TOWNSPEOPLE JOIN WITH VETERANS IN OBSERVING MEMORIAL DAY

SPLENDID SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION SHOWN--BELLS RING OUT FIVE MINUTES FOR MEMORY

The Memorial Day celebration held in the M. E. Cemetery yesterday has been pronounced by many the most successful ever held in Newark. Members of Reynolds' Post marked the graves of comrades, children following, and strewing flowers. Minnehaha Band played national airs, school children sang patriotic songs. Rev. W. J. Rowan delivered an address after which the exercises concluded with a military salute fired by a squad of "Boys in Blue" from Company E, Organized Militia of Delaware. Veteran Thomas Mullin presided at the exercises, the program for which had been arranged by J. B. Lutton.

Dr. Rowan prefaced his remarks with the poem, "The Blue and the Gray," which has immortalized the deed of a group of southern women, who in the years immediately following the war, when the wound was still fresh, heaped flowers alike on the graves of their loved ones and the enemy. The speaker commented on the sectional bitterness that marked the Memorial Day addresses of his boyhood days, and referred to the softening influence of time which had wiped out the old animosities. He gave graphic descriptions of Pickett's Charge at Gettysburg, accounted by authorities one of the fifteen most decisive battles of the world, quoting in the first instance the story as related from the northern viewpoint by Lieutenant A. P. Carpenter, of the First Regiment Minnesota Volunteers, and second from the southern perspective by the widow of the indomitable leader of the charge, Pickett. "We are proud of the two bodies of men," the speaker said, "who for three days fought in that titanic struggle. For three days they longer enemies but brothers. "To you who have known the awfulness of war," the speaker said, "I do not hesitate to speak of peace. You have seen enough to know. War can only be just-quest or of bulldozing weaker nations, but simply and solely to prevent war. We have never faced graver international difficulties. All the great nations of Europe are at war, and seem endeavoring to drag the whole world in. Our rights have been unquestionably interfered with, one country breaking in upon our mail and commerce, another waging a submarine warfare on undefended merchantmen.

A few weeks ago we were greatly concerned over Germany's reply to our demand concerning submarine warfare.

Suppose it had been unfavorable. Did that mean war? It meant first a withdrawal from all diplomatic relations with any nation which in this age of culture and civilization would descend into barbarism and the practices of piracy. It meant that we might seize within our ports $300,000,000 worth of merchant ships; or announce it our purpose to guard all defenseless merchant ships. We all wish for a speedy cessation of this the most gigantic struggle the world has ever seen. We must all work for the coming of peace. Two years ago we witnessed one of the most impressive spectacles the world has ever seen: Seventy millions of people, at the request of our president, praying for peace. We the great arbiters of the world, enlisted in our cause, the power of the Almighty."

The speaker closed with a word to the veterans saying, "You men fought for the flag, therefore you are heroes to us. You fought well; you experienced the horrors of war. We can ask you then to teach to the younger men the evils of war. Teach them that it means a disregard for the sanctity and safety of property, a struggled; the contest was a close one; they were all Americans. Three years ago, the fiftieth anniversary of Gettysburg was celebrated. Once again the old men charged—retracing the historic ground. But how different from the first awful one! They assembled in the wood as Pickett had done, but on the other side no hostile cannon belched fire at fied by necessity. No question of commercial supremacy, or racial difference, or injured pride can justify a nation in waging a war of conquest. It is an awful thing in the sight of God. We stand on the brink of a radical departure from all former policy; we seem about to enter upon a great campaign of preparedness. This departure, however, is not for the purpose of waging wars of con-physical and moral degeneration. Nations do not become great by war. He that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword, the Bible tells us, administering a terrible rebuke against the spirit of war. Speak to young and old, that they may array themselves with the peace movement, that there may be peace within our own borders, and peace over all the earth.

FALLS FROM TRAIN

Both Legs Broken

Charles Dougherty, well-known baggage-master at the P. B. & W depot, Newark, suffered a serious accident last Thursday. Mr. Dougherty stepped from the 9.13 train, evidently missing the step and falling. No one witnessed the accident, but it is believed he must have struck the step, since he was bruised on his back. Both legs were broken between the knee and ankle. The injured man was taken on the same train to the Union Hospital, Elkton, where he is reported to be mending slowly.

CHILD STRUCK BY AUTO TRUCK

In Serious Condition At Hospital

A distressing accident occurred last Wednesday afternoon, when Jennie Tweed, twelve-year old daughter of Robert Tweed, Cleveland Avenue, was struck by the Stiltz auto bus on Chapel street. A cousin of the little girl had been watching for her chum to return from school. As the child came into sight she called to her to cross the street, saying she had a message for her. Evidently without looking for vehicles the child started across the road, and was hit by the front of the car. Norman Buchanan, the chauffeur, was driving at low speed. The only other occupant was Buchanan's brother, who jumped from the seat to help the injured child. She was carried into the home of her uncle, Frank Tweed, and after an examination by Doctor Steel, taken to the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington. The X-Ray revealed that the shoulder blade, collar bone, several ribs, ankle, and the leg in two places had been broken. The child is conscious at times, and pronounced by the physicians in a very critical condition.

SUFFERING FROM SERIOUS BURNS

Child Found Enveloped In Flames

David C., the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Lee Rose, was frightfully burned on Monday about noon, when playing on the porch at his home on Park Place. The child had been away from his mother only a few minutes when he was heard to scream. Mrs. Rose rushed to him to find the boy in flames. The little fellow had found matches somewhere, and was happily striking them. His mother smothered the fire with rugs, but already the child was in a serious condition. At the front of his clothing was burned away and the body from the waist horribly burned. The child is under the care of a nurse and Dr. Blake. He is kept propped in a chair, and is in a very serious condition.

Distinguished Visitors In Newark

Governor Miller with Guests Views College Development

Cyrus K. Curtis, head of the Curtis Publishing Company, and Hon. John Gribbel, president of the Union League, as guests of Governor Miller, paid Newark a visit yesterday afternoon. Colonel Satterthwaite and Mr. Bancroft of Wilmington were also members of the party. A trip was taken to the Frazer Field, through the grounds of the new development, Women's College and the Farm Dairy and Competition plant.

Our Governor and Wilmington friends and their interest in our interests are known to all.

It is interesting just here to recall that Mr. Gribbel purchased the original manuscript of Robert Burns several years ago and brought them to this country. His love for Burns bought them that they might be properly preserved. The best part of the story is that a greater love caused Mr. Gribbel to send them back to the hills and heather where they were inspired. So he gave them to the University of Aberdeen. No further comment is needed.

Mr. Curtis, while not known personally to Newark, is still intimately associated with every household. A great home magazine, the Ladies Home Journal, which men like to read; the Saturday Evening Post, which men must read; The Country Gentleman, which is forcing its way to render a service needed and The Public Ledger—Philadelphia's and United States' great newspaper.

So it is not amiss in a news story to say that Newark was delighted in receiving such guests and thanks the Governor for bringing them.

High School Girls En- tertained at College

Fifty-two Wilmington High School girls, chaperoned by Mrs. Semple and Miss Mercer, were the guests on Thursday afternoon of the freshman class of the Women's College. A committee met the visitors at the Pennsylvania Station and escorted them to the college. The visitors were entertained from three to six, and a delightful afternoon was the version of everyone.

Freshmen Entertain at May Party--Delightful Affair in Grove Adjoining Red Men's Home

The Freshman Class of the Women's College of Delaware entertained members of the Sophomore Class, the wives of faculty members and their friends, at a delightful May party given on the lawn of the Red Men's Home last Saturday. Invitations were is-guests were delighted with the artistic interpretation of the folk dances, given by the students. First came the Shepherdess Dance, interpreted to the music, The Shepherd Boy, by Wilson. The girls were dressed in quaint shepherdess costume, and carried the crook of shepherdess fame. A solo dance interpretation of Kreisler's Caprice, by Miss Thera Twitchell, fairy of the wood, followed, the fairy crowned with garlands, Dean Robinson, queen of the May. The final dance by the Wood Nymphs, was especially artistic. Four students, clad in green danced to the

The entertainment committee, wearing wide rose sashes, and large rose colored picture hats, were an important part of the general pleasing effect. The grove of the Red Men's Home proved an ideal setting for the May party, and the willingness of the management to lend it to such uses, is appreciated by everyone.

CITY COUNTY BUILDING DEDICATED

Governor Miller and Chief Justice Pennewill among the Speakers

The new City and County building, costing approximately $1,400,000, was dedicated with formal exercises last Saturday afternoon. The time since the plan was entered upon until the completion of the erected building covers three years. The new home of virtually all the city and county officers, is a building three stories high on King street and five stories high on French street. The structure is built of steel, granite, and sandstone. The exterior is Webb pink granite (the interior Indiana sandstone, trimmed with imported marble. The big corridor is faced with Kentucky granite. The magnificent staircases are of marble with ornamental bronze balustrades by The Tiffany studios. The City Court room and the County Court room are full paneled in black walnut. The building is pronounced one of the finest in any city of like size in the country.

Governor Miller in his address at the dedication exercises expressed the trend toward greater city development. He said:

"We are here today to dedicate this magnificent building which has been erected to meet the requirements of the citizens of our city and county. Substantially constructed in all its details, its architectural effect is pleasing to the senses and an adornment to our city. Living as we are today, in the midst of peace and plenty,

NEW CITY-COUNTY BUILDING DEDICATED LAST SATURDAY

while the great nations of Europe are locked in the death grip of bloody warfare, their beautiful and historic buildings crumbling into dust, we should realize, as never before, that we can best serve our fellowmen by cultivating the arts of peace, building and improving, rather than by destroying. Let us then hope the latter shall always be our good fortune and that this building may stand until it crumbles under the ravages of time, or in the march of progress a future generation shall decree that it has served its usefulness and replace it by another, although not more beautiful in form and feature, better suited to its needs and purposes.

Chief Justice Pennewill, the chief speaker of the afternoon dwelt upon the ideals of citizenship, which should build up and not destroy, which should act and not rest idly content with existing conditions when those conditions were bad. He condemned public criticism of public office, saying "efficient service must depend on the men who give it," and that the people themselves by their inactivity in public affairs and primary elections are to blame for most of its wrongs. He said that all men and especially the business men should prepare themselves to take an interest in the government and in the affairs of the city and the state. He blamed the lack of interest as being the cause of yearly misappropriations of public money, and intimated that in Congress millions of dollars could be saved if the business interests stood together for a proper investigation of all big government enterprises as strongly as Congress investigated the workings of big business enterprises. In closing she said: "In dedicating this structure today we will not have done our full duty unless we dedicate ourselves, our thoughts and acts to the service it represents. May this house of business, this home of government, this temple of justice encourage, strengthen and inspire us all to greater efforts for the common good, greater devotion to the public weal."

CAMPAIGN FOR BUILDING

Y. W. C. A. Asks for Assistance

The Y. W. C. A. of Wilmington opened a ten days campaign on Monday of this week, the object being to raise $200,000 for a building. The program opened with a general conference and reception at the Hotel duPont on Monday night. Mrs. Robert E. Speer, president of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. and William H. Morris, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Baltimore, were the principal speakers. Brief addresses were also made by Mrs. Charles F. Wollaston of Wilmington, and Dean Robinson of the Women's College.

Attractive posters designed by artistic friends of the Association are displayed throughout the city. The cards display a new translation of the letters, Y. W. C. A.—"You Will Come Across," followed by an appealing "Went You?"

Another interesting feature of the campaign is the automobile parade scheduled to take place at noon, June third, starting from the Hotel duPont. The automobiles will be driven by their owners, young business women of Wilmington.

Newark High Concludes Successful Season

Newark High School baseball team closed the 1916 season last Wednesday, when the club defeated the Dover High School team by the score of 5 to 4. The boys have had a successful season, winning six and losing only three games. Two of the defeats were by the strong Goldey College team of Wilmington.

The club won from such teams as Wilmington Conference Academy, Elkton, North East, duPont, and Dover. In Ewing and Ritz, Newark claims to have the best high school battery in the state. Ewing is a big southpaw who with more experience should make a crack pitcher. He has a lot of "smoke," good curves and control. This was the first year that he ever did any pitching, and in several games he fanned from 12 to 15 men. Ritz proved a big help to Ewing, as the former has had considerable more experience, he having caught for two or three years on the high school team and also played on the Newark Delaware-Maryland League club last season.

Grayson And Baker One

A recent number of "The Writer" magazine publishes an interesting paragraph about David Grayson, whose identity has been the question of surmise among thousands of readers for the past five years. "David Grayson," the article states, "is Ray Stannard Baker, writer of muck-raking articles in McClures, the Ameri-

tan and other magazines. Mr. Baker lives in Amherst, Massachusetts, on a farm. He writes during the morning hours, and works about his farm during the afternoon. Until recently he was an editor of the American Magazine. 'The necessity of finding copy for this magazine,' says Mr. Baker, 'produced David Grayson. I was always fond of agriculture and wished to write something different from muck-raking stuff. I began to write Adventures in Contentment, and sent the articles in to the magazine under a pen name. Not one of my associates knew that David Grayson was Ray Stannard Baker. There was but one man in the secret, Ambassador Walter H. Page, who later collected the articles into a book and published them. They were published abroad and met with such favor that I wrote "Adventures in Friendship." This was in 1913. I followed this with "The Friendly Road." In 1915 I published my first novel, "Hempfield." I am now writing a new novel; whether it will be signed by my pen name or not has not been decided.

Close Call for Auto Party

While Joseph Holland, Prof. Norman Groves, Roy Evans, Norman Lynch and Norman Manlove were returning to Lewes in the former's automobile from a baseball game at Rehoboth on Saturday the car ran too close to the canal bridge railing and the driver in trying to steer clear of it ran it through the railing on the opposite side, the car barely missing a drop into the canal.

Former Secretary of State James H. Hughes, of Dover stated on Wednesday that if he obtained the approval of the caucus of Kent county delegates at the State convention he would seek the Democratic nomination for Governor.

BEAUTY AND HAPPINESS

Theme of Picture to be Presented

"Undine," the picture to be given at the Newark Opera House next Friday evening, was the one selected by the managers of the new Palace Theater, Seventh and Broadway, for their opening last February. The picture as well as the new theater attracted large crowds night after night. One writer after viewing the picture says:

"There is some dispute as to whether the story of 'Undine' belongs to the Greeks or to Norse folks lore and after seeing the picture, I am inclined to ignore the past and to say that all guesses are wrong. 'Undine' does not belong to Latin or Greek or Norsemen, nor to mythology nor to any age that came after it, but in stand it belongs to something like the thirtieth century, for we should be another ten centuries evolving eyes that can behold so much of charm and fairylikeness.

There are wood nymphs, water-spirited, forest kings and fairies just as truly as there used to be grand dukes and bold knights, but our eyes are so blind that we do not see them after we are 5 years old. We grown-ups are atrociously stupid. We start out wisely but before we are 6 years of age we have lost the way in all of this blundering maze of unrealities that other blunderers have taught us to call the facts of life. Any truly wise person would go shooting a fact on sight.

You know for instance how much truth and reality there is in "Blue Bird" for anybody still young enough for the actual wisdom of life. Well, there is the same precious substance in the beautiful picture of "Undine." It was made on Catalina Island and the only thing more beautiful upon this planet of ours than the hills and vales of Santa Catalina are the dreamy blue waters, the crystal caverns and the bright marine gardens that surround that blessed isle. A setting of surer magic or of purer charm was never exploited by the makers of a beautiful film.

Perhaps you have seen the flying fish from the swaying launches between 7 and 9 at night. It is so, you know some of the moonlight witchery and gentle madness of this picture. The whole delightful story and film should be made into murals and ceiling decorations for the finest palace in the world.

There is not time to tell you the story and indeed the tale might be carried to a further and happier ending had Undine belonged among the mortals, which, of course, she did not, but you have my word for it that this is a picture that every baby in Newark ought to see, and we would have people as beautiful as our city if all the grown-ups might see it with the same eyes of gladness.

OUR MEMORIAL DAY

Congratulations to Councilman Lutton and members of Reynolds Post, for the splendid program arranged for Memorial Day. Minnehaha Band, the school children, Company E, and the G. A. R.—a combination which argues well for a genuine community celebration next year.

CONGRATULATIONS

The Every Evening has celebrated its 50th Anniversary. So much is it a part of the City of Wilmington and the State, that the historian would write ill of those years without consulting very carefully the files of this paper.

While not always agreeing we appreciate the fact that it represents a very decided point of view, that must be reckoned with. A Democratic paper not however, a party organ, nor is it thoroughly independent.

As such, it appeals to us. We read it for news, read it to see how another man views the questions of the day. And too, we read it sometimes for recreation. Editorially, it reviews the news of the day rather than attempt a leadership of public opinion. The news department is clean cut, without sensation. Typographically it is improving daily. Its Ad service shows a growing recognition and a very effective business management.

Congratulations! Long may you live. We don't see things your way, but luck just the same. We read your columns because—oh, you are a part of Delaware.

BUSINESS IN PUBLIC BUSINESS

Wilmington, New Castle County, and Delaware, are proud of the new City and County Building which has just been completed. The plans, the style of architecture have been the subject of wide-spread compliments. Another striking feature is the successful business administration of the Building Commission. In cold facts, the public has been given value received. Business methods will work out in public affairs—if the right men are chosen. The success of this project calls to mind another building which has been the subject of so much favorable comment—that of the Women's College. The Commission headed by Governor Miller gave the buildings here the same detailed attention that one would expect from a body of business men, with the result that the state has been given value received, as much so that it is still a matter of comment of those acquainted with the costs. Surely, we are progressing. Business judgment and business practice are making good.

SAFETY FIRST

Concise our version of Street Traffic Regulations are given below. These to apply to autos, motor cycles, and teams alike. Our whims, our environment, or our experience, may prejudice us in favor of one or against the other. But all have, before the law, equal rights.

- 1.—Safety first—"Better be safe than sorry." This applies with equal force to both local and foreign cars. Being a pedestrian, we realize the dangers of the speed fiend and urge penalties.
- 2.—Enforce the law—all the time with everybody without consideration to their prominence or what they may have done for the town.
- 3.—Fairness—A square deal irrespective of the size of the car or color of the tag.
- 4.—Courtesy—a hearing of every complaint, courteously, and not a summary dismissal.
- 5.—A welcome—to every visitor whether he spends any money or not.
- 6.—Sanity—When any of these policies are questioned by citizen, guest or tourist—a swift denial or acknowledgment of the error. The reputation of the town will not permit of silence to such accusation.

7.—Discussion—Being a Public question in which every citizen is or should be interested, then surely discuss and welcome discussion where all may learn and take a part. This to our mind offers the protection needed.

So this is our idea of Traffic Regulation. Right or wrong, it is honest and will have to go at that. Whenever the good name of Newark is questioned, whenever accusations are made against our policies, our spirit of Courtesy, Fairness and Sanity in the treatment of a travelling public, we shall bring these accusations to the attention of our officials and our citizens. We should consider ourselves very lax if we did not print this with the same boldness that we print a compliment to the town.

This The-King-can-do-no-wrong theory is not according to our idea of America, of Delaware or of Newark. Being possessed with this idea, we have yet to recognize any authority with power to prevent the expression of an honest question or opinion. No fair-minded man with red-blood in his veins will dare dispute this right—others are of small moment, that concern us not at all.

Misfortune certainly brings to light, the popularity of the man. The morning after Charley Dougherty was hurt, everybody was inquiring how he was. Phone call after phone call, "when did you hear last, and how is he," brought out clearly what was thought of him. His service, cheery good mornin', his kindness,—everybody knows. So here's hoping for luck and quick recovery. We'll sure be glad to see you.

To be chosen as a delegate to National Convention by the members of your party is a great honor. To be the representative of your state in the National delegation of a great national party is more than vain compliment. But to go, with credentials that have been seriously contested—well, the story is this: The choice of the party in Wilmington and New Castle will not attend. Why—is a matter of record, which will cast a shadow over future events. Unless manhood asserts itself. Shall it be the issue now.

Here's to Sol Wilson! Nor is it for an Ad. He advertises. If there's a more up-to-the-minute business man around Newark, we don't know who he is. Sol blew in here from Somewhere and immediately began to tell us he was here—and then backed up his talk. If there is anything on Chestnut Street that Sol hasn't got, he doesn't know it. And he knows Men's Clothing and all that goes to make a well dressed man.

Being a good business man, he is a good citizen. He's liberal, interested in everything for the town's welfare and a Booster.

His name is Wilson true, but he does more than write notes. And when you say Wilson, its not all. He is a good citizen, a good business man and an asset to Newark.

As such, this is a boost for him. If you need anything in the furnishing of a gentleman or just a plain man, and have never interviewed this Newark Tailor, take this tip and see the man. It will cost nothing and may be of service.

PEOPLES' COLUMN

"Cut Out" The Big Cracker

Editor of the Post
Sir: May a reader of the Post offer a suggestion to Council in the direction of a saner and safer Fourth?

Pass an ordinance at its next meeting prohibiting the sale or firing of fire crackers exceeding three inches in length, thus giving timely notice to our dealers not to "stock up" with crackers of that sort. Goodness knows enough of noise can be made with the smaller size ones!

"Safety First"

Safety First Always

Editor of the Post

Sir: I am very sorry to see disposition among some of our automobilists, especially some "distinguished" motor tourists, to find fault with our efficient chief of police for doing his manifest duty in enforcing an ordinance of Town Council which sets a maximum speed limit of 15 miles an hour. If this limit be too low—in this day of high power cars—perhaps Council, if petitioned by a large proportion of local motorists, might consider lifting the limit to 18 miles an hour. But this, I think, would be a mistake, for motorists here and every where have a marked tendency "to take chances" and exceed any limit whether it be 15 or 25 miles.

Delaware City, with far wider streets and less traffic than Newark, has just set a limit of 12 miles an hour, which may, or may not be justifiable, and there are few places in Delaware where a speed of more than 18 miles is permitted. So why should Newark let down the safety bars? The town has been particularly fortunate so far in having had no fatalities but if Council and the local police should relax their warfare on reckless motorists it would be only a question of time before some citizen, or perhaps some little child, would meet death under the wheels of an automobile—more than likely a foreign touring car. And then what a hue and cry would be raised against Council and police as being indirectly responsible for the loss of life.

If tourists will not obey the laws of the town to protect the lives of our people let them pay the penalty which the law prescribes, or avoid the town altogether. This rating of a few paltry dimes they might leave here above the safety of human life is revolting in the extreme and should be frowned down. If Council adheres to its determination to stop reckless driving it will earn the gratitude of those whose lives and limbs it is seeking to safeguard; if not it will have to bear its share of blame.

for the loss of life that sooner or later will occur.

IMPROVEMENTS AT EBENEZER

Date of Harvest Home Announced

On next Monday the men of the congregation of Ebenezer Church near Union are planning to meet at the church with their teams to grade under the hitching posts and sheds. Rev. J. W. ## Laws and Ordinances

Pertaining to the Town of Newark

Sometime recently we printed, for the Council of Newark, copies of all the Acts of the General Assembly relating to the Town of Newark and all the Ordinances passed, and in effect, by the Council of Newark.

This book of 132 pages, with marginal notes and indexed, bound in cloth-board, is a very valuable reference to every citizen interested in the town. We also printed another book of 54 pages with blanks for notes, a copy of all the Ordinances relating to the Government of Newark, bound in paper. Through a misunderstanding we printed several copies over the order.

In order to close the account of this job, we are offering, while they last,

The Acts of Assembly, including Ordinances . . . . . $1.50
The Ordinances alone . . . . . .75

Better get your order in early.

The colored school, located on Cleveland Avenue, under the direction of Misses A. R. Davis and C. L. Waddleton, closed today after one of the most successful years in its history. Dr. E. L. Cross, superintendent of the public schools of New Castle county, in speaking of the local school recently stated, "It shows the best attendance, it is the best disciplined, and the most efficient school. He especially commended the teachers for their success in prolonging the term beyond the one hundred and forty days required by the law of Delaware. Sixteen pupils have made attendance records averaging over ninety per cent for the entire school year, from September 20th, 1915 to May 31st, 1916. The names follow: Emma Lewis, 99 per cent; Adam James, 99; Edward Money, 99; George Thompson, 97; George Watson, 97; Mansel Wilson, 95; Rosa Lewis, 94; Carrie Money, 94; Thompson Howard, 94; Richard Watson, 94; Raymond Wilson, 94; Robert Wilson, 93; Margaret Johnson, 93; Joseph Roberts, 92; William Townsend, 92; Mildred Thompson, 91.

"BLUES" WIN IN CAMPAIGN

Enrollment of School Two Hundred Seventy

The five weeks' campaign for increased membership, inaugurated by G. N. Brown, superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday School, came to a close last Sunday, the "Blues" winning in the contest, with a total of 2797 points. The school for the last five weeks has been divided into three sections, designated as the "Reds," "Whites," and "Blues." Every member of the school bringing a visitor, scored five points for his division; a new scholar, ten points; if present every Sunday himself the pupil added twenty-five points. The result was an attendance of two hundred fifty-six, and an enrollment of 270. The committee in charge of the campaign included Professor Tiffany, Miss Jennie Smith, and Mr. Edgar McMullin.

Children's Day exercises will be held by the school in the church next Sunday morning at ten thirty.

One Dead And Seven Hurt In Auto Crash

William H. Shea, aged 50 years, a well-known salesman in the employ of J. T. Mullin & Sons, Clothiers, of Wilmington, was killed almost instantly, his wife was cut and bruised and severely shocked, Mrs. Charles L. Story, of Wilmington, a friend of the Sheas, was badly bruised and George Schaffer, their chauffeur, was hurt internally when the Shea's automobile collided with a lighter car operated by William Keough, a hotel keeper of Delaware City at cross roads at Mt. Pleasant near Middletown late on Sunday afternoon. Charles Schaffer foreman of carpenters, employed on the canal, his boys, Frank and Charles, and Charles O'Neal, all of Delaware City, were riding in Keough's car. Mr. Schaffer's collar bone was broken and his head was cut. The boys were cut and bruised. The Shea car was running fast and struck the other head on turning over three times and pinning Mr. Shea, his wife and Mrs. Story under its body. The Keough car was turned over but its occupants were thrown clear of it on the roadway. A rod on the mad guard of Shea's car pierced his back and came out through his chest. His skull was crushed and nearly all his bones were broken when the car fell upon him. He was taken alive from the wreck but died in a few minutes time. The injured from both cars were taken to the home of Richard Moore where Drs. Beal and Lewis of Middletown, Cann, of Glasgow, and Ellis and Biddle of Delaware City treated them and later they were taken to their homes. The Shea car was going north from Middletown and the Keough car west from Delaware City when each made the turn at the cross roads.

Senator Henry A. du Pont has appointed Donald P. Horsey, of Dover, a Delaware College Sophomore to a cadetship at West Point Hall Downes, of Dover, another student at the College has passed the mental examination for the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Rehearsals Progressing Splendidly

Splendid progress is being made in the rehearsals of "Dandy Dick," a comedy written by A. W. Pinero, which is to be given under the direction of Mrs. Herman R. Tyson, in the Newark Opera House on the evening of June 12th. This play has several things to recommend it to a Newark audience. The play itself is exceedingly well written, it is staged by Mrs. Tyson who is known as one of the best directors of amateur theatricals within a radius of many miles; the cast is composed of college and local amateurs who have previously demonstrated their dramatic ability. Also the play is part of the commencement program of Delaware College and as such will be of considerable interest both to the citizens of Newark and of the state at large.

PEDESTRIAN AND VEHICULAR TRAFFIC

Two Million Cars Now on Our Roads

Pertinent to the widespread discussion relative to the regulation of automobile traffic through Newark, the article "Heads Up" and "Use Corners Only," by Frederick Upham Adams, in the June American, is of special interest. The writer calls attention to the fact that two million automobiles now in regular use in the United States has created a new question—the respective rights of the pedestrian and of vehicular traffic. Mr. Adams reviews the strict rules governing the granting of a license in practically all foreign cities, and the absence of all maximum speed limits. He denounces the speed laws in vogue in many of our American cities as stupid and obsolete, and worthy only of violation. He says:

"The confusion which now exists in the matter of legal speed limits is deplorable. It is largely a matter of local regulation, a overlapping of enactments whose hodge-podge of conflicting and contradictory provisions is beyond human comprehension. It is an impossibility to drive an automobile any considerable distance out into the country without violating a score of local laws, some of them obsolete and stupid beyond description. There are sections in which the specified speed limit is as low as eight miles an hour.

"In fact, this is the legal speed maximum in Central Park, New York City, and signs bearing this warning face the police. Officers who watch cars glide by at twenty-five miles an hour, and officers who urge you to go faster if you drop your automobile speed below eighteen miles an hour.

"Automobile speed limits should be established by state enactment, and an effort should be made to secure a close uniformity in all parts of the United States. These laws should differentiate between speeds allowable on city streets and on country roads. In the considerations which follow it is assumed that only licensed drivers are permitted to operate cars, also that the community has restricted pedestrians and children to the proper use of streets.

"Let us first consider what shall be fixed as the maximum speed limit for motor cars within the built-up sections of cities, towns, and villages: There is no danger, under most circumstances, in running an automobile at twenty-five miles an hour. There is real danger, under innumerable circumstances, in running an automobile at from three to ten miles an hour. Speed on urban streets, up to a certain maximum rate, has practically nothing to do with safety.

"The modern automobile in the hands of a capable driver is under perfect control at all speeds up to thirty-five miles an hour—assuming that there be a clear road ahead for several hundred feet. Such conditions do not prevail on populated streets. Practice has demonstrated that from twenty to twenty-two miles is a safe running rate on streets fairly free from traffic. This is the rate maintained every day in the year by tens of thousands of cautious drivers in all parts of the United States.

"The vast outpouring of automobiles on the occasion of the Astor Cup Race at Sheepshead Bay, New York City, on October 9th, 1915, gave an impressive illustration of the truth of my contention that it is safe and practical to operate automobiles on city streets at speeds up to twenty-five miles an hour. The legal speed limit in New York City is fifteen miles an hour. It has ever been ignored both by drivers and municipal officials and properly so.

"On this Saturday morning not fewer than twelve thousand automobiles began to move from all points of the compass to the great two-mile oval at Sheepshead Bay. Thousands of cars swarmed in. Thousands of police stood on guard at the crossings of the main thoroughfares which bore the bulk of this tremendous migration of automobiles. All of these officers knew that the legal speed limit was fifteen miles an hour. Did they enforce this law? They did not. On the contrary, the laggard who ran his car at the lawful limit, or even at eighteen or twenty miles an hour, with a clear space ahead of him, was waved on.

"Once across the bridges spanning the East River and on the broad boulevards of Brooklyn the cars swept along at speeds of from twenty to twenty-five miles an hour. The return, under the direction of foot and mounted police, was made at equal speeds whenever possible. It is doubtful if such a hegira of motor cars ever before was witnessed. The average mileage of these 12,000 cars through the city streets was not less than forty miles, or a total of fully 480,000 miles for the automobiles participating.

"Mark the astounding result of this violation of an obsolete traffic law intended to conserve safety by limiting automobile speeds in New York City to fifteen miles an hour! The police books contain no record of an accident to any of these twelve thousand cars, neither is there a record that injury occurred to any of the hundreds of thousands who lined the streets of the metropolis!

The plain truth of the matter is that most accidents from automobiles are not caused by reckless driving at high speeds, but by careless and inexperienced driving at rates of from five to fifteen miles an hour on wet and slippery pavements, around sharp curves, down steep grades, and in other places where disaster attends the inexpert use of the clutch or brake.

"The average touring car with sufficient weight to hold it to the road can be kept under perfect control at thirty-five miles an hour by a capable driver on well-surfaced and fairly straight country roads, but forty miles is in the danger zone.

"If a Legislative committee shall determine that automobiles may run with safety at thirty-five miles an hour, but that this speed shall not be exceeded, it seems obvious such a limit should be incorporated into state law and properly enforced. Such a law would automatically supersede all local enactments, would have back of it the authority and power of a state, and would be respected and obeyed.

Wilmington's Budget Passed
Wilmington City Council on Thursday evening fixed the annual budget at $1,470,357.92. The tax rate was fixed at $1.35, the same as the present year's rate. The rate for city purposes was reduced 6 cents and that for school purposes was increased 6 cents. The Board of Education is given an increase of $49,000 and the Police Board an increase of $6,000 which will add six men to the force.

EVEN WITH WILDELVisiting Catchers Meets with Accident

Continental Fibre Company split a double-header with Wilder A. C. of Wilmington yesterday, losing the morning game by the score of 7 to 1, and winning the afternoon game by the score of 6 to 5. During the afternoon game Stafford, catcher for Wilder broke his leg at the ankle in sliding into home plate.

Ewing, who pitched the afternoon game, fanned 15 men. Fosssett pitched clever ball in the morning, but the breaks were all against him and errors counted largely in the visitor's score. The result of the games follows:

TOURING THE
UNITED STATESPedestrian Passes Through Town

A. L. Weldon, pedestrian, encircling the United States passed through Newark on Memorial Day. Weldon has a large-sized express wagon, packed with a camp kit, which he drags himself. He is walking for a $5000 premium, the requirement being that he make the circle by December 1918. The pedestrian began his journey June 1st, 1915, leaving Seattle, Washington, crossing Oregon, passing through Salt Lake City, Chicago, and thence over the Lincoln Highway. He earns his way by knife sharpening.

When interviewed this morning he stated his next stop is Baltimore. The itinerary on the return trip includes Miami, Pensacola, Tallahassee, Houston, Galveston, El Paso, Los Angeles, San Francisco, points in Oregon and Washington. He states that he has been on the road in all kinds of weather every day since starting with the exception of one month when he was held up by the storms at Amsterdam, New York.

Dr. Kopf at one time attended the Newark Academy. On his way through Newark he halted to call on his fellow student, Mayor Joseph H. Hossinger.

Memorial Day Window

The up-to-date business keeps track of the holidays and gives a novel window display. Coverdale's Window on Memorial Day displayed the wares in patriotic style. It looked like Chestnut Street. Heroes, flags, candies, suggestive of the day.

ing the Post said: "I am glad to stand face to face this morning with those men who risked their lives that their country might be spared; the men who know the meaning of war. When viewed from close range all the poetry of war soon vanishes leaving nothing but terrible prose—the necessity of sleeping in snow banks, and walking miles with cut and bruised feet, the necessity of living on rations unfit for dogs. The spectacle of men crying for water, when no water comes; homesick and no message from their loved ones; dying alone in the bushes. Only the infinite God knows the one-thousandth part of the suffering endured by the great army that saved our Republic. We are indebted to you for liberty, freedom, civil rights. Because you sacrificed home, property, and self, we are living under the present favorable circumstances today. The grip of brotherhood has been given; the strife is over, instead there is peace." Mr. Gray chose a text from the Song of Solomon, Second chapter, and the twelfth verse: "The time of singing birds of God as revealed in the springtime. 'The Book of Nature is as has come,' from which he preached a sermon filled with the glory truly inspired as the Book of Revelation," the speaker declared. "We read of the miracles of old and wonder, but each day God repeats his miracles for us. Can we doubt the miracle of the Springtime, when Christ stooping down with his finger on the ground writes joy and beauty into the world for us? I have heard mothers when the thunder roars say to their children, 'Hush, it is God's voice.' Why not say, oh mother, when the sun shines and the earth is lovely, it is God's smile; when the blooming fruit trees fill the earth with fragrance, it is God's breath?" The little church, perched among the hills of Mill Creek, afforded a harmonious setting for a discourse on the beauties of God's world. As far as the eye can see, north, east, south, and west, the country rolls in a succession of graceful curves, and lights and shadows. And over it all is written the word, prosperity.

R. G. Buckingham, captain of Reynolds Post, in speaking of war times after the services made the statement that within a territory embraced within a two mile circle, as the crow flies, from the site of the church, thirty-two men enlisted in the Union army—a fact that seems remarkable when one recognizes that there are no towns or villages included in the territory. Captain Buckingham and Arthur Whiteman were members of Company E, Fourth Delaware. A great many of the men enlisted in the Sixth Maryland.

KELLS, where Master Craftsmen study and work at Printing

A good piece of Printing requires a study of the proper kind of stock, the style and arrangement of type, the selection of ink with eye to color. All this must be thought out before the work is begun. Then the mechanical skill, in composition, and in press work. A love of the work must be there too.

Added to this must be an equipment in type, labor saving devices, presses, folding machines. Added again to this, must be light, air, sunshine, pleasing surroundings.

With these must be an attention to management, giving business efficiency toward purchases of materials, wastes, overhead charges and efficient deliveries.

Then, if there be a co-operation between the several departments, you may expect a good piece of Printing.

And this is the policy at Kells.

Every job coming to this Shop is planned with a certain amount of study before the mechanical work is commenced. Study enters into our Printing. Mechanical skill enters into it. The best equipment, labor saving devices, love of work, surroundings approaching ideal. A Printer's Heaven said a guest last week.

This Imprint of the Head, Heart and Hand Triangle is our ideal toward which our work is tending always.

Nor think all these ambitions tend to raise the price. Rather, just the opposite. These things just mentioned make this plant give value received. "Everything in its place and a place for Everything" is far cheaper than, where is this, that and the other thing entering into the job.

If these words are not convincing—try our work—It never fails.
