FIBRE PLANTS ARE MERGED

Continental Corporation Has Purchased Plant of the Delaware Company

At noon Saturday a contract was signed for the sale of the plant of the Delaware Hard Fibre Company, at Marshallton, to the interests controlling the Continental-Diamond Fibre Corporation, which operates plants at Newark, Bridgeport, Pa., and elsewhere.

The new owners of the Marshallton plant will continue it in full operation, it was stated, and all the employees will be kept at work. The plant was valued at about $1,500,000 by C. G. Rupert, founder and secretary of the Marshallton plant.

The Delaware Hard Fibre Company was founded by Mr. Rupert, the president, in 1890. It first operated on Union street. In 1903 a new plant was constructed at Marshallton. Since that time the plant has expanded and been in continual operation, making fibre products used in industry. Mr. Rupert, who is 67, said he was in favor of selling it because of his advanced age, and desire to retire. He has been active in the business for 40 years.

Mrs. C. G. Rupert is president of the concern and William Rupert, their son, is the treasurer. Mr. Rupert said that he, Mrs. Rupert and their son intended retiring from the business when the plant was taken over. The Continental-Diamond Fibre Company, which will now operate the three plants, makes fibre and bakelite for commercial uses.

J. P. Wright of Newark is the president of the Continental-Diamond Fibre Company. The deal, Mr. Rupert said, had been in the process of negotiation for about a year. Mr. Wright and Mrs. Rupert closed the deal for their respective firms.

The plant of the Delaware Hard Fibre Company consists of several brick buildings, a large amount of mechanical equipment, and accessory equipment covering about three acres at Marshallton.

The Continental Fibre Company and the Diamond State Fibre Company early last year were merged into the new corporation known as the Continental-Diamond Fibre Corporation. Plants are operated by the corporation in France and England and there are several branch factories in the Middle West.

HIGHWAY DEATHS SHOW DECREASE

Two Persons Killed In January; Accidents Are Also Declining

A marked decrease in the number of automobile accidents; the number of persons killed and the number injured on State highways last month is indicated in the report of the State Highway Police made public this week. In the number of fatalities the decrease was 300 per cent less than in January, 1929. This is due, C. C. Reynolds, superintendent of the State Police, believes, to the care exercised by motorists during the icy and snowy conditions that prevailed in January.

The number of persons killed during January was two, as against six for the same period last year. The number of accidents was 52, as against 61, and the total number injured 39, as compared with 41. There was more property damage, the total being $9,809, as against $8,699.

Of the two fatalities, one was the result of a motor vehicle crash and one involved was a pedestrian. Last year's figures were three in motor vehicle accidents and three pedestrians. There were 33 slightly and two seriously injured in motor vehicle accidents, and three pedestrians slightly injured and two seriously.

There were 24 mishaps in dry weather and 28 in wet, as against 39 in dry and 22 in wet weather last year. Most of the accidents happened on straight roads, the total being 34, with 13 at intersections, one each at railroad crossings and street car crossings, and three at curves.

Weather conditions in January are indicated when the list of causes is compared. Skidding heads the list with 10; recklessness and inattention, eight each; five loss of control; four driving on wrong side of road; three cutting in; two jay walking; two each for failing to signal, bad breaks and (Continued on Page 4.)

Dr. A. C. Jost, Dover, executive secretary of the board, in making the announcement of the selection of Major Merriam, said that the board regretted its inability to select a Delaware physician for the office, but investigation showed that none of the Delaware applicants had as many qualifications and as much experience as possessed by Major Merriam.

Dr. Hurdle recently resigned to accept a position as county health officer in Wicomico county, Maryland. Major Merriam is at present connected with the U. S. Veterans' Hospital, Memphis, Tenn. He is a graduate of Emory University, Ga. During the years 1918 and 1919 he served with the United States Army forces and after that was engaged with the U. S. Board of Vocational Education.

INSPECTION SERVICE HAS INCREASED

Bureau Of Markets Reports Extension Of Service During Past Year

GROWERS INTERESTED

W. T. Derickson, Director of the Bureau of Markets of the State Board of Agriculture, reports that during the 1929 shipping season, 981 cars of perishable fruits and vegetables from Delaware were officially inspected and certified. This work is done jointly by the State Board of Agriculture and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A charge of $4.00 per car for inspection and certification was made and during the past season this service was self-supporting.

The 981 cars inspected included not only the cars shipped by rail, but also truck shipments and inspections made at cold storage warehouses. There were 622 cars of early apples, 151 cars of peaches, 2 cars of grapes, and 206 cars of late apples inspected. In addition to this, official inspection was provided on canning house tomatoes at one cannery. The operator of this cannery reports a great improvement in the quality of the tomatoes that he received. The growers took an active interest in bringing as good tomatoes as possible to the cannery and in some instances, 75 per cent of the load would grade U. S. No. 1.

Official shipping point inspection service has been provided in Delaware since 1923 and the number of cars inspected has increased each year. During the first year, only 51 cars were inspected and all of these were apples. Forty-two States are now cooperating with the U. S. Department of Agriculture in providing this service and during the year 1929, there were 229,199 cars inspected. These inspections are made by men who are trained and licensed by the Federal Government and the records prove that the inspections made are very thorough and very accurate.

Out of the total number of cars inspected throughout the United States last year, 229,199, the original inspection of only 140 cars was reversed. This means that there was only one reversal out of every 1,637 cars that were inspected. This is an exceptionally good record when it is considered that practically all of the inspections are made on perishable fruits and vegetables, the quality and condition of which is constantly changing.

Official State-Federal shipping point inspection service as provided in Delaware has proven to be of tremendous benefit to the growers and shippers in this State. It provides a standard by which a shipper may sell or the buyer may buy with complete confidence and understanding. It is not claimed that (Continued on Page 4.)

MAKE RULES FOR TESTING COWS

County Association Decides Important Questions At Meeting On Tuesday

Several questions of importance to the members of the New Castle Cow Testing Association were discussed and decided on Tuesday at a meeting in the County Agent's office of the Board of Directors of the Association. All members of the Board were present as follows: Paul Mitchell, Harold Little, Newark; George C. Burge, Middletown; J. R. Danks, Winterthur; and County Agent Ed Willim, Jr.

All of the matters discussed had been referred to the directors at a membership meeting held on January 27 at the farm of Mr. John Govates of Hares Corner. Among the matters decided on were the need of a re-test or check test when a cow produces over two and one-half pounds of butterfat per day for a month; method of figuring herd yearly averages; and the manner in which the herds will be compared at the end of the year to decide the profit over cost of feed for the season.

Members of the Board decided that if a man wanted a re-test or check test on any cow in his herd producing over two and one-half pounds daily, he could have this re-test made at his expense. The directors thought that this would take care of such a situation should it ever arise again. Only one cow in the association during the past year has made over 75 lbs. of fat during one month.

After considerable discussion the Board decided to follow the method advocated by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America in reference to the way in which the average number of cows in the herd for the year should be figured. This plan is as follows: Each cow of milking age in the herd throughout the year counts for 365 days regardless of the number of days in milk, or even if not producing any milk during the year. Heifers freshening for the first time during the year are charged against the herd from the date of freshening to the close of the year, and the same plan is followed with cows purchased during the year. Similarly, cows which are removed from the herd because of sale, death, etc., are charged against the herd for the actual number of days during which they were members. This total number is divided by 365, giving the average number of cows in the herd during the year.

A flat rate value of .93 per pound of butterfat is to be used in comparing the profit over cost of feed for the herds in the association at the end of the year. This was fixed after the members of the Board had discussed whether to use the prevailing prices of "B" milk or that of "A" milk less certain fat differentials.

The need of new testing equipment and supplies for the association during 1930 were mentioned and the County Agent was instructed to secure such supplies as was needed.

Ninety-seven Per Cent Subnormal

A Detroit judge recently got a psychiatric clinic to examine 100 criminals who appeared before him. Before passing sentence he wanted to know what kinds of minds the prisoners might have. The psychiatrists' report was illuminating. Two of the prisoners, they found, were definitely insane. Thirty-seven had "deviations feeble-minded." Twenty-five more were "of inferior intelligence." Thirty-seven more had "deviations in personality" that handicapped them severely in the matter of adjusting themselves to society's demands. Just three were mentally and emotionally normal. Summing up, the psychiatrists reported that 71 of the prisoners were "poor community risks," and urged that the two insane persons be sent to asylums and the other 69 be imprisoned. Fifteen of the remaining prisoners, they said, "were reasonably good community risks"; that is, they were near enough to a normal state so that society could take a chance on them. The judge accordingly put these 15 on probation. Twelve more were put in the doubtful class; of these, the judge imprisoned some and paroled others at his own discretion. When he pronounced sentence, the judge ordered the psychiatrists' report sent to prison along with each prisoner. In his handling of these cases this judge displayed considerable wisdom. He was able, that is, to appreciate a fact that our penological system usually overlooks; that there is no sense in assuming that codes and punishments designed for normal men will necessarily have any effect on the criminal. The criminal is not always a criminal because he is wilfully bad; more often he goes into crime because there is something wrong with him. We shall never handle our crime situation intelligently until we recognize this fact. We are still so everlastingly afraid of "coddling criminals" that we hesitate to use, even ordinary horse sense in our dealings with them. This Detroit judge has indicated the line we shall have to follow if we are to get decent results. But the problem is far from simple. The biggest obstacle, probably, is the fact that the psychiatrist does not, as yet, enjoy public confidence to the extent that the ordinary surgeon does. There is a wide suspicion that our alienists do not know quite as much as they think they know. The spectacle that we frequently get in murder trials, when half a dozen distinguished scientists will declare that a man is sane while another half dozen, equally distinguished, insist that he is insane, contributes to this suspicion. The study of abnormal psychology is still in its infancy. Even now, however, it could give us valuable assistance if we choose to use it. The findings in Detroit show how badly we need it.

Aviation Sets New Record

Despite accidents, commercial aviation continues to gain. A report from the Aeronautical Chambers of Commerce of America, Inc., shows that miles flown by the 27 major air transport companies in the United States reached a total of over 20,000,000 in 1929—double the 1928 total. Furthermore, the number of passengers carried on these lines tripled, the figures for 1929 being 165,263 as compared with 52,934 in 1928. In air mail, likewise, there was an amazing gain, more than 7,000,000 pounds being carried last year—twice the amount carried in 1928. All in all, American aircraft flew nearly 200,000,000 miles during the year, and three-fourths of this mileage was run by commercial planes. Commercial aviation is definitely establishing itself. These figures indicate that the industry is quickly passing the fledgling stage.

Five Hundred Thousand More Automobiles

John N. Willis, automobile manufacturer, tells President Hoover that the American automobile industry will produce 500,000 more automobiles this year than it produced last year. If he is correct, doubts about the nation's quick resumption of a busy and prosperous business condition ought to come to an end at once. The automobile trade seems to be a barometer of business conditions for the whole nation; when it thrives business everywhere thrives, and when it slumps the effects are widespread. A word of caution might be in order, however. An automobile output of the size predicted by Mr. Willis might come perilously close to the edge of serious over-production—which, in turn, might bring on a catastrophic slump for 1931.

Will Bring Them Back

Probably it is a little bit early to be harboring any very extensive fears over the fate of Admiral Byrd's party. Their situation is not exactly rosy, to be sure; but efforts to relieve them have already been set in motion, and the radio will keep the world posted as to their condition. In addition, Byrd's New York representatives say that reports of a food shortage have been considerably exaggerated. Most important of all, however, is the fact that the party has Byrd himself. If any man can bring a group through a trying situation in the Antarctic, Byrd is the man. We have a strong hunch that this likable and capable naval officer will bring his men back with flying colors.

The Episcopal Conference

Newark has been signally honored by the Commission on Religious Education of the Protestant Episcopal Church when that organization will hold their annual meeting here next week. It is seldom that a town of the size of Newark is favored with the visit of this distinguished gathering, and it was only through the untiring efforts of Dr. R. B. Mathews, Rector of St. Thomas' Church, that Newark was selected for this meeting. We extend the hand of fellowship and greeting to our distinguished guests and trust that their stay within our midst may be a pleasant one.

BOUNDARY HEARING PLANS STILL "IN AIR"

No definite arrangements have yet been made for the holding of hearings in the boundary dispute between Delaware and New Jersey, Attorney-General Reuben Satterthwaite, Jr., said last week.

William L. Rawls, attorney of Baltimore, is special master in the dispute, by appointment of the U. S. Supreme Court.

J. Van Tyne, connected with the Attorney-General's office in New Jersey, was in Wilmington last week looking over records in the Court House which have a bearing on the dispute.

The boundary of the two states in the Delaware River and Delaware Bay is involved. Ownership of 30,000 acres of seed-oyster beds in the bay hinges upon the outcome of the dispute.

Mr. Rawls will hear all testimony and argument and submit his findings to the Supreme Court.

SANATORIUM IS LACKING FUNDS

Brandywine Institution Is Handicapped In Fighting
Tuberculosis

The work of the Brandywine Sanatorium, at Faulkland, near Brandywine Springs, the most important institution in Delaware for combating tuberculosis, is hampered by the lack of sufficient funds, it was learned this week. Dr. R. E. Ellegood, one of the commissioners of the institution, said that at the last session of the Legislature about $40,000 was allowed for the maintenance of the institution until the session of the Legislature in 1931. At that time there were about 35 patients in the institution. Now the number has increased to 55. With the increase of the number of patients, the funds have proved insufficient.

Dr. L. D. Phillips, superintendent of the institution corroborated Dr. Ellegood's statement. It was said that due to the lack of funds, a waiting list had to be formed, and that no further tubercular patients could be taken into the hospital at the present time. It was stated by Dr. Ellegood that there should be provisions for at least 75 patients at the institution, in accordance with the present demand for care of tubercular cases in Delaware.

The funds appropriated at the last session of the Legislature were sufficient at the time, but since then, one year ago, the number of patients has increased and now there is a waiting list, where there was none in 1929.

It was pointed out that the sale of the stamps which has been carried on in the city and State is for the purpose of raising money for the prevention of tuberculosis, but the Brandywine Sanatorium is the only organization which has been organized solely for the purpose of combating the disease by caring for patients affected.

The organization now includes a large sanatorium, a hospital, and a nurses' home near Brandywine Springs. At Edgewood there is a smaller institution where the colored patients are cared for. There are about 15 colored patients, and Dr. Phillips said that the funds for their use were sufficient.

The staff at Faulkland, headed by Dr. Phillips, includes seven nurses, and 14 men and women for general help. The institution is not assisted by any subscriptions or private donations and is a State institution, supported entirely by appropriation. The work is now being handicapped by the steady increase of tubercular patients that need attention in such an institution.

The commissioners of the organization are Dr. Ellegood, Dr. Margaret Handy, Mrs. Frank Tallman, Mr. Charles Warner, all of Wilmington; Dr. Pierce of Milford, Dr. W. P. Orr of Lewes, and Dr. Brewington of Selbyville.

operator confused. One mishap was charged against a drunken driver, failing to stop before entering a main highway, passing without proper clearance, drunken pedestrian, and no lights on wagon.

Passenger cars were involved in 65 accidents; commercial cars 15; omnibuses, two and wagon, one. There were 48 mishaps on State highways, seven on county highways, and one each in towns and at railroad crossings and street car crossings. There were 26 mishaps each in daylight and darkness.

Friday was the safest day of the seven to drive with only five accidents, and Tuesday was the most dangerous, with 11. This is a condition contrary to conditions in the summer time when Wednesday has always been the safest day to drive, and Saturday and Sunday the most dangerous.

Mishaps on clear days heads the list with 34, fourteen in fog, two in the rain, and one each on snowy and cloudy days.

There were 31 accidents caused by collisions; four non-collision accidents, seven collisions with fixed objects, five collisions with pedestrians, three collisions with street cars, and one each with horse drawn vehicle and train. The most dangerous hours of the day for driving during January were from 8 to 9 p. m. and from 6 to 7 p. m. There were five women and 78 men involved in accidents as compared with one woman and 88 men last year. There were 61 mishaps in which motorists from 25 to 54 years were involved; 16 from 18 to 34 years; two 55 years and over, and three under 18 years.

ISSUE WARNING ABOUT RABIES

Dr. Jost States Disease Can Prevail At This Season
Of The Year

Because of several outbreaks of rabies among dogs this winter, Dr. Arthur C. Jost, executive secretary of the State Board of Health, has this past week issued a special warning to all citizens of Delaware concerning rabies. Years ago the only time that dogs were supposed to go mad was during "dog days" in August.

A rabid canine in cold weather was something unheard of, unthought of. But conditions have changed, and because a dog may become infected with rabies in the summer and not develop the disease for six or eight months, makes the winter time just as dangerous a period as the warm, humid days of summer. In speaking of the disease and what to do with both the person who may be bitten and the dog, Dr. Jost said:

"Rabies is an extremely fatal disease of lower animals. It is usually found in dogs, but other animals, cats, horses, cattle, etc., may be infected by it. It is conveyed from one animal to another usually as a result of biting, the virus or poison being in the saliva of the biting animal. In this way it is usually conveyed to man.

"No disease is or can be more serious. It is doubtful if a recovery after the disease has fully developed has ever occurred. The brain is the organ involved, and death results in every instance. Paralysis is very frequent in some stage of the disease, and may come on early.

"It is spread by the virus or poison being transmitted from one animal to another, or to man in the saliva which is carried into a wound in the act of biting. Bites on the face are usually more serious, and the disease usually appears sooner after than it does when the bite is on some portion of the body farther removed from the brain. Even if the infected animal does not bite, its saliva, if the skin of the hands is broken by a scratch, may infect. This explains why cleansing and disinfection of the yard and kennels are necessary after the death or removal of a rabid dog.

"Weeks, even months, may elapse between the time of the infection of the dog or the human subject without it being possible by any means at our disposal of knowing whether the infection has been transferred or not. The usual time without symptoms is about twenty to forty days, but it may be any time up to a year. On this account, the disease is one extremely difficult to eradicate from any district, since so long a time must elapse before one can feel sure that the disease has not been contracted. This is the reason why a lengthy quarantine is necessary.

"Among dogs, there are at least two well marked forms of the disease. In one form the dog appears to be morose and cross, and will bite or attack persons or other animals wantonly. In the other, it may be paralyzed more early in the disease (dumb rabies), this paralysis affecting the throat, so that persons think the dog has a bone in its throat. Human infection has followed attempts made to relieve a dog showing such symptoms, the saliva getting on the hands and being absorbed where the skin has been broken by injuries or scratches.

"In case one is bitten, consult a physician at once. He may cauterize the injury if he thinks it advisable, but he will immediately place the patient under the treatment which may prevent the disease from developing. This is the Pasteur treatment, and consists of injections given in a two or three weeks course of treatment. Usually the results of this treatment are such as will prevent the onset of the disease from that infection. Its effects wear off, however, so that, if infection occurs again, after some months, a second treatment is necessary."

WORKHOUSE IS AGAIN PRAISED

Baltimore Newspaper Man
Compares Delaware Prison
With Other Institutions

"Delaware seems now to have the only outstanding example of a prison having the real inmate community organization, and that, by the way, is not of the Osborne type," James M. Hepburn writes in the magazine section of the Baltimore Sun in part of an article concerning recent penitentiary riots in the light of the Osborne system.

Mr. Hepburn writes further:

"But the Delaware system of inmate co-operation and management which has carried convict responsibility to a degree attempted nowhere else in the United States, deserves some comment. Neither of the two warden under whom the present system has prevailed has had previous prison experience. The originator of the scheme had been a postoffice inspector. He took counsel with some of the old offenders who had been in many prisons of the country and worked out an organization which included inmates, guards and an honor court composed of eight prisoners. This court makes the rules and offenders are given a hearing by court. Three of the eight members are judges, two act as defenders, one as prosecutor, another as clerk and the other ascrier and bailiff.

"In this Delaware institution, containing more than 400 prisoners, two regular and seven inmate guards patrol the prison. Escapes have actually decreased. During the year prior to the inauguration of the inmate organization there were 20 escapes. This dropped to eight the following year and has never since been above five and often as low as one a year. Up to the middle of 1928 (last available figures) there had been no escapes.

"Inmate foremen manage the shops and industries. Under the foremen are the committeemen. Each prison department is operated as a separate unit. Men are selected for promotion in the shops by this smaller group as they prove their ability. No privilege is gained and no promotion is secured except through work. In other words, a man gets only what he earns. It was admitted by the warden that general elections proved unsatisfactory.

"Success thus far in Delaware has been due in a large measure to the unusual abilities of the two wardens, and also to the fact that inmate control fell to a small competent group, since the great percentage of prisoners are Negroes of a very low mental order. How long Delaware will run along without any serious trouble or outbreaks remains to be seen. By the experience of all other prisons which have tried and abandoned this idea in one form or another it would appear that the odds were against them in Delaware."

NEW FIVE-CENT AIR MAIL STAMP NOW

A new 5-cent air mail stamp has been issued by the Post Office Department to replace the current bicolored stamp, issue of 1928.

The new stamp is the same shape and size as the current, 10, 15, and 20 cent airmail stamps and is printed in purple. The central design is a reproduction of the insignia of an air mail pilot, a globe with extended wings on either side, with a background of rays of light. Upon the globe are the words "U. S. Air Mail." In a horizontal panel across the top of the stamp are the words "United States Postage" in white Roman letters and at the bottom is an ornate panel with the word "Cents." The white numeral "5" appears within circles in both lower corners.

The new air mail stamp was first placed on sale at Washington, last Monday.

such shipping point inspection will entirely eliminate the rejections to the minimum, not only because of the fact that it eliminates misunderstanding between buyer and seller regarding grade, but also because of the fact that there is considerable hesitation on the part of any receiver to reject a car of fruit or vegetables which have been officially inspected by a disinterested agency, and which the shippers can prove was according to specifications.

Buyers are willing and can afford to pay a premium for fruits or vegetables that have been carefully graded and inspected because they know exactly what they are buying; whereas, if they buy a car of fruit or vegetables which has not been graded or certified, the quality may be either very good or very bad and there is usually a tendency on the part of the buyer to pay the lowest possible price in order to be protected against any poor quality which may be in the packages. Receivers in the terminal markets advise that it is easier for them to sell fruits or produce that have been inspected than it is for them to sell products that have not been inspected and consumers, generally, are entirely willing to pay a premium for a package of fruit which they know contain a certain quality rather than to pay a cheaper price for ungraded products.

Official Federal-State shipping point inspection also has a tendency to stabilize the price and while there may be some difference between one packer's "U. S. No. 1" quality and another packer's because of the fact that one packer may intentionally pack "on the line"; whereas, the other may try to get his pack exceptionally good, yet grading and inspection does help to stabilize prices at shipping point and whether the producer be large or small, when he delivers a load of graded produce to the shipping point he is practically sure of getting a price in accordance therewith. This also encourages the production of high quality fruits and vegetables.

Many shippers of cantaloupes and strawberries have consulted Mr. Jackson regarding this shipping point inspection service, and it is probable that these two commodities will be inspected this season.

U. OF D. ALUMNI TO DINE FEBRUARY 22

Governor C. Douglass Buck, Senator Daniel O. Hastings and W. S. Ford, of the Charles Warner Company, Philadelphia, will be the principal speakers at the semi-annual banquet of the Alumni Association of the University of Delaware to be held at the Hotel du Pont-Biltmore, on February 22.

Senator John G. Townsend, Jr., and Congressman Robert G. Houston are also expected to be present. Free indications the banquet promises to be one of the most popular and largest given yet by the Alumni Association. A large attendance is expected. Final preparations are being made by Harry G. Lawson, secretary of the organization, and the committee arrangements which consists of Rankin Davis, Albin P. Shaw, Deputy Judge William Broughall, J. E. Murphy, and Theodore Collins.

Diamond State Company Had Increase Of 2,266 During Past Year

The Diamond State Telephone Company at the beginning of 1930 had 32,097 telephones in operation. This represents a net increase of 2,266 telephones over January 1, 1929, according to the company's annual report made public this week by Leonard H. Kinnard, president.

During last year, the Diamond State Company's investment in telephone plant and equipment increased from $6,482,025 to $7,459,403. At the end of 1929, the investment in land and buildings was $795,808.

During 1929, a total of 27,125 miles of wire was added to the company's plant, and at the end of the year 92 per cent of the exchange wire and 83 per cent of the toll wire were in cables. Of the total amount of wire in cables, 81 per cent of the exchange wire and 92 per cent of the toll wire were underground.

"Your company," the report states, "is committed to a policy of replacing open wire with cables as rapidly as it can economically be done. Telephone cables, consisting of many wires covered with heavy lead sheathing, are comparatively storm-proof and trouble-free."

The average daily volume of local telephone calls in 1929 was 168,522, an increase of 12,406 over 1928. The volume of toll, or out-of-town, calls continued its upward trend, the daily average for last year being 6,451 calls, an increase of 11 per cent over 1928. In addition, there were, during the year, 189,555 long distance calls to points outside of Delaware.

In this connection, the report to the stockholders says: "The continued improvement in the handling of out-of-town calls, both in speed and convenience, the further improvements in transmission, and the reduction in rates all contributed to this result."

The income statement shows that telephone operating revenues for the year were $1,850,305. After operating expenses, taxes, interest and other necessary deductions were made, the balance of net income available for dividends was $297,099.

The total assets at the end of the year, as set forth in the balance sheet, were $7,887,684.

Among the liabilities are listed $2,500,000 in common stock and $500,000 in preferred stock.

In addition to the 32,097 telephones operated by the Diamond State Company, 522 telephones owned by mutual associations were connected to the Diamond State Company at the end of 1929. Thus, on December 31, 1929, there were 32,619 telephones in Delaware available for complete Bell System service.

The report points out that ship-to-shore telephone service was inaugurated last December 8 between the steamship Leviathan, while on the high seas, and any telephone in the Bell System, and adds that it is expected this service will be extended to other ships.

"Particular stress was placed on an even greater accuracy and courtesy in the handling of calls," the report declares. "Improvements in the equipment and technique and the loyalty and interested co-operation of the entire personnel contributed to the service improvement."

MANY NEGLECT CARE OF THEIR AUTOMOBILES

A check-up of motor vehicle equipment, particularly headlights, is urged by the Delaware Automobile Association which asserts that the beneficial effects of the inspection last year are wearing off and that many motorists are neglecting to keep their safety appliances in proper condition.

"Reds" Kenton, manager of the Road Service Department of the association, pointed out this week that hundreds of glaring headlights are to be seen on the highways.

"This," he said, "is to be expected with motorists depending upon one inspection to keep their lights in focus. Many car owners don't seem to appreciate that headlights can be kept in proper adjustment only through frequent checking. 'Check and double check,' now a popular phrase throughout the United States, might with great profit to motorists be put to practical use in relation to automobile headlights.

"We are urging this attention as a matter of personal precaution. Another reason is the announced intention of the State highway police to undertake a vigorous campaign to enforce the headlight provision of the vehicle code. 'One-eyed' cars will be particular targets for highway patrolmen, and no excuses will be acceptable. Superintendent Reynolds takes the position that extra bulbs should be carried in every car and installed as soon as a light fails."

PROFESSOR COMPLETES WORK FOR HIS DEGREE

Professor J. Fenton Daugherty, a member of the faculty of the University of Delaware, has completed the work necessary for securing the degree of doctor of philosophy in physics, which will be conferred on him at the University of North Carolina in June.

Professor Daugherty who joined the University faculty last September, graduated from Dickinson College in 1921 where he received his A. B. degree. From 1921 to 1926 he was an instructor in physics at the University of North Carolina and from 1926 to 1929 he was a member of the faculty of the University of the South, at Sewanee, Tenn.

DELAWARE FIVE DEFEATS DREXEL

Blue And Gold Has Thrilling Finish For Season's First Victory

Delaware basketball team broke its losing streak Tuesday night by defeating Drexel in a sensational game, 22 to 20. The Blue and Gold had not won a game this season and had lost five straight.

The contest Tuesday night was one of the most exciting ever seen on the floor and it was only in the last seconds that Delaware won out. Lecarpentier, who had been substituted for Orth only a few minutes before, for the only substitution Delaware, shot the field goal that won the game by two points. Before ball could be placed in play again, the whistle blew ending the battle.

NEWARK TAKES D. I. A. A. DOUBLE

Newark High School basketball teams took two D. I. A. A. games last Friday night when they defeated Delaware City on the Commodore MacDonough School floor at St. Georges. The Newark girls won 21 to 16 and the boys 33 to 23.

The first half of the boys' game ended 11 to 10 in favor of Newark. They were able to substantially increase this lead in the second half. Delaware City was handicapped by the absence through illness and scholastic difficulties of several players.

Ellis at center starred for Delaware City. Gibbons also played well. Pi and Whiteman were the stars for Newark.

Yearsley scored fifteen points for Delaware City in the girls' game and was the individual star. A large crowd attended. Scores:

FEDERAL CHECK OF STATE HEALTH DATA

Assistant Surgeon General Williams, of the United States Public Health Service, will go to Dover on February 25 to confer with officials of the State Board of Health concerning the placing of the State of Delaware in the United States morbidity area.

EXPLAINS PLAN FOR EDUCATION

Advantages Of Modern Methods Discussed by Dr. Burton P. Fowler

A most enlightening exposition of the modern trend in educational methods was given by Dr. Burton P. Fowler, headmaster of Tower Hill School, in an address before the Men's Lutheran Society of Delaware, Tuesday night, in Zion Lutheran Church, Wilmington.

Dr. Fowler emphasized the advantage of drilling boys and girls in the ways of everyday life in its application not only to the demands of business, but also to conform to the home and the social order of things. Former customs long ago proved useless, in that in many particulars they were wrong in principle, produced no lasting results and stressed things that were of no ultimate value, thereby contributing to waste and utilizing time and energy which, under advanced methods, are being profitably employed.

The modern idea, it was pointed out, is to impress students with the importance of being able to shoulder responsibility; to think for themselves; to study and work out their problems from an angle of interest and a genuine desire to learn all there is to be learned. Individual effort, creative tendencies, the evolving of original methods of approaching whatever the task in hand may be, are encouraged. In addition to the individual effort now being fostered there is group effort, of course, with the groups planning and directing their own work under the guidance of their instructors.

The aim is to interest the boys and girls in the life of the community, its civic and governmental requirements and responsibilities, and how they are handled; likewise State, national and international affairs. Neglect in this particular heretofore has partly explained the lack of interest so many persons have in the management of public affairs.

Then there is parent education, a new idea, through which parents are instructed in the proper method of rearing children. It is very necessary, incidentally, if real results are to be achieved, to have sympathetic co-operation between the home and the school. The home should encourage self reliance in the children to the same extent that it is encouraged in school. The parents should interest themselves in what the children are doing in school, otherwise there may be a conflict of direction that will prove anything but helpful or inspiring.

The marked difference between obsolete and modern educational methods, which were contrasted by Dr. Fowler, gave convincing proof of the wisdom of the change and also suggested the advisability of occasional readjustments in order to fit in with the constantly changing order of things. The address made a profound impression upon Dr. Fowler's audience, which was most appreciative and attentive.

STATE BOARD LISTS BREEDING FLOCKS

Professor H. R. Baker, poultry pathologist under the State Board of Agriculture, reports that the official list of Delaware hatcheries and breeding flocks under the supervision of the State board has now been printed and is ready for distribution.

Flocks which are called for vigor and egg production are known as "supervised flocks." Supervised flocks are blood tested for pullorum disease, bacillary white diarrhoea and the reactors removed are classified as supervised, tested flocks. Flocks which fulfill all the requirements of supervised-tested flocks and are mated to wing banded pedigreed males, whose dams laid 200 or more eggs in one year in trap nests, are known as certified-tested flocks.

Questionnaire?
You now are accorded the opportunity to express your opinion on this law. You are urged to take advantage of your constitutional right and return the questionnaire promptly whether the answer be "Yes" or "No."
If the Klair law were repealed the National Volstead law and the Loose local option law would still be in effect in Delaware.
Both of these laws, however, make provision for the use of medicinal liquors.

Legal Notice

JR. O. U. A. M.

The members of the American Flag Council, No. 28, Jr. O. U. A. M. are pulling hard with Council "Red Top" Marine. About 35 members rallied with him last Monday evening. Instructions and credentials were given Brothers Hall, Dempsey and Smythe for the State Council session held in Smyrna last Tuesday.

On Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Council will attend in a body church services at Salem Church. At this service they will present an American Flag to the church.

Next Monday evening our three delegates will give a complete detailed report of the State Council session.

Great interest is being shown in our baseball games being played before and after sessions. Durnall, the Irishman, being wild at critical stages, McFarlin, the Scotchman, very wicked eye, Red Top Marine surprise home run hitter, Henry Mote hits home runs whenever needed. Smiling Bill Merriek always with a hit. Shorty Duhadway always good. Carey with his pipe could not hit, always depend on Virginia Kennedy, Hall a little off at times, Aikens could not straighten out, Ewell and Wilson always with a hit or home run. Trice was at his best, Todd at times very dangerous.
Scores of 3 games were so close we had to go extra innings, ending in friendly disputes which side won.
Here is hoping for a large number of fans next Monday night.

DAIRY MAIDS

Deputy Viola F. Ewing and her staff visited Wynema Craft No. 10½, Dairy Maids, last Thursday night, and on Tuesday night, Lamokin Craft, No.
44½, to install the officers for the ensuing term.

Deputy Ewing presented each officer of both Crafts with a gift, a miniature replica of the articles used in a dairy.
Deputy Ewing and her staff were commended on the manner in which the work was performed.

selection of the new name in the Name Contest which comes to a close this week. Manager Benjamin Shindler has appointed his assistant, G.
Park Weaver, to meet with the committee as the representative of the theatre.

Suggestions are still pouring in from all directions. The two that came the longest distance were received from New York City and were sent by two former residents of this section. Replies have been received from twenty-four towns in Delaware, as well as Denton, Earlville, Federalburg,
Greensboro, Goldsboro, Henderson,
Hillsboro, Ridgely and Queen Anne, Maryland; Darby, Philadelphia and Willow Grove, Pennsylvania; Strasburg, Virginia. The Delaware communities represented include Camden,

Ellendale, Felton, Frankford, Georgetown, Harrington, Hartly, Houston, Kenton, Laurel, Leipsie, Little Creek, Magnolia, Middletown, Milford, Rebo-both, Smyrna, Taylor's Bridge, and Wyoming.

The Name Contest, which started Monday, February 10, comes to a close Saturday, February 22, and all replies not postmarked within this period cannot be considered for the five dollars in gold offered to the winner, as given in the rules some time ago. If the committee completes its work in time, the announcement of

INDOOR BASEBALL

The second half of the Lodges Indoor Base Ball League opened on Tuesday evening with the Red Men taking 2 games out of 3 from the Heptasophs, and last night the Eagles capture 2 out of 3 from the Heptasophs. On Saturday evening the Knights of Pythias play the Eagles
3 games.

Notes of the Heptasophs.

"Doc" Davis sure has the 3rd base down pat, with Messick following him up with singles, it is a combination hard to beat.

Grey hasn't struck his pace yet, when he does the rest of the league will have to look out.

Sidwell, Campbell, Widdoes, Hopkins, Miller, Marrs and Dobson make up the rest of the Heptasophs, and it is a safe bet that before long the Heps will be up in the running.

Eagles

Marine leads off the Eagles batting list with Harvey Fulton second man.
Fulton, by the way, blows the darts and they seem to go where he don't want them. One-shot Bowlshy follows, with "Kingfish" Edmanson in the hole.

Scott then paints the board, when Tweed comes and covers it up with plaster. Heavolow seems to have a little difficulty in locating the board, but you have to leave it to Greenplate to find Choate street.

On Saturday evening the Red Men's team trails to Wilmington to play Lenape Tribe No. 6. All members of Minnehaha are requested to be on hand and help the team to win.

Next week a summary of the Red Men and Knights of Pythias teams will be given.

Council, No. 17, D. of P., in response to many requests, will again present

Fashioned Mother," in the Newark
