FRATERNITIES
For the past 12 years Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity has dominated the university scholastic scene by winning the coveted scholarship trophy 13 times. The unusual aptitude is, however, only one facet of the fraternity's versatility.

The enthusiasm and spirit of the brothers was often recognized at football rallies. Moreover, AEPi parties are acclaimed for their warmth and liveliness. The social program includes varied events nearly every other week. Many guests are royally entertained on these occasions.

The brothers are well represented throughout campus activities. The prominent ones are: ODK, SGA, BBB, SAM; APO, Alpha Chi Sigma, Review, BLUE HEN, Venture, Debating Club, Accounting Club, Math Club, Junior Counselors, football, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, track, tennis, and wrestling.

AEPi men pride themselves on their well-rounded curricula and hope to extend into even more activities.
The Epsilon Rho Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega, the youngest fraternity on campus, was founded eleven years ago and has established itself in all fields of fraternity and campus life. ATO is a medium-sized fraternity and for its size has an outstanding record in intramural athletics, school spirit, and other group and individual activities.

The social program of ATO, which is closely co-ordinated with that of the university, includes open houses, informal parties, and formal dances. The outstanding annual events of the fall and spring were IFC weekend, Founders’ weekend, and ATO weekend. Other social events were the Christmas party and a party given by the pledges shortly before their initiation. All in all, ATO had a very busy social season.

Academically, ATO has been among the top three fraternities in scholarship ten out of the past fifteen semesters. With our new pledge scholarship program, we have also done much to raise the grades of our pledges. It is for these and other reasons that ATO can claim 1959-60 as the most successful year in its history.

1959-60 was another banner year for the Delta Upsilon chapter of Delta Tau Delta. During the past year a Delt was Editor-in-Chief of the Review. Delts were also active in the Concert Choir, Varsity Chorale, E-52 University Theater, the wrestling and swimming teams, APO, and campus religious groups.

The social calendar was full, with an activity almost every weekend. Some of the better remembered are the Freshman Girls' Open House, the South Sea Island Party, IFC Weekend, the Christmas Party, the Apache Party, Delt Weekend, and the annual Parents' Tea.

When the Brothers returned to the Shelter in the fall they found the exterior of the house newly painted. During the year, the showerroom was rebuilt and the basement redecorated.

The Mothers' Club furnished new draperies for the first floor rooms. The mothers also served their annual buffet luncheon during rushing.

The Brothers of the Class of 1960 will surely look back on this year as one of the most memorable of their college career.

As the year ends, the Brothers of Kappa Alpha can look at the past two semesters with pride and satisfaction. There will also be many memories of experiences, both small and big. The KA's held many positions in campus affairs and were active in student activities. There were class officers, SGA officers, IFC officers, Junior Counselors, Brothers on Dean's List, members in band, honorary fraternities, religious clubs, student professional clubs, captains of athletic teams, and intramural sports.

The Rebels enjoyed a very active social season, too. From the Freshman Girls' Open House in the fall, house parties, IFC Weekend, Christmas parties, rushing functions, to the Old South Ball of the annual KA Weekend, the Brothers had many occasions to relax from the pressures of school.

Naturally, much credit goes to our past officers who have steered us through the year. But we also have had the help of our advisor, Dr. E. Vernon Lewis, which has meant much at times. And our alumni association backed us strongly this year. With these people supplementing the hard work and strong fraternity spirit of Kappa Alpha, we can say that we had a great year.

Phi Kappa Tau has finished another busy year at their house at 21 S. College Ave. Among their social activities were several gala parties with such unusual titles as: the Fiji Island Fling, the Beat-Nik Party, and the Cowboy Party, climax ed by the annual Dinner Dance at the North-East Yacht Club. In the domestic line, some needed improvements were added to the house by the brothers.
Pi Kappa Alpha was founded at the University of Virginia in 1868, and is today one of the top ten national fraternities in the country. Delta Eta chapter was chartered on the Delaware campus in 1948, as the 103rd chapter, and now in 1960, there are 132 located throughout the United States.

Nationally and locally, the Pikes have been known as the friendly fraternity. The doors of the Pike house are open to friends and strangers alike, and a congenial, informal atmosphere is the rule. Social functions range from formal dances and large-scale weekends to picnics and bowling parties.

The brothers and pledges of Pi Kappa Alpha have worked this year to improve the general appearance of the house and yard. They have gained, by working together on projects, by studying with one another to better their scholastic standing, and by relaxing and enjoying informal recreational activities, a feeling of group membership and belonging which is only found in fraternity living.

SIGMA NU

Sigma Nu was founded at the University of Delaware in 1906 as a local fraternity named Phi Sigma. Then in 1911 this local fraternity became the 79th chapter of the Sigma Nu National fraternity. Through these years the Delta Kappa chapter has maintained the high ideals by which the fraternity is governed and has contributed in many respects to college life.

Brotherhood, scholarship, social life, and athletics are important factors to Sigma Nu. The brothers are bound together by ties of true and lasting fellowship and take pride in this close-knit friendship. The chapter is continually above the all men’s index and attributes this to their scholarship program and chairman. Social events include functions with parents and alumni, service projects, the annual Sigma Nu Weekend, and frequent house parties, all of which have contributed this year to one of the finest social seasons in years.

The rewinning of the Intramural Trophy again last year, the winning of five of the first six intramural events this year, and the fine representation of brothers in varsity sports is proof of the chapter’s enthusiasm toward athletics. Leadership of Delta Kappa is evidenced by the many brothers who are captains of varsity sports and officers in campus activities.

Sigma Phi Epsilon at the University of Delaware stands for many things, but it can best be described by the word brotherhood, for this is the basis and goal of every facet of our chapter program. Ranking at or near the top among the campus fraternities, as well as in the national organization, Sig Ep is devoted to a well-integrated program of scholarship, athletics, social events and fraternity life. The advantages of location, in-house dining facilities and a permanent housemother have contributed immensely to the present position of prestige and respect that Sigma Phi Epsilon holds.

Sig Eps can be found as members or officers of every important campus organization, every varsity team and every honorary fraternity or society. We consider this participation in campus activities an essential part of our college life and encourage it as a part of our fraternity program.

Top men, excellent facilities and impressive results are important ingredients contributing to the success of a fraternity, but the most vital ingredient and one that Sigma Phi Epsilon exemplifies to the utmost, is brotherhood. Our record speaks for itself.

THETA CHI

Never before in the history of Theta Chi Fraternity has there been such an overall feeling of togetherness, spirit, and brotherhood as was shown this past year. Vast improvement and advancement was exhibited in all phases of campus life.

Using the various talents of the brothers, Alpha Xi chapter participated in every pep rally, winning all but one. They won the house decoration for Homecoming Weekend and received honorable mention in the float and spirit trophy competition. In the past, brothers had abstained from this competition.

Working in harmony with one another, the brothers set an example for generations of University students to follow. Their facilities for the promotion of comfortable living and studying habits are among the finest on campus. It is no wonder that the brothers in the white house at 48 West Park Place appeal to students from all walks of life.

The Interfraternity Council acts as the legislative organ of the University of Delaware fraternities. Its purpose is to coordinate all nine campus fraternities. The council was responsible this year for the smooth running of the interfraternity weekend held annually in the fall. Irmgard Stallman, a Junior latin major, was crowned queen of the I.F.C. Ball in what proved to be the outstanding fraternity social success of the year. Other activities in which the fraternities cooperated via the council included the I.F.C. Playbill in the spring and the year-round I.F.C. sports competition. With the helpful advice of Dr. E. Vernon Lewis, their sponsor, the council made the year 1960 a successful one for the fraternities.
