Introduction: William Maugridge, a Junto and Library Company member, a merchant and later a farmer, and William Callendar, another Library Company member, both first appear in the 1739 accounts. Hugh Meredith, Franklin’s former partner, returned from farming in South Carolina. Meredith replaced Stephen Potts as the person who borrowed and charged most frequently from BF. The attorney Tench Francis, another Library Company member, who was to defeat BF in the Philadelphia Corporation election for Recorder on 2 Oct 1750, bought an Ovid on credit (28 April). Franklin’s brothers John (26 April) and Peter (27 Aug) turn up, as does his brother-in-law Edward Mecom (26 April, in John Franklin). Jehu Curtis, Speaker of the Delaware Assembly, makes his only appearance on 8 Jan. His tombstone bearing Franklin’s epitaph stands at Christ Church, Newcastle, Delaware. Though Franklin listed many book sales, he seems only once to have noted lending books: on 23 June, he loaned his chess opponent David French three volumes of Bishop Gilbert Burnet’s History of the Reformation.

The Accounts for 1739 reveal some details of Franklin’s printing business. On 31 Aug, Franklin paid "Mr. Wm. Morgan, turner ... 12.6. to Buy Lignum Vitae (for rollers)" to lubricate his press. Entries for 3 and 11 Jan indicate that Franklin was receiving paper from Thomas Wilcox in exchange for rags, the raw material in papermaking, though Franklin still did business with William Dewees, his former primary paper maker (17 April). An undated note, which is evidently before 26 April, records Franklin’s purchase of more type for the press: "350 lb Long Primer including a Proportion of Italicks and Two Line Letters; 3 lb of the most fashionable Flowers of the Long Primer Size; 3 lb Spare Rule; the Remainder of the Money to be Paid out in Brevier, with a proper proportion of Italicks and Two Line Letters; A small Quantity of Astronomical Signs of the Brevier size; 2 lb Brevier Flowers." James Parker came to work for Franklin as a journeyman printer in the fall of 1739, with Franklin advancing him cash for such items as a coat and stockings (24 and 26 Dec; cf. 29 and 30 Nov). An entry for 11 June reveals that Olaus Malander was working for Franklin and boarding with the Franklins: "Settled and paid Malandor to this Day for all his Work (except late) & his Board settled to this Day." Since Franklin usually settled his accounts with employees every six months, Malander may have been working for Franklin since Dec 1738.

In 1739 Franklin’s occupation as Postmaster appears in his shop accounts. On 13 Feb, "William Crosit" was charged 2.4. "for the Postage of a Leter to Boston." Franklin’s brother-in-law, the taylor John Croker, worked for him as a post rider. On 18 Feb, Franklin paid him "By ballance of Riding due this Day, £10.15.7." On 8 June, Franklin gave James Jordan 5.8. in credit for a "Male [Mail] Pillion & Straps."

The Franklin household turns up several times: Franklin bought a "Nurse Chair" from Solomon Fussell on 19 Dec. Deborah recorded: "Paid my buter woman in Cash, 1.0.0." (2 and 28 Feb), and "paid Mose the Bucher in full, 1.11.0." (7 June). The butchers Thomas Potts and John Renshaw turn up in the accounts about this time, but their first names are easy; perhaps "Mose the Bucher" refers to a Mr. "Blackston" who appears in 1735.

Imprints. Besides the periodicals and Whitefield’s journals and sermons, BF printed two works at his own risk. Robert Dodsley’s The Art of Preaching (Miller 162), which sold three copies on credit in Aug; and Elizabeth Rowe’s History of Joseph, which in large part remained in BF’s shop until 31 May 1743, when he sold 250 copies in Boston. Broadside advertisements for Lawrence Growdon and Thomas Penn on 3 April are evidently not in Miller. A March entry gives the costs of "special order" printing: "Ch. Brockden, Esq., Dr. For 50 Mortgages printing at 2d [Miller A128], 8.4.; 50 Counterpart printing at 2d, 8.4. [Miller A129]; 50 Bonds [Miller BF began a major new printing project on 15 Nov when he solicited subscriptions in the Gazette to print a four-volume edition of Whitefield’s sermons and journals (Miller 180). On 28 Nov, Whitefield recorded that Franklin had already received 200 subscriptions for his journals and sermons. It was probably colonial America’s most successful subscription printing.

For New Jersey, BF printed its Laws (Miller 166), which he was selling by 30 Aug. And an unidentified member of its legislature paid him to print a reply to Lewis Morris (Miller 164; post 15 March). Though entered under 1739 by Miller, Franklin evidently did not print the Delaware paper currency emission of 1 Dec 1739 until the spring of 1740.

The Shop. The Shop Book demonstrates the ins and outs of retail in the eighteenth century. Two entries reveal the use of an installment plan for purchases: On 18 Jan DF noted, "Mr. Jonathan Rumfoote, Dr. for parte of a Large Bibel he is to pay at May fair, 18.0." and on 28 Feb, "Nathanel Hope well, Dr. for a Larg Bibel he is to pay in 4 munthes, 6.10.0. I am to take the ten shilins in the market." Another entry shows DF giving credit for damaged merchandise: "Ritchard Peters, Esq., Dr. for a Box of pouins it was brooken, 0.6." (25 Jan). And, on 28 June, DF accepted an unusual barter: "Joseph Scoafer, Left unpaid 7.6. he bringe wood to sell for a Law dixonary, paid" (28 June). An entry for 16 July suggests that Mary Yaldall may have been getting married. She purchased of Deborah: "a Hoop Cote, 12.0.; a pair of Silk shues, 15.0.; an under Cote, 6.0.; 2 Cambrick hankifchers, 8.0., a pair of stockins, 3.3.; a pair of pumps, 6.6.; paid for mending a pair of shues, 0.8. to Cambrick for an apron, 18.0.; Cash Lent towards bying a fan, 1.6."

New items in the shop include "vormilion [vermillion] wafers" (13 Feb), snuff (9 March, 16 Aug, 9 Oct, 11 Nov), a scabbard (3 Nov) and tenterhooks (8 Nov), as well as "a pair of yellow merokah shoes" (26 Jan). Among the book titles mentioned are Swift’s Gulliver’s Travels (13 Sept) and The Tale of the Tub (2 June), "Congreves Works" (12 Aug), "Milton’s Paradise lost" (2 Aug), "4 Vols. Don Quixote" (2 June), “Robin Hoods” (26 April, in Jordon), ballads (26 April, James Jordon), and unidentified "plays" (6 Feb, 5 May). Besides books, Franklin also sold maps (10 Feb) and "prints." On 13 Feb he sold the artist Gustavus Hesselius two prints, one presumably of William Hogarth’s “Sleepy Congregation” and a likeness of William Pultney, Earl of Bath (1684-1764). On 10 April, BF sold maps and 6 prints to James Jordan. In one instance, a "Mr. CalayPoll [Claypool] was charged "for pickters, 2.13.0." on 25 May, and credited the next day "for framing 36 Pictures at 1.6." He was probably James Claypoole, joiner.
