BIG REPUBLICAN MEETING TOMORROW NIGHT

Joseph B. Lutton Long Prominent Here Dies At Age Of 80

Was One of Three Surviving
Charter Members of Aetna
Fire Company—Had Been Ill 33 Weeks

FUNERAL IS TOMORROW

Another familiar figure of Newark passed to other fields Monday afternoon when Joseph B. Lutton, for years one of the town's most prominent citizens, died at his home on East Main Street.

Death came at the end of an illness of thirty-three weeks, during which time he was faithfully nursed by his wife, Mrs. Emma Pierce Lutton. Mr. Lutton was 80 years old.

For many years, Joseph Lutton was a prominent and active figure in the affairs of Newark. Always in the fore of good movements, he was instrumental in forming the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company, being one of the three surviving members. A great deal of the labor in keeping the organization together in its early days fell on the shoulders of H. B. Wright and himself.

He was a blacksmith by trade and did a prosperous business practically all his active life. For many years his shop stood at the corner of Main and Choate Streets, on the site now occupied by Lovett's furniture store. He retired from business about fifteen years ago.

In addition to his fore company labors, Mr. Lutton was a Town Councilman for several terms from the east district of town, and acquitted himself in that capacity with real ability. He was known by hundreds of people of the town and vicinity, and was a highly respected resident of the community.

GLASGOW-ELKTON ROAD ALMOST READY

Last Link of New Thoroughfare Completed This Week;
Short Cut To City

The last block of concrete on the new Elkton-Glasgow road was laid Monday of this week.

The Broad Creek Construction Company, under whose direction the contract was completed, has now connected their end of the road with that between Glasgow and the Delaware Line.

In about twenty days the road will be opened to traffic. The work of building a concrete bridge over Big Elk Creek, at the foot of Delaware Avenue, Elkton, to replace the old wooden structure which has been in use for more than fifty years, has been started, but it will probably be three months before it is completed. During the meantime the old bridge will be used. When the Elkton-Glasgow road is opened for traffic, it is predicted that it will be the main thoroughfare between Elkton and Wilmington, because automobiles will not be required to pass through crowded towns.

Fire Prevention Prize Essay Chosen From Over 350 Young Competitors

From a mass of essays contributed by over 350 pupils of the Grammar and High Schools here, the effort of Margaret Seelye, a member of the Senior Class, has been chosen as winner of the cash prize offered by Fire Chief E. C. Wilson. Announcement of the award was made by Superintendent Owens yesterday.

The essays were on the general subject of "Fire Prevention," and the winner was entitled "How I Can Prevent a Fire."

Honorable mention in the contest was given to two other pupils, Clara Martin, a Junior in High School, and Jennie Slack, 8th grade.

JUDGE VICTOR WOOLEY ADDRESSES STUDENTS

Talk Is Filled With Reminiscences of Life at Delaware

Judge Victor B. Wooley, of the Federal Court for Delaware in Wilmington, was the speaker at the College Assembly in Wolf Hall yesterday morning. The auditorium was jammed with students and faculty of both the Men's and Women's College to hear him speak.

Judge Wooley was introduced by President Hullahen. Seated also on the platform was Judge Hugh M. Morris, of the District Court in Wilmington.

In his talk before students of the college he attended, Judge Wooley delved into the past and brought out some delightful reminiscences of his life here as a student. His remarks were interspersed at intervals with humorous anecdotes, frequently bringing bursts of laughter from the audience.

In swinging to his subject, "State and Federal Courts, Their Relations and Purposes," the speaker devoted a great deal of his time to an appeal for individual support of the Constitution and the courts whose duty it is to uphold that document.

Following the address, President Hullahen accompanied Judges Wooley and Morris to the Deer Park Hotel, where they had luncheon.

POPULAR NEWARK GIRL WEDS THIS AFTERNOON

Miss Mary C. Chalmers and Frank Cohee Married This Afternoon at Manse

Miss Mary Clark Chalmers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Cameron Chalmers, of Elkton Avenue, and Mr. Frank Godwin Cohee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cohee, of Wilmington, were married at four o'clock this afternoon by the Rev. H. Everett Hallman, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here.

The wedding was strictly private, and was attended only by Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dickey, of Newark, the latter a sister of the bride. The ceremony was performed in the Presbyterian manse on West Main Street.

Mrs. Cohee has lived in Newark all her life and is extremely well known throughout the community. Upon her leaving the High School here, she became connected with the local branch of the American Stores Co., on Main Street, where she has been for several years. Mr. Cohee is connected with the Prudential Life Insurance Company of Wilmington.

Following a short wedding trip in the South, the couple will be at home at 13 Third Avenue, Claymont, Del.

CO. FIREMEN TO MEET

To Discuss Proposed Legislation Tomorrow Night

A meeting of volunteer fire companies of New Castle County has been called for tomorrow night in the Aetna Fire House here. It is scheduled to begin at eight o'clock. The meeting is reported to have been called by the president of the State Firemen's Association.

Questions and discussion pertaining to the working out of legislation to be presented to the next Legislature by the Association, will be the chief item of business.

Judges Swamped

Three judges were appointed to go over the essays. They were Joseph McVey, of the Parent-Teacher Association; Mrs. George Paine, of the New Century Club; and George W. Griffin, of the Chamber of Commerce.

The judges slowly waded out the papers until there were fifteen remaining. Those in the select fifteen were Elizabeth Campbell, Elizabeth Milliken, Erica Grothenn, Grace Holden, Jacob Handloff, Robert Thoroughgood, Iva Eastburn, Harry William.

Fire Siren Is Center Of Debate Here Monday

Council, Fire Company and Manufacturers in Verbal Battle—Claim Hood Is On Wrong

Accompanied by a wailing crescendo of the pesky thing itself, Town Council, members and officers of the Aetna Fire Company, and representatives of the Federal Electric Company of Philadelphia, came to grips over the town's fire siren Monday afternoon.

The siren blew; the battle raged within the Council Chamber, on the sidewalk outside and throughout journeys about town. As far as can be learned at this time, it appears that the electric company held a light edge over the local authorities at the end of the day.

According to the manufacturers, the hood over the siren had been put on wrong, thus deflecting the sound away from the town out into the country. On the other hand, Daniel Stoll, under whose direction the hood was placed, claimed that the work was done exactly according to instructions from the company.

Made Thorough Inspection
Messrs. Litzenberg and Lippincott, representatives of the Philadelphia office of the company, Mayor Frazer, Councilmen Beals, Widdoes, Wilson and Grier, and Warren A. Singles, J. R. Fulton, George W. Rhodes, Daniel Stoll, all prominent and active members of the fire company, met in the Council office during the noon hour.

According to Councilmen, the company is expected to erect and place in satisfactory operation the siren, and the cost of changing the hood must be borne by them. It is believed that the tower will be ready for active use.

RECORD OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

General du Pont presents the issues of the Campaign from a business man's point of view

Candidate for United States Senator addresses the citizens of this community

REPUBLICANISM FROM A BUSINESS STANDPOINT
When I want to know anything about a man's business, the first thing I call for is a balance sheet. If he has no balance sheet, a statement. If he has no statement or keeps his books in his head, it is usually a pretty hard proposition to get at facts.

Just so with politics. What is the financial condition of the organization? What have they done from a cold-blooded business standpoint? Let us analyze: When the war was over, and the Republicans put in the saddle in Washington, they immediately started to get business into politics. The result, by the adoption of General Dawes' budget, was the saving of about $2,000,000,000 or a little more per annum. They then enacted the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Bill. This increased the revenue about as much or say to about $5,000,000,000 per annum. To put these figures so they will mean something, it means the saving of $1,000,000 an hour by methods put in by the Republicans and this is a pretty good record.

The balance sheet or record shows well and a business man becomes interested. He says, "Well, this is a pretty good concern to become interested in." This is the Republican Party's National record.

OUR STATE FROM A BUSINESS STANDPOINT

When I got into Delaware politics, soon after I came to the State, because I felt it my duty to do so, the treasury was not in a very good condition. The Republicans had recently come into power. The balance in bank was less than $100,000. After twenty-four years of Republican administration and control, their resources today are $3,500,000. Their cash balance is $2,000,000. Their indebtedness does not exceed their marketable assets except the bonds that are issued to build roads which are being taken care of and will be taken care of in a good business-like way. There are the Republican Party statements, there are their records. A pretty good management to leave in charge of the business affairs of the state and good enough reasons for any business man to support the Republican ticket nationally and locally from a business standpoint.

LOCAL COURT NEWS

The hearing of Mrs. Grace Gribble vs. her husband, Robert Gribble, was taken up in Magistrate Thompson's court on Thursday evening last.

Mrs. Gribble brought the charges, involving trespassing and threats. Both principles are of Newark. After hearing the evidence, the magistrate dismissed the case.

Four young boys of the east section of town were arrested last week charged with misdemeanor. They were accused of placing a felt shingle loaded with heavy tacks in the center of Main street near the Pomeroy station. All four were given a hearing Friday evening, and were sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars each.

After several postponements, the case of Geist and Geist, local hardware men, against William Toy, of near Iron Hill, is scheduled to come up in the court here tomorrow evening at seven o'clock. It is a civil suit involving the sale of goods by Geist and Geist.

Hallowe'en Parade In Elkton Friday Night

Three Bands Engaged—Many Prizes Are Offered For Big Annual Event

Elkton will again turn the town over to witches, goblins and mummers Friday evening next, when the annual Hallowe'en frolic will be held.

The parade starts promptly at seven o'clock, and will proceed through all the principal streets of the town. The judges' stand will be erected on North street near the Singler Fire House and from that vantage point, five judges, three women and two men, will decide the winners in the various classes.

On another page of THE POST this week will be found the list of prizes offered by the business men of Elkton and vicinity. It is quite an imposing list and will no doubt bring out many contenders.

This year, the affair is being run by the younger men in the town, with several High School leaders in the forefront of the campaign. For the past five or six years the frolic has been managed by a committee of business men with William C. Feehly, H. Winfield Lewis and Sidney and Michael Lipman as the active heads.

Mr. Feehly, although out of the harness in favor of younger hands, is, nevertheless, helping in every way to make this year's parade a success, and it is very probable that the other men in the group will be seen taking active parts Friday night.

Taylor W. McKinney will again act as Chief Marshal of the parade. The line will form on West Main street and parade for about an hour. It is expected that a Hallowe'en dance will follow in the Armory.

Three bands have so far been engaged for the affair, it was stated yesterday. Among them are the Continental Band of Newark and the Elkton Band. There may be another organization in the line, making four in all.

LOCAL COUPLE WEDDED

Miss Stroud and George Jackson Surprise Friends Here

Slipping quietly away to Elkton last Monday, Miss Mary Emily Stroud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Stroud, of near Newark, became the bride of George F. Jackson, also of Newark. News of the marriage began to leak out a few days ago, and both parties are being congratulated by their many friends.

Mr. Jackson has been connected for several years with the hardware business of H. B. Wright, on East Main Street. As far as is known no plans have been announced for their permanent residence.

BIG COMMUNITY SHOW

Appleton Grange's Annual Affair A Success

Residents of the Third and Fourth Districts of Cecil County sent scores of exhibits to the annual Community Show given by the Appleton Grange last Thursday. Handsome and useful prizes were given to winners in each class. Many of the prizes were donated by Newark business firms.

Hon. Edward C. Stokes, du Pont, Houston and Ball Among Speakers

R. P. Robinson Also Expected to Meet Local Voters in Opera House Meeting

The people of Newark and surrounding community will have the rare privilege tomorrow evening of hearing the most interesting group of speakers appearing anywhere in the State during the course of the Republican campaign.

Republicans, the La Follette boys, and even the Democrats are in accord here on at least one point—that the speakers secured for the Republican Mass Meeting in the Opera House tomorrow evening constitute a group prominent in the affairs of not only Delaware but in those affecting the nation at large.

The facilities of the Opera House here will no doubt be severely taxed in taking care of the men and women of the community. It will be, of course, a Republican affair, but every voter is cordially invited to attend, and hear good speakers discuss the issues of the campaign, both national and state, as they view them.

Ex-Gov. Stokes Here

Heading the list of speakers is Hon. Edward C. Stokes, former Governor of New Jersey, and one of the best platform and campaign orators in the East.

Gov. Stokes has been actively engaged in the politics of his native State ever since his youth. He was born in Philadelphia, but soon after his graduation from Brown University, he settled in New Jersey.

He has been a banker since 1883, and was the first president of the New Jersey State Bankers Association. At present he is president of the Mechanics National Bank of Trenton, one of the leading institutions of that city.

Politically, he has for years been a figure in his native state. From the day he started to serve in the General Assembly in 1891 until his election as Governor in 1905, his name has been connected with Republican triumphs throughout the State. While in the Legislature he served as president of the Senate for one term.

As a speaker, Governor Stokes has few equals in the country, and certainly none in this section. His coming to Newark will recall a previous visit about two years ago when he spoke to the Sons of Delaware, assembled at the college here.

Leading Candidates, Too

Accompanying Governor Stokes will be the three leading Republican candidates for election next Tuesday.

They are, T. Coleman du Pont, candidate for U. S. Senate; Robert P. Robinson, candidate for Governor, and Robert G. Houston, candidate for Representative in Washington. Each of these men will address the local audience. In addition, it is understood that several local candidates on the Republican ticket will be on hand, to speak briefly.

Senator L. Heislner Ball, upon the invitation of prominent Newark Republicans, has accepted an invitation to come to Newark tomorrow night.

Everett C. Johnson will preside at the meeting and introduce the speakers.

Before and during the meeting, the Continental Band of Newark will play. It is also expected that William P. White of Wilmington will be on hand to lead the audience in singing during the evening.

Will Meet Visitors

Plans are also under way to form a reception committee of local Republicans which will meet the visitors' cars at the east border of Newark, and escort them to the Opera House. D. A. McClintock is in charge of the arrangements for this feature of the rally.

Newark men who so far have offered their automobiles to be used for this purpose are: John K. Johnston, Harvey Steel, Raymond Davis, Daniel Thompson, Robert Tweed, D. A. McClintock, J. A. McKelvie, Alfred A. Curtis, Samuel J. Wright, James C. Hastings and I. Newton Sheaffer. Several other cars are expected to enter the procession, but have not as yet reported to Mr. McClintock.

Popular Member of Football Team Elopes To Elkton, and Gets Spoofed by His Comrades on The Campus

An intrepid member of the Delaware College Review staff courts disaster in the following article appearing in the current issue of that paper:

Marriage is a disease, not a habit, of the human, although the latter seems to be the most accepted belief. Usually we are infected with the bacillus early in life, the spread of its toxin being gradually stronger until it at last culminates in the visible effects of the disease, for which there is no cure. There are two types of the marriage infection, acute and prolonged. Acute is, by the way, the most dangerous.

Lately we were brought in contact with a case of doubtful variety, namely the affair of little Willie McKelvie, well-known athlete and agricultural student. There is some difference of opinion as to whether Willie succumbed to acute bacillus or whether he has long been affected with the malady. However, there is definite information that McKelvie's was not the acute variety. In fact, it is a wonder that he attained his twenty-second year before the fatal outbreak. His was a case of long suffering, and it is a great deal of relief to his many friends that he is now out of his misery.

All spoofing aside, McKelvie was actually married on the eleventh day of October in the small but dangerous metropolis of Elkton, Maryland, to Miss Lillian Apgar, of Washington, New Jersey. McKelvie had known Miss Apgar since 1916 when they entered the Washington High School together—which goes to show one of the dangers of education. They were graduated from that institution in 1920. Mrs. McKelvie is also a graduate of Trenton Normal School. She teaches at the present time in New Jersey.

There is no need of a biography for the late lamented Bill. Everyone knows him—at least we all thought we did. Marriage cannot change him. In fact, he looks just the same as he always looked. Apparently it has not hurt his game of football. After going through four years of gridiron indulgence, McKelvie will doubtless be rather blasé to rolling pins. However, the fact remains that Bill is our friend and that he is married. And we heartily congratulate him and wish that all his troubles may be little—oh, no! That one is too hackneyed and outworn! As we were going to say, we convey him our heartiest sympathy and condolence. May the two of them live a thousand years and be no less happy than at present.

Thief Robs Hardware Store In Providence

Cole and Mackey's Entered Late Saturday Evening—Many Articles Gone

The large store and garage of Cole and Mackey at Providence, Md., was robbed of over $200 worth of stock and equipment late Saturday night. Members of the firm did not discover the loss until the following day, and no clue has so far been substantiated. Police in Newark, Elkton and other nearby towns have been warned of the robbery and officials are on the lookout for a man with a bandaged hand.

It is reported that the thief gained entrance to the store by smashing a window pane in the rear room with his fist, opening the sash and crawling into the stock room. Blood stains on and near the window and fingerprints indicate that the man suffered a bad cut on the hand in forcing the window.

Many Articles Gone

Eugene Mackey, of Providence, although not a member of the firm, paid Newark police a visit Monday and reported the robbery. He also had a list of the articles stolen from the store. They are:

- 6 Automobile tires.
- 2 Typewriters.
- 1 High grade shot gun.
- 20 Boxes loaded shells.
- 2 Electric light bulbs.

Cole and Mackey have one of the largest stores in upper Cecil County and it is evident from the choice of the thief that he only wanted certain articles, for there was a host of other things he could have stolen.

NEGRO YOUTH DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Samuel Moore of Near St. Georges Succumbs Last Friday Coming Home

Samuel Moore, aged 20, a colored youth who lived with his parents on the road from Lorewood Grove to St. Georges, was killed Friday last when he was returning with several companions in a car after attending a dance at Townsend. The car in which he was a passenger in some manner overturned on the road leading from Fieldsboro to Townsend, near the State highway and Moore was crushed under it. Another car from St. Georges was following the car Moore was in and arrived on the scene of the accident shortly after it happened. Moore was placed in this car and rushed to the Delaware Hospital in Wilmington but was pronounced dead upon his arrival.

Moore was not driving the car at the time of the accident. The car belonged to Ellwood Stafford, colored, of St. Georges. Stafford was driving and although he was considerably shaken up by the accident, he is not thought to be seriously hurt.

VISIT TWENTY-SIX TOWNS IN DAY'S TRIP

Appleton Motorists Laught At Distance In Motor Tour Sunday Last

A trip, involving a visit to twenty-six cities and towns, and over 300 miles in length, all in the same day, is the record set by five Appleton men.

They are: Charles and Albert Riley, Edward Moore, Charles Barbon and Walter Vansant. Their friends and neighbors believe that seldom is a one-day trip so arranged that it will take in as many interesting points as the one planned by the Appleton boys.

Leaving Newark the party headed south through Elkton, Havre de Grace and Baltimore. At Baltimore they crossed into western Maryland, and into the beautiful Frederick Valley. Thence the route lay through the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains to Braddock Heights and across into Shepherdstown, West Virginia.

At that point the car was pointed towards home, and straight across Maryland the party went until Washington, D. C., was reached. From the capital city, the route lay homeward to Baltimore, Elkton and home again.

The trip was thoroughly enjoyed by each of the tourists and no doubt supplied them with many pleasant memories. Of great interest was their visit to the historic battlefield of Antietam.

Great to Be Alive

GEE! but it's great to be alive today! The saying, "A man's home is his castle," has come true. Today any man's home can be a castle, and a far more pleasant and comfortable castle than were the castles of the olden days.

Today the workman, the clerk, the banker—all can have the same comforts, enjoy the same good health and live a life that is worth the living.

Why, think of it. The lowliest worker of today can have a better home, a more healthful home, a more convenient home than could Washington or Napoleon.

All this has come about through the science of plumbing and heating.

A home that is well plumbed and heated is a home of health and happiness. A house without good plumbing is nothing but four walls and a roof.

The Issue

"Let all the ends thou aim'st at
Be thy Country's, thy God's, and Truth's."

As an American citizen, let your vote be an active and not a passive expression of views. No American casts a vote of protest unless that vote be effective for good. A vote for La Follette is an ineffective and weak protest against the order of things. A failure to vote is either a shirking of responsibility or a failure to face the civic issues of the day. Never before in the history of our Government has the call been so clear, so serious, so severe for the citizen to do his whole duty.

If one believes in the principles of the Democratic Party, vote that ticket, with the good as expressed by Davis and with the danger as expressed by Bryan. The same is true with the Republican Party. If one believes in the principles of the Republican Party as fathered by Lincoln, actively expressed by Roosevelt, lived and administered by Coolidge, and put into practical business experience by Dawes, vote the Republican ticket.

The Republican Party is founded on principle—not protest. Its record and success is one of principle. History is not the catchword of Emerson—a biography of a few great men—but a principle conceived of the people, by the people, and for the people. America, its past, its present, its future, is far more than the story of a few great men. America is a principle. The conception and living reality of that principle as found in our charter of rights and liberties, is at stake. Delaware has lead always in the history of this document, not only in its adoption but in its defense and development. Judging from the past and observing the present, we expect this First State to remain First. There was a crisis once in history when a great Admiral gave the signal, saying, "England expects every man to do his duty." So say we, with serious confidence, to Delaware. Principles and initiative, not men and protests are the issues today.

The Platform of the Republican Party, its candidates, stand on the record made in the past. The Party and the candidates stand for the defense and stability of the existing order. They stand for Liberty under Law, Progress with Reason, Prosperity with Sanity and Advance with Economy. America, as we read its history and enjoy its privileges, welcome its opportunities, and accept its responsibilities is Common Sense in Action. Republican Principles are not fads, protests or theories; they are records, experience and facts. They are Common Sense as applied to Citizenship. The History, Experience and Slogan of the Republican Party is Common Sense.

Have You Done Your Part?

What have you done toward the success of a cause you believe to be vital to the national welfare? Have you given time, or effort, or money in this struggle? Will you let others fight your battles for you, and be yourself a slacker in the conflict?

Give some of your time between now and the close of the polls on November 4th to your country. Make yourself heard and felt among your neighbors in behalf of that in which you believe. Carry into the voting booth on November 4th not your hatreds and your prejudices, but your loyalty and your intelligence.

Plan not only to vote yourself on election day, but to see to it that those of your neighbors who feel the same interest as you do in the result of this election, do the same.

If you, and others similarly minded, will do this, the sun will shine on November 5th on a country still dedicated to the principles of the Declaration of Independence and the national Constitution; a nation whose feet have been kept on the highway of prosperity and progress, going forward to the achievement of that high destiny to which it was dedicated by the millions of men who, in years gone by, have given of their thought and their effort, their blood and their treasure, that

"Government of the people
By the people
For the people
Shall not perish from the earth."

Republican Mass Meeting An Interesting Event

Irrespective of party, rank, position or station, citizens of Newark have a wonderful opportunity presented to them tomorrow evening when Former Governor Stokes of New Jersey makes the address at the Mass Meeting at the Newark Opera House, arranged by the White Clay Hundred Republican Committee.

Governor Stokes is an orator of real force, interest and ability. On the platform, at the banquet table or on the stump, he has few equals in this section of the Country. His visit to Delaware is a real honor. He will be remembered locally as the speaker at a recent Sons of Delaware Banquet held in Newark.

With him, our National and State candidates will be present and speak to our citizens. Senator Ball has also accepted an invitation to speak.

Altogether it promises to be a real event. As the compliment is thus being paid to Newark, every one is invited to welcome this foremost citizen from our neighboring State.

What La Follette's Success Could Mean

In an editorial of World's Work, the La Follette program is more clearly outlined than we have yet seen. It details some of the things that are possible. These are so seriously startling that we print striking paragraphs.

"Mr. La Follette proposes to abolish all limitations and restrictions now held by your Courts and to give Congress power to legislate as it will. That is what a removal of the Supreme Court veto amounts to. For the chief purpose of the Supreme Court is to see that Congress does not disregard the limitations placed upon it. It is virtually a proposal to abolish the Constitution itself, for, if Congress is held down by no reservations, it can freely disregard that fundamental document. It becomes the judge of the constitutionality of its own acts and from its conclusions there can be no appeal.

For example, the Constitution says that Congress shall not establish a state religion or interfere with any one's free exercise of his own. If Mr. La Follette should have his way, Congress could establish the Roman Catholic, the Methodist, the Presbyterian, of the Christian Science as the state church, levy taxes to support it, and visit heavy penalties upon non-conformists. At present Congress cannot create titles of nobility; under Senator

"Good Roads, Flowers, Parks, Better Schools, Trees, Pure Water, Fresh Air, Sunshine and Work for Everybody"—OUR MOTTO

La Follette's plan it could do so without stint. Congress cannot now suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus (except at stated crises), abolish trial by jury, or levy taxes on goods imported from one state to another; if the veto power of the Supreme Court is removed, it will have power to do all these things. The fact that it will have to abuse its power and disregard the Constitution itself, in order to pass such laws, does not affect the point; the point is that the Supreme Court is the body which prevents the law-makers from overriding the Constitution and passing laws in violation of its provisions, and thus the La Follette amendment would remove the one restraining influence in the government that protects the people from this kind of exploitation and tyranny. So long as we have a written constitution, with all these safeguards and limitations, there must be a guardian hand, representing the people, protecting the people from unwarranted encroachments; if the Supreme Court did not exist, therefore, something performing the same duty would have to be invented."

What Is A Myth, After All?

Anyone who reads THE POST knows our love and interest in Words. We enjoy the delicate shades of meaning; it makes us read in this day of care-free rush to witness the careless use of Words. "Words are Things," said Faust, and we should respect them, honor their heritage and traditions.

Campaigns always bring out in prominence unused words, or the misuse of some common phrase. Myth is the word today. It is on the lips of orators and drips from every editor's pencil—Myth! And it came from Classic Walls—Vassar!

A College President has stepped before the screen. Campaigns always bring them out into action and we do love to see a Seminary Ruchse in the limelight. They add to gaiety of serious problems.

This year Hibben of Princeton has stepped from Nassau into Democracy's thoroughfare and been interviewed, or rather gave it. He will vote for Davis. Davis appeals to him and Princeton, socially. Dahney, too, of Cincinnati, has joined the Theories of Davis and Bryan. We are not surprised. But McCracken—Irish or Scotch, we know not (Shame on our Ignorance) has stepped to the Head of the Parade. He, President of Vassar, founded by that American Philanthropist, will vote for Davis instead of Coolidge because Davis is a Man—a gentleman, instead of a Myth.

Myth! That's the catch-word. Massachusetts had as Governor—a Myth! Impossible! A Myth ending a stroke of Irish Police Force? Never! He must be Irish.

Vice President of this Country a Myth! Unusual for Republicans. A President taking his oath by lamp light in Vermont a Myth? Un-American! Surely there must be some mistake.

We thought we knew the word—and its meaning. Here was an insult to our President. Coolidge, if anything was not a Myth. It was a mean word, an epithet. Calvin Coolidge, whether we agree with him or his party is certainly a Man—a cool, calm, deliberate sane American Man. Any casual reader of the mill, the farm, the ranch or street would not dare call him a Myth. We resented it from a College Campus.

And then we went to the dictionary. McCracken is Irish. No Southerner could ever have pulled it. He is a regular fellow. He is the wit of the campaign—the great American humorist, Mark Twain, Lew Dockstader, George Ade, Irvin Cobb and Al Johnson—all together.

He has fooled the American Public—the Joke of 1924. Step aside Charlie Chaplin—here's proof.

"Myth—deals with the actions of the gods or of beings conceived as divine or possessed of divine attributes; Stories which some hero (God or man), is said to have imparted of life to man."

And McCracken says Coolidge is a Myth. McCracken is not a myth—He is a Professor of English and knows words.

Don't Mob The Umpire

Baseball is governed by rules. The rules themselves provide for umpires whose duty it is to uphold them.

Suppose when an umpire makes a decision which the members of one team don't like, they could vote to override his decision and do as they please?

Suppose when he decides a player has violated a rule, the player could change the rule and ut the umpire out of business merely by violating it the second time?

How long would baseball last if the players were permitted to "rag" the umpire and reverse his decisions?

It would degenerate into a roughhouse, respected by nobody, and avoided by all clean sportsmen.

You cannot have orderly baseball or any other decent sport without rules and an umpire whose decisions are obeyed.

You cannot have orderly government without rules and an umpire whose decisions are obeyed. The United States Constitution is the book of rules of the American government. The United States Supreme Court is the umpire.

The United States Supreme Court acts as umpire—between different branches of government to see that each keeps within the rules laid down by the Constitution.

—between the federal government and state governments to see that neither violate the rules laid down by the Constitution.

—between the individual and the government to see that the liberties of the one guaranteed by the Constitution are not taken away and the authority of the other established by the Constitution is not overturned.

The United States Supreme Court does not write the Constitution any more than the umpire writes the rules for baseball. It cannot change the Constitution any more than the umpire can change the rules of baseball.

The power and the duty of the United States Supreme Court as the umpire of our government are fixed by the Constitution itself.

Because Senator La Follette and some of his followers do not like some decisions made by the United States Supreme Court based on the United States Constitution, they would make it possible to mob the umpire and change the rules every time a decision was made which they don't like.

Do you want orderly government?
Don't mob the umpire.

Neither Mob Nor Plutocracy

We, here in America, hold in our hands the hope of the world, the fate of the coming years, and shame and disgrace will be ours if in our eyes the light of high resolve is dimmed, if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of men. If on this new continent we merely build another country of great but unjustly divided material prosperity, we shall have done nothing; and we shall do little if we merely set the greed of envy against the greed of arrogance,

Miss Jane Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Miller, of West Delaware avenue, entertained a number of her school chums at a Halloween party last Saturday evening. The Miller home was tastefully decorated for the occasion, with all the emblems of Halloween in evidence.

The evening was joyously spent by the young people in dancing, games and indulging in plenty of music. At a late hour delicious refreshments were served to the guests.

Among those present were: Misses Calista Foote, Dorothy Armstrong, Pauline Widdoes, Katharine Boyce, Antoinette Eggen, Margaret Jarnon, Beatrice Krapf, Dorothy Steel, Anna Gallaher, Agnes Miller, Myrtle Vorous, Frances Hulihan, Audrey Miller, Sara Steel and Dorothy Hayes; Donald Armstrong, Richard Manns, Leighton Medill, Malcolm Armstrong, William E. Hayes, Jr., Milton Jarnon, William Armstrong, Roy Stephan, George Powell, Vernon Steel and George Paine, of Newark; Vaughan Creamer and Henry Warburton of Elkton; George Watson of Ashley, and Wilmer Gallagher of Richardson Park.

Weddings

SMITH-HOFFECKER

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Smith, at Bridgeville, Saturday afternoon last, when their daughter, Elizabeth, became the bride of John Savin Hoffecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hoffecker, of Newark.

Mrs. Stanley McQuay, of Hillcrest, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a blue canton crepe gown with a corsage bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Dorothy Hoffecker, a sister of the groom, was bride's maid, and wore a gown of tan canton crepe, with a corsage bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Samuel Street, of Philadelphia, was best man. Charles Vanleer, of Seaford, played the wedding march.

A reception followed the ceremony. The young couple left on the Norfolk express for Harrisburg, Pa., where they will make their home.

Newark guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hoffecker and daughter, Miss Dorothy Hoffecker, Mr. and Mrs. Warner McNeal, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colbert, Mr. and Mrs. George Woods and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Dunbar and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Dunbar, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walton, Miss Florence Walton, Albert Strahorn, Albert Hoffecker.

The bride, who is very popular here, being a graduate of the High School, and last year attended Temple University, was the recipient of many handsome and useful gifts, including money, silver, cut glass and linens.

New officers were elected for the Association, as follows: President, Mrs. Ambrose Cameron; vice-president, Mrs. Jacob Glicker; secretary, Mrs. Elsie Johnston, and treasurer, Mrs. F. B. Mote, Sr. The teacher of the school, Miss Della Wooters, is going to serve as publicity chairman.

ANOTHER CRASH AT MAIN AND S. COLLEGE

May Soon Need Derrick Installed To Clear Wrecks

The "busy bee" corner of Main and South College claimed another victim Saturday at noon, when the milk truck owned by Herbert Eastburn of near Newark, collided with another car at the intersection. Both cars were damaged in the mixup, but no one was reported as hurt.

Accidents have been occurring at this point with annoying regularity recently, and on busy afternoons, the need of a traffic director is becoming evident. Visibility is extremely poor for a driver approaching Main street, as a high hedge and shrubbery on one side, and the old Library building on the other, obstruct the view.

RETURNS FROM HUNT TRIP

Dr. Hulihan Bags Four Fine Deer On Expedition In Maine

Dr. Walter Hulihan, president of the University, returned Tuesday morning of this week from a three weeks' hunting trip in northern Maine and Canada.

While moose was the main objective of the trip, they were scarce, and President Hulihan did not get a head. However, four fine deer and about 50 grouse fell before his gun. He was accompanied on the trip by H. Rodney Sharp and A. L. Lauritsen, of Wilmington.

Fire Scare Saturday

Believing that in some manner a building of the Women's College was on fire, scores of people followed the Aetna Fire Co.'s engine to that vicinity late Saturday night.

It was found, however, that a small private garage belonging to Walker Fell, near the College, was the scene of the fire. The building was destroyed, having been almost beyond saving when the firemen arrived. The garage was empty at the time.

members elected to each House agreeing thereto):

SECTION 1. That Article V of the Constitution of the State of Delaware be amended by striking out all of Section 4 of said Article, and by inserting in lieu thereof a new Section 4, in the following language, viz:

"SECTION 4. The General Assembly shall enact uniform laws for the registration of voters in this State entitled to vote under this Article, which registration shall be complete evidence to the election officers of the right of every person so registered to vote at any General Election while his or her name shall remain on the list of registered voters, and who is not at the time disqualified under the provisions of Section 3 of this Article; and no person shall vote at such General Election whose name does not at that time appear in said list of registered voters."

"There shall be at least two registration days

CLEAR $28.70 AT PARTY
IN HARMONY GRANGE

Hallowe'en and Package Party
Monday Night Enjoyed
by Big Crowd

The hall at the Mermaid was filled to overflowing Monday evening last, the occasion being the Hallowe'en and Package Party given by the Grange.
In addition to a full membership present, a great number of non-members from the community at large were present. There was no business meeting, and the evening was spent in a social good time.

At the outset, the participants were masked, and joined heartily in music and singing. Following this came the guessing contest, wherein each masquerader had to remove his or her mask if identified. Those whose disguises remained intact were held to the last, and one by one, amid shouts from the audience, they were removed.

The package party which followed brought in a total of $28.70 to Harmony Grange, which will be set aside towards the State Grange Educational Fund. The prices on the packages ranged from 25 cents to over 60 cents.

The Hospitality Committee later in the evening served Hallowe'en refreshments in the form of ginger snaps, apples and cookies.

SPIVUS FEELS CONFIDENT ON EVE OF BATTLE; "TOM" GREEN REPORTED TO BE AIDING CAMPAIGN

(Special to The Post)

What with the breakneck pace he has been setting for the past week, together with the detail work in the matter of the Great Lollipop Give-Away, mentioned above, Mr. Spivus is in remarkably fine health, thank you.

Although pressed continually by interviewers, office-seekers and moving picture men, this colorful character upon the firmament of antional affairs still has time for his homely habits, viz: getting down the hay, feeding the pigs, and doing the daily storin at Glasgow.

As are all great figures before the battles (for reference, see Napoleon, Jack Dempsey or Bill McAvoy), Mr. Spivus is very reticent not to say shy at times.

When your correspondent asked him what his first venture will be when he gets to Dover as Governor, Mr. Spivus replied, "Get a Shave."

Only this and nothing more. Thus the very grimness of a Great Determination has enveloped him body and sole (and whiskers).

Green Comes In

A shock which is calculated to throw the major parties smack on their haunches was revealed by your correspondent yesterday, when he learned from the highest possible source that Tom Green had at last been won over to the Spivus banners, and will work for his old neighbor.

It has been generally known at Spivus headquarters that Mr. Green has been on the wrong band wagon for some years, and that he wanted to get off it long ago. He is by temperament, looks and behavior, a Democrat. However, The Backard Party will not hold that against him, it is said. Mr. Green will stand beside Mr. Spivus at the Great Lollipop Give-Away next Tuesday, an honor for which more than one has yearned. Thus are old friends helped by The Great Spivus.

All is in readiness for the Great Day. Guns have been cleaned, pants pressed by the score, and in some case, new harness has been bought for the trip to town.

Spivus and his campaign manager, Mr. Gawp, will head the procession, leaving Cooch's Bridge right after milkin time Tuesday morning (about 6.30 a.m. folks' time) and hope to arrive in Newark for lunch.

Sally Ann Spivus, the demon stump speaker of the campaign, will lead her "Little Beams of Sunshine Club" to Newark. There will also be a cornet and organ on one of the trucks, if they can find a organ anywhere nearby.

HOW I CAN PREVENT FIRE

By Margaret Seelye, Newark High School

Although there are many ways to prevent fire, I have made some fire prevention rules which I try to follow, my first and most important rule is: Never be careless. Carelessness is our worst enemy. Matches are the greatest cause of fire. Always buy safety matches. Keep matches in a fire-proof box away from heat, and out of reach of children and animals. Close the box and strike the match away from you. Always be absolutely sure that a match is out before throwing it away.

Accidents can be avoided if the heating system is watched. All stove joints must be perfectly fire-proof. No old pipes should be allowed. The pipe in the attic should be protected. All combustible surfaces near heat must be covered with a fire-proof material. All chimneys and flues must be kept clean and in repair. No stove or pipe must become red hot. Drying wood or clothes should be kept away from fire. The fire-place must be screened. Children must not play with fire. Ashes must be kept in a tin container. All fires should be out before retiring.

Electricity also calls for rules. Watch for poor wiring. Never allow combustible material near electric bulbs. Always turn the current off before leaving an electric device.

Kerosene has caused many fires. Keep an oilcan that does not leak, covered and outside of the house. Never start a fire with kerosene. Keep oil stoves clean and do not leave them burning. Have metal lamps with large bases with burners and wicks fitting snugly. Never leave a lamp in a dangerous place, or burning alone.

Gasoline is a very dangerous liquid. Keep it in tightly fastened tin cans. Allow no flame, or coal, near its fumes, or a tank of it.

Gas is also dangerous. Have no gas without globes. Watch for leaks. Never light a flame until a leak has been repaired.

Even candles have to be watched in this day and age. Do not light candles on Christmas trees. Keep candles away from a draft and be sure they won't tip over. Be careful of candles with shades.

Rules for miscellaneous items can not be neglected. Watch smokers at all times. Do not allow rubbish to accumulate. Put out carefully all bon-fires. Thaw frozen pipes with hot water. Put oily rags in a tin can. Do not put stove polish on a hot stove. Keep celluloid away from fire. Keep all combustible chemicals in a fire-proof container.

Last, but not least. Always have a fire extinguisher handy and know how to use it.

Students and Faculty Enjoy Concert Saturday Evening—Hallowe'en Dance Postponed

Students and Faculty of the Women's College here are daily enjoying the new radio set given the College by the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

A well attended radio party was given at the college Saturday evening, and the program came over with rare clarity. It was greatly enjoyed by a large number of people.

House parties at three of the fraternity houses attracted a large number of girls Saturday evening. In addition to these, the Kappa Alpha fraternity gave a dinner dance at the Delaware Tea House, east of town, in honor of the St. John's College players and rooters who came up for the game that afternoon.

About fifty couples attended the affair. Music was furnished by George Madden.

G. A. R. PASSING ON

"Grand Army of the Republic," History calls them. As the years slip by, slowly the sad ranks close. Here is a local group taken several years ago. Friends will recognize Joseph Lutton who stepped from the ranks Monday. Comrade Lutton, it was for years, who had charge of Memorial Day Exercises in this community—he remembered and loved his friends and comrades.

"By the flow of the inland river Asleep are the ranks of the dead."

Those in robes of glory, those in gloom of defeat,
All with battle blood gory, in the dusk of Eternity meet,

Under the sod and dew
Waiting the Judgment Day—
Under the one the Blue, under the other the Gray."

Comrade Lutton was a Hero of the Blue. As a character, life-long citizen of Newark and as a G. A. R. Comrade, Newark salutes as he passes on in Review.

Four Men Break Jail
At Centreville, Md.

No Trace of Criminals Who Forced Bars Open a Week
Ago—Find Abandoned Auto

Four prisoners in the county jail at Centreville, Md., who escaped from the building on Sunday, October 18th last, have not as yet been caught by Queen Anne's County authorities, it is reported. The men are believed to have made a clean getaway in a stolen car.

The missing men are Samuel Wilson, alias Samuel Johnson, being held for the authorities of the Maryland House of Correction at Baltimore; James Jester, convicted to a twelve months term at the House of Correction; Joseph Wilmer, convicted to a six months term at the same institution, and Sylvester Wright, who was being held for the November Court on an assault charge. All were colored.

Faulty Window Sill

An examination of the window through which the fugitives made their escape points to faulty construction. The metal sill has two holes, one at either end, through which it appears a metal rod should have been placed so that the mortar and brick work would have acted as a brace to the sill. This rod was never put in, and the sill had no support to the bricks other than just a skim of plaster, thus making it easy for the prisoners to scrape away the support and make their escape.

Steal Farmer's Auto

After making their way from the jail, the negroes went to the farm of M. T. Gibson on the road from Centreville to Church Hill where they took a Ford sedan belonging to Mr. Gibson. The authorities at Centreville were notified of the theft early Sunday morning and work was immediately sent out to all nearby cities to be on the alert for the car and the escaped prisoners. However it was not until Thursday that any clue was obtained as to the possible whereabouts of the fugitives.

Finds Stolen Auto

On Thursday, Sheriff Seward received word from Merchantsville, N. J., that the missing automobile had been located. It turned out that the car had been found in a woods near town. Evidently the escaped men had proceeded together that far, and then decided to separate. Sheriff Seward sent out an accurate description of the negroes to every sizeable town around Merchantsville and to every city in the State of New Jersey. Mr. Seward states that never in his career as an officer has a prisoner escaped him before, and that he intends to exhaust every effort to bring the fugitives back to serve their sentence.

LARGE LAND DEAL TO BENEFIT MD. POWER CO.

Conowingo Dam Project
Takes Added Significance
With Sale of Big Tract

The largest real estate sale in Southern Lancaster County was closed last week, when the large real estate holdings of the late Park B. Shank, at Peach Bottom, were sold by William Shank, executor, to the Susquehanna Power Co., the sale price being $50,000. The deal was made for the company through its purchasing agent, J. Alexis Shriver, Bel Air, Md. Possession will be given December 10.

The real estate contains about 300 acres of land, and included are the following properties: The Shank homestead, postoffice and store building, Finney cannery, Bradley Bros. carehouse, Hopedale farm and another farm, formerly the Joseph Eubank farm, seven dwelling houses and an island down the river. The properties have a frontage of about a half-mile along the river.

These lands are much needed by the Susquehanna Power Company who will build a dam across the river at Conowingo, Md., to furnish electricity for commercial purposes. When the dam is constructed all of Peach Bottom will be submerged and it is said it will dam the water back as far as Dorsey's Mill, on Peters Creek. It will be necessary to greatly raise the railroad tracks at this point.—Quarryville Sun.

Old West Nottingham Church Celebrates
200th Anniversary Of Its Founding

Hundreds of Friends and Former Members Gather at Cecil County Church for Three Days of Activities; Many Speakers

One of Maryland's oldest Presbyterian Churches observed its 200th birthday on Friday, Saturday and Sunday last, when the doors of West Nottingham Presbyterian Church were thrown open to hundreds of former members and friends.

The celebration last week marked an important milestone in the life of the old church, and formed the background for a host of reunions, family gatherings and renewals of old friendships.

As in other years, people came from far and near to join in the celebration. Hundreds of invitations had been sent out, and visitors were present from many far-away states.

List of Speakers

The opening exercises Friday afternoon were addressed by Miss Josephine Peirce of New York. Rev. William P. Finney of Lincoln University, Pa., addressed the meeting Friday evening. Speakers at Saturday's exercises were Dr. Sonne, of Wilmington; Rev. John A. Nesbitt, Dr. William Gibson, Rev. A. Burtis Hallock, Rev. Joseph Turner and Frank B. Evans.

On Sunday Rev. J. Ross Stevenson of Princeton Seminary, Rev. F. Karl Hoffman, Baltimore, and Dr. John Finney, D. D., of New York, spoke.

West Nottingham sits amid a grove of stately oaks that witnessed the pioneer builders of this church lay the first stone. The church grounds and the cemetery are well cared for and are frequently visited by strangers, who, mayhap, have kin at rest beneath the shadows cast by friendly trees.

Fortunate are the people who have shared in the history of West Nottingham for their lines have fallen in pleasant places. The surrounding farms are the homes of some of the best people of the land, people who love the atmosphere of old West Nottingham.

Across the road from the venerable church in the old Academy, founded in 1742 by Rev. Samuel Finley. It is prominent in the history of the church for in those early times Presbyterians saw that religion and education were the safeguards of the Colonies.

HISTORY OF

(Cecil Whigg.)

By the late Samuel Finley, "one of the most thorough and accurate scholars of his day," came to Nottingham and was installed as pastor of the second congregation in 1744. Here he established an academy intended especially for the educating of young men for the gospel ministry. The school soon became widely known and attended by students from a distance. In 1781 Dr. Finley was chosen President of the College of New Jersey. During this time the first congregation had a pastor only about half the time. From this time to the end of the century the success of the two congregations was varied, and both grew smaller.

In 1800 the church was healed and they moved to a new location about a mile and a half to the south, and immediately began the erection of the present building. When Rev. James Magraw, D. D., became pastor in 1801, there were but thirty communicants. But with Mr. Magraw came new life. The church grew steadily and at his death in 1835 the congregation was large and prosperous. It was through him that the West Nottingham Academy was established in 1812 under a charter of the Legislature of Maryland. In 1838, 22 members of this church living in to kiss his wife after a quarrel.

the vicinity of Port Deposit organized the church there.

The Church has had 14 pastors. Since the coming of Archibald Alexander Hodge, three-quarters of a century ago, there have been five, Rev. Samuel Alexander Galey, D. D., to whose history of West Nottingham Church we are indebted for a large part of the material in this article, occupying half that time. He was followed by Rev. David E. Shaw, now pastor emeritus; Rev. Samuel Polk; Rev. F. Earl Hoffman, Rev. A. Burtis Hallock and the present pastor, Rev. Thomas P. McKee.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

How To Obtain Ballots and Envelopes For Voting

On entering the room the voter shall announce his or her name to the Clerks of Election and one of said Clerks shall deliver to him or her an envelope and ballot. The voter may also secure a ballot at any time from the Chairman of one of the political parties, or from any other source.

How To Prepare Ballots For Voting

After a voter has obtained a ballot he or she shall indicate his or her choice of candidates by marking his or her ballot with a black or indelible pencil or black crayon. This is to be done as follows: When any elector desires to vote a straight ticket, that is, to vote for all of the candidates of a party appearing in the party column on the ballot, he or she shall place a cross or "X" within the square at the head of party column containing the names of such candidates. In the event that any elector does not desire to vote for all of the candidates whose names appear in the column under such mark, unless some name or names shall be erased, or unless in some other column he or she shall have placed a mark in the square at the left of the name of some other candidate for the same office.

Second—When the voter shall place a mark against two or more names for the same office, he or she shall be deemed to have voted for none of them for either candidate, therefore, but shall be counted for such other candidates as it is the evident intention of the voter to vote for.

Third—If any name be written on any ballot the ballot shall be void and not counted.

Fourth—When the elector shall have made a mark in the square at the left of the name of a person in the proper place he or she shall be deemed to have voted for that person although he or she shall have omitted to erase or scratch out the name printed in any other column for the same office.

Fifth—A ballot put in without any marks shall not be counted, and a ballot not marked at the top shall be counted only for the persons for whom the marks therein are applicable.

The ballot may be prepared either outside of the voting place by the use of a ballot obtained as hereinbefore indicated or within the booth by the use of a ballot so obtained and taken in by the voter, or by the use of the ballot obtained from the election officers with the envelope in which the ballot is to be voted.

Deposit of Ballot In Envelope

After the voter has been furnished with an envelope and ballot by the Election Officers, he or she shall then, and without leaving the room, go alone into any of the booths which may be unoccupied, and deposit the ballot which he or she desires to vote in the envelope handed him by the Clerk and on leaving the booth shall deliver the envelope containing the ballot which he or she desires to vote to the Inspector. The voter shall then immediately leave the room. A voter to whom an envelope has been delivered cannot leave the room without voting or returning the envelope to the Clerk of Election.

How To Obtain a New Ballot or Envelope, or Both, In Place of Either or Both Accidentally Defaced, Mutilated
or Spoiled

If a voter shall, by accident or mistake, spoil or mutilate his or her ballot or envelope, he or she can return the spoiled ballot or envelope to the Clerks of Election, and upon satisfying them that such spoiling, defacing or mutilation was not intentional, he or she shall receive another ballot or envelope, or both, in place of those spoiled.

NEWARK BANKER DE-
TAINS ALLEGED FORGER

Nicholas Arceruz, alias Gonales, who claims Baltimore as his home, is still being detained by the Wilmington police in connection with his conduct last Wednesday in the office of George L. Medill, vice-president of the Farmers' Bank, Third and Market streets, that city, when Arceruz displayed two checks on the West End Trust Company of Philadelphia, one for $250 and the other for $100. No charge has been preferred against the man.

Arceruz was arrested Wednesday afternoon on Shipley street by Policeman Apsley on complaint of Mr. Medill. Both checks were made out to James Brown and were signed by Mrs. Helen S. Perrin, of Ardmore, Pa. The latter, the suspect said, is his aunt. Captain of Detectives Robert J. Benson declared that a Mrs. Perrin does reside in Ardmore, but so far he has been unable to locate her.—Every Evening.

DELAWARE LOSES TO ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE; TWO SCORES CALLED BACK BY PENALTIES

Annapolis Collegians Triumph Here Saturday by 6-0, Unleashing Last Minute Drive For Score

St. John's College threw a bomb into the Delaware camp Saturday when the rangy boys from the banks of the Severn tripped the Blue and Gold warriors, score 6-0. Frazer Field held a big throng of fans, and perfect weather greeted the battle.

Two touchdowns made by Delaware during the game were called back by the officials, and the home team penalized.

On one occasion, Jackson went over on a pretty play for a score, but Hubert was detected holding and Delaware was set back 15 yards.

The second score was made by McKelvie when he picked up the ball during a melee following a dropkick, and went over the mark. Referee Shaw held that a St. John's back had signalled for a free catch and that the Delaware men violated the rule by roughing the catcher.

A great deal of discussion is still rampant over this decision. It is reported that Coach McAvoy saw the signal for a free catch. Many of the players, sporting writers, and spectators, however, are of the opinion that the referee "stole" the game from Delaware.

It happens, however, from the details of the game that Delaware had several additional chances to score, but lacked the final punch to get the ball over. Several attempts at field goals by Hubert and Weggenman failed dismally. Thereby hangs the theme of the defeat.

Webb, Desantis and Wegner starred for St. John's, while Jackson, Lohman, Wooten and Gibson played best for Delaware. The lineup:

Delaware	St. John's
Lohman.... center	Bean
McCaskey.... right guard	Moore
Torbert.... right tackle	Callahan
Beatty.... right end	Jarvis
Jackson.... quarterback	Wegner
Wooten.... right halfback	Webb
Hubert.... fullback	Desantis

Substitutions—Hopkins for Gibson; Weggenman for Wooten; Lutz for Wegner; Cunningham for Bean; Noble for Bull; Rowe for Dugan; Lynn for Moore; Dugan for Webb; Wegner for Lutz; Rosebury for Dugan; Bean for Cunningham; Kramer for Beatty; Beatty for Creamer; Wooten for Hopkins; Cherpak for Jackson; Gibson for Cherpak.

NEWARK HIGH HITS SMYRNA HARD

Roll Up 83-0 Score Over Down-Staters Friday Last

Coach Nunn's Newark High School warriors added another scalp to their belt last Friday, when they ran roughshod over Smyrna at the latter town by an 83-0 score.

Touchdowns came thick and fast during the game and the Smyrna boys never had a chance. Every man who made the trip was given a chance in the game, and all seemed to be able to pierce the home team's defense for long gains.

There was no outstanding star of the game, for every player on the Newark team was far superior to his opponent.

Application of Rules of Scientific Selling and Selection Essential in Retail Store Management

The careless "give 'em anything" merchant and the happy-go-lucky, "take anything" buyer of yesterday are disappearing from the avenues of modern business. Today's rapidly developing attitude of careful selection on the part of shoppers everywhere is being reflected in the need for more scientific management of stores. The successful retailer of tomorrow must substitute knowledge for guesswork in judging sales area and demand, according to the Domestic Commerce Division of the Department of Commerce in "Measuring a Retail Market," the third pamphlet in a series prepared at the suggestion of important retail organizations for the benefit of the store trade generally.

Just as the manufacturer and banker have realized the importance of research in their management problems, so may the retail merchant benefit by a study of his problems with a more analytical mind and in the light of facts scientifically gathered, the Division suggests. "Since the purpose of any retail business is to sell merchandise, thereby making sufficient profit to compensate for the energy and capital expended, it seems only logical that the merchant should desire to obtain all the information possible relative to his market."

"The chief function of the merchant is to supply the customers' demand," and the retailer can perform this service most adequately if he makes a quantitative analysis of the market and a qualitative analysis of the consumers' demands. "Such sales researches serve as guides to the possibilities of the future and are of value to the prospective merchant in choosing his field, as well as to the established merchant in pointing the way. In planning to enter a new field the retailer may find, by a careful analysis, that his prospective market does not reflect such favorable circumstances as a cursory examination appeared to reveal. He may be saved from embarking upon the enterprise, preventing subsequent failure and much less to society of wasted effort and capital."

The campaign should be visualized in its entirety, according to a chapter devoted to "Preliminary Analysis." It is beyond the hope of anyone to know all possible facts regarding a particular market, so the only logical course for an organization desiring to try out market analysis on a small scale is to allot in advance a definite amount of time and money for the survey and then keep to the schedule as far as practicable.

Commenting on the arbitrary indications of some writers that the average city should draw from an outside territory that embraces a population equal to 40 per cent of itself, the opinion is advanced that many conditions determine the extent of the city's trading territory. Of the more important factors in this respect are those geographical conditions playing their part in freeing a city from outside competition or in handicapping it in the race for trade. Merchandising methods, extraordinarily fair and comprehensive, have enabled some cities to include in their trade territory outlying districts whose population was equal to 75 per cent of that of the original city. One can not emphasize too strongly the importance of efficient merchandising policies when an effort is being made to measure and ascertain a potential market.

What's The Matter With Delaware?

Recent Games on Frazer Field Discovers Fighting, Agressive Team Without a Scoring Punch

With a desperate team fighting in the shadow of their own goal line, defending with all the latent power they can muster from their weary bodies, that final chalk—I repeat, when that crisis looms before the team with the ball, it is no time for kicking and slapping linesmen, no time for befuddled conferences, no time for indecision.

Then is the time for a scoring play—a well-worked-out, up-to-the-minute, well hidden attack, devised and rehearsed for weeks for just that emergency.

With all due respect to the hardworking athletes out there taking the knocks few of us could stand against, it is this same glaring lack of scoring ability which is characterizing the work of the Delaware team this year.

Time after time during this season, Delaware backs have advanced the ball to within the 20-yard mark. The offense immediately curls up and plays dead. In the St. John's game, we are told, at least five attempted field goals were tried, most of which hardly cleared the secondary defense. According to a report of the game, with two yards to go for a first down deep in St. John's territory, a field goal was called. A most unusual procedure, if true. Any team needing two yards and imbued with Delaware fight which hasn't a play capable of gaining two yards cannot hope to win.

True, two scores were called back by officials, but that doesn't excuse the others which never got to the goal line.

Modern Football

Times are changing fast in College Football. Study the leading teams of the East and West. The football they play today was never heard of ten years ago. Who ever heard of a 190 pound end, a 200 pound tackle and a 155 pound guard on a line? Who could imagine the bewildering fake plays now used in every big game?

It is not the day of Beef in football; it is the day of Brains.

It is becoming more and more evident that a team cannot rush the ball inside the ten-yard line in the manner they do inside the forty-yard line. The exhibition Saturday showed that Delaware hasn't a dependable field goal scorer. It showed on other occasions this fall that they haven't a play that had not previously been thrown open for all to see. There is a limit to everything, including the aggressiveness and fight of a team. Games have been won on these attributes; but games today are won on Plays, Plays and More Plays.

The writer is a loyal Delaware man. He'll cheer just the same. If he had the money, he would pay the team's expenses to see Notre Dame, Army, Dartmouth, or Virginia in action. We saw one of them recently take a beating, and yet have as bewildering an array of open and closed scoring plays as ever were seen on a gridiron. They lost when they were battered into helplessness by a bigger team.

And it is with just this feeling that we urge, and continue to hope that the Blue and Gold will somehow find a way to score two yards for a first down without resorting to a dropkick.—T. R. D.

DEALERS' SCHOOLS ARE NEW AUTO PRACTICE

One of the most noticeable tendencies during the last year and a half in the automotive industry has been the stress placed by all motor car companies on "dealers' service" and the efforts many of the companies are making to help their dealers in their service work in every possible way.

Flat rate prices, uniform, modern tool and general equipment, constitute some of the big movements that have been emphasized lately to make service more efficient and reliable for the general public.

Along the lines of service education, the Chevrolet Motor company has a system of service schools where the proper use of tools and equipment is taught in addition to general shop management, shop operation and flat rate service.

Seven schools are established, one in each of the seven manufacturing zones. The schools are established in Flint, Mich., Janesville, Wis., St. Louis, Mo., Cincinnati, Ohio, Buffalo, N. Y., Tarrytown, N. Y., and Oakland, Cal.

Each school period lasts for five days. Each school has two instructors. Each member in the school is given special and general class instruction in every phase of repair, which includes the complete building of a motor, testing it and tearing it down. The use of the proper tools for every operation is emphasized. Examinations are given when the members enter the school and again upon leaving.

The Chevrolet company has the dealers themselves attend these schools and later members of each dealer's service department.

A SCENE FROM TONY SARG'S "TREASURE ISLAND"

TONY SARG MARIONETTES PRESENT MUSICAL TASTES OF STEVENSON'S PIRATES

"Ye, Ho! And a bottle of rum" has become a byword from Stevenson's Treasure Island as indicating the popular phrase with pirates when they celebrate in song. In his three years of study and research since he first decided to adapt the book to Marionette Drama, Tony Sarg has found much of interest as to the musical instruments and the songs preferred by the old freebooters of the sea.

In consequence, every puppeteer engaged for this new play by Mr. Sarg had to be able to sing and to play two or more instruments other than the piano. Mr. Sarg announces, therefore, that he believes his Pirate's Chorus represents a new feature of information about the habits and musical preference of such men, entirely aside from its appeal as amusing entertainment.

The Tony Sarg Marionette version of Stevenson's Treasure Island will be presented at Wolf Hall, Newark, on the evening of October 31st, under the auspices of the University. The Pied Piper of Hamelin and other shorter novelties will be at the same hall in the afternoon for children.

UPWARD PRICE SWING IN FARM CROPS SLOW

General Trend Encouraging,
Though Progress Hardly Keeps Up With Expense

Recovery from the price decline of 1920 has been discouragingly slow for the farmers. But the average of farm prices continues to rise. And the spread between the price farmers are getting for what they have to sell and for those articles which they have to buy grows palpably narrower. The farmer's share in the general prosperity gradually approaches what it ought to be.

In brief, agriculture is swinging toward par. Far mprices continue to improve in relation to the general price level and to the prices of non-agricultural products. At the present time the ration of farm prices to wholesome prices of non-agricultural commodities is above 85 and is moving toward 90.

And we are told that the trend of wheat prices for the next few months will depend largely upon prospects for the wheat crops of Argentina and Australia, which are to be harvested in December and January. The total of the Northern Hemisphere crop is reported nearly 300 million bushels short of last year.

Higher prices for wheat and corn are supporting higher prices for oats.

Prices of oats may not be expected to rise in proportion to the higher prices of corn, as the price of oats is almost wholly determined by the United States crop. And the United States crop is considerably larger than last year.

This fact, coupled with a prospective reduction of about 20 per cent in hogs, which consume about 40 per cent of the corn crop, indicates the corn crop will be relatively small, even under favorable weather conditions.

The general tendency of hog prices is upward. Hog prices move in cycles and evidence supports the view that they are now on the upward swing of the price cycle.

A well-known agricultural economist of the United States Department of Agriculture, returning from a country-wide trip, states in part his observations in this wise:

"Not in five years has the United States presented so nearly a picture of balanced prosperity as it does now. Go into the South this fall and you will be impressed with its prosperity. General sentiment through the region is distinctly optimistic."

"Farmers in the corn belt are in better spirits than for four years. Corn prices are up and the expectation is that hog prices are going to ride at higher levels. The hog situation is coming out from under its burden of overproduction."

"In the East, meaning essentially

New Type of Car Stirrs Automobile World

It is an open car one moment and 30 seconds later same car is entirely enclosed. Studebaker Duplex ends need of hunting for side curtains in the dark and storm

A new type of car has stirred the automobile world as has nothing since the abandonment of the "buggy" style of body building.

It is the Studebaker Duplex, so called to indicate that it is an open car one moment, and 30 seconds later it is an enclosed car.

Like all great advances in the industrial arts, it is "so simple in operation, it is a wonder it wasn't thought of before" — — —

Particularly since its need has been growing, year by year, ever since automobiles were made.

Many people all of the time, and most people part of the time, want an open car—to bring to their riding the fresh crispness of the country air, and a free and untrammelled association with the great outdoors.

Yet for these same people, the snug comfort of the closed car, shutting out the storm and the wind and the cold, has been at times a necessity.

Two cars in one

The Studebaker Duplex is both cars in one. Just pull down the roller enclosures concealed in the roof of the car. In 30 seconds the open car has been made an enclosed car.

No hurried efforts to put up curtains; no hunting for the right one while the storm beats in; no mixing them up in the dark; no exposure through holes torn in them while trying to obtain, for the emergency, the protection given by a closed car — — —

Just pull down the roller enclosures giving instant enclosed car effect.

The body is built substantially—sides, corners and roof frame are of steel. The roof has curved steel sides and back; hardwood front. Steel, U-shaped cross beams, six of them, support the waterproofed, duplex fabric top and its linings. Here is permanent beauty, no sagging tops.

But Studebaker, on which the whole vehicle-using world has come to depend for reliability, would not rest on only one real contribution to the value given the public.

It must give all that engineering ability could devise.

Striking new features

So there are offered three distinct models of cars, to meet each of the three fields of demand—the Standard Six, with 113-inch wheelbase and 50 horsepower motor; the Special Six, with 120-inch wheelbase and 65 horsepower motor; the Big Six, most magnificent and luxurious of its products, with 127-inch wheelbase and 75 horsepower motor.

Duplex bodies are available on each line. In addition, closed models have workmanship and materials and beauty of line so far above the price class of the car, they must be seen to be appreciated.

Of scarcely less importance than the Duplex feature are other improvements such as, automatic ignition system, lighting control on the steering wheel, new location of emergency brake, improved one-piece windshield and many others.

The body lines, steering mechanism, and even the fenders of the new Studebaker were designed especially for genuine balloon tires. Thus the body lines harmonize with grace and beauty hitherto unattained, even by Studebaker.

Come in and see these new cars.

Why All The Discontentment?

W. T. D. in The Vineland N. J. Republican

Brothers, let us not forget the lesson of today—the truths that are learned only through murching the dried weed of experience rather than the delicious elixir of the joy wagon. The nagging and discontented wife of tomorrow. All too many of our ambitious would-be prize beauties in paragon parades were cast into utter darkness, because their underpinning was too frail to please the taste of the hot polio; for the gorgeous auto chariot for which we chained ourselves to the remorseless wheel of debt, there waits now a place in the Crystal avenue mausoleum. It was ever thus.

Be humble—but not too humble. Be patient, but not too patient. If a man hits you on the nose, withhold your anger until you gather a brick to smash him back a Jack Dempsey on the nose. "Walk softly, carry a big stick and you will go far," as saith Bwambo Tambo, "the mighty hunter."

In the last analysis, it will be found that most of our tribulations are of our own hatching; incubated in over-reaching, brooded in incompetence. We spend hours in berating John Rockefeller and his companions in opulent sin, but if our wives ask us to step around the corner to get a can of kerosene to clean up the oil stove, we let out a roar that drives the cat under the sink.

It is easy to make money; it is another thing to keep it and this column has a hunch the latter conclusion is the seat of our troubles. Again, we are too prone to saddle ourselves with responsibilities greater than our limited abilities to bear.

*A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches," saith the Prophet. He never said a wiser thing. Remember when that is gone, all is gone. Rather than face the consequences of his speculations and the accusing glances of his creditors, a powerful United States Senator took his own life.

Labor is honorable—exalting in fact. Decent poverty is no crime nor even a stain. The older du Ponts take their old pensioners and powder makers on an annual picnic and check up jowl, man to man, recall the glorious, if tragic battles of earlier and leaner years. There is something fine in all this. There is not the slightest doubt that the intimates of John Rockefeller find him a kindly, venerable man whose instincts are helpful and alleviating.

Take the time to take stock of ourselves and trace back the real cause, of any, of our tribulations. They will be found largely, if not almost wholly of our own making. Let us at least be honest with ourselves before berating our neighbor.

Men who have much are those who have already taken advantage of their opportunities backed with bold confidence. Those who have little, lacked these paramount attributes and remained in the groove where circumstances placed. Here is hatched out the fretfulness that finds voice in attacking our institutions and our government. Who is to blame?

Let us take courage and face the situation fairly. Learn to walk upright and fear no man. You can only do this however when your conscience is clear and you possess the stamina to refuse to become involved in obligations greater than you can bear.

*Theodore Roosevelt.

LOWER DELAWARE MOTORISTS PROTEST AT DISCRIMINATION BY MARYLAND POLICE

Laurel Newspaper Takes Up Fight For Sussex People; Condemns Attitude On Headlight Law

Motorists of lower Delaware are up in arms over allegations that State Police are discriminating between Maryland and Delaware automobile operators with the favors resting upon the former, according to the State Register, a weekly publication in Laurel which in its last issue carries a column editorial under the caption "Unfair to Delaware Auto-ists."

The newspaper charges that evidences of these discriminations have become more pronounced recently and issues a warning that, if continued reciprocity for autoists of the two states will cease and a similar state of conditions as that formerly existing between District of Columbia and Maryland will be inaugurated.

Two incidents are cited by the paper as the outgrowth of illegal headlight lens on cars being Delaware license plates. The lens on one of the cars has been tested and approved in Delaware, but in Maryland, the paper alleges, the operator was hauled before a police justice by a state officer and made to pay a fine for improper adjustment.

The editorial continues:

"There are several incidents on record to which we may refer as showing more or less deliberate attempt on the part of certain Maryland highway officers causing Delaware drivers to pay a penalty where there was really no foundation for their act."

"On these two illustrations alone appears the desire of certain Maryland officers, especially in and about Salisbury to pick up and act against Delaware drivers on the slightest pretext or even without a real cause."

"We are under the impression that the civic bodies in Salisbury—the merchants organizations and Chamber of Commerce, would enter protest against such action, for Salisbury in particular obtains a large portion of Delaware trade, and especially do many from Laurel shop there."

"We believe that our civic bodies protest unfair treatment of visitors from any state, for we appreciate the value of visitors, and in turn we would think that Salisbury organizations would do likewise."

"Action of some nature will have to be taken to prevent a really serious situation."—Exch.

Has Open Body One Moment and 30 Seconds Later Is Entirely Enclosed

A new type of car has stirred the automobile world as has nothing since the abandonment of the "buggy" type of body building.

It is the Studebaker Duplex, so called to indicate that it is an open car one moment and, 30 seconds later, it is an enclosed car.

Like all great advances in the industrial arts, it is "so simple in operation, it is a wonder it wasn't thought of before," particularly since its need has been growing, year by year, ever since automobiles were made.

Many people, all of the time, and most people, part of the time, want an open car—to bring to their riding the fresh crispness of the country air, and a free and untrammelled association with the great outdoors.

Long comfort of the closed car, shutting out the storm and the wind and the cold, has been at times a necessity.

Two Cars In One

The Studebaker Duplex is both cars in one. Just pull down the roller enclosures concealed in the roof of the car. In 30 seconds the open car has been made an enclosed car.

No hurried efforts to put up curtains; no hunting for the right one while the storm beats in; no mixing them up in the dark; no exposure through holes torn in them while trying to obtain, for the emergency, the protection given by a closed car.

The body is built substantially—sides, corners and roof frame are of steel. The roof has curved steel sides and back; hard wood front. Steel, U-shaped cross beams, six of them, support the water-proofed, duplex fabric top and its linings. Here is permanent beauty—no sagging tops.

But, Studebaker—with 72 years of responsibility behind it—on which the whole vehicle-using world has come to depend for reliability—would not rest on only one real contribution to the value given the public. It must give all that engineering ability could devise.

Cecil County Farm Hand Takes Life After Alleged Attack on Farmer's Wife

William Seagers Makes Death Doubly Sure by Means of Rope and Pistol; Victim of Attack In Hospital With Severe Bruises

William Seagers, a thirty-five year old farm hand, employed by James Harris in the latter's orchards near Pleasant Hill, a small village northwest of Elkton, in upper Cecil County, committed suicide late Thursday afternoon, following an alleged attack upon Mrs. Harris in her home earlier in the day.

The body of the dead man was found hanging from a rafter in the Harris barn by a posse of neighbors who had started a hunt for him. Seagers had made doubly sure of the deed by fastening a noose about his neck, and by shooting himself in the head just as he jumped from a box.

A small revolver was found on the floor under the body, thus substantiating the theory. Coroner Green of Elkton was immediately called and gave a verdict of death by suicide.

Mrs. Harris, who had been alone all day in her home, is said to be suffering with a slight fracture of the skull, and severe cuts and bruises, received in repulsing the advances of Seagers.

She was removed to the Union Hospital for treatment. Her condition is believed to be serious.

From what could be learned of the case Seagers and Mrs. Harris had known each other for several years. About a year ago she married Mr. Harris. Seagers had been working in the paper mills at Providence, but sometime ago took employment under Harris on the latter's farm and had been engaged in picking apples.

Harris, in addition to running the farm, is also engaged by the Dolinger creamery and supervises the collection of milk from the farmers of that section of the country. He left home Thursday to attend to this work and did not return until near midnight. It was during his absence that Seagers went to the house and attacked Mrs. Harris.

She fought valiantly to escape his advances and during the struggle he is said to have become so enraged that he picked up a monkey wrench and struck her on the head with it. Mrs. Harris was knocked unconscious by the blow. Harris evidently believed he had killed her. He then went to the barn and killed himself, making doubly sure of death by hanging and firing the bullet into his head.

Mrs. Harris remained unconscious for seven hours. When she regained her senses she managed to drag herself to the home of a Mrs. Jones, a neighbor, and there related what had occurred. She was covered with blood and her clothing was torn to shreds, mute evidence of the terrific fight she had had with the man. Mrs. Jones

News Oddities

When the body of an unknown man was fished from the Mississippi river near New Orleans a few days ago his watch was found to be still running. Several converts were recently baptized in a pool formerly used as a whiskey distillery vat at Greenbrier, Tenn.

Using ultra-violet rays and a dark background, a photo-micrograph magnifying an object 25,000 diameters has been developed. On this scale the head of a pin would appear to be 40 yards across.
