Don't Be Mosquito Meat - Baste Away According To Bray With Delphene Spray

One man's meat is another man's poison. And one mosquito's meat is another mosquito's man. . . no, no, no, mosquito's meat is another man's mosquito. . . Well, anyhow, if you baste yourself with the right material you won't be a mosquito's man.

Dr. Dale F. Bray, University of Delaware entomologist, says you can make yourself very unappetizing to mosquitoes, gnats, and other man-eating insects by applying just the right amount of Delphene to yourself.

On the other hand, Delphene receives a favorable reaction from most people, Dr. Bray says. Not that anyone is likely to bite you, but it does not have the negative effect on humans that it has on mosquitoes.

University Obtains Local Armory Lease For One Dollar Annually, For 99 Years

The University of Delaware will pay one dollar a year for the use of Newark's historic armory, a landmark and community center since it was built in 1913. A 99-year lease on the property and building was executed recently by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs on behalf of the state; Maj. Gen. Joseph J. Scannell, the adjutant general, on behalf of the National Guard; and the State Military Board—Governor Boggs, commander in chief of the Guard; General Scannell, and Maj. Gen. John B. Moore, ranking field officer of the Guard—which is responsible for all state armories.

The unit was moved to the New Castle airport last fall in a program to reduce maintenance costs and provide more efficient training by locating units in the Wilmington metropolitan area closer to their battalion headquarters.

The Newark Armory, at the corner of Delaware Avenue and Academy Street, less than a block from the university campus, has been used as a community recreation center and as a temporary home for the Guard unit now located in Middletown.

For several years, the armory was headquarters for state civil defense, now housed in a bomb-proof bunker at the Governor Bacon Health Center.

Local Men Issued Patent For Novel Chemical Process

Dewey, Pedrotti Develop New Method Of Production For Bromotrifluoromethane

Donald Clifford Dewey and Rudolph Louis Pedrotti, both of Newark, along with Frederick Swamer, Boothwyn, Pa., were recipients on May 17, 1960 of U.S. Patent 2,937,210, "Process For Preparing Bromotrifluoromethane."

Bromotrifluoromethane is particularly useful as a fire extinguishing agent, and may be employed as a refrigerant and as a solvent, boiling at low temperature.

Although various methods have been proposed for preparing bromotrifluoromethane, the best known process has involved a thermal reaction of bromine and the chemical composition trifluoromethane without the use of a catalyst. However, according to Dewey, Pedrotti and Swamer, this process requires temperature higher than 925 degrees for satisfactory results.

Temperatures in the range of 400 to 600 F. may be employed if the reaction is carried out in the presence of chlorine, but such procedure has the disadvantage in producing substantial amounts of chlorine by-products and provides a poor yield.

Dewey, Pedrotti and Swamer have discovered a new, improved process. With their invention, vapors of bromine and trifluoromethane are reacted in the presence of a novel catalyst which permits the reaction to be carried out at lower temperatures, with higher yield and purity, and without objectionable side reactions.

The catalyst is a chromium oxide composition, the manufacture of which is described in detail in the patent specifications. Furthermore, after this catalyst becomes spent, it may be reactivated by heating in an atmosphere of steam.

This patent has been assigned to E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company.

Brookside, Smith School Attendance Changes Approved

The Newark Board of Education has approved provisions for changes in attendance areas for the Brookside and Jennie E. Smith elementary schools during the next school year.

With a recently completed four classroom addition at the Brookside school, other pupils in the areas of Brookside M-1 and M-2 can be accommodated at that school. The change in attendance areas will permit all children living west of Matthews Road to attend the Brookside school.

Others to be transferred to Brookside from the Jennie E. Smith School are those living on Matthews Road between Brookside Boulevard and including House No. 33 on the west side of Matthews Road, and between Brookside Boulevard and House No. 32 on the east side of Matthews Road as well as all children living in Mitchell Circle.

The attendance area division on Brookside Boulevard will be between Nos. 142 and 144 on the north side, and Nos. 149 and 151 on the south. Transportation from Brookside will not be provided to either the Brookside or Jennie Smith schools next year since all elementary children in Brookside live within the one mile radius exempt from state transportation.

OUR NATIONAL GUARDIANS

As we observe the 184th anniversary of our national independence, we pause to honor the 470,000 men of our Air National Guard. It was the early militia—today's National Guard has evolved—that formed the nucleus of Washington's Continental Army—and the played a vital role in winning our independence.

The National Guard is by no means resting on laurels of past glories. Plans are underway to assign a secondary mission to the National Guard for assisting in national recovery in the event of an atomic attack.

We are familiar with the Guard's primary mission of being trained and equipped combat units to the active and Air Force. And the Guard, through years of hard and devotion, has achieved the highest degree of combat readiness in its peacetime history.

Having established its right to remain in our first line defense, the National Guard is looking for new ways to serve the nation.

National Guard leaders are convinced that the recovery effort is not only a vital one in the light of present world conditions, but one which the Guard can fulfill without negating its role.

Dispersed throughout the nation, the Guard will be able to stand the atomic shock without crippling losses. Highly trained, well-equipped units in 2600 communities, the logical force to assist in recovery operations in every branch—the planes, tanks, trucks, ambulances, hospital units—and plain manpower—to do the job.

The National Guard is just as vital on Independence Day, as it was in 1776.

University Offers Early Admissions For Top Scholars

Outstanding high school and preparatory school students may gain early admission to the University of Delaware or be enrolled with advanced placement, according to Dr. William G. Fletcher, director of admissions and records.

Beginning this September, the admissions office will consider applications from superior students for admission prior to the completion of requirements for the high school diploma, and also will consider awarding advanced placement with credit for advanced courses completed in high school.

The theory behind early admission is that students should be permitted to advance on the basis of what they know rather than on their age and class standing.

An experiment with early admission already has proved profitable. Three Delaware City high school students were admitted in February to the freshman class. Their principal and university authorities agreed that a final half-year in high school would not challenge their intellectual abilities.

The State Department of Education cooperated by assuring the students and school officials that high school students granted early admission will receive their diplomas upon the successful completion in college of work equivalent to that unfinished in high school.

The three students, Zola Mae Shaulis of Bear; and Thomas F. Crompton and Robert L. Smith of Delaware City, have been well above average in their attainments.

McDonald Chain Pledges Inflation Fight With Hamburgers On Fifth Anniversary

A pledge to battle against inflation "to the last ditch and not yield to the easy temptation of raising prices" was made by the McDonald's drive-in restaurant chain on the occasion of its 5th anniversary.

McDonald's, with a local drive-in located here in Newark at Capitol Trail & McKee's Lane, was started as a chain operation on April 15, 1955, with the opening of its first unit in Des Plaines, Ill.

The Newark drive-in was opened by operator Leonard Dukart on March 15, 1960.

On the occasion of its 5th anniversary, McDonald's president, Ray A. Kroc, expressed the belief that the chain has found the answer to inflation and proved its theories with the most basic food item in the U.S.—meat and potatoes. McDonald's answer to inflation is simple—"more efficiency and more sales volume."

Building a nationwide chain of 165 drive-ins, McDonald's has maintained its price for hamburgers and French fries despite a general 20 percent rise in living costs in the past decade. Standards of quantity and quality have rigidly been kept at the same level, too, during these years of slow but certain upward price trends.

"This is confounding to many of our competitors," Kroc reports. "It's also puzzling to some people, who have become so accustomed to inflation that they regard as suspect anything that maintains low prices over the years. But there's nothing mysterious or underhanded about how we have maintained our prices and battled inflation."

"We started in business on the assumption that hamburger and French fries are without question the single most popular restaurant order in America today. We sought a way to deliver that order most efficiently at the lowest possible price. And by careful planning, by being a master of doing just one thing only, we have been able to beat inflation," Kroc concludes.

The president of the McDonald's chain, which has drive-ins in 29 states and has an eventual goal of 1,000 units throughout the country, believes that inflation is one of the greatest threats facing America. Inflation has ruined many of the historic nations of the world," he observes. "Americans can be free of this threat if we will buckle down and learn to be more efficient, so that we can give each other more of better quality for our money."

G. Taggart Evans Reports Decrease Of TB For State

Tuberculosis statistics for 1959 reveal that both new cases uncovered and the number of deaths resulting from the disease, according to G. Taggart Evans of Newark, executive secretary of the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

Figures compiled by the State Board of Health reveal that a total of 162 new cases of TB were found in Delaware last year compared to 172 the previous year—but five more than the total for 1957.

Deaths from tuberculosis totalled 21 in 1959, a decrease from the 1958 total of 38.

At present there are 572 cases of tuberculosis listed on the register, a decrease from the number on file on March 31, 1959, when 595 cases were listed.

An estimated 150 cases of active Delaware tuberculosis exist undiscovered in the state was led last year by the mobile unit teams which took a total of 59,575 small x-ray films. Of this number, 4,125 were taken in migrant labor camps.

Real Fishing

In contrast, Marty Inden had some real fishing on a recent Sunday out of Atlantic City aboard his brother Ed's "Wilco," Marty, with Ed, Ruth, and son Arthur Inden, lured eight tuna in some offshore trolling, and the eight tuna filled the fish box.

"We had four lines out, and had three tuna on at one time," Mr. Inden winced in not altogether happy reminiscence.

"Woodrow Beck, Biff Hopkins, Ted Jones, Cleaver Price, and John Smith really caught some fish out of Ocean City," Bubs Eubanks reported recently. "They caught a lot of blues—big ones—and a tuna."

Bubs said, "And Shorty Bearman had a field day with four tuna and a boatload of bluefish out of Ocean City, Md., too," Mr. Eubanks added.

"We should have been at Ocean—or Atlantic City. But even so, we might have been too late—or too early."

Monte Carlo won the Sussex last year and established a course record of 2:16 for the mile and three-eighths distance.

Other winners of the stake since it was switched to the turf course were Ireland's Hindu Festival in 1958; France's Rafty in 1957; and Australia's Prince Morvi in 1956.

Some of the best known American stakes campaigners eligible for the Sussex are Amber Morn, whose

New Honor For Women's Honor Society At University

Dean of Women Bessie B. Collins holds the telegram confirming admission of Tassel, honor society for senior coeds at the University of Delaware, to membership in Mortar Board, national women's honorary society.

Dear Irma Ayers (left) was responsible for organizing the local chapter 10 years ago. Two charter members of the Delaware chapter of Mortar Board are Mrs. Nancy W. Woodward (second from right) and Miss Army McNulty.

Kase, Pegg, Watson Honored At U. of D. For Contributions To Theatre Program

Three members of the department of dramatic arts and speech at the University of Delaware have been honored by student and alumni members of the E-52 Theatre for contributions to the university's theatre program.

At a recent banquet at the Glasgow Arms, Jane Lachno, president of the E-52 University Theatre, presented gifts to Dr. C. Robert Kase, department chairman, in recognition of 30 years' service; and to Asst. Professor Thomas B. Pegg and Technical Director Thomas Watson—both of whom are leaving the university this year.

Dr. Kase, who joined the English department faculty in 1930, was named director of theatre and of the Delaware Dramatic Center in 1936. The department of dramatic arts and speech was created in 1946, and he was responsible for the creation of the E-52 Theatre.

During World War II, from 1942 to 1945, Dr. Kase served in the Army as theatrical adviser to the Army's Caribbean department with headquarters in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

In 1945 and in 1947 Dr. Kase made lecture tours through southern and southwestern colleges and universities under the auspices of the Association of American Colleges.

President of the American Educational Theatre Conference in 1947, he has served on the board of directors of the Delaware Dramatic Association; on the advisory panel for theatre of UNESCO, and on the board of directors of the University Drama Group. He is a member of the Delaware Educational Television Association, Inc., vice-president in 1954-55 and later president.

In 1958, Dr. Kase was director of the E-52 touring company which traveled to the Far East to visit U. S. military bases.

Professor Pegg, a faculty member for 13 years, has been responsible for the direction of 25 major, and many one-act and experimental productions. He also directed the first television productions by the department's students on Channel 12.

A native of New York City, he holds a BS degree from Ohio State University and an MS from Columbia.

Mr. Watson, a member of the department since 1955, is leaving to complete work on his doctorate at Western Reserve University where he received his BA and MA de-

Women Pilots' Welcome Urged By J. Caleb Boggs

Citizens of the First State have been invited by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs to join in welcoming members of "The Ninety-Nines," an international organization of licensed women pilots, who will hold their annual convention in Wilmington, July 14-15, following completion of the 14th annual All-Women Transcontinental Air Race at the New Castle County Airport next Wednesday.

In a proclamation designating the period July 9 through 15 as "Women in Aviation Week" here in Delaware, the state's chief executive called attention to the fact that 1960 marks the first time that this transcontinental race has terminated in the First State.

gress. At Delaware he has handled the technical details for all major productions and his ingenuity and designs have been admired by the athletes.

Watson has directed several productions and toured with the 1960 Children's Theatre which presented "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" before more than 12,000 Delaware elementary school children.

Among the alumni at the dinner was R. Curtis Potts, of Baltimore, a member of the cast of the first E-52 production "Outward Bound."

Cholera Menaces Unvaccinated Pigs Shropshire Warns

Probably less than 10 per cent of the hogs in Delaware are vaccinated against cholera, according to John H. Shropshire, Extension livestock specialist with the University of Delaware. The other 90 per cent are getting away with no vaccination, but cholera can cause heavy losses against unvaccinated pigs—fast.

Swine growers all over the state should be especially watchful for signs of the disease, or better yet, have their pigs vaccinated against it immediately.

Shropshire believes the main reason so many growers do not vaccinate their pigs against hog cholera each year, as a matter of practice, is the time and expense involved.

A grower who gets by without an outbreak in his herd for a year or two is inclined to keep putting the vaccination program off.

If farmers will do their part, hog cholera can quickly and easily be eliminated as a threat to the industry. Shropshire said, "The present $40 million loss to growers are taking every year. Call your local veterinarian once if you suspect an outbreak of cholera in your own herd, and treatment may save your pigs."

NO. 1002

— Jon Edwards

A flattering variation on the newly important princess silhouette. Try this popular front-buttoning style in the sleeveless version, using white pique with brass buttons for Summer—with trim, elbow length sleeves in grey flannel with black braid and two fashion-wise detachable white linen collars for fall. The youthful lines of this dress are suitable for many fabrics and it is surprisingly easy to make.

Size 16 requires 5½ yards of 35" fabric; 4¼ yards of 40" fabric; 3½ yards of 50" fabric; and one-half yard of 33" fabric for either collar.

To order pattern No. 1002, please send 50 cents to The Hollywood Fashion Bureau of the Newark Post P. O. Box 2591 Hollywood 28, California.

Please PRINT PLAINLY: Size, name, address, and number of style.
