Following the dinner, welcoming remarks and introductions by the town, university and local officials will be made. Col. Thomas W. Miller will act as toastmaster and introductions to the guests and National Commander will be briefly made prior to his being called on as speaker of the evening.

Newarkers Attend Budget Hearing At Legislative Hall In Dover

The following Newarkers attended the Educational Hearing of the Senate Finance Committee at Dover on Monday:

Professor W. A. Wilkinson, Professor Heim, Professor Dougherty, of the University of Delaware; Mr. Edward L. Richards, vice-president of the Newark Board of Education, Mr. Ira S. Brinser, Superintendent of Newark Schools; and Mr. John Pearce Cann, of the State Board of Education.

The meeting was attended by the State Board of Education and representatives of all the special districts and the City of Wilmington, as well as a number of the State Board Schools.

The problem of financing the schools was the major presentation. The amount asked for the Public Education in Delaware for the coming year was $3,077,190 for instructional salaries and supplies, management, custodian salaries, heat, light, water, maintenance of buildings and insurance; $325,000 for transportation of public children throughout the state. It was likewise reported that a separate bill was presented in the Senate by Senator VanSant for the continuation of Public School Kindergartens.

A problem which occupied some time of the hearing was the matter of consideration of the differential appropriation for the different parts of the school system. A plan was presented whereby a definite amount would be appropriated for each high school pupil (10-11-12), another amount for each junior high school (7-8-9), and another amount for each elementary pupil (1-2-3-4-5-6). There seemed to be a general agreement on the distribution of funds on these bases, which suggested a greater degree of fairness, provided, the appropriation could meet the plan.

SENATOR WALSH DIES OF HEART ATTACK ABOARD TRAIN

Married Saturday; Was To Have Been United States Attorney-General

According to an Associated Press dispatch, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, died suddenly of a heart attack aboard an Atlantic Coast Line train near Wilson this morning while en route to Washington with his bride whom he married Saturday in Havana.

The Senator, who was named to be attorney-general in the cabinet of President-elect Roosevelt only a few days ago, was stricken as he lay face downward in a berth in his drawing room.

He was 73 years old. Senator Walsh died at 7:10 a. m., as Conductor Herbert Weatherspee, operating on the train between Laurens, S. C., and Rocky Mount, felt his pulse.

Only the conductor, Mrs. Walsh and her Cuban maid and a porter were present.

Mrs. Walsh was described as hysterical by Conductor Weatherspee, who said he reached the Senator's side at 7:02.

"The Senator died while I held his hand," Weatherspee said. "Mrs. Walsh was hysterical. Dr. Costello was located on the train but he arrived after the Senator died."

Dr. Richard J. Costello is from

Cambridge, Mass. Mrs. Walsh, who speaks little English, told Weatherspee her husband awakened about 6:30 a. m., and that he was "doubled up" in pain. She said she found Senator Walsh holding his stomach with his hands.

The Senator rose from his berth in his drawing room and crossed over to his wife's berth and there collapsed face down, Mrs. Walsh said.

A Negro porter was called and he raced seven cars away to find Weatherspee, whom he told the Senator appeared to be dying.

Weatherspee said he reached the Senator's side in a few minutes, that his pulse and that death came while he held his hand.

Dr. Costello reached the drawing room by this time and, as the train rolled into Wilson, Dr. M. A. Pittman was called to attend Mrs. Walsh, who was in a highly nervous state.

Dr. Pittman said the Senator was dead when he arrived and that, in his opinion, he had died of a sudden heart attack.

He was placed in charge by Mrs. Walsh, who told the physician to have the Senator's body removed from the train at Rocky Mount to be prepared for burial.

GEORGE W. GRIFFIN DIES SUDDENLY AT HIS HOME TUESDAY

Spent Later Years Helping Others; Painted as a Hobby

George W. Griffin, aged 77, for half a century prominent in business and civic affairs of Newark, died suddenly at his home on Main street Tuesday at noon. While Mr. Griffin had suffered for several years and had not been feeling well for several days his death was unexpected.

Mr. Griffin was seated in a room at his home when he suffered a heart attack and told his housekeeper that he thought he was dying. Before medical aid could arrive he succumbed.

Although born at Warwick, Md., he had spent more than half a century of his life in Newark and was in the contracting business until he retired several years ago. In politics he was a Democrat and ran for the legislature several years ago but was defeated by the Republican candidate.

For many years Mr. Griffin had been active in civic, lodge and church affairs. He served on numerous committees in connection with civic work for the betterment of Newark and at different times was a member of Town Council, the Board of Education and had been identified with other town activities.

Mr. Griffin was a Mason and Red Man and for years was much in demand as a speaker at lodge and other affairs in Newark and vicinity. He was an orator of considerable ability and was an authority on the early history of Newark. He recently gave an interesting talk on Newark of 80 years ago before the Lions Club. He was president of the Board of Trustees of the Newark Academy, a director of the Newark Building and Loan Association and a trustee of the First Presbyterian Church.

In recent years he devoted considerable time to oil painting and had turned out some excellent paintings. Several of his pictures were recently presented to the local school and also one to the Lions Club. He was married twice. Both his wives are now dead. He is survived by five children as follows: Mrs. A. Frank Fader, T. Reese Griffin and Ralph Griffin, of Newark, and E. B. Griffin and H. D. Griffin, of Washington, D. C.

Lions Club Makes Splendid Contribution to Newark School

Educational Committee Presents Copy of Moral Code for Youth to Every Pupil in the School

The Educational Committee of the Lions Club of Newark, whose membership consists of Mr. E. L. Richards, chairman, Mr. R. S. Gallagher, and Mr. Welden Waples, provided a copy of Collier's Moral Code for Youth as their contribution to the Educational Committee.

The Moral Code for Youth has for its purpose the encouragement of Character Building and Citizenship and as such is a valuable contribution in the field of Character Education and Guidance.

A review of the Code shows the following outstanding helps, simple in language but helpful in tone:

"If I want to be a happy useful citizen, I must have: Courage and hope; wisdom; industry and good habits; knowledge and usefulness; truth and honesty; healthfulness and cleanliness; helpfulness and unselfishness; charity; humility and reverence; and faith and responsibility."

Three large copies of the Code were also presented. These will be suitably framed and placed in the libraries of both the white and the colored schools of Newark. The framing will be done by the Industrial Arts Department of the school.

Acting on behalf of the chairman of the committee, Mr. Brinser made the presentation to the school, in which he praised the work of the Lions Club Committee on Education for the worthwhile contribution they made to the school in the field of helpfulness in Citizenship and Character Education.

Milk and the Low-Cost Diet

Milk—let it be the first consideration in planning the daily food supply for the family. This should be done whether there is much or little money to spend, but especially necessary when money for foods is limited since milk, according to Miss Pearl MacDonald, Extension Service, University of Delaware, safeguards health when the diet is restricted.

"Why is milk so necessary for children?" some one asks. For several reasons:

(1) Milk is rich in protein, the material needed for building muscles. The protein of milk is of excellent quality and is one that fully meets the needs of the growing child.

(2) Milk is rich in calcium and phosphorus—the two minerals mainly required in building bones and teeth.

(3) Milk is an excellent source of supply for Vitamin A (the infection preventing vitamin). Also, a good source of Vitamin B (the vitamin that affects appetite, digestion and nerves). It contains some Vitamin D (the vitamin that prevents rickets).

The importance of milk in the diet cannot be over-emphasized. The more limited the money and the choice of foods, continues Miss MacDonald, the more necessary it is to have milk in some form at every meal—a quart a day for every child and a pint a day for every adult.

The addition to the above, milk may be used in such variety of ways: as milk to drink, in cocoa, in cream of vegetable soups, in creamed and scalloped vegetables, in milk desserts, and cooked and used with cereals.

When the diet is restricted each child should have two to four teaspoonsful of cod-liver oil.

The following is a daily meal pattern as suggested by some of our nutritionists. It may be helpful in showing where milk can be used in the diet.

Breakfast—Fruit (fresh, canned or stewed, dried fruit); cereal (cooked in and served with milk); bread and butter; milk for children; coffee or tea for adults.

Lunch or Supper—One of the "meat substitutes (milk, eggs, cheese or dried peas or beans); a vegetable; bread and butter; fruit or simple dessert (as Indian or baked rice pudding, etc.); milk for children.

Dinner (noon or night)—One of the following: meat, fish or a "meat substitute"; potatoes; another vegetable; bread and butter; fruit or simple dessert; milk for children.

Some recipes in which milk is used: White or cream sauce to be used with creamed or scalloped vegetables—

Very thin—Milk, 1 cup; flour, ½ tablespoon; butter, 1 tablespoon; salt, ½ teaspoon; pepper, dash.

Thin—Milk, 1 cup; flour, 1 tablespoon; butter, 1 tablespoon; salt, ½ teaspoon; pepper, dash.

Medium—Milk, 1 cup; flour, 2 tablespoons; butter, 2 tablespoons; salt, ½ teaspoon; pepper, dash.

Thick—Milk, 1 cup; flour, 3 tablespoons; butter, 3 tablespoons; salt, ½ teaspoon; pepper, dash.

Melt butter, remove from fire, stir in flour and seasonings. Add all of the milk, return to fire, stir steadily until mixture boils. If wish to keep warm, set in pan of hot water.

General recipe for cream of vegetable soup.—Cut vegetables in small pieces and cook until tender (or use any left over vegetables). Add to white sauce, using ¼ to 1 cup vegetable to 2 cups white sauce. If too thick, thin to desired consistency with milk.

For white sauce, use ½ to 1 tablespoon flour, 1 to 2 tablespoons fat to 1 cup milk. Season to taste.

Bean porridge.—Wash beans, soak over night in water to cover. Drain cover with fresh water, season with salt, add small cube of salt pork, simmer until tender, add cup of milk or more, let come to boil, serve with bread or toast.

Potatoes in milk.—Put diced cold cooked potatoes in baking dish, season with salt, pepper and butter. Add just enough milk to be seen through the top layer, bake in moderate oven.

Oven creamed potatoes.—Put diced cold cooked potatoes in baking dish, sprinkle with flour, stir lightly, season and proceed as above.

Grated cheese may be added to

Junket.—2 cups milk; 2 tablespoons sugar; ¼ teaspoon vanilla; 1 junket tablet dissolved in 2 teaspoons lukewarm water.

Heat milk and sugar until just lukewarm. Add vanilla and dissolved junket.

Mix and pour at once into individual serving dishes, let stand in warm room until set, chill and serve.

Note: Cinnamon, nutmeg, coconut, Canton ginger, cocoa or other flavor may be substituted for vanilla. Also, may serve with cream or soft custard or fruit juice or fruit.

Baked rice pudding.—4 cups milk; ¼ cup rice; ¼ teaspoon salt; ¼ cup sugar. Wash rice, put ingredient into buttered baking dish, bake 2 or 3 hours in slow oven, stirring occasionally. Serve hot or cold.

Note: Raisins or dates may be added.

Boiled custard.—2 cups scalded milk; 2 or 3 eggs; 2 or 4 tablespoons sugar; dash salt; ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Beat eggs slightly, add sugar and salt, then hot milk, stirring constantly. Cook over hot water, stirring until mixture thickens and coats the spoon. Remove from hot water, set in pan of cold water, flavor and chill.

Health: How To Keep It

Prevention of Teeth Decay at Birth

I suppose all of you have heard that a clean tooth does not decay. It is entirely likely that keeping the teeth clean is important in preventing decay from occurring. But it is by no means the only thing that need be done.

When food particles are left on the teeth the germs normally present in the mouth act on these food particles and form acids. Then these acids tend to damage the teeth. But it seems that tooth decay will occur whether these acids are present or not.

Dr. Martha R. Jones and her co-workers have made an investigation in Hawaii of the teeth of babies. It seems that the babies of all nationalities have teeth which were defective. They were soft and chalky and had rough surfaces and seemed to break down as soon as they came through the gums. In other words, the teeth were poorly formed under the gums. In some of the children the teeth were removed from the jawbone before time for them to come through the gums. Such teeth, taken from older children, were found to be more defective than those taken from the newborn babies.

This has led to the conclusion that not only were these teeth defective because of something lacking in the diet of the mothers, but also to something which destroyed the teeth.

There was no evidence of infections in the teeth. In two of the newborn babies studied there apparently was a type of acidosis present, due to kidney diseases which the mother had. This acid condition continued in the babies for several months after birth, and it is thought that this acidosis caused the destruction of the teeth. After putting these children on a diet of cow's milk, fruit and vegetables, the tooth decay stopped.

The giving of large amounts of sunshine and cod-liver oil to the babies in Hawaii did not stop the rapid destruction of the teeth. Thus you can see that a number of things are necessary in keeping the teeth strong and sound. Just keeping them clean is by no means the only thing necessary. The individual's diet must be proper; he must get enough milk to supply the lime and phosphorus needed by the body. He must get cod-liver oil, cod-liver oil concentrate or viosterol for its vitamin D. He must have foods containing vitamin A, such as milk and cod-liver oil, butter and green and yellow vegetables. He must chew on hard foods, such as raw materials and bread crusts, so that the teeth will be moved in their sockets, thus increasing the supply of blood to them.—By Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, former president American Public Health Association.

"Share the Work" And Do It Now

The two outstanding public men in the United States are earnest believers in the "Share-the-Work" movement. According to President Hoover, "This movement affords one of the most practicable methods of speedily relieving the present distressing unemployment situation and should have the active cooperation of every employer and employee."

According to President-elect Roosevelt, "It is not enough to get the big nation-wide industrial organizations to put the 'Share-the-Work' plan into operation; it is equally important to get the smaller corporations and smaller employers in every community to put work-sharing into their individual plants and businesses."

As this unanimity of opinion shows, "Share-the-Work" is a matter that goes beyond politics and party, and touches a vital problem of the moment. It is essential to the future of the country that what work there is be so dispersed as to afford a living to the largest possible number of workers. "Share-the-Work" is a powerful weapon with which to overcome unemployment.

It is especially noteworthy that both the President and the President-elect accentuate the need for smaller businesses following the lead of the larger ones. That is essential to the success of the movement. The bulk of the employment in this country is provided by comparatively small industries, and their influence will be the determining one in working out any plan of this kind. Share-the-Work—and do it now!

ask for 10% POTASH IN YOUR FERTILIZER

Fertilizers containing 10% or more potash produce the smooth, high quality tomatoes that are prized on all markets. Potash-fed tomatoes are well-filled-out and meaty, with thick walls causing firmness and good carrying quality.

Tomatoes that are starved for potash often crack around the stems and are useless for shipping. Note the thin walls and air spaces due to poor filling out. 10% potash fertilizer would help greatly in correcting this condition.

THE AVERAGE truck crop removes from your soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined. Potash is the quality-producing element in fertilizer. It helps you produce the No. 1 grades that the market demands—the quality that gets the top prices.

The final figure in your fertilizer analysis indicates its potash content. Actual results on their own farms have convinced leading Delmarva farmers that the fertilizer they buy and use should be well-balanced with at least 10% potash.

Your fertilizer man will be glad to supply you with a 10% potash mixture which will increase the yields and improve the quality of virtually every crop grown under Delmarva conditions. It is an excellent fertilizer for such crops as tomatoes, corn, sweet potatoes, beans, raspberries, cantaloupes, cucumbers, watermelons, onions, cabbages, sweet corn, peas, strawberries, grapes and orchards.

10% potash fertilizer has long been a very popular mixture for Delmarva tomatoes. It keeps the plants vigorous and productive . . . increases their resistance to disease and adverse weather conditions . . . reduces cracking around the stems of the fruit . . . increases the percentage of good red color . . . and thickens the walls making the fruit firm, well-filled-out and meaty, thus giving it excellent shipping and canning quality.

10% potash fertilizer greatly increases the yields of No. 1 tomatoes and reduces the number of cat-faces, puffs, culls and small poorly colored fruits.

Your best opportunity of success this season is to keep your costs low and your grades high. The extra yields and extra quality added at such low cost by extra potash are usually the most economical share of your crop. When ordering your fertilizer why not select a well-balanced mixture containing 10% potash and use it for every crop you grow? It is the best all-around fertilizer for Delmarva.

GLASGOW

Mr. Local Business Man, don't you want at least part of the business that is going out of Newark? If you do, you must tell the buying public what you have, and at what price. Most of the thrifty shoppers shop in their newspaper first; they don't take time to go to your store to ask prices.

It is up to you to tell them

Up To the People

Facts of tremendous significance have been appearing in the Delaware press within the last few weeks. (1) There appeared descriptions of the State's educational progress, gleaned from the official report of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction which shows for an increased expenditure of 13 cents per child, a shift in rating among the states from 32nd to 10th place. (2) There appeared abstracts from the report of an educational survey, made as a result of congressional action, by the United States Office of Education which contained as basic recommendations for the country as a whole, three major reforms in school finance, which have already been achieved in Delaware.

Later there appeared quotations from the same report in which Delaware is cited along with New York, Maryland, North Carolina, Missouri, and California, "as examples of states that approach the ideal more closely than the majority of the states. These states lead the nation in providing equal educational opportunity to all districts within the state."

There has also appeared as an official report, the statement that Delaware schools have suffered less from the depression than those of any other state.

Everyone who has lived in Delaware during the last fifteen years can readily see why these things may be said. The state has staged the most intensive effort in behalf of education that has ever been witnessed, by any people.

Like a bolt from the blue, therefore, is the statement prepared by Pierre S. du Pont and Gerald Montaigne, which has appeared this week to point out that Delaware schools are being asked, in the Governor's recommendation to take not only a flat cut, but nine-tenths of the total saving in the budget of ordinary expense.

"The proposed appropriation for the support of common schools is reduced 12.5 per cent." The statement points out at the same time that the recommended budget of ordinary expense in the general fund is reduced a little over one-half of one per cent.

The thousands of people in the State who have helped place Delaware schools on the upward swing, we predict, will not accept with complacency, this proposed discrimination against education.

J. Allison O'Daniel Post No. 10 Highly Honored

On Thursday, March 9th, the local post of the American Legion has again been designated to entertain the new National Commander of the American Legion on his visit to the State Department. Through the interest of the State Commander Col. Thomas W. Miller and the sincere loyalty to Newark of State Vice-Commander John R. Fader, the State Department officers again decided to have the National Commander's visit to the State of Delaware held in our town.

This program is similar to the one so successfully carried out in Newark last year when the then National Commander, Henry L. Stevens, Jr., of North Carolina, was entertained at a banquet which turned out to be one of the largest and most enthusiastic banquets ever held in this vicinity.

For the benefit of those people who have listened to remarks about the politics and efforts claimed to be brought about by the American Legion, we believe that no one in this community can afford to miss this opportunity to let the new National Commander of the American Legion, Louis A. Johnson, place before them the true activities of the Legion, particularly in a period such as we have been going through recently.

For the benefit of those who did not read the editorial in last week's issue of The Newark Post, we hope they still have a copy and will read something about the type of man the Legion selects for such a job as National Commander of the Legion organization. Complete description of the program appears in other columns, and we certainly believe that the people of Newark will support the boys, who, through their interest in Newark, have arranged for this affair to be held here on March 9th at 6:45 p. m., in Old College Dining Hall. Particular arrangements have been made by the committee to eliminate any delay in the proceedings and the banquet will be held promptly on the hour designated.

Likely Alumni Banquets Will Be Held

At University In the Future

Because of the fact that more alumni attended the mid-winter banquet and meeting of the Delaware College Alumni Association in Old College, University of Delaware, last Saturday, it is likely that these functions will be held each year at the college in the future. It had been the custom for some years to hold them in Wilmington when the average attendance would be about 100.

More than 150 alumni attended the banquet last Saturday night at the university. It gave many alumni living at a distance their first opportunity for a long time to return to their Alma Mater. They were given a cordial welcome by President Walter Hullahen and a special committee of the faculty and the occasion was made an especially enjoyable one.

Harry G. Lawson, of Wilmington, was nominated for president of the association, the election to be held in June.

chairman, will serve tea.

The Club Chorus met at the home of Mrs. S. Paul Wiers on Monday afternoon and practiced the songs which they will present at Delaware City March 24. The Chorus will meet next Monday at the Club.

The Hospitality Committee met at the home of Mrs. J. J. MacKenzie, 228 Orchard Road, on Wednesday afternoon.

The following committees have turned in a picture for the scrap book: Art, membership education, motion pictures, correction, program, and the executive board. ## DISTINGUISHED GUEST TO VISIT HERE MARCH 9

tional Commander of the American Legion at the National Convention in Portland, Oregon, has been active in Legion work since the inception of the organization in 1919. He has held many posts in his own department, serving as department commander for the year 1931, and was formerly a member of the national executive committee. He has likewise been prominent in public and civic affairs in his home community and state.

Mr. Johnson is a Virginian by birth and a West Virginian by adoption. He was born at Roanoke, Virginia, January 10, 1891. He attended the Roanoke high school and entered the University of Virginia from which he was graduated in 1912 with the degree of Bachelor of Laws. He then went to Clarksburg where he established himself in the practice of law with Philip P. Steptoe. The firm, now known as Steptoe & Johnson, is one of the best known in the state and has a large practice.

At the outbreak of the World War Mr. Johnson was serving as a member of the state legislative body. Following adjournment he resigned as a member of the House of Delegates to enter the service but his resignation was not accepted by Governor Cornwall who called an extra session to enact war legislation. On August 27, 1917, Mr. Johnson entered the Second Officers Training Camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana. At the completion of the training period he had a high standing and was commissioned as a captain of infantry and ordered to Camp Lee, Virginia.

The Eightieth Division was being formed at Camp Lee and Captain Johnson was assigned to the 305th Ammunition Train. He sailed for France with that unit in May, 1918, remaining overseas for about one year. He saw service with the 80th, 4th, 5th and 90th Divisions. He was in active combat service during the entire Meuse-Argonne offensive and accompanied the 90th Division into Germany as a part of the Army of Occupation. He was later sent back to his old division when that command was ready to leave France, and was honorably discharged in June, 1919, while his promotion to the rank of Major was pending. He now holds the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the Officers Reserve Corps.

Returning to Clarksburg, Mr. Johnson resumed the practice of law. When the Clarksburg Post of the Legion was organized he was a charter member and became one of the first officers of the post. He attended the first department convention at Charleston in 1919 and was elected a member of the national executive committee from West Virginia, an office he held for two years. He was chairman of the West Virginia delegations at the national convention in Minneapolis in 1919 and Paris, France, in 1927. He had headed one of the most important committees in the state and served as department judge advocate for two years.

Mr. Johnson has been active in the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and various Masonic bodies. He is a past Exalted Ruler of the Clarksburg Lodge of Elks and is a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He is also a member of the Harrison County Bar Association, American Bar Association and the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. He was married to Miss Ruth F. Maxwell of Clarksburg, February 7, 1920. They have two daughters, Lillian and Katherine.

For those who enjoy dancing, a dance will be held following the banquet.

The people of Newark are cordially invited to take part in this reception to the Legion's distinguished guest. You will find in other columns of this paper an advertisement of the reception. We believe it will pay anyone who can attend to take advantage of this opportunity and hear what the chief of the Legion has to say regarding Legion activities, which have so many times been greatly misunderstood by the general public.

Following the conclusion of the banquet, the National Commander will be escorted to Wilmington, arriving shortly after 10:00 p. m. He will be

Farmers and Wives Attend Calf Cutting And Pressure Canning Demonstration

More than 25 farmers and their wives attended the calf cutting and pressure canning demonstration meeting held Tuesday at the home of Joseph Pierson, near Hockessin. The meeting was arranged by the New Castle County Extension Agents, Mrs. Henry Daugherty, Home Demonstration Agent and County Agent Ed William, Jr.

Henry B. McVaugh, an experienced butcher living in Hockessin, showed how the veal carcass should be handled to obtain the same kind of cuts which the butcher and meat stores sell. During the cutting demonstration, Mr. McVaugh explained that any one, after a little practice, could learn how to butcher their own home raised animals, and in this way expect to save a large amount on the family meat bill. He pointed out that the veal which he was cutting would have brought about $12.50 to Mr. Pierson if he had sold it alive to the local butchers, and that he would probably have paid nearly $25.00 at retail prices if he had bought that much veal from the meat dealers. This is clearly a saving of 100 per cent which, with a little practice and experience, any farmer can make in his meat bills, stated Mr. McVaugh.

County Agent William had introduced Mr. McVaugh at the start of the meeting in the morning and explained that this kind of a demonstration was a part of the program of the Extension Service in advising farmers to farm first for food and feed during this period when the wholesale prices which farmers are receiving for their products are often below the cost of producing them. "You have just seen," stated Mr. William when Mr. McVaugh had completed the cutting up of the carcass, "how to butcher your home raised animals and save the difference between the wholesale price for the animal and the retail price which you pay when buying these same meat cuts from your butcher or meat store."

Pressure canning of meats was shown by Mrs. Daugherty in the afternoon when she used the canning and sealing outfit recently purchased by Mrs. Pierson in canning the veal which had been cut by Mr. McVaugh during the morning session. "Usually," stated the Home Demonstration Agent, "most farm families cannot use all of the meat after butchering an animal before it goes to waste. The economical thing to do in this case is to can the meat and use it as the family needs demand."

Mrs. Daugherty then showed the women and men how to prepare the veal, for canning. This was done by searing in hot grease the roasts, cutlets, chops, etc., cut by Mr. McVaugh that morning. These were put in the quart size tin cans and sealed with Mr. Pierson's new Burpee can sealer. These cans of meat were then cooked in the pressure canner for about one hour and a half.

The County Extension Agents were pleased with the interest shown at this meeting and they will be glad to advise with any one who wants to find out how to lower their farm and home expenses by using a better advantage the home raised products. They can be reached by sending a card addressed to them at Newark.

Distinction Given Buck and Winant

Among the remnant of Republican Governors expected in Washington on March 6 for the conference to which President-elect Roosevelt has invited all State executives, are two men widely looked upon as G. O. P. hopes for 1936. They are John G. Winant of New Hampshire and Clayton Douglass Buck of Delaware. Both of them are young, personable, capable and politically seasoned, with strong records in their own States, as exemplified by re-elections to their present offices. The great parties traditionally look to Congress and the State capitals for presidential timber. Of the thin line of 10 Republicans remaining in gubernatorial chairs, Winant and Buck are considered by many party spokesmen as the best timber now in sight. With Senate Leader McNary and House Leader Snell, the New Hampshire and Delaware Governors are the most conspicuous Republicans now left in elective office.—Washington Post.

RESEARCH LEAGUE

Says Taxes Must Be Lowered; Gardner Tells of Economy
In North Carolina

Budgets, national, State and local, there will be concerted opposition. It can no longer be balanced by increased taxation, Governor Buck told 300 guests and members of the Taxpayers' Research League and members of the General Assembly last night at the annual dinner meeting of the league in the du Pont-Biltmore Hotel.

Taxes must be brought down to fit the changed conditions of the present, the Governor said, and this can only be done through governmental economy.

Governor Buck said he expects concerted opposition from politicians in his fight to cut down expenditures.

"The politicians think they are fighting for what is necessary to them," the Governor said. "But in my code, consideration of the public comes first and I propose to fight, win or lose, for the public's interest."

Among the other speakers at the dinner was O. Max Gardner, former Governor of North Carolina, who told how the "joy ride of public expenditures" in his State was doomed and one way, he said, was through the consolidation of the county and township roads into one unified system.

Such is the movement now afoot in Delaware, for the State to take over all county roads and such is the measure recommended by an special commission appointed by Governor Buck to study county government and county governmental expenditures in Delaware.

RELIEF CERTIFICATE SYSTEM

It's Credit Loosening Features

Under present conditions it is almost impossible for banks to make loans even for ordinary commercial and business purposes.

With the Relief Certificate System, banks can accept the security for a loan and issue these Certificates of deposit as a loan. The Certificates can then be used by the borrower to carry on his business; but they can not become a demand liability on the banks until they are fully stamped, which will probably require two to ten months' time—and in the mean time the borrower has had a chance to transact his business and pay off the loan.

Marker In Memory of John Dickinson To Be Erected In Wilmington

The inscription for the marker which is to be erected by the Historic Markers Commission in the Friends Meeting House graveyard at Fourth and Washington streets, Wilmington, in memory of John Dickinson, was announced last week by Dr. George H. Ryden, chairman of the Commission. This inscription was submitted by Dr. Ryden to the Monthly Meeting of the Friends Meeting House and the approval of this body obtained.

The bronze plaque is to be fastened on a boulder which will be placed in the corner of the graveyard at Fourth and Washington streets so that the inscription may be read from both streets. The boulder will be donated by Mr. Edward W. Cooch, a member of the Commission, and will be taken from his property on Iron Hill.

An announcement will be made later as to the exact date of the unveiling of the marker. It is planned to have the exercises as simple as possible in keeping with the surroundings, and they will be open to the public. The Governor of the State has been invited to attend. Special invitations to the Society of Friends, public officials, representatives of patriotic societies in Delaware, members of the Delaware bar, representatives of Dickinson College, and the descendants of John Dickinson will be sent out as soon as the date of the exercises has been determined upon.

Besides Dr. Ryden and Mr. Cooch, the Historic Markers Commission—1933

the Historic Markers Commission membership consists of Mrs. J. E. Fuller of Wilmington, Mrs. Francis deH. Janvier of New Castle, and former Judge Hugh M. Morris of Wilmington. Miss Anna T. Lincoln, Librarian and curator of the Historical Society of Delaware, is secretary to the Commission.

The Dickinson inscription follows:

JOHN DICKINSON
1732-1808

Nearby is Grave of John Dickinson, Lawyer, Scholar, and Statesman. Member Colonial Assemblies of Delaware and Pennsylvania, and Legislative Council of Delaware State. Delegate to Congress, Representative in Continental Congress from Pennsylvania and Delaware, and President of Both States, Signer for Delaware of Articles of Confederation. Lived in Kent County and at Eighth and Market Streets, Wilmington.

Grow Adapted Red Clover To Prevent Crop Failure

Clover failures in Delaware may frequently be traced to the use of unadapted seed, imported strains of which yield only 50 to 70 per cent as much hay as American strains when planted in spring with a nurse crop, George L. Schuster, Agronomist at the University of Delaware reports.

Because of the admitted inferiority of red clover seed from foreign countries, Federal legislation has been passed which requires that foreign seed shall be stained to distinguish it from American clover. Depending on its source, 10 per cent of the foreign seed is stained red or 1 per cent is stained green. In the last decade nearly 8,000,000 pounds of red clover seed has been imported annually into this country.

"Imported seed of red clover does not give as good results on Delaware farms as domestic seed," Professor Schuster declares. "A large percentage of the plants produced from these unadapted strains die during the first summer after seeding. Foreign strains also fail to produce a second cutting of hay during the year of production. The average hay yield of adapted native strains in tests at the Newark Experiment Station has been over 5,700 pounds per acre as compared with 3,000 pounds for foreign strains.

"The most desirable strains of red clover for spring planting are those grown for several plant generations in Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota or nearby states. If native Delaware strains were available, such strains would doubtless prove the most productive of all. Revival of the practice of growing clover seed in this state is greatly to be desired, since this is the most certain method of perpetuating locally adapted strains of the crop.

TEN BILLION SPENT FOR FUN IN UNITED STATES

Auto Touring Costs $3,000,000,000 Yearly; $12,000,000 Is Spent For Indoor Sports; Night Club Coffers Garner $23,000,000

Americans spend more than $10,000,000,000 a year on fun. Are we getting our money's worth?

That depends on how you look at it. Ten billion dollars is considerably less than we sank in the war and its loans, and certainly we're getting more laughs out of our recreational activities than out of those items.

Then there's another cheerful slant. We're spending most of the ten billions on healthful, out-of-doors activities. Annually, for example, we run up a bill of three billions for automobile touring alone, as compared with only twelve millions for such indoor sports as pool, billiards, bowling and the like.

Figures compiled by President Hoover's committee to study social trends, which peered into our recreational as well as our business habits, reveal many interesting characteristics of Americans at play. Let's see what they indicate.

Are we, for instance, air-minded? More than $25,000,000 spent annually on air and water travel in America would indicate so.

Are we sportsmen? Our $600,000,000 bill for sporting and athletic goods should supply the answer.

Are we a Nation of cosmopolitans? Well, in a normal year we invest something like $391,000,000 in overseas travel alone.

Are we gay and sophisticated? So far as recognized cafes and night clubs are concerned a recorded annual expenditure of $23,000,000 suggests that we are. At unrecorded costs one can only guess.

Are we clubmen and joiners at heart? Approximately $82,000,000 expended on clubs, lodges and similar leisure time organizations justifies an affirmative reply.

The list could be continued indefinitely. Do we like out-of-doors competitive spectacles? We spend $21,500,000 annually on college football alone. Camp life? The annual bill for that pastime exceeds $47,000,000. The movies? They represent a $1,500,000,000 item in our recreation account. Apart from touring, we spend approximately a billion and a quarter on motors.

Not only as individuals, but as political entities are we of America recreation-minded. Only a decade or so ago when a group of city fathers saw an empty lot they scurried around to find some one who would build a factory on it. Now they ask for bids on a public playground or swimming pool.

Not long ago a State judged its progress by the number of industrial towns whose smoke blotted out the blue of the sky. Now it strives instead for the greatest acreage of forest and game preserves. The Federal Government has much the same attitude toward a nature undeveloped. Four-fifths of its huge recreation bill is spent on the maintenance of national parks and forest.

What has brought about this change? Primarily, it seems to have been a grim realization on the part of the average American worker that he or she rated some good clean fun out of life, too. That's why the sturdy fist that swings the machinist's hammer throughout the week now swings the golf club most of Saturday afternoon and Sunday; why the hand that used to guide the needle now pilots the latest model on every stretch of highway from Bangor, Me., to Key West, Fla., and from the Battery to the Golden Gate.

Psychologists agree that the new attitude toward recreation is good for both the collective and the individual soul. It takes our minds off our troubles in a fine healthy way. Even the most serious find it hard to remember that installments are due on the home while trying to make the ninth hole in par, or that Junior's teeth are coming in crooked while lost in admiration of awesome Yosemite.

There's the national health to be considered, too. The huge amounts spent on athletic equipment alone indicate that from a nation of spectators we are changing into a nation of participants.

Nowadays lung capacity is more frequently developed by chasing the ball than by bawling out the umpire, or a straight eye by sighting along a shotgun in the woods than by shying a bottle from the grandstand. That these advantages justify large expenditures few observers of past and present conditions will deny.

But, says the Committee on Modern Trends, $10,000,000,000 is a comparatively small amount when compared to what America will spend on play in another decade or two—in spite of curtailed budgets and other governmental economies. With shorter hours of labor indicated, with a generation trained in all sorts of athletic pursuits on its way to maturity, the national recreation bill will probably continue to mount.

Whether or not it will justify the cost must depend, of course, on the spirit of play which it engenders. That famous bromide of the wartime post sergeant, "You only get out of it what you put into it," applies to recreation no less than to military training.

One of the most expensive Russian tidbits isn't exactly "caviare" to the general.

Last week's assembly programs were carried out well under the leadership of Kathleen Starkey, fifth grade. The programs as planned by Kathleen follow: Monday, there was a Bible reading by Eulalia Brown; a story, "Teeny Tiny," by Charles Nelson. The group sang "Juanita," after which Ruby Brown recited, "I'm My Daddy's Little Girl." Next came a song, "Oh, Susanna," and a poem, "A Crooked Man," given by Betty Ayars.

Tuesday's program included a Bible reading by Carolyn Guthrie; a poem, "When My Mother Cried," by Ruby Brown; and a story, "The Stone in the Road," read by Everett Brown. "Old Folks at Home" and "Auld Lang Syne" furnished the musical part of the program.

P.T.A. News

Stanton P.T.A. met on Thursday evening, February 16. Two subscriptions to Signposts Magazine were procured and membership dues will be sent to the Delaware Citizens Association. The Health Committee reported that several cases of defective eyes, teeth and tonsils had been given attention.

At the meeting of the Rose Hill P.T.A. on Monday evening, February 20, Dr. J. Paul Wintrup gave a talk on Dental Hygiene. The Association adopted a resolution favoring a state appropriation for oral hygiene work among school children. A report of the Health Committee was given by the chairman, Millard Keatley.

Odessa P.T.A. met on Tuesday evening, February 21, with the vice-president, Mrs. John Holler, in charge of the meeting. A collection was taken to provide victrola records for the school.

At the meeting of Port Penn P.T.A., on February 21, a silver medal contest was held. Seven pupils gave declamations and Mrs. Fanny Hay, president of the New Castle W. C. T. U. presented the medal to Frances Gallant, a pupil of the fourth grade.

Mrs. Hay told the children a story of the "Childhood of Frances Willard" and also spoke to parents on the subject of "Health, Happiness and Temperance." Ten pupils' names are now listed on the "Perfect Teeth Honor Roll." Three other children have had part of their dental defects corrected during the month.

The town of Brookline justified its reputation as the "wealthiest town in the country," says Boston Globe, when it was announced by the Board of Selectmen that approval had been voted for a loan of $300,000 at interest of only .92 per cent.

With cities and towns complaining of the difficulty in obtaining loans and the high percentage of interest demanded, Brookline stands out conspicuously as an excellent financial risk.

The loan was negotiated by Town Treasurer Albert P. Briggs with the National Shawmut Bank, and is payable within ten months. The loan is on revenue notes and the interest is discounted.

Treasurer Briggs announced that the bids ranged from the low figure of the National Shawmut Bank to 1.35 per cent.

English Conference at the Newark School

As a phase of guidance and bettering instruction in the field of English, a conference was held at the Newark School last week between the English Department of the University of Delaware and the English Staff of the Newark School.

One of the primary phases of the conference was a presentation and examination of the work of the Newark School pupils now in the first year of college work. The written work of these students was carefully analyzed and the types of errors generally catalogued.

A fundamental principle emphasized at the conference, and in which there seemed to be hearty agreement, was the understanding that every class, regardless of grade or subject, was first of all a class in English. This principle included, for every age and grade and class, reasonable standards in spelling, vocabulary, reading, penmanship, written and oral expression. The work of instruction in English is of little value unless the fundamental tools of English are made an habitual part of the life of the pupil in all classes, rather than in the English classes alone.

The English Committee of the Newark School reported that an effort has been made for the past several years to develop the careful habits which engender the development of clear thinking and good English, together with maintaining standards in the basic tools. Definite tangible evidences of this plan are: composition scales; penmanship scales; spelling scales; and the habitual use of the dictionary.

The discussion during the meeting seemed to be a definite means of co-operatively assisting in the solution of problems of instruction; of developing a better achievement in the field of English through follow-up of pupils in college; and bettering the work of the pupils in the Newark School itself, through the cooperation of all classes and subjects in the fundamental field of English.

Those attending the conference were: Dr. Sypherd, Dr. Allen, Dr. Day, Mr. DeBonis, Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Kase and Mrs. Lewis from the University of Delaware; and Miss Wilkinson, Miss Hess, Miss Singler, Miss Smithers, Miss McKinsey and Mr. Brinzer from the Newark School.

The English Department of the University reports that the freshmen from the Newark School this year have shown improvement on entrance work and also on their work during the first semester.

The Newark School was very happy to have had the opportunity of this conference with the English Department of the University in order to know at first hand the type of work of Newark School students in college and also to a constructive survey of the work being done in the Newark School.

We don't seem to remember anything about boosting the income tax in the Democratic platform.

Test Seed Corn Now To Insure Sound Harvest

Instructions Given for Germination Test by Simple Rag-Doll Method

With corn the most important and the most widely cultivated field crop in the county, it is highly essential that particular attention be given to the right seed practices. County Agent Ed Willim, Jr., of Newark, points out. Among these is seed testing.

"One of the best individual methods of testing," state Mr. Willim, "is by use of the 'rag doll' tester. Each ear should be carefully tested by taking about six seeds from different parts of the ear and placing them in a germinator, which can easily be made with materials usually at hand. Such a 'rag doll' tester may be made from a strip of muslin about 8 to 10 inches wide and three feet long. Straight lines at intervals of 2 to 2½ inches should be drawn with a pencil or crayon crosswise of the strip of muslin, and the rectangles formed by the lines should be numbered to correspond with the ear numbers. A piece of heavy wrapping paper of about the same size and shape as the muslin will also be needed.

To make the germination test, the muslin should be wet and placed with the numbers face up on the strip of paper on a table or flat surface. A seed sample from each ear should then be placed in its proper rectangle, and all seeds in one vertical row should represent the same ear. All seed tips should point in the same direction.

The paper and muslin may now be rolled up carefully and a rubber band placed around each end of the doll. This should be soaked in water for a few hours, then placed in an upright position so that all the seed tips are pointing downward. The doll should be kept in a warm, moist container.

On the sixth or seventh day the seed may be examined and any ear whose seed sample shows weak or badly discolored sprouts, an abundance of mold, or any other symptom of disease, should be discarded, as well as those ears whose seed fail to germinate at all. After muslin has been used for a germination test it should be boiled for 15 to 20 minutes before it is used again.

"Each seed ear should be tested for germination before planting time," the Extension Agent warns, stating that "now is a good time to do the job, when time is plentiful."

The Old Year's gone. Though smiles

Were blended in its parting.
To greet the New should doubts and fears

Be banished with its starting.
Let thoughts of gloom no more have room.

But quickly find their fleeting.
While Hope strewn every path with smiles

And every day that dawns beguiles,
With "Happy!" in its greeting.
