AVPHA PHI OMEGA is a Service Fraternity and has a definite program of activities in which the chapter directs its energies and talents for the benefit of its fellow men. The purpose of Alpha Phi Omega and the Zeta Sigma Chapter is to assemble college men in the fellowship of the Scout Oath and Law, to develop friendship and to promote service to humanity.

The Zeta Sigma Chapter has been active on the Delaware campus since 1948.

ALPHA ZETA

ALPHA ZETA is the honorary fraternity of the School of Agriculture. Its goal is to foster high standards of scholarship among its members and to initiate service projects in the field of agriculture. One of its most important activities is the visiting of all the schools in the state and talking to prospective college students to give them a picture of Delaware.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

ODK is a national leadership fraternity for undergraduate college men. Members are elected on the basis of character, leadership, service, scholarship, fellowship, and belief in democratic ideals. The Delaware Beta Sigma Circle was established in 1949. As an active organization in campus life, the ODK joined with Tassel, sponsored a leadership banquet and workshop in the fall, where leaders from all campus organizations had an opportunity to discuss and solve mutual problems and to get suggestions for improving their respective groups. Much of the credit for the success of this conference was due to the work of the ODK men.

Ken Stoneman tapped into ODK in front of ODK board in Student Center.
Alpha Chi Sigma

Tau Beta Pi, the national engineering honor society, was founded to mark those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in the school of engineering. The society also aims to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America. To be eligible, an undergraduate must be in the top eighth of the engineering class in his junior year or in the top fifth in his senior year. Careful consideration is also given to leadership, character, and initiative. On a national scale, the major tangible objective of the society is its Fellowship Program for graduate students.
Tassel, the university women’s honor society was accepted into Mortar Board, the national women’s honorary society. Mrs. John C. Lang (front row, far right) and Mrs. Carter C. Chinnis (second row, third from left) inducted the members of Tassel on campus and alumni members into Mortar Board in a ceremony on Sunday, May 15. Mrs. Tangberg (front row, center) is one of the founding mothers of Tassel.

Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest American honorary scholastic society, was founded at the University of Delaware in 1956. Every spring a faculty committee selects outstanding senior scholars for membership. This year, new members were given a banquet in the Morgan Room on April 29, followed by an initiation ceremony and a lecture.
STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

It is the purpose of the S.G.A. to contribute to the general education of the students by providing the opportunities for the experience of self-government and for the development of leadership and responsibility. It has one very important and continuous task: that is to represent the entire student body, whether dealing with the Administration, organizations on campus, or organizations that are not part of the university.

ROW 1: B. Collins, Advisor; J. Morris, Vice-President; J. Cordrey, President; J. Rebecca, Treasurer; D. Hardy, Advisor. ROW 2: J. Swartz, Chairman MEC; J. Hamill, Corresponding Secretary; P. Widdoes, Recording Secretary; K. Collins, Chairman WEC; G. Smith, President Student Center.
Typ Morris, Elections Committee: organizes and conducts the Freshman and SGA elections and establishes rules regarding nominations, campaigning and voting.

Graham Lowdon, Standards Committee: evaluates and establishes rules of dress and conduct.

Pete Gray and Norwood Bonney, Campus Chest Committee: organizes and conducts the annual charity drive in the spring.

Graham Lowdon, Standards Committee: evaluates and establishes rules of dress and conduct.

Jean Rebecca, Finance Committee: reviews requests for allocation, prepares the annual budget, involving approximately $30,000, and Formulates financial policy.

Jeanne Moore, Dining Hall Committee: acts as a liaison between students and the Dining Halls and works to maintain a high standard of food and service.

Susie Ries, Public Relations Committee: releases all Senate news for publication and is responsible for publicity of SGA.

Jane Anne Davis, Campaign Evaluation Committee: was established to evaluate current campaigning procedures and make recommendations concerning them to the Senate.

Marie Hanson and Ken Stoneman, Student Court Committee: is studying the possibilities of establishing a campus-wide, student-operated disciplinary system.
Our Student Center, the core of campus activity, is run by a Board of Directors and a Program Operating Council. The Board of Directors, composed of students, faculty and alumni, determines Student Center policy. The President of the Student Center, Gilbert Smith, six Operating Committee Chairmen, the Student Center Program Director and the Secretary comprise the Operating Council. This council coordinates the program and plans decided upon by the six Operating Committees: Finance, Research and Evaluation, Social, Recreation, Education and Cultural, and Public Relations.
STUDENT CENTER COMMITTEES

The Finance Committee and its chairman, Shelly Weinstein, received financial reports from all Operating Committees in order to establish the Center’s budget. This was then submitted to the board for approval. The Research and Evaluation Committee under the direction of Ken Stoneman examined Student Center programming and suggested new ideas and improvements which could make the Center more useful and efficient. The Social Committee, headed by Typ Morris, planned and conducted all dances and social events held in the Student Center. Vicki Donovan and her committee sponsored all recreational activities of the Center. Billiard and ping-pong tournaments, Snack Bar dances, and bridge sessions conducted by this committee gave meaning to leisure time throughout the year. Barbara Lamberton’s committee, Education and Culture, was responsible for bringing music, discussions, movies, and art to the Student Center. The job of the Public Relations Committee, directed by Barb Janney, was to publicize all Student Center events in order to keep the students and the community aware of campus activities. Through the combined efforts of these committees the Student Center is the hub of our campus life.
The co-ordinating body of women’s government is the Women’s Executive Council. The Council is composed of the heads of house, a commuter representative and a Tassel representative.

The major committees are the Women’s Coordinating Social Committee and Honor Court. A member represents the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students, to which the University of Delaware belongs.
Women's Coordinating Social Committee, a standing committee of Women's Executive Council, consists of the chairman, Carol Sinkinson; a representative from each women's dormitory or unit, and a representative of the commuters.

As the name implies, our purpose is to stress cooperation rather than competition. It is with this in mind that we sponsored such things as the Card Party-Fashion Show, the Christmas caroling, and other activities that allowed all women on campus to get together. WCSC also sponsored projects within the dormitories, chose the recipient of the A. B. Catts Award for the outstanding dormitory and planned the annual May Day dance.

Honor Court consists of Honor Court Chairman Adele Naylor, one honor committee chairman from each dorm, and a representative from the freshman class and the commuters. The Dean of Women, the Residence Hall Director and the chairman of WEC are ex-officio members.

The women students at Delaware have adopted the Honor System as their “way of life.” By working with the Residence Hall Director and the various officers of the dorm, the Honor Court strives to make each woman aware of her responsibility under such an Honor System.

The Court’s specific functions are to handle infractions of regulations and to improve the Honor System. To achieve these goals the Court has attempted to standardize disciplinary action for women students.
MEN'S EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

The Men’s Executive Council is a coordinating group which represents all men at the University of Delaware. Its function is to coordinate and supervise affairs between its components, the Men’s Residence Hall Association, the Interfraternity Council, and the Men’s Commuters. The Men’s Judiciary Board, a sub-committee of MEC, is the judicial body of the MEC. Its members are elected by the male students each spring. The MEC consists of a chairman, one fraternity representative from each class, one dormitory representative from each class, and one commuter representative. Mr. Robinson, Head Resident Advisor of men, is an ex-officio member.

INTER-HALL COUNCIL

The Inter-Hall Council is the executive and legislative body of the Men’s Residence Hall Association. This governing body consists of four elected members and the presidents of each of the men’s housing units on campus. The IHC’s main purpose is divested toward organizing, supervising, and assisting the residents of the men’s halls in any way possible. Committees have been established to encourage scholarship, cultural, social, and athletic activities. In its third year of operation, it now has an approved constitution and has established a judiciary board. Working closely with the administration, the IHC hopes to be a benefit both to the men residents and the campus as a whole, to encourage leadership, integrity, and courage.

BRITTINGHAM SCHOLARS

Pictured above are this year's Brittingham scholars together with members of the Brittingham family. The Brittingham scholarship program, which sends about 20 foreign students to the Universities of Delaware and Wisconsin every year, was begun by the late Thomas E. Brittingham Jr., a Wilmington financial consultant. Mr. Brittingham, who died this past April at the age of 61, has opened the doors to an American education to some 150 students during his life. Along with his wife and sons, Tom III and Baird, Mr. Brittingham chose the recipients and became the American family and parents to the foreign students during their sojourn in the United States. We at the U. of D. regret very much the passing of Mr. Brittingham, but we are glad to hear that the work which he began will be continued by his family.
REVIEW EDITORS

Nina Matheny, Managing Editor, was named the Outstanding Staff-Member of the Review. Nina has worked on the newspaper all four years of her college career.

Ellen Tantum, Associate Editor, and next-year’s Editor-in-Chief, types away at copy for a deadline while Ernie Levy, Sports Editor, dictates to her.
BLUE HEN

It is not an easy task to create a college yearbook. We all knew that when we started, and yet we gritted our teeth and each pitched in to make the book a success. If we managed to capture that part of Delaware life which means most to you, if we have given you a sounder basis for your memories of 1960, then we will consider that our goal was accomplished. Nothing grows out of date faster than an old yearbook. But we sincerely hope that as you, the Delawareans of 1960, '61, '62, '63, grow older, this yearbook, which by 2000 will be, like you, an antique, will bring back pleasant memories of youth and fun and learning and friendship. For the heritage of Revolutionary soldiers and Presbyterian college presidents will never be as much a living part of your "Delaware Heritage" as life at the University of Delaware in 1959-1960.

M. E. Stewart, photography editor, and C. Hoffecker, editor-in-chief, discuss the picture problem.
AWARDS TO . . . STUDENTS

William S. Breeton, a Political Science major, receives the Robert Barrie Ulin award as the outstanding senior in Political Science.

Outstanding Brittingham scholar, Carl Olaf Homen, a track star for Delaware, receives award from President Perkins as Dr. Steers and Mrs. Brittingham look on.
Lt. Colonel Gerald H. Ragsdale of the Military Department is commissioned as a full Colonel by his wife while President Perkins and Governor Boggs look on.

A representative of the Colgate-Palmolive Company presents a complex demonstration machine to the chemical engineering department. The machine has many transparent parts so that its operations may be easily observed.
A sharing of ideas and information between the schools of Home Economics and Agriculture results in the annual spring publication of the magazine Needle and Haystack.

The magazine is composed of articles written by the students of both schools; included in these are articles relating to the experimentation and activities of the individual schools, articles which show the important relationship between Home Ec. and Ag., and lighter features, such as cartoons and poems that characterize each school.

The members of the band march and play their way through an exhausting schedule every year. Beginning with band camp in early September the band practices and performs precision drills at university football games and adds to the spirit at pep fests and send-offs. After football season ends the band members give up marching and take to sitting and practicing more serious music for their annual concert in the spring. In keeping with their tradition of inviting a well-known soloist to accompany them in their concert, the band this year invited Mason Jones, first chair French horn player of the Philadelphia Orchestra. Mr. Jones is one of the best known horn players in the world and his performance of the Concerto in E Flat by Richard Strauss with the band was enjoyed greatly by all who attended the concert. Also in the spring the band toured through the state playing concerts in high schools and gave a joint pops concert with the choir on alumni day.
Every September the marching band goes to Camp Tochwoch for a week of rehearsal. Thanks to the practice gained at camp, the band is able to perform well its marching routines at football games from the first game to the last. It isn't all work, however, for the bandsmen. They enjoy bathing and canoeing in the afternoons and join with the choir for a last-night dance.
Mr. J. R. King, band director.
The University Concert Choir is a highly selected mixed chorus of sixty voices, under the direction of Dr. Ivan Trusler. The Choir presents annually four major concerts on campus, as well as many performances on tour. This year’s tours included a concert and demonstration of fine choral tone for the American Choral Conductors’ Association in Atlantic City, as well as performances in schools throughout the state.

Campus highlights of the Choir’s musical year, which began with four days of choral rehearsals at Camp Tochwogh on the Chesapeake Bay, were: the Schubert “Mass in G,” performed in November with a nine-piece string orchestra; the Bach “Magnificat in D” which, accompanied by a Baroque orchestra, was presented at the Christmas Concert; the Contemporary Festival, which this year brought Aaron Copland to the campus; and the Alumni Day Pops Concert, performed with the symphonic band. Each of the major works was performed on tour before the Mitchell Hall presentation.

The Madrigal Singers, a relatively small-sized group, form a nice contrast to the larger concert Choir. Led by their student director, Anne Tatnall, they often sing during choir concerts and sometimes do concerts on their own and on tour. Their repertoire includes 16th Century Madrigals and hymns.
WOMEN'S CHORUS

Women's Chorus is made up of 70 selected voices. The women performed several concerts featuring popular and religious music. In the fall they participated in the Choral festival held in Mitchell Hall. At Easter they gave a Lenten Concert of religious music, and in May they joined with the band and the other choral groups in a Pops Concert on the steps of the Library.

VARSITY CHORALE

Newly reorganized by its director, Dr. Ivan Trusler, the Varsity Chorale now has only sixteen members. This small size produces more freedom and greater blend in and between the voice parts. The group is accompanied by a music major, Mrs. Carole Mathes. Among the engagements scheduled for this year were: a concert for the Wilmington Soroptomists Club in December, the Farm and Home Show in February, the Lenten Concert, and a tour of Delaware high schools in the spring.
Like the Band, the Concert Choir goes to Camp Tochwog on the Chesapeake Bay for a week of rehearsal in early September. The Choir uses this time to get a head start in preparing for its heavy fall concert schedule. Here we see the Choir under the baton of Dr. Trusler singing in the camp mess hall.
Joining hands in native folk dancing, blending voices in national songs and sharing cultural aspects, political views, and customs—these are the aims of the Cosmopolitan Club.

This year, representatives from many parts of the world have added flavor to the twice-monthly meetings. Starting off with a panel discussion of dating customs in foreign lands, the club in subsequent meetings featured national programs—Greek night, South American night, Israeli night, and Scandinavian night; slides and films and seasonal parties.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

The highlight of the year was the Festival of Nations held April 29 in Mitchell Hall. Students of foreign birth and ancestry contributed music, song, and dancing to make a most educational and entertaining evening.

The University of Delaware Chapter of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, an affiliate of the national CCUN, is in its second year on campus. The purpose of this group is to further an understanding of the aims and accomplishments of the United Nations and to give students an opportunity to express their opinions concerning the work of the U.N.

At the monthly meetings, programs on international affairs are presented by speakers, panels, or group discussions. The Council also attends intercollegiate conferences in the Middle Atlantic Region.
The Wesley Foundation is a Methodist Student Organization which seeks to blend spiritual and intellectual growth by the sharing of Christian experience. Sunday morning coffee class, worship at the Newark church, fellowship supper, evening forums, parties and weekend retreats offer an opportunity for everyone to become a part of Wesley Foundation.

WESTMINSTER FOUNDATION

Westminster Foundation is the campus ministry of the Presbyterian church to students and faculty of Presbyterian, Reformed, and Congregational backgrounds. Its program is designed to help the University understand the claims of God and to apply the Christian faith to the problems of the modern world.

Regular activities include a weekly Tuesday evening lecture series, several weekday study groups, monthly Communion celebrations, an inner-city parish service project, and a mid-year public affairs seminar in New York or Washington.

The Foundation has its own building at 20 Orchard Road where the Presbyterian university pastor is available for counselling.
CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Every Wednesday evening in the Wesley Chapel, the Christian Science Organization holds testimonial meetings to promote spiritual growth. Led by Mr. Alfred T. Scarborough of First Church of Christ Scientist in Wilmington, the meetings include readings from the Bible, the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health, and testimonies of healing and gratitude.
HILLEL

The Hillel counselorship seeks to complete the campus life of the Jewish student by providing a versatile, organized program. The Hillel Room in the Academy Apartments furnishes a comfortable meeting place where the group gathers every Tuesday evening for cultural and social activities. Included in this year's program were breakfasts, discussions, card parties and movies.

INTER-VARSITY
CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

The Delaware Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is a member of a nation-wide interdenominational student organization of college and university chapters. The Christian's responsibility in world evangelism is one of the problems the group considers. During the school year Inter-Varsity has conducted Bible studies, organized a prayer cell, and invited several guest speakers to deal with subjects relevant to Christian life.

FRIENDS

Meetings of the Friends Fellowship not only unite the Quaker students in closer fellowship, but they also enable them to more fully understand the principles of Quakerism. Sunday and Tuesday evening discussion groups include guest speakers, informal study, and various social functions. Attendance by members and visitors of both the on and off campus meetings for worship is encouraged.
The purpose of the Newman Club, a campus organization for Roman Catholics, is to maintain the religious education of the students on a level comparable to their University studies, and to provide spiritual guidance and a Roman Catholic social environment. This year a program combining apologetics and dogma has been initiated.

The Chaplain or guest speaker addresses the members at weekly meetings. Questions concerning any phase of Catholicism are invited and fully discussed. The activities for the year are Communion Breakfasts, days of recollection, social functions, and the annual Christmas party for orphans.

The Lutheran Students Association which meets every Tuesday evening at 7 PM in the Student Center is under the capable leadership of President Dave Kaplan and Pastor Hughes of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Newark.

This student organization strives to bring the Lutheran students on campus to a closer understanding of the basic fundamentals of their religion and their relationship to modern life. This goal is accomplished through group discussions, slides, movies, and guest speakers.
A.I.C.H.E.

The objectives of the Delaware student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers are to promote the professional development of its members and to contribute to the development of Chemical Engineering in general through various activities. The monthly meetings feature a guest speaker from some field of technical endeavor. The speakers present, often with the help of visual aids, some of the problems encountered by engineers in the chemical industry. Field trips taken by the chapter members to various plants throughout the school year permit further insight into the machinations of the chemical industry.

ENGINEERING COUNCIL

The Engineering Council is a select group of representatives from the Engineering Societies and Tau Beta Pi. They coordinate events and matters of a non-technical nature on the student level. The council is affiliated with the Delaware Council of Engineering Societies, a professional organization. The publication of the "Delaware Engineer" and sponsoring of the Engineers' Ball completed the activities for the year.
The Phi Kappa Phi was founded at the University of Maine in 1897, and formed a Delaware chapter in 1905.

It is an honor society for scholars in a branch of academic endeavor. The Delaware Chapter holds a banquet for initiates every spring.

1959 Initiates

1960 Initiates
ASCE

This year the members of A.S.C.E. heard from speakers in various engineering fields. Also, field trips were taken to further link the chapter member to his future profession. In the spring, the '60 members were host to all other student chapters in the district for the annual student Chapter Convention.

AIEE-IRE

The A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. student branch provides for the electrical engineering student a means by which he may be exposed to current advancements in his rapidly progressing profession. The student branch offers a wealth of technical knowledge in the form of a library located in the computation room of DuPont Hall.
The Society for Advancement of Management is recognized as the national and professional organization for the betterment of management in industry, commerce, government, and education. It has pioneered in the philosophy of management relations, and is dedicated to the advancement of management and of management men when it was founded in 1912.

The American Chemical Society Student Affiliate Chapter is an organization composed of sophomore, junior, and senior chemistry and chemical engineering majors. The society provides in its monthly meetings an opportunity for the members to become better acquainted with the various aspects of their fields. In addition to guest speakers, the club also takes trips to local industrial plants.
SCABBARD AND BLADE

Scabbard and Blade is a national honorary society for college ROTC officers. Membership is based solely on merit. The primary purpose of the organization is to encourage those qualities of good conduct and citizenship which contribute to the making of worthy officers for the United States military establishments. It is the duty of these young men to foster student and faculty respect and interest in the military department of the university. Among their annual activities, the Scabbard and Blade's Military Ball is probably the most outstanding. But other less spectacular duties such as raising the flag every day contribute greatly to the realization of the organization's goals.
Creating enthusiasm and promoting greater interest in agriculture are the main objectives of the University’s Agricultural Club. It accomplishes this by having speakers from various fields of agriculture and through field trips and social events. The club also helps organize and conduct the FFA Field Day for all of the high school agriculture students in the state. One of the highlights of the year is the annual "Father and Son Banquet" held this year at the Newark Country Club.

AGRICULTURAL CLUB

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

The Young Republican Club of the University of Delaware is interested in promoting a better understanding of the political processes pertinent to the election of state, local and national offices.

Their goal is to provide the information necessary for the student to prepare himself as a more useful and better informed citizen. Some of the methods used for this purpose include discussion groups, political seminars, field trips to Washington, and participation in elections as well as conventions.

DEBATING CLUB

The forensic activities include intercollegiate debating and participation in student legislative congresses. Delaware debaters meet representatives from more than twenty different colleges and universities. The group is the sponsor of the inter-dorm, interfraternity debating tournament and an annual novice tournament which is held in the fall. Debating exists here on campus to serve those who are interested in debating and discussion.

ROW 1: J. Marmon, L. Walborn, S. Potter, D. Richards.
Les Amis de France has as its purpose the promotion of interest in the French people, their customs and language. The activities of the club, now in its fourth year of existence, include informal talks and slides by students or members of the faculty, a Christmas party for the foreign exchange students in the Wilmington area, and participation in the annual Festival of Nations. The highlight of the year is a French dinner prepared by members of the club.

LES AMIS de FRANCE

RUSSIAN CLUB

The purpose of the Russian Club is to increase awareness and understanding of Russia and the Soviet Union through study of its people and customs. Also, in the modern language field, it is intended to broaden perspectives in the study of the Russian language. In attaining these purposes, the Russian Club sponsors activities on campus and trips to events which pertain to its interests.
CAMERA CLUB

The Photography club has regular, scheduled meetings, but its members meet much more frequently in their well-equipped darkroom on the second floor of the Student Center. This year's activities included shooting pictures on assignment for the Review and the Blue Hen. The big event of the year was the Second Annual University-Wide Photography Contest and Exhibition, which hung in the Student Center in April.

The Delaware Student National Education Association is an organization of students preparing to teach. The purpose of the organization is to help students develop a more professional approach to their career. Activities of the group this year contributing to this growth have included: helping to set a state organization for the Future Teachers Clubs in Delaware; sponsoring a Girl Scout Troup; working with orphans; and participating in professional activities at the college, community, state, and national levels.

D.S.N.E.A.
Psi Chi

Psi Chi is a national honorary society in psychology. Qualification for membership is based on scholastic record and interest in psychology. The purpose of the organization is primarily to advance the science of psychology. It also tries to encourage, stimulate, and maintain the scholarship of members in all academic fields, but particularly in psychology. Psi Chi hopes to encourage research and to stimulate and maintain an active interest in psychology. In fulfilling these aims, Psi Chi works together with the university psychology club to obtain well known scholars to lecture and to plan field trips for their members.

Psychology Club

The purpose of the Psychology Club is to provide an opportunity for those who are interested in psychology to join together to participate in activities of common interest and to introduce and exchange ideas and viewpoints. During the course of the year as many interesting events were scheduled as possible. These included seminars with visiting lecturers, an explanation of the lie detector, a display of measures of individual differences, an educational demonstration on hypnotism and its clinical uses, field trips, and films.
The Home Economics Club plans activities that will broaden the members' knowledge and ability in their profession and in the community. Through their participation in projects and attendance at meetings, the club members become better acquainted with fellow students, faculty, and their field. The highlight of the year is the Ellen H. Richards Banquet which is held in the spring.

The University of Delaware 4-H Club is composed of students who are or have been 4-H'ers at home. The members work the year round to be of service to Delaware 4-H Clubs. They serve as camp counselors, work with programs for officer training, and assist the Extension Service whenever needed.

The Home Economics Senate is composed of eight elected students from all four classes, two elected faculty members and the Dean of the School of Home Economics. Problems are discussed and new ideas presented to this group for the purpose of strengthening the School of Home Economics. The most important project was the attempt to put the proposed academic honor system for the school into effect. Another important project of the Senate was the annual Parents' Tea which was held in the spring.
The Delaware Rifles Club is an organization of R.O.T.C. cadets who have formed a precision drill team. The purpose of the group is to promote proficiency in military matters, publicize the R.O.T.C. program and to help the cadets become leaders of tomorrow. The Delaware Rifles performs at the Military Ball, football games, and in parades. It also co-sponsors the Military Ball.

Selection for the Military group is voluntary, based upon the student's interest and ability. Merits are awarded to participants, raising their grade in the "Leadership, Drill, and Command" section of the course.

DELAWARE RIFLES

RIFLE TEAM

The Rifle Team at the University of Delaware is an affiliate club of the National Rifle Association in Washington, D.C. Its aim is the furtherance of safe rifle practices in all phases of firearms. Matches are held on the rifle range in the basement of Taylor Gym every Friday, against almost all colleges within a 500-mile radius. Shoulder-to-shoulder matches are held with the closer competitors in our league such as Penn State, University of Penn, Rutgers, Loyola, Johns Hopkins and Gettysburg. Few competitive sports hold the close feeling of brotherhood found in target riflery.
