DRUNKEN NEGRO CAUSES CRASH GETS 30 DAYS

William Collins Sentenced By Magistrate Thompson After
He Drove Into Another Car;
Reckless Driver Runs After
He Is Arrested

FINED FOR BRAWL

On Sunday, William H. Collins, colored, of Wilmington, was sentenced to 30 days in the New Castle County Jail by Magistrate Thompson, after being judged guilty on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Shortly after Collins ran into a car driven by F. McClintock, of Wilmington. Mr. McClintock was Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ford, of Newark. The occupants of the McClintock car were badly shaken by the collision. The crash occurred near the Delaware-Maryland line, and Newark police officers, Keely and Cunningham, who were returning from Elkton with a prisoner, came along just after the accident. They held Collins until the arrival of State Officers Knecht and Goslin, who placed him under arrest, and locked him up in the Newark jail. Later in the day he was arraigned before Magistrate Thompson, found guilty and sentenced.

On Thursday evening, Town Officer Cunningham stopped a car which had been driven recklessly through the town. A negro, who said he was Chester Lester, of Cape Charles, was driving. He had no registration card or driver's license, but produced a title in the car. While Cunningham was examining the title, Chester suddenly took to his heels and escaped by running down Chapel street and cutting through back yards. Two other negroes were in the car and the officer asked them up and held the car. The following day, Lester came back and gave himself up. He stated that he had run because he was scared. He produced proper credentials for the automobile. He was taken before Magistrate Thompson and fined $10 as a charge of reckless driving.

On Saturday night, Ralph Gray and Harvey White, both colored, engaged in a brawl on Elkton road, near the town line. Residents summoned the police, but on the approach of the officers the two men jumped in a car and escaped over the Maryland line. Chief Keely and Officer Cunningham went to Elkton and, accompanied by an Elkton officer, forced their way into a house and arrested Gray. They brought him back to Newark and locked him up. White was arrested in Newark the following day. Both were arraigned before Magistrate Thompson, charged with being drunk and disorderly. They paid fines of $10 each. They stated that they had been playing over a woman.

RUPP WILL VOTE ON VET. ISSUES

State Commander Of Veterans Of Foreign Wars Will Attend National Convention
At St. Paul

Rehabilitation and child welfare will be the two paramount issues to hold the attention of the delegates at ending the 30th annual national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which will convene at St. Paul, Minnesota, on August 25, and continue until August 31. William Rupp, commander of the Department of Delaware and of the local Veterans' Post, will leave here next Friday to attend the convention as the official delegate from Delaware.

A demand for compensation for disabled veterans in the form of a service pension for all disabled ex-service men or elimination of the existing "service connection" clause will probably be voiced in the discussion of U. S. Veterans Bureau affairs. Increased hospital facilities, especially for mental cases, will also come up for debate.

In the field of child welfare the report of Fred Stover, Butler, Pa., president of the V. F. W. National Home at Eaton Rapids, Michigan, will hold the spotlight. The V. F. W. National Home was started in 1925 as a haven of refuge for the widows

LOCAL SCHOOLS OPEN SEPT. 9

Pre-School Conferences For Faculty Start Sept. 5; First
Grade Pupils Must Register
Sept. 4

The Newark Schools will open for the coming year Monday, September 9, 1929. The same school hours will be observed as previously followed.

On Wednesday, September 4, at 10 o'clock, standard time, all pupils entering the first grade who have not been registered in June, and all others entering the Newark School for the first time are asked to register. This registration will take place in the public school office. All pupils who will be six years of age on or before January 1, 1930, are eligible to register and enter school.

Members of the teaching staff will return Thursday morning, September 5, for pre-school conferences. The pre-school conferences will center around the theme, "The Modern Progressive School of 1929." In addition to the conference opportunity is also given for making a careful study of the final results of standard tests given last June. By making this study each teacher will be in a position to deal with the pupils as individuals from the first day of school and plan such instruction as will strengthen those phases which need help. Every effort will be made during the first weeks of school to apply the instruction to those phases where standard tests suggest that help is needed. The Newark School now has psychological and standard test records of its pupils. These impartial records will be used as a bases to give pupils help where help is needed.

Bus permits issued by the State Board of Education will be distributed to all pupils on Thursday, September 5 at the Public School office. This arrangement is made in cooperation with Mr. J. O. Adams, Business Manager of the State Board of Education. Pupils coming to the Newark School will need a permit to ride on the school bus.

The Board of Education on the receipts of sealed bids for two carloads of coal for use in the four school buildings for the coming year awarded the contract to Mr. C. E. Ewing, who was the lowest bidder. Coal in the Newark School is purchased on the following approximate specifications: Moisture, 1.06; volatile gas, 18.21; ash, 6.73; carbon, 74.0; sulfur, 0.01.

Itinerary Extended This Year,
Trip Will Conclude With Banquet At Bethany

All those people who are interested in the poultry business are looking forward to the fourth annual poultry tour, which is scheduled to be conducted through the state on August 28 and 29, under the direction of the Delaware State Poultry Association in cooperation with the State Board of Agriculture and the Agricultural Extension Department of the University of Delaware.

The itinerary and plans for this tour were outlined by a special committee which met at the home of Charles Grove, near Milford, last Thursday evening. Those who are in charge of this affair are expecting that a large crowd of poultry raisers from all parts of the state and the adjoining territory will take advantage of this opportunity to visit some of the outstanding poultry farms in each of the three counties.

At 9 o'clock on the morning of August 28, which is the first day of the tour, the poultry farmers will assemble at the Dover Green, and the first farm to be visited will be that of Denny Pleasanton, between Dover and Wyoming, where there is a large flock of White Leghorns that is producing high class hatching eggs. Mr. Pleasanton has also had excellent results in raising chicks in accordance with the Grow Healthy Chicks program.

At 10 o'clock, the party will visit the poultry farm of William G. Anthony, near Smyrna, which is the oldest commercial poultry plant in Delaware. The visitors will be interested in learning how Mr. Anthony has attained success in combating internal parasites for a period of seven years in his large flock of layers.

The farm of Harvey Johnson, 2 miles southwest of Middletown, will be inspected at 11:45 o'clock, and at this place, the visiting poultrymen will see a flock of 200 turkeys that were hatched in an incubator, and raised under brooder stoves. Lunch will be served by the Middletown Home Demonstration Club at some suitable place in this section, but definite arrangements have not as yet been made for announcement.

At 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon, the poultry plant at the University of Delaware Farm at Newark, where 425 White Leghorn pullets reared in confinement without succulent green food, and 450 pullets on an ideal range, will be an interesting feature. The last stop for the day will be made at 4 o'clock at C. P. Hearn's farm, 1½ miles northwest of Newark. At this farm, the visitors will see 1600 White Leghorn pullets that have been reared according to the Grow Healthy Chicks program, and a barn and implement shed remodeled into an ideal laying house.

On the second day, August 29, the tour will assemble at the farm of E. W. Palmer, near Delmar, at 9 o'clock in the morning, and at this place, the visitors will see 1393 mature pullets that were reared from 2800 chicks. Mr. Palmer followed all of the points in the Grow Healthy Chicks Campaign.

At 10 o'clock, the farm of Earl T. Cooper, 6 miles west of Delmar, will be visited, and an inspection made of his long-type hot-water brooder house that has proven very satisfactory. From this place, the tour will go to L. Pratt Cooper's farm at 10:45, where the Grow Healthy Chicks program was followed to overcome worm infestation. At 12 o'clock noon, the tour will conclude at the farm of L. Pratt Cooper.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORING TOWNS

AS TOLD BY OUR CORRESPONDENTS

Elkton

As the result of an automobile accident on the Glasgow-Elkton road, Monday, Mrs. Celestine Tyson, 47, of Philadelphia, injured her right hand so badly that it was later amputated. Mrs. Tyson was motoring to Washington with Miss Mary Wright, of New York, when their machine skidded and turned over. As the machine was upset Mrs. Tyson threw her arm out of the door. Her right hand was caught between the door and the concrete roadway, and so badly mangled that amputation was necessary. The injured woman was taken to Union Hospital, Elkton, and after first aid treatment was given her, she was rushed to Mercy Hospital, Philadelphia, where the operation was later performed.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed two large barns and four out-buildings on the farm of John J. Williams, at St. Augustine, eight miles below Elkton, Saturday night, entailing a loss of more than $15,000, partially covered by insurance. The fire gained considerable headway before it was discovered and before any of the contents of the buildings could be removed five calves and several hundred chickens were burned to death.

United States Marshal W. Frank Mathews, of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, will sponsor a trap shoot for the benefit of Union Hospital, Elkton, at his summer home, Horseshoe Farm, along the Elk river, on Labor Day. The shoot will feature a fifty target event for five prizes. Stanley Evans and Hugh Falls, officials of the Pen-Mar League, have been selected a committee to be in charge of the affair.

The Town Council of Elkton has requested the Pennsylvania Railroad to have a 24 hour check made on the excessive blowing of whistles on the company's trains passing through the town with a purpose of curbing the noises which are so frequent around the midnight hour.

One hundred and fifty negroes employed on the construction of a new road between Port Deposit and the Conowingo dam attempted a riot Monday at the commissary camp, over the food served them. State Officer Klapproth placed eight of the alleged riot leaders under arrest and landed them in Elkton jail for a hearing. After the leaders were locked up the men returned to work.

Miss Dean Leffler, daughter of Mrs. Fred H. Leffler, and Miss Sarah Harris, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Harris, of Elkton, after spending six weeks traveling in Europe, arrived in Elkton Monday.

The Elkton Fire Company, attired in their new uniforms, motored to Chestertown Tuesday evening and participated in the firemen's parade held in connection with the firemen's carnival there.

For the benefit of the scholarship fund of the Women's College Club of Cecil County, an outdoor card party was held Wednesday afternoon on the lawn of the Misses Bratton, on East Main street, Elkton.

Joshua Thomas, one of Elkton's most respected aged colored citizens, died on Saturday. He was buried on Wednesday.

Breach Is Alleged Between Lad and Father He Killed; Doubt Now Cast Upon Boy's Plea He Struck In Mother's Defense

Cecil County authorities, investigating the death of James Moran, 43, the father of 13 children, who died at Richards Hospital, Port Deposit, last Friday night, from a crushed skull, inflicted by an axe in the hands of his 17-year-old son, Milton, who is held in Elkton jail, awaiting the outcome of the coroner's inquest to be held at Rising Sun, on Thursday evening, are now working on a clue that it is said will repudiate the story told by the boy at the time of his arrest.

This was that the older Moran, while intoxicated was attempting to kill his frail and delicate wife and was dragging her by the hair up a flight of stairs of their home on the Oscar Hawley farm, at Korner Ketch, a small village between Rising Sun and Port Deposit last Thursday afternoon. He brandished a razor in one hand, the boy said.

The lad said he was milking cows in the barnyard with an elder brother, and on hearing his mother's screams he stopped milking and in going to the house, picked up an axe. To save his mother's life, he struck his parent down with the axe, he confessed.

The story told by Young Moran, when arrested early Friday morning, on a charge of assault, that he was defending his mother, was substantiated by Mrs. Moran, but after the death of her husband Friday night, she is said to have changed her attitude towards Milton. It is now believed she will give the coroner's inquest a different version of the trouble between Milton and his father.

Police investigating the case said they discovered that there had been ill feeling between the boy and the dead farmer for some time, and that when Moran returned home last Thursday afternoon, after having been drinking for several days, he visited the barnyard where Milton and his elder brother, Edward, were milking, and chased Milton through the barnyard.

After Moran had upbraided his son he went into the house.

A quarrel is then said to have ensued between Moran and his wife during which he struck the woman. Hearing her, Milton rushed to the house, and when he arrived, he said, his father was pushing his mother up the stairs. The boy said he went out into the yard and picked up an axe. As he entered the house a second time the father and mother in their quarrel had reached the second story front room.

Police now believe that the boy, to get revenge on his father, took his mother's screams as an opportune time, struck the blow when his father had his back turned.

Moran dropped unconscious to the floor and the boy ordered his elder brother to get a doctor. Dr. Dodson arrived and had the wounded man hurried to Richards Hospital, Port Deposit, notifying Sheriff Logan of the incident.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon, with the Rev. A. H. Hibshman, pastor of West Nottingham Presbyterian Church, conducting the services.

The boy was given the privilege of attending the funeral in custody of Sheriff Logan. As the services ended he seemed visibly affected.

The body was taken to Christiansburg, Va., the former home of the Moran family, for burial Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Moran and several of the children made the trip. They are not expected to return to their Cecil County home until Wednesday afternoon.

The boy, while on the way to attend the funeral, and on his return to jail, had little to say. While deploring the death of his father, he insisted that he struck the fatal blow while performing what he believed was an act to save the life of his mother.

CECIL GRAND JURY TO GET SMITH CASE

Edward Smith, the young man who is confined in the Elkton jail, charged with having robbed and murdered his aunt, Mrs. Anna J. Mahoney, 82, and her son, Edward Mahoney, 66, and then set fire to their homestead, near Pleasant Hill, on the night of March 31 last, has waived a formal preliminary hearing.

His case will be brought before the grand jury next month. If he is indicted, he will likely be placed on trial during the September term of court, unless he asks that his trial be moved to another court in the circuit, to which he is entitled, under the law. Henry A. Warburton, Esq., has been engaged as counsel by Smith.

The Mahoney case is one of the most mysterious cases that the authorities of Cecil county have ever had to deal with. Only fragments of the bodies of the aged couple were found among the debris of the burned building. Officers who have been at work on the case believe that they have built up a strong chain of circumstantial evidence against the accused.

Mrs. Howard Scarborough, of Philadelphia, with whom Smith made his home, told the officers that "Ed came down to Cecil county for the purpose of getting money from his father." She also stated that he had a $10 gold piece in his possession after he returned to her home. Edward Mahoney, one of the victims, is known to have had moved five calves and several hundred carried it around with him continually. It was given him by his father, before his death, as a Christmas present.

Apologists For Revolutionaries

The Daily Worker, New York national organ of the communist revolutionary movement in the United States, in the issues of August 1 and 2, printed a long pronouncement issued by the Executive Committee of the Moscow-directed Communist Party of the United States, specifically laying down a program leading up to armed revolution.

This ukase in great detail tells the American red revolutionaries how to proceed in planting nuclei in all key industries of the United States, where sabotage could quickly reduce American life to chaos. Recent instructions from the same quarter, published in the same official organ, have stressed the importance of planting groups of revolutionaries in American shipyards, arsenals, chemical plants, public utilities—every place in which sudden blows by small groups could throw the country into confused helplessness.

On August 5, Pravda, the Moscow official organ of the bolshevik party and government declared that world-wide revolution in all non-communist countries was the objective of bolshevism and boasted that in all these countries the communists had the most complete, best organized, most determined organization for revolutionary purposes ever effected.

In the face of these facts we witness the spectacle of politicians of prominence and metropolitan journals of wide circulation, continually proclaiming the peace-loving characteristics of Moscow communism, urging the recognition of the soviet government by the United States, and at the same time trying to put American public sentiment under an anesthetic by ridiculing all opposition to an open, growing movement for insurrection, directed by desperate and fanatical men whose creed is based upon hatred and contempt for the American government.

Some of those who thus endeavor to camouflage the organized conspiracy against the American government and institutions, are merely stupid. Others are the cunning but concealed agents of this revolutionary movement whom chance has thrown into political prominence or into the editorial chairs of important journals. Recent events are bringing the conduct of these dupes or tools of revolutionary radicalism under closer public scrutiny and definite suspicion.

The most remarkable phase of this agitation is the spectacle of some branches of American big business, lured by the promise of huge profits in exploiting the Russian people in partnership with the Moscow dictators, helping along the clamor for more "sympathetic" treatment of Soviet Russia. Among others who have friendly words to say for the Moscow conspiracy against civilization are many preachers who perhaps are attracted by the atheism of the soviet government, college professors who have been impressed by the wholesale slaughter and imprisonment of the intelligentsia in Russia, and "liberals" who have a fellow feeling for the complete suppression of free speech, a free press and all independent thought in the domain of bolshevism. All of these elements are in favor of disarming the American government.

More and more the American people are awakening to the true inwardness of all this effort to hide from them the realities of this situation, which can only become dangerous through the continued indifference the "respectable" allies of revolutionary radicalism seek to create. Should the efforts of this huge camouflage squad succeed, and the American people be compelled to face an emergency without due warning, those who have sought to suppress all opposition to a program of armed insurrection should and will be held to a strict accountability.—Wilmington Evening Journal.

The Beneficial Wren

By Bennett B. Smith

In all well-regulated wren households, it seems that Mrs. Wren has far overshadowed her spouse, for it is not always "Jenny Wren" that is mentioned when speaking of the family? All responsibility, apparently, rests upon her shoulders and about all Mr. Wren needs to do is to sing and carry out any other wishes the lady may have while she sits on the nest.

There are several families of wrens which include the Carolina, the house, the winter, the short-billed and the long-billed marsh. In fact there are twenty-eight species and sub-species throughout the United States and some one kind, at least, may be found in almost any part of the country.

The bird is small, somewhat the color of a mouse, and as she flits about in the bushes and hedges, reminds one somewhat of the mouse. She is seldom seen in the open country, for no long flights are taken, but confines herself to the bushes. If one is quiet he may observe this little bird as she moves about and may be able to come very close without interfering with the home life.

The wren is a great singer and produces some very loud songs for a creature so small. When the nest is made and Mrs. Wren is busily engaged in incubation, Mr. Wren sits outside, close by, and with his head thrown back sings until it seems he will split himself with song, his little body shaking all over with vibration.

The male is dark brown in color, barred somewhat with black. The female is practically the same in color and markings but is a little smaller in size. It is the female that makes the selection of the home and attends to all the domestic details. So far as she is concerned Mr. Wren may go, never to return for she will soon pick another mate.

In food habits the wren is entirely beneficial, for the food is almost entirely animal. Of a great number of stomachs examined, 98 per cent of the contents was made up of insects or their allies and only two per cent was vegetable food. This included bits of grass which had evidently been taken while capturing insects. The stomach contents contained grasshoppers, beetles, caterpillars, bfgs, and spiders. The bird is a great hunter and searches diligently about barns, decaying trees, posts, vines, and spaces in walls for insects.

The nest is made up of sticks, grass, string, moss, and almost any material available. Often a great quantity of sticks is taken into a box, carried out again and once more the work of carrying them back begins. Often several nests will be built in the vicinity and, it has been thought by many, that these were practice nests built by the young of the previous year; others say it is a peculiarity of the bird that it tries several nests before making a final decision.

The wren is not particular as to the place of building but will take up its abode in boxes, tin cans, or crevices. One family built in the body of a hawk which had been nailed to a barn door; another built in the skull of a calf; still another built in an old mitten. No matter where the bird takes possession, it pours out its thanks in sweet song. The house is kept clean and tidy and free from vermin.

Six to eight eggs are laid. They are of a creamy color and so thickly spotted with brown that the whole egg appears tinged.

A rich man cannot enjoy a sound mind nor a sound body without exercise and abstinence; and yet these are truly the worst ingredients of poverty.—Lord Kames.

By forbearing to do what may innocently be done, we may add hourly new vigor to resolution.—Dr. Johnson.

POULTRY TOUR AUGUST 28, 29

ladies of the Columbia community will serve lunch at a nominal charge. C. C. Hudson's farm, near Frankfort, will be visited at 1:45 o'clock in the afternoon, and here the visiting farmers will see one of the neatest and best managed poultry farms in the state. Mr. Hudson raised 1300 pullets this year, and all of them are in fine condition, as the result of his system of management.

At 3 o'clock, the party will visit the farm of McKinley Tingle, 2 1/2 miles east of Frankfort. Mr. Tingle has a flock of 350 turkeys that were hatched in an incubator, and have been confined to a moderate sized yard.

At 4:15 o'clock, Charles Tingle's farm, near Roxana, where 5000 broilers, all of which are in first class condition, will be noted with interest. The next stop will be made at the farm of Roland West at 5:15 o'clock, where the visitors will see another flock of White Leghorns that are being reared under good management and care. From here, the tour will include the broiler sections of Millville, Ocean View, and Bethany Beach, which have a total capacity of over 250,000 broilers.

In accordance with previous customs, the tour will terminate that evening with a banquet and program, which will be held in the Grand House at Bethany Beach. The entertainment is being planned by the Delaware State Poultry Association, and tickets are on sale by the various local committees throughout the state.

RUPP WILL VOTE ON VET. ISSUES

and orphans of deceased or totally disabled veterans of all wars.

The V. F. W. Home is operated on the cottage unit plan and up-to-date, the buildings constructed and in use consist of six modern, brick-faced cottages, a farm house, a combined warehouse and laundry and numerous farm buildings required for the development of the 512 acres owned by the veterans.

Four new cottages are now under construction. On August 24th the corner-stone of a $25,000 hospital unit will be laid.

The cottages are constructed with funds gathered by the national organization in royalties on the sale of "America," a history of the United States comprising the original papers of famous statesmen and writers; the sale of life memberships within the organization and a portion of the proceeds gained in the annual sale of Buddy Poppies throughout the country annually during the week of Memorial Day.

In addition, various state departments have the privilege of contributing funds for the erection of cottages to be named after the respective states.

The amazing development of the National Home since its inception a few years ago and the projected program for the next ten years, which contemplates homes eventually for more than 1,000 children, is in line with the child welfare problems to be discussed at Saint Paul.

PERPETUATING THE "LONGHORNS"

The plan of creating game refuges to preserve from extinction the different species of wild animals native to America has found favor throughout the land in the last quarter of a century. Now it is being extended to include animals other than wild, once important in our history. The latest move has been to bring together a herd of long-horned cattle to be maintained as show animals on the Wichita National Forest in Oklahoma.

The ancestors of these cattle first landed on American soil in 1521, when the Spanish governor-general sent to rule New Spain brought with him from the Old World a few calves. These were typical Spanish cattle of that day, chiefly remarkable for their long legs and horns. In the New World they did well and spread over the West from the Gulf to Canada, becoming as typical a part of the open range of that period as had previously been the Indian and the buffalo.

The horns of these cattle were often three or more feet in length. Needless to say, animals with such weapons were formidable creatures with which to deal. They were, too, decidedly lacking in beefiness and it was inevitable that with the settling up of the country they should be superseded by other species of greater value.

Whatever else could be said of them, they were decidedly picturesque, "the very bone and sinew of the romantic Wild West that is now no more." When they had all but entirely disappeared, the idea was conceived of perpetuating a small herd for the interest of future generations. An appropriation for the purpose was made by the Government and two Forest agents set out to find individuals with which to start. At the time, the belief was general that not a single bull remained in existence. But after a long search throughout Texas, three bulls and twenty cows were found. These were brought together on the Wichita Forest where they are doing well. It is planned to allow them to develop into a herd of some 250 or 300 animals.—Esther E. Reeks.

THEY FOLLOW THE SUN

A great many people in this country wish to know more about the habits of birds, and so the government maintains a department in the bureau of biological survey at Washington for that purpose.

At Turnevik Bay, Labrador, on July 23, 1928, a baby Arctic tern gobbled its food all unconscious of the fact that it was destined to be of special interest to those people. Sometime during that July day a co-worker of the department gently placed a numbered band around the baby tern's leg and then sent a record of the fact to the office in Washington.

The little bird continued to gobble and squabble and play with its kind. Meanwhile it was learning to fly. Then one day it lifted its small pearly body on long graceful wings and turned the crimson beak of its black-capped head southward on the great adventure which only Arctic terns know.

On the way it met with misfortune. It was found dead on the southeastern coast of Africa, November 14, 1928. The number on its band was reported to Washington and the incident became a matter of bird history.

The four months' old traveler had not completed its voyage, but its flight was the longest ever recorded for a banded bird and it furnished a clue to the question: What route do Arctic terns take on their journey from pole to pole? It has been surmised that they migrate far out to sea, since they are so rarely seen on the South Atlantic coast. This new record may mean that they cross the ocean to Europe and then proceed south.

The terns are ready for their long journey by the end of August. By some route of which we are still ignorant, they travel about 11,000 miles to their winter playground, which is not the sandy palm-fringed beach of our desire but the borderland of the Antarctic region. There they "rest and scream among their fellows" until the inexplicable summons stirs them to return north where they arrive during June to set up housekeeping and reproduce their kind.

These "world-champion" migrators follow the sun and it is probable that they see more daylight than any other living creature. The sun does not set during their breeding season in the north, nor for two months of their Antarctic life. When it does go below their horizon in the south it is for so short a time that daylight is really continuous.

Followers of the sun! It is no wonder that we would like to know more of these dauntless little pole-topole adventurers.—Florence McD. Gillett.

The Board of Education also completed their study of the maintenance and operation budget for the coming year. They authorized the screening of the windows of the school cafeteria and the repainting of outside doors and pillars where necessary. The policy of the Board of Education is to keep grounds, buildings and equipment in such condition as to promote the greatest efficiency of school work; to provide for the safety and health of persons concerned; to preserve the attractiveness of buildings and grounds with the ultimate economy of the maintenance of the original investment.

The Board hopes to attain all these objectives, not only through economic expenditure of money, but also through the continued united team work and cooperation of all concerned.

FINISH 2 MONTH EUROPEAN TOUR

have been built up again and farming resumed throughout the area.

After leaving France the group went to Balse, Switzerland, and spent two days touring that country, where they found much prosperity and a contented and happy people. They then went to Germany and about ten days were spent in that country, much of the time during the day touring the rural sections. They made stops at Nuremberg, Dresden, Berlin three days, Eisenbach, Frankfort and other cities. Their last stop in Germany was Cologne and from there they went back through South Holland to Flushing, taking a boat there to cross the English Channel to Harwich, England.

For two weeks London was the headquarters for the agricultural experts, taking motor trips through various rural sections. They visited experimental stations, or agricultural colleges in St. Alban's, Oxford, Cambridge, Harpenden, Stratford, Levington, Chester, Bristol and other points.

The European agricultural colleges are mostly secondary schools and from these the students enter colleges where the training is very thorough. The group found a great deal of experiment work going on in most of the countries visited, especially Germany.

The most comprehensive station visited, according to Dean McCue, was one in Munich, Germany. The conditions in most of the experiment stations, however, is much different from that in this country. The stations in those countries each carry on a certain line of work instead of the diversified work that is carried on at the experiment stations of this country in all lines of agricultural work.

Of all the countries visited Dean McCue said Germany seemed to him to be the most prosperous and probably the people the most contented with the exception of Switzerland.

While the party were welcomed and treated cordially in the countries visited the treatment in Germany he also said, seemed the most cordial of that received in any country with less apparent desire to over-charge tourists.

Dean McCue, as well as the others in the party, were especially interested in the tours through Holland and found the most intensified work from the agricultural standpoint in Holland of all the countries visited. This land, he said, of sand dunes and sea-bottom grows most everything on an intensified scale. Some of the principal crops are potatoes, wheat, oats and sugar beets. There is a large amount of dairying and poultry raising but probably the greatest industry there is the raising of flowers. There are no fences in the rural sections of Holland the dikes taking the place of fences. It was an unusual sight, he said, to the American visitors to see sail boats going through the dikes in the fields.

The north of France, Dean McCue found, is coming back rapidly. This is about the best agricultural section of France and a diversified and intensified farming is carried on. The field crops are largely oats, sugar beets, wheat, barley and potatoes, with a few grapes. The great grape vineyards are further south.

The visitors made it a point in every country to visit some typical farms of that country, inspect the fields and even go through the barns, and in some instances in the dwellings. The living conditions in most of the countries in the rural sections were found to be fairly good with the exception of Holland where in some instances they found the homes and barns practically under the same roof.

The best managed farm found on the entire trip, Dean McCue said, was one they visited in Germany of about 900 acres where 800 persons, most of them women, are employed. Lots of modern American farm machinery was noticed on this farm as well as in other sections visited in all the countries. This farm grew diversified crops and was run under an intensive system. Of all the countries visited Dean McCue says, looked to be the most prosperous. Many of the rural sections of England are having a hard time to make both ends meet. Taxes are high. There is only a few acres where the soil is extra good and farmers there must get a high price per acre to break even. Kent is to be the best farming locality in England visited where the crops are largely fruit, vegetables, flowers and poultry. There is a great deal of stock as English agriculture is based largely on live stock.

NEWARK SECOND IN LEAGUE RACE

Trails Aberdeen In Tri-County League; Took Game From Havre de Grace, Saturday

The Newark baseball team of the Tri-County League kept its place in the league standing, Saturday, by beating Havre de Grace, 11 to 3, in a game played at Havre de Grace. Newark is in second place trailing Aberdeen, the league leader. Aberdeen, has, however, failed to meet Newark in this half of the race, and Newark expects to force the Maryland team to abdicate at their first meeting.

Reggie Rose was on the hill for Newark, last Saturday, and twirled some pretty ball. He fanned twelve Havre de Grace sluggers, and allowed eight scattered hits. Newark got twelve hits, and the feature of this part of the game was the stickwork of Davis, who contributed two doubles and a single.

Newark was scheduled to play an exhibition game with the Newark Colored A. C., last night, on Frazer Field. Due to rain the game was postponed until tomorrow at 6:30, advanced time.

On Saturday, at 4 o'clock, advanced time, Newark will play a league game with Darlington, on Frazer Field.

HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUBS CAN FOR WINTER

"Canning for the Winter Pantry" is the slogan of Home Demonstration Work in New Castle county at the present time," says Kate Henley Daugherty, County Home Demonstration Agent.

During the last two weeks, canning demonstrations have been given by Mrs. Daugherty at the homes of Mrs. Culver, in Middletown; Mrs. Theodore Laws, Glasgow; Mrs. Raymond Louth, Christiansburg; Mrs. Horace Dennis, Hockessin; and Mrs. Leroy O'Neill, Port Penn. Also at the State Road Chapel, at State Road.

Quite a bit of interest has been shown at these meetings at which the canning of non-acid vegetables in tin cans with the steam pressure processing were demonstrated. The foods canned in the different demonstrations were: corn, string beans, Swiss chard, limas, carrots and fried chicken. "Canning non-acid foods with the steam pressure canner shortens the period of processing considerably over the cold pack method," says Mrs. Daugherty. It is also considered by canning authorities as being the surest and safest method of canning all non-acid foods such as those mentioned above.

For the benefit of the home makers who are planning their winter canning budget, Mrs. Daugherty suggests that the following table might be helpful:

Number of Cans or Jars Per Bushel of Various Fruits and Vegetables

MORE ARE BUYING CARS FOR CASH

The prevailing belief that a greater percentage of motorists are buying their cars on the installment plan is disproved by statistics furnished by finance companies, according to a survey of the American Motorists' Association, A. M. A., National body of the Delaware Automobile Association, Eleventh and West streets, Wilmington.

"Credit sales of new cars last year were 10 per cent smaller than in 1926," the Association declares. "In 1925, a total of 68.2 per cent of all new cars sold were bought on time payments, extending over periods of from six to 18 months. Last year, reports of finance companies show, only 58.1 per cent of all new cars purchased were sold on the installment plan."

There has been a smaller decrease in the percentage of used cars purchased on the installment plan when 1928 figures are compared with those of 1925. Of all used cars sold in 1925, 62.8 per cent were bought on the installment plan, or a decrease during the four-year period, of only two per cent.

There were 3,220,000 new cars sold last year and of this number 1,870,000 were financed by different companies engaged in that business. Of the 3,760,000 used cars that changed hands during the same year, 2,268,000 were sold on the time payment plan.

Reports show that of the total number of new cars sold on time payments, 55,900 were repossessed for failure of purchasers to live up to their agreements. The average direct loss per repossessed car—the amount owing minus the amount received from sale—was $56 for automobiles sold on 12 or less equal monthly payments; $75 on cars sold on 13 to 18 equal monthly installments. It is estimated that the total losses on repossessed cars last year totaled about $3,343,000.

HE ALWAYS 'LOWED' ALFALFA 'WOULD GROW ANYWHERE. 'KUS' E T A DRESSIN' 'E HANIRE -- NONE OF 'ESSE HERE NEW LAND TREATMENTS 'H TH LIKES

NO, UNCLE, Medicago sativa (ALFALFA, IN ENGLISH) IS UNLIKE MANY OTHER CROPS. IT WILL NOT TOLERATE A HIGH HYDROGEN-ION CONCENTRATION (MEANING THAT IT NEEDS LIME); IT HAS A RAVENOUS APPETITE FOR AVAILABLE PLANTFOOD (WHICH IS FERTILIZER) AND TO PERFORM ITS NITROGEN-FIXING FUNCTION ITS ROOT SYSTEM MUST LIVE IN SYMBIOTIC RELATION WITH THE ORGANISM, Pseudomonas Radicicola. (IN OTHER WORDS, INOCULATE).

When And How To Sow Alfalfa

Farmers and dairymen in New Castle county who are planning to sow alfalfa this summer should get it in the ground by August 25, if possible, writes County Agent Ed Willim, Jr., in his third instruction letter in the 1929 campaign to grow more and better alfalfa.

The new seeding must be in the ground by that time in order to give the young plants a chance to grow four or five inches before the frosts, and freezes stop its growth for the season. Alfalfa that is sown much later than this date often does not get sufficient footing in the ground to withstand the heaving action of the soil from the alternate freezing and thawing which is so frequent in this climate.

Inoculation of the seed was another consideration mentioned by Mr. Willim in his last letter. According to the cartoon accompanying this article, the alfalfa "to perform its nitrogen-fixing functions, its root system must live in symbiotic relation with the organism, Pseudomonas Radicicola, (in other words, inoculate). There are several methods of inoculating the seed," continues the County Agent. "The two best known ways are the pure culture and soil methods. In the pure culture plan, the one sowing the seed should use the culture which comes with the seed or is purchased for that purpose. The soil method has several ramifications and systems, but the two better known methods are to broadcast about 400 pounds per acre of soil secured from a known previously inoculated stand of the legume; or to use about one or two quarts of soil, taken directly from the inoculated roots of the plant, per bushel of seed. Moisture with glue or sugar water and sprinkle this inoculated soil over the seed. Mix thoroughly and let seed dry 24 hours before seeding. In both cases the inoculated dirt or seed should not be exposed to direct sunlight because this will kill the organisms.

Sow this seed at the rate of 20 pounds per acre with an alfalfa seed drill, or broadcast and follow with a harrow or cultipacker.

In previous letters to dairymen in the county, the Agent brought out the need of early and thorough preparation of ground intended for alfalfa. He also advised, that, since alfalfa was a lime loving plant and that it needed this material for maximum growth, that not less than 800-1200 pounds of hydrated lime or its equivalent be worked into the ground as early as possible. Not less than 300-400 pounds of a complete fertilizer of about 2-8-5 analysis or one without nitrogen having an 0-12-5 formula be used.

The feeding value in protein of alfalfa hay is so much higher than the average farm roughages that every dairyman should have sufficient acreage to supply alfalfa to his cows all season. One tone of alfalfa hay is equivalent in protein to about 5 tons of corn fodder, 3.25 tons of timothy hay and 2.53 tons of mixed hay. It can easily be figured, concludes the Agent's articles, why alfalfa and plenty of it should be grown on every farm in New Castle county.

ments, is indicated in the reports showing that for each 1,000 installment sales, an average of only 4.7 persons absconded or "skipped" last year.

Another interesting feature of the finance figures is the fact that the percentage of "trade-ins" in new car sales decreased from 72 per cent in 1927 to 69.4 per cent last year. On the other hand "trade-ins" were involved in 39.4 per cent of the total number of used car transactions last year as compared with 37.1 per cent in 1927.

"The reason underlying the reduced percentage of cars sold on the installment plan is the more careful investigation of credit risks stricter financial terms, and lower prices of automobiles," said J. Borton Weeks, president of the American Motorists Association, in commenting upon automobile finance reports. "The time payment plan has materially aided America in growing automobile-wise and reports of finance companies show that the average American motorist is honest and lives up to the obligations he undertakes.

Christian Science Churches

"Spirit" was the subject of the lesson-sermon on Sunday, August 11, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

Golden Text: "I will pour water upon him that is thirsty, and floods upon the dry ground: I will pour my spirit upon thy seed, and my blessing upon thine offspring" (Isaiah 44:3).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Strangely enough, we ask for material theories in support of spiritual and eternal truths, when the two are so antagonistic that the material thought must become spiritualized before the spiritual fact is attained. So-called material existence affords no evidence of spiritual existence and immortality. Sin, sickness, and death do not prove man's entity or immortality. Discord can never establish the facts of harmony. Matter is not the vestibule of Spirit" (pp. 355-359; 32-8).

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Charles Davis, who departed this life August 15, 1925.

In the grave yard safely sleeping, Where the flowers gently wave, Lies the one we loved so dearly, In his lonely, silent grave. He shall never be forgotten, Never shall his memory fade, Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger Around the grave where he is laid.

Sadly missed by —Father, Mother, Sisters, and Brothers.

IN MEMORIAM

To the memory of Mr. John Kay: One who did not hide his light under a bushel, has gone from us and is sadly missed. He never can be forgotten, even by strangers who knew him only a few short years of living. The Book of Books. A Sincere Friend.

cut the COST to grow winter wheat

ACCORDING to recent figures from the United States Department of Agriculture, the cost of growing winter wheat is in direct relation to the yield per acre. With average yields of ten bushels the cost per acre was $14.68 and the cost per bushel $1.47—while with yields that averaged twenty-eight bushels, the cost per acre was $13.81, but the cost per bushel was only 74¢.

The essential difference between an unprofitable and a profitable winter wheat crop are well prepared land, good seed, a good fertilizer and the proper date for sowing. Armour's BIG CROP High Analysis Fertilizer is the last word in commercial plant food for winter wheat. It carries the stamp of approval of successful farmers and many of the leading soil and wheat experts of the country. Liberal application of Armour's BIG CROP is a most essential factor in growing a wheat crop that will make you money at present prices.

We are prepared to help you in the selection of the most suitable BIG CROP High Analysis Fertilizers for winter wheat on your particular soil. Please feel free to consult us.

RIAM

Mr. John Kay, his light under from us and is ver can be for- agers who knew years of living Sincere Friend.

As is usually the case, there were very few people left in Christiana last Thursday, while the Methodist picnic was going on at Deemers Beach. It was an all-day affair, with lunch at noon, sports and games in the afternoon, followed by serving of refreshments. It seemed that the number of children attending this year was unusually large, and they all appeared to be having an unusual joyous time, returning home at supper-time, tired but happy.

The Christiana Firemen have been kept busy during the past few weeks, visiting carnivals conducted by various other fire companies nearby, and it was while they were visiting the Stanton carnival last Saturday night that they were called to a fire near Chesapeake City, Md., where the barn and all the out-buildings on a farm, tenanted by Russell Cleaver and family, were entirely destroyed, with all this year's crop of hay and wheat, five calves, several hundred chickens, a quantity of potatoes and all the farm machinery. Everything was a total loss, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that the two houses on the place were saved.

The men had barely returned from this fire and put the engine away, when another alarm was sent in, this time from Cedars, where a garage was burning. It is not often that they are called on to put in such a strenuous night, and it was fortunate that the following day was the "one-day-of-rest-in-seven," with plenty of time to recover from all their hard labor.

Mrs. Sue Currinder attended a family reunion at Deemers Beach on Wednesday of last week. Those present, besides Mrs. Currinder, were her brother, Mr. Dutton Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Vought and family, Mr. and Mrs. MacLary, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Richards, Mrs. Margaret Whitman and Mrs. Sarah Whirl.

Mrs. John Levey and Mrs. Ida Tomlin returned on Thursday from a week's visit with friends in Philadelphia.

Misses Ruth and Lois Phelps spent several days last week as the guests of Misses Mildred and Ethel Hobson, of near Newark.

Miss Mary Titter has returned to her home, in Brandywine Hundred, after a brief visit here with her sister, Mrs. James Appleby.

Mrs. Ella Moody, who has been visiting her niece, Mrs. John W. Moore, returned to her home in Washington, D. C., on Sunday. She was accompanied by Mrs. Moore, Mr. John Moore, Jr., Misses Ella, Elizabeth and Sara Moore and Dorothy Price, the trip being made by automobile. Misses Ella and Sara Moore are staying for a visit with relatives in the Capital City.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Le Otto and small daughter, Janice, of Mantua, N. J., were guests last week of Mrs. Le Otto's grandmother, Mrs. James Appleby.

Mr. and Mrs. Norwood Pleasanton, of Wilmington, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wingate, at their home here, on Sunday.

Miss Nellie Appleby, of Hares Corner, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. George W. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollan J. Cleaver and family motored on Sunday to Churchtown, Md., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cleaver. On Tuesday the Olan Cleavers were the guests of Mrs.

HEADS DEL. SOJOURNERS

MAJOR S. B. I. DUNCAN

Du Pont Chapter No. 78, National Sojourners, with Major S. B. Irwin Duncan of New Castle at its head, represents the National body of this patriotic organization in the State of Delaware. Major Duncan is well known throughout the State for his active participation in the destinies of numerous fraternal and patriotic bodies, and is exceptionally well qualified for leadership in the important undertaking of the State Chapter.

According to Major Duncan, National Sojourners has evolved from its first feeble efforts at organization in the Philippine Islands during the days of the empire, and is now one of the leading national patriotic organizations, with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Its membership consists of past and present officers of the uniformed forces of the nation, who are members of the Masonic Fraternity and who feel their obligation to perpetuate allegiance to the American flag.

"National Sojourners," said Major Duncan, "is organized for the purpose of developing true patriotism and Americanism throughout the nation, for bringing together representatives of the uniformed forces of the United States in a united effort to further the military need of national defense, and for opposing any influence whatsoever calculated to weaken the national security."

The Chapter is planning a membership drive which will extend throughout the state.

Cleaver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Leasure, of Glasgow.

Miss Frances Louth spent the weekend with Miss Elizabeth Campbell, of Stanton, formerly of Christiana.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Davis, of this place, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrison, Jr., of Ogletown, spent Sunday at Brandywine Summit Camp.

Mrs. George Hopkins, of Elkton, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Levey.

Miss Dorothea Rothwell, of near Harmony, is spending some time at the Masonic Home, near Marshallton.

Miss Alice Phelps was the weekend guest of friends in Philadelphia. Mrs. Jane Cleaver entertained on Sunday her son, Mr. Orville Cleaver and sons, of Corner Ketch. Mrs. Or-vile Cleaver and two small sons are visiting relatives in Virginia.

Little John Smith, Jr., who is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Louth, met with a painful accident on Monday, when he fell from a swing, suffering painful cuts and bruises on his mouth and chin. Dr. B. B. Peters, of Christiana, dressed the wounds, and the little fellow is improving as rapidly as possible.

CALLS FOR HUMAN AID

A giant pelican of Santa Monica, Calif., recently appealed to a man to relieve him from a pain he could not cure himself. After hanging around in the air for some time he finally settled down upon the Municipal pier near Mr. Ed. Hendricks, who was fishing there near a group of other men. They all noticed that the bird was evidently in pain of some sort, and when Mr. Hendricks gently reached out his hand the pelican stood still and let him make an examination. A little exploring discovered a large fish-hook embedded in its flesh and it was necessary in the ensuing surgical operation to use a pair of pliers, to which the bird submitted courageously. Several times it squawked out in pain, but made no attempt to use its huge bill or wings in anger, and when it was over flew away as happy and relieved as a boy would feel after having had a bad splinter removed from his foot.—C. E. Howard.

TRAVELING DOGS

Many dog lovers doubtless will agree with the opinions expressed by O. O. McIntyre in the following paragraph from The Minneapolis Journal:

The smartest hotel in almost every big city now permits small house dogs in rooms and suites. The loss of business to forbid them was too heavy. Said one manager: "One cocktail party does more damage than 500 well-bred dogs." The Pullman company, usually up-to-date and the last word in public service, does not permit dogs in compartments or drawing rooms, for some antiquated reason, and consequently loses vast business. I know many families who travel to the coast by motor rather than have their dogs in the hands of careless baggage-men. It is also a big and growing contributing factor to travel abroad. Dogs have the freedom of steamships and all European hotels. People depending on the public who do not recognize man's love for a dog these days are foolish. It is one of the strongest of human emotions.

Many from this vicinity attended the Fiddlers' Convention at Parkersburg, Pa., Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. David MacFarlane, of Bayonne, N. J., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Garrett, last week.
