Two From Newark Share In Patent For Plastic Tape

Arthur H. Haroldson, Wm. P. Hogan Develop Novel Plastic Process

Arthur H. Haroldson and William Paul Hogan—both of Newark—and Edward A. Mulrooney, Jr., New Castle, Delaware are the recipients of U. S. Patent 2,915,786, entitled "Method For Making Coherent Unsintered Plastic Tape."

It is known that plastic material may be extruded into rods, tubes or sheets by steps of mixing in powdered form with a plasticizer or lubricant, extruding it in the desired shape, removing the lubricant, and then sintering the resulting product. The sintering operation is one in which a powdered mass becomes solid by heating without thoroughly melting it, and it is this action that makes the extruded plastic rod strong in a transverse or crosswise direction.

However, there are many instances in which it is desirable to have a tape of this plastic material in unsintered condition. Among these uses are conductor sheath and tube wrappings, laminations and the like.

According to Haroldson, Hogan and Mulrooney, it heretofore has been impossible to produce extruded, unsintered strips or sheets of the plastic material with the necessary side strength to be used without splitting.

In other words, if the strip was not sintered, it would split longitudinally under the slightest force.

To present a solution to this problem, Haroldson, Hogan and Mulrooney have invented an apparatus and method for continuously producing coherent, unsintered plastic strip or tape which has the necessary side strength to permit it to be used for wrappings, laminations and the like.

In accordance with their invention, the powdered plastic material is mixed with a lubricant—such as a highly refined kerosene—and while passing through the extrusion press, is acted upon in such manner that the formed, long fibers of the material become so thoroughly intertwined that the emerging tape or strip has the desired transverse strength.

Furthermore, by calendaring the tape or strip so as to elongate and widen it, the side strength is further improved.

It is claimed that the tape of strip produced in accordance with this invention, also has good density and freedom from porosity, blisters and voids.

This patent has been assigned to Continental-Diamond Fibre Corporation.

Postmaster Cooch Expresses Thanks For Public Spirit

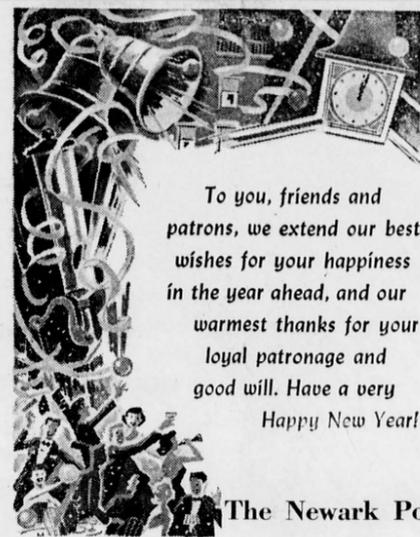

Postmaster F. Allyn Cooch, Jr., wishes to express the thanks of employees of the Newark Post Office to their patrons for the "wonderful cooperation received in the handling of Christmas mails."

"More and more people appear to be following the plans of business firms in spreading their mail," Mr. Cooch continued, "so that mail to distant points is mailed early, and all is received about the same time. This tends to spread the work in the office; in fact, we had no one big day this year, but work was spread evenly over eight or nine days, thus making for an even flow, smoother handling, and enabling us to dispatch and deliver all mail promptly and efficiently."

"We hope to be able to continue to give a high grade of service throughout the coming year," Postmaster Cooch concluded.

First Foreign Students Enroll At U. D. For Home Economics Cosmopolitan Touch

A cosmopolitan touch has been added to the University of Delaware's school of home economics this year with the school's first foreign students.

Helen Dikeakou, of Athens, Greece, and Orphira Ben-Arieh, of Israel, joined the campus community in September when they enrolled as special students in home economics education to prepare them to teach girls in their native countries.

Miss Dikeakou's opportunity to study in the United States came from the American Home Economics Association and the University of Delaware, which are sharing her expenses during her year's stay at the university. She and two other girls, who are attending Michigan State, are the first home economics students to come to America from Greece.

She is a graduate of the Harocopos Superior School, in Home Economics, the only one of its kind in Greece. After graduating from high school, Greek girls who want to enter the home economics school must study independently for a year before taking the qualifying examination in physics, chemistry, sewing and composition. Then they are eligible to enroll in the three-year course at the superior school.

This course is similar to that given in the United States except that Greek students have no opportunity to take elective courses. Course material is of a standard variety for everyone, with a broad sampling of liberal arts courses interspersed with home economics subjects.

After graduation from the superior school, the girls are qualified to teach in high schools or lower home economics schools, work as dietitians in hospitals or serve in rural extension programs. If they choose the latter occupation, they must take special examinations and a training course.

Miss Dikeakou worked for six months with the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration, which prepares girls planning to migrate to Australia and Canada as domestics. A large percentage of these girls had not completed elementary school; and as an instructor, Miss Dikeakou taught them the operation of electrical appliances, methods of house cleaning and sanitation, child care and the preparation and serving of foods.

When she returns to Greece, she will teach students at her alma mater, the Harocopos School, where there is need for qualified instructors in the field of home economics. (Continued on Page 5)

Delaware Growth Fifth In Nation Since Last Census

Delaware, with an estimated population increase of 39.7 per cent in the eight years from 1950 to 1958, is apparently the fifth fastest growing state in the Union, the State Development Department reports.
Basing its findings on adjusted population estimates of the U. S.
Census Bureau, the state information agency advises that Delaware experienced an estimated 126,000-person gain between the time of the last census and July 1, 1958, and that this gain, percentage-wise, was greater than that experienced by all other states with the exception of Nevada, Florida, Arizona and Alaska.

Nevada, the nation's fastest-growing state—percentage-wise—experienced a gain of 69.7 per cent during the same eight-year period.
Inasmuch as the United States population increased an estimated 13 per cent during the 1950-58 period, Delaware's population increase was three times that of the national average notes the Development Department.

Revised U. S. Census Bureau population estimates recently released, adjust Delaware's population to 444-000 as of July 1, 1958.

Inasmuch as it is estimated that Delaware has gained an estimated 16,000 in each of the past several years, it is possible that Delaware will have in excess of 470,000 residents at time of the decennial census next April, the development department advises.

In a brief review, Governor Boggs cited the developments that served to make Delawareans "happy and prosperous," and added his "heartfelt thanks" to those who "by their activities, have helped make their communities and their state better places in which to live."

Apparently referring to the "See the First State—First in '60" tour, Governor Boggs noted that "in 1960, Delaware and Delawareans will be hosts to the greatest influx of visitors in the long, proud history of the First State, and urged that "the warm welcome that is traditional with residents of the First State be extended these guests."

Governor Boggs concluded his traditional message by wishing all Delawareans "a happy, healthy and prosperous New Year."

Regardless of the fiber used, Miss Reed said the warmth in a blanket depends mostly on thickness of nap. It should be of good depth, fine even, springy and should not shed when brushed with your hand.

If you are looking at electric blankets be sure to check for the Underwriters' Laboratory seal and for the guarantee. The seal reflects the manufacturer's confidence in his own product. In comparing electric blanket values the time period guaranteed is the most reliable guide as to which is the best, Miss Reed said.

Now Linda Can Wear Pretty Yuletide Shoes

Linda then . . . and Linda now

Six-year-old Linda Brees of Columbus, Ohio, has been crippled from birth. She suffered from a birth defect, a disorder which seriously affects one out of every 16 babies born in the United States.

When Linda was old enough to walk, she could get around only with the aid of steel braces on her legs. That meant wearing heavy, ankle-high shoes which were not very pretty for a little girl who was otherwise developing into a real beauty.

Children with significant birth defects, known medically as congenital malformations, often face a lifetime of crippling. But there was hope in Linda's case. In her hometown, at the Columbus Children's Hospital, a new center especially designed to treat birth defects was set up with the support of the New March of Dimes funds. It is probably the world's first birth defects treatment and study center.

Linda began a series of surgical operations, treatments and exercises to strengthen the muscles she still had in her legs. Today she no longer needs the braces and can even ride a tricycle. Though she still uses crutches, the doctors at the Columbus center hope that she may soon be able to abandon them. Meanwhile, what delights Linda most is that, like other little girls, she can now wear pretty shoes.

The New March of Dimes campaign in January, 1960, is aimed at three major crippling diseases, including arthritis and polio in addition to birth defects. It is estimated that one out of every four American children is affected by these disorders. Linda's progress toward a healthy, normal life symbolizes the hope held out by the New March of Dimes for millions of sufferers from crippling diseases.

Confidence Voiced In Boggs Message For the New Year

In his annual New Year's message, released at his office in Dover this Wednesday, Governor J. Caleb Boggs pointed out that there is "much to be done in the New Year" but expressed confidence that Delawareans "working in the public interest, can accomplish all these things" and make Delaware "first in every field of endeavor."

With a backward glance, the chief executive noted that "while 1959 brought us some disappointments, trials and tribulations, it also produced many bright moments."

In a brief review, Governor Boggs cited the developments that served to make Delawareans "happy and prosperous," and added his "heartfelt thanks" to those who "by their activities, have helped make their communities and their state better places in which to live."

Apparently referring to the "See the First State—First in '60" tour, Governor Boggs noted that "in 1960, Delaware and Delawareans will be hosts to the greatest influx of visitors in the long, proud history of the First State, and urged that "the warm welcome that is traditional with residents of the First State be extended these guests."

Governor Boggs concluded his traditional message by wishing all Delawareans "a happy, healthy and prosperous New Year."

Regardless of the fiber used, Miss Reed said the warmth in a blanket depends mostly on thickness of nap. It should be of good depth, fine even, springy and should not shed when brushed with your hand.

If you are looking at electric blankets be sure to check for the Underwriters' Laboratory seal and for the guarantee. The seal reflects the manufacturer's confidence in his own product. In comparing electric blanket values the time period guaranteed is the most reliable guide as to which is the best, Miss Reed said.

ANOTHER SPACE RACE

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

How do you want your next pay raise—in more money or in lower prices?

Dr. Ralph Robey, a nationally known economist, points out that since World War II almost every American worker has received a wage increase every year. The growth of output per man hour hasn't been enough to cover these increases, so business management has passed on part of the cost to the consumer in higher prices for products. Rather than continue to pay higher prices, consumers are turning to substitute products, many of them made abroad.

"In my personal judgment," says Dr. Robey, "the time has come to start using the entire growth in output per man hour for a reduction of prices. This will not undermine the welfare of workers. It would mean that their present wages would buy more and more as the cost of living declined. That certainly is better than getting slightly higher wages which buy less and less."

Such a change in wage policy could not be made overnight. But it is something for wage earners, unions, business management, the government, and all of us to think about.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR HOLDS HIS OWN

The family doctor holds a high and honorable place in American history and tradition. The very phrase brings up pictures of a dedicated physician, fighting his way through storm and darkness in a horse and buggy or a primitive car.

Yet, some years ago there was a feeling that the family doctor was on the way out, and that medical knowledge had become so vast and treatment so complex that only specialists could meet the need. And, for a time, the statistics bore this idea out. In 1940, only one medical student in 10 planned on entering general practice. But a dramatic change has taken place. Today, six medical students in 10 will go into general practice.

There are good reasons for this. The general practitioner of today is far more competent, far more knowledgeable, than his predecessors. Postgraduate work, reading, medical meetings and other factors see to it that he keeps up with medical progress. And there is more to the matter than just the question of competence. The family doctor fills a niche that no one else can fill. He knows his patients—and they know him, as a friend as well as a medical man. He is on call when needed. He brings with him confidence and peace of mind—psychological medicines, so to speak, which are important to building and regaining health. He knows when a specialist should be summoned, and what kind.

The American scene wouldn't be the same without the family doctor. It's good to know that he is holding his important place in the great canvas of American medicines.

Foreign Students

As an interesting sidelight, she mentioned that out of some 300 girls enrolled in the college, only two are married. Most of the Greek girls are interested in careers, and it is surprising to her that so many American college girls are married.

Unlike Miss Dikeakou, Israel's Ophira Ben-Arieh is combining marriage and a career as so many American women do nowadays.

Ophira's husband is a graduate student in business administration at the University of Delaware, and they are settled comfortably in one of the new married couples' apartments on the campus.

Last August Mrs. Ben-Arieh received word that she had been chosen to receive a scholarship from the International Cooperation Administration of the United States to study secondary school programs in home economics in America and to determine how these methods could be adapted to develop and strengthen home economics education in Israel. When she returns, she will be qualified to teach in high school and college.

Mrs. Ben-Arieh was graduated from Jerusalem's Alice Solisberg High School in 1952 and then entered the Teachers College of Nutrition and Home Economics, where she was a member of the very first class. After graduation in 1952, she moved to Beer-Sheva and taught secondary school there. In this position she shared in the guidance of girls who prepared the school lunch.

Mrs. Ben-Arieh's teaching of home economics at the secondary school level began in the Beer-Sheva Secondary School, which has an enrollment of 300 girls and boys and a staff of 20 teachers.

It is difficult to form opinions of a country when one has not lived there long, and neither of the foreign students is eager to voice impressions of the United States until they learn more about its culture, the people and their customs.

They are emphatic in their liking for the University of Delaware, however, not only because it is relatively small and they don't feel lost, but because of the generous assistance and cordiality extended by their classmates and instructors.

Miss Dikeakou is particularly impressed by the friendly relationship among faculty and students. In her country most of the professors and teachers remain aloof and don't encourage a personal relationship with their students.

Mrs. Catherine V. Beiber, assistant professor of home economics and advisor to the girls, finds her first experience as an advisor to foreign students a challenging and rewarding one.

"Now that they have improved their fluency in English," she says, "they are able to share and compare their ideas and training with those of our girls. Since they are both experienced teachers, they have much to offer to our students enrolled in home economics education."

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton
U. of D. Agricultural Extension Service

It's the time of year for New Year resolutions. Why not make one of those resolutions—to serve more delectable meals during the next 12 months. The January plentiful foods will help make this promise easy to fulfill.

Eggs are the feature item among plentiful foods. Egg supplies increase seasonally from January through March, and so prices are expected to be lower in January and February than they were last fall. Also, these plentiful eggs are of unusually high quality because of cool winter weather. As for size, large eggs are more abundant and prices are reasonable. Take advantage of the low prices and serve economical, nutritious main dishes made with eggs.

Other foods listed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as being plentiful during January are apples, cranberries, oranges, and raisins among the fruits.

Florida's crop of early and mid-season oranges is expected to total 93 million boxes, or seven million more than a year ago. The Florida orange is particularly plentiful so why not greet the family at breakfast time with fresh squeezed orange juice. There are so many ways to use this delicious fruit—in Ambrosia, congealed salads, orange muffins, rolls, pudding, orange salad dressing, refrigerator cookies and orange date slaw are just a few ideas of ways to use this fruit.

Of course, nothing could be better than eating the orange fresh just as it is.

Retail prices for yellow onions and for sweet potatoes are lower than a year ago. Both vegetables come from storage, so their continued good supply is more assured than that of winter vegetables subject to weather in growing areas.

Celery from Florida, small and medium size carrots from Texas, and cabbage also are available with reasonable prices.

For salads, escarole and endive are lower in prices than lettuce. Red meat supplies are very favorable now and will continue so after the holiday season is over—particularly pork and lamb.

Look for good buys on steaks, chops, and roasts of beef, pork, veal and lamb.

Fresh fish that are in good supply and at reasonable prices are flounder, cod, pollock, whiting and porge.

Among shellfish look for clams, lobster, bay and sea scallops, and shrimp to be more plentiful.

One For The Road, Two For Hospital Council Cautions

One for the road often means two or more for the hospital, the Delaware Safety Council said yesterday. In a campaign against the combination of holiday drinking and driving, the Council urged Delawareans to take a new look at their party habits and keep the cork in the bottle for a safe period before driving tonight and every night.

"We have no desire to dampen the New Year holiday spirit," the council officials said. "We only want to eliminate a definite source of death and destruction on the highway."

National Safety Council surveys show that a drinking driver was involved in 55 per cent of the holiday accidents last year.

Social drinkers—not the obvious drunk—are the big menace on the highway, the council reports.

Car-weavings of the obvious drunk usually can be detected or avoided, but the social drunk—whose critical judgment is impaired even with a small amount of alcohol—appears normal until his wits fail him in an emergency.

Three hours are needed to work off the effect of two cocktails, the council warns the social drinker. "And coffee doesn't help. Or, if time will eliminate alcohol from the blood stream."

The council also warns that no one is liquor-proof, although some persons can tolerate alcohol better than others due to body weight and other physical factors.

But even some impairment of judgment can be a life or death matter at the wheel.

Harold W. Ritchey Directs Thiokol's Rocket Divisions

Joseph W. Crosby, president of Thiokol Chemical Corporation, announced last week that Dr. Harold W. Ritchey has been appointed vice-president in charge of rocket divisions.

The Elkhart (Md.) division, is one of five reporting to Ritchey.

Both Dr. Ritchey and Joseph S. Jorczak, vice-president in charge of the specialties division, were named to the board of directors of the corporation.

Dr. Ritchey has been a vice-president and technical director of the rocket divisions. Now, the 47-year-old executive-scientist assumes managerial control of the largest portion of Thiokol operations while retaining the technical leadership in propellant technology and rocket designs.

An enthusiastic advocate of solid fuels in rocketry from the years when large missiles were liquid-fueled, Ritchey has proposed a practical, solid-propellant engine 30-ft. in diameter and 107-ft. long that will produce 10 million pounds of thrust, about 10 times as much as current ICBM missiles.

Ez Tike is keeping his chickens home now. It seems Phil Budley who lives next door to Ez hid a dozen eggs under his own porch one night and then let Ez see him gather them up the next morning.—The Gilecrafter

Touchdown Club To Honor NHS Seniors With Annual Banquet Next Monday Night

Coach Bob Hoffman and his one-beaten Newark High School Yellowjacket senior gridder, led by Co-Captains Monty Jackson and Carl Rice, will be guests of honor at the fourth annual banquet of the Newark Touchdown Club on Jan. 4.

George A. Hansell, athletic director and head football coach at Pennsylvania Military College, will be the principal speaker at the banquet in the Newark Country Club. A social hour at 6 will be followed by dinner at 7 p.m.

In his seven-year tenure as head football coach at PMC, Hansell has compiled a 39-16 record, having an undefeated team in 1954; winning the 1958 Middle Atlantic Conference southern college division championship in 1958, and finishing in second place in the conference race this year.

A football and track star at Lower Merion High School, and at Dickinson College, Hansell taught and coached football and track at Media High School before accepting his present post at PMC.

Other guests, President Bayard Perry reports, will include Lt. Gov. David P. Buckson; Billy Cole, perennial foe and coach at William Penn; Wayne Pollari, coach of the new Blue Hen Conference champions at Mt. Pleasant; Dick Musselman and Cliff Browning, Newark coaches; George Sargisson, director of Recreation Promotion and Service; Bud Dudley, Liberty Bowl promoter and Municipal Stadium official at Philadelphia; Russell Hurley and Bill Gerow, of the Wilmington Touchdown Club.

The University of Delaware coaching staff, headed by Dave Nelson, has been invited, along with Blue Hen Football Captain Mark Hurr; Captain-Elect Mickey Heinecken; and Halfback Jack Turner.

Alden "Whitey" Burnham will be toastmaster, and former Newark High School football coaches Don Miller, now at Amherst; and Bill Gillespie, now at Pompton Lakes, and last year's principal speaker, have been invited as special guests.

Delaware's duck hunting season ran out last Saturday, and this Saturday winds up the legal shooting of geese, rinds, quail and pheasant. And brant, too, although it is doubtful if a brant has been killed—or seen—in the Diamond State all season.

This current hunting season has provided many disappointments for many sportsmen—but that's about par for the course. Even in the halcyon hunting days of the market men, the gunning was disappointing for many. Few do get the gunning they expect—and that's been true over the years.

However, thanks to the efforts and foresight of game conservation officials and other sportsmen throughout our nation—Delaware's Norm Wilder, Tony Florio, Bob Beck, and Newark's Bill Wideman, to name a few at home—we do have game available for the average sportsman—with 1960 coming up. And that's taken a lot of doing.

Lack of hunting success in the field this season has been largely a matter of not being in the right place at the right time.

Top Outdoorsman Of Past 25 Years To Receive Award

Nominations Requested In Area For 25th Annual Philadelphia Sport Show

Men and women from this area who are interested in sports are invited to help nominate "The Outstanding Outdoorsman of the Past 25 Years."

The award will be given in conjunction with the annual Philadelphia Motor Boat and Sportsman Show's 25th anniversary exhibition at Convention Hall, Feb. 26 through March 5.

Any man—living or dead—in the Delaware Valley area "who has contributed the most to his community in the outdoors world of sporting" will be eligible for the award.

Nominations should be submitted to Clinton W. Smullen, show secretary, Commercial Trust Building, Philadelphia 2, Pa.

Last year dual awards were presented to Barney Berlinger, former U. S. decathlon champion, and Martha Gable, a member of the U. S. Women's Olympic Gym Committee. They were selected as the "Outstanding Outdoorsman" and the "Outstanding Outdoors Woman" of the year.

Plans are underway to make this 25th anniversary show the biggest and most exciting in the show's history.

This year's marine exhibits will include everything from tiny one-man dinghies to palatial 40-ft. cruisers. In addition, inboard and outboard motors, and all that is new in marine equipment will be displayed.

Show hours will be from 1 to 11 p.m. daily. The show will be closed Sundays.

Last Sunday, crossing over Hunting Creek in Alexandria, Va., where we yearningly observed our first wildfowler with double barreled gun, duck boat, and decoys too many years ago, we saw thousands of ducks sunning themselves at the mouth of the creek on the Potomac River within minutes of the nation's capital—and capitol.

There were more ducks there last Sunday than we ever saw some 30 years ago in that same area—and that's a tribute to conservation measures. Long may they fly!

Cortland's Line Company's Public Relation Dick Jennings has sent us his jottings entitled "Once Upon A Lake . . . or Fish Stories That Have Pleasured Me."

"The element of chance is so great in fishing that it attracts people with imagination, once engaged in it, these same people seem to really go into orbit when recounting their experiences," Dick Jennings jots.

"There's old Bob Meeks, a fishing guide in Arkansas. As I sat in the boat with him, he said, 'Careful where you throw that cigarette—it's been so dry you might set the lake on fire.'"

"It's pretty dry but I've seen it worse. I remember one summer back in Kentucky it got real dry. We caught catfish by the ton. No trick to it at all. We'd spot 'em a mile away by the cloud of dust they raised as they swam up the creek. Just get down to the stream bed and herd 'em into a cove."

"It did rain eventually and it got right damp for a spell. The creek ran so high that I drove a load of hay right under it—and never wet a sprig of that hay. The creek backed up awful fast. It reversed a grist mill and before they could get the darned thing shut off it had unground seven bushels of corn. Another 10 minutes and I believe it would have put the corn back on the cobs."

"Wet weather made the wild animals real mean and they wuz fightin' all the time. I saw two boar coons get into it right over there on that sand bar. They climbed onto each other's back so fast that in minutes they wuz plumb out of sight, right up there."

"And with a bony finger Bob pointed skyward."

"Then he told me of the time he had a Texan in his boat who hooked a nice seven-pound bass. Although he probably had never caught anything better than two pounds in his life, being a son of the Lone Star State, he had to remark: 'As Bob netted the fish and prepared to string it' 'Surely, you're not going to put a little bitty fish like that on a stringer. Why down in Texas we throw those little ones back!'"

"We do here too, Mister," says Bob and he pitches the fish back in the water."

"That last one leaves us with a gone feeling in the pit of the old tummy, Mr. Jennings!"

Hens Stopped Twice in Downeast Tourney By Bowdoin And St. Michael's At Bangor

Delaware, defeated and downcast in Downeast Basketball Invitational Tournament play after successive setbacks to Bowdoin and St. Michael's, takes the boards this afternoon against Bates to decide seventh place among the tourney titlists.

Bowdoin beat Coach Irv Wisniewski's Fighting Blue Hens, 55-53, in the final 25 seconds of the Maine tournament opener at Bangor on Monday, and St. Michael's stopped Delaware, 71-66, in the losers' bracket yesterday.

The Hens, however, were in both ball games all the way, despite a 7-1 record for the season.

Bowdoin blew a 15-point lead before Simons, top scorer with 23 points, took charge in the closing seconds. His jump shot broke a 31-all tie with 25 seconds left.

After Tom Adams hit to tie the score again, Simons was fouled and sank both free throws to win the game.

Gil Mahla led Delaware with 15 points in the first half.

With St. Michael's of Winooski, Vt., the Blue Hens made their best showing in the first half when Tom Hamilton and Jack Baly hit consistently to construct a seven-point lead.

By halftime, however, the Delaware advantage had shrunk to two points at 40-38.

St. Michael's, last year's tournament champion, immediately moved ahead on goals by Al Weir and Charlie Hart when the second half started, and Delaware never was able to regain the lead.

With 10 minutes of the contest remaining St. Michael's Purple Knights were in command with a 10-point margin.

However, Delaware did manage to shave that deficit in half before the final whistle.

Tom Hamilton led the Hens with 16.

Hughes Scores 22 In Jackson's Win Over Continental

Close scores featured recent holiday activity in the various Newark Recreation Association basketball leagues.

In the senior division, Jackson's outlasted the Continental Diamond Fibre quintet, 37-30, as captain Don Hughes paced Jackson's scoring with 22 points, while Continental's Frank Porter sank 17.

The Delaware State Police staved off a determined Avon rally to win in the closing seconds, 37-36, as Billy Knott's tossed in the winning basket. The State Police led 21-13 at the half, only to have Avon really press the troopers in the second half.

Big Bill DeLar paced Avon's scoring with 14 points.

In the Oglethorpe Junior Boys seventh grade division, the Vulturnes won a well-played victory over the Warriors 20-16. Gene Christmann led the winners with 10 points.

In the Oglethorpe senior boys section, the Blackhawks defeated the Beatniks, 35-17. Bayard Hendricks was the big man for the Blackhawks with 21 points, while Lynn Keene led the Beatniks with eight.

The Vampires trounced the Colts, 36-8, as Tom Sharrah continued his high scoring with 22 of the Vampires points. Tom Bles had five points for the Colts.

Coach Bill Conrad's Yellowjackets Face Kennett Square Cagers Tuesday At Home

Coach Bill Conrad's Yellowjacket varsity cagers of Newark High School return to action after the holidays in a home stand next Tuesday night with the Kennett Square squad, and the Yellowjackets face their first conference competition of the campaign at home on Friday night of next week with P. S. duPont's Dynamiters coached by Al "Buddy" Clark.

Football co-captain Carl Rice was the game's top scorer with 19 points against the Brown Vocational High School cagers, as Newark lost the season's interscholastic opener, 60-44, in a trip to Wilmington.

Rice led the Newark varsity with 20 points in defeating the Yellowjacket Alumni, 52-45, in the first test of the new schedule.

Rice heads a trio of Newark lettermen, including Marshall Saunders and Alan Adams, while squad members Joe Studier and Werner Goekle have had varsity experience.

CARE IN GIVING TRANQUILIZERS

By Dr. E. M. Gildow
Director, Friskies Research Kennels

Taking tranquilizers has become fashionable, much to the medical profession's concern. And since "what's good for me must be good for my dog, too" is the motto of many pet owners, the number of dogs getting indiscriminate doses of tranquilizers is on the upswing. Veterinarians are concerned with this turn of events.

Tranquilizers definitely have an important place in canine medicine. Given before surgery

Planning, Zoning Topics For League Of Women Voters

Public Meetings Planned For Wednesday, Thursday In Newark For Next Week

Planning and zoning in Newark will be January's topic for study and discussion by the League of Women Voters of Newark.

First meetings will be held next Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Joseph R. Perkins, president, 403 West Chestnut Hill Road, and next Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. William Long, 403 Country Club Drive.

Three major areas have been outlined for consideration by the league's planning and zoning committee—existing growth pattern in Newark; planning and zoning in relation to growth problems; and what would be involved in a comprehensive plan for Newark.

"Next week's meetings will cover the first two points and will lead up to the third which will be discussed later in January," Mrs. Jerry Nelson, chairman, announced.

"We hope to lay the background for ideas on future planning by a thorough discussion of the problems Newark has faced, and efforts made to meet them through present zoning and planning ordinances."

"Some perspective on Newark's situation will be suggested by highlights from 'The Exploding Metropolitan Area' which Mrs. E. Vernon Lewis will review for us," Mrs. Nelson continued.

"Our committee has had a fascinating time delving into this whole subject and the information we have is offered as a springboard for group discussion," she said.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. John E. Eldridge, Mrs. Halsey MacPhee, Mrs. Joseph R. Perkins and Mrs. Clyde R. Richards.

The Wednesday morning discussion is to begin promptly at 10 o'clock, and coffee will be served at 9:45 for those able to come early.

The Thursday morning discussion is to begin promptly at 10 o'clock, and coffee will be served at 9:45 for those able to come early.

"The same material will be covered at both meetings. If you can't go to one, please try to attend the other," Mrs. Duff said. "Non-members are always welcome, and I shall be happy to arrange transportation."

Robert Cunningham of the university extension division, and Wendell H. Russell, Oak Ridge Institute, have joined in the planning.

"Atoms at Work" is a large walk-through exhibit mounted in a specially designed van. Directed by a trained exhibit manager, it is intended to indicate peacetime uses of atomic energy in the fields of medicine, agriculture, and industry.

The exhibit includes photographs, samples and animated models, and the services of the exhibit manager are available for lectures before interested groups.

All arrangements in the towns in which the exhibit will appear will be handled by the local Jaycees.

While the exhibit will be made available to the general public at each location, particular emphasis during the Delaware tour will be placed on showings at junior and senior high schools, and colleges.

The exhibit manager for Delaware is Russell. He has received a graduate of Lincoln Memorial University, Tenn. Mr. Marsee was a high school teacher before joining the Oak Ridge Institute. In preparation for his appointment as exhibit manager, he has received a special training in nuclear science at the institute.

The exhibit will be in Newark on Jan. 16.

ABUNDANT LIFE

NEWSPAPER REPORTER SAVES A WOULD-BE SUICIDE ON CHRISTMAS EVE

It was Christmas Eve. A police reporter on the Seattle Post Intelligence of Seattle, Washington, was sitting at his typewriter when suddenly an overwhelming impulse came to him. Not knowing why, he hurried to Pioneer Square, three blocks away, just in time to knock a loaded pistol away from the head of a man about to shoot himself.

A cold rain was falling, and the gun slid across the glistening grass. Everything seemed so unreal that the reporter felt he was enacting a strange drama. Across the street at a glance he noticed the time shown by a clock in the window of a restaurant. It was five minutes past seven.

Just a few minutes before, he had been sitting at his typewriter. Now here he was in Seattle's "skid row" with a man he had just saved from death.

Where did the impulse come from that sent him out into the dreary night? What had sent him directly to the spot where a human being was about to hurl himself into eternity?

The man dropped on his knees and began stumbling in the wet grass for the gun. The reporter pushed him with his foot and he sprawled on his face. Then the reporter picked up the gun. "Let's go home," he said. "Where do you live? What's your name? Is it Jack?"

Suddenly the reporter realized why the impulse had come to him at exactly seven o'clock. Prayer had spanned the distance and God had used him as an answer to her prayers. (This story was related by Alexander Lake in Your Prayers Are Always Answered!)

It is my firm conviction that prayer is the greatest privilege God ever gave a human being.

Perkins Cites Need For High Salaries With Competition For Faculty Members

Salaries for faculty members in America's colleges and universities must move to an entirely new level if democratic government is to meet the test of the '60's, Dr. John A. Perkins, president of the University of Delaware, warns in his annual report for 1958-59.

"Professors in Russia are among the highest paid people in that incentive-conscious system, incoherently called 'Communism,'" Dr. Perkins writes. "Are the American people and their representatives, out of short-run, personal selfishness, to withhold incentives and defeat themselves and their nation in the long run?"

In today's competitive teacher market, all the advantages of a quality institution are essential to attract additional capable staff to provide bona fide higher education for a greater number of Delaware youth, Dr. Perkins says, but that "salary is so important in the recruitment and retention of faculty that it warrants special consideration."

"As long as faculty salaries were wretched," Dr. Perkins declares, "everyone conceded improvement was necessary. Since improvements have been made, there will be those who may hesitate about raising salaries further. To justify their position, they will doubtless make illogical salary comparisons."

"University staffs must be remunerated for what they are," Perkins said. "They are not temporary, part-time, political office-holders with business or farm income behind them. They are not high grade clerks or skilled craftsmen. A competent professor is a man with intellectual talents far beyond the ordinary person."

"He invests more years in his life's work than any other professional man except the medical doctor. He is sought after by business, government, and international agencies at salaries considerably above university pay scales."

Supporting his argument with examples from his own experience at the University of Delaware, Dr. Perkins notes that one woman graduate in the 1959 class was given a beginning salary approximately that of the average Delaware faculty member with a doctor's degree and 10 years' experience in his profession. Moreover, Delaware's chemistry department faculty were, until recently, receiving salaries averaging less than those offered to the doctoral graduates they are producing.

"Niggardly pay for the college teacher, in view of his ability and training, forces him to take a job elsewhere," Dr. Perkins says. "It also discourages young people of high ability from even beginning academic careers. It causes the most important well-spring of our economy to dry up. In the nation as a whole faculty salaries must move to an entirely new level."

"Women's organizations and others concerned to recruit youth for college teaching careers had best put their energies to bringing about a wide citizen understanding of the vital necessity for higher salaries," President Perkins concludes.

So long as we are full of self we are shocked at the faults of others.
