Observance Of State Festival

Leo Laskaris, young Newark artist has been named chairman for the local observance of the Delaware Festival of the Arts to be held from May 1 to 21 in conjunction with National Music Week.

Mrs. Harry Clark Boden, who for a number of years has directed the Newark portion of the annual state festival, resigned last fall. She will continue, however, to assist the chairman, I. B. Finkelstein, wherever possible.

Mr. Laskaris, who is director of the Laskaris School of Fine Arts located in the old Academy Building, says he plans a community wide participation in the event. The details will be announced as soon as completed.

Mrs. David Eastburn, of Newark, will plan the archaeological exhibit and the high school activities. Miss Harriet Bailey, chairman for the University of Delaware, will stage several exhibits there.

Mr. Finkelstein has appointed 33 chairmen to arrange programs in communities throughout the state. Last year, the Newark observance included sculpture exhibits, an antique show, school music festival, university choir concert, floral exhibit, and a poster contest.

STATE PLAY
FETE HERE
TOMORROWFull Day Of Plays Listed
For Saturday

The program for the seventh Delaware Play Festival finale, to be held at the University of Delaware tomorrow and Saturday, contains nine plays, according to Dr. C. Robert Kase.

The festival will begin in Mitchell Hall at 8:15 p. m. with the presentation of two plays in the Community Theatre Division: a cutting from the regular "John Loves Mary," by the Annet Little Theatre, and a new play published in the 1947-48 edition of "Best One Act Plays," entitled, "Through A Glass Darkly," by the University Drama Group. The UDG was the winner in division last year.

In order in which the plays are to be given will be announced later. Following the presentations, there will be an analysis of the plays by the judge, Albert McCleary, head of the Department of Theatre at Fordham University. Professor MacCleary served as critic judge for the festival before the war, and his critiques have been considered among the best of the six festivals.

On Saturday, beginning at 1:30 p. m., will be seen the plays representing the high schools in the various counties. The evening, beginning at 8:15, will feature remaining plays in the Community Theatre Division will be given.

All the programs are open to the public without charge. Program chairman for the festival is Mrs. John F. Hine, of Ursuline Academy.

The fourteenth call came Monday morning from the property of John Singles at Milford Crossroads. That afternoon a call came from 332 South College Avenue. In the evening another alarm was sounded for grass and a tree near the Head of Christiana Church.

The annual spring epidemic of grass fires has already begun for the Aetnamen. They were kept on the jump the past week answering seven alarms, six for field blazes.

The lone exception came Tuesday morning, when a shed caught fire in the rear of Myron Jacques' home, at 51 Choate Street. The damage was slight.

All of the grass fires were minor and no serious property loss was reported. The first came last Wednesday afternoon when flames broke out on the property of Mrs. Ruth Green, Creek Road. A short time later, the firemen were called back to the same area, but it proved a false alarm.

On Saturday, flames were discovered in the open area behind the postoffice on Center Street. They were quickly smothered by the Aetnamen.

The fourth call came Monday morning from the property of John Singles at Milford Crossroads. That afternoon a call came from 332 South College Avenue. In the evening another alarm was sounded for grass and a tree near the Head of Christiana Church.

Author To Talk
Here On March 24

David L. Cohn

David L. Cohn, social historian and author of several books on the contemporary scene, will have "Love in America" as his subject when he addresses a University Hour assembly at the University of Delaware on Thursday, March 24.

Mr. Cohn's talk, open to the public without charge, will be held at 1 p. m. in Mitchell Hall on the Newark campus.

A Mississippian, he was educated at the University of Virginia and Yale, and has a successful business career in New Orleans and New York before giving it up to develop his primary interests as a "humanistic sociologist."

His books have included "This is the Story," and "Where I Was Born and Raised" (Greenville, Miss.) in addition to one bearing the same title as his talk at Delaware. He also has written many magazine articles, including a recent one, "Why I've Kept My Name," in the Reader's Digest. He now is working on a "History of the United States from 1865 to 1939."

His book, "Love in America," developed the ideas that the basic relations between American men and women aren't entirely satisfactory, and that we are in emotionally adolescent people. Other of his comments on the subject include: "European women are more attractive than American women because they live with more attractive men"; "It's man's fault that middle-aged women try to be 'cute' instead of handsome and mentally stimulating"; and "Though the country is committed to romantic love in marriage, the primary quality many a girl seeks is that a man be a good provider, and many a man wants a show-window of his achievement." Mr. Cohn is a bachelor.

Lions Hear Facts On Educational Needs

Facts on the Delaware School Survey, conducted sometime ago to bring to light needed reforms in the public schools of the state, were outlined by local school officials at the weekly dinner meeting of the Newark Lions Club on Tuesday night.

Frederick B. Kutz, high school principal, and Henry M. Brader, elementary supervisor, discussed the survey. Superintendent Wilmer E. Shue, who arranged the program was ill and unable to attend.

The educators stressed the need for higher salaries to attract more competent teachers and also pointed up improvements needed in school facilities. A new member, Charles Taylor, a civil engineer at the University of Delaware, was inducted.

FINAL RED
CROSS TOTAL
HITS $6,623Campaign Tops
Last Year's Mark
For New Record

Final returns on the Red Cross Drive in this area were $6,623, well over the $5,000 quota, Dr. R. O. Bausman, general chairman, announced this week. The figure also marks an increase over last year's total which was $6,611.

The Newark area, he said, was not only the first in the state to top its quota but the first to surpass last year's mark. The drive, which ended Sunday, was highlighted by a 4-hour door to door canvass on March 6, through which the major portion of the contributions were secured.

The outstanding success of the campaign was due, Dr. Bausman stated, to the "hard work of the canvassers and the liberality of the people of Newark."

A big factor in sending Newark over the top was the eight zones whose contributions exceeded last year's. Dr. Bausman listed these as follows: Zone 8 and 9, Elkton Road, Moorestown, Barksdale Road, Dr. John A. Munroe, chairman, $56 this year, $33 last; Zone 11 (Bent, Tanglewood, Briar Lanes, Nottingham Manor) E. L. Mattison, chairman, $317 this year, $166 last (a portion of this increase was due to special gifts contributions); Zone 14 (New London Avenue to Penna. line) Walter I. Newton, chairman, $53 this year, $31 last; Zone 18 (Center, Choate, North Chapel, New and Linden Streets), Mrs. Leonard Fossett, chairman, $148 against $146; Zone 21 (East Main from town center to Leak's Garage) Mrs. A. H. Able, chairman, $108 against $83; Zone 26 (East Delaware from South College to Chapel Street), Miss Ellenor Roberts, $86 against $63; Zone 28 (East Main Street from boundary to town center) Mrs. William S. Martin, chairman, $95 against $58; Zone 35 (Christiana) Mrs. Howard Greene, $182 against $86.

The remainder of the list of canvassers will be published next week.

Two Special Newark Bills Raising Tax
And Borrowing Limit Pass State Senate

Newark's two special bills in the General Assembly, the first seeking a new tax limit and the second a higher borrowing ceiling, have passed the senate and are scheduled to go to the house, according to State Senator George W. Rhodes.

Meantime, Newark's proposed charter was introduced as a bill on Monday and has not yet been sent into committee.

The two special bills were introduced some time ago as a safeguard in case Newark's charter bill fails to gain passage at this session. They provide for reforms to the local municipal government, which authorities here feel are immediately necessary. The first would increase the town tax limit from its

Town Election Switched
To Fire House; Two FilePolling Site Changed
To Handle Big Turnout
Expected; Overby And
Hershelman Enter Race

The polling site for next month's municipal election, traditionally in the Town Council offices, has been switched to the Aetna firehouse, Town Secretary George E. Ramsey announced yesterday.

With 3,000 potential voters on the registration list, officials feel that the Council offices would prove too cramped to handle the turnout on April 12. The vote, of course, may not come up to expectations, especially if no contests develop, but the authorities intend to be prepared in any case.

Meantime, the first action in the election campaign came late Tuesday, when Ernest L. Overby, 351 Delaware

Jack G. Hershelman, 217 East Park Place, filed for Council from the Middle District yesterday morning. A Chemist with the Hercules Powder Company, he is running for the post now held by George E. Ramsey. Since the latter has announced plans to retire, Mr. Hershelman is so far unopposed. Details on Mr. Hershelman's background and policies will be published next week.

Circle, filed in the Eastern District. He is running for the post now held by Norman Battersby. The latter has not entered the race as yet.

Currently employed as assistant to the business administrator, Charles Grubb, at the University of Delaware, Mr. Overby previously spent two and a half years in public accounting. During that time he carried out municipal audits in a number of Delaware towns, including Newark one year. This background has familiarized him to some extent, he said with the workings of municipal government.

A member of the Newark Methodist Church and a past-president of the Men's Bible Class there, Mr. Overby is now president of the Read Village Organization. He came to Newark in 1943 and has been employed at the university over two years. He promises a statement later on the general policies he would favor as a Councilman.

No other candidates have entered the lists as yet. This includes the three incumbents whose terms are expiring, Mr. Ramsey, now town secretary, has announced he does not intend to run again.

The deadline for filing is noon Saturday, April 2, ten days before the election. Candidates must enter a written notice with Mr. Ramsey. Forms for this are available at the Council offices. Only information required on the blanks is the name of the candidate and his district.

Since no clear-cut political parties exist in municipal affairs, the election issues, if contests develop, will center chiefly on personalities and the stand they take on local problems such as zoning, the proposed charter and the managing and financing of town operations.

Officials stressed this week that residents, even though they are listed on the assessment books, do not become eligible to vote until they pay their town taxes. For non-property owners this means a capitation tax, for property owners an assessment levy.

The deadline for tax payments is 5 p. m., April 11, the day before the election.

Miss Jane E. Fouracre, 21 Townsend Road, is among 683 students cited for scholastic achievement during the first semester at Pennsylvania State College. Miss Fouracre, who is a senior majoring in arts and letters, attained a 2.5 out of a possible 3.0 average and has been named to the Dean's List.

Two Special Newark Bills Raising Tax
And Borrowing Limit Pass State Senate

Newark's two special bills in the General Assembly, the first seeking a new tax limit and the second a higher borrowing ceiling, have passed the senate and are scheduled to go to the house, according to State Senator George W. Rhodes.

Meantime, Newark's proposed charter was introduced as a bill on Monday and has not yet been sent into committee.

The two special bills were introduced some time ago as a safeguard in case Newark's charter bill fails to gain passage at this session. They provide for reforms to the local municipal government, which authorities here feel are immediately necessary. The first would increase the town tax limit from its current limit of $20,000 to $75,000, and the second would permit Council to borrow up to $50,000 without a bond issue.

The charter is merely in the initial stages of adoption, according to Senator Rhodes. It has been printed in bill form, and, after its first reading before the senate, will probably be referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations. The findings of this group can vitally affect its fate. The committee can report it back to the senate with one of three recommendations: favorable, unfavorable or "on its merits."

Once out of committee, it will require a two thirds vote of the senate for passage and then must go through the same procedure in the house.

Rotarians Will Stage
Old-Fashioned Minstrel
Show Here On April 27

Local big-wigs are in for red faces and the rest of the town for some solid laughs, when the Newark Rotary Club stages an old-fashioned minstrel show in the State Theatre on April 27. President Jack Handloff announced plans for the big event this week.

Good natured lampooning of town celebrities, characters and familiar institutions will feature the show, which will be put on by local talent exclusively.

The Rotarians' ace scrip writers, Jerry Weinberg, Joe Shields, and Parker Thomas, have been set to work on the show with orders not to spare the laughs. Although they refuse to reveal details yet, they've been seen smirking slyly among themselves, which indicates that something hilarious is brewing.

Funds raised through the show will be used for the local club's Student Loan Fund and also for the International Rotary's Scholarship Fund. The former is used to provide financial aid to students who need help at the University of Delaware. The international project provides scholarships for foreign students to study abroad, the general object being to build up international understanding.

Only selected pupils will be treated under the plan, which aims at curbing tooth decay in young children.

CHURCHES SEEK FUNDS

Donations for this Christian cause will be collected in churches throughout the nation on Sunday, March 27.

St. Thomas Church is planning to cooperate in this effort. Blue envelopes will be mailed to its parishioners prior to the March 27. The quota for the Episcopal Church alone is one million dollars.

The funds will bring help to China, to Europe's displaced persons, to ruined European cities, to orphanages, and to any country in the world where Christian ministers need aid in alleviating physical misery and suffering.

The national board of directors for this project invite everyone to tune in March 26 at 8 p. m. to find out for himself why he should give generously to his church the following day.

FORWARD, MARCH!

- March is here again, the month that heralds spring—and spring housecleaning!
- In Grandma's day, housecleaning—and housekeeping, too—meant endless rounds of back-breaking drudgery. But today, millions of wise homemakers call on electric service to take the work out of housework—to cook and clean, wash and iron, sweep and sew.
- As you go through your spring housecleaning chores this year, pause a moment and think to yourself, "What other item in my family budget gives us so much 'living' value—at such little cost?"

Wouldn't you rather give your girl a gift that will remind you of her than a message that so easily withers and fades? The Junior Class of Newark High School is sponsoring such an idea. The committee which is in charge of collecting the order and purchasing the gifts has selected a few bracelets from which you may choose. The necklace is a 14 karat gold filled chain. The bracelet is made of 1/20 10 karat gold. The bracelet is similar to regular identification bracelets. The school will be in the Post each week for further details and watch for the posters which will show the types of bracelets, their numbers, and their prices. Orders may be given to Dick Nagle, John Duffy, Dallas Rash, Billy Reynolds, Jean Stiltz, and Betty Menges.

A music festival is being planned for May 4, 5 and 6, when they will be guests at the Hotel Taft. An itinerary has been planned which includes a tour around Manhattan by Circle Line Boat, visit to R. C. A. Music Hall, and trip to the Statue of Liberty, Chinatown, Harlem, Fifth Avenue, and many other historic points.

A committee of seniors was named to select two faculty members as advisors for the trip. Other business discussed at the meeting included plans for class night and payment of senior class dues.

Local Farmers Hear Details On Bill To Reform Wilmington Curb Market

The bill now before the state legislature, calling for reforms to the curb market in Wilmington, was discussed at a meeting of local farmers last Thursday in the County Agents Office at Wolf Hall.

According to information outlined at the session, the Wilmington curb market was originally organized for the benefit of farmers who raise their own products, such as meat animals, chickens, garden vegetables, milk products, etc. It was pointed out, however, that in the last few years the "market" has been invaded by "hucksters," who bring truckloads of chickens, eggs, vegetables, fruits, etc., and sell them as home raised products. This, it was claimed, is not only unfair to the consumer, but to the farmers who produce their products. Lincoln Street in Wilmington, is set aside for those who wish to buy and sell.

Bill 298 was introduced recently in the General Assembly by Reps. Ernest M. Coaj (R-Camden) and George M. Blendt (D-Smyrna) and provides that within 10 days after its passage the Mayor and Council of Wilmington, acting through the Street and Sewer Department would submit to the State Department of Agriculture the names and addresses of all persons who, now rent spaces in the market, together with the names and addresses of all persons who have applied for space. The department would then determine who met the requirements of a farmer or trucker as defined in the law of 1917 and issue a certificate of eligibility. Rules and regulations governing the administration of the amendment would be promulgated by the board which would also have the power to revoke the certificate of eligibility.

The fee for a curb stand would be changed from $2.25 a year to a minimum of $4 and a maximum of $10 to be determined by the Street and Sewer Department.

FARMERS TRUST COMPANY OF NEWARK

Member F. D. I. C.

Serving This Community Since 1856.

FILLIN' IN

A devoted reader of the Post has rushed to our defense on the datum-data issue mentioned in this space last week. We disclosed then that scientific authorities at the U. of D. had taken this newspaper to task for using data in the singular.

Our agent, breaking in on us with a crusading light in his eye, brushed aside the claims of the U. of D. men, denied that data is exclusively singular and waved a piece of paper at us to prove it. This turned out to be a complete definition of data, as culled from that final authority: Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition Unabridged, 1941.

Our champion begged us to print it in full (the definition not the dictionary, smarty) so that Newarkians, especially the younger generation, won't go about saying things like: "Data are wonderful, aren't they?"

With the promise never to bring this matter up again, we quote Webster via our agent: "Data n., pl. of datum; collectively, material serving as a basis for discussion and inference. (Although plural in form, data is not infrequently used as a singular; as, this data has been furnished for study and decision.)"

After our friend had left, we got to feeling pretty smug about the whole thing. Apparently, the Post can be right sometimes, even though it hasn't sense enough to know it. Incidentally, the man who gave our harried staff a new lease on life is John K. Speicher, of Orchard Road.

A newcomer to town, who had been dashing out of his house in panic every evening around 6:15 at the sound of the fire siren, finally was informed by an old-timer next door that the alarm was merely a time signal, and he needn't get excited.

The newcomer asked why on earth they picked 6:15 for a time signal. Why not a more sensible hour like 5 p. m. or 12 noon?

The neighbor, though a life-long resident, couldn't answer this, but it seemed like a good question, so he turned it over to us. We immediately dispatched a research expert to the firehouse, who came back with some startling information.

It seems that anyone who has been setting his watch or keeping vital appointments by the nightly alarm is by now lost in a world of his own.

The siren, we were informed, is not a time signal at all, but a test signal. The Aetna men merely ring it once a day to see that the thing works. They started this custom once after a fire was reported, and the siren wouldn't sound off—a disconcerting situation. They usually run the daily test around 6:15, but not necessarily on the dot.

We observed with interest not long ago a conference of some of Newark's financial wizards on Main Street outside the Newark Trust.

The magnates were trying to diagnose the strange malady which had stricken the big outdoor clock there. Each face told a different time.

One of the group insisted the whole thing was impossible. "The works are hitched up inside so that all the faces have got to move together. Even if they're wrong, they all must be wrong in the same way."

There was a note of anguish in his voice, as with a man whose hold on reality is slipping. But there also was the clock, obviously and complacently going its several ways.

When we left the group, a great deal of head-shaking and muttering was in progress, and we had the feeling that life in the upper levels of the trust company was going to be under a cloud for some time. Since then, we note, the clock has been fixed, but we bet that behind the closed doors of the trust's inner chambers, executive brains still quiver uneasily.

Personally, we thought the clock was doing an excellent job as it was. We still give it an affectionate pat every time we go by. We found its method of telling time most congenial. Take your choice, it seemed to say, and we did. If we were late on the south side, we slipped around north and found we had plenty of time. If it seemed a little too early in the day for us on the west, we went east and killed an hour. Until it was fixed, we had gotten so we would tell time by no other clock.

We still have hopes for it. Now that it has broken the traces, we bet it won't be content to stay in the same old time belt day after day. In fact, we saw a smirk on several of its faces recently that bodes ill for the men in power at the Trust.

E-52 To Launch Radio Workshop

A newly-organized radio workshop under the sponsorship of the University of Delaware's E-52 Players next week will begin production of a series of radio shows. The workshop will be directed by Thomas B. Pegg, of the Department of Dramatic Arts and Speech faculty. The Players have their own workshop studio and will present the new series on Station WILM.

The first show will be "The Petticoat Jury" a radio play written by Joseph Cochran for the DuPont "Cavalcade of America" program. "Petticoat Jury" is a comedy based on life in the west in the 1880's, and originally starred Jean Arthur, Frank Buck, Jr., is an assistant director for this production. A radio adaptation of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" will be the second production of the series.

DELAWARE PARK TO OPEN MAY 28; 15 STAKE RACES IN MEET ENDING JULY 4

Total Of $205,000 In Stake Money Will Be Only Fraction Of Purses To Be Distributed; Each Stake To Be Raised $5,000; Minimum $10,000

Delaware Park's stake dates, which were announced today by Racing Secretary J. Gilbert Haus, show that the track again will open with the $10,000 added Wilmington Handicap for sprinters on Saturday, May 28. There will be 15 stakes on the program, which also will run through June and early July. Total stake money is $205,000. Of course, this stake money outlay is only a fraction of Delaware Park's total distribution, but the purses have not yet been calculated.

The 1949 stake figures are $5,000 higher than a year ago due to the custom of annually increasing the two rich futurity events by $2,500 each. It is estimated by Haus that the Leonard Richards Stakes, which is exclusively for three-year-olds, will gross approximately $28,000, and will be the richest event of the meeting. The other futurity race, the Delaware Oaks, for three-year-old fillies, will gross approximately $27,500, thus closely rivaling the Leonard Richards in value.

Delaware Park, of course, retains in addition, its three $25,000 features, the Kent, New Castle and Sussex, each of which has been named for one of Delaware's three counties. This makes five stake races each of them at $25,000 or more.

While Delaware Park's minimum stake value is $10,000, there are two exceptions where the added money is established by the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association. These two events are the three-pley jumping races, —National Maiden Hurdles, and Spring Maiden Steeplechase. The purse in each is $5,000. The Maiden Hurdles is run in conjunction with Belmont Park and Saratoga, while the Maiden Steeplechase starts at Pimlico, moves to Belmont, and the third leg is run at Delaware. Jumping will begin at Delaware Park on June 14, with the third running of the $10,000 Tom Roby, a unique event wherein the trophy goes to the winning jockey.

Minimum stake value, so far as Delaware Park is concerned, is $10,000, and at that figure there will be eight stakes, —the Wilmington Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, six furlongs; The Brandywine Handicap, three-year-olds and upward, one mile and a sixteenth; The Polly Drummond Stakes, two-year-old fillies, five furlongs; Tom Roby Steeplechase Stakes, four-year-olds and upward, about two miles; The Christiana Stakes, two-year-old colts and geldings, five and a half furlongs; The Dover Stakes, two-year-olds, five and a half furlongs; The Georgetown Steeplechase Handicap, four-year-olds and upward, about two miles, and the Indian River Steeplechase Handicap, four-year-olds and upward, about two and a half miles.

Hen '49 Court Record At 5 Wins; 15 Losses

Cagers Perk Up In League Finals; Individual Statistics Listed

With their 1948-49 winter sports written down in history, University of Delaware fans will turn their interests to baseball and other outdoor athletics and to spring football training.

After an unsuccessful season's play in basketball, Coach Joe Brunansky's cagers perked up to go into the finals of the southern division Middle Atlantic States post-season playoffs at Swarthmore, where they lost to the invincible league-leading P. M. C. Cadets Saturday night, 70-58. The Hens were playing good ball at the end of the season, but their total count was five wins to 15 losses.

Bob Gregory, senior, topped the squad in scoring, with 69 field goals and a total of 185 points, averaging 10.28 per game. Jim McFadden was second with 159 or 9.35 a game. Jim led in free tosses, sinking 49 in 66 for a 74.2 average, and Billy Cole was second with 127 and third in total points with 150, or 7.5 per game. Ace Hoffstein and Bill Nash excelled in defense and Hoffstein proved to be effective as a feeder to the scoring forwards. Frank Albera and Fred Kelleher showed the greatest improvement of last year's freshmen. All are from Wilmington.

Against a fast field of swimmers the Blue Hens tied with the University of Pittsburgh for fifth place in the Eastern Collegiate championship meet at Rutgers University Saturday, with 11 points, in a meet so fast that Brooklyn College, New York University and Manhattan College went scoreless.

Rutgers, always strong in aquatics, topped the meet with 63 points. Other scores were Seton Hall 42, Temple 17, Penn State 13, Delaware and Pitt 11, Merchant Marine Academy 10, Lehigh 4, and City College of New York 1.

Delaware's ace diver, Bauduy Grier, twice Middle Atlantic States conference champ, was able to take only a third place and Lou Ward, Blue Hen backstroke from Audubon, N. J., most improved man on the squad, came up

JACKET NINE TO OPEN AT CONRAD, APRIL 20; FIRST HOME APPEARANCE APRIL 25

14-Game Card, Announced By Mercer Lists 7 Home Contests; Wilmington High First Of Latter; 6 Holdovers From 1948 Campaign Out For Drills

A 14-game card, including seven home contests, has been lined up for this year's Newark High School baseball team, according to Coach Frank Mercer.

Practice sessions are underway for the opener with Conrad away on April 20. The home fans will get their first look at the 1949 Jackets on April 25, when Wilmington High invades the local diamond.

While it is too early yet for predictions, Coach Mercer said he has a rugged core of veterans to work with, headed by pitcher Robert Haman. The makings of a major-league fast-working infield are on hand in the form of Ralph Barrows, James Ford, and Phil Harrison. Returning outfielders are Earl Laws and Frank Porter.

Coach Mercer pointed out, however, that new talent will have to be uncovered to fill in vital first-string gaps as well as to provide necessary reserves. The newcomers will be called on to play an important part in the Jacket campaign. Particularly needed are some promising pitchers to spot Haman.

Home and home games have been scheduled with Conrad, Wilmington High, P. S. duPont, A. I. duPont, Brown Vocational and Salesianum. Single contests are planned with Claymont and Mount Pleasant.

The complete schedule:

April 20—Conrad, away.
April 22—Claymont, away.
April 25—Wilmington, home.
April 27—P. S. duPont, away.
April 29—A. I. duPont, home.
May 2—Wilmington, away.
May 10—Brown, home.
May 13—Salesianum, home.
May 16—P. S. duPont, home.
May 20—A. I. duPont, away.
May 24—Conrad, home.
May 27—Salesianum, away.
May 31—Brown, away.
June 3—Mt. Pleasant, home.

The New Castle County Band has launched rehearsals in preparation for its tour of county schools to start March 30. Two concerts will be given on that date one at Middletown and the second at New Castle.

March 31, three programs will be offered, the first two at Newark and Conrad in the morning and the third that afternoon at A. I. duPont. Claymont and Mount Pleasant will be visited on April 1 in the morning. The tour will conclude in the afternoon with a broadcast over station WAMS.

The six schools with students in the band and their directors are: A. I. duPont, E. Russell Williams; Conrad, Richard George; Mount Pleasant, Starr Cole; Claymont, Ed Steiner; Middletown, Merrill Loagen; Newark, Ernest R. Wilder.

FARM COOP HEAD TALKS

Warns On Drop In Farm Income

A warning on declining business activity and farm income was posted for local board members of Southern States Cooperative attending an annual mid-winter regional conference Tuesday, at the Chimes Restaurant, Newark, Delaware.

"While there is no fear of any deep depression in the near future, the danger signals are out and it is necessary that we as individuals and as an organization adjust our operations to take into account these changing conditions." That statement was made in a report on Southern States for the first half of the fiscal year, by Dr. C. D. Caskey, of Baltimore, Md., director of Research Department for the Cooperative.

"In the years ahead," he continued, "farmers will need their own cooperatives as never before if they are to protect their economic welfare in a society dominated by big business, big government and big labor."

Attending the conference were local Southern States representatives from the following communities: Bear, Middletown and Newark, Delaware, Elkton, Rising Sun and North East, Maryland.

NHS Faculty Keglers Undeclared

The faculty bowling team at the Newark High is undefeated so far this season, with two victories over Dover and one over Caesar Rodney. The team also bowls once a week on the home alleys.

Members are: Miss Ann Chalmers, Wilmer E. Shue, Stanley Gibbs, Frank Mercer, Eugene Kelechava, and Raymond Justin.

DANITA MILL DISPUTES ON THIRD SHIFT

A dispute over the operation of a third shift has arisen between the union and the management of the Danita Hosiery Mill here.

The latter has filed a complaint with the Court of Chancery, against the American Federation of Hosiery Workers and its Newark local.

Danita officials charge the union threatens to suspend any member who works the third shift. The court complaint charged the union is violating its contract and that as a result the plant may suffer in breakdown in operations.

Meantime the third shift is continuing to operate here, pending a hearing March 31, when union officials have been directed to appear before the court and "show cause why" a preliminary injunction should not be issued against them. Until that date, Vice-Chancellor Collins J. Seitz has ordered the union not to interfere with the operation of the third shift.

The company claims the union's branch 167 agreed to the third shift in 1947 and as a result the company spent some $350,000 in a modernization program and has contracted to spend $250,000 more. Also it has hired 35 employees who became members of the union. Later, the national union turned down the plan, threatening to suspend members who work the shift.

Officers of the local union defended their position with the claim that the third-shift agreement was oral and contingent upon the approval of the national. They said they had lived up to their part of the agreement by making a sincere effort to secure approval from the national, but that the latter rejected the plan because it was against union policy.

Defendants in the action, filed by C. Edward Duffy for Samuel Rosenbaum, president of the firm, are the federation, with offices in Philadelphia; the local, and three of its officers, Henry Clark, Byron Weaver, and John List, all of Newark. The complaint asks that a permanent injunction follow the restraint preliminary to a hearing.
