6. DRC Resource Collection

The Center obtained about 1,200 new publications during the year. This figure does not include continuing periodicals (which number about 125), announcements, photographs, radio/video tapes and newspaper clippings. A total of over 800 were processed, making a total of over 20,500 in the Resource Collection and maintaining its status as the largest single collection anywhere in the world on the human and social aspects of disasters.

Agreements to exchange DRC publications for their relevant organizational publications were made or reconfirmed with:
In the US:

Natural Hazards and Application Center, University of Colorado
Center for Technology, Environment & Development, Clark University

Outside the US:

The Flood Hazard Research Center, Middlesex Polytechnic, Great Britain
The Center for Research on the Epidemiology of Disasters, Louvain University, Belgium
The Asian Disaster Preparedness Center library, Bangkok, Thailand
The Australian Counter Measures College library, Mt. Macedon, Australia
The Munich Reinsurance Company, West Germany
The Indonesian Disaster Management Library, Jakarta, Indonesia
The Mass Emergencies Library of ISIG, Gorizia, Italy
The Center for Disaster Studies library, James Cook University, Queensland, Australia
Emergency Communications Research Unit
Carleton University, Ottawa, Canada
Joint Research Center library, New Delhi, India
Disaster Research Group, Uppsala University, Sweden
Institute of Geophysics, Beijing, China

Work continued on computerizing the card catalog. At the end of the year, 6,450 listings were on the computer.

As part of its resource collection operation, DRC added new items to its publication list bringing to 356 the number currently available for the public. While many items are distributed for free, sales at nominal costs of DRC publications increased over last year. Multiple copies of DRC publications were purchased for classroom use by several universities. In addition, a large number of items from the list were purchased by organizations ranging from Dow Chemical to Emergencias in Argentina; from Maravan, the Venezuelan national petroleum company, to Indiana University; and from the Bureau of Civil Protection in Quebec in Canada to Total Information, Inc., a computer information retrieval system.

7. Other Service Activities

DRC directors were members of the following disaster related committees or groups: Panel on Disaster Research & Planning, National Center for Earthquake Engineering Research, SUNY, Buffalo; National Academy of Science Panel on Seismic Safety; Advisory Panel on Guidelines for Protective Systems for Hazardous Material Spills at Kansas State University; New Castle County Hazardous Advisory Board; International Sociological Association Research Committee on Disasters (President); National Science Foundation Panel on Proposal Review; Symposium Planning Committee of Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Southern California; Board of Advisors of the Center for Psychological Response in Disaster Emergencies at the New York Medical College; NAS Panel

8. International Activities

(These are reported in more detail in the DRC Report on International Activities of DRC)

(1) Following the exchange agreement reached last year, a DRC graduate student spent two months as a visiting researcher in the Mass Emergencies Program of the Institute of International Sociology in Gorizia, Italy.

(2) Professor Joseph Scanlon, the leading Canadian researcher on social aspects of disasters and Director of the Emergency Communication Research Unit in the School of Journalism, Carleton University, came to DRC as a Visiting Faculty member in July 1987 to start his sabbatical research year at the Center.

(3) Dr. Patrick Lagadec of L'Ecole Polytechnique in Paris visited DRC to explore possible future collaborative work.

(4) The close professional ties between Japanese disaster researchers and DRC were reinforced by a visit to Japan where final agreement was reached on a joint publication in Japan of the results of an earlier collaborative research effort.

(5) Dr. Chitturi Raghavulu, the Director of the Disaster Mitigation Laboratory in Guntur, India visited the Center to develop a proposal for an exchange relationship between his institute and DRC.

(6) There were several visits back and forth between DRC personnel and Mexican disaster researchers to further their collaborative study on the Mexico City earthquake.
