Rho Deuteron Chapter of the Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity Inc. was chartered March 22, 1947, but the history of the local goes back farther with the story of Sigma Tau Phi, a small national fraternity which merged with AEPi in 1947. The Sigma Tau Phi chapter at Delaware was one of the early fraternities on the campus.

Through the years Alpha Epsilon Pi has had an extremely wide assortment of members, from athletes to scholars and from agriculture members to South American revolutionists. No formal religious or ethical code is found in the requirements for brotherhood; and thanks to this, the wide diversification of individuals necessary to any truly fraternal organization has always been present at Rho Deuteron chapter, even though the number of brothers is comparatively small. This diversification in turn breeds an atmosphere of tolerance to new conceptual frontiers, thus filling an area vitally needed but too often ignored in a person's education.

On campus AEPi has always acted in the role of an "avant garde." AEPis have served as officers in the SGA, the IFC, the Review, and most other campus organizations. There are very few years in which any honorary is without an AEPi, and no yearbook within memory has not had a brother on the staff.

Recently a kitchen and dining facilities were added to the house, making AEPi one of the four Delaware fraternities with all living needs within the house. Also Mrs. Edith Semon, the new housemother, has done much to make life at the house more pleasant and homelike. The chapter house has indeed become a home away from home for the brothers.

Rho Deuteron Chapter is advised by Dr. William Markell of the School of Business and Economics. He deserves much of the credit for enabling AEPi to remain one of the leading fraternities on the University of Delaware campus.

Alpha Tau Omega was founded nationally in 1865 and is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year. It is one of the largest national college fraternities. Delaware Epsilon Rho became one of their chapters in 1948, and since its founding has played an ever-increasing role in campus life and activities.

The record of accomplishments for this past year is an impressive indication of the spirit and brotherhood of ATO. Beginning with a first place showing in Campus Chest, the chapter has gone on to take top honors in the Homecoming Float competition and first place in the IFC Playbill. The brotherhood was also awarded the Fraternity Spirit trophy. In intramural athletics ATO teams made good showings in all sports, capturing the first place among fraternities in cross country. In addition to these extracurricular activities, Epsilon Rho has consistently been well above the All-Men's scholastic index the past ten years.

The fraternity's interest in campus activities is exemplified by the great number of brothers holding positions of leadership. Chapter President, Jim Wright, is vice-president of IFC, president of ODK, and co-captain of the varsity soccer team; Tom Pratt is IFC Rush Chairman and chairman of the Cultural Committee of the Student Center Council; Jim Francis is president of the Engineering Council; Walt DelGiorno is vice-president of the Intramural Council; and Les Majoch is president of AICHe. Many brothers have also been initiated into campus honoraries and three brothers have been awarded teacher's assistantships in their respective fields: John Anderson (Chem. E.), Pat O'Shea (Psych.), and Jim Wright (Poli. Sci.).

An active social calendar also characterized the past year, with several events relating to the Centennial celebration, the Spring Weekend, and, of course, the many house parties.

Fraternal life at ATO instills in its members the values of friendship, cooperation, and brotherhood, as well as a sincere desire to excel in all aspects of life.

Chapter Delta Upsilon of Delta Tau Delta fraternity is a brotherhood of varied young men who have come together to form a spirited organization to benefit both themselves and the university. Now, as in the past, the Delts strive to enrich university life by achieving high academic standards, by participating in campus activities, and by providing a good environment for social functions.

The brothers are quite excited at the prospect of moving into our new house addition in the fall. It will give the Delts study rooms for twenty-eight additional men, a larger sleeping deck, and increased party facilities. In the near future a dining room will be added.

Shawna, the house mascot and celebrated member of the student body, has completed her second year with us and made us guardians of nine bouncing puppies of dubious paternity, which must be some sort of record!

Delta Tau Delta congratulates the Class of '66 and sincerely wishes it the best of luck.

The first fraternity on the University of Delaware campus, Beta Epsilon Chapter of Kappa Alpha Order was founded on April 19, 1904. Since that time it has maintained a primary position with regard to leadership, academic development, and a rich social life. KAs can be found as active participants in responsible positions throughout campus activities. KA engages vigorously in all phases of fraternity life with a balanced program that is felt to be second to none.

With the completion of the Order's centennial celebration, this year is one of special significance to KA. Through the strong support of our alumni chapter, the new addition to the Kastle has been completed, providing several new study rooms, kitchen facilities, a spacious dining hall, and living quarters for our fine House Mother, Mrs. Carter.

Although there is a full social schedule throughout the year, the brothers always anxiously await the Spring weekend. Old South Weekend, with its parade of uniformed "rebels" and its declaration of secession is certainly the most colorful social event at the university.

Congeniality and brotherhood are two of the most important aspects of fraternity life. When the brothers work together in building Homecoming decorations, or decorating the house for Christmas, or helping to elect another brother to an office, it is a very rewarding experience. Not only do such activities raise a fraternity's standing on campus, but they also present an opportunity for the brothers to draw closer together in the bonds of common interest. KA is convinced that its fraternal life and close brotherhood are unsurpassed by any other fraternity on the Delaware campus.

Lambda Chi's second year at Delaware was spectacularly highlighted by the acquisition of its picturesque house at 163 West Main, its installation as the Lambda-Beta Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha, and its tremendous Spring Weekend.

Lambda Chi Alpha continued to better the All-Fraternity index for the fourth consecutive semester. Also the brotherhood was in contention in intramurals such as football, basketball, softball, golf, track, and swimming. Other fraternity activities such as IFC Playbill and Campus Chest produced much praise and satisfaction for Lambda Chi.

Rushing remained the primary goal of Lambda Chi Alpha and both the fall and spring rushes were quite successful. The social program continued to improve because of strong leadership and the facilities offered by the new house. The house also received considerable attention with a complete renovation of the basement and completely new living room furnishings.

All in all it was truly a milestone in the lives of all, a year full of fond memories and proud accomplishments. Much credit is due to the faculty, alumni and officers. Mrs. Eva McCormick, Lambda Chi's housemother, deserves much appreciation for her service and contributions to all the brothers.

phi kappa tau

The Alpha Gamma Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau has been on the Delaware campus for 41 years. Founded in the Harter Hall dormitory in 1924, the chapter has outgrown five houses and is now residing in a newly completed complex at 720 Academy Street. A third recreation room has just been finished and plans for further expansion include dining facilities, quarters for a housemother, and additional study rooms for the growing brotherhood.

In the past years Phi Tau has maintained high scholastic and athletic achievement. Great emphasis is placed on enriching the university life of the brotherhood. The cultural program includes speakers from the university and surrounding areas and the social program further expands the fraternity life of the brotherhood.

Phi Kappa Tau holds a leading position in the fraternity system at Delaware. Men of Phi Tau hold offices in both IFC and Intramural Council. As a chapter of one of the largest national fraternities in the country, Phi Kappa Tau has reached a prominent position on the University of Delaware campus.

The Delta-Eta Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha began the school year with a new brotherhood. Only two returning brothers had been associated with PiKA for more than a year. Along with this turnover in membership came new ideas, new life, and new vigor. The brothers were determined to build PiKA's image, its membership, and its new house.

Almost immediately important strides toward these goals were taken. The chapter was completely reorganized internally. Two local ministers were initiated, and helped the fraternity immeasurably as alumni advisors. Calendars were distributed to the student body, and the brothers served as volunteers for the local multiple sclerosis drive. Many improvements were made on the house, and for the first time in years, the Pikes were active in the intramurals program. The chapter also brought one of PiKA's most famous alumni, Dr. Luther Terry, to speak on campus.

The brothers are proud of the accomplishments of this past year, but they are more concerned with what lies ahead. They are convinced that Pi Kappa Alpha is surging forward and can look for a bright future on the Delaware campus.

Sigma Phi Epsilon has long been one of the leading fraternities on the Delaware campus. Its members have the ability to excel in individual endeavors as well as the ability to pull together when the occasion presents itself. The house demonstrates particular athletic ability, and this year has every intention of retaining the Fraternity Intramural trophy which it now possesses. Campus activities, general social life, and scholarship are also integral parts of the spirit of "Sig Ep."

The men at Sig Ep are more than pleased with the acquisition of a very fine housemother. A desirable location, building, and dining facilities are but a few of the advantages of the fraternity. To be a part of Sigma Phi Epsilon is to be part of an organization drawn together by a common desire for high ideals and cemented with the spirit of brotherhood. And we've only had trouble with the local police once or twice!

The Alpha Xi Chapter of Theta Chi fraternity has played a significant role in all aspects of campus life since its founding on the Delaware campus in 1923. The brotherhood is proud of its continuing contribution towards the integration of the individual into both the academic and social facets of university life. The warm feeling of fraternal togetherness provides a stable base from which the brothers can extend their endeavors in a variety of directions.

Theta Chi provides a home for many of the outstanding athletes representing the University on its Varsity teams. In addition, a strong Intramural program provides a means for all the brothers to demonstrate their various skills. Our spirited presentation at the IFC Playbill was one of the many activities to which the brothers have made significant contributions.

The fraternity also provides a welcome relief from occasionally burdensome scholastic pursuits through its sponsorship of such widely acclaimed social events as the Bowery Ball, the Caveman Party, and the greatly anticipated Spring Weekend.

In this manner Theta Chi provides opportunities for its members to develop both socially and academically, and to enrich their potentials as good citizens and admirable individuals.
