ADVERTISEMENTS

In the following pages will be found the advertisements of those persons and companies who have, through their interest, made possible the publication of this Blue Hen.

In order that attention may be directed towards the advertisements, the reading matter has been continued through these pages. Delaware men everywhere are asked to show their appreciation of the 1919 Blue Hen by patronizing the business houses here represented.
Delaware College

FOUNDED IN 1833

Delaware College enters its eighty-seventh year with the greatest enrollment in its history. It is also completing its first half century as a State institution. With wealthy and influential friends coming to its assistance, with a loyal and devoted band of Alumni, its outlook is indeed bright.

The Arts and Science course has recently been greatly strengthened by a course in Business Administration and Finance under Dr. Homer Hoyt of the University of Chicago, who is both a lawyer and a business man, and a course in Teacher Training under Prof. W. A. Wilkinson, an educator of wide experience. Students in Arts and Science may obtain not only a broad liberal education but also preparation to fill responsible positions in the business world and in the teaching profession.

The courses in Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Chemical Engineering and in Marine Transportation are ably manned and well equipped to prepare young men for the work of reconstruction following the great war.

In the Agricultural Department students are fitted for practical farming and farm superintendencies and for taking positions in experiment stations. Some of our recent graduates are now filling professorships in agriculture.

For entrance to the college a four-year high school course or equivalent is required. Tuition free to Delawareans; to others, $50. For catalog and information write to

E. L. SMITH, Dean,
Newark, Delaware.

Our herd sires represent lines of breeding that are noted for type, size, and short and long-time milk and butter production. Their daughters are making excellent A. R. O. records in both the 7 and 365-day divisions.

We always have for sale from 10 to 30 bull calves that possess inherited individuality and size. These well-bred calves are priced at figures that will enable YOU to own one of them.

Heifers and milch cows with creditable A. R. O. records, are also for sale. These make good foundation stock for beginners.

Our herd is under Government supervision and is regularly tuberculin tested. When purchasing cattle, a careful buyer looks for this guarantee against tuberculosis.

We respectfully invite you and your friends to come and see our herd of Holsteins (325 females).
THE CENTER

There was a young center, a bright, cheerful lad,

New Idea in American Business

E. I. DU PONT DE NEMOURS & CO.,

is one of the oldest business institutions in America, having been established in 1802, and operated continuously for 117 years.

It is the best illustration of a new and important tendency in American business; i.e., the diversified industry, spreading the facilities, business experience, and organization of a successful business in one line over various other lines, more or less related to the original, but all identified by our well-known trade mark.

It is today America's most notable diversified chemical industry destined, we believe, to play an important part in the advancement of America and the reconstruction of the world.

It invites confidence and patronage on a basis of service and mutual advantage.

THE MATERIAL OF A MILLION USES

Vul-Cot Fibre has been called “the material of a million uses” because of the infinite number of purposes which it can be made to serve.

In many plants it is used as an insulator; in other places it is used wholly for mechanical parts; and in a large number of industries it is to be found in the product manufactured.

A noteworthy fact that should interest students, alumni and faculty of the Delaware State College is that this State is the world’s center for the manufacture of vulcanized fibre.

VUL-COT FIBRE

is a higher development of vulcanized cotton fibre—a hard, tough, horn-like material of great strength and durability.

It is insoluble in all ordinary solvents and is not injured by contact with water, oils or greases.

It takes a high polish.

Though hard, Vul-Cot Fibre is slightly resilient and will not crack, break or split in ordinary usage.

It wears long and uniformly.

Vul-Cot Fibre is readily machined. You can cut, thread, tap, drill, turn, stamp and emboss it.

The following properties emphasize the character of this wonderfully adaptable material:

- Tensile strength 9,000 to 14,000 lbs. per sq. in.
- Compressive strength 38,000 to 42,000 lbs. per sq. in.
- Shearing strength 9,000 to 13,000 lbs. per sq. in.
- Specific gravity 1.20 to 1.50.
- Electrical rupture, 150 to 400 V. per .001 per thickness.

Every engineer should make a point of familiarizing himself with the character and uses of Vul-Cot Fibre. Samples will be sent to you upon request.

Let your dentist prevent disease

If you should go to a dentist today, it is almost certain he would find something necessary to do for you.

If a dentist could examine the teeth of every person in a theatre tonight, he would find nearly everyone needing dentistry of some kind.

Nine people out of ten never go to a dentist until pain drives them.

They neglect their teeth because they do not understand the relation of good teeth to good health.

A neglected mouth breeds disease. People who have bad teeth cannot chew food properly. This leads to indigestion.

Indigestion, moving in a vicious circle through many ills, leads again to decay of the teeth.

A decaying tooth is a sick tooth. If it is not restored to health it breeds germs which carry disease throughout the system.

Neglected teeth hinder the growth of the child and undermine the health of the adult.

Do not wait for a toothache to send you to the dentist—let him prevent trouble. Go today.

Greetings To Old Delaware

In the opinion of THE EVENING JOURNAL there is no educational institution in Delaware that is more deserving of public encouragement and support than is Delaware College.

It gives us pleasure to contribute this space to the college annual and to bespeak for the institution the liveliest interest of a public that has so much of a moral and material nature at stake in the college.

It also affords us special pleasure to emphasize the fact that if Delaware College is to grow and prosper, the foundation for such growth and prosperity must be found in a fixed determination on the part of Delaware parents to send their sons to Newark to obtain their higher education.

It will continue to be the policy of THE EVENING JOURNAL to promote at all times in its editorial, news and sporting columns the very best interests of Old Delaware.

Sincerely,

The Evening Journal Publishing Company

Wilmington, Del.,
July 26, 1919.

AT THE HOP (DURING A FOX TROT)

He—“Haven’t I danced with you before?”
She—“Really I don’t know, but why not try it now?”
* * * *

Wow!

He—“How am I getting along?”
She—“Really you dance lighter on my feet than anyone I have danced with this evening.”

AFTER THE FRESHMAN BANQUET

’19—“I hear you were held up on your way home last night.”
’20—“Yes; that’s the only way I got home.”

HOW COULD YOU?

Prof. Hays—“One of the hens at the farm has just laid an egg eight inches in circumference and weighing five ounces. It’s truly remarkable.”
Harper—“There’s nothing remarkable in that, professor; it’s the only sensible thing she could have done with it.”

No more we’ll play the old back room,
No more the old brass rail;
From now on while we blush and choke,
We’ll stutter “Ginger Ale.”

NEWARK DOGS

And in that town “Dogs” are found,
And many dogs there be;
Both mongrel, puppy, whelp and hound
And curs of low degree.

Connie, Spot and Hector,
These three our favorites be;
But the rest of the dogs in that town
Are the curs of low degree.
