State's largest Memorial Day parade Sunday

Weekend of events honors all veterans

NEWARK'S 65th annual Memorial Parade, the largest in the state, begins with a ceremony on the University Mall at 1 p.m. on Sunday, May 21.

Over 80 marching units, representing all branches of service, veterans organizations, civil authorities, area schools and community organizations will participate.

The parade march begins at 2 p.m. and travels from South College Avenue to Academy Street along Main Street which will be closed to other traffic.

The 2000 parade will honor Korean War Veterans on the 50th anniversary of the outbreak of the Korean War (see related story this issue).

The late Loretta Ianni, Delaware's civilian aid to the Secretary of the Army also will be honored for her contribution to the armed forces in Delaware. Ianni, who died suddenly last October, served for nearly 40 years as Delaware coordinator for admissions to the US Military Academy at West Point.

As civilian Aide to the secretary of the Army, Ianni was involved with a wide variety of military and veterans activities. She will be represented by her brother, Major General (retired) Francis A. Ianni, former Adjutant General of the Delaware National Guard and also a Grand Marshall for the parade.

Other activities celebrating veterans this weekend include a Civil War encampment

DelDOT says road work will improve busy intersection

By JERRY RHODES

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

ONE of this region's busiest intersections is about to get a face lift from the folks at the Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT).

The area, where Rt. 2 (Kirkwood Highway) and Rt. 273 converge with Main Street is one of the most heavily traveled intersections in Newark, with backups not uncommon for drivers wishing to turn left onto Rt. 273 eastbound.

To make this a little easier, DelDOT is proposing to add a second left-hand turn lane from southbound Kirkwood Highway onto Rt. 273.

These plans were on display for community comment during a public workshop on Monday at the Newark High School cafeteria.

Parents hear about new charter school

By LAURA SANKOWICH

SCHOOLING that has traditionally been supported and funded by private businesses and organizations has evolved into a grass-roots movement to provide children a better education in the greater Newark area.

The Newark Charter School has grown from an idea to a reality. With the help of founding board members Tony Wexler, a University of Delaware professor, and parent, Joan O. Pierson, a parent and former teacher; Hal Godwin, the Mayor of Newark, Rep. Timothy Boulden and Sen. Steve Amick, the school is on its way to becoming an option for parents and their fifth through eighth grade students.

Although planning is in its infancy, the group has already obtained a charter from the state and is in the process of seeking out a location for the school and the funds to support it.

Charges pending after serious accident

On Friday, May 5, around 1:50 a.m., New Castle County Police responded to the intersection of Old County and Frazier roads and found a 1986 Cadillac Seville with substantial damage occupied by two subjects.

Police said an investigation revealed the operator James Finner, 23, of Wilmington lost control of the vehicle as it entered the intersection, then spun out and struck a tree.

Finner was transported to the Christiana Hospital where he was admitted for treatment for a fractured ankle and lacerations.

The passenger, Melissa Loller, 20, of South DuPont Road, was also hospitalized with lacerations and possible internal injuries.

Police said neither occupant was wearing a seat belt and alcohol was involved.

Charges were pending.

Cougar sighted on Red Lion Rd.

A motorist driving on Red Lion Road early May 4 reported to Delaware State Police that he saw, what appeared to be a cougar crossing the roadway. The sighting happened in the 1400 block of Red Lion Road around 3 a.m.

Police said the motorist caught a glimpse of the creature as it crossed the roadway and disappeared into the woods. The incident was not reported to state police until 8 a.m. when the driver called Troop 9, Odessa, from his destination in Chesapeake City, Md.

After the report, troopers responded to the scene and attempted to find any evidence of the animal being in the area. Additionally, the state police helicopter flew over the area with an infrared camera, in an attempt to locate the large cat in the underbrush. None was located.

Troopers are asking the residents in the area to immediately report any sightings or strange occurrences to the state police.

Arrest after 8-car hit and run

New Castle County Police arrested Kevin Pestaki, 27, and charged him with eight counts of leaving the scene of an accident, eight counts of failure to report an accident, driving under the influence of alcohol, and driving while revoked.

On Sunday morning, May 7, around 3:30 a.m., officers were summoned to the 100 block of Auckland Drive to investigate a hit-and-run injury accident.

Neighbors reported that the operator of the vehicle fled on foot but he was found and arrested within a few blocks of the scene.

An investigation revealed Pestaki turned into the development from Route 40 and struck a curb, losing the front right tire. The vehicle struck a telephone pole and a total of eight parked cars before coming to rest in the front yard of a residence.

Pa. man convicted in 10-year-old murder case

A Pennsylvania man was convicted of second-degree murder in the disappearance of a Newark man 10 years ago.

A Superior Court jury chose not to convict Christopher DeAngelo of first-degree murder for killing William Perez during a 1990 drug dispute, sparing him the possibility of the death penalty. DeAngelo faces a sentence of 12 to 40 years in prison.

The jury also convicted him of possession of a deadly weapon during a felony.

The body was never found, but prosecutors relied heavily on the eyewitness testimony of DeAngelo's ex-wife and friend.

Bowling fined $200, gets year of probation for theft of group funds

A FORMER candidate for the Newark City Council who filed ethics charges against his political rival was convicted last week of felony theft.

A Superior Court jury found Scott Bowling, 28, guilty of stealing more than $4,700 from the Abbotsford Homeowners Association in 1998 while he served as its president. Judge Jerome Herlihy ordered Bowling to pay $200 and serve one year of probation.

Bowling was arrested in January 1999 and within six months repaid the association more than $5,000 to replace the stolen money and cover the group's legal fees related to the theft.

Bowling still lives in Abbotsford.

While a leader of the civic group, in 1997 Bowling challenged then-Newark City

Councilmember Hal Godwin for the First District council seat. Prior to the April election, Bowling filed charges with the city's Ethics Committee claiming that Godwin's use of a city facsimile machine number on campaign stationery violated ethics codes. The panel determined that Godwin's action was an "inadvertent" violation. Bowling lost the election 506-243.

Three months later, Bowling filed another ethics complaint against Godwin. The ethics board cleared Godwin of any wrongdoing.

In the spring of 1998, after Godwin was elected Newark's mayor, Bowling ran for city council a second time. Of the 1,027 votes cast in the 1998 election, Bowling received just 59, losing to John Farrell.

Teen charged in Fox Run assault

New Castle County Police arrested a 17-year-old Wisconsin man and charged him with attempted robbery and underage consumption of alcohol on May 6.

The investigation revealed a 15-year-old male was walking home around 11:20 p.m. along Fox Run Drive, Bear, when a suspect approached and attempted to steal money from the victim.

The attacker was "armed" with two beer bottles, police said.

A neighbor observed the incident and shouted at the suspect. The neighbor notified a Fox Run security officer, who detained the suspect until police arrived.

The suspect, who resides in Milwaukee, was arrested and charged with the offenses.

Chimes brings message of hope

By SHARON R. COLE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

FOR MANY of us, employment is a basic fact of life we take for granted, providing a source of income, as well as a sense of pride and accomplishment.

But, for some people, being able to contribute to the workforce is a way to overcome limitations and strive for full independence.

Through Chimes Delaware, adults with autism, mental retardation and other disabilities receive employment training that allows them to work at a job site or at Chimes Industries.

"Some of our people work with a mobile crew at a specific location along with job coaches, who supervise them," explained Chimes marketing director James Kristof.

At the Embassy Suites of Newark a work crew from Chimes is responsible for folding bed sheets and making beds in housekeeping services.

Others employed in a supported employment program include office workers, mail clerks, stock persons, grocery baggers and janitors on site. Shoprite, University of Delaware dining services, Rainbow Records, and Bennigans Restaurant are some businesses in the tri-state area using Chimes workers at their sites.

The workers at Chimes also provide their services as subcontractors. Companies such as W.L. Gore, Pyramid Consultants and the International Reading Association have products assembled at Chimes' work centers in Newark and Millsboro.

Job coaches and workers package Gore dental floss mailers or put together cardboard display boxes in addition to numerous other contracts.

And, if you've ever wondered who assembled the clear plastic bubble around gumball machine prizes, the answer is Chimes Industries.

Along with the responsibility of work comes the reward of a paycheck. "In some cases paychecks are issued through Chimes, but there are many businesses that have people from Chimes on their own payroll," said Kristof. "For instance, MBNA and several other companies pay them directly."

Kristof said companies that have business relations with Chimes are grateful. "They recognize their dedication," said

Kristof. "Newark's Parks and Recreation have given special recognition to their Chimes' people through a letter of appreciation."

The Chimes organization was founded in 1947 by a group of Baltimore, Md., parents who were dissatisfied by the lack of educational opportunities available for their mentally retarded children.

With a belief that every person has the right to reach their highest potential, they borrowed space in a church and opened The School of the Chimes. The title reflects the message of hope the parents heard in the church's bells.

Chimes Delaware, a non-sectarian, not-for-profit agency, was established in March 1994. Since then Chimes in Delaware has gone from serving 45 adults with disabilities to about 100. Kristof said Chimes continues to look for new employees and businesses who want to work in such a rewarding environment.

For information about Chimes services, call 452-3400 or stop in at their office located in the Interchange Industrial Park off of Elkton Road at 514 Interchange Blvd., Newark, DE.

at White Clay Creek State Park tomorrow. Civil War re-enactors will be available to explain how soldiers survived that bloody conflict. Tomorrow evening a free concert featuring the 287th Army Band, Delaware National Guard, will be held behind the Academy Building.

Beginning at 11 a.m. on Sunday in the parking lot of the Newark Shopping Center, veterans organizations will display military equipment, both current and vintage, and answer questions about veterans benefits.

At 1 p.m. sharp, the ceremony honoring Newark's fallen veterans starts on the Mall with the massing of the colors, a review of the troops by Gov. Thomas Carper, and a rifle salute to fallen comrades.

A special feature this year will be a performance by the U.S. Navy Drill Team from Washington, D.C., in front of the Academy Building at the conclusion of the parade.

Fifty years since start of Korean War, parade marshal is war vet

As part of the honors to Korean War veterans at this year's Newark Memorial Parade, Gene Rose, past state Commander of the Korean War Veterans Association, will be a Grand Marshal.

Rose served with the 14th Infantry Regiment, 25th Division in Korea where he saw combat in the "Punch Bowl", Heart Break Ridge, and Kumhwa Valley.

During the Korean War, the United States lost 54,000 military personnel and over 8,000 persons are still missing. Newark parade organizers believed it's important we remember those who sacrificed in what is often called the "forgotten" war.

Members of the local Korean community will also participate in parade activities.

Among the honored guests will be Lt. General (retired) William H. Duncan, U.S. Army who is also a Korean War veteran.

Duncan, now a physician in the Wilmington area, will be sponsoring a Korean War seminar at the University of Delaware during June and July of this year.

Newarkers hear about charter school already spread through publicity, and the support of more than 900 parents who have already indicated interest in sending their children to the school.

Earlier this week, a second public forum was held at the Pilgrim Baptist Church on Barksdale Road to help the public become more aware about the goals of the Newark charter school.

Board member Pierson said, "The mission of the Newark Charter School is to provide a rigorous academic curriculum that promotes high levels of student effort and achievement."

Pierson explained that a charter school is a tuition-free public school that succeeds or fails based on their own merit.

"The charter school system is based on the philosophy that in the face of competition the school must excel to meet the educational needs of the community." The Newark Charter School philosophy will encompass family involvement, teacher participation, accountability, and a high level of student academic performance.

The program, as outlined in Pierson's presentation, will feature an academically challenging curriculum, high standards for behavior, continuity of a four-year curriculum located in the greater Newark area, and instruction based on student performance with regular progress reports. The program will include a project-driven curriculum that integrates the arts and community service and assessment strategies, in addition to the Delaware State Testing Program that will involve yearly achievement testing.

The school's curriculum will focus on the core subjects, which include math, reading language arts, science and social studies. Electives will be designed to explore special interests and instruction designed to meet the needs of students. Participation in community service projects will also be emphasized as well as daily physical activity. As required by the state, a foreign language will also be a part of the curriculum.

As a part of the parental involvement with the school, families will sign time commitment contracts to ensure the school functions successfully. Parents will help with the school. Teachers will also participate in the development of the school on multiple levels.

Pierson said the theme of the school is "excellence, academics, and decorum. Focus on academics, we want to exceed state standards."

"Unlike other charters, started by business or companies, this school is a grass-roots project started by parents. There will be a strong focus on family involvement."

"Everyone will be involved, this will be very important. Parents and teachers share in the decision process."

She said the school will offer an alternative within public school system. The school will have more autonomy than public schools because it will run itself; it will be run by the teachers and parents.

Pierson said the school would be based on choice. Parents chose to send their children, teachers choose to teach there.

The goal for the school's opening is September 2001, said Wexler, chairman of the founding board for the school. "We're working furiously on the building. It's the last roadblock to establishing the school," Wexler said. "We're also looking at several sites and modifying existing buildings."

Wexler also said, in response to one parent's concern over meals and transportation, that transportation will be free, provided by the school and that no full hot lunches will be served, but that there will be a meal program.

Wexler said that once the school is established, in its first year, the school would accommodate 400 students, grades 5-7. In the second year, the school will have 500 students grades 5 through 8 and 600, the school's capacity, the third year it is established.

Wexler said the target class sizes are 150 students per grade with approximately 25 kids per class.

Parents Carol and Joe Schreiber, whose daughter Sarah attends first grade in the Christina school district, said they were enthusiastic about the Newark Charter School. "I attended this meeting tonight because I want to get my daughter in there. I want to do all I can to get Sarah in, it sounds wonderful."

Carol said she thought that four years in one school would be great for her daughter, and she approved of the curriculum.

"I have worked in the public school system for years now," she said, "and I have seen how they are the good and the bad. I also like the idea of the parental involvement in the school."

Joe Schreiber said he likes the school because, "They talk more about academics, and other schools don't talk about it as much."

Another parent in attendance at the meeting, Randi Kellman, said she came to the meeting to hear more about the charter school program. "I like the parent involvement," she said. "I think that's great that the curriculum is determined by parents and teachers."

"I'm glad I came and heard about the school."

Kellman said that while she supports the school and will become involved in the volunteer committee for the proposed school, she said she thinks that there is still work to be done before the school will be ready to receive students.

University's MBA program a 'rising star'

The American Universities Admission Program (AUAP) has identified the University of Delaware MBA program as a "rising star" in its rankings of the best MBA programs for international students.

According to AUAP, UD's average GMAT score "is rising faster than Wall Street (654 this year). This public institution is funded by corporations like DuPont and MBNA which have their headquarters in the state, known as a U.S. "mini-tax heaven."

UD's MBA program in the College of Business and Economics is an accredited program offering students the choice of concentrations in a variety of areas, ranging from finance and information technology to museum leadership and accounting and marketing. It offers full- and part-time programs, as well as an Executive MBA program designed for business leaders.

AUAP is the largest educational consultant organization in the world and each year establishes a list of top business programs for foreign students. Curriculum, practicality, admissions and preparation for an international career are the main selection criteria.

Among the top U.S. business schools in the 2000 AUAP rankings are Harvard University, University of Pennsylvania (Wharton), Stanford University, Northwestern University (Kellogg), University of Chicago and Columbia University.

Other AUAP national rankings are in such specialty areas as international business, e-commerce, entrepreneurship, marketing and MBA for top executives.

Work should begin in Spring 2001

► PROJECT, from 1

day cross this intersection," said Kevin Canning, assistant road design engineer. "We are hoping to make traffic flow in the area a little easier."

Another part of the project designed to improve traffic flow is the addition of a right-hand turn lane from eastbound Rt. 273 to provide access to the Newark post office and the state's Hudson Service Center.

Further improvements include a slight narrowing of Old Capitol Trail, which runs parallel to McDonald's and the Shinn paint store.

The number of accidents in the area where Old Capitol Trail merges into Main Street prompted the DelDOT action.

"DelDOT has a highway safety improvement program, where we review traffic accident data," Canning said. "We look at all the details to determine what can be done to help the situation."

Canning said that some solutions require minimum efforts, like new road lane markings, signs and lighting.

Other projects, like the proposed changes to the Rt. 2 and Rt. 273 intersection, are more involved, requiring right-of-way acquisitions and landscape renovations.

"We were going to narrow the Capitol Trail section, but business owners pointed out the need for access for trucks making deliveries," Canning said. "Instead, we are cutting a bit into some landscaped areas and providing turning access to the businesses."

DelDOT engineers based their plans on surveys taken at peak hours such as the morning rush between 7 and 9 a.m., and heavy afternoon traffic between 3 and 6 p.m.

Noting the considerable number of folks who eat lunch away from their places of employment, planners also studied data from the 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. time period.

Original plans called for a stop sign to be placed at the Old Capitol Trail and Main Street intersection, but designers decided instead to make that a merge area.

"We are hoping this will get traffic flowing smoothly in the area," said Linda Oslecki, DelDOT design engineer. "By narrowing Old Capitol Trail we hope to slow traffic down and make merging a safe proposition."

To provide the second turn lane from the Kirkwood Highway onto Rt. 273, plans call for removing some landscaped area and for changing the sidewalk near the Newark Free Library parking lot.

Library Avenue (Rt. 72), is also due for some major renovations in the form of a complete repaving due to the deterioration of the road surface area.

The repaving, which will be done in conjunction with the traffic circle project, calls for complete removal of the existing road and installation of a new hot-mix surface.

The area to be repaved runs from Kensington Lane, just past the Wawa store at Rt. 4 and Rt.

72, up to the intersection of Rt. 273 and the Kirkwood Highway.

While no tentative date has been set, planners would like to begin work during the next construction season, which would be between mid-April and late May 2001.

"We try to target most of our work for those months, when traffic is at a minimum," said James Satterfield, supervising engineer in road design. "About 25,000 vehicles use this road daily, so the priority here is to keep traffic flowing while work is being done."

The DelDOT workshops are held to make plans available to the community and each workshop is followed by a three-day period for public input and suggestion.

"If someone comes to us early with viable suggestions, we sometimes incorporate those recommendations into our final plans," Oslecki said. "What we really ask for once a project begins is that the public be patient as we try to get the work finished."

Martin Honda, Little League host Safety Awareness Day

Honda and Little League Baseball are teaming up to teach Newark families how to stay safe during the third annual Child Safety Awareness Day on Saturday, May 20 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Each year, more than 1 million children are injured or killed in preventable household, traffic and recreational accidents. Traffic accidents alone account for more than 700,000 of these injuries or deaths.

In conjunction with its ongoing sponsorship of Little League Baseball, American Honda and nearly 500 of its dealers nationwide, including Martin Honda is located at 289 East Cleveland Ave. in Newark, will work to reduce these numbers' through education.

Families will receive "photo passports" of their children, courtesy of Polaroid's Project KidCare. The passports provide parents with current information, physical description and photo identification of their children - information that is imperative to the search and recovery of missing children.

At many Honda dealerships, parents will be instructed on the proper installation of child safety seats, while kids enjoy amateur demonstrations by the International Inline Skating Association.

Several locations will also feature educational displays and safety instruction from community-based organizations, like local police and fire departments.

Dealerships will showcase Safety First, an instructional video produced by Little League Baseball. The video features former Major League Baseball stars Steve Garvey and Steve Lyons and teaches the basics of the game, pointers on getting to the game safely and tips on avoiding injuries.

Little League players will assist at various Child Safety Awareness Day events by passing out safety literature and helping with logistics.

It was a very good year

FOR a number of years, this newspaper used this space to call for the creation of a new committee that would guide the evolution of Newark's downtown. Like the leaders of the now-defunct Newark Business Association and others concerned about the future of our fast-changing Main Street area, we believed it was vitally important to bring the three stakeholders – the City of Newark, the University of Delaware and the business community – to one table. There they could work cooperatively to chart a course for this vibrant and valuable community asset.

The first important step came when City Manager Carl Luft threw his full support to the concept. Next, the Newark City Council created the Downtown Newark Partnership. UD president David P. Roselle signed the university on, joined the DNP board and, like the city, committed significant UD funds to the work of the Partnership.

Last week, the DNP hosted its annual public forum, where its accomplishments of the past year were reported and work plans for the immediate future were reviewed.

In its last days, the Newark Business Association had dwindled to a small group of volunteers. Today, the DNP boasts a policy-making board and five active committees, involving nearly one hundred persons.

This growing pool of volunteer talent has tallied an impressive record. From the printing of 150,000 copies of Downtown Directory, to colorful street banners and vandal-resistant trash cans, to creation of a "Guide To Starting A Business In Newark," to considerable parking lot improvements, there is tangible evidence that Luft, the council and Dr. Roselle acted wisely. The potential of the DNP's positive effect on the city grows as new ideas are floated, nagging problems attacked and more people get involved.

One final note: Much of the DNP success can be attributed to the enthusiastic, skilled, diplomatic leadership of Maureen Feeney Roser. Luft and planning director Roy Lopata put the right person in the right place when they assigned her as the key staff city staff person to support the DNP.

Feel the breeze, celebrate Bike Month

By BILL BOYD

NEWARK POST GUEST COLUMNIST

THE MONTH OF MAY usually has many days which are warm and pleasant; these are the kind of days when it's a real joy to feel the breeze as you propel yourself along the road or along a path.

That's probably why the League of American Bicyclists chose to designate May as Bike Month. The Delaware Bike Council follows their lead by proclaiming May as Bike Month in Delaware.

This year, there will be several opportunities to experience the joys that are made possible by our favorite machine.

A certified Effective Cycling Road I course for instruction on techniques used by experienced cyclists on the road will be held in New Castle County on Thursday, May 25. For information, call 529-7929.

The Legislator's Ride to Work started at Delcastle Recreation Center at 6:30 a.m. on Wednesday, May 10. The destination of the ride was Dover, where Governor Thomas Carper signed the official proclamation declaring May to be Bike Month.

State officials such as Gov. Carper and Secretary of Transportation Anne Canby have joined in this ride past years.

Why not combine exercise with your commute to work by bicycling to work sometime during Bike-to-Work Week, May 14 through 20?

For trips of five miles or so, bicycling can be a very viable alternative to getting into the motor vehicle and burning the fossil fuel.

Even longer commutes are possible with consistent conditioning. If you know someone who has a similar commute route, invite them to join you.

On Sunday, May 21, Bicycle Day at Bellevue State Park will afford opportunities to ride on the greenway and trails there. This event should be fun for the entire family. There is also a possibility that the new Cauffiel connector road may be closed to motor vehicle traffic during this event.

On Saturday, May 20, the Horseshoe Crab Ride will take place.

Going from Dover to Bowers Beach and back, this ride will give you an opportunity to explore bicycling opportunities south of the C&D Canal.

For more information, check the Bicycle Council website.

Don't forget to take advantage of the rides throughout the month that are listed on the Rides Calendar. We're inviting the public to participate in the Tuesday evening rides, the Wednesday evening rides, and the Saturday MS training rides.

Finally, what could be a more thrilling way to end Bike Month 2000 than to go to Wilmington to see professional bicycle racers competing for a $15,000 purse? The First Union Wilmington Classic stage of a six-stage race will be taking place on Wednesday, May 31.

In whatever way you enjoy bicycling, please take an opportunity to join us in celebrating Bike Month 2000. For more information these May cycling events, call 302-760-2453 in Dover or see the Bicycle Council website at www.deldot.net/bike/.

In the 1940s, Bing's Bakery operated near M.S. Dale Jeweler's in the old Fader's Bakery location, now a Charcoal Pit restaurant. May 20, 1925 Mothers gather a feature of W.C. May Day

A large number of mothers of members of the Freshman Class of Women's College availed themselves of Dean Robinson's invitation and were the guests of the College last Saturday for a conference luncheon, May Day Fete and the Home Economics Plays.

The conference, which convened at eleven o'clock, was attended by the mothers and their daughters in a group.

The mothers were not only interested, but enthusiastic over the work and future of Women's College.

Plans for preservation of Academy building

The first move destined to affect the future of the famous old Newark Academy building was made when it was suggested that the building be turned into a community center, for the use of both townspeople and tourists passing through.

The Mayor referred to it as "probably the only building in the United States where three signers of the Declaration of Independence were educated."

Mayor Frazer's estimate placed the cost of restoring and equipping the old building at $5,000. Other estimates made by members of the Chamber are generally higher. Some place it at $10,000.

May 23, 1978 Busing planners focus on students' safety

Safety will be the primary concern of the people responsible for busing some 23,000 New Castle County students to their new schools in September.

State Superintendent of School Transportation Leon Hart said that the thrust of upgrading bus transportation has been state-wide, and will continue to be so.

According to Hart, no new regulations are anticipated to deal with the added busing load in New Castle County in September.

Will rising costs force plan Omega reappraisal?

Despite last month's court victory for the Wilmington Medical Center's Plan Omega, the prospect of a hospital for southwest New Castle County is still as remote as a desert mirage.

When it formally announced Omega in the spring of 1976, the medical center put a $73.5 million price tag on the project. Later, medical center officials conceded that delays in getting started had run the cost higher than $80 million. Now, amounts as high as $110 million to $120 million are being bandied about by Omega planners, informed health industry sources report.

"They now run $22 million higher than their last estimate of $88 million," one source said.

May 19, 1995 'Special' training center opens here

Delaware Special Olympics dedicated its new Program and Training Center today on land leased from the University of Delaware adjacent to the Delaware Field House.

The 4600 square-foot building will be used to train volunteers for coaching Special Olympians and running the organization's athletic events.

The new center will be the organization's headquarters in Delaware with five paid staff people.

Newark gears up for trucks?

The rumor mill is pointing toward Newark as the location for a new truck line for Chrysler Corp.

The Wall Street Journal reported this week that the plant is the likely candidate for a new sport-utility truck line that would carry the Dodge name.

Chrysler officials continued to decline comment on the matter, but earlier indicated that the plant is being studied as the location for a new vehicle.

Major projects 20 years (or more) away

By DOUG RAINEY

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE BIG PROJECTS on Route 40 will not occur in the first phase of the 2000 to 2020 plan for the busy highway.

Instead, the proposed Phase 1 will account for only $80 million of the $350 million in improvements. The $80 million will be used to unclog crowded intersections, transit improvements and efforts to make life easier for pedestrians.

In all, $68 million is proposed for use in pedestrian and bicycle improvements between now and 2020.

The plan was outlined earlier this month in a public workshop attended by 150 people.

The thinking of the steering committee is that putting too much increased capacity too quickly on Route 40 will simply bring more traffic to the area.

At the same time, design work will get under way on Phases 2 and three of the project to avoid problems in acquiring right of way. Also, projects could be moved up on the list, if traffic increases beyond projections.

Already, accidents and holiday traffic on I-95 can bring a surge in traffic on the four-lane highway to south. With no plan in place for Route 301, which passes through the Route 40 corridor, many questions remain on how traffic will flow from the rapidly growing Middletown-Odessa and Townsend areas.

The slower approach does not sit well with some residents who want to get to their jobs or shopping centers as quickly as possible.

Mark Tudor, Route 40 project manager for DelDOT, concedes that views of those using the highway run the gamut from converting it to a city street to making it a superhighway.

The plan slated for final review this summer calls for an interchange on Route 1 and Newtown Road, adjacent to the proposed First USA office complex.

Tudor said the work will continue regardless of whether First USA — currently undergoing a review of its credit card business — moves ahead with the complex. Traffic is already heavy in the area and someone is likely to build offices at the site even if it isn't First USA, Tudor said. A decision from First USA on the site is expected in the near future.

The interchange is one of a number of plans to relieve pressure at the crowded confluence of Routes 1, 40, 7 and Walther Road.

Also, a connector road will be built from the Eden Square Shopping Center to Route 7 as a way to reduce tie-ups from a traffic light that allows left-hand turns on to Route 40 from Eden Square. The light helps bring near gridlock conditions on Route 40 during evening rush hours.

Lanes will also be added out of the Glendale Plaza and Governor's Square Shopping Centers, just to the west of Eden Square.

Also getting a high priority is Walther Road, just west of Governor's Square. Long lines are frequent at rush hour, since the road connects Old Baltimore Pike with Route 40. Like the shopping center areas, Walther will get an extra lane.

Extra lanes are also on tap at Route 40 and Route 72, a key intersection adjacent to the Fox Run Shopping Center.

Church Road, near the new Leasure School will see a bike lane and reconstruction.

Pedestrians and bicyclists will also get relief in the first phase.

Sidewalks, which physically separate pedestrians and bicyclists from the highway are planned for:

■ Route 40 from Route 72 to Church Road near the Leasure school and to Route Route 1.

■ Old Baltimore Pike from Route 72 to Route 273.

Sidewalks and bike lanes are planned from:

■ Route 72 and 40 to Route 71.

■ Walther Road from Old Baltimore Pike to Route 40.

■ Bike lanes on Porter Road from Route 896 to 40.

■ Sidewalks on Wilton Road near the Wal Mart store.

Transit is also a big part of the package. In addition to a major increase in bus service along Route 40, something known as Route deviation will be attempted.

By phoning in requests, a bus could deviate its route and pick up passengers in subdivisions, if sufficient demand exists.

The concept, while new, would address the problem of many residents of the area living too far away from bus routes.

Also, another bus route would wind through some neighborhoods.

DART has also proposed building a mid-county facility that would service buses and improve reliability of service.

More park and ride facilities that would allow commuters to use buses as well as easier access to bus stops are in the plans.

Brave bus riders must now stand perilously close to traffic at many stops along Route 40.

Newarkers in concert Saturday in Wilmington

Several Newark residents will be singing with the Madrigal Singers of Wilmington when they present "Music of the Human Spirit" at 8 p.m., this Saturday, May 20, at First and Central Presbyterian Church, on Rodney Square, in Wilmington.

Bill and Barbara Tilton, Silverbrook residents, have been members of the group for nearly 15 years.

Doug Smith, who sings tenor, is one of the newer members. Wayne Fish has been a member for several years.

The group rehearses every week.

Tickets, at $10 and $5 (seniors/students), will be available at the door.

Make it a safe food summer

By KATHLEEN SPLANE

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

A few years ago an elderly gentleman approached one of our Extension educators upon the completion of her food safety presentation. She had been discussing methods of handling food that would prevent foodborne illness.

He mentioned that growing up his family experienced something they called "summer dysentery". Now after hearing her presentation he thinks it's much more likely that the family was feeling the effects of unsafe food handling procedures.

With the arrival of warmer weather comes cookouts and picnics. Along with that comes more opportunities for food borne illness. The danger zone for bacterial growth is between 40 and 140 degrees Fahrenheit. This is the temperature range at which bacteria grow and multiply rapidly causing symptoms such as stomach cramps, vomiting and diarrhea. What a way to ruin a picnic!

There are three basic concepts to remember when it comes to keeping your family safe from a foodborne outbreak. Keep hot food hot, cold food cold and keep all food clean. Perishable food left in the danger zone for more than two hours is unsafe to eat. Left in temperatures above 90 degrees, the safe time frame goes down to 1 hour.

Keeping hot food above 140 degrees means making sure that the burgers and chicken are consumed right off the grill and not left sitting on the buffet table for the rest of the night. Keeping hot foods hot also means making sure food is cooked thoroughly.

Hamburgers should be cooked until there is no pink in the middle. Check the chicken to make sure the juices from the meat are clear. Since barbecuing chicken takes so long some people like to boil pieces first before putting them on the grill to get the char-broiled flavor. This is safe if the chicken is taken immediately from the boiling water and placed on the hot grill. If it's left in the pot all afternoon the meat is spending too much time in the danger zone.

Keeping cold foods cold on hot summer days can be quite a challenge. Many smart shoppers have been known to carry coolers filled with ice when going grocery shopping.

This is especially a good idea if you are travelling a great distance to shop at a warehouse grocery store. When taking food to a party,

Kids can follow the yellow brick road at hospital

Special to the Newark Post

Children at the Gait Lab at Alfred I. duPont Hospital for Children can literally follow the yellow brick road to better health.

Some University of Delaware students and alumni painted a brilliant mural of a scene from "The Wizard of Oz" on a once blank wall in the lab. They also painted bricks on a winding path of yellow linoleum to disguise floor sensors that children must walk over to have their gait patterns measured.

Patrick Castagno, biomechanist and manager of the lab, was concerned that many of the young patients brought in to have their gait analyzed would be apprehensive or change the way they walked when they noticed the sensors.

"We work with children who have difficulty walking for one reason or another," Castagno said. "We're a diagnostic laboratory with computerized instrumentation that enables us to very precisely analyze a child's gait pattern. We supply this information to our orthopedic surgeons, physical therapists and others who determine corrective action for these walking problems."

During walking, the floor sensors measure the pressure dynamically distributed under the patient's feet while six high-speed video cameras mounted on the walls are measuring the motion of the joints, and radio-transmitted electromyographic equipment is used to measure the electrical activity of the child's leg muscles.

"Before we constructed the yellow brick road, the two foot square pressure mat on the floor was very visible to a child," he said. "In fact, children would notice the mat and try to step over it or change the way they walk. In order to capture accurate pressure information, we had to make it so the child would not notice the mat on the floor."

Castagno said he always loved the movie of

"The Wizard of Oz," and started thinking about the yellow brick road. Continuing the road into a mural at the end of the room seemed like a natural idea.

Castagno chose his own favorite scene from the classic Judy Garland movie and had University of Delaware students Brian Meulener, a senior illustration major from Little Silver, N.J., and Mark O'Dell, a junior visual communications major from Baltimore, sketch out their ideas for the scene outside the witch's cottage where the apple trees start to talk and throw their fruit at Dorothy and her traveling companions.

He rented the movie and froze that particular spot for Meulener and O'Dell to study. Their final sketch was projected on the wall and each painted in a portion of the scene which ended up taking more than 100 hours during the University's Winter Session in January.

Each student started painting from opposite ends of the wall, although their schedules rarely allowed them to work together. O'Dell worked steadily from 1-5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and said he enjoyed eating dinner at the hospital. Meulener worked late at night sometimes into the wee hours of the morning and on weekends. The artists communicated by leaving each other notes.

As the yellow brick road winds through the trees in the mural, it also projects out onto the floor of the lab where University of Delaware graduate student Scott Coleman, who works at the lab, helped Castagno design and paint bricks on the linoleum road.

NEWARK OUTLOOK

Make it a safe food summer

By KATHLEEN SPLANE

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

A few years ago an elderly gentleman approached one of our Extension educators upon the completion of her food safety presentation. She had been discussing methods of handling food that would prevent foodborne illness.

He mentioned that growing up his family experienced something they called "summer dysentery". Now after hearing her presentation he thinks it's much more likely that the family was feeling the effects of unsafe food handling procedures.

With the arrival of warmer weather comes cookouts and picnics. Along with that comes more opportunities for food borne illness. The danger zone for bacterial growth is between 40 and 140 degrees Fahrenheit. This is the temperature range at which bacteria grow and multiply rapidly causing symptoms such as stomach cramps, vomiting and diarrhea. What a way to ruin a picnic!

There are three basic concepts to remember when it comes to keeping your family safe from a foodborne outbreak. Keep hot food hot, cold food cold and keep all food clean. Perishable food left in the danger zone for more than two hours is unsafe to eat. Left in temperatures above 90 degrees, the safe time frame goes down to 1 hour.

Keeping hot food above 140 degrees means making sure that the burgers and chicken are consumed right off the grill and not left sitting on the buffet table for the rest of the night. Keeping hot foods hot also means making sure food is cooked thoroughly.

Hamburgers should be cooked until there is no pink in the middle. Check the chicken to make sure the juices from the meat are clear. Since barbecuing chicken takes so long some people like to boil pieces first before putting them on the grill to get the char-broiled flavor. This is safe if the chicken is taken immediately from the boiling water and placed on the hot grill. If it's left in the pot all afternoon the meat is spending too much time in the danger zone.

Keeping cold foods cold on hot summer days can be quite a challenge. Many smart shoppers have been known to carry coolers filled with ice when going grocery shopping.

This is especially a good idea if you are travelling a great distance to shop at a warehouse grocery store. When taking food to a party,

Kids can follow the yellow brick road at hospital

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Special to the Newark Post

Children at the Gait Lab at Alfred I. duPont Hospital for Children can literally follow the yellow brick road to better health.

Some University of Delaware students and alumni painted a brilliant mural of a scene from "The Wizard of Oz" on a once blank wall in the lab. They also painted bricks on a winding path of yellow linoleum to disguise floor sensors that children must walk over to have their gait patterns measured.

Patrick Castagno, biomechanist and manager of the lab, was concerned that many of the young patients brought in to have their gait analyzed would be apprehensive or change the way they walked when they noticed the sensors.

"We work with children who have difficulty walking for one reason or another," Castagno said. "We're a diagnostic laboratory with computerized instrumentation that enables us to very precisely analyze a child's gait pattern. We supply this information to our orthopedic surgeons, physical therapists and others who determine corrective action for these walking problems."

During walking, the floor sensors measure the pressure dynamically distributed under the patient's feet while six high-speed video cameras mounted on the walls are measuring the motion of the joints, and radio-transmitted electromyographic equipment is used to measure the electrical activity of the child's leg muscles.

"Before we constructed the yellow brick road, the two foot square pressure mat on the floor was very visible to a child," he said. "In fact, children would notice the mat and try to step over it or change the way they walk. In order to capture accurate pressure information, we had to make it so the child would not notice the mat on the floor."

Castagno said he always loved the movie of

"The Wizard of Oz," and started thinking about the yellow brick road. Continuing the road into a mural at the end of the room seemed like a natural idea.

Castagno chose his own favorite scene from the classic Judy Garland movie and had University of Delaware students Brian Meulener, a senior illustration major from Little Silver, N.J., and Mark O'Dell, a junior visual communications major from Baltimore, sketch out their ideas for the scene outside the witch's cottage where the apple trees start to talk and throw their fruit at Dorothy and her traveling companions.

He rented the movie and froze that particular spot for Meulener and O'Dell to study. Their final sketch was projected on the wall and each painted in a portion of the scene which ended up taking more than 100 hours during the University's Winter Session in January.

Each student started painting from opposite ends of the wall, although their schedules rarely allowed them to work together. O'Dell worked steadily from 1-5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and said he enjoyed eating dinner at the hospital. Meulener worked late at night sometimes into the wee hours of the morning and on weekends. The artists communicated by leaving each other notes.

As the yellow brick road winds through the trees in the mural, it also projects out onto the floor of the lab where University of Delaware graduate student Scott Coleman, who works at the lab, helped Castagno design and paint bricks on the linoleum road.

"Before, this was pretty much an empty room with big stuffed animals," Castagno said. "These guys have worked incredibly hard and really brought this lab to life. Children will enjoy coming to the Gait Lab for many years to come."

Her world is children, music and puppets

By WENDY RUSS

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Ask Lois Young to describe one of the puppets she uses in her performances for children and she might say, "Well, Edgar the Elephant is a purple elephant with long skinny legs and enormous red sneakers, and when he sneezes his pants fall down." Or she might explain, "Riley Rabbit is a giant rabbit that sings about the Bunny Be-Bop, which is a dance that bunnies do at night when no one's watching."

Young's natural enthusiasm, humor, and sense of fun shine through in her performances, which combine puppetry, theatrical elements, and music. She writes all her own songs, and her husband John Southard creates the musical arrangements.

Young performs throughout the Delaware Valley a few hundred times a year. She and Southard also have recorded two CD's, "Pancake Party" and "Dinosaur Diner," which have both won Parents Choice awards. Young is currently working on a new recording project, tentatively titled "Jelly Bean Soup," which contains 15 new songs.

Her own children, Amy, 18, and Matthew, 7, have inspired many of her songs.

"When I started writing songs for my daughter, I realized that was my calling – that's what I wanted to do," she said. "I took a real turn in my career. Sometimes that's how you find out what you really want to do."

Young's career in the entertainment industry has included stage and television acting, musicals, and more than 50 national commercials.

Born and raised in Newark where she attended high school, Young lived in New York and Los Angeles for 25 years before moving back to Delaware seven years ago.

She attended the Manhattan School of Music, where she majored in opera and studied acting at The Neighborhood Playhouse. In Los Angeles she created a performance for children called "The Lois Young Show" and developed an enormous following on the West coast. The show was voted the Best in Children's Theater by The Los Angeles Times.

She returned to Newark to be closer to family and because she wanted to raise her children here. "When I came back I wanted to get back to what I loved doing – performing for children," she said. "I feel very gratified to give voice to children's thoughts and their feelings. I take great care to make the songs specifically appropriate for children and their experiences."

Performing for children has other special rewards, according to Young. "Children can enter into any imaginary world I want to take them into," she explained. "And kids are so great – they just come up (after a performance) and throw their arms around me!"

Although Young is enthusiastic about performing, she said her first love is songwriting. She is looking for a new label for her recordings, but also markets them through her website at www.loisyoung.com and at performances. Her CD's are available locally at Rainbow Books and Music.

On April 30, Young performed "The Tree Song" on the lawn of the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C., as part of a tree dedication ceremony. Future appearances include the Second Annual Sounds of Summer Festival on the deck at Kahunaville in Wilmington tomorrow; Newark Nite on June 3; and Newark's Liberty Day Celebration on July 4 at White Clay Creek State Park.

Be sure raw meat juice and meat marinades that have already been used don't come in contact with foods that will be eaten raw. After the chicken and burgers are done on the grill make sure they are brought to the table on a clean

Open Letter To Residents Of Newark

Friends of Triangle Liquors
Reader

I E.C. "Butch" Reader, have owned and operated Triangle Liquors, 104 N. Chapel St. for 25 years. As many of you know I lost my lease the end of February. I have applied to move the license 700' north to, "The Mill at White Clay".

The City Council, thru the city solicitor, Roger Akin, has strongly protested the move. Mr. Akin states The Council, representing the entire constituency of Newark, has substantial objections to the move.

I would like to ask the residents of Newark to support my move by mailing or faxing a note or letter to me.

Thank You,
E.C. "Butch" Reader

Water conditions continue to improve in Delaware-Maryland region

Continued normal precipitation in March helped to replenish ground-water levels and reservoir supplies in the Maryland-Delaware-D.C. region, according to hydrologists at the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) in Baltimore.

However, improved water-supply conditions will be sustained only if precipitation remains near normal in the coming months. Ground-water levels at the end of March have increased throughout most of the area and are in the normal range throughout the entire bi-state area. Contents of the Baltimore reservoir system increased from 65.8 billion gallons in February to 74.9 billion gallons near the end of March, which was 95 percent of average and 106 percent of last year at this time.

Flow of 91.4 billion gallons per day into the Chesapeake Bay was 93 percent of the average for March of 98.2 billion gallons per day. In western Maryland and on the upper Potomac River streamflow has decreased but continues to remain in the normal range for the month of March.

In contrast, substantial increases in streamflow on the Eastern Shore has resulted in above-normal flows for this time of year.

HIGH SCHOOLS UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE • LEAGUES

BITS & PIECES

And the winner is...

By MARSHAL MANLOVE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

I said once before that I won't make predictions about who will win anything. But perhaps we all can speculate a little about who will win high school track and field titles this weekend.

First, what a great performance by Christiana at the county championships. Let's all take a moment and stand and clap for both the boy's and girl's teams.

Come on, even those of you who root for their competition can certainly appreciate the boy's upset win over Salesianum and Danielle Bailey's record setting day.

Now with all Division I teams present in the state championships, can either team bring home a title? Wow, with Dover and Caesar Rodney's girl's teams, it's going to be difficult, but Bailey scores at least 28 points if not 30 all by herself, so if she is healthy, and ShaRonda Johnson and Rachel Alley repeat wins from last week, they will be right in the mix.

The Dover Senators relay teams are brutal. They might very well win the 400, 800, and 1600 meter relays which Christiana needs to win. Give Salesianum the 3200 meter win now even with a sub or two, because that is simply their event.

Tough to speculate there.

In Division II, Ursuline looks to win its tenth consecutive championship. The race is for second place here, period. Hodgson will need to have their young squad blossom fully to wrestle a trophy away from Cape Henlopen.

The Silver Eagle boy's team will be favored to capture the title this year in Division II ending a two year streak by Tower Hill.

The schools are broken down into two divisions based on total school enrollment. The Ursuline streak is amazing because their whole upper school enrollment is roughly 200 students each year, and there are three other sports that draw athletes away.

Viking boy's and girl's teams take track titles

By MARSHAL MANLOVE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The heavily favored Salesianum track and field team played second fiddle to the Christiana boy's team in the 58th annual New Castle County Track and Field Championships.

Christiana scored 100 points to the Sals 78 with the full compliment of both teams present at the meet.

The Viking athletes were spread throughout the competition pulling in points from the sprints and field events to offset the powerful Salesianum distance teams.

In the shot put, Juniors Ken Gomez and Chris Cooper took second and third places respectively. Cooper's throw of 47-11 was five and a half feet farther than his qualifying toss which had been just the eighth best qualifying throw of all the competitors. Cooper picked up six team points with the third place finish.

qualifying throw and he also beat his years best toss of 47-5 with a 49-6.5.

Newark's Isaac Wolkowicz won the shot put with a throw of 51-8. It was his personal best throw and gave the third place Yellowjackets 10 team points.

"It was intense," said Wolkowicz. "It was the closest I've ever seen a shot put competition."

Jon Watson, Quinn Martin, Virgil Rush, and Andre McMillan won the 800 meter relay by nearly two seconds over William Penn, and three and a half seconds over the fourth place Sals.

Joe Dury combined with Martin, Rush, and McMillan to capture the 1600 meter relay over Sallies, who were second.

Watson also finished fourth in the 100 meter dash and finished second in the long jump to Newark's Jason Forbes. Watson jumped 21-5 to Forbes' 22-2.5.

McMillan was the 400 meter dash winner with Rush finishing third. McMillan also took home a fourth place medal for his efforts in the 200 meter dash.

Rush said, "This shows how much courage this team has. We had a lot of things go right for us today."

Christiana coach David Jones said "We had kids do the best they have done all year. I just told them to go and do the best they could out there today."

Viking girls edge Padua

Christiana's second place finish in the 1600 meter relay, the last event of the meet, pulled the Vikings from two points behind Padua to win the girl's championship.

Padua was led by Jenn Oakes and Nicole Wiley who scored an amazing 64 of Padua's 70 points in the meet.

Danielle Bailey broke two county meet records. She broke the 100 meter dash mark in the preliminary races with a 12.06, and set a new record in the 200 meter dash with a time of 24.28. She also defeated two-time champion, Tricia Taylor from Ursuline Academy, in the 400 meter dash.

ShaRonda Johnson a sophomore high jumper won her event clearing a height of 5'4". The mark was her personal best and qualified her for the nationals.

"I'm shocked," Johnson said upon learning that she could compete nationally. "(David Jones) came over and congratulated me and I couldn't believe it."

Johnson tried three times to clear 5-5 but had to be content for now with the 5-4. "I know I can jump higher," she said. She will be the clear favorite to win the Division I state championship

St. Mark's girl's lacrosse loses first

Team loses captain for season

By MARSHAL MANLOVE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Rebecca Blatt's three second period goals lifted Archmere Academy to a 6-4 win over the St. Mark's girl's lacrosse team.

The Auks avenged an earlier 11-8 loss to St. Mark's and handed the Spartans (10-1) their first loss of the season.

More important was the loss of senior captain, and high scoring forward, Leslie Drewes to a season ending injury.

Drewes went down in the second half and had to be assisted from the field. Initially the injury was thought to be a hyperextension of the knee, but the official diagnosis became a torn ACL.

Drewes was one of the Spartan's top three scorers with 29 goals and 10 assists.

Spartan coach Bill Eichanger said of the game that, "They were much more potent on offense today, but even so they only scored the six goals. We weren't patient on offense and didn't take good shots."

St. Mark's led 3-2 at half-time. Sara Stephens, Kayte Hall, and Drewes each scored goals.

Archmere took advantage of Drewes' injury in the second half throwing as many as four defenders on Stephens and Hall whenever they got the ball. Stephens, along with forward Kayte Hall, each led the Spartans with 32 goals during the season to that point.

Archmere head coach Dipi Bhaya said, "I'm very proud of my team. They played hard and never gave up. We worked on specific things for this game and the team can now see that hard work pays off."

Stephens thought the Spartan effort left much to be desired. "We should have been more aggressive. We didn't play the best that we can play."

Eichanger said, "It's cliché, but if we learn from this, it's a good loss, but if we don't it's a bad one."

Stephens was already prepared to re-take the test. "If we see them in the State Tournament, they better watch out."

The girl's lacrosse state tournament begins May 30. Eight schools will send teams that will hope to reach the state championship on Saturday June 3.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

RACHEL ALLEY, MATT JOHNSON CHRISTIANA HIGH

Matt Johnson

For sweeping the pole vault for Christiana High School in last week's county championships, Rachel Alley and Matt Johnson are this week's co-athletes of the week.

Alley set a new New Castle County record in the pole vault with a vault of 8-6 in the process.

Four vaulters cleared the 8-0 barrier which broke the old standard of 7-6. Alley was the only one of the group to clear 8-6, a mark she reached in a dual meet against Glasgow last week.

Rachel was nervous coming into the meet. "When I saw these other girls jumping it was a little nerve racking, but I just dug down."

One of the other vaulters to clear 8-0 was teammate Kristin Tunnell who Alley credits as someone who helps her along during a meet. "She was there for me, calming me down, when I didn't think I was going to make it. We are there for each other."

"Whenever I'm in a really big meet, I really try to dig down and do my best," Alley said.

"You have to believe in yourself. If you're going to come out here and do something you have to give 100 percent."

Johnson, a sophomore, cleared 11-6 to win his contest and win ten important team points for the Vikings as they were upsetting Salesianum.

"I started out nervous but I felt pretty good this morning," the Viking champions said. "I did what I had to do."

Johnson matched his personal qualifying mark in the meet beating Salesianum's pole vaulter, Mike Vogel by a whole foot.

Matt will be the favorite to win the Division I state pole vault championship this weekend at Polytech High in Dover.

McKenna, Cummings named UD football captains

Delaware coach Tubby Raymond announced that Brian McKenna and Craig Cummings will be the 2000 football captains.

For the first time since the 1996 season, the University of Delaware has selected co-captains to lead the Blue Hen football team.

Delaware head coach Tubby Raymond announced Monday that senior linebacker Brian McKenna (Columbia/South Orange, N.J.) and senior halfback Craig Cummings (Iona Prep, NY/Ocean City, Md.) have been selected as co-captains for the 2000 season. The co-captains are selected from a vote of the team.

The Blue Hens will have co-captains for the first time since the 1996 season when Leo Hamlett, Chris Kumpon, Geof Gardner, and Kenny Bailey served as quad captains. Delaware has had two or more captains just nine times in Raymond's 35 years as head coach.

"We are delighted to have two outstanding football players serve as our co-captains," said Raymond. "Brian and Craig have each accomplished a great deal on the field and their leadership skills have been recognized by the team. McKenna was virtually a unanimous choice by the team and Cummings received so much support in the balloting that we took notice."

McKenna, a 6-2, 235 lb. linebacker, enters the 2000 season as one of the top linebackers in NCAA I-AA football and one of the top defensive players in the Atlantic 10 Conference. A two-time All-Atlantic 10 selection, McKenna has led the team in tackles each of the past two seasons, recording 118 in 1998 and posting 83 stops in 1999 despite missing one game with a knee injury. For his career, he has recorded 232 total tackles (tied for 15th all-time), 16 tackles for loss, 7.5 quarterback sacks, and three interceptions.

Cummings, a 5-8, 183 lb. halfback, has been one of Delaware's steadiest and most productive threats in the backfield since he came to Delaware. He was Delaware's fourth leading rusher a year ago with 423 yards on 92 carries with a team-high seven touchdowns and also caught 22 passes for 357 yards and one touchdown.

Cummings ranks No. 2 all-time for career receptions by a running back (record is 112 by Bob Norris in 1984-86) and could become just the third player in UD history, joining Norris and Lanue Johnson (1990-93), to record 1,000 yards receiving and rushing in a career. He could also join Johnson as the only ones to reach 2,000 yards rushing and 1,000 yards receiving.

The Blue Hens will begin pre-season camp August 13 in preparation for the 2000 season opener Sept. 2 at Rhode Island. The Blue Hens will take on The Citadel in their home opener at Delaware Stadium Sept. 9 at 7 p.m.

Delaware returns 31 players with starting experience from last year, squad that posted a 7-4 record, the 12th straight winning season for the Blue Hens.

No-hitter pitched at Brookside

Joel Drosehn pitched a no-hitter for the Brookside Pirates against the Brookside Angels in a battle of two unbeaten teams.

Drosehn struck out sixteen batters in the game and also hit a double and a three-run homer in a 6-0 win.

Joey Basher hit a two-run homer and Chancz LePore single in a run for extra offensive support.

But the spotlight was on Drosehn in the seventh. There was a hush in the standing-room-only crowd as he struck out the first two batters, then walked two, one out away from a no-hitter. As Drosehn struck out the final batter, his sixteenth strike out of the night, the quiet was broken by the cheers from the Pirates players and fans. The no-hitter was particularly special since it came against the Angels, who have been hitting well all season.

Also contributing to the so-far undefeated season for the Pirates are pitcher/third baseman Michael Bender and left fielder Justin Smith.

Brookside Bambino Baseball League, of the Babe Ruth Cal Ripken division, has won several state championships at the 10- and 12-year-old levels in the past three years. The Pirates and Angels are in different divisions, so the Angels continue in first place in their division.

Other players contributing to the Angels fine season are Greg Ridenour, Ernie Mingo, Chris Lee, and Jordan Santak.

Newark grad rows to victory

Chrissy Wample, a 1998 graduate of Newark High School and current student at Mary Washington College in Fredericksburg, Va., was the bow rower in the women's light weight four boat that won their competition in the Dad Vail Regatta in Philadelphia on Saturday, May 13.

Their winning time was 7:46.43 for the 2k sprint. The other rowers in her boat are Sarah Preston, Colleen Ralph and Jill McDonald with coxswain Amanda Harrigan.

Week in Review

St. Mark's and Caravel went head to head on the softball diamond in a #1 Vs. #2 matchup with the Spartans holding on to their number one ranking beating the defending state champions 5-3. Laura Colosi singled in the deciding two runs in the sixth inning as Dana Travis was busy striking out 11 Buccaneers to pick up the win.

The adrenaline must still have been running through both Travis and Buc pitcher Jackie Homiak's blood for their next starts. Travis threw her first career perfect game against Ursuline and Homiak tossed her second no-hitter of the year beating fourth ranked Indian River 1-0. It was the eleventh shutout of the year for Homiak.

Christiana upset the William Penn baseball team 4-3 rallying from a 3-2 deficit in the top of the seventh inning. Keith Pugh doubled in a run and scored from third on an error to provide the winning margin. Victor Burgess picked up his first win of the season on the mound.

Stefany Tiberi pitched a no-hitter for the William Penn softball team against Christiana as the Colonials won 14-0. Erica LaBar hit a two-run homer for support.

Ian Deptula, and Zach Clark helped pace Newark to an 8-6 win over Glasgow in Flight A baseball action. The Jacket win pulled them within a half game of the Dragons overall and in the conference. Their earlier win against William Penn will provide important tournament points.

Glasgow picked up a key Flight A win of their own when they upset Brandywine 8-1. Tom Gallagher had a grand slam homerun and Scott Brooks hit a two-run single. Gallagher also finished up the game on the mound in relief of Alan Haupt who picked up his fourth victory of the season.

Local teams prepare for state championship meet

this weekend.

Viking girl's head coach Charles Michaels said, "This is a young team. Bailey is a junior, Johnson a sophomore. They said they would do well, and they went out and proved it today."

William Penn shows well

The Colonial boy's team had a rough dual meet season, but are making their strides forward at the right time. They finished fifth overall as a team ahead of Hodgson, who were sixth.

The 400 meter relay team of Johnson, Edwards, Gordon and Pierce were the lone track winners and Carlton Rose was the lone field event winner. Rose took home his first place medal in the discus with a 148-4 throw that was just a seven inches farther than Isaac Wolkowicz.

The girls field team continued to pile up points for the Colonials and helped them to their fifth place finish. Lateefah Vaughn, Stephanie Crawford, and Tiaana Vaughn all scored points for William Penn. The return of Middletown's Nila Waters, who set a meet record in the shot put, might have cost them a third place finish overall since they were just two points behind third place Ursuline and a point behind Brandywine.

Milbourne and Chase carry Glasgow

Julius Milbourne won the 100 and 200 meter dashes and ran on both Glasgow relay teams that scored points to account for 28 of the Dragons 30 points in their seventh place finish.

Milbourne defeated defending 100 meter champions Mac Spann from Archmere in the 100 meter dash with his 10.95 time. It was the best county meet performance since former Dragon Shae Devlin ran a 10.92 back in 1994.

Kim Chase scored 20 of Glasgow's 21 points for the girls. She won the triple jump on the first day of competition with a 34-11 foot leap and set a personal best in the shot put to take home a third place medal for herself.

Milbourne and Chase will be favored to win state championships this weekend.

Milbourne was pleased with his times in the 100 and 200 meter. "I've been working hard for this and I proved myself today. But I give God credit. I was just blessed."

Hodgson hangs tough

The Silver Eagle girl's team continued to gain the valuable experience they need to keep developing into a winning program. Having won the first Silver Eagle girl's championship by any team ever in school history when then clinched the Flight B Track Championship last week, they followed with a strong seventh place showing.

They were, however, beaten by Howard by one point which each track team member would express disappointment about.

Aisha Word, and Adrienn Ennis were the key figures for Hodgson in the meet. They both placed in the long jump jumping from the second flight. The top qualifiers were in the third flight, so the accomplishment stood large for Hodgson who will have a good chance for a second place team trophy in the Division II championships this weekend.

The Silver Eagle boy's team finished a solid sixth place keyed yet again by Armond Williams, who set a personal best of 6-4 in the high jump; Mitch Ryan, who placed sixth in the triple jump, and Todd Manlove who took a second place in the 300 intermediate hurdles and a fourth in the 110 hurdles.

Tomorrow is 'Day in Old New Castle'

A regionally acclaimed tour of historic homes and gardens will be held tomorrow as A Day in Old New Castle unfolds for the 75th year in the community dating back to the late 17th century.

Tourists from across the region enjoy the chance to step back in time to the historic era when New Castle served as the capital of the fledgling colony of Delaware. Unique among many colonial towns, New Castle is a residential community.

On this one day only, residents open their private homes and gardens to the public, many conducting tours of their properties in person. More than three dozen historic homes and gardens will be open for the tour from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

This year, "The Half Moon," a full-sized replica of the first European ship to record a visit to the Delaware Bay, will be docked along "the Strand" in New Castle and available for boarding. There will be exhibits of 18th century lifestyle and activities. Carriage rides, colonial dancing, music and crafts will be featured for all ages.

Admission is $14 for adults and $7 for children ages 6-12; preschool children are free when accompanied by an adult. The ticket price includes admission to the private homes and gardens, as well as a number of historic buildings and all activities. There is no additional charge for boarding the Half Moon. Lunch and light fare will be available throughout the town. For more information, call 1-877-496-9498.

Mosquitos produce record nuisance in Delaware

The Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control's Mosquito Control Section is stepping up efforts to battle the mosquitos after receiving a record number from all three counties.

Normally the Spring Woodland Control Program sprays 5,000 to 6,000 acres of wet forestlands in all three counties in early spring to treat the larval stages of the woodland-pool mosquitoes. The combined conditions of heavy rains with warm weather were prime for producing more woodland-pool mosquitoes, creating a great annoyance in many areas.

Mosquito Control will be aggressively spraying adulticides by fixed-wing aircraft over 10,000 - 20,000 acres of Delaware's landscape to try to knock down populations of adult mosquitos. The areas to be treated have been identified by public

Business leaders invited to Rotary

Newark-based business owners and managers who are interested in community service are invited to learn more about membership in the Newark Morning Rotary Club.

Comprised of 33 local business and community leaders, the club meets each Thursday morning, 7 a.m., at the Blue and Gold Club on Kent Way, Newark.

Interested business leaders are invited to call president Donna Friswell, 368-9151, or membership chair Jim Streit, 737-1711, for more information.

complaint patterns and landing rate counts.

All adulticides are EPA-registered insecticides intended for such use, and can be applied over and within populated areas with extremely little risk to human health or the environment. Spraying will be avoided during times and at locations when children are most likely to be clustered at bus stops, or on Little League fields during evenings.

Advance public announcements of spray events will continue to be made in accordance with the Mosquito Control's Spray Policy, which calls for giving advance notice to municipal officials and by making radio announcements. The public can also inquire directly about pending spray times and locations by calling 1-800-338-8181.

Financial help for small business

On Thursday, May 25 from 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. there will be a workshop entitled Basic Accounting and Record-keeping for Small Business at the Concord Plaza, Centennial Room, Plaza Center Building, Silverside Road, Talleyville. This workshop will be conducted by the Delaware Chapter of the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) and is designed to teach current or prospective owners basic accounting and financial reporting, learning how to measure performance from day-to-day transactions and understanding tax reporting requirements, and will be lead by Malcolm J. Styer, CPA of Zenker and Styer. The registration fee is $25 at the door, or $20 if prepaid. For further information about the workshop and/or to register, call the SCORE office at 573-6552.
