometimes called the yellow-brown stink bug or the East Asian stink bug, it was first collected in the United States in Allentown, Pennsylvania during the fall of 1996.

UD entomologists in the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources say that this insect was first reported to occur in northern New Castle County Delaware in 2001. In 2010, it was found at very low levels for the first time in soybean and lima bean fields in all three counties in Delaware.

Currently, the University of Delaware is a member of a BMSB Integrated Pest Management (IPM) Working Group funded by the USDA's Northeast IPM Center. Members of this group include researchers, extension personnel, growers, pest control operators and a hotel manager.

At the first meeting in June, members shared research results, field observations and established research and extension priorities. This group hopes to secure funding for improving management of the important agricultural and urban pest.

Additional UD research will be scheduled for 2011 if BMSB populations increase in agricultural crops.

Carolyn Jackson to head children's hospital

Tenet Healthcare Corporation announced that St. Christopher's Hospital for Children appointed Carolyn Jackson as its chief executive officer. Jackson will join St. Christopher's Hospital for Children, a 189-bed pediatric hospital located in Philadelphia, Pa. immediately.

Jackson grew up in Newark and is a graduate of the University of Delaware.

"Carolyn is an exceptional hospital leader with an unquenchable desire for continuous improvement," said Stephen L. Newman, M.D., Tenet's chief operating officer. "She spreads her enthusiasm for excellence throughout her team. She has a proven track record in hospital operations and development, which will assure that St. Christopher's Hospital for Children continues its well-earned reputation for providing high quality care to the Philadelphia metropolitan area and southern New Jersey."

Jackson most recently served as chief executive officer for Lake Pointe Health Network in Rowlett, Texas, which includes a 112-bed hospital plus two outpatient imaging centers, two sleep labs, a wound care center, an urgent care center and four physician clinics. Jackson was instrumental in completing a number of major capital projects including a new 14-bed intensive care unit and a new endoscopy suite. Under her leadership, the hospital grew from 99 beds to 112 beds.

Jackson's leadership also led to numerous national recognitions for the hospital including the J.D. Power and Associates' Outstanding Patient Experience awards for outpatient and emergency services in 2008 and for maternity services in 2009. Lake Pointe Medical Center achieved the Pathway to Excellence designation from the American Nurses Credentialing Center in 2007, and the American Heart Association awarded the hospital Gold recognition for performance measures in Heart Failure and Coronary Artery Disease. Under her leadership, Lake Pointe Medical Center became a four-time recipient Tenet's prestigious Circle of Excellence award.

Prior to joining Tenet, Jackson served as assistant process manager and a process engineer for Roche Carolina, Inc., a pharmaceutical production site for Hoffman-LaRoche.

Jackson received a bachelor's degree from the University of Delaware in Newark and a master's degree in business administration from Harvard Business School. She is a member of the American College of Healthcare Executives and was recognized as one of "40 Under 40" by the Dallas Business Journal.

COMMUNITY NEWS

Out of the Attic

This week's Out of the Attic item is a 1973 photograph of the first high rise fire in Newark. The alarm was sounded for a fire on the 14th floor of the Christiana Towers dormitory at the University of Delaware North Campus. The volunteer firefighters of the Aetna Hose, Hook, and Ladder Co. responded. Already well trained to handle all other types of fire and rescue conditions, they would now use their special training for high-rise situations. Fortunately, the fire was contained quickly. The picture is from the Newark Historical Society collection (courtesy of the Aetna H.H.&L. Co.)

This coming week, October 3 to 9, is Fire Prevention Week. Newark has a well-trained and equipped volunteer fire service to respond if a fire should occur. More volunteers are needed for this vital community service. Now is the time to test and put new batteries in smoke detectors, clear things away from air vents and properly store or discard combustible materials. If a fire starts, get everyone out of the building and call 911.

Visit the NEWARK HISTORY MUSEUM located at the historic passenger train station on South College Avenue. The museum is open to the public Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m. now through November 28, 2010. The museum is also open all year by appointment for groups, individuals, and special events. Call 368-9845 for arrangements. The Society invites donations or loans of objects, stories, pictures and other artifacts of places, activities, and life styles in the Greater Newark Area for its permanent collections.

Get an earful of singer Jay Clark at the NAA

With the goal of bringing a wide range of arts to town, the Newark Arts Alliance sponsors a concert by Tennessee singer-songwriter Jay Clark on Friday, October 1, at 8 p.m. The cover is $10 in advance, $12 at the door.

Clark has a down-to-earth, aw-shucks air of sincerity about him, yet he is heavily grounded with the idea that the respect of an audience is earned, according to a release. With a style best described as a mixture of folk and bluegrass, his handcrafted lyrics run the gamut of hard living, two-fisted drinking, civil disobedience, old-time religion, and the occasional dip into the world of politics.

Clark has released four albums of his original material, including his most recent, Live at Jammin' at Hippie Jack's, which was recorded as part of the PBS television series by the same name. To learn more about Jay Clark and listen to his tunes, visit www.jayclarkmusic.com.

Annual Blue Jean Ball

It's time for the Food Bank of Delaware's Peace, Love, End Hunger Blue Jean Ball. The food bank will host its annual signature event on Saturday, October 2 from 7 pm to 11 pm in its Newark warehouse at 14 Garfield Way in the Delaware Industrial Park.

Guests can leave their black tie gala attire at home for this annual event. Blue Jean Ball attendees are asked to don their most far-out threads and blue jeans for a very groovy time. This year's theme will take guests back to the psychedelic days; the food bank's 33,000-square-foot warehouse will be transformed into a space reminiscent of the days when hippies, peace and love and tie dye dominated the scene.

The evening will feature beer and wine sponsored by United Distributors and fine cuisine prepared by the Food Bank of Delaware's Executive Chef, Tim Hunter, Chef Instructor, Tara Kazimir and students from The Culinary School. The evening's menu includes popular foods from the era such as seared pork chops, Shake-N-Bake chicken, Beef Wellington, assorted bundt cakes for dessert and more.

Live entertainment will be provided by Strangers, the tri-state area's newest party band. Guests will also have an opportunity to bid on a wide selection of items during the silent auction, including a trip to Hawaii.

Tickets are available for $100/person and $1,000/table of ten. Tickets may be purchased by calling (302) 444-8074 or by visiting www.fbdbluejeanball.org.

Fulton, Del. National to merge brand names

R. Scott Smith, Jr., CEO of Fulton Financial Corp. announced that the boards of directors of two of the corporation's affiliate banks have reached an agreement in principle to merge.

Delaware National Bank, based in Georgetown, Delaware, will merge with Fulton Bank, headquartered in Lancaster, Pa. Delaware National currently operates 12 branches located in northern and southern Delaware, including an office on Main Street in Newark. Fulton Bank operates 107 offices in south-central and southeastern Pennsylvania and Virginia. Both are part of Fulton Financial.

Fulton has traditionally kept bank brands it acquires separate, but in the current environment costs of operating separate brands becomes more of a consideration. Many years ago, rival PNC abandoned a similar practice. Also, Fulton has been marketing its brand name as a symbol of strength, since the company did not experience the financial problems of some of its competitors.

The planned merger is subject to approval by bank regulatory authorities and is expected to be completed by the end of this year. P. Randolph Taylor, CEO of Delaware National Bank, will continue to head the company's Delaware region. The newly merged bank will have assets of approximately $8.9 billion.

"The communities served by each of these banks are adjacent to one another," said Smith. "By merging the smaller Delaware National Bank into our larger flagship affiliate, Fulton Bank, we will be able to leverage the community banking style of Delaware National with the significant resources of Fulton Bank to better serve our customers. By uniting under one name, we will also be able to bring a more focused message to the individuals and businesses we are trying to reach."

"Fulton Bank has a powerful brand – customers in many of the markets we serve know that Fulton is a bank of considerable size and strength," said Taylor. "That knowledge and perception is an asset to us as we continue to work to attract new customers and increase our service to current customers in Delaware's communities."

Delaware National currently operates offices in Sussex and New Castle Counties in Delaware. Fulton Bank has branch locations in Berks, Bucks, Centre, Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Delaware, Lancaster, Lebanon, Montgomery, Schuylkill and York Counties in Pennsylvania as well as Chesapeake, Fairfax, Newport News, Prince William, Richmond and Virginia Beach counties in Virginia.

More information on Delaware National Bank can be found at www.delawarenational.com. Information on Fulton Bank is available at www.fultonbank.com and information on Fulton Financial Corporation can be found at www.fult.com.

Dining with Diabetes programs scheduled

By MARIA PIPPIDIS

NCC EXTENSION OFFICE

With the increased incidence of people with diabetes or pre-diabetes, many people are working toward changing their eating patterns to better manage blood sugar. Diabetes is a common, serious, and costly disease. Many complications of diabetes can be controlled and even prevented by making lifestyles changes - scheduling regular doctor visits, improving eating habits, increasing physical activity, and maintaining a healthy weight. But just how do you combine these elements to be healthier and manage or prevent the disease? Our Dining with Diabetes program may help you sort through these questions and get you on the road to a healthier you.

Pippidis

Whether you are the one with diabetes, the one dining with a diabetic, or the one preparing foods for your diabetic loved one, there can be many questions regarding food choices and food preparation. Some of the questions we'll cover in our upcoming workshop include: How do you adjust your cooking? What foods or ingredients should you avoid or increase? What are ways to manage sugar and insulin levels? How much exercise should I have? Are all carbs created equal?

The three-part series will take place on Tuesday evenings from 6:30 pm- 8:30 pm at the New Castle County Extension office. On October 19, we'll cover Desserts. October 26 will cover Main Meals and November 2 will discuss Side Dishes. The fee of $45.00 covers the information (handouts, booklets, recipes) you'll be provided and the food you'll get to taste test at all three sessions. Call the NCC Cooperative Extension office to request a registration form at 831-1239.

In the spirit of helping you learn new ways to prepare healthier foods for yourself or your family, during each session you'll have the chance to try some recipes or food ingredients that you haven't had before. The food demonstrations help you learn techniques for improved cooking. We will also review making healthy food choices when eating in restaurants, too.

Physical activity is an important management tool as well and during the sessions you'll be provided with some ideas you can implement to increase your activity. We'll have discussions regarding the important information you need to keep to track and manage or prevent diabetes.

Past participants of this program love the recipes. One person recalled that she amended her favorite recipes to be more healthful for her and her family.

The Dining with Diabetes program helps adults make lifestyle changes that are beneficial. The practical program can help you sort through the information you have learned about the disease and help you make the right changes in your food choices, diabetes management and activity levels. I hope you'll join us.

New Caravel grid coach gets first victory

By JON BUZBY

JONBUZBY@HOTMAIL.COM

Despite St. Mark's 52-35 win over Newark last Friday, when asked by Newark Post intern Trevor Brancato after the game, Spartans senior center Ryan Nowakowski had nothing but praise for the Yellowjackets: "Newark fought real hard and their speed kept them in the game."

Coach John Wilson agreed: "As much as you want to improve on your mistakes, and look at what your team did wrong, you have to give credit to Taylor Reynolds and the rest of Newark's offense. I think both teams competed very well.

"I was very happy with the success of our own offense and the running game. Newark threw some things at our offense that we had not seen before, and our kids handled the different looks well."

Elsewhere, Caravel football coach Bill Martin, who led the Bucs to an easy 42-0 win over Pencader Charter in his debut, was pleased with his team's response to the coaching change: "The kids are back to the old way of doing things and that's through hard work, commitment and dedication. They really wanted to keep the tradition of beating Pencader Charter.

"They enjoyed the feeling Friday night and to continue to have that feeling they need to be just as committed and dedicated."

Local teams' football schedules: Friday at 7 – St. Mark's at Glasgow; Caravel at St. Elizabeth; Red Lion Christian at Communications Technology High (Philadelphia). Saturday – Howard at Hodgson (10:30); Wm. Penn at Christiana (11); Newark at Delcastle (1).

Hens highlights

The University of Delaware traveled to Richmond and came away with a relatively easy 34-13 win Saturday. The Hens head into this weekend ranked No. 5 in the Sports Network's Top 25 (FCS) media poll, it's highest regular-season ranking since 2005.

Player of the game: Sophomore running back David Hayes rushed for 82 yards on 12 carries and his 40-yard fourth-quarter touchdown, according to head coach K.C. Keeler, "Was the final dagger to get the win."

Freshman running back Andrew Pierce, who leads the CAA with 598 rushing yards: "A great job by my line. It's been a great year so far and I hope to take it to JMU. We knew as a team it was going to be a tough game. We came out with the mentality that it was going to be like a championship game. We practiced hard and we played like we practiced, and I'm excited for my team and I just want to see if we can take it to JMU."

Injury update: According to Keeler, Devlin showed no ill effects after Saturday's game and no other player will miss significant practice time. The Hens hope to have senior linebacker Benard Makumbi back Saturday.

Accolades: Siddiq Haynes has been chosen as a member of the 2010 Allstate AFCA Good Works Team®, which recognizes players for their outstanding community service work. A total of 112 players across all collegiate levels of the sport were nominated for the award by sports information directors on behalf of their teams, and Haynes was one of 22 players selected.

His impressive resume of community service accomplishments includes volunteering with New Castle County Youth Football league, participating in the Lung Cancer Walk and March of Dimes Walk and bone marrow drive, and spending time with the elderly as a volunteer at The Forest at Duke retirement home.

Anthony Walters was named CAA co-defensive player of the week after recording 10 tackles and an interception against Richmond.

Next up: The Hens travel to No. 3 James Madison for a 12 noon kickoff Saturday. The game will be televised on the Comcast Network.

Keeler's quips

Highlights from the head coach's weekly press luncheon:

On the win at Richmond: "We beat a CAA team on the road, we beat a ranked opponent on the road, and we beat them by three touchdowns. I saw my team really come together Saturday afternoon."

On next week's game at James Madison, where Keeler is 0-3 as UD head coach: "It's a hostile environment. Even their band will cuss at you. I don't think they are a better team than we are, but they are every bit as good as we are."

On the indefinite suspension of junior defensive end Chris Morales for violating unspecified team rules: "You treat it as if he turned an ankle or pulled a hamstring and you move on. I don't know yet if he'll be suspended for a game, two games, or maybe the season."

Send sports stories, news and information to jonbuzby@hotmail.com.

ATHLETE SPOTLIGHT

David Fett

Senior midfielder, Glasgow High School soccer

Hometown: Newark

Other varsity sports: track and field

School activities: National Honor Society, band, Spanish National Honor Society

College plans: Attend University of Delaware or University of Pittsburgh and major in Pharmacy

First played soccer: "I started playing recreational when I was 5 years old at Kirkwood Soccer Club."

His thoughts on the season: "We have had a good start to the season with some exciting wins and have set a goal for the state tournament this year. We just have to focus, and make sure we take the season one game at a time."

"David is one of the senior leaders on this team," coach Brian Grant says of his three-year starter and tri-captain. "I believe that the entire team looks up to him for guidance. He is a strong player that can play many positions for us, which gives us a great deal of flexibility with our personnel."

He also served with Former Governor Dale Wolf as Honorary Co-Chair of the Friends of the Delaware Veterans Home in Milford. Choosing a Crematory?

Ask yourself these important questions:

Is the crematory owned by the funeral home? Many funeral homes advertise "cremation services," but here at R.T. Foard Funeral Home we own and operate our own crematory located at our Rising Sun location.

Where is the crematory located? Crematories located off the funeral home grounds represent a problem for families who want to witness the initiation of the process or hold a memorial service. Our cremation facility, located at our funeral home, is designed to accommodate those wishes.

Can I visit the facility? If a crematory is not open for your inspection, you should ask why. We are very proud of our crematory and our procedures. Our crematory is open for your inspection at anytime.

Main St. Mile on Sat.

It will be a busy weekend in Newark, even thought the U of D football team will be out of town.

On tap for Tuesday is the Main Street Mile, beginning at 8 a.m.

The race, which benefits the Newark Police Department's K-9 Unit and the DNP begins at the McDonald's traffic circle on Main Street and finishes minutes later at the Deer Park Tavern. Runners from around the region compete for top prize money to be awarded to the first male to break 4 minute mile and the first female to break 4:40 minute mile.

The Elite Runner Division (males that run sub-5:20 mile and females that run sub-6:00 mile) winners qualify for cash prizes up to $300 awarded for first through tenth place.

Taste of Newark on Sunday

On Sunday, the popular Taste of Newark will take place on the lawn at Old College on the UD campus from noon to 3 p.m.

More than 40 restaurants will offer all types of food, with a wide variety of wine also available.

The event will again feature a battle of the local chefs.

A limited number of tickets will be available for $50 each at the door. The advance ticket price was $40.

Bad weather forced last year's event inside at UD's Clayton Hall. The indoor event earned high marks, although sponsors prefer the outdoor setting on an early autumn afternoon.

The current forecast calls for cool, but comfortable weather.

Bits and pieces...

Walked up the street last week to Mojo Main, the former East End Café.

The establishment features Cajun food, with a $5 lunch special that might be one of the best deals in town.

Also check out the new deck at Klondike Kates on Main Street. The venerable establishment has some new menu items and reasonable college town prices to match.

This week, a number of Newark restaurants are offering specials through Delaware Dines Out. The promotion allows you to get a three-course meal, with dessert for $30. You can find out more at www.delawaredinesout.com.

We welcome news from Main Street and Elkton Road businesses. Send items to news@newarkpostonine.com.

Penn National Gaming opens Perryville casino early

Penn National Gaming opened Hollywood Casino Perryville three days prior to its projected September 30 launch and four weeks earlier than original estimates.

The Maryland Lottery gave the go-ahead, following a large-scale test for invited guests on Saturday.

The casino, off I-95, just east of the the Susquehanna River bridge near Perryville, will face stiff competition from gaming venues in Delaware and Pennsylvania, including Delaware Park, which is a 40-minute drive to the east. It comes to the party with an experienced slots operator and a tested theme with an art deco format dating back to the early days of Hollywood. Penn National operates a number of casinos under the Hollywood brand.

The new gaming entertainment facility, completed at a total investment of $97.5 million and located directly off Interstate 95 in Cecil County has 1,500 slot machines purchased and owned or leased by the Maryland State Lottery.

The approximately 75,000 square-foot gaming facility created 350 full time jobs, with 80 percent of Hollywood Casino Perryville's employees residing in Cecil and Harford counties.

Peter M. Carlino, Chief Executive Officer of Penn National, commented, "Less than two years after Maryland voters approved slots facilities in the state, we have developed a first-rate casino that flawlessly executes our unique Hollywood brand and design. With our strategic location less than a half-mile from Interstate 95, we expect Hollywood Casino Perryville to be a popular stop for the more than 82,000 cars passing the Perryville/Port Deposit Exit 93 on a daily basis. Hollywood Casino Perryville is also expected to capture a high percentage of the players who travel to Delaware casinos as we estimate that more than 40 percent of the players in Delaware are coming from Maryland."

"The accelerated opening is also being facilitated by the work of the Maryland State Lottery Commission, which has ensured that Maryland's first casino offers the best slot floor available to casino players on the East Coast. In addition, we are grateful to Maryland Video Lottery Terminal Facility Location Commission, our hosts, Cecil County and the City of Perryville, and the many other local and state government officials who have worked tirelessly with our team throughout the planning and construction process. The opening will result in over 350 new full time jobs as well as significant tax revenue and other sustainable economic benefits for the community, county and state."

Hollywood Casino Perryville features the newest slot machines available, according to a Penn National release. The casino is home to the world's largest concentration of Advantage Revolution machines that feature two high-definition video screens combined with traditional mechanical reels as well as approximately 200 BLUEBIRD games which create an interactive experience between the gaming content and the gaming cabinet and are equipped with Bosé audio.

Other featured slots include Sex And The City, Kitty Glitter, Jeff Foxworthy's Redneck Rumble, and Cash Spin, a machine that allows players to spin a virtual wheel on the game's display. A mix of slot machine favorites are also included throughout the casino floor, and guests can enjoy a cocktail while playing video poker at the Sunset Video Poker bar. All slot machines are coinless.

In addition, Hollywood Casino Perryville offers players six electronic table games with five player stations each, including video roulette, three-card video poker and video blackjack.

Players can also join Club Hollywood, Hollywood Casino's premier player loyalty program that provides rewards.

Hollywood Casino Perryville offers several dining choices for guests available every day of the week. The Epic buffet is open daily for lunch and dinner.

Extras Grill will feature breakfast specials. Players looking to grab a quick bite can choose from a selection of pastries and Starbucks coffees, and a lineup of burgers and sandwiches.

Two of 3 changes approved

placed in a dumpster, will be picked up by the city for an additional fee.

The bill designates that the Aetna Fire Department and the Newark Senior Center will not be charged for collection because of the services they provide to Newark. City Manager Kyle Sonnenberg said that public schools are not subject to the bill because they are contracted out separately and could not comply with the city's pickup schedule.

The second bill will amend Chapter 25, Sec. 17 of the municipal code, requesting that sewer unit rates will not be included in the city code. The proposal will address inconsistencies in the rates being charged versus the rates last approved by the council. Changes in the New Castle County sewer rates can affect a dozen city rates and can even make some rates obsolete. The language of the bill directs parties interested in the rates to either contact the Finance Dept. or to log on to the City of Newark website at www.cityofnewark.de.us.

Council members questioned transparency issues with posting and adjusting sewer rates. In February, Council approved to give the Finance Director the authority to adjust any rates that are related to County rates; all other adjustments must be approved by the council.

City Finance Director Dennis McFarland stated that the County adjusts rates in July and that notification of the change is given in May, allowing enough time for the city to inform residents of any impending increases. He also stated that deleting the rates in the code will allow for a more accurate tracking of sewer revenues.

Both the garbage pickup and sewer rate bills were approved unanimously.

The third bill of the agenda, dealing with snow removal on sidewalks, will increase the amount of time allotted for residents to shovel their sidewalks from 24 hours, after the snow ceases, to 48 hours. City Manager Sonnenberg stated that this increase was enacted because it takes the Parks Department that much time to properly clear roads and sidewalks after a large storm.

The new bill would also place responsibility for clearance upon "any tenant, occupant, owner, claimant, agent or person in charge of a building or lot within the City." The fines, for those convicted and sentenced for failure to comply, will be raised from $5 to $25 to $100 to $300. The high fines track with rates charged to commercial and industrial entities.

The bill generated controversy from both the council and the public. Council members stated that a large number of residences are occupied by student renters who leave for winter break, leaving no one to clear the area. Concerns arose over whether the bill was too harsh on those who are not physically able to clear their areas, such as the elderly or physically impaired.

Councilman Jerry Clifton voiced strong opposition to the measure and stated that a listing of companies or individuals willing to clear snow on a fee or voluntary basis should be made for those unable to clear it themselves.

The bill was tabled for further discussion and will be amended to reflect the views of the council.

Senatorial debate offer from CNN studied closely a key part of Delaware's strategy in the early going. In addition to the senatorial debate, Delaware First and the University of Delaware will host a debate for the state's lone congressional seat.

Boudreau, who produced the now defunct Delaware Tonight newscast for WHYY-TV, said it was clear that Delaware was in need of a statewide platform for holding debates, with the broadcast being offered to all media outlets. The University of Delaware and its newly formed Center for Political Communication had been thinking along the same lines.

That led the university and Delaware First to strike an agreement that according to Boudreau is an exchange of services. Delaware First did get office space from UD, a plus for a non-profit start-up organization that is raising funds via grants.

The agreement works well for both organizations, according to Boudreau.

"They (UD) understand the need for editorial indepdence," she said.

Still when the phone call came from CNN about two weeks ago, the answer was not an automatic yes.

Simply listing Delaware First as a co-host would not work in the long-term interest of the media organization, Boudreau said. Boudreau discussed the arrangements at length with Ralph Begleiter, director of UD's Center for Political Communication and a former CNN correspondent.

Both the O'Donnell and Coons campaigns agreed to the ground rules for the debate. The university and Delaware First were also given prominent roles in the debate.

The U.S. Senate debate will be co-moderated by longtime Delaware news anchor Nancy Karibjanian of Delaware First Media and national CNN anchor Wolf Blitzer. UD and Delaware First will produce the debate and UD students will also have an opportunity to ask questions to O'Donnell and Coons. Further information is availble at www.udel.edu/debates.

The debate will run live for 30 minutes on CNN, but will actually last longer. CNN has agreed to air the entire debate at a later time slot. CNN's Blitzer will also hold a live broadcast of the network's Situation Room from UD that night.

Video and audio feeds will be made available to all media outlets in the region for the entire debate. In addition, web streaming will be offered at Delaware First and UD websites, as well as to other media outlets.

UD and Delaware are also hosting a debate for candidates for U.S. House of Representatives, on Wednesday, Oct. 6, also beginning at 7:30 p.m. The candidates for that debate, Democrat John Carney and Republican Glen Urquhart, have also confirmed their participation. Televised coverage of the Oct. 6 debate will also be available to all media, provided by DFM and the University. Both debates are supported, in part, by AARP of Delaware.

Meanwhile, Delaware First is continuing to build its content via stories and video posted on its website. Joining Delaware First in late spring was former WHYY-TV reporter Tom Byrne. Byrne has been writing in-depth stories on gaming, the primary and other issues. Byrne said he spent time in the early going in Dover as the General Assembly hammered out a budget and passed bills.

Boudreau said the media organization considered plans to operate a public radio and/or TV outlet, but opted to start with the Internet, taking the advice of those who have successfully launched news organizations in a digital environment.

It has joined forces to provide local news programming for Public Radio Delmarva, which serves Kent and Sussex counties, via WSDL-FM (90.7) and WSCL-FM (89.5).

Aetna crews get cake for saving life

(The following was submitted to the Post from the fire company)

Let me start off by saying how proud I am in writing this email; an event took place that we should all be proud of:

Yesterday afternoon (9/20), I was working B-shift with Geoff. We had just sat down to eat lunch when somone knocked on the door. I got up, reluctantly, thinking to myself why I must be interrupted everytime I try and eat something around here. (Well I am very glad I did). I approached the door and saw this woman struggling to hold a big box while peering through the glass to see if anyone was there. I opened the door and greeted her, inviting her into the station.

She hands me the big box and says, "This is for you." To my great surprise, I looked into the box she handed me and saw a large sheet cake. Thinking this was some sort of a hoax, I asked her (chuckling) what she might want me to do with this cake. She said, "Well eat it of course!" She went on to tell me that today was her birthday, when suddenly she began to become overwhelmed with emotion. She told me that some years ago (I think she said 25, but I don't remember for sure), a crew from our Fire Company "saved her life" (her words not mine). I began to inquire if she knew the names of these individuals and whether she wanted me to pass a message on to anyone.

She declined, nodding her head no, and instead smiled. I asked her if she wanted to leave her name or information and yet again she declined. She told me that her birthday and the anniversary of this event (all she told me was she was that she was unconscious) coincided and that she didn't need a birthday cake this year. She began to tear up, still smiling however, as she walked out the station door and left. At this point, I too became overwhelmed, thinking how very nice it was that she had taken the time to do this. As I was putting the cake in the refrigerator, I stared down at the cake and through the wrap; it read: Thank You Very Much.

I felt obligated to email you all and share such a wonderful story with you. We don't always receive recognition in this field but it always feels good when we do. This woman was absolutely grateful for the service we provided her on that day some years ago and for the service which we provide to our community everyday. Our daily actions, no matter how big or small, affect the lives of those who live around us. As always, I am proud to be a member of the Aetna Hose Hook and Ladder Co. Family and serve our community. I hope this story makes you all feel the same way.

Oh yes, how could I forget...for all of you skeptics out there who doubt this event actually occured, I invite everyone to come down to Station 9 tonight and grab a slice of cake while it lasts (it looks really delicious). I'll leave it out on a table in the back room. If you are unable to make it I will post a picture of the cake in the Stations as a reminder of this individual's gratitude towards our department. I hope everyone enjoys the rest of the day and just remember...YOU really do make a difference out there and this could never be accomplished without all of YOUR continued help and support.

-Arman M. Fardanesh

Downtown fire

Firefighters from Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. and other fire companies responded to a blaze in an upstairs area of a building near Main and Academy streets in downtown Newark, at around 2 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 22. John H. Farrell, IV, public information officer for Aetna, said the fire started in a trash can on a balcony of an occupied second floor apartment at 55 E. Main Street, a building that also houses businesses on the first floor. The fire traveled up the exterior of the building and was extinguished in about 10 minutes.There were no injuries. The Newark City Fire Marshal is investigating the cause. The blaze closed Main Street to all traffic for nearly 45 minutes.

Crowley's work on display at Newark Arts Alliance

By MELISSA MARSHALL

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

For her exhibit at the Newark Arts Alliance, artist Doris Crowley faced the task of expressing close to 60 years of work through only 48 pieces. So she did what comes naturally to her—laugh and look for meaning.

"Whether I get famous or not, it was such a rewarding process personally," she explained of the difficult task of assembling a retrospective. "I can look at my work from a long period of time and see the consistencies as well as the growth. Now it seems that I work much more with the subconscious. I look at objects from a different perspective—perhaps I am a tiny bug looking at flower petals or I'm creating pieces focusing on the intangible: time, space, the exploration of infinity," she continued.

She was helped in the decision-making process through her recent assembly of a 106-page catalogue raisonné featuring 188 reproductions of her work titled In Sights: A Retrospective.

"The term insight means a lot to me," said Crowley. "Anyone who is creative—no matter the field—sees with his eyes, but also with his understanding. I've always felt that is what shapes an artist's style."

From found objects, collage, watercolor, drawing, pastels, ceramics and photography, Crowley's style is constantly evolving to match her continued fascination with experimentation. A perfect example of how humans reprogram themselves, she immersed herself in computer-produced art more than 10 years ago when the medium was first being introduced and when she was already close to 70 years-old. Three images from her retrospective are from the series "Foremothers," a set of Photoshop constructed collages that focus on four generations of women from her family.

"Exploring the dynamics of four very strong-minded women was an interesting experience for me," she explained. "It presented me with a new way of looking at our relationships. I discovered things about me and my family that were of course personal, but also universal as well. When looking at the prints, you don't have to be related to them to relate to the work," she continued.

Although the 48-piece retrospective certainly combines different periods of time as well as different media, Crowley discovered that while looking back over her work, certain images continually reappeared, including studies of the Iris (the earliest piece in the exhibit, done in 1954, is a painting of the flower), what one sees through windows and an ongoing love of the seashore.

"I'm fascinated by the way the water, the waves and the light work together—the change of the surface of the sand and the sky," she said of her persistent preoccupation with the ocean.

Art has always been very familiar to Crowley. After graduating from Pomona College in California, she went to Italy on a Fulbright Scholarship to study art history for a year. Upon returning to the states, she earned a master's in early modern American culture from the University of Delaware where she worked with the Winterthur Museum before lecturing at the Brooklyn Museum of Art for many years. When she needed more grass around her, she returned to Delaware in the early 1960s where she continued creating art while holding jobs consecutively as assistant to the director of education at the Delaware Art Museum, art instructor at the Tatnall School, and later a journalist for the communications office of the University of Delaware College of Resource Economic and Applied Ecology.

When asked about what she hopes visitors will take away from her life-encompassing exhibit, Crowley paused. "I would like them to come away with the range of ways we can look at our world, and our relationships with other people, objects and even intangible things," she said. "How do you express the dynamic of human relationships? How do you explore a flower so that someone else discovers something they've never noticed before?"

Crowley's work will be on exhibit through October 9 at the NAA, which is located at 276 East Main Street in the Market East Plaza. For more information on NAA events, exhibits, and classes, visit the Web site (www.newarkartsalliance.org) or call 302-266-7266.
