All was calm, more or less

By MARY E. PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

FOR OVER 12 YEARS the junior and senior high school parishioners of Ebenezer United Methodist Church have been portraying a live nativity outside the church during the Christmas season.

This year as always, all was calm, all was bright, according to associate pastor Michelle L. Moore, except "the animals were a little wired."

Teenagers from the United Methodist Youth Fellowship portrayed Mary and Joseph, three wise men, an angel and three to four shepherds, explained Moore.

The animals come from Carousell Farms and Moore said this year they had a goat, a pony and "the fattest sheep" she ever saw.

Ted Dawson, manager of Carousell said he has provided the animals for at least eight years. "We didn't have a donkey this year, so we're making do with the pony," Dawson said. He also provides the animals for the living nativity at Skyline United Methodist Church.

Music and a reading of the first Christmas from the gospel of Matthew or Luke complement the event each evening. Refreshments are provided in the church hall during the event and the spectacular glass-walled sanctuary is open for reflection on the season's message.

"The kids look forward to doing it even though the weather is cold," said Moore. "They get very excited."

Moore said costumes for the portrayal were originally donated and added to over the years by the group.

The youth group at Ebenezer United Methodist Church portrayed the first Christmas in a live nativity scene last weekend. Seen here, Audrey Bailey was Mary, Mark Bertoncino was Joseph and Julie Niskanen was the Angel.

UD to build in air

Newark City Council recently authorized the city solicitor to draft documents granting the University of Delaware an aerial easement over Orchard Road.

According to Andrew S. Welsh, director of facilities planning and construction, the University plans an enclosed pedestrian bridge connecting Purnell Hall with a new three-story addition to the College of Business and Economics.

The University sought review by the city administration and approval from the city council before proceeding with the project.

Plans meet irregularity

Christina School District plans for building and renovating 11 schools in the next few years has encountered a "minor irregularity," according to school superintendent Iris Metts.

The State Attorney General's office notified the district that procedures governing the publication dates of the notice of special election for a bond referendum last Spring were not met. "This is an

Residents of the Bear-Glasgow area met with officials from the Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) and developer Greg Pettinaro last Thursday to discuss traffic issues related to the Route 40 corridor.

"DelDOT laid out the improvements they plan for the Route 40 and 7 intersection," said Janice Hawkinson, vice president of the Bear/Glasgow Council of Civic Organizations. "I have to say, most people were pretty skeptical." DelDOT has said they will complete the improvements by 1999.

"We understand that the state legislature is allocating funding in 1996 for DelDOT so they can meet this goal," said Hawkinson.

Police beat

■ Police Beat is compiled each week from the files of the Newark Police Department by staff writer Ron Porter.

Knife shown

Newark police report that on Dec. 11 at Triangle Liquors on North Chapel Street at 10 p.m. a customer was approached by a man with a knife. The victim was leaving the store after making a purchase when the suspect approached the victim and asked for money while displaying a knife.

The suspect took the victims wallet and fled through the parking lot, east on Cleveland Avenue to McKeys Lane. Police are still investigating the incident.

Student assaulted

A 15-year-old Newark High student was beaten by a group of strangers on Dec. 13 at 1:15 p.m., Newark police report. The victim told police he was on the bleachers at the high school taking pictures with other students.

He then approached the group that was also around the bleachers and asked them if they could make change for a $20 bill. The group stated they could not and the victim walked away. The group then changed their mind and approached the victim who said he no longer needed change.

As he walked away from the group, the victim was assaulted. He suffered a cut left eye and a sore jaw. Police are still investigating the incident.

Cigarettes taken

Newark police report that a 17-year-old boy was arrested at the Pathmark in Suburban Plaza after he attempted to shoplift two packs of Newport cigarettes on Dec. 11 at 12:30 p.m. The value of the cigarettes was $3.50.

Teacher shoved

Newark police report that on Dec. 7 at 10:30 a.m., a Newark High teacher was shoved by a student while walking through the hall. The teacher was walking in the school when he encountered three students in the stairwell.

The teacher then told the students to go to class and made his way to the office. On his way back from the office, the teacher encountered the same three students in the same stairwell. He instructed the students to follow him to the office. The three students then tried to run from the teacher.

The teacher then held his arms out in an attempt to block their way. One of the students then pushed the teacher's arm and shoved him against the wall, police said. The teacher was not injured, and the students eluded the teacher.

The teacher then went to the principal and gave him a description of the students who were found in the school. The teacher identified the student who pushed him and the incident was reported to Newark police because of House Bill 85. Police are reviewing the case pending warrants for offensive touching.

Block breaks window

An unknown suspect used a concrete block to break out the rear window of a 1985 Chevrolet Camaro on Dec. 11 at 7:00 p.m., Newark police state. Once the window was broken, the suspect removed an amplifier and stereo valued at $250. Police are still investigating the incident.

Little Rascals found

Newark police report that on Dec. 11 at 8 p.m. at the Kmart in College Square Shopping Center, police responded to a shoplifting complaint. The suspect attempted to leave the store when the shoplifting alarm went off.

When a Kmart employee asked the suspect if she had purchased anything, she said no, her sister-in-law had. The suspect then quickly walked to the back of the store. She was pursued by Newark police.

The two officers caught her a short time later in the health and beauty department. As the officers approached the suspect, they found her zipping up her pocket book. When the officer grabbed the pocket book and searched it, they found it was empty. The suspect was then asked to leave the store. When Kmart security searched the area, they found that two video tapes had been placed in the wrong area, right where the suspect had been apprehended by police. The tapes found were "The Little Rascals Video," and "Gordy Marie."

Incidents investigated by police

By RON PORTER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

NEWARK POLICE and New Castle County police report that in the past week several residents have been approached by gunman and forced to turn over possessions.

The most recent incident occurred last Friday night at 9:10 when a man robbed a motorist at gun point after the man had taken money from the WSFS bank machine in College Square Shopping Center.

Police said the gunman and a another person pulled up in a light blue and white vehicle resembling a Volvo or Mercedes.

The suspect approached the victim, showed a shotgun and demanded that the victim hand over money. After the victim gave the gunman his money, the suspect then fled in the vehicle.

The car was recovered a half hour later.

A Pike Creek resident was also approached by gunman when he was walking out of the Pike Creek Office Park, located on Stoney Batter Road.

New Castle police report that the victim was walking toward his red Audi convertible when a man pointed a handgun at him and demanded his keys. Police report the robber drove off in the victims vehicle and left the victim uninjured.

There have been a string of purse snatchings in the New Castle County area and New Castle County police state that this was the first to deviate from them.

The description of the suspect in both cases is similar. He is described as black, 5-foot-10 inches tall, medium build and in the Newark incident was last seen wearing a green flannel shirt, black baggy pants and a black knit cap.

Suggestions from police

Newark police suggest various prevention tips:

- Drive a "lousy" car.
- When possible, travel in well-lit, well traveled, busy area. If you are stopping at a public facility such as a pay phone or gas station, try to park in well-lighted place where others can see you.
- Avoid traveling alone. A person alone is more vulnerable.

- Keep doors locked, windows up.
- When stopping at a red light, stop sign, in traffic be alert to surroundings. Don't stop too close to the car in front of you and allow room for yourself to maneuver around that car if you need to.
- If someone does approach your car and makes you nervous make sure doors are locked and windows are up. Pull away and honk horn to hopefully scare the possible suspect away and to attract people's attention to you.
- Keep car in good repair and with plenty of fuel so you can physically get away if you get suspicious.
- When walking toward your car, or when preparing to park your car, survey the surrounding area.
- If a carjacker demands your car keys — give them up.
- Make note of carjacker's description and get away route.

Police car crash stirs interest

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

FOR SOME REASON, a police car crash is almost as interesting to the public as the old news bromide "man bites dog."

Much speculation has followed in the wake of the Dec. 11 incident which caused an electric power outage for over 1,000 customers on Newark's south and west sides after a police vehicle hit a telephone pole.

According to Newark's chief of police William Hogan, most of the rumors are unfounded. "The officer was responding properly to a call which had just come in concerning an armed robbery at Triangle Liquors," said Hogan.

Hogan stated that the police department is investigating the incident as it does all such incidents and the issues of speed and visibility are being reviewed.

"Speed is definitely an issue," said Hogan. "It's not as easy to determine as it used to be, however, because cars with anti-lock brakes don't leave skid marks." The length of such marks are the traditional method for judging a car's speed in accident situations.

"We're also looking into the visibility issue as related to that section of the road," said Hogan. Elkton Road near Chrysler Avenue dips just before the turn, according to the chief of police, possibly contributing to the near collision of the police car and a van.

Both vehicles swerved and the police car hit a telephone pole inflating its air bag. "The officer would have been much more seriously injured if not for the airbag," stressed Hogan.

Hogan added, "We are conducting a detailed internal review and the matter will come up before the Accident Pursuit Review Board. We have a specific and stringent code for safe driving and if corrective action is necessary, corrective action will be taken."

UD to build classroom bridge

► AERIAL RIGHTS, from 1A

Welsh stated that Purnell Hall is the University's most heavily used classroom building and the administration is expecting significant student and faculty travel between the two buildings.

"The bridge will be air-conditioned and heated," said Welsh. "It's really more like a hallway between the buildings."

University senior vice president Dave Hollowell, told council that the University held a meeting with the residents of Orchard Road to explain their proposal. "There was a large turnout but no one was against it," said Hollowell.

City councilman Thomas Wampler said he was concerned about the "claustrophobic and heavily urban look" resulting when building went right out to the sidewalk. "I would have anticipated that Orchard Road residents would have some objections," Wampler added.

Hollowell said that there might have been objections if the University were to close the road but that is not planned.

to build a possible 160 single-family homes, 400 townhomes and apartments and 240,000 square feet of offices. Pettinaro also plans to reserve 25 acres for public use like schools or parkland.

In an effort to get approval for his project, Pettinaro has agreed to pay additional amounts toward highway improvements for Route 7, Walther Road, Route 40, and Porter Road (total estimated cost $500,000) as well as required road upgrades near his proposed development.

Hawkinson said Pettinaro also has offered to deed restrict the development to prevent occupancy of Phase II townhouses and/or apartments until Jan. 1, 2000, limit the staggered-front townhouses to six per unit and build no structure over four stories or 50 feet high in the development.

"With the additional transportation funding, and the deed restrictions he now proposes," said Hawkinson, "we feel we might be able to support his plan."

District plans meet irregularity

instance where technically the district did not follow all the details prescribed by law," said Metts.

The superintendent emphasized that the district had "substantially complied" by only exceeding the required date by three days in one paper and one day in the other.

"We made every effort to publicize this election," said Metts, "above and beyond what was required by law."

According to the district office, public information on the bond referendum prior to the election was provided by nine notices in the newspaper, four public hearings, 40 meetings, newspaper reports in the school district's attendance area, a special broadcast on Cable TV, and communications to 200 organizations.

To reassure bond underwriters who might question the irregularity when extending the bond anticipation note, the district plans to seek a waiver of the notice requirement through a resolution in the General Assembly in January.

Metts said several legislators were encouraging, including senators Steven Amick (R-Newark West), Margaret Rose Henry (R-Wilmington East), and David Sokola (D-Newark), senate majority leader Thomas Sharp, and state representatives Richard DiLiberto (D-Newark East), William Oberle (R-Beechers Lot) and Joseph Petrilli (R-Pike Creek Valley).

"House speaker Terry Spence (R-Stratford) has been particularly helpful," said Metts.

According to Senator Sokola, the district has a pretty strong case. "If the intent of the law was to show that the public was adequately informed," Sokola stated, "I think they complied with the spirit of the law if not the letter."

Sokola said the legislature may have to revisit the publication requirements which were passed when there were a lot more newspapers in the area.

Sussman issues challenge

FOR THE SECOND YEAR in a row, a retired University of Delaware professor has issued a challenge to benefit the University's Morris Library.

Professor emeritus Marvin Sussman, who retired in 1988, will match pledges up to a total of $10,000 made through Dec. 31 for library activities.

According to John Clayton, assistant director of University development, in 1994 the Sussman Challenge Gift resulted in the library receiving a total of $30,000, including Sussman's $10,000.

Some contributors gave contributions as Christmas gifts to the library with instructions to purchase books on a subject that was of special interest to the honored family member or friend. Clayton stated that donors may specify whatever library activities they wish to support.

Sussman, a Newark native, is repeating his challenge this year in memory of his daughter-in-law, Sandra Sussman, who died suddenly on Oct. 15.

For information on the challenge, call Clayton at 831-2104 or send him E-mail at John.Clayton@mvs.udel.edu.

BETWEEN CHURCH AND CLUB

Land swap benefits both

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A UNIQUE EXAMPLE of community cooperation promises benefits for years to come for two local institutions.

According to Gene Trivits, chairman of the long-range planning committee at Newark Country Club, a mutual land swap will enable the club to build a new swimming pool while their next-door neighbor, First Presbyterian Church, improves their Memorial Gardens.

"The country club needed a new regulation-size pool for kids' official competitions," explained Trivits. "It wasn't planned until 1997-98 but then the old pool began leaking almost 1,800 gallons a day."

Trivits said he told the club's board and prepared a memorandum for stockholders back in March. "They weren't happy about it," Trivits said, "but they know you can't have a decent club without a decent pool."

Architect Joseph Farina, a member of the club who donated a lot of his time in this project, agreed to prepare plans for the new pool area. According to Farina, the club needed more land to do the job right so the club board approached the church membership with an offer to purchase land.

"We debated about it for a while but the idea about the Memorial Gardens really swung it," said Trivits. "Then we said, 'why not exchange a piece of ground and both get something we want?'"

Under the arrangement, the two organizations "swapped" two pieces of approximately 8,000 square-feet of land. The church gets a piece of former club land as a buffer for the church's Memorial Gardens. The club gets enough land for a new pool, new changing houses, offices, and a golf cart area under a patio and deck.

"We're also adding a larger maintenance building and switching our purification facilities to bromine which is safer than chlorine," Trivits said.

In addition, the club will provide a new chain-link fence, landscaping and trees between the properties. "We're also moving a small pavilion that the club was tearing down onto the church grounds," Trivits added.

As part of the transaction, the club is paying to bury the present electric wires along the property line which saves maintenance for both groups and also providing a water supply in perpetuity for the church's Memorial Gardens.

Trivits said the club was willing to absorb a lot of the work and cost in the deal because the arrangement was "worth nothing to (the church) but meant a lot to us." For instance, the club will survey the adjoining property lines and pay all recording fees in the land transaction as well.

According to Trivits, the membership of the two groups have agreed to a written memorandum of understanding. A formal agreement will be signed in about two weeks after the survey is complete.

"Everything went very smoothly," said Trivits. "We have a real good relationship with the church and they moved quickly when we told them we wanted that pool open by next Memorial Day."

Construction on the new club facilities is expected to begin in March 1996.

Happy holidays to all

ONCE AGAIN IT'S TIME TO WISH the readers of the Newark Post happy holidays. As we enter the week before Christmas, many are still hustling and bustling, making all the last minute preparations for a nice holiday season.

With our hectic schedules, it's hard to imagine the moment when the turkey will have been carved, the dishes cleaned, the presents unwrapped.

But hopefully there will be a moment or two when we can reflect on the year and appreciate the things we have taken for granted.

We would like to take this time to show our appreciation to the community we serve. This is a vigorous community of public officials and businesspeople who see Newark as a worthwhile place on which to spend their boundless energy.

We are also thankful for the many volunteers who serve the less fortunate in our area, who by their example make it easier for the rest of us to give.

Finally we'd like to welcome all the people who are home for the holidays. We wish the students from the University of Delaware a safe journey home, and a safe return.

And when we find that time with our families finally comes, our bellies full, feet warm, the tree lights twinkling, we hope that we will be able to say that things are good, that we're happy and that this is a gift not to be taken for granted.

We hope the season is bright and merry and reflective for all. Happy holidays, Newark.

Christmas is not just for children

By MARY E. PETZAK
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

My mother used to say, Christmas is for children, and indeed, during my teenage years some of the wild excitement and anticipation dimmed.

But then came my husband's and my first Christmas when we already had a two-month old daughter. For the first time I felt the challenge and responsibility of creating the Christmas celebration ourselves.

My husband came from an artificial-tree family, but we both knew we wanted a "real" tree. That was the easy part. The question was, what to put on it.

That first year, we had to settle for varied-colored balls, augmented with a set of yarn angels and clowns and elves. In the years to come, I lovingly painted wooden figures and knitted bells complete with jingle. Many other ornaments came as gifts from children, friends, and family.

Finally we had to decree that only handmade or gift ornaments would fit, and the balls went into their boxes for the final time.

Slowly the tree took on a meaning and personality all its own. I marked the storage boxes so that each Christmas Eve we could note how and when each ornament first came to our house.

There is the white, felt dove our daughter made in nursery school, the clothespin soldiers made by our cub scout son, and the star made by our first grandchild at a Christmas party. Every single ornament has a history, and woe betide the person who overlooks one, or inadequately places any favorite to its best advantage.

My parents had always told us Santa Claus brought the tree and decorated it. They successfully kept up this pretense for years. When our children were young, we explained that we bought the tree, but Santa decorated it.

Somewhere along the way, our grandest tradition evolved. In an effort to contain and alleviate the unbearable wait on Christmas Eve day and evening, we announced that all of us would help Santa by decorating the tree in the afternoon.

After a quick supper, we attended Christmas Eve Mass. When my son sang in the choir, we often arrived as much as two hours early to drop him off for practice and get any seats at all. The long wait in the quiet church wasn't always popular with other family members, but I looked forward to it after the hectic weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Many years it was the first time in days I had sat down for more than a few moments and had my thoughts to myself.

As the choir sang and the service proceeded through the beautiful and familiar liturgy, true Christmas found its way into my worn and tattered soul. Later we drove home through the strangely-empty post-shopping world to the house where our decorated Christmas tree glowed like a prayer in the darkened living room.

My husband and I no longer wait until Christmas Eve to put up our tree, much to the annoyance of our grown children. It already stands in all its glory in our living room. Some traditions do change as we grow old. One day, even my grandchildren will have grown up and we will no longer have any excuse to entice Santa Claus to our house. But the Christmas tree will still be there, carrying on its branches the hopes, dreams, and memories of all our Christmas seasons.

My mother was wrong. Christmas will always be for us, grown children that we are.

ONE PARENT'S PERSPECTIVE

People need to read the paper

By RUTH KELLY
NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

THE NUMBER OF PEOPLE who obviously don't read the newspaper amazes me. The newspaper is the first thing I look at when I open my eyes in the morning, after thanking God first for allowing me to see a brand new day.

Many times at work, I would much rather engage in friendly debate over an issue published or share my thoughts with someone on an event or a particular story instead of gossiping about what Peggy Sue is hiding in her closet. The newspaper often contains important information that you will not get watching the television news.

The newspaper has so much information that is needed to keep people informed of the events locally and worldwide that may ultimately affect their lives in some way. Some people detest newspapers because they feel the opinions printed are biased. Some don't care to read about the ills of our society and the daily coverage of heinous crimes and tragedies that occur.

What folks fail to realize is that the newspaper also contains a wealth of information about many other things. You don't have to read about the murder that took place, or the government official who embezzled money.

The newspaper not only carries the section that is most read by many, which is the sports page, but also carries information about the weather, health and human interest stories, and more importantly information on important issues such as education, legislative reports, announcements of public hearings and important meetings.

Every citizen who has a child in school for example, needs to read the newspaper. If you don't care to buy one, borrow one. Typically, after an important meeting has been held, it simply baffles me when folks argue that they had no idea that the meeting was held, and that no one told them. When I answer with "didn't you see the announcement in the newspaper?" I will invariably receive the answer of "Oh, I don't read the newspaper." Our Newark Post contains information that is pertinent and specific to us in the Christiana School District.

I grew up appreciating the newspaper from a very young age by watching my father read it front to back and throughout the day, seeing him revisiting articles and anything else he may have missed the first time around. Even my daughter as a toddler imitated me by picking up a newspaper and looking at it even before she knew how to read.

OUT OF THE ATTIC

This week, our "Out of the Attic" photograph shows the Press of Kells. The Press of Kells was founded by Everett C. Johnson who founded the Newark Post in 1910. The original portion of the building was constructed of stone from Iron Hill. The building was named after a monastery in Ireland which once produced an exceptionally handsome book entitled The Book of Kells. The building was purchased by the Y.W.C.A. in 1959 and the organization currently uses the building. The photograph which was taken around 1925 was donated by Mrs. Marjorie Tilghman who is the daughter of Everett C. Johnson. Research was provided by Bob Thomas for the Newark Historical Society. In an effort to provide more complete descriptions of our "Out of the Attic" photographs, volunteer historians of the society are identifying and researching the historic shots. Readers are encouraged to send old photos to the Newark Post. Special care will be taken. For more information, call 737-0724.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Remembering past Christmases in Newark

To: The editor

From: Ron Baker
Marshallton, Del.

Following are some of my favorite memories of the Christmas Season while growing up and living in Newark in the 60s, 70s and 80s. While some things are uniquely personal, I am sure most people who have lived here throughout this period remember many of them as much as I do. Although some of these traditions remain to be experienced by our families today, many have unfortunately become the stuff Christmas memories are made of.

■ Christmas shopping on a snow flurry-filled Main Street while the Newark United Methodist carillon plays Silent Night.

■ Wearing a giant silver bell costume while singing "Silver Bells" as part of Mrs. Hilda Marshall's fourth grade class at the 1969 Central Elementary School Christmas assembly.

■ Being a reindeer in another Central Elementary Christmas production after Joe Barker got the role of Santa Claus because he had a fuzzy red winter coat that made him a shoo-in for the part.

■ The gigantic wreath-topped-candle Christmas decorations that adorned phone polls from one end of Main Street to the other.

■ The box of hard candies given all the kids on the Sunday before Christmas at the Wesleyan Methodist Church.

■ Annual treks with my mother to the Newark Department Store's downstairs Christmas Shop to buy now-cherished Christmas ornaments.

■ Visiting Santa in the little wooden house in front of F.W. Woolworth's.

■ The big, illuminated plywood Santa in the George Reed Village lawn of Norville Robinson.

■ Taking my turn and getting to open a window in the Advent calendar at Nathalie B. Hammond's Newark Kindergarten on Tyre Avenue.

■ The big candy canes that used to line the storefront facades at the Newark Shopping Center.

■ The Avon building awash with red and green lights.

■ Day-long parties at Newark High School's WNHS-TV studio on the final day of school before Christmas vacation.

■ Visits to Newark High School on those same days by a Santa who looked incredibly like late 1970s-era Vice Principal William T. McLain.

■ Christmas trees from the Krantz farm on New London Road.

■ Christmas cookies from Bing's Bakery.

I urge Newarkers to take advantage of the people and things that are still here, to begin new traditions that build on the old, and to have the happiest of holiday seasons!

Holiday reflections, wishes and hopes

NEWARK OUTLOOK

FROM THE STAFF OF THE COOPERATIVE EXTENSION OFFICE AT UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

HAPPY HOLIDAY WISHES! As we begin to celebrate the holidays and prepare to close out another year, I frequently catch myself reflecting on many different aspects of life in 1995. Looking back over the subject matter for this column for the past 12 months, I addressed subjects such as safety issues, a fun family outing to the Agricultural Museum, household hazardous waste disposal, what farmers do in the winter, ticks, quality of life in 2020, kenaf (a new local crop) and keeping the country in the county.

What I enjoyed most was communicating to you the current status and importance of agriculture and farmland. I discussed agriculture's contribution to quality of life in our county.

I also hope I got across the urgency for you and every citizen to take action to preserve farmland and farm production in our rapidly changing county. As I told you, each year we lose about 1,400 acres of farmland to competing land uses, primarily housing development.

My greatest frustration of the past year has been dealing with travel to and from Newark. I find particularly exasperating the time lost waiting at multiple traffic light cycles, construction detours and delays, and the increasing distance—because of development—to get to open spaces, such as farms and natural areas.

Apparently my concerns and frustrations are not uncommon. Recently, there has been an explosion of media attention on both state and county land-use issues and the activities of key agencies, such as the Governor's Cabinet Committee on Planning, DelDOT, County Council, County Planning Department, WILMAPCO and local civic associations.

Questions such as where we are headed, why we are going the directions we are and when will we get there? I recognize that each of us has the right to our opinions about quality of life. Our definitions of quality of life may differ; we may disagree on how to achieve it.

With the new year only weeks away, I encourage you to resolve to be active in land-use issues that affect you. Voice your concerns and suggestions about the future of our county to your representatives and to other local, county and state decision-makers. Want some background on these issues? You can start by attending a Delaware Cooperative Extension sponsored information forum on land-use planning. Watch for date, time and place, or call the New Castle County office at 831-2506.

May each of you have a meaningful Christmas holiday and a rewarding New Year!

'Paradise in front of our eyes'

By DAVID G. W. SCOTT

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

LISA BARTOLOZZI'S paintings dominate the inside of her Windy Hills home. They are the outward manifestations of a private person. She paints in a classical style using human models, oil paint, large wood panels and a vision that is at once symbolic and individualistic.

Her paintings show us a paradise right before our eyes.

"The natural details of freckles, wrinkles, hair and spots makes the figure human," said Bartolozzi. "The details must be there to create an individual because I'm not trying to paint a stereotype. Any stereotype can't sum up the universal."

Bartolozzi is after something universal and she attempts to attain that by being realistic.

In her paintings, Titian, Rubens, Michelangelo, Winslow Homer and Andrew Wyeth can be seen. It is this curious mix of classical and contemporary that draws the viewer to the work.

The deep, dark colors do more than the subject itself to portray the depth of study involved.

Bartolozzi works for months, even years, on a single painting. At present, she is at work on a painting entitled, "Blind Faith."

The canvas is eight feet tall and five feet wide. The subject is a blind woman who is about to step into a pool of water that reflects the sky. A storm has just passed. The woman in the painting is life-sized.

Bartolozzi's husband, Chris Cochran, built a special easel for her in the addition to their home. He built the addition onto the back of the house.

The easel extends through a hole in the floor into the basement below. This allows her to work on the top of a very large painting.

After sealing the wood panel with gesso, Bartolozzi begins the slow process of building layers in her paintings. Using a mixture of linseed oil, varnish and turpentine, she paints in transparent layers of colors. This is how she achieves the classical look which is far richer and more luminous than many artists' work.

The key is patience. Bartolozzi, who has lived in Delaware since she was 15 years old, received her bachelor of fine arts degree from the University of Delaware and her master of fine arts from Washington College in St. Louis. She has learned through study and now through teaching that there is no rushing art.

As she works on paintings, she begins to understand them. Because she spends so much time working and thinking about a single subject, she often reflects on what inspired the composition in the first place.

With "Blind Faith," she speaks less about the woman in the ten-foot-tall painting and more about a search for spirituality.

"The woman is searching blindly. She can't see the paradise that is right before her eyes. The painting should make the viewer feel paradise from the light, nature, the color of the sky after a storm has passed," Bartolozzi said.

But Bartolozzi is not isolated in a world of ideas. She continues to teach at Horizon: The New England craft program in Massachusetts. This spring she will teach a course at the University of Delaware. In May, she will travel to Italy and in June to Mexico.

For the most part, however, Bartolozzi is at home in her studio traveling to the places within her art—her big ideas becoming realized on the big spaces she creates.

The pig is the pink one, right?

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

DON'T EXPECT TO SEE pigs, tractors or waving grain when you enter the agriculture department at Christiana High School.

"A lot of people still think of agriculture as farming," said department head Richard Ferenz. "but we haven't had a farming student in years."

Ferenz said today's agriculture students come from a variety of backgrounds and most have never seen a cow in person.

The program at Christiana High School, one of the largest in the state, offers agriculture mechanics for maintenance and repair of small engines, weedwackers, lawn mowers, etc.; landscaping to learn installation and design of planted areas; greenhouse maintenance; flower arranging; wildlife conservation and management; and animal science.

The course on wildlife conservation and management offers information and skills to those interested in a possible career as a wildlife biologist while interior and exterior landscaping is a "tremendous business" in New Castle County, said Ferenz.

"Animal science isn't what most people think, either," Ferenz said. "We teach basic anatomy, physiology and some production of domestic animals for students interested in the pet store industry." Some students also work as assistants at local veterinary offices while exploring that career.

Ferenz said although farming is still the largest industry in Delaware, only a small percentage of workers are actually in production. "The rest are in related industries and services which support farming, like merchandise and sales," said Ferenz.

Agricultural research is another related support industry in Delaware and "a lot of our students go to places like Dupont, ICI and Zeneca," he said.

Agricultural staff at Christiana are among the only full-time teachers throughout the state. "That's because a lot of contests and fairs take place in summer," explained Ferenz.

Christiana's program has so many students participating in the summer contests "it's hard to handle and we end up being bus service, lunch service, everything service," laughed Ferenz.

He added, "You get the kids who are really interested though, because first-place winners of contests qualify for a possible trip to Kansas City for the national competitions with 37,000 others."

Agricultural competitions are "very involved and definitely college material," said Ferenz. In the landscaping competition, for instance, students must be able to identify 150 trees and shrubs, design a layout, know the math to determine the amount of bricks, concrete, sand and lumber to construct a patio, prepare a sales receipt, and complete a written test on their knowledge of the subject.

Many parents are skeptical when Ferenz and his staff go out each spring to recruit at the local middle schools. "Kids are very interested because we offer a program with a lot of direct involvement and hands on activity," explained Ferenz. "Parents who have kids in the program love it, though, because there are a lot of leadership opportunities and our students do so well."

Agriculture students also participate in widely diverse school and community projects. For the past 15 years students have prepared flower and tree arrangements as holiday gifts and have done silk flower arrangements for wedding parties of past graduates of the program.

Elderly residents of Marydale Retirement Community across Salem Church Road welcome the students each spring when they plow 30 or more gardens there as a community service.

This year students are working on a long-term project to construct a wildlife area on the school grounds. "We're laying out a trail with 75 plants indigenous to this area to look for and identify, and bluebird boxes made by the students," said Ferenz.

Come spring, students and community members will be able to walk through the miniature parkland, counting the plants, listening to the birds and enjoying the labors of some of the latest 'future farmers' in Delaware. Just don't expect any pigs.

For information about the students' holiday fruit sale or other agricultural department programs at Christiana High School, call Richard Ferenz at 454-2123.

Joyous music in the air

'Tis the season for beautiful Christmas music in and on the air! The number of days to the glorious feast of Christmas is now down to single digits and rapidly moving toward zero. Christmas "music" has surrounded us on many occasions, not always leaving the fondest memories in our aural senses. Great, glorious Christmas music is one thing. Some of the sounds with which our ears are attacked this season of the year is quite another.

Many of my readers have told me they have come to depend on their own record and CD collections and a few selected radio programs. I certainly agree with that. It is the case in the Toman family, and perhaps with yours too.

One local radio station, WNRK, 1260 on the AM dial, is offering something quite special again this year on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Things get going at 5 p.m. on the eve of the celebration with an evening billed as "A Family Radio Christmas." It is offering something for listeners of all ages.

The first broadcast will run from 5 to 8 p.m. and is called "A Vintage Radio Christmas." This is an attempt at time machine travel back to the great Christmas radio programs of the 30s, 40s and 50s. During the three hours Christmas programs from such series as "Lux Presents Hollywood," "Voice of Firestone," "Edgar Bergen and Charley McCarthy," "The Great Gildersleeve," "The Telephone Hour," etc., will be broadcast. Famous soloists and ensembles of that era will be heard too.

At 8 o'clock a very special program for the younger listener will be offered. It is a reading, not a play, but a reading of Charles Dickens' classic, "A Christmas Carol." English actor Frank Pettingell will bring Scrooge and the Cratchets alive with only his voice. What an opportunity for the youngsters to use their imaginations!

Also on this broadcast will be updates from the "radar" news room following the progress of Santa and his reindeer to this area. Hopefully this will help get the little ones into bed after the story telling is finished.

Sir Georg Solti will conduct the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and Chorus in a complete performance of the Christmas portion of Handel's "The Messiah" on WNRK Christmas day as part of a two-day festival of Christmas music on the station.

"Gregorian Chant Christmas Celebration." On this program the oldest extant Christian music, chant, will be in the spotlight. Christmas Masses and antiphons will be performed by the Gloria Dei Cantores and monks from the Benedictine Abbey of St. Martin Beuron.

At 10 o'clock an all-Handel program will feature the complete Christmas portion of "The Messiah" with Sir Georg Solti conducting the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and Chorus with international soloists Kiri Te Kanawa, Anne Gjevang, Keith Lewis and Gwynne Howell. It is entitled "Handelian Christmas Celebration" and will conclude with selections from "Roman Vespers" performed by the Philadelphia Singers and Concerto Soloists of Philadelphia under Michael Corn.

At noon the "King of Instruments" will join in the feast to honor the birth of the King of Kings. An "Organ Celebration of Christmas" will feature pipes from both sides of the Atlantic. Close to home, two of the major organs to be heard will be the Conservatory Organ from Longwood Gardens in Pennsylvania and the John Dickinson Theater Organ from Delaware.

Praise from the human voice will be the center stage in the 2 p.m. broadcast, a "Vocal Celebration of Christmas." A complete performance of Gian Carlo Menotti's Christmas opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will be heard with the original cast performing. Great voices will offer Christmas homage for the remainder of the program.

As Christmas Day draws to a close, the programming will come closer to us in the Delaware Valley. At 4 o'clock WNRK will begin their holiday finale, a "Philadelphia Christmas Celebration." Christmas music will be performed by the Philadelphia Orchestra and Chorus, the Philadelphia Singers and tenor Mario Lanza. These fabulous Philadelphians will end the day of joyous music.

I would close my column today by taking the opportunity to wish you, all of your family and all of your friends a very Merry Christmas!

Foard gift benefits S.A.D.D.

For the fourth year in a row, Bob Foard plans to present a monetary gift to the S.A.D.D. (Students Against Drunk Driving) chapters at Christiana, Glasgow and Newark high schools.

Foard, owner of Robert T. Jones and Foard Funeral Home in Newark, said "It is such a tragedy to work with families who have suffered a loss from drunk-driving. We see too much of it in my line of work."

The purpose of the donation is to assist the school S.A.D.D. chapters in promoting sober driving, especially during the holiday season, said Foard. "That's also the reason I make the presentation of the gifts at the funeral home instead of at the school," he explained. "I want to impress them with the results of drunk-driving."

Irene J. Eakley, member Holy Family

Newark resident, Irene J. Eakley, died Dec. 10, 1995, of heart failure at Christiana Hospital. Mrs. Eakley, 72, was an insurance representative at Lockheed Electronics in Metuchen, N.J., for 30 years. She retired in 1985 and moved to Delaware in 1988. She was a member of Holy Family Church, Newark, and the Clarence F. Fain Senior Center, Wilmington. Mrs. Eakley was also a volunteer at Christiana Hospital. Her husband, Sylvester Francis Eakley, died in 1987. She is survived by a daughter, Gail A. Eakley and a son-in-law, Jim Sullivan, with whom she lived, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mass of a Christiana burial was offered at Holy Family Church, Newark. Burial was in All Saints Cemetery, Kirkwood Highway. The family suggests contributions to the American Cancer Society, New Castle.

Edward M. Sheridan, veteran Korean War

Bear resident, Edward M. Sheridan, died Dec. 9, 1995, of cancer at home. Mr. Sheridan, 62, was formerly of Dickson, Tenn., and Carneys Point, N.J. He moved to Bear in August from Dickson.

He was area manager at the DuPont Co., at New Johnsonville, Tenn., until he retired in 1992 after 40 years.

He was a member of Knights of Columbus Council 8241, Dickson. He was an Army veteran of the Korean War.

Mr. Sheridan was survived by his wife, Josephine Garbini Sheridan; two sons, Michael E. Sheridan of Hendersonville, Tenn., and Patrick J. of Carneys Point; a daughter, Maria S. McAllister of Chattanooga, Tenn.; a brother, John D. of Mendenhall, Pa.; a sister, Ann E. Venello of Penns Grove, N.J.; and three grandchildren.

A Mass of Christian Burial was offered at St. James Catholic Church, Penns Grove. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Woodstown, N.J.

Contributions may be made to Delaware Hospice, Wilmington, or the American Cancer Society, Woodstown, N.J.

Elizabeth W. Young, assistant for Newark School District

Newark resident, Elizabeth W. Young, died Dec. 11, 1995, of cancer in Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Young, 85, was born in Nottingham, Pa., and lived in Delaware since 1940.

She was a teacher and later became a district administrative assistant for the Newark School District under superintendents Wilmer Shue and George Kirk.

She retired in 1972 after more than 20 years.

Her husband, Milton G. Young, was chairman of the University of Delaware electrical engineering department until 1974.

Mrs. Young was the first president of UD Faculty Wives. She was a Blue Hen football fan and enjoyed tailgating.

Mrs. Young was a poll watcher for the Republican Party. She enjoyed knitting, growing roses, bird watching and playing bridge.

She is survived by her husband of 58 years and two sons, Robert G. Young of Boise, Idaho, and A. Wilson of Dallas, Texas; her daughter, Margaret A. Young of Bethany Beach; eight grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

A service was held at First Presbyterian Church, Newark.

The family suggests contributions to First Presbyterian Church, Newark or the American Cancer Society.

Jesse J. Goodyear, Sr., Vietnam vet

Newark resident, Jesse J. Goodyear Sr., died Dec. 6, 1995, of cancer in Christiana Hospital.

Mr. Goodyear, 54, worked for Concept Construction Co., Newark, for about four years. He was an Army veteran of the Vietnam War, and had been a merchant seaman.

Mr. Goodyear was a member of J. Allison O'Daniel VFW Post 475, Newark.

He enjoyed bowling and played at Brookside Lanes. He also enjoyed working on cars, stock car racing, playing the guitar in a band he formed and golf.

Mr. Goodyear is survived by his wife, Dorothy C. Emmons Goodyear; five sons, Jesse Goodyear Jr. of Wilmington, Keith, Christopher and Christopher Heckler all of Newark, and Brian of Antioch, Ill.; three daughters, Theresa Goodyear of Wilmington, Tracey Goodyear of Wauconda, Ill., and Dawn Heckler of Newark; his father Zebulon Goodyear Sr., of Bear; three brothers, Timothy Harris of Marshallton, Raymond Goodyear of Elkton, Md., and Zebulon Goodyear Jr., of Newark; three sisters, Gay Oakes of Newark, Faye Lewis of Wilmington, and Gwenn Ellis of Marshallton; and three grandchildren.

A service was held at Spicer Mullikin & Warwick Funeral Home, Newark. Burial was in Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery, Chesapeake City Rd., Summit.

What should you expect from a funeral home?

Frank C. Mayer, Jr. & Harvey C. Smith, Jr.
Co-owners/Directors

The funeral home you choose to help you through the most difficult times in your life should be more than merely capable of organizing the final services of your loved one. The staff should be both professional & caring, knowledgeable & kind, highly skilled & compassionate. At Spicer-Mullikin, we know that our responsibility goes far beyond helping with the details of the funeral -- our most important job is to provide the personal care you need, when you need it the most.

Mrs. Eakley was also a volunteer at Christiana Hospital.

Her husband, Sylvester Francis Eakley, died in 1987. She is survived by a daughter, Gail A. Eakley and a son-in-law, Jim Sullivan, with whom she lived, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mass of a Christina burial was offered at Holy Family Church, Newark. Burial was in All Saints Cemetery, Kirkwood Highway.

The family suggests contributions to the American Cancer Society, New Castle.

Edward M. Sheridan, veteran Korean War

Bear resident, Edward M. Sheridan, died Dec. 9, 1995, of cancer at home.

Mr. Sheridan, 62, was formerly of Dickson, Tenn., and Carneys Point, N.J.

He moved to Bear in August from Dickson.

He was area manager at the DuPont Co., at New Johnsonville, Tenn., until he retired in 1992 after 40 years.

He was a member of Knights of Columbus Council 8241, Dickson. He was an Army veteran of the Korean War.

Mr. Sheridan was survived by his wife, Josephine Garbini Sheridan; two sons, Michael E. Sheridan of Hendersonville, Tenn., and Patrick J. of Carneys Point; a daughter, Maria S. McAllister of Chattanooga, Tenn.; a brother, John D. of Mendenhall, Pa.; a sister, Ann E. Venello of Penns Grove, N.J.; and three grandchildren.

A Mass of Christian Burial was offered at St. James Catholic Church, Penns Grove. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Woodstown, N.J.

Contributions may be made to Delaware Hospice, Wilmington, or the American Cancer Society, Woodstown, N.J.

Elizabeth W. Young, assistant for Newark School District

Newark resident, Elizabeth W. Young, died Dec. 11, 1995, of cancer in Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Young, 85, was born in Nottingham, Pa., and lived in Delaware since 1940.

She was a teacher and later became a district administrative assistant for the Newark School District under superintendents Wilmer Shue and George Kirk.

She retired in 1972 after more than 20 years.

Her husband, Milton G. Young, was chairman of the University of Delaware electrical engineering department until 1974.

Mrs. Young was the first president of UD Faculty Wives. She was a Blue Hen football fan and enjoyed tailgating.

Mrs. Young was a poll watcher for the Republican Party. She enjoyed knitting, growing roses, bird watching and playing bridge.

She is survived by her husband of 58 years and two sons, Robert G. Young of Boise, Idaho, and A. Wilson of Dallas, Texas; her daughter, Margaret A. Young of Bethany Beach; eight grandchildren and 12 great-grand children.

A service was held at First Presbyterian Church, Newark.

The family suggests contributions to First Presbyterian Church, Newark or the American Cancer Society.

Open the taps on Main Street

Newark's first brew pub, Iron Hill Brewery & Restaurant, will be a part of Traders Alley, according to developers Gibbons Young and Richard Handloff.

The pub, planned to open about June 1, 1996, will be the first brew pub operated by C&D Brewing Co. of Delaware.

"We chose this location because we feel our concept can be an important part of the renaissance on Newark's Main Street," said Kevin Finn, a partner in C&D. Finn said the operators have considerable experience in restaurant operations and brewing. "We're very excited," said Young. "This is really great news."

A brew pub is a full-service restaurant with an on-premises brewery, serving fresh, hand-crafted beers in small batches directly to the public. The pub-restaurant will include a sidewalk cafe, an 135-seat dining area, an open kitchen, a private dining room, and a 30-foot bar.

From the bar, customers will be able to view the brewing process as it takes place. Iron Hill's menu will focus on American regional dishes from around the country to complement their beer selection.

The developers said the project which broke ground on Dec. 1 includes parking for 90 cars.

State schools' chief leaving

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Delaware's State Superintendent of Public Education has received the nod from the Clinton Administration for a federal post.

Pascal ("Pat") Forgione Jr. was named to serve as Commissioner of the National Center for Education Statistics. Forgione's nomination, subject to U.S. Senate confirmation, is for a four-year term.

According to state school board president Paul R. Fine, "Pat Forgione has been a staunch champion of needed school reform. . . I am sorry to see him leave. . ."

Fine said that the state board is immediately launching a regional search for a replacement and hopes to name a successor by April 1996.

Governor Thomas Carper said "We remain fully committed to the reforms we have underway (in Delaware), and look forward to naming a replacement for Pat who will ensure our continued progress in making Delaware schools a model for the nation."

The National Center collects, analyzes and disseminates data on education in the United States as well as international comparisons of educational statistics. Forgione has been state superintendent since December 1991. He has three sons, two of whom attended the University of Delaware.

DuPont donates Louviers land

This week White Clay Creek State Park north of Newark grew by more than 400 acres as DuPont donated the remaining major undeveloped portion of its former Louviers site to the State of Delaware.

The donation was announced jointly by Governor Thomas P. Carper, DuPont Executive Jack A. Krol and Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Secretary Christophe A.G. Tulou.

"In 1984, we donated approximately 1,700 acres of unspoiled woodlands, 487 of them in Delaware, to the White Clay Creek Preserve," said Krol. Thanks to Dupont's donation, the lands will be under the permanent protection of the state, said Krol, "ensuring future generations the opportunity to learn and enjoy this magnificent resource."

The property, part of the DuPont Land Legacy begun in 1994 to identify biologically and culturally significant surplus properties, is the third to be given protected status by DuPont.

Comprised almost entirely of Piedmont forest with a mix of hardwoods, portions of the parcel will be dedicated as a nature preserve while other portions will be converted to a hiking and biking trail.

Approximately 4,000 feet of the property fronts on White Clay Creek and boasts a number of rare plant species. The lands provide a connecting link between existing White Clay Creek parklands which now cover 2,040 acres in Pennsylvania and Delaware.

'WE BAKED YOU A CAKE'

"Never make a promise unless you intend to keep it." This piece of wisdom was passed down from father Len Dukart to his sons Alan and Les. The Newark McDonald's has faithfully supported Aetna Hose, Hook & Ladder Company, "working hand and hand" since before 1969, said Diane Silverman, fire safety specialist. McDonald's provides support to the fire house through donations of food and support to various fire safety programs. "I've even been mayor of Safety Town," said Len Dukart. In appreciation for all of McDonald's support to the fire house and to say thank you, Diane and Alan Silverman presented Alan, Les and Len Dukart with a cake and a visit from a fire engine at the Main Street McDonald's.

UD receives gift

Mrs. Howard P. Brokaw of Greenville and Mrs. Willard Crichton Jr of New Castle recently donated more than 1,300 19th-century theatre playbills and posters to the University of Delaware Library.

The playbills, programs, posters and memorabilia included in the Brokaw/Crichton collection represent theatre life, especially that of New York City, in the 1870s and 1880s. Included are many interesting examples of advertising styles and techniques, printing styles, fashions and theatre architecture, as well as information about theatres, performances, music and theatrical personalities of the period.

A rich resource for researchers, the collection has a scope and depth that will support the work of research interests in American studies, history, literature, publishing and printing, advertising and graphic arts. "The University of Delaware and its library are fortunate to have received this generous gift. It is through such philanthropy that the library can add significant collections to enrich its distinguished collection for academia," Susan Brynteson, director of libraries, said. "When cataloged, Mrs. Brokaw's and Mrs. Crichton's items also will be appreciated by faculty and students who will use the materials for research for decades into the future," she said.

A finding aid to the collection has been prepared, and the collection is available for use.

For more information, to donate materials or to obtain a brochure for the University of Delaware Library Associates, call the office of the director at (302) 831-2231.

Golden Dove restaurant is 'extraordinary' place to eat

WHEN CUSTOMERS of the Golden Dove Diner Restaurant at 1101 North DuPont Highway in New Castle say that "this place is extraordinary" and "we really feel like we are getting our money's worth" they are telling the truth. Since it opened about six months ago, the Golden Dove has been the talk of diner aficionados who love good food that is served in overwhelming proportions.

Owners Sajo, Abdullah Karaman, and H.G. Akilli came to this country from Turkey and have already proven themselves in Bridgeton, N.J. where they opened a similar diner that is enjoying huge success.

The Golden Dove has one of the most extensive menus available in New Castle with literally hundreds of items. The 165-seat restaurant is open 24-hours daily and employs about 50 persons, two of which are full time pastry chefs who keep the dessert shelves full.

Specialties of the house (which all include soup and salad are: Sirloin strip with stuffed shrimp, stuffed mushrooms and rice pilaf ($13.95), sauteed chicken breast with three cheeses, gravy and two vegetables ($9.95), 10 oz. filet mignon, 6 oz. lobster tail, onion rings and mushrooms ($16.95), and Turkish shish-ka-bob over rice pilaf ($9.95).

Golden Dove also offers 50 kinds of sautees. These specials include: Chateau briande ($25.95) for two; Caribbean seafood combo with fresh fruit ($20.95) for two; and sauteed seafood house ($22.95) for two.

There are reliable diner favorites like chicken and dumplings on Wednesdays and Sundays, but there is so much more that you may not expect to find on a diner menu like chicken Madeira, Shrimp scampi, cappuccino, baklava ($1.75) and delicious cheese bread. Every day of the week there are 40 different lunch specials. Entrees are served with towering stacks of cheese and cinnamon breads, and tea biscuits.

Don't miss the unbelievable breakfast deal ($1.89), which includes three eggs, french toast or hotcakes, three breakfast meats, toast and jelly. It is served on weekdays 5-11 a.m. If you can't get to the restaurant during those hours, you can still order breakfast anytime day or night.

Every item on the menu is prepared on the premises and nothing, from the salad dressings to the turkey stuffing, is preprocessed.

The Golden Dove has a full service bar and is a meeting location for businesses and local civic organizations. The diner will be open throughout the Christmas holidays. Holiday cakes ($12-$20), pies and other desserts may be ordered to dress-up the Christmas table by call-

Hot time in the Wintertime in Newark

National American Legion Competition

The competition will take place at Holy Family Education Center on Rt. 4, Newark, on Jan. 26, 1996, at 7 p.m. Newark's Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel Post is sponsoring the event. For additional information, contact Edwark Knight at 998-9448 or Joseph Wozar at 234-0592.

Chorale holds auditions

The Delaware Valley Chorale announces openings for experienced singers for its spring 1996 season. Weekly rehearsals for the spring season will begin on Monday, Jan. 8, 1996 at Aldersgate Methodist Church, Wilmington. For more information or to schedule an audition, call (610) 527-6085 or 239-5904.

WIC accepts applicants

The Women, Infants and Children (WIC) special supplemental nutrition program is currently accepting new participants. Pregnant or breastfeeding women and their infants and children up to 5 years old are eligible to apply for WIC benefits. To qualify, the woman, infant or child must be economically eligible and be nutritionally at-risk, as determined by a WIC professional. To set up an appointment, call 995-8684.

Winter Garden Line

With the arrival of cold weather, the Delaware Cooperative Extension "Garden Line" is moving to its winter schedule. Clients with questions on home lawn, garden, and pest questions may call 831-8862 to leave a message. Master Gardener volunteers will return calls between 9 a.m. and noon on Tuesdays.

WINTERFEST SUCCESS FOR FIRST YEAR

Newark's first Winterfest was a success even with a few problems, said Carol Houk coordinator for Newark parks and recreation.

"It wasn't all that we wanted it to be," said Houk. "But the crowd on Main Street was good and we had over 300 people at the caroling and bonfire."

Sidewalks in Newark's downtown were busier than usual and included strolling carolers clad in Dickens-era attire. On the Academy Building lawn the ice-sculptor chipped away closely watched by a crowd of backseat carvers.

The chestnut vendors did a good business with the curious and adventurous. (See related story in box).

Diedre Peake, economic development for the Newark Business Association, said, "As a first time event, I was happy with how it went."

Peake said businesses reported that shopping "definitely increased" along Main Street during the event.

Houk said the city and business association are already "fine-tuning" for next year. "I think it will change in some areas—but we are talking about a next year," said Houk.

One unfortunate problem was the no-show by the carriage ride vendor. "We won't invite them back," said Houk.

Chestnut Roasting was the least of it

The Newark Lions went bravely where no Newarker had gone before and sold roasted chestnuts at Newark's Winterfest. "We didn't know what we were getting into," said Lion Frank Hoagey.

Superfresh helped supply the chestnuts which are imported from Italy and sold them to the Lions at cost.

"We thought 50 pounds would be enough," said Hoagey. "We didn't know there were 2000 chestnuts in 50 pounds and each one had to be slit with a knife so they don't explode like a hot potato in the fire."

Hoagey said the week before Winterfest they were "all down at the Senior Center" slitting those chestnuts. "Then we had to boil them to make sure they'd be well done even with the roasting because they taste God-awful if they're not done," laughed Hoagey.

The Lions plan to use the proceeds of their efforts in their programs. "We had fun," said Hoagey. "We'd do it again."

A list to Santa from the sports desk

Now that the Christmas season is upon us, it's time to make a wish list to send to Santa so that all my sporting wishes will come true.

I will fax this list of ten things straight to the north pole so that all my wishes will get into Santa's hands quickly.

Let's begin by listing the things of less importance first, and those of the greatest importance last.

No. 10 is a nation-wide wish for all those poor people in Cleveland that are about to lose their beloved Browns. If you saw highlights from the last game in Cleveland on Sunday and your emotions weren't stirred a bit, then get somebody to check your pulse. Santa, please please help Browns owner Art Modell come to his senses.

No. 9 is more closely related to the people of the Philadelphia area. It deals with the Philadelphia Eagles and having something to cheer about. Santa, don't change a thing. Even a sneeze in the direction of that team can cause enough problems to ruin the chemistry they have developed.

No. 8 deals with me personally. If you never saw it, the word cannon was spelled incorrectly two issues ago all throughout my column. It was a mistake. But for the people that wrote and left no names under their comments, Santa visit the Wizard of Oz and get those people some courage.

No. 7 deals with the men in the striped shirts. As the sports world has moved indoors to the gyms of the area high schools, I ask Santa to keep these men in his view. They are abused by fans for doing their job, and yet are able to keep their minds focused on protecting the kids and calling the game.

No. 6 focuses on professional baseball players and is more for my mother than myself. She becomes disturbed when players find it necessary to grab at every part of their body and then spit when they are at the plate. Santa, for my mother, please give them some self control.

No. 5 will place attention toward video games that deal with sports. John Madden football, NHL Hockey and the rest are so expensive that children and big kids like me struggle to earn the money to buy and play them. Santa, please bring me all the video games that your elves can make. And get some to the other kids as well.

No. 4 on my list is to the people that design the new uniforms for the NBA teams. Santa, get these people some creativity classes. Pin stripes are good for baseball uniforms and Somebody better warn the rest of the girls basketball teams in the state.

There is a usually quiet girls basketball team in Bear, which is making a lot of noise early this season.

The Caravel basketball team is 5-0, and off to a roaring start after they defeated Glasgow 51-40 on Saturday afternoon in the Dragons gym.

Led by guard Kristin Mills and center Kristin Nachstein, the Buccaneers put together two offensive spurts in the first and second quarters to pull away to a 34-13 lead at the break.

Late in the first, Nachstein scored eight of her 14 points in a 14-0 run by Caravel to give the Buccaneers a 18-4 lead at the end of one. She was aided in the scoring by Mills who shot from everywhere but the stands, scoring 18.

Early in the second, Caravel's Lisa DelCollo got another run started with two foul shots.

Nachstein scored four points in that run, while Mills scored only two. That basket was made possible by defensive specialist Rose Tassone.

Tassone had just stolen the ball from a Glasgow guard and streaked down court. Mills followed.

Just as Tassone got underneath the basket on the right side, she turned her back on the defender and whipped a pass behind both of them and into the open hands of Mills who laid it in.

Tassone's defense was the key to the most of the runs, but as the game progressed, it became evident that not one girl on the team could be labeled the star.

"We were led by the four return-

'Jackets stymie Elks, win first

By RON PORTER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Newark High basketball team made the trip to Elkton High on Friday without having won a game under new head coach Greg Benjamin.

When they left the gym an hour later, they had not only won a game but won it convincingly, 87-59.

The Yellowjackets offense caught fire, getting all the spark they would need from Elkton turnovers, forced by a relentless Newark press.

Newark coach Clarence Dorsett threw down two dunks in the first quarter courtesy of fast breaks caused by turnovers.

His first dunk, a one-handed sky-hook slam that brought Newark fans and teammates out of their seats, put Elkton behind 9-0 in the first three minutes.

His second dunk, just a minute later, was a two-handed power slam that rumbled the rafters at Elkton High and put the Elks down by 11.

It shook up the Elkton coaching staff enough for them to use their first timeout just four minutes into the game.

The Newark defensive pressure was so frustrating that Elkton only scored six points in the first quarter.

"Our offense relies on our defense," said Newark Coach Greg Benjamin. "If our defense runs well, then our offense is going to do fine."

It was a welcome change for a Newark team that knows what turnovers can do.

"The first game we played we had 29 turnovers, the second game 21 turnovers, and the last game 18 turnovers, in this game we played real well," said Dru Remsburg. "It was the best defensive effort that we've had all season."

But the tempo took a 360-degree swing in the second as the game became a foul shooting contest.

It was a second quarter that produced 42 points, but only Newark High's Ian Remsburg goes up for a shot in Friday night's 51-40 win over Elkton High. The win was the first of the season for Newark.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

WHEN A COACH EVALUATES his team for the upcoming season, one of the things he looks for is which ones have changed during the off season.

Some lift weights to get stronger and others work on their jump shot to gain the coach's attention.

But some changes players make can't be seen in their performance on the court, but can be seen in the way they carry themselves everyday.

They mature and become better people as well as players.

Caravel girls basketball coach Bill McCartan has a player on his team that has done all those things in one off season.

Kristin Nachstein, this week's Newark Post Athlete of the Week, has become a powerful scorer, rebounder and shot blocker, but the things that stand out about her is the way she has matured.

"She has matured a lot since last year," said McCartan. "She has taken the job of team captain seriously."

McCartan said Nachstein earned the captain role, a role that she shares with two others, Lisa DelCollo and Rose Tassone, because her teammates have grown to respect her work ethic and her "team first" attitude.

Nachstein is averaging 13.5 points a game, but she making more of an impact on the boards.

She pulled down 14 rebounds against Garrison Mills on Dec. 11 and then just three days later pulled down 14.

Kristin Nachstein

Nachstein has become girls high school basketball's Dennis Rodman, without the green hair of course.

But what makes her more impressive than Rodman, is the fact that she is doing all of this after coming off major surgery during the off season. Nachstein had arthroscopic surgery on her knee and has yet to return to 100 percent.

On Saturday against Glasgow she scored 14, Nachstein seemed at her best, looking like Alonzo Morning blocking shots, and powering inside like Patrick Ewing.

All of this change is in part because of Duke University and the University of Delaware.

She attended basketball camps at these schools and has developed a confidence in her game that she felt might never had developed.

"I'm more confident," said Nachstein. "When I get the ball inside I'm more confident with it and I'm looking to score. Last year when I would get the ball I would pass it back out, now I'm looking to score. I didn't think I would ever remember some of the moves they taught me," she said.

Well, after Saturday, the pump fake that she likes seems to be working and the spins and turns are starting to take shape.

And if her rebounding skills continue to improve, the only person getting rebounds beside her will be the ball boy who chases out of bounds balls.

Nachstein is on her way to becoming a powerful presence in the low-post, as well as becoming a bet-

St. Mark's wrestler John Jacob controls Hodgson's Pete Laucircia in a 130-pound final match at the 16th annual Yellowjacket Invitational on Saturday at Newark High. Jacob won the match in a decision 9-5.

By RON PORTER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

EVEN THOUGH THE St. Mark's wrestling team won the 16th annual Yellowjacket Invitational on Saturday, Spartan coach Steve Bastianelli said he was disappointed with the way his team wrestled on Saturday.

Bastianelli felt his team made some errors during the matches, and said that his young team will have to improve throughout the year.

The Spartan team, made up of mostly sophomores and freshman have plenty of time to improve.

St. Mark's, ranked No. 1 by the NewsJournal, can't get many regular season matches during the season. William Penn, Newark and Salesianum are the only ones that will wrestle them.

The Spartans will spend the rest of December and all of January in tournaments. Then in February they will wrestle in their three regular meets and then wrestle in the state tournament which begins on February 24.

Bastianelli said the mostly tournament oriented schedule is both good and bad.

"It makes for a long season," said Bastianelli. "I don't know if they get tired, but I do."

As for the Yellowjacket Invitational, L.A. Collier won the 103-pound weight class in a match that Bastianelli said he showed improvement from last weekend's tournament.

He also showed a lot of improvement from last years tournament where he didn't even place.

Other Spartans that wrestled well were Bruce Kelly who won the 119 pound weight class.

Bastianelli said John Jacob, the 130 pound champion struggled last week but raised his level of intensity for the Newark tournament. Kyle Talley won the 145-pound weight class title for the Spartans.

It was the Spartans seventh team title in the tournaments history.

Hodgson Vo-Tech finished eighth while Glasgow in 11th place.

St. Mark's will compete in the Mid-Atlantic Classic on Friday and Saturday, also at Newark High.

Bastianelli said that the Mid-Atlantic Classic is a good tournament, but that Newark is a tough place to wrestle with all the people involved.

"They are going to have mats in that gym. It's going to be hot, it's going to be crowded and it's going to be crazy," he said.

► CARAVEL, from 1B

ers," said Caravel coach Bill McCartan. "I didn't expect us to be up by twenty at the half. We were in control the whole game. We out played them in every part of the game."

McCartan said he was extremely pleased to be 5-0 and his staff had talked about a possible 3-2 record at this point in the season.

"You always expect to be 5-0," he joked after being asked if the record was expected. "I expect to be 24-0."

With the performance his team put on against a Flight A opponent, the possibilities for this team seem endless.

McCartan's team has no seniors on the team, and all the starters for this years team are either juniors or sophomores.

So the question remains, what does a 5-0 record do for Caravel basketball?

"It's a very nice surprise," said Mills of the record. "I think that it will help us earn a little respect — beating a Flight A school and being 5-0. If we get ranked, that's great, if we don't it doesn't really matter to us until the end anyway when it really counts."

Saturday's game came as a surprise to people that believed Nachstein and Mills were the heart of the team.

In fact, this Caravel team prides itself on being just that: a team.

And if you don't want to be a team player, there is no place on the floor for you.

"We're much better this year, working more as a team," said Nachstein. "We don't have any attitudes this year. Last year we had a lot of attitudes and this year we respect each other."

Glasgow now respects the Caravel team this year, as should the rest of the state.

But beware, this is not a Mills-Nachstein show, it's a Caravel show all the way.

"We tried to shut their two best scorers down," said Glasgow Coach Larry Walker. "We weren't real effective at it, but they're capable of scoring more than they did. I know what those two got, but some of their other kids put the ball in the basket. They all shoot well. When you have two other kids scoring in almost double figures, that hurts you."

When the noise finally stopped in the Glasgow gym on Saturday, Caravel had won their fifth straight game, and as other teams prepare for them, it will soon become obvious, you have to prepare for the team, not one player.

seven baskets were made.

The other 27 points of the quarter came from the stripe.

Elkton scored 13 of their 17 second quarter points from the foul line, while Newark struggled scoring only 14 of 25.

As bad as the second quarter was, the Newark team came out of the break refocused on what they had come to Elkton to do, win a game for their new coach.

"We wanted to win this game for [Greg] Benjamin," said Remsburg. "A lot of people want him to do bad, so we really wanted to win a game for him."

Benjamin agrees the game was a big win, but a good coach always sees improvement, even when his team has won.

"The first one is always the toughest to get," said Benjamin. "I was a little disappointed after the technical. We talk about taunting, we talk about discipline, we talk about acting like professional students and bringing that into the game. So the technical kind of tarnished the win."

The technical came with two minutes and 58 seconds left in the game.

Elkton had a fast break opportunity and the blown layup was followed by a slam by an Elkton player. The Elkton faithful went crazy at the apparent basket, but the ref called no basket because the player had hung from the rim.

As the ref made the call, several Newark players, that were waiting to come into the game, began taunting the crowd.

The technical was called and as Benjamin said, the players' actions put a damper on a well-played game.

"Overall the kids played well. I think they are starting to learn where they belong in the offensive and defensive sets, and if they continue to learn, then we'll be there in the end."

Geasien, David compete in Lexus Champions tournament

McLean, VA — Sam David of Westminster, Md., and Don Geasien of Newark, De., competed against over 330 top amateur golfers from across the United States at the seventh annual Lexus Champions for Charity National Championship.

The duo, playing for the Leukemia Foundation, finished in 23rd place with a three-day net score of 68-65-69=202.

Lexus of Wilmington of Wilmington, De. sponsored David and Geasien.

The National Championship took place Nov. 30-Dec. 2 at PGA West and La Quinta Resort & Club in La Quinta, Ca. with a $75,000 charity purse at stake.

The Texas twosome of Robert Finger and Clarke Rheney captured the net division with a score of 182 and the Dallas duo of Matt Jones and Jimmy Porter won the gross division with a three-day total of 203.

Finger and Rheney won $25,000 for their charity, Kids' Way, as well as two pro-am spots in the Lexus Challenge hosted by Raymond Floyd, from December 12-16, also in La Quinta.

Jones and Porter won $10,000 for their charity, the Alzheimer's Association.

The Lexus Champions for Charity series pairs golfers with charity as amateur players participate in tournaments at the finest golf and country clubs throughout the country.

Lexus supports the local tournaments by donating a minimum of $1,000 to each associated charity.

In its seven-year history, the series has helped raise over $35 million.

More than 27,000 golfers participated in over 170 local charity events throughout the country this year.

Two-person teams, chosen by their charities, represented the local tournaments at the National Championship.

Payne Stewart, the 1989 PGA Champion and 1991 U.S. Open Champion, is the official spokesman for the Lexus Champions for Charity series.

The three-day, 54-hole National Championship was played at three outstanding courses: the Stadium Course at PGA West, current home of the Wendy's Three-Tour Challenge, Liberty Mutual Legends of Golf and former site of "The Skins Game", the Jack Nicklaus Resort Course at PGA West, current home of the Diners Club Matches and the Dunes Course at La Quinta.

The format used was a two-person best ball, using 80% of confirmed handicaps.

Sports Briefs

Bottner honored

Kathryn Bottner, a fifth grade student at Bayard Elementary School, received the "Kenny Falasca Memorial Award for Junior Athlete of the Year."

This award was presented to her on Dec. 12 by Patti Addison, president of the Delaware Association for Blind Athletes, and Neil Semmel, coach of DABA.

Kathryn received this award based on her athletic achievements this past May at the DABA Track and Field State Championship.

She received five first places in the frisbee toss, long jump, shot put, discus and the 100m dash.

She also received one second place in the 1600m tandem bike race.

Duonnolo wins bout

Tony Duonnolo, a kickboxer with Jack's Gym in Newark, defeated the reigning welterweight champion in non-title bout.

The 147-pound weight class was fought under ELKA division in Sugar Ray Leonard's Gym in Landover, Md.

Other fighters for Jack's Gym will be fighting in Lancaster, Pa. this week at Nyes Gym.

UD softball clinic starts

The University of Delaware coaching staff and players will be conducting a fastpitch softball hitting clinic on Sat., Jan. 27 at the Delaware Field House.

The hitting clinic will be geared for girls 9-18 years of age.

Each participant will receive a hitting clinic T-shirt, clinician notes and hands-on instruction.

All phases of hitting will be covered, as well as, bunting, the running slap bunt, offensive strategy and weight training/conditioning.

All participants need to bring athletic sneakers and bat. It is strongly recommended that participants bring batting gloves.

An athletic trainer will be available on-site. The cost is $25 for one session.

Golf tourney starts

The Sports and Athletics Section of the Department of Parks and Recreation will sponsor the 12th Annual Ground Hog Golf Tournament on Sat., Jan. 27 (make-up date - Feb. 3) at the Delcastle and Porky Oliver Golf Courses. A request is in for snow to make this tournament truly unique. For information about this tournament call 323-6418.

Gymnasts win

The Diamond Gymnastics Academy Girls' team opened its season by capturing the first place level six team award with a score of 106.9 at the Harford Holiday USAG Invitational Meet held Dec. 2-3 at the Harford Gymnastics Center in Joppa, Maryland.

Beverly Lien, a sixth grader at Independence School, and Aletta Tuthill, a fourth grader at Centerville School, led the team competing against over 200 gymnasts from 19 teams.

Lien placed first on the bars, beam, floor and all-around in the 12 and older age group while Tuthill placed first on the beam and second in the bars in route to placing third all-around in the 9-11 age group. Caroline Krystopolski, second all-around and Lindsay Leech comprised the winning level six team.

Joanne Hunt, a sixth grader at Barnett Elementary School, and Laura Bennett, a third grader at the Hockessin Montessori School, represented the level five team by placing first and second all-around respectively.

Their teammates were Melanie Swift, Kristin Ross, Kim Zukowski, and Jessica Megninley.

A list to Santa from sports desk

► SANTA, from 1B

mob bosses, but for NBA players, I don't think so.

No. 3, please give the state of Delaware an expansion football team. When all fifty states are represented then we can go international. That was a joke Santa.

No. 2 is more serious and is for all the young children that are being influenced by the professional athletes in the sports world. Santa, please let their parents step in and develop the children so they all don't grow up to be money hungry, spoiled people with spitting problems like Miami's Brian Cox. Charles Barkley said it best, "I am not a role model. Parents should be role models."

The No. 1 wish on my list has to do with the whole arena of sports. Santa, please don't let salary caps, corporate sponsors or egotistical owners ruin something that has been so good for so many people for so long. Shield the children from the business and money side of games, and let them realize that they are only that, games.
