Girl Scout Troop 2317 from Brookmont Farms spent a summer Saturday working on a community beautification project at The Child, Inc. Home on Flamingo Avenue. The Summer Outreach Troop, sponsored by the New Castle County Community Partnership and Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council, meets at the Greater Newark Boys and Girls Club on Route 40. Valerie Brown, above, got a surprise when she accidentally sprayed herself with the hose she was using to water the newly-planted flowers.

Council talks to itself, says Clifton

IF NEWARK CITY COUNCIL APPROVES a resolution proposed by first time member Jerry Clifton, councilmembers will no longer serve on boards, committees, and commissions appointed by council itself.

Clifton said the practice of councilmembers serving on city committees "never made any sense" to him. "It's like council talking to itself when they sit in committee and recommend something which they later vote on in council," said Clifton. "It may even be a little improper to do that."

City councilmembers currently serve on the Newark Memorial Day Parade Committee, the Town and Gown Committee, and the Western Newark Traffic Relief Committee.

Newark gets new finance director

GEORGE L. SARRIS OF CAPE CORAL, Fla., has been named the new Director of Finance for the city of Newark.

City manager Carl Luft said Sarris was hired during a comprehensive recruitment process. "I believe Sarris is best suited to fill the position," said Luft, noting that the city received 152 applications for the job. "He has extensive experience in financial management, administration and budgeting."

The 40-year-old Sarris is presently Management/Budget Administrator in the Cape Coral finance department where he has worked since 1993. Cape Coral has a population of 89,000 and an annual budget of $155 million.

According to Luft, Sarris provided direct analyses to the Cape Coral city manager on a wide range of management issues, such as compensation and benefits, departmental performance and privatization of municipal services.

Prior to his position in Florida, Sarris worked from 1987 to 1993 for the city of Rockville, Md., where his last position was as Revenue Division

Will rain be enough as we 'near the bottom'?

DROUGHT, WHICH LED to mandatory water restrictions in Newark in 1995, loomed on the horizon again this week. Newark's water supplies are not in good shape, according to city water director Joseph Dombrowski.

"We're nearing the bottom," said Dombrowski on Tuesday. "On Monday, the creek flow dropped below regulatory limits so we had to shut the water plant down and relied on wells."

However, rain during Monday night in Pennsylvania apparently helped. "The flow was back up today so we turned the plant back on," Dombrowski explained. "We'll be teetering back and forth like that until we get a sustained rain."

Weather reports in northern New Castle County called for showers and thunderstorms through the week but it was unclear whether it would fall in sufficient amounts where it is needed.

Newark presently gets water from eight wells and purchases supplies from United Water to supplement the treated water obtained from the White Clay Creek.

Dombrowski said Newark still needs a long range alternative in case of drought. In May, Delaware and New Castle County officials said they would not pay to finish the required environmental study for a proposed county reservoir, putting off the $56 million project indefinitely. Also shelved were studies for a possible pipeline to Philadelphia and a desalinization plant.

During a radio interview on July 22, County Executive Thomas Gordon was asked if the county should revisit some long-range options for water supplies like the

CVS drugstore robbed

Employees of CVS Drug Store on Main Street in Newark told police that on July 16 around 10:30 p.m. a man entered the store and bought some candy. A short while later, the same man came back and brought another piece of candy up to the counter. When the clerk opened the cash register, the suspect described as a black man around 19 years old, 5 foot, 6 inches tall with a stocky build, black hair and brown eyes, reached around and grabbed approximately $70 in cash and fled. Police dusted the register for prints. The employee stated she would recognize the suspect if she saw him again.

Sex pyramid still under investigation

Police continued to investigate an alleged sex pyramid scam in Newark although they said no new victims had come forward this week.

Police arrested Joseph Ray Zeock of Gateway Village on July 14 and charged him with sexual extortion in a scheme where victims said Zeock demanded sex from them in exchange for a chance to share in $1 million. Police said there is no evidence Zeock had such a large sum of money.

Zeock operated Optimum Promotions and Design at Suburban Plaza where police executed search warrants on July 14. According to business cards distributed by Zeock, the web design firm formerly operated from his residence which police also searched.

As of this week, Zeock remained in Gander Hill Prison in lieu of bail. Detectives believe as many as eight male victims might be involved in the case.

Anyone with information about the alleged scam, Zeock, or his financial holdings, is encouraged to contact Newark Police at 366-7111.

Officer assaulted by loiterer

Newark police report that on July 17 around 10:15 p.m. unknown juveniles loitering around the area of Space II Pizza restaurant began banging on street signs and on a window of the restaurant with a clenched fist.

On July 12, a police officer was struck in the head by a 21-year-old man while attempting to disperse persons loitering behind the restaurant. The suspect was arrested and charged with criminal trespass, disorderly conduct, offensive touching and resisting arrest after a second officer arrived on the scene to assist.

Delinquent behavior targeted

On July 18 from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m., Newark Police conducted an anti-cruising checkpoint on Main Street. The checkpoint was part of on-going efforts to combat cruising and associated delinquent behavior like loud radios, loitering, etc., in the downtown business district. Officer Thomas LeMin of the Special Operations Unit reported that over 25 cars were stopped and numerous tickets, vehicle re-inspection notices and warnings were issued.

Standoff in Brookside

New Castle County police report that on July 19 around 6 p.m. a 16-year-old Brookside youth threatened his father with a 38-caliber weapon during an argument. The father called police but the youth refused to come out or give up the gun for almost three hours. Around 9 p.m. the boy finally set the gun on the ground and agreed to surrender. He was taken to Christiana Hospital for evaluation. Police charged the youth with aggravated menacing and weapons violation. There were no injuries and no evacuations during the standoff although police said two nearby residents agreed to leave voluntarily.

Rape reported in Williamsburg Village

Newark police are investigating a report of a sexual assault in the parking lot of Williamsburg Village on July 12 around 11:30 p.m.

A 38-year-old Newark woman told police two men both raped her on the asphalt parking lot. The woman, who does not live in the complex, was walking to her car parked in the back of the lot when the attack occurred.

Officer Roy Clough said the incident was not reported until three days after it allegedly occurred. The woman also told police that she had called a doctor and a psychiatrist before she notified police.

The unknown suspects, described as two black males in their 20s, one approximately 6 feet tall with a thin build and the second, approximately 5 feet, 8 inches tall, and thin also, were last seen running toward Barksdale Road.

Detectives have compared this incident, suspect description and suspect method of operation with other incidents that have been reported recently in Wilmington and New Castle County and do not believe this involves the same suspect in those cases.

Anyone with information is asked to call police at 366-7120.

Armed robber hits video store

A lone suspect with a handgun entered California Video in the Fairfield Shopping Center on Route 896 on July 20 around 11 p.m. The suspect described as a black male, approximately 6 feet tall, average build, wearing a black ski mask and dark clothing, pointed the gun at employees in the store and demanded cash from the registers. After employees complied, the man fled toward the Fairfield Apartments.

The male and female employees, both 21, were not injured.

Anyone with information is asked to call police at 366-7111.

Newark Police at all time high

Thanks to a $75,000 grant received this month from U.S. Sen. Joseph Biden's Crime Bill, Newark police are on their way to an all-time-high strength of 52 officers.

"We actually hired a new officer in January when we knew that this money was coming," said Officer David Martin. "It takes six months for them to go through the police academy and then field training."

Four new officers are completing field training and five brand new hires will bring the department level to 52 on Aug. 1. "We've had a long series of retirements recently, so we're 'down' right now," said Martin.

The officer hired under the grant will most likely go to the Special Operations Unit. "We're trying to commit any new resources to community-oriented areas like supporting Main Street and Terrace Drive," said Martin.

Claire De Matteis at Biden's office said Newark police were also considering plans to get a "youth officer" for Newark High School. "Plans for a school resource officer are so tentative that there really isn't anything to say," said Martin.

School resource officers, already based at Glasgow and Christiana high schools, work fulltime on-site to follow-up and investigate incidents reported under House Bill 85. They also do drug and related educational programs.

Martin said police are continuing to work with businesses downtown and at the Newark Shopping Center to curtail graffiti and problems with young people.

Starting the weekend of July 5, Martin said police tried a new initiative at the shopping center which "virtually eliminated" the kids hanging out there.

"Around 10 p.m. we shut down the entrance near Jam'n & Java on Main Street," explained Martin. "This prevented kids getting in who just wanted to park and walk around but regular patrons could still get in and shop."

Business owners were advised in advance and supported the plan, said Martin. "We will try it again if it continues to work. If not, we'll do something else."

Wolves banned...again

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

An ordinance to eliminate the danger arising when wild animals such as wolves were being raised in residential areas was approved by New Castle County council this week.

Paul Reynolds of the New Castle County complaints department said the new ordinance covers "harboring and storing" of animals, usually found only in the wild, on parcels under one acre.

Also added were sections pertaining to exotic animals or reptiles not native to or generally found in Delaware, and to any hybrid of exotic or wild animals.

"Within the past year we had complaints about people raising wolves (in residential communities)," Reynolds told county planners in June. "One homeowner had up to seven wolves (on his property) at any given time."

County councilmember Karen Venezky, sponsor of the law, said there had been a lot of interest in the ordinance and she had received numerous calls this week, including some from people claiming to belong to wolf clubs. "But we just can't have a large number of hybrid or exotic animals in residential communities," Venezky said. "Hybrids are apparently the worst because they're friendly like dogs but can still be vicious."

Some of the persons calling indicated they had been bitten by wolves and one person informed Venezky that there is no rabies vaccine for a wolf bite. "I didn't know that," said Venezky.

County officials cited Angelo Piner of Rosetree Hunt off Route 40 in 1996 for maintaining wolves on less than one acre in a residential area. Piner, who houses the wolves in pens which also include a perimeter fence, said that he keeps the purebred wolves to exhibit for educational purposes.

A county magistrate ruled that the county ordinance regarding undomesticated animals was "too vague" to be enforced in that case.

Venezky said the new ordinance will apply to all owners of animals listed in the law. "Any owner found to be not complying after the bill is signed by the County Executive will be cited," said Venezky.

Reynolds said residents can still get a Special Exception from the Board of Adjustment to raise wild animals on more than one acre. "...basically, if you've got a wild animal that shouldn't be in a residential community," said Reynolds. "if it's under one acre, this (new ordinance) is going to give us the ability to get it out."

Reynolds said county officials consulted with state and federal agencies to help determine the definition of an exotic or wild animal in Delaware. "The federal government considers a hybrid wolf as domesticated, but, you're not going to find them in my house," Reynolds said. "We've got to use common sense a lot of times whether or not somebody should have a (particular) animal or not on the property."

The ordinance does not apply to animals being kept under "bona fide" educational programs run or overseen by a public or private school, college or university in Delaware, or the cooperative extension program. Also exempt are 4-H and pigeon clubs.

Phase II of Porter Rd. gets once over

By MEGHAN AFTOSMIS

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Approximately 50 Bear-area residents filled the Glasgow Medical Center conference room on Monday night listening intently to what the Delaware Department of Transportation proposed for the reconstruction of Porter Road from Rt. 72 to Rt. 40.

Current plans are to widen and reconstruct the .8-kilometer stretch of road with two 12-foot travel lanes, eight-foot shoulders, and left or right turn lanes where necessary. Drainage, storm water management, and minor improvements to the intersection with Old Porter Road are also proposed.

Project Engineer Chris Carucci said DELDOT wanted to get an idea of accident locations, traffic patterns, and other concerns directly from area residents.

"The reconstruction is necessary primarily for safety reasons," said Carucci. "There are high traffic volumes on this road and with poor pavement, it could be dangerous." Approximately 15 residences and seven businesses will be impacted by the reconstruction. "The businesses seem to be happy with the improvement concept," Carucci said.

Residents with property on Porter Road expressed their own concerns.

Resident Ronald Bailey, whose property backs up to Porter Road, spent a lot of time looking at the plans to see how his property was affected.

"I'm one of the worst to be impacted," he said. "The right of way will now be 18 feet off my deck."

Charles Bramble said he thought the reconstruction is needed but was still concerned. "I just hope they can keep speed down on the road," Bramble said. "I hope we are not building a freeway here."

Bramble is losing 15 feet of his front yard. "Luckily, I'm back on the road enough," he said.

"I know it's for the betterment that doesn't necessarily mean that everyone on the road is going to like it," said Porter Road resident Linda Biesecker. "Traffic right now has increased dramatically and a lot of people are afraid it's going to increase more."

Senator Dori Connor (R-Penn Acres) said the road was long overdue to be widened and straightened out as much as possible. "I think DELDOT employees are very much on their toes and are keeping open ears to constituent factors," said Connor.

Connor also wanted to know about phase I of the reconstruction of Porter Road from Rt. 896 to Rt. 72 and other projects planned or already already under construction in the area. "There are plans for a new Christina School District school, a YMCA, a fire station, a Park & Ride and a National Guard office to be built in that area," she said, noting that she wanted to be sure the necessary planning would be taken care of before these new reconstruction plans are started.

State Representative Vincent Lofink (R-Carvel Farms) said, "I would also like to see sidewalks from Waterford up Porter Road, so people can walk up from the development to the bus stop."

Lofink's comments were echoed by Waterford resident Joe Tomeo. "There are 2,200 people that don't have access to DART First State public transportation simply because there is no safe way to walk out of Waterford," said Tomeo. "They are taking their life in their own hands, literally."

Tomeo concluded. "Widening the road is a great idea, but having a safe walkway is also critical."

DELDOT representative Bob Nelson said the department will consider all the comments made and take them back to the drawing board to make accommodations.

Any construction on this piece of Porter Road will not begin at least until the Spring of 1999, according to

Peace of mind when you need it most.*Preschool moves to Main Street, Newark

Members of the NewArk United Church of Christ, who only a year ago had no place to call their own, made room in their new facility for a preschool recently.

"We were in desperate search of a new home and they gave us the support we needed," said Shirley Glines, director of the Newark Cooperative Preschool. "We are very excited to be in the newly-remodeled and renovated building."

NewArk UCC purchased and moved into the old senior center at 300 East Main Street last year after extensive renovations. Previously the church used offices and worship sites at other churches in Newark.

The preschool, based in St. Paul's Lutheran Church on South College Avenue for 25 years, was forced to relocate in May 1997 when they learned St. Paul's needed the space for an early childhood center.

Glines said the program for 3 and 4-year-olds will continue to be run by the parents. "There is a job for every family and everyone is expected to volunteer in some way," explained Glines. "Over the years we have had 'helping' grandparents, aunts, uncles, day-care providers, dads or god-parents take the family's scheduled Helping Parent dates."

Established in 1968 as the Martin Luther King Jr. Cooperative Preschool, the name was changed in 1982 to reflect the community nature of the school and continue its founding principles to serve children of all backgrounds.

Glines said the staff hopes the new location on Main Street will offer increased opportunities for field trips.

On June 23, Newark city council granted the church a special use permit to install the preschool in a classroom with an adjoining outdoor play area.

Major expansion at Western YMCABy LAURA SANKOWICH

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The Western Branch YMCA on Kirkwood Highway has increased several times in size since it's opening in 1966. With the addition of land and new facilities, it's about to grow again.

Groundbreaking for a 10,000 square-foot expansion took place on July 2. "We have over 12,600 members and the (existing) facility is crowded," said member services director Carl McMillan.

The $1.7 million construction project will add an 8,500 square-foot fitness center and an additional child care room to the facilities. Other improvements include an elevator to allow handicapped access to lower levels of the building and renovating a fitness room that will be converted to aerobic space.

McMillan said project managers presently are waiting for returns on bids from subcontractors. "We are hoping to start construction sometime next month," he said.

Construction is expected to be completed by March of 1998.

"This project is going to hit a lot of program areas," said executive director Paul Stanzione. "The expansion will not only allow us to serve the needs of our present membership, but the needs of our future membership as well."

One new program involves an aerobic work out on exercise bicycles. "Currently we have aerobics going on in the Western Room and also in the gymnasium," Stanzione said, "so what that's going to do is free up gym space and gym time by taking aerobics out of the gym and putting it in the new aerobics room."

Money for the project was raised through contributions from individuals and corporations. "In essence we've wrapped up (the three-year capital campaign), but we're still trying to get a few people to contribute, so we can reach our goal," said Stanzione, noting that $406,000 of the $500,000 goal has been raised so far.

Coming soon to an intersection near you...

Newark Police have not yet installed the video camera to catch vehicles running red lights that they have planned for over a year, but the state assembly has passed a new law permitting them to collect fines.

The police department applied for a $44,000 grant in April 1996 but did not receive the funds until this year. In April 1997, Chief William Hogan said DelDOT and Newark officials were still deciding where to put the camera. At that time, state law did not permit fines on the basis of video-taped violations.

"A state law passed at the end of the most recent legislative session now allows us to impose a fine up to $50 and court costs but no points

(on their insurance record)," said Hogan. "That's because the registered owner and not the actual driver will be responsible for the fine."

According to Hogan, the camera will operate continuously around the clock. If a vehicle enters the intersection after the light turns red, a signal trips the camera. It takes two photos, one just as the vehicle enters the intersection and one within the intersection to prove the vehicle actually drove through the red light.

"We can impose fines under the state law but we'll be asking the city to convert to a city ordinance so we can work through the Alderman's Court here in Newark," said Hogan.

The city is still looking at possible intersections to install the camera. "Although we originally thought the turn would be a problem, Ogletown Road and Library Avenue is being reconstructed for two left-hand turn lanes so we might put it there," said Hogan this week.

Other options, according to Hogan, are Elkton Road and Christina Parkway or Elkton Road and South College Avenue which also have a lot of violations.

"We will probably put up a sign indicating that the intersection is being monitored, as is done in other states that already use the camera," said Hogan. "We're not here to play games. We want to reduce accidents."

'The water's out there,' Gordon says► DROUGHT, from 1

reservoir. "Long range, I think the utilities should invest in more wells," responded Gordon. "The water's out there."

Dombrowski said if that is so, why are utilities like Artesian Water Co., still buying from Pennsylvania and the city of Wilmington? "I heard that Artesian was bent out of shape because the city of Wilmington turned them off this week," said Dombrowski. "I guess we'll find out what's happening when the Governor's Drought Advisory Committee meets next week."

In a related development, United Water Company told the Public Utility Commission during rate increase hearings that their sales of water to Artesian and Newark have dropped but the price of water they buy from Pennsylvania has increased.

Hot and chili at Aetna Fire Co.

Winners for best-tasting chili cite 'a select blend of peppers and spices'

By LAURA SANKOWICH

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

HAVE YOU EVER considered eating chili with an alligator while listening to music? Local chili-lovers did this and more at the First Annual Chili Cook-Off sponsored by Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder, Co. on Saturday.

First of its kind in the Delaware-Maryland-Pennsylvania area, the cook-off featured eight contestants competing for the title of the hottest, mildest, best tasting, most unusual or best-overall chili.

Winners of the hottest and best-tasting fire department chili were Grover Ingle, Mike Millius and John Behorner from Good Will Fire Co. of New Castle.

According to Behorner, the secret of his team's success was "a select blend of peppers and spices."

Millius said, "We're hoping to make it even hotter for next year's competition because we only won by two votes, so we're going back to the kitchen." The team also attributed their success to their matching "lucky" hats.

"We can't wait for next year," said Millius. "We hope we can get more people from the community involved because that's what this is about."

Winner in three categories of the competition, Bill Simpson with Billy's Island Chili, said,

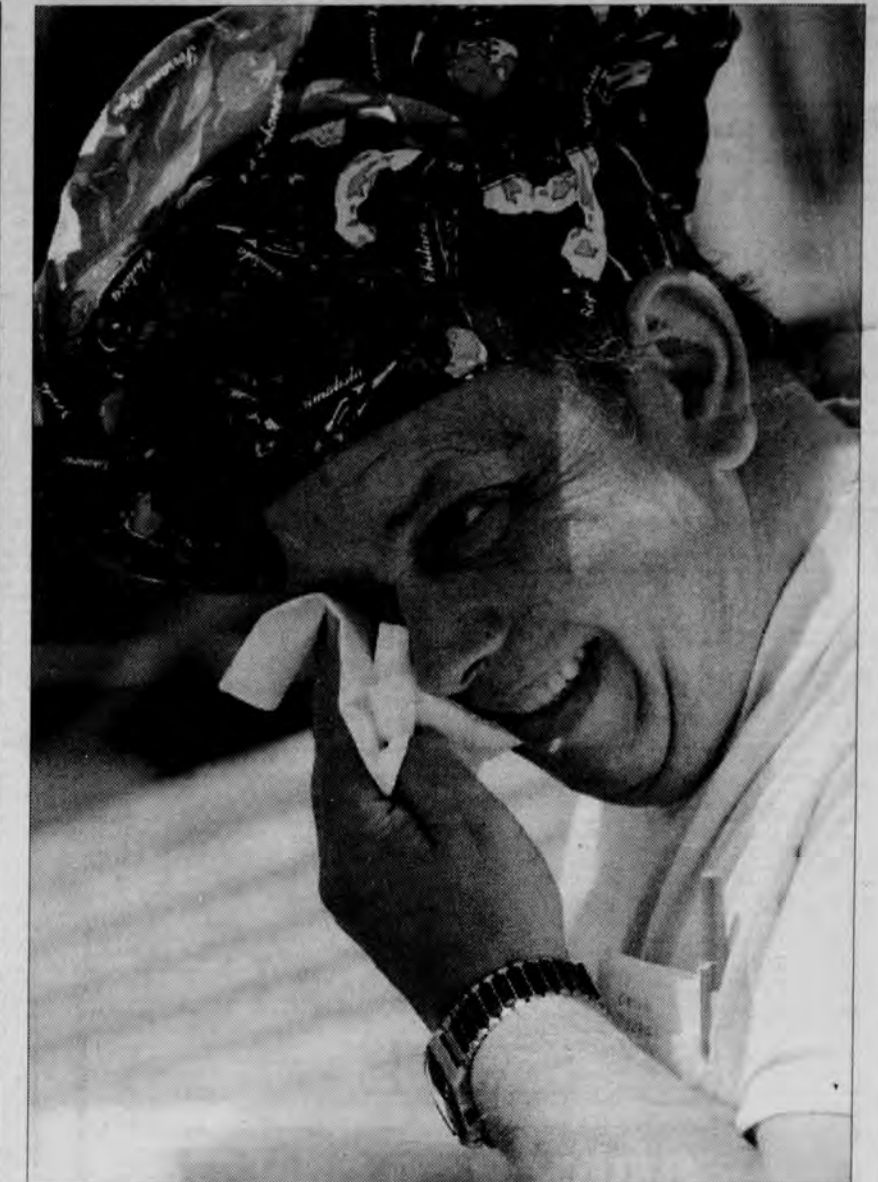

It was a lot of fun and a good day out." He attributes his success with chili to fresh ingredients and smoked pork. Simpson commented that he will be participating in next year's competition.

Other winners of the contest include Eric Williams' "Too Hot Tomale" chili, Grace Hawthorne's "Tennessee Flameout," and Jamie Waltz's "K and J's Best."

Chili aside, highlights of the event featured Jungle John and his Reptile show which included an alligator and a snake. Activities for children included face painting, a bubble making area and a duck pond. Raffles were held throughout the day for door prizes and musical entertainment was provided by the Black Horn Jacks.

According to Brian Hendricks, organizer of the Cook-Off, the purpose of the contest was to generate funds for new fire apparatus and general upkeep of the fire company and daily operations.

"We're purchasing two new engines," said Hendricks. "We should have them by August."

Hendricks estimated about 300 people turned out for the competition throughout the day. He said about $2,000 dollars was raised which exceeded their goal.

"This is the first chili cook-off in this area — no restaurant or organization has had a chili cook-off," Hendricks said. "They're found more in the South and Southwest, so we're really surprised to see that many people for an event like this in this area."

Hendricks said planning for the cook-off began in February. Support for the event was provided by 17 sponsors. The International Chili Society based in Valencia, Cal., was also consulted on guidelines.

"We want to try to do it annually," said Hendricks. "Every year we'll go back and get some feedback and then try to make it better."

Chief.

Sarris has what Luft considers "key skills" necessary to handle Newark's $19.7 million budget. "These include initiation of positive customer service policies, excellent communication and supervisory skills, the ability to manage our government accounting requirements, maintenance of an efficient computer system, and the ability to master the electric and water rate system," Luft said.

A graduate of West Virginia University, Sarris is an active member of the Government Finance Officers Association where he serves as a reviewer in the Distinguished Budget Presentation Awards Program.

Sarris replaces former city finance director Patrick McCullar who left in May to become CEO of the Delaware Municipal Electric Corporation. McCullar had been with the city since November 1992.

Sarris who will earn $66,000 is expected to start his new job on or about Sept. 1. He is moving to Delaware with his wife, Monica, and their three children.

Review Committee, already prohibit elected officials or members of city council.

Clifton said he submitted the resolution to council because he believes citizens from the community who are experts on the issues addressed by the committee should serve and not councilmembers.

"I had heard Mayor Ron Gardner make remarks about this before I ever ran for council," said Clifton, adding that he has planned to make this proposal since he took office in April. "I think it's something that really needs to be done."

Another important factor, said Clifton, is the possible effect on other committee members when a council person takes a position on an issue. "It gives the impression, fairly or not, that council as a whole might favor that position," said Clifton. "It makes it difficult for ordinary citizens to vote against the council person's position in committee — there's almost an element of intimidation."

Boards, committees and authorities appointed by Newark city council and the mayor, in addition to those indicated above, include: Board of Building Appeals, Board of Business License Review, Community Development/Revenue Sharing Advisory Committee, Conservation Advisory Commission, Board of Ethics, Board of Health, Newark Public Housing Authority, Newark Parking Authority, Planning Commission, and Board of Sidewalk Appeals.

An idea whose time has come

A CITY COUNCIL resolution proposed by District 2 member Jerry Clifton is an idea whose time has come.

Clifton wants council to prohibit councilmembers from serving on boards, committees and commissions appointed by the council.

Having councilmembers sit on committees which recommend action to council itself has never made sense to Clifton. The objection seems obvious and justified but apparently the issue has not been comprehensively addressed in the past.

Some city committees already prohibit councilmembers in one way or another, but councilmembers also serve on three council-appointed bodies.

Clifton's concern that others serving on city committees with them may be inhibited or intimidated in expressing their views seems a valid worry to us.

The advantages of having a councilmember in touch with issues at the ground level cannot be denied. But councilmembers are elected to bring the full focus their individual talents and expertise to bear when issues are presented for their attention during council meetings.

And in a city chock full of educators, doctors, lawyers, planners, and others with experience in every walk of life, it is unlikely that a councilmember would turn out to be the sole expert on a given subject.

Certainly, they can and should direct city appointees and staff to inform them about areas of community concern.

But we agree with Clifton. The present arrangement is like council talking to itself and we all know how reliable that is. Council should reject his resolution only if a councilmember can show that city residents as a whole will be harmed by its passage.

ONE PARENT'S PERSPECTIVE

Race relations in America

By RUTH KELLY

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

THERE HAS BEEN much media devoted recently to race relations since it was announced that President Clinton was pushing this issue to the top of his national agenda. I have been reading and listening intently hoping above all hopes that I was going to hear something new to perk up my somewhat pessimistic view of the state of race relations in this country.

On a recent radio show, a professor of journalism caught my attention as he states that "doing things in the name of diversity is a bad excuse for avoiding the completion of the goals of the civil rights movement." He says that maintaining "diversity" is making us a more separate and segregated society than ever. This really made me sit down and think.

Race relations in this country, in my opinion, will continually get worse unless we start doing some things differently. There are things that need to be done on all sides on this issue to make race relations better.

Education and open, honest dialogue is key to solving the problems among the races. Diversity training is essential and critical to this end. White people need to be aware of the feelings of minorities who have typically been left out of the mainstream, been oppressed, harassed and discriminated against, treated without dignity and respect, denied access, devalued and suppressed. As a black American, all I ask for from the dominant white culture is to be in the starting blocks with all other people at the beginning of the race and to have a level playing field.

Unfortunately, what happens in some diversity training programs is that whites leave these sessions feeling bad. They feel beat up, blamed and hated for the misery they have caused on the plight of the black race. This is enough to discourage them from striving to learn more about the black experience and also resentful wondering "when will I stopped being blamed?"

We, as a black race, don't make it any easier for them by continually blaming white people for all of our ills. President Clinton was recently asked to apologize for slavery. I was very moved by his most sincere apology given to the black men and their families who suffered because of the U.S. government's syphilis study decades ago. However, when I read about the request for an apology for slavery, I threw my hands in the air in disgust. Saying I'm sorry for slavery doesn't mean a thing to me and as far as I'm concerned is not necessary.

This country does not owe me, black America or anyone else for that matter anything but equal opportunity.

The United States government, in my opinion, has the responsibility to enforce the laws and punishment for people who discriminate against others on the basis of race, religion, etc. It is their responsibility to insure a level playing field for all people. Once we are all treated equally, it is up to each person to take advantage of opportunity or not.

Many immigrants have come into this country and worked hard and realized the American dream. I believe that dream can still be achieved in America. I know that racism exists and it must be dealt with. Toughening the laws would certainly help to punish those people who would deny a human the ability to provide for himself and his family and be a contributor to society on the basis of their race.

The problem of blaming, looking for hand-outs, preferential treatment, and entitlements is what is causing the racial disharmony. I would venture to guess that there are many "good" white people out there who abhor racism and discrimination. They would be anxious to learn more about the black experience and roll up their sleeves to help out. But, many are being turned off by unreasonable demands, and moreover being made to feel guilty for all the past wrongs inflicted many years ago. When is enough enough?

How do we solve the problem? First, white folks are not the only people who need to be educated. Whites need to stop stereotyping black people. Many believe if there is one bad apple, the whole bunch is bad. Also, the white person's perception that blacks are innately inferior is another area that needs to be recognized, soul-searched and eliminated.

Black people need to be educated with

Announcement was recently made of the combination of the interests of the American Machine Company, of Newark and the Lobdell Car Wheel Company of Wilmington.

The reason for the combination of these interests was for the manufacture of the Atlas Axle.

This axle is a real Newark product.

The Atlas axle is the result of the work of R.A. Whittingham, a resident of Newark and a graduate from Delaware College.

Mr. Whittingham is responsible for the original axle design which will be used in modern bus construction.

Signs point to unrest among Main St. merchants

Some of Newark's Main Street merchants are chafing under the city's new levy on business signs.

The sign tax ordinance, passed three months ago by City Council after a public hearing, set a new rate of 25 cents per square foot and $1 per linear foot for business signs in Newark.

The old sign levy was $3 per sign, regardless of size.

Newark's Chief Building Official Angelo R. Vitalo said yesterday that the new rates were necessary to meet inspection costs.

Balloon soaring

The Stone Balloon Tavern, which opened only five months ago, is already expanding its Newark facilities and its owner is reported to be considering extending operations into the Rehoboth Beach Area.

According to Newark's Chief Building Official Angelo Vitalo, the Stone Balloon, was issued a building permit to construct an addition which will accommodate approximately 83 more customers.

The Newark Transportation Management Committee next month will begin surveying area businesses with at least 100 workers to assist them in adopting the Clean Air Act.

The federal act will provide businesses with tax incentives for decreasing the number of cars going to their plants by 25 percent.

The state will present its plan in the fall. Businesses must present their plans to the state in 1994.

Legislation targets commercial blight

County Councilwoman Karen Venezy will propose stricter maintenance codes for commercial and industrial property, bringing these guidelines up to those required for private property.

The legislation would empower the county to make repairs anywhere on a commercial site. The law would also cover both the inside and outside of building in violation of the code.

Moreover, the county would also have the freedom to tear down a building judged by the council to rep-seminars and discussions that will free us from victim-mode mentality and teach us the tools we need to take control of our lives. We need to pick ourselves up by the bootstraps and begin first by believing in ourselves and our strong faith in God to turn our doubts, fears and failures of the past into passions for today to set the stage for our successful tomorrows and for our children. We can stop being a victim and take charge of our lives, our families and our communities.

We need to stay in school and graduate. We need to be more involved in our children's education by insuring that they go to school every day and support them and encourage them to succeed. We need to enter the workforce with a strong work ethic. When we are offered a job, we need to accept it eagerly (even if it only offers minimum wage). We need to show up every day with a good attitude realizing that we have that choice. We need to take pride in doing a job well and always look for opportunities to advance and better ourselves. As we develop, we must teach our children to do the same. Our children will follow the example we set, believe me.

I have learned in my lifetime that when a person demonstrates that they are trying to help themselves, other people are quick to take notice and offer a helping hand. Picture this on a national scale!

Life on the wild side

By LAURA SANKOWICH

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

ANSWERING A LATE NIGHT knock on the door and finding a stranger holding an injured animal is not an uncommon occurrence at Hillary Taylor's house in Bear.

"People come to me with injured and abandoned animals at all hours of the day," said Taylor.

Such unexpected visits from people with wounded or abandoned animals are just a small part of the job for Taylor, one of only three licensed wildlife rehabilitators in the state of Delaware. All provide their expertise and services free of charge and with no funding from the state.

Taylor's basement serves as an office as well as a makeshift wildlife emergency room set up to quickly treat injured animals. Cabinets are stocked with medications and equipment used to treat the animals. "Everything is set up so that you can just grab it," Taylor said.

Cages in which animals can stay while they are recovering line the wall. "Most of the cages were either donated or we built them ourselves," said Taylor. "The medicines and supplies people give us, or give us money to buy them."

Patients included an injured bat and baby possums that were resting in cages nearby.

"I'm self taught - I must have dragged my first animal home when I was 5 years old," she said. "I worked with horses all my life in England but I still did some (other animal) rescue work on the side."

Taylor has now made wildlife rehabilitation her life's work. She belongs to a national wildlife rehabilitators association and exchanges information with rehabilitators across the United States as well as other wildlife organizations.

NEWARK POST STAFF PHOTOS BY KELLY BENNETT

(Clockwise from above) Hillary Taylor takes in a baby rabbit that needs help. She puts it in with a nest of baby rabbits that have recently been rescued and brought to her shelter. An adolescent raccoon has had enough of being pampered and wants to be out into the wild again.

"If someone calls about an animal from another state I can tell them who to get in touch with in their area," said Taylor.

Some of her other patients in the past have included a river otter Taylor affectionately named Buttons, a deer she called Star, and countless squirrels, raccoons, foxes and rabbits.

On May 16, Newark Animal Control Officer Donna Vickers brought a baby deer she had already named "Randy" to Taylor after a West Branch resident saw it carried across his yard by a fox.

"(The deer) wasn't injured and after he took a bottle, he was fine," said Taylor. "As soon as he was stabilized we shipped him downstate (to another wildlife rehabilitator) where eventually he can be released directly back into the wild."

Taylor keeps larger animals such as foxes and deer in cages in her backyard while they are recovering. "Each cage is custom designed depending on the type of animal that will be staying in it."

Taylor said she releases animals when they are well enough to survive on their own. "Someone called in and said there was a dead cat on the sidewalk in Wilmington with kittens, but it was a mama possum and baby possums," said Taylor. "They stay in here until they eat 'anything and everything' and then they go out side."

When they're about the size of guinea pigs, we release them," said Taylor.

In the past year alone Taylor has treated over 647 animals. "The animal that I see with the most frequency is squirrels," said Taylor, "and the second most is opossum."

Taylor said that the number of animals that she is treating has risen sharply in the past few years due to property development. "(Almost all) of my animals come from houses," Taylor said. "I get more in here than (the other two rehabilitators) put together just about, because it's built up here and the animals just have no place to go."

Wildlife habitat conservation is one way to prevent displacement of animals from their homes, and can be as simple as leaving in a hedgerow as a home for squirrels. "The wild belongs in the wild," Taylor said. "People have to learn to coexist with animals. The animals are already trying to coexist with people."

In conjunction with nursing animals back health, Taylor also educates people on how to properly handle an injured animal and what can be done to preserve wildlife habitats.

"I try to bring an animal along with me as a learning tool when I lecture," said Taylor who often speaks at various wildlife centers as well as schools.

Taylor said it is important that people bring hurt and injured animals to her or another wildlife rehabilitator and not try to treat the animals themselves. She also stressed that children should not play with or handle injured animals.

Persons with an injured animal or who wish to make a donation can contact Taylor at 834-4604.

It's almost time for another classic season

IHATE TO BE ACCUSED of rushing the season but, if you check your calendar, you will see we are at the end of the second month of summer with only August to go. Even though I enjoy fun in the sun too — with enough sunblocker on — my thoughts are certainly moving toward the upcoming concert season. In our area that means it is time to look toward what Music Director Stephen Gunzenhauser and the Delaware Symphony have in store for us at the Grand Opera House.

This is Stephen's 19th season at the helm of the DSO and what wonderful years they have been for the orchestra and all of us who attend. Great music, great soloists and a new starting time for the Classical Series concerts on Thursday evenings mark the 1997-98 season.

For as far back as I can recall, all the concerts in the Classical Series began at 8 p.m. No more! From this season forward the Thursday evening concert in the series will begin at 6:30 p.m. Most of the concerts will be over by 8:30. The change is designed for people to attend a concert right after work and get home earlier. Friday and Saturday concerts will begin at 8 p.m. as usual.

The season will be launched October 16, 17 and 18, with a composer beloved by just about everyone who enjoys great music, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. Stephen will be on the podium to offer us the exuberant overture to "Nozze di Figaro." With soloists Charles Rex, violin; Christopher Rex, cello and Lee Luvisi, piano, Beethoven's Triple Concerto will follow the Mozart. The program will conclude with Brahms Symphony No. 2 in D Major.

Guest conductor Catherine Comet will offer an All-American program November 20, 21 and 22. Copeland's Symphony No. 3 will open the evening. Pianist Michael Ponti will join Ms. Comet and the DSO for Gershwin's Piano Concerto in F. Bernstein's Divertimento will round out the evening.

The highly charged, romantic music of Peter Ilich Tchaikovsky will be front and center for our orchestra December 4, 5 and 6. With a nod to the season of the year, the concert will open with selections from the composer's beloved Nutcracker Ballet, Op 71a. World renown violin virtuoso Eugene Fodor will be on hand for a performance of Tchaikovsky's Violin Concerto and an often overlooked symphony will round out the program, Symphony No. 1, often called "Winter Dreams."

The Alfred I. du Pont Award winner this year is composer Joan Tower. One of her works, still to be announced, will be featured along with the presentation of the coveted prize. Her work will be heard January 8, 9 and 10. The evening will open with Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 and conclude with Mozart's Symphony No. 41, The Jupiter. Also on the program is a performance of Robert Macht's "Kreasi Baru" for Gamelon. The composer will be soloist with the Baltimore Gamelon Ensemble.

A most diverse program is in store for us February 19, 20 and 21. Featured will be Haydn's Symphony No. 88, Schumann's Symphony No. 4 in D minor and a work by Joseph Kennedy called Sketches for Jazz Trio and Orchestra. The composer will solo in his opus. David Itkin will conduct.

Tzimon Barto will pay another visit to the DSO on April 16, 17 and 18, this time with Greig's powerful Piano Concerto in A. Maestro Gunzenhauser will be on the podium to conduct Dvorak's Symphony No. 6 in D Major and Kodaly's Dances of Galanta.

The season finale, May 14, 15 and 16 will include Beethoven's Overture to "Fidelio," Walton's Violin Concerto with Pip Clarke as soloist and Mahler's Symphony No. 1, "The Titan."

Sales, whether in person at the box office, by phone, fax or computer, are being handled by the Grand Opera House. The symphony's Tenth Street box office is closed.

NEWARK OUTLOOK

Don't let deer ticks take a bite out of you!

■ This weekly feature on the Lifestyle page is authored by the staff of the Newark-based Cooperative Extension Service.

AS THE WARM weather progresses and people and their pets spend more time outdoors, two pests become of great concern. The several species of ticks and chiggers are taxonomic cousins to spiders, lice, and mites. Nearly all these adult forms have eight legs, which distinguishes them from the six legged insects. Whereas we benefit greatly from the predatory habits of the mites, other members of the group are pests, some dangerous.

By Jo Mercer

Chiggers of the United States are vegetarians when adults, but the larvae are ravenous toward warm-blooded animals of all kinds. Sometimes called red bugs, a chigger starts life in the spring as it hatches out of an egg its overwintering mother laid. In warmer sections of the country, chigger larvae are produced almost continuously through the year. It takes about fifty days to complete the life cycle from egg to adult.

A chigger larva is bright orange or red, but only one one-hundred-fiftieth of an inch in diameter. It lies in wait in vegetation for a warm-blooded host. After hitching a ride on the victim it scurries about to find a protected site on which to feed. Preferred sites include soft, wrinkled skin, and skin under waistbands and other tight areas of clothing. The chigger finds a hair follicle or other pore in the skin where they attach their mouthparts. Then it injects a digestive enzyme that dissolves the host tissue and the chigger can suck up the resulting fluid. This feeding process can produce intense, hot itching and welts that can last for a week. Some people are much more sensitive to chiggers than are others. Fortunately, chiggers do not transmit any disease organisms.

It is impossible to look at an area and tell whether it is chigger infested without actually experiencing the pests. Anyone who is planning to be outdoors and who is sensitive to chiggers should wear long pants and shirtsleeves and use any common insect repellent containing DEET. If you find yourself in a chigger hot spot, get into the bathtub as soon as possible and lather up with lots of soap. The soap will help kill any attached chiggers and wash away those that are still wandering. After the bath, wipe affected areas with rubbing alcohol and apply an anti-inflammatory cream to help reduce the discomfort and swelling.

The latest transmitted disease concern is Lyme disease. The vector is the deer tick, which is found throughout New Castle County and most of the state. A deer tick inhabits any area with vegetation, even a well-groomed lawn. Small rodents serve as the disease reservoir, and ticks pick up the bacteria in the early part of the year when they feed on an infected rodent.

Later in the season, deer ticks move on to larger hosts such as horses, cattle, dogs, and humans. In fall adult ticks prefer deer as the final host to feed on enough blood to nourish egg formation.

Deer ticks are very cold tolerant and will be active during the warmer spells of mild winters such as we have experienced this year. People brought these pests into our office for identification all winter. Since deer ticks need several hours to attach to the host, then several more hours to transmit any disease organism, daily body checks after outdoors activity are a good way to avoid Lyme disease. Like chiggers ticks commonly attach where clothing is tightest, or if they can crawl upward unimpeded, they will attach to the scalp. Other preventive measures include protective clothing treated with permethrin repellent.

Early symptoms of Lyme disease include fatigue, bulls-eye rash, and headache. Untreated Lyme disease can progress to severe arthritis, and heart and nervous system damage. Dogs can get Lyme disease, and it often goes unnoticed for several years until the dog becomes lame from arthritis. Consult your veterinarian about the vaccine for dogs against Lyme disease. Use your physician to counsel the human members of your family.

BYE, BYE MORTGAGE

The directors of Westminster House, a ministry of the First Presbyterian Church of Newark to the recovering community, recently burned the building's mortgage.

Nearly 60 groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous use the facility, which is adjacent to the church sanctuary on West Main Street, for dozens of meetings each week. The ceremony followed a worship service that traced the history of the house. The original brick Westminster House burned in 1988. Under the leadership of then-pastor Charles H. Davis, church leaders formed a corporation, secured a mortgage and built the present modern facility. The building was dedicated in 1992 but the mortgage was released earlier this year.

Unrelated but equally noteworthy is another mortgage-free congregation here. St. John's/Holy Angels Parish in Newark recently paid off the mortgages on their property as well. The Rev. Richard Reissmann said he had been the pastor at two different parishes in his lifetime and this is the first time he has been debt-free. "But that doesn't mean you can stop...you know what," said Reissmann as parishioners applauded and laughed. "We plan to start a fund for future needs."

Local teams win all five district titles

Newark American Majors stun Brandywine

By PHILLIP WIRTZ

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

NEWARK AMERICAN COMPLETED an amazing two-game sweep of previously unbeaten Brandywine to capture the District II championship Tuesday night at the Midway Little League complex.

Drew Kisner pitched a complete game as the Newark team defeated Brandywine 4-1 for the second time in two days. Newark American was forced to win two games because it was beaten 12-5 by Brandywine on July 16.

The win advanced Newark American to the three-team state championship series in Smyrna. Newark opened the series Thursday against Georgetown with the winner playing Middletown-Odessa-Townsend (MOT) Friday night.

The losers bracket game is Saturday with championship scheduled for Sunday. The "if" game will be played Monday.

The winner of the state tournament will advance to the Eastern Regional in Bristol, Conn.

"I wasn't nervous in the sixth inning," said Kisner, who struck out seven Brandywine batters. "But I was at the beginning of the game."

"Drew pitched a great game," said Newark American manager Pete Callahan. "It was also a team effort from all 13 kids."

Newark's scored all four of its runs in the third inning.

Keith Kowanick singled in Pete Callahan. Kisner then scored on a grounder by Ryan Ohliger to make the score 2-0. The third run came on a grounder from Steve Slacum that scored Kowanick. Ohliger scored the final run on an overthrow.

Canal Senior girls hold off Stanton-Newport

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE CANAL SENIOR Division All-Star softball team won its 11th straight District II championship Monday night. None, however, was probably as difficult — or satisfying — as this one.

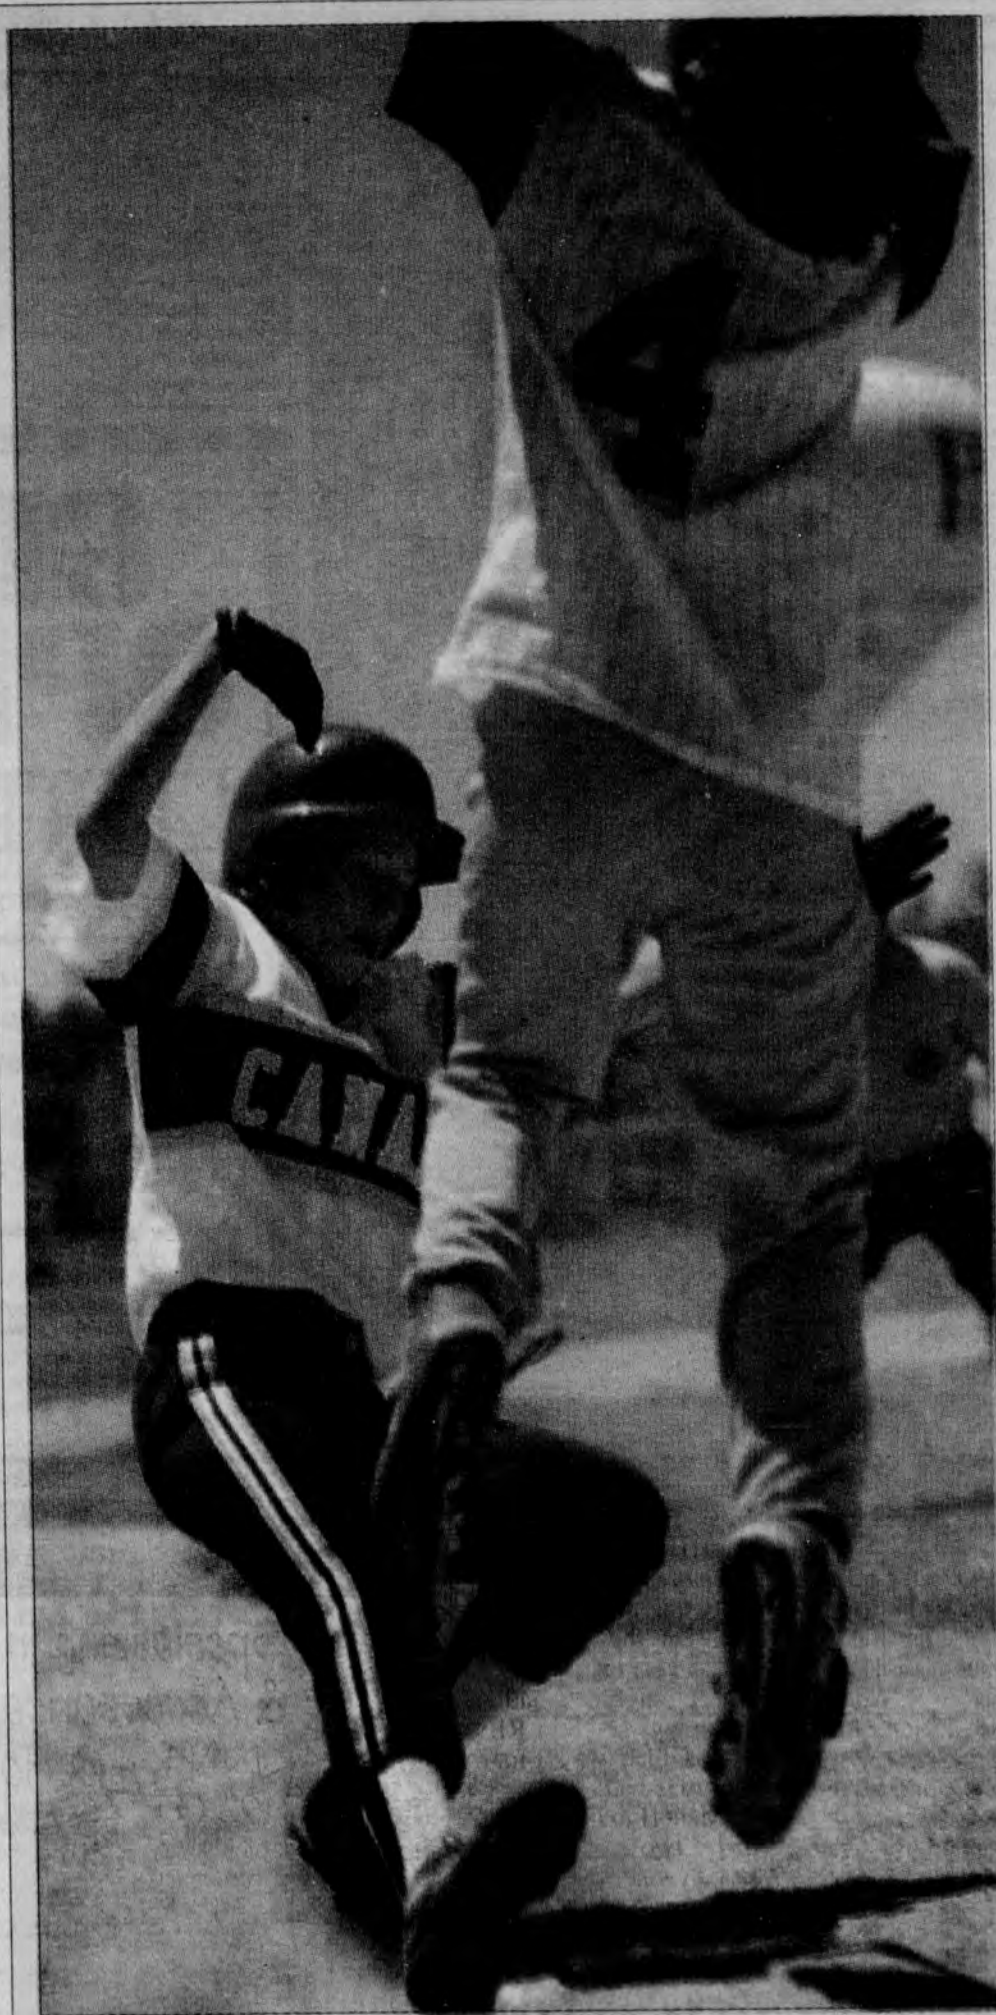

The winners scored two runs in the top of the seventh inning to break a tie and Canal pitcher Stacey Watson got out of a no-out, bases-loaded jam in the bottom of the seventh to preserve a 6-4 victory over Stanton-Newport in the district championship game at the Suburban Little League complex.

The win advances Canal into the three-team, double elimination state tournament this weekend in Milford. District I champion Milford and District III champ Seaford will also be participating.

Stanton-Newport, after edging Canal 6-5 in Monday's opening game to force the "if" game, took advantage of six Canal errors in the first two innings to build a 4-1 lead in the deciding contest.

Canal, however, battled back to tie the game and, after squandering a good scoring opportunity in the sixth inning, broke through in the seventh.

Canal Major girls roll to crown

THE NAMES MAY CHANGE from year to year but the results remain the same.

The Canal Major Division All-Stars defeated Suburban 11-5 Saturday at the Canal Little League complex to capture the District II All-Star softball crown. The district title is the 16th straight that a Canal 11-12 year old team has won.

The district champs advanced to the best-of-three state championship series against Milford July 24-26 at Suburban Little League.

"It was a good win for us," said Canal manager Charlie Marion. "We hit the ball well and got good pitching and defense throughout the tournament."

After Suburban jumped to a 1-0 in the top of the first inning, Canal answered with three in the bottom of the first to take the lead.

Lindsay Long, Amber Hicken and Kenya Hodges all scored in the inning while Christin Mills and Debbie Slifer picked up RBI.

Canal took control of the game in the second inning with three more runs. Mills had the big blow of the inning — a two-run double that scored Long and Hicken. Slifer followed with another

Canal Senior boys rally past Brandywine

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE CANAL SENIOR DIVISION baseball All-Star team and the Brandywine All-Stars were as about as evenly matched as two teams can get.

When the dust cleared after Sunday's third and final game between the two teams, just one run separated them over the 21 innings they played against each other. It was Canal, however, that scored the one more run, defeating Brandywine 3-2 at the Canal Little League complex to earn the District II championship and an automatic berth in the Mid-Atlantic Regional.

Trailing 1-0 in the fourth inning, Nate Husser ignited a Canal rally with a single to left field. Seeing the ball skip through the left fielder, Husser scrambled to second base. Two batters later, with two outs, Matt Folke singled home Husser and advanced to second on the throw to the plate.

Folke then moved to third base on a wild pitch and raced home when the throw from the catcher to third base sailed into left field. Folke's run gave Canal a 2-1 lead.

Canal stretched the lead to 3-1 in the fifth inning. Chuck Epperson began a one-out rally with a single to left-center. He would eventually score on Kevin Maloney's infield single.

Pitcher Tim Vaillancourt, who had entered the game in the third inning in relief of Maloney, then limited a seventh-inning Brandywine rally to just one run to secure victory and the district crown.

"I felt good out there," Vaillancourt said. "I knew Kevin was only going to go a few innings

Newark National Juniors shock Suburban

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

BY THE TIME the Newark National Junior Division All-Stars faced Suburban for the third time, fortunes had completely switched.

National knocked off Suburban 13-3 Sunday at the Canal Little League complex in a game stopped after five innings because of the 10-run rule. The victory was National's second straight over Suburban in two days and gave it the District II Junior Division title and a berth in the state championship tournament.

Trailing 1-0 after the first inning of Sunday's deciding game, Newark picked up three runs in the second to take the lead for good. Andrew Swarter picked up a hit in the rally and Newark National also took advantage of four walks. Swarter, Adam Poppitti and R.T. Plumsy all scored in the inning.

Suburban cut the lead to 3-2 with a run in the top of the third inning but Newark answered with three more runs in the bottom of the inning. Ryan Thompson's two-run double, which scored Swarter and Poppitti, was the big blow of the inning. Mike Murray drew a bases-loaded walk that eventually plated Thompson with the inning's third run.

Newark American Majors battle back to win title

By PHILLIP WIRTZ

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Newark American Major All-Stars overcame a two-run deficit in the bottom of the sixth inning to stun unbeaten Brandywine 8-7 Monday night at the Midway Little League complex.

Down 7-5 entering the final inning, Newark got men on the bases with singles from Kenny Fowler and J.R. Word. Both eventually scored on a ground ball by Pete Callahan to tie the game. With one out and Callahan on third base, Drew Kisner hit a grounder to the third baseman. Callahan beat the throw to the plate to score the winning run.

"We made mistakes early on errors," said Newark American manager Pete Callahan. But our team got it together."

The win forced a deciding "if" game against Brandywine Tuesday night.

Newark scored first in the game, taking advantage of two Brandywine errors and an RBI-double by Keith Kowanick to lead 2-0 after two innings.

Brandywine bounced back quickly, scoring two runs in the third and one in the fourth take a 3-2 lead.

Newark's bats came alive in the bottom of the fourth as Callahan singled to score Fowler. Dave Franck and Callahan both scored on overthrows to give Newark a 5-3 lead.

Brandywine had a huge inning in the fifth, scoring four runs to lead 7-5.

Kowanick and Ryan Ohliger combined on Newark's pitching effort. Dan Santobianco pitched the entire game for Brandywine.

Both teams had nine hits.

"Our guys weren't afraid of this team," Callahan said. "But they had respect for this team. It paid off and they really played well."

Newark lost 12-5 to Brandywine in the first meeting between the two teams July 16.

Newark American 7, Naamans 5 — To advance to the championship series, Newark American had to stage a tremendous, last-inning comeback in Saturday's losers bracket final to earn a win over Naamans.

Newark trailed 5-3 entering the top of the sixth when Pete Callahan ripped a two-run, RBI-double to center field scoring Kenny Fowler and Dave Franck to tie the game. Callahan then scored the go-ahead on a single to left by Newark pitcher Drew Kisner. Greg Read scored the final run of the inning on a Naamans' overthrow.

Naamans scored three runs in the first inning and another in the second to lead 4-1.

Newark rallied in the fifth when Ryan Ohliger hit a ground-rule double to score Callahan and Kisner to cut the lead to 4-3.

Naamans' Jake Doyle hit a sole home run in the bottom of the fifth to improve the lead to 5-3.

Kisner pitched a complete game for Newark, allowing just four hits.

"Drew Kisner pitched a great game," said Newark American manager Pete Callahan. "He got stronger and stronger as the game went on."

RBI-single to score Hodges to give Canal a 6-1 lead.

Suburban picked up another run in the fourth inning but again Canal answered in the bottom of the inning. This time the winners picked up five runs.

Long, Hicken and Hodges all scored their third run of the game. Mills also singled and scored in the inning as did Katie Laird. Stacy Maloney added a two-run single in the rally.

Suburban picked up three runs in the sixth inning to provide the final margin.

Winning pitcher Long gave up just five hits while striking out five.

"I think when we got out to that big lead we may have let down a little," Marioni said. "But we're still very happy with the effort of the girls. They've worked real hard and have been an absolute joy to work with."

Canal moves on to try and win its 15th straight state championship dating back to 1983. The winner of this week's state tournament will advance to the Eastern Regional tournament, which this year will be played in Sussex County.

Members of the District II Major Division Softball champions include: Lindsay Long, Amber Hicken, Kenya Hodges, Christin Mills, Debbie Slifer, Katie Laird, Stacy Maloney, Lindsay Niggebrugge, Jaclyn Temple, Ashley James, Amanda Pringle, Lindsey DiStefano, Jenna Billic and Faye Mormando. Coaches are Adrienne Maloney, Edie Murphy and the manager is Charlie Marioni.

Brandywine showed it wasn't finished in the sixth inning as it took advantage of a Newark error and loaded the bases with no outs. Brandywine scored once, but Kisner managed to pitch out of the inning. One out came on a force-out at second. The other two were caught as fly balls, including the final out made by Newark's left fielder, J.R. Word.

On the final out Word noted, "I was kind of nervous. We had a good team effort."

At the end of the contest, Newark players and coaches were awarded the district championship banner and trophy.

The team paraded around the field with the banner.

The team is managed by Pete Callahan.

Canal Am. 9's win opening game

Sean McLaughlin pitched a complete game and had three hits to help lead Canal American to a 16-5 win over Brandywine in the District II 9-year old tournament Tuesday night at the Claymont Little League complex.

McLaughlin had seven strike outs and four RBI while Matt Gillen was 3-for-4 with four runs-batted-in.

Matt Himlein and Jeff Foy had two hits each for Brandywine.

so I was prepared to come in. My arm felt good and it was probably better that I got to see Kevin pitch those first two innings. Plus I was still strong at the end." The win completed Canal's five-game march through the loser's bracket, which began because of a 6-5 loss to Brandywine July 11. Canal then won three straight games to face an unbeaten Brandywine team again Saturday night at Frawley Stadium.

Nate Husser pitched a four-hitter as Canal pulled out a 2-1 victory to force Sunday's deciding game.

"We felt confident coming into the weekend," Husser said. "We didn't play well that first game at Brandywine, we made six errors and still only lost by one run. [Brandywine's] a very good team but we felt if we could play like we could, we would come back and win the game."

"I felt confident we could come back," said Canal manager Dave Blake. "And I'm real happy we played well. Brandywine's a great team and I would have been real proud of this team win or lose because of how well we played."

"One of the big differences between our wins and the game we lost is the way we played defense."

Canal shortstop Brock Donovan attempts to turn a double play as second baseman Kevin Maloney looks on during Saturday's championship round game against Brandywine at Frawley Stadium.

Indeed. After making four errors in the first matchup, Canal played the last two games flawlessly in the field and even made some spectacular plays.

Canal now gets an automatic berth to the Mid-Atlantic Regional, which begins July 27 in Salisbury, Md. The regional will feature another Delaware team — the survivor of a best-of-three series between Camden-Wyoming and Laurel — and two Maryland teams. The winner of the Mid-Atlantic will advance to the Eastern Regional, which will be played in West Deptford, N.J. beginning Aug. 2.

The team was managed by Dave Blake while the coaches were Ernie Spence and Bob Walcome.

Canal 13, Newark American 1 — To advance to the championship round against Brandywine, Canal first had to beat Newark American in the losers bracket final.

Peter Romano pitched a six-hitter and Nate Husser had three hits including a home run and two RBI to help lead Canal.

The winners scored twice in the first inning and three more times in the second inning to build a 5-1 lead. Canal broke the game open with six more runs in the third inning.

Matt Folke and John DiStefano had two hits each while Matt Jordan, Kevin Maloney, Tom Gallagher, Romano and Alan Haupt all had one. Chuck Epperson scored three runs while Maloney and Husser scored twice each. Devin Wiley, Shawn McCarthy, Folke, Romano, DiStefano and Haupt all scored once.

Matt Ryan had two hits for Newark American while Tony Tanzilli scored its only run.

National Juniors defeat Suburban twice to win district

► NATIONAL, from 18

National didn't stop there, however, as the district champs picked up two more runs in the fourth and five in the fifth inning to end the contest.

Plumsky and Swarter both picked up hits and scored in the fourth. The fifth inning saw Swarter, Poppitti, Thompson, Plumsky and Murray all score runs. Plumsky and Brandon Farmer both picked up two-run singles in the game-ending rally.

Pitcher Mark Rash limited Suburban to just four hits in his complete game victory.

The game marked a complete reversal from the first time the two teams met in the tournament July 10. That day saw Suburban dominate National in an 8-1 victory.

National, though, fought its way through the losers bracket, winning three straight games to advance to Saturday's game against Suburban at Frawley Stadium.

National scratched out a 5-4 victory there to force Sunday's deciding game.

"We really got on a roll playing all those games in the losers bracket," said Newark National manager Dave Poppitti. "I think playing just about every day really helped us. We found some more pitchers that did a great job. Mark Rash, Adam Poppitti, Steve Briley, Eric Spiece and R.T. Plumsky all pitched games for us.

"I know Suburban had four or five days off before Saturday's game and that probably helped us.

"We felt like we could win two games going into Saturday's game. And then after that we felt we had the momentum coming into [Sunday].

"This team has done a great job. They've worked really hard over the years. A lot of these guys have been together for the past two or three years. They've made it to some district finals but now they've got a c h a m p i o n s h i p . " Members of the District II Junior Division champions include: R.T. Plumsky, Eric Spiece, Brandon Farmer, Mark Rash, Mike Murray, Gregg Bulovas, Andrew Swarter, Adam Poppitti, Ryan Thompson, Joe McCoy, Gregg Moore, Steve Briley and Jim Jones.

Newark National 13, Brandywine 5 — To advance to the championship round Newark National had to get by Brandywine in the losers bracket final.

R.T. Plumsky and Greg Bulovas combined for eight hits and seven RBIs to lead National to the 13-5 victory Thursday at the Newark National complex.

Newark gained control in the top of the sixth inning. Plumsky hit an RBI-single to put National ahead by a run. Bulovas also had an RBI-double to score two more runs. Another run scored on an error and Newark led 8-4 after the inning.

Newark built a 4-0 lead in the early innings that included an RBI-double from Mike Murray.

Brandywine came back in the bottom of the third, scoring three runs and adding one more in the fourth to tie the game.

Plumsky went 4-for-4 with two RBIs and Bulovas was 4-for-5 with five RBIs.

"These guys did a great job when things got tight," said Newark National manager Dave Poppitti. "We pulled together as a team."

Mark Rash pitched a complete game, allowing only six hits.

Canal's Lisa Scanlon slides safely into third base during Monday's championship game.

Canal Senior girls win district

► SENIOR GIRLS from 16

Melissa Perez led off with an infield single down the third base line. Two batters later Erin McGlynn reached base on a hard hit ball to the shortstop. Watson followed with a bunt that was mis-played by Stanton-Newport, enabling pinch-runner Christi Franks and McGlynn to score the go-ahead runs.

Watson, after the first three batters in the bottom of the inning loaded the bases with two hits and a walk, struck out two batters to set up a dramatic finish. Stanton leadoff hitter Colleen Joyce ripped a line drive to right field but Canal's Jaime McLaughlin made a nice catch for the game's final out.

"I thought we could win the whole time," said Watson about falling behind early in the game. "This team has a lot of unity and team spirit. We just keep playing hard."

Watson, pitching in her first game of the tournament, allowed nine hits the complete-game victory.

"Stacey Watson did an outstanding job," said Canal manager Carl Rice. "Stanton-Newport has a great team. I'm sure they thought this was their year. But we hit the ball well and just kept battling."

Canal cut the lead to 4-3 in the third inning. McLaughlin ignited the rally with a leadoff single. Megan Richardson and Stephanie Rice followed with bunt singles to load the bases. Two batters later Melissa Perez drew a bases-loaded walk to score McLaughlin. Richardson then raced home on a wild pitch with the inning's second run.

Canal tied the game in the fifth inning. Rice led off with a single to left field and Lisa Scanlon followed with a sacrifice bunt. As Rice raced to third base on the play, the first baseman, after getting Scanlon out, threw the ball away in an attempt to get Rice out. As the ball bounced behind third base, Rice easily scored.

Canal's first run came in similar fashion. Megan Richardson led off the game with a single up the middle. Rice followed with a sacrifice bunt. Richardson just kept running on the play and the ball was thrown away in an attempt to get her out at third base. The error allowed Richardson to easily score on the play.

Perez led the way for the Canal offense with three hits while McLaughlin, Megan Richardson and Erica Richardson each had two.

Canal and Stanton-Newport played three games and 23 innings during the tournament. In the first game July 15 Canal came from five runs down to win 8-6 in nine innings. Stanton built a 4-1 lead and held on for a 6-5 victory in Monday's opener. Stanton again built a 4-1 lead in the final game before Canal rallied.

In all, Canal had the lead in just two of the 23 innings the two teams played.

"I think that we were able to come back in that first game to get the win really gave us confidence," Watson said. "We always thought we could win."

"That seems to be the character of this team," Rice said. "They just keep coming from behind and never give up."

"Even after we lost that game. We knew we had to come right back and play. The girls really did a terrific job."

Members of the District II champion Canal team celebrate their victory.

NEWARK POST ♦ OBITUARIES

Russell H. MacAllister, chemist

Former Newark resident Russell H. MacAllister died Sunday, June 29, 1997, of a stroke at Beebe Medical Center in Lewes.

Mr. MacAllister, 73, was a chemist with the DuPont Co. in Newport, where he retired in 1982 after 27 years. He was a private pilot, a member of the Civil Air Patrol rescue team and a Navy veteran of World War II. He was a member of Mason-Dixon VFW Post 7234 of Quillen's Point in Ocean View, St. Ann's Catholic Church in Bethany Beach and the Knights of Columbus. He was a 1955 graduate of Tufts University.

He is survived by his wife of 53 years, Mary F. MacAllister; sons, Stephen J. of Newport, Paul of Bear and James M. of Elkton; daughters, Joan M. Brockell of Elkton and Mary E. Gladding of Wayne, Pa.; and four grandchildren.

A mass was held July 2 at St. Ann's Catholic Church, Bethany Beach. Burial was in Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery, Summit.

In lieu of flowers the family suggests contributions to St. Ann's Catholic Church, Needy Family Fund, Delaware 26, Bethany Beach, 19930.

Mildred T. Thompson, homemaker

Newark resident Mildred T.

Thompson died Sunday, June 29, 1997, of congestive heart failure in Medpointe Continuing Care Facility, Elkton, Md.

Mrs. Thompson, 77, was a homemaker. She was a member of the Alumni Association of St. Mary's College, St. Mary's, Md., and a member of Union United Methodist Church, Elkton.

She is survived by her husband of 47 years, Charles E. Thompson Jr.; sons, Charles E. III of Bear and Kenneth A. of Newark; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

A service was held July 2 at Beeson Memorial Services of Christiana-Elkton, Fox Run. Burial was in Gracelawn Memorial Park, Minquadale.

The family suggests contributions to Union United Methodist Church, Box 176, Childs, Md. 21916.

Anna M. 'Ginny' Fleck, phone operator

Newark resident Anna M. 'Ginny' Fleck died Wednesday, July 2, 1997, of cancer at home.

Mrs. Fleck, 64, a telephone operator for 40 years, worked for Bell Atlantic, Altoona, Pa., and Diamond State Telephone Co. and AT&T, both in Wilmington. She retired in 1990. She was a member of Telephone Pioneers of America.

She is survived by her daughter and son-in-law, Jackie and Stephen Whitmore of Newark, with whom she lived; brothers, John T. McQuade of Laurel, Md., and Kenneth B.

McQuade of Jacksonville, Fla.; and sister, Nancy G. Shelley of Ocean Pines, Md.

Both service and burial were private. The family suggests contributions to Delaware Hospice.

Alphonse J. Fournier, Army veteran

Newark resident Alphonse J. Fournier died Tuesday, July 1, 1997, of cancer at home.

Mr. Fournier, 82, retired from the Army in 1957 after serving 23 years. He retired in 1975 from Chrysler Corp. after 13 years. He was a member of the Reserve Officers Association and was a life member of Houses that sell themselves

IMAGINE YOU are out driving around, when you see a yard sign that says "Talking House-Tune Your Car Radio to 1610 For Information."

Curious, you tune your radio and suddenly, the house is "talking" to you, giving details about its features.

The Talking House is actually a mini-radio station sitting in the home. It transmits a minute-and-a-half message over and over, to any car radio that tunes in. No special license is needed, and it won't interfere with TV or other radio reception.

Agents who use the device say it is a perfect solution to what buyers dislike most about house shopping—calling all those agents for basic information. People drive around collecting phone numbers after looking at yard signs. The agents all want to take their phone numbers, and the buyers often end up feeling harassed and sometimes intimidated by the entire process.

Rick Matthew, founder of Realty Electronics, Inc. who spent 30 years in real estate as an agent and broker, developed the Talking House concept in the '80s for his own business. Based in Wisconsin, Realty has sold almost 50,000 of the unique broadcasters all across the country.

Matthews said many home sellers count dozens of cars stopping and tuning in on a Saturday afternoon.

Most people are grabbed by curb appeal. Other drive-by prospects will tune in just out of curiosity. Many buyers find the "right home" is actually one they would have driven past.

The broadcasters are about the size of a telephone answering machine. They weigh just two pounds, and plug into any grounded outlet in the home.

They can be tuned to transmit on any AM frequency, though they are not powerful enough to interfere with a local station. Most users prefer 1610, but use additional frequencies when they have two Talking Houses close together. They transmit about 250 to 300 feet, so they reach the far side of the street in 99 percent of all residential settings. For further information about Talking Houses, call 1-800-444-8255.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the properties listed below were seized for violation of Title 16 of the Delaware Code. Owners or lienholders who can establish that the property was forfeited by an act or omission committed or omitted without their knowledge or consent may apply for remission at the office of the Attorney General, Forfeiture Division, Wilmington, Delaware. Persons desiring to contest the forfeiture of assets seized pursuant to Title 16 of the Delaware Code, Section 4784, may protect their interest by filing a civil petition in Superior Court within 45 days after the date of this notice, or mailed notice, whichever is later. Superior Court Civil Rule 71.3 sets out the requirements for filing a civil forfeiture petition.

PUBLIC HEARING STATEWIDE ACCESS MANAGEMENT POLICY

The Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT), is announcing the release of the Draft Statewide Access Management Policy for public review. The Draft Policy provides a combination of regulatory and administrative actions that will help determine how and where connections are made between land developments and the transportation system. The Draft Policy does not seek to limit access. Instead, it seeks to manage how appropriate access is provided to transportation infrastructure.

Beginning July 16, 1997 the Draft Policy will be available in libraries and municipal offices throughout the State. For a complete list of these locations or for a copy of the Draft Policy, please contact Mr. Joseph Cantalupo at (302) 739-2558.

Public hearings on the Draft Policy will be held to solicit comments from interested persons. Each of the hearings will utilize a workshop format where the public will have the opportunity to review display materials and ask questions of DelDOT staff. A court reporter will be available throughout each of the hearings to record formal comments. The hearings will be held at the following locations and on the following dates:

August 4, 1997 from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.
The Stanton Campus of DelTech in New Castle County
Conference Rooms 114A-116
40 Stanton-Christiana Road
Newark, DE 19713

August 5, 1997 from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.
The Terry Campus of DelTech in Kent County
Conference Room 400B
1831 North DuPont Parkway
Dover, DE 19901

August 7, 1997 from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.
The Jack Owens Campus of DelTech in Sussex County
Theatre Lobby
Route 18
Georgetown, DE 19947

As mandated by Subsection 8409, Chapter 84, Title 29 of the Delaware Code, the meetings are designed to ensure that the public has ample opportunity to participate in the transportation planning process. If requested in advance, DelDOT will make available the services of an interpreter for the hearing impaired. If an interpreter is desired, please make the request by telephone or mail to DelDOT.

Written comments on the Draft Policy will be accepted through August 18, 1997 and may be submitted, along with questions or other written material, by mail to the Office of External Affairs, DelDOT, P.O. Box 778, Dover, DE 19903 or by telephone at 1-800-652-5600.
