A graduate of the University of Michigan medical school, Dr. Johnson has practiced medicine in Newark for more than 40 years, with innumerable beneficial results for his legion of patients.

An officer in the U. S. Army for six years, including World War II service, Dr. Johnson has been a member of the Delaware Medical Society since 1929, and is its vice-president; a member of the State Board of Medical Examiners, and a member of the New Castle County Medical Society.

Mayor and Councilman

Mayor of the City of Newark for six years, he also served as a city councilman.

"The dinner will be held to show the appreciation and esteem that the citizens of Newark have for the untold services Dr. Wallace M. Johnson has rendered the community for more than 40 years," Diehl said yesterday. "His great humanitarian contributions have long gone without proper recognition," Diehl added, "and this banquet at the Aetna Fire Hall on May 6, is intended to express some of our appreciation for his goodness."

Dr. Johnson was responsible for the selection and presentation of Newark's Outstanding Citizenship Awards to Miss Alice Leak, Newark's veteran visiting nurse; William H. Durham, pressman at the Newark Post, for his contributions to the underprivileged; and to the late William H. Cunningham, Newark chief of police; and to Miss Mary Richards, philanthropist.

Council Approves Defense With Suit Against Officials

At a special meeting last Thursday night, Newark City Council voted 4-3 to hire special counsel to defend three city officials sued by a former alderman.

Mayor Joseph A. Shields, who returned home Jan. 22 from Delaware Hospital after a heart attack last Dec. 28, made a surprise appearance and cast the deciding vote.

The motion was opposed by Councilmen Henry R. Folsom Jr., David H. Doehliert and Albert P. Chittenden.

Before the vote on the motion introduced by Councilman Olan R. Thomas, a second motion to table the first was defeated 4-3.

The city is to defend Shields, Councilman William A. Coverdale and Council Secretary Charles D. Long in a suit in Superior Court by former Alderman Horace H. Best, a Newark magistrate.

Best's suit charges that the three Newark officials slandered him at council meetings last June and August by accusing him of misconduct in office and violated him through the printing of charges in area newspapers.

Projects, posters, construction of model Globe theatres, dramatizations, research papers, and recordings have been prepared, and to conclude the Shakespearean unit, the students will see the full-length movie "Julius Caesar."

Scouts To Call On Saturday For Goodwill With Donations To Assist Handicapped

Over 25,000 hours of employment and service to handicapped people will be made possible by the Good Turn Day clothing drive scheduled this Saturday, with Cub and Boy Scouts of the Newark area participating in "Scouting's annual call to arms" for Goodwill Industries, with house-to-house collection of clothing and housewares.

J. Carlyle Simmons, Goodwill's executive director, estimates that every filled bag of material provides one hour of employment for a handicapped person. Each item must be sorted and classified; clothing is mended, laundered, pressed, priced and sent to Goodwill stores; shoes are resoled and rechecked; and appliances are carefully tested and repaired.

Many items need little or no repair; others require extensive service. Some must be sold as salvage,

Former Resident, Chrysler VP Cites Need For Training

Joe Kerigan Outlines Plan For Joint Industry-School Vocational Education Aids

Former Newark resident Joseph V. Kerigan, Chrysler vice-president, and car and truck assembly group executive, outlined plans for upgrading skills, at dedication of the new headquarters building of the American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers in Dearborn, Mich., last Saturday.

"One of our hardest jobs for industry in the next five years, is finding and training technicians and skilled workers we need to replace men who will retire or move up into management jobs," Kerigan said.

A three-point program for improving and expanding the national education system for skilled workers was outlined by Kerigan.

"First, we need better vocational education and counseling in our high schools—with better liaison between schools and industry," he said.

"Second, we need more two-year technical institutes and community colleges with strong technical or vocational programs."

"Third, we need more training programs sponsored jointly by industry, government, and our schools to train recent high school graduates and other workers whose skills are inadequate, or which have not kept pace with the advance of technology," Kerigan added.

"To help our schools keep their programs up to date, I believe industry should step up its program for inviting counselors and supervisors from local schools to visit our plants, talk with our personnel and technical training people, and explore the educational requirements for the kinds of jobs available to high school graduates," Kerigan said.

There is an exaggerated emphasis on preparing for a four-year college and for a white collar professional job, Kerigan said. Over 40 per cent of boys who begin college programs in the U. S. do not finish them, he said.

"Wouldn't it be better for all involved—for the students, for the colleges, and for industry—if more of these vocational programs were encouraged to take vocational programs and perhaps enter a two-year technical institute rather than a four-year college?" Kerigan asked.

High school curriculums also should be improved, the Chrysler executive said, through school-industry cooperation. Machine shop courses should be updated, and courses in electronics and operation of computers could be introduced, he said.

Soup and Crackers Makes Great Winter Pickup

Soup and crackers—that favorite of the season—makes many a lunch or supper something special... or it should!

So often it's the "quick" meal to be relied upon by homemakers. Just open a can of soup and heat, pile the crackers on a plate, and, that's it. Just a few extra minutes will turn that standby meal into a real surprise treat for your family. With all the hard work done for you (the seasoning, blending, simmering), the soup needs only your deft additions to add sparkle to the menu. Make the soup and crackers a real flavor team.

Here's one way to turn this popular combo into a special occasion menu. Go "south of the border" with canned condensed chili beef soup marked by the extras of whole kernel corn and chopped onion... and accompany the soup with Tortilla

SOUTH OF THE BORDER CHILI SOUP

1 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (11 ounces) condensed chili beef soup
1 soup can water
1/2 cup cooked whole kernel corn

In saucepan, cook onion in butter until tender. Add soup; gradually add water. Add corn. Heat; stir now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

TORTILLA CRACKERS

1/2 cup shredded mild process cheese
2 saltine crackers
1 cup shredded lettuce

Spread cheese on crackers. Broil until hot and bubbling. Garnish with lettuce.

PSYCHOLOGY CAN SOLVE LITTLE SISTER PROBLEMS

Dear Cecce: I am 15 and have to share a room with my sister who is 10. Mother has made it clear that we are responsible for keeping our room neat and tidy. I am willing to do my share, but my sister even refuses to hang up her clothes or make her bed. I end up picking up after her because if our housekeeping doesn't pass inspection, both of us are punished. Is this fair?

Dear Betty: It's not fair, but neither is life. At 15 you should be learning how to get along with relatives both older and younger. Put yourself in your mother's place. True, she wants you to keep your room clean and attractive, but more than that she wants her daughters to learn how to work together. If you offer to help your sister make her bed neatly and encourage her to put her clothing away properly so it will look nice the next time she wears it, she'll take more of an interest in cooperating. Another persuader might be a cleaning basket with her name on it filled with a dusting mitt, some mirror cleaner and a roll of colored paper.

Scott/Towels for polishing the job off. Who knows — she may take to cleaning with a vengeance and put big sister to shame.

Dear Cecce: Four of us started grade school. Now we are 15 and three of us have started dating. The fourth girl whom I'll call Ellen, has changed recently. When we meet a boy one of us is dating, she giggles out loud and makes remarks. At a party last week, she was bragging about how many older boys she goes out with. Her behavior is getting to be very embarrassing to the rest of us. Is there some way we can tell her that she is acting like a child without making her mad?

The Group.

Dear Group: Ellen is suffering from a case of "green eyes" because you three are dating and she is not. She is determined to attract attention when the boys are annoyed, because that will make her more unhappy than she is right now. You can, however, help her look more attractive and encourage her to develop any special talent she might have in music or dancing. At parties see that she is asked to do something—change records or help serve the food. Arrange a blind date for her with one of the boys in your class. When Ellen's social life picks up she'll relax and be her own sweet self again. Cecce.

Dear Readers: To receive a free copy of "Off To A Beautiful Start," a booklet filled with hints on grooming, make-up and fashion, drop me a postcard at the address listed at the bottom of this column. Don't forget to print your name and address clearly.

Questions and comments should be addressed to Mrs. Cecce Allison Room 1440, 420 Lexington Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

SLOW LEARNER

APRIL 1 REPORT

"Call Sam Handloff," Election Board President Harold M. Grant advised the Post's editor this morning, "and get the story about the change in plan for voting on city charter changes with the referendum scheduled for April 13," Mr. Grant added.

"They're going to postpone any vote on the charter—it won't be included on the machines for the April 13, election," the former Yellowjacket football guard reported.

And then he called our attention to the calendar—Thursday, April 1.

Wakefield Reports Planning As Issue With Local Voters

Fred Wakefield, candidate for city council from the second district, reports that "in general, voters are more deeply concerned with the long-range development of Newark than they are with shortcomings of the past, or controversies of the present."

"Except when I may have been absent on business," he points out, "I have voted in every Newark city election since 1934, and my vote has always been in favor of a well planned and growing Newark."

Wakefield emphasizes the necessity of planning now for the future, and in acquisition of recreational facilities for the city while sites are still available.

"The people I have talked to," he says, "want Newark to remain the pleasant, stimulating community it has always been, but they realize that the city can maintain its position only by anticipating changes and planning for them."

On the traffic question, he says, "people are happy that something is to be done to relieve the congestion of Newark's streets. They do want to be sure that the traffic problem is solved without disrupting established neighborhoods, but they have agreed with me that an alert city council that looks after its business, can accommodate both automobiles and people."

"Even if the parking mall plan should be altered in some of its details," he says, "the fact that there is a proposal is welcomed by almost everyone I have talked to. Newark people care a great deal about the continued growth of the city, and they know it can't grow if the land in the new section withers away at the heart."

UD Campus Rally Held In Support Of Civil Rights

Four Coeds Dissuaded From Travel To Selma To Aid Demonstrations

Some third of the full-time faculty at the University of Delaware signed a petition on Wednesday of last week favoring "an on-campus student-faculty assembly supporting the civil rights demonstration" in Alabama, and last Thursday, some 450 students and faculty members gathered in Wolf Hall auditorium for a civil rights rally, the first of its kind on the campus in recent years.

The rally developed after effort by four coeds to go to Selma, Ala., to participate in demonstration.

Patrice Yentsch of Wilmington; Jo Ann Schuyler of New Castle; Leslie Brown of Newark, and Susan Waldron of North Plainfield, N. J., were in their cars and ready to go to Selma when they were dissuaded from making the trip by Paul White, acting director of the Westminster Foundation at the university.

White, who is from North Carolina, feared for the girls' safety if they tried to make the trip. Instead, he suggested the campus rally, which he felt would be of greater significance because it would demonstrate student and faculty involvement with the Alabama situation.

Corn In Dry Year Produces Profits With Right Soil

With the right soil situation, corn can be grown profitably in Delaware under extremely dry weather conditions.

Statistics, just released by the University of Delaware covering two dry and one normal year, show that it was possible to produce yields of 100 bushels per acre in the driest year.

Tests were conducted on the James Mitchell farm at Smyrna in 1962 thru 1964.

The key to high yields was fertilizer use. Heavy applications gave big yields in a normal year, and even in a dry year, yields were higher.

Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist who conducted the research, found that the 200-100-200 level of plant food produced higher yields, but it cost too much.

Over the three-year test period, a 50-25-50 level yielded the most profitable return per acre.

Complete results of the three-year Smyrna test are available in a publication "Profit Farming With Corn," Extension Bulletin 85, available from the University of Delaware mailing room, Agricultural Hall, Newark.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Progress In Agriculture

By Orville L. Freeman
Secretary of Agriculture

President Lyndon B. Johnson wants rural America — farm and town — to hold full partnership in the Great Society.

That purpose is apparent in every phase of his 1965 Message on Agriculture to the Congress and the people.

It is a bold, imaginative message. It is realistic in that it makes clear there are two dimensions to both the problems and the promise of agriculture and rural life.

The President calls for continuation, with improvements, of the price support-supply management programs essential to the continued well-being and strengthening of our commercial family farms. He offers guidelines for accelerated efforts to help small farmers achieve viable economic units or add to their resources with off-farm income. And he insists that all federal services that can augment local planning and separate. It is part of an overall effort to serve our national interest, at home and around the world.

In line with the President's philosophy, the Department of Agriculture will exploit to the fullest every area of cooperation between farm and city that will advance the general welfare.

Our nation's farm families have received no greater tribute, no finer recognition of their contributions to this era of abundance, than the President's declaration that: "Because we have the means to conquer hunger, we can wage an unconditional war on poverty — and win it."

Obviously, the role of rural America in the Great Society is that of creator as well as beneficiary. I am confident it will play the first part with energy and determination, the second with appreciative dignity.

The Department of Agriculture welcomes the opportunity to help create and administer the programs that will speed our nation toward the objectives spelled out in the President's in spring message.

School Officials Reply To Public Query On Need For New Buildings In District

The Newark Board of Education has called for a referendum on April 10, for construction of a new junior high school, and additions to Christina-Salem and Eden elementary schools.

In response to the question "Why are these buildings needed?" school officials reply as follows.

"This is a very pertinent question, and many people point out that Newark has been building schools on a very regular basis since about 1950. This is quite true. But we must also hasten to point out that the pupil population of the Newark special school district has been growing on a very regular basis since that same time.

"In the past 20 years the pupil population of the Newark school district has gone up 614 per cent. This figure cannot be over-emphasized. Such a growth in school population is unparalleled in Delaware, and for that matter, in many places in our country.

"Last year one out of every six children who entered a public school in Delaware entered one of the Newark schools.

"This means that for every six children who came to Delaware public schools for the first time, one came to Newark, and the other five were divided among the almost 200 other schools in Delaware.

"When one stops to think over this figure, one can get a very clear picture of the need for additional school facilities."

School authorities report increased enrollment annually from a total of 1,455 pupils in 1947, to 9,771 in the current year.

"But why, one still may ask, are more buildings needed?" officials ask.

CAT CHAT

By Dr. Phillip M. Hinz, Director, Friskies Pet Foods Research Center

TRACING TABBY

CATS ARE TRULY CREATURES OF CIVILIZATION. UNLIKE DOGS AND HORSES WHOSE LIKENESSES HAVE BEEN FOUND IN CAVE DRAWINGS AND WHOSE FOSSILS HAVE BEEN FOUND IN PREHISTORIC EXCAVATIONS, THERE'S NOT A TRACE OF CATS UNTIL THEIR SUDDEN EMERGENCE IN EGYPT 4,000 YEARS AGO.

HOLDING SPRAY
LARGE DISH PANS OR OLD-FASHIONED ICEBOX DRIP PANS MAKE EXCELLENT CAT PANS. THE SIDES ARE HIGH ENOUGH TO PREVENT SAND OR LITTER FROM BEING SCATTERED AROUND THE ROOM WHEN THE CAT SCRATCHES.

FEEDING TIP

THE ECONOMIC WAY TO FEED YOUR CAT IS WITH LITTLE FRISKIES. THE DRY CAT FOOD, IT CAN STAY IN THE BOWL WITHOUT SPOILING FOR AS LONG AS IT TAKES YOUR PET TO FINISH IT.

Fun On The Ferry

Indicative of what fun there can be on the Cape May-Lewes ferry is this group, the Whirl-Aways of Seaford, replete in western attire. The square dancing group recently took a tape recorder; boarded the ferry, and had a gay time crossing Delaware Bay from Lewes to Cape May and return.

Over the CLOVER

by Dean Belt

I would like to take this week to remind everyone about a very great hazard. The time of the year is near when every home owner starts to stock up with all sorts of household and garden sprays for insects, diseases and weeds.

Most parents realize that children and household chemicals are a deadly combination. There are times when that bottle or can is left within reach of that little brother or sister of yours. You can be a big help to remind your parents of these dangers and be on the lookout yourself.

You can help protect your family by remembering these four keys to pesticide safety—label, use, storage and disposal.

Read the label on the chemical container carefully each time before using. The label gives specific instructions for proper use and important information for your safety.

Keep out of spraying and dusting areas to prevent inhalation of toxic fumes or mists. When using the chemical, follow special instructions to the letter.

Store chemicals in their own labeled containers where they belong, and never in or near food containers. Keep them out of the reach of children and pets, and lock after use.

Get rid of empty containers right away. Destroy and bury them where they cannot contaminate food, people, animals or water supplies.

Don't let a fly trap become a child trap!

International Flavor Set For Swedish Colonial Day

Delaware's Swedish Colonial Day will take on an international flavor next Monday, when the 327th anniversary of the landing of the Swedes at the Rocks is formally marked at 3 p.m.

Tore Talroth, Swedish consul general in the United States, will join Delaware Gov. Charles L. Terry, Jr., and Mrs. E. Paul duPont, president of the Delaware Swedish Colonial Society, in paying tribute to Peter Minuit and his Swedish adventurers at Fort Christina Monument, where two years ago the area was named a national historic site.

Two Newark students at the College of Wooster, Ohio, were honored for scholastic achievement during the past semester.

The local dean's list scholars at Wooster are Jean Reinhart, a junior, and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis E. Reinhart of 118 Courtney Street, and Peter Charles Davis, a senior, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Davis, 211 Sypherd Drive.

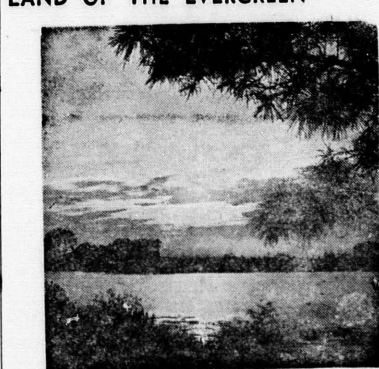

Commander Graham, information officer from the Naval Air Station at Willow Grove, Pa., will visit the University of Delaware campus next Tuesday and Wednesday, to tell interested college men of opportunities as Naval Aviation officers.

Men 18-27 in second, third, or fourth year of college may qualify for training at the Annapolis of the Air in Pensacola, Fla.

Upon passage of a written qualification test, the Navy will arrange a weekend trip to the Willow Grove station for physical examination and introductory flight in the T-34 primary trainer.

Delaware To Play Trinity, Eli Nines Friday, Saturday

Coach Bob Hannah's Delaware nine, rained out of its opener with Syracuse last Monday, faces Trinity this Friday, and Yale on Saturday at Frazier Field.

The Hens meet Trinity at 4 o'clock, and the Yale game is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

Delaware's baseball team plays its first game on the southern trip at Stetson next Monday, followed by an encore with the Hatters at Deland in Florida on Tuesday; a pair of games with Rollins in Winter Park on April 7-8; with Florida Southern on the 9th, and Georgetown in Washington on the way home on April 10.

Mrs. J. P. Clancy's Horse Takes Second At Potomac

Mrs. Joseph P. Clancy's Lotomoso—"George," as he is more well known to Mr. and Mrs. Clancy and daughter Michelle—finished second in a non-wagering trophy steeplechase at Potomac, Md., last Saturday.

Dad Joe Clancy rode "George" to the second place finish.

The Clancys reside on Stony Batter Road near Newark.

of a marina where we fished as guests of a retired Army major.

Lauri Schogren, who moved his Larry's Landing boats, marine railway, and other facilities from near Millington to Chestertown a year ago in an operation that would have taxed Hercules himself, is well set up in his new location, with boats and cabins for rent, and live bait on hand. And as ever, Big Lauri is the general host.

"It's too windy to take a boat," Mr. Schogren said, talking himself right out of a rental for the day, "but if you want to catch a mess of fish, I think I can show you where to go."

And with that, Lauri took us some half-mile upriver to the marina cove where he introduced us to Smitty, the retired major.

Canvasback bobbed white on the choppy surface of the Chester River at a nearby point; the cove's Canada geese flew intermittently in thrilling, honking tracery across the sky; and crows badgered a patient redtailed hawk soaring overhead, while the black bandits gave a wide berth to a big Cooper's hawk moving swiftly along the shoreline.

And we caught a few fish, too.

Big Bob and Little Mike Cunningham, seven, with Dad Turner Edge and young Karl, six, hit the yellow perch run at its peak in the Chester River at Millington a couple of weeks ago. Fishermen were lined up elbow-to-elbow in the limited bank space, and everyone was catching yellow neds.

Sated with this orgy after awhile, Bob, Turner and the boys left the bonanza to search for Lauri Schogren downstream, and finding Lauri at his new marina across from Chestertown, caught some nice crappie and a bass in the cove where we fished last Saturday.

"They're few and far between so far," Mr. McCarty mused as we recalled with nostalgic wistfulness, a winter some 15 years ago when he caught several hundred beautiful rock without too much effort in surf fishing from the Delaware beachfront.

"You can work yourself to death casting bucktails and tin squid into the surf now—and not catch any fish, either," Mack continued.

He caught his rock by casting a bloodworm-baited hook out beyond the white wash of the Atlantic's combers, and placing the rod in a sand spike until an infrequent, cruising striper happened by, picked up the bait, and aroused the surferman by whipping the rod tip into the sea. And that can be pretty arousing.

"If they start to hit in any quantity, I'll call you," both Mr. and Mrs. McCarty promised a week ago last Sunday. And the call came last Monday.

The rock have weighed between 4 and 15-lbs.—big enough! And we plan to give them a try this Saturday with the hope that they're still there.

With H. G. Young and Billy, we were too late for the yellow perch run in the Chester River near Millington, Md., last Saturday, but from Laurie Schogren's new landing across the river from Chestertown, caught several beautiful, big, pale silver crappie and a couple of small, spawned-out yellow neds.

"Looks like a bleached-out bass," Capt'n Young said, inspecting the first crappie lifted splashing from the cold, milky water beneath the dock.

POSTED With WHW Jr

"Mack overslept this morning," Mrs. Pleasant McCarty said in telephone Monday to the Newark Post from Mack's Bait and Tackle Shop at Dewey Beach, a couple of good casts from the white water and thunder of the surf on the Diamond State's Atlantic frontier.

"And when Mack reached the beach at Fenwick Island, his on-time fishing partner had caught seven rock and lost three," Mildred McCarty added.

Last weekend, there were striped bass or rockfish in the surf off Fenwick Island, which is divided by the Maryland-Delaware state lines.

Mrs. Mack reports that at least 11 rock were taken in the surf last Saturday; 20 were caught on Sunday; and there were seven beautiful stripers on the sand when Big Mack arrived late for his rendezvous on Monday.

A week ago last Sunday with Francis Neide and Gibby Young, we stopped by to see the McCarty's in Dewey Beach after a fishless quest for winter flounder from Millsboro, to Massey's Landing, to a final cold stand on the south jetty at the Indian River inlet.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack had just returned from Florida's West Coast, looking tanned, rested, and fit after a wonderful winter with the spotted weakfish or speckled sea trout in the bays between the mainland and Long Boat and Anna Maria keys.

"She showed me up a time or two with those trout," Pleasant McCarty said concerning his wife and pupil's performance with a spinning rod and plug in casting over the crystal shallows and sandy weed beds of the bays flowing into the emerald Gulf of Mexico.

"And that's a good way for her to get left at home too," he added concerning Mrs. McCarty's prowess. Shifting from Florida high gear to a near neutral low with Delaware's meagre March mainland offerings, Mack managed to catch a trio of stripers around the 4-lb. mark and around the steel tower at Fenwick Island shortly after his return from Florida.

"They're few and far between so far," Mr. McCarty mused as we recalled with nostalgic wistfulness, a winter some 15 years ago when he caught several hundred beautiful rock without too much effort in surf fishing from the Delaware beachfront.

"You can work yourself to death casting bucktails and tin squid into the surf now—and not catch any fish, either," Mack continued.

He caught his rock by casting a bloodworm-baited hook out beyond the white wash of the Atlantic's combers, and placing the rod in a sand spike until an infrequent, cruising striper happened by, picked up the bait, and aroused the surferman by whipping the rod tip into the sea. And that can be pretty arousing.

TEACH BIRD DOG PUPPY BASIC COMMANDS
By Bob Bartos, Manager
Friskies Pet Foods Research Center

If you're planning to train that bird dog puppy you got for Christmas to hunt, don't wait 'till he's six months old or until you get out to some wide open spaces. The latest and fully tested theory is that every puppy can and should be started on simple obedience training at seven weeks old, regardless of what his career is to be.

Much can be done indoors in the largest, least cluttered room, or outdoors, right in your own backyard.

The basic commands for the hunting dog are the "sit" and "stay" which can be taught by the usual method, and the "come" and "whoa" which are not.

The "come" should be taught by word, by hand signal (the drop of an extended arm) and by whistle—two blasts or whatever you decide on. The whistle is for use when the dog is out of sight and at great distance. The hand signal should be employed when he's within sight. The latter serves another purpose. It gets the dog accustomed to looking back at you for direction.

Put your pup in the "sit" position. Call "come". Simultaneously drop your raised arm, blast away on the whistle and turn and run away from him, clapping your hands as you go. He'll come running.

For the "whoa" which is necessary to curb a dog's natural instinct to rush in and grab the bird, put the pup in the "sit", "stay" position. Command "come". Run full steam away from the pup and then suddenly reverse and turn into him shouting "whoa" and extending your hand in the "stay" position. Repeat the procedure, each time using less of the hand signal until finally he's responding to the voice command alone.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day
Ransom by Race Horse

Hundreds of products of the peanut, sweet potato and soy bean, including the foam used on airplane runways when a crash landing is called for, might have gone undeveloped had it not been for a race horse.

This anonymous Thoroughbred was the property of one Moses Carver and served to ransom the infant son of a former slave who had been kidnapped by night riders who raided Carver's Missouri plantation. A rescue party sent out by Carver caught the raiders but they were able only to recover the infant in exchange for the race horse which was valued at three hundred dollars.

The child, later adopted by Moses Carver, became known as George Washington Carver the famed Negro scientist who died in 1943. In addition to his work in scientific research having mostly to do with agricultural by-products, George Washington Carver was also an educator. He joined the faculty at his alma mater, Iowa State College, and later, was Director of Agricultural Research at Tuskegee Institute. Carver's hobby was painting and he was made a member of England's Royal Society of the Arts in 1917. His work earned the Spingarn Medal in 1923.

Dennis Adair, Ricky Hicks, Co-Captains For Coach Grant Ewell's Yellowjackets

Catcher Dennis Adair and First Baseman Ricky Hicks have been named co-captains for Coach Grant Ewell's Newark High School baseball varsity, and the Yellowjackets have nine lettermen returning for the 1965 season.

In addition to the captains, lettermen include Billy Downes and Perry Mitchell, third base; Nick Blaisotto, shortstop; Jack Hassman, center fielder; and Dick Fulton, Mark Brown, and Frank Basta, pitchers. Fulton is the lefthander, and Brown and Fulton are slated for outfield duty when not on the mound.

Other leading candidates for the Yellowjacket varsity are Marty Duff, catcher; Bobby Ewing and Lou Strengari, second base; Chuck Betters, a senior transfer student and shortstop; George Leedom, first sacker; and Outfielders Larry Wingard and Donnie Walp.

Chris Curran and Walt Surratt are team managers for the 1965 Yellowjacket nine.

Coach Ewell's charges are slated to play an exhibition game on the Newark diamond this Friday afternoon at 3:30 with Kennett Square, and the Yellowjackets face Wilmington High School in the Blue Hen Conference opener at home on April 27.

In the process of building last season, the Newark High School varsity compiled a 3-6 Blue Hen Conference log.

Blaney To Coach Carolina All-Stars In Benefit Game

Former Newark High School and Duke University star athlete, Bernard "Bunny" Blaney has been named a head coach for the 3d annual Boys Home Bowl to be played Aug. 13, at Greenville, N. C.

Blaney, who won the Wilmington Sportswriters & Broadcasters Ass'n award as Delaware's outstanding athlete of 1950, is football coach at Durham High School in North Carolina, which had a 9-3 record last fall.

The former Yellowjacket star will coach the North team in this benefit contest which corresponds to the Delaware All-Star High School Football Game played here in August for the benefit of retarded children.

Buddy Luper, of Fayetteville will coach the South squad.

My Bowling Ball

For higher scores and more enjoyment in bowling, it is a necessity to have your own bowling ball. Why? Too many newcomers to the game are developing bowling styles around an improperly-fitted bowling ball. The result is that when you discover your mistake it takes twice as long to correct since you must adapt to a new grip and feel in the ball.

Therefore, I recommend that all newcomers purchase their own bowling ball as quickly as possible. A ball drilled especially for your hand, with the proper weight, will insure greater accuracy and higher scores.

I recommend a conventional grip (one where the fingers are inserted up to the second joint) and leave semi-finger-tip and full finger-tip grips to the better bowlers (170 and over).

I am often asked, "What weight ball should I use?" My answer is, "I don't know." The weight is usually based on the size and relative strength of the individual concerned. The American Bowling Congress says that a ball cannot weigh more than 16 pounds, but it is useless to throw a 16 pound ball if you cannot control a ball of this weight. Accuracy is your objective. If necessary, sacrifice one, two or three pounds to insure greater accuracy and control. You MUST control the ball. DON'T let the ball control you.

Klimek's Vikings compiled a 4-4-1 season record with wins over Newark, Dickinson, Wilmington, and Brandywine, and losses to Conrad, P. S. du Pont, the William Penn champions, DeLaWarr — and a tie with Mt. Pleasant.

Christiana's Cross, Reed, and Glen Hall placed third in the Blue Hen Conference Tournament for the Vikings.

Seniors Eddie Lee and Jack Hopper, co-captains, and Pete Bazzel, Dick Baechtel, and Joe Trotto will be lost to the Vikings with June graduation, but Klimek expects to have six varsity regulars back in action next year—"plus some good looking jayvees," the Christiana coach concluded.

University Denies Plans To Replace Dave Nelson

No change is planned for Delaware's head football coaching job, Harold Raymond's dropping his head baseball coaching job to devote full time to the university's spring football program had led to the possibility that he might be succeeded as Dave Nelson's successor. Nothing to it, university officials claim.
