Volunteer Firemen Receive 13 Alarms In Busy Year-End

Year Goes Up In Smoke As Rush Of Fires Break Out Since Christmas Day

The old year is really going up in smoke, with 13 fire alarms received by the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company from Christmas Day through last Monday.

Prior to the major barn fire on Christmas Day, Newark's volunteer firemen prevented damage to an automobile on Kirkwood Highway at 9:40 that morning, and extinguished a field fire at 1:03 p.m. off South Chapel Street.

Last Friday, at 3:38 p.m., Aetna-men responded to an alarm concerning a burning fence and dump on university property off South Chapel Street, and at 5:10 that same afternoon, Deputy Chief Olan Thomas led 24 men with three trucks to extinguish a fire with minor damage to a new house in Newkirk Estates. The house was unoccupied.

Less than an hour later, Asst. Chief George Smith led 11 men with one truck to prevent fire damage to an automobile on Gray's Lane.

Newark's fire-fighters received two alarms on Saturday, extinguishing field fires off Nottingham Road at 12:08 p.m., and at Madison Drive in College Park, at 2:28 p.m.

On Sunday, at 11:05 a.m., George Smith led 16 men with one truck in quelling a brush fire off South College Avenue, and at 11:40 the same morning, Chief Clifford Knotts led 16 men and one engine to put out a chimney fire on New London Avenue. No damage was reported.

And that wasn't the end of a busy Sunday for Newark's firemen. At 1:55 p.m., Olan Thomas and 17 men with one engine were engaged in battling a brush fire off Rountree Avenue. On Monday at 11:10 a.m., Chief Knotts and 12 men with one engine extinguished a fire in an automatic washer-dryer at a Brookside house that was filled with smoke. The only damage reported, was to the appliance.

And at 1 p.m., Monday, Newark firemen put out a fire in the roof of a 2½-story house on Ott's Chapel Road. Sparks from a fireplace burned a hole in the roof.

Missionary Knighted For Work In Congo To Speak Sunday For Newark Methodists

A Methodist minister and a real knight without shining armor, who has helped open two major mission stations in the heart of the Belgian Congo, will speak at The Newark Methodist Church this Sunday, at 6:30 after a covered-dish supper which will begin at 5:30 p.m.

For his work in the Congo, the Belgian Government in 1952 knighted Mr. Wheeler for "outstanding pioneer service."

The Rev. Henry T. Wheeler, whose American home is Matoka, W. Va., has returned to the United States for a year's furlough from missionary service.

For the last four years, Mr. Wheeler has served at the city of Kindu, a Congo "boomtown" of 36,000 population. He opened the first Methodist church at Kindu in 1954 and has supervised the building of three churches, nine staff houses and two schools. The Kindu Methodist Urban Center now has evangelistic, social and educational programs.

From 1928, when Mr. Wheeler first went to the mission field, until 1936, he pioneered in the opening of the Tunda mission station. Among the jobs that had to be done was building a 75-mile automobile road through dense jungle. He also opened schools and churches in 40 villages in the vicinity of Tunda.

From 1938 to 1943, Mr. Wheeler was district superintendent and supervisor of building at the Minga station. In 1943 he returned to Tunda to build a hospital of 100 beds. He served at Tunda until being appointed to Kindu.

Born in Lashmeet, W. Va., Mr. Wheeler is a graduate of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., and holds a theological diploma from Asbury Seminary. For two years before going to the mission field, he was the pastor of the Staffordville, Va., Methodist circuit.

This program will be the first session of the annual School of Missions held at the Newark church. The second session will be held Sunday, Jan. 11, at 7:30 p.m.

During the 11-day period, from Dec. 13 to 23, Newark Post Office employees processed a total of 1,991,149 pieces of mail, including 730,129 items of outgoing mail, and 1,261,020 pieces of incoming mail. A total of 63 extra persons were employed for a 10-day period at Newark to assist with the peak load of holiday mailing.

Comings of Purdue Selected As Dean Of Engineering

Chemical, Metallurgical Engineering School Head To Fill Hagerty's Post

Dr. Edward W. Comings, head of the school of chemical and metallurgical engineering at Purdue University since 1951, has been appointed dean of the school of engineering at the University of Delaware, succeeding William W. Hagerty who left the university last August to accept the deanship of the school of engineering at the University of Texas.

"Dr. Comings' education, experience in research and teaching, and in the development and administration of a large engineering department qualify him admirably to assume the overall leadership of our engineering school," President John A. Perkins said.

"At a time when so many engineering schools are seeking outstanding deans, we are most fortunate to have secured this distinguished man for the University of Delaware."

Dean Comings will not assume his full-time position until June but, in the meantime, will devote about 20 per cent of his time to the University of Delaware. This association will permit him to become familiar with the personnel and facilities of the university and assist in planning the activities of the school of engineering.

Born in Phillipsburg, N. J., he received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Illinois in 1930 and his doctor of science degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1934. Both degrees are in chemical engineering.

Prior to joining the Purdue faculty, Dr. Comings was an assistant professor at the University of Illinois, where he served from 1936 to 1951. During his career, which includes experience in industry as well as in engineering education, he has been active in research, including properties of gases at high pressures and the study of jets, fluid flow, drying, and liquid extractions.

University Barn, Sheep Destroyed In Christmas Fire

100 Volunteer Firemen Battle Christmas Day Blaze At U. of D. Farm

Fire destroyed a barn at the University of Delaware farm on Christmas Day, killing 10 lambs, six ewes and two rams, although 18 Holstein heifers escaped.

Blazing shingles were blown into a field and the grass burned to the edge of Brookside before firemen from four companies washed it out.

The barn—an old frame structure with a modern metal roof—was leveled to its stone foundation. More than 100 tons of hay and perhaps 50 tons of straw were destroyed.

Dr. J. H. Shropshire, associate professor of animal husbandry, was in charge of the early lambing experiment, part of a trend to get lambs to market at different times in order to keep prices up.

The company was called at 2:15 p.m. and stopped the grass fire 20 feet short of Brookside at 6:30 p.m.

Volunteer firemen from Elkton, Christiana, and Mill Creek Fire aided the Aetna-men, and 100 men were involved.

Heavy smoke covered the south-west section of Brookside for some four hours, forcing the closing of South Chapel Street from the farm to Chestnut Hill Road.

Careful Pruning Advised In Trim From Evergreens

Don't expect your outdoor evergreens to give too much of themselves for the Yuletide indoor decor. This isn't the most cozy season for major pruning operations, but a bit of light snipping will do no harm if you scatter your efforts over several trees.

Graceful evergreens are gracious about giving up foliage. Best bet is to make only small cuttings and leave the heavy pruning until the proper time in Spring.

Not all evergreen greenery is suitable for room decoration. Spruce and hemlock will shower the residence with needles after a few days' exposure to your heating system.

Yew, fir, holly and arbutus are more resistant to drying and make much better cuttings, for this reason.

Effects are restricted only by the artistic know-how of the decorator. By careful selection of evergreens, a dozen different chromatic effects can be achieved. The range may be from the silver found on the underside of the balsam fir down through the dark, lustrous greens of the yew.

For striking texture contrasts, you can utilize the short, stiff needles of the white spruce against the long, graceful hanging foliage of the umbrella pines. Some home owners are inclined to ignore the beauties of the high-color hollies because of the absence of red berries. However, artificial berries are available in any variety store and last even longer than the real ones.

4-H's Make The Best Better

Joan Brown Russell Boyce Patty Goff Donald Starkey

Delaware's 4-H'er, Joan Brown, 18, of Newark, won the state award in the 4-H Clothing program. In recognition, Miss Brown received an all-expense trip, awarded by Coats & Clark Inc., to the National 4-H Club Congress held in Chicago the first week in December.

Miss Brown's very first dress won her a place in the Queen's Court at the county achievement day fair. She has since exhibited at the New Castle County and Delaware Fairs every year and has usually entered from three to 11 garments in the achievement day and Kent-Sussex Fairs.

This talented young seamstress has completed more than 100 garments in her six years as a member of the White Oak 4-H Club. She does not hesitate to select difficult and complicated items for her projects.

Miss Brown is a freshman at Golden Beacom College. Russell Boyce, 20, of Laurel, state winner in the 4-H Poultry program, also received a trip to the congress provided by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

During his first summer as a poultryman, Boyce noticed his birds drooping in the heat. Realizing that the hot weather might claim some of his birds, he made two fans for his chicken house and saved his project from heavy losses.

Boyce's chickens have since won seven first places at the county fair.

Named "Delaware's Outstanding Poultry Boy" of 1958, Boyce has also won the county poultry award four years in a row.

Patty Goff, 19, of Mount Cuba, won the state award in 4-H Girls' Home Economics and a trip to the congress, provided by Montgomery Ward.

In 1951, Miss Goff joined the Y's Owl 4-H Club and started an ambitious home economics project. She has since made 52 garments, completed nine home improvement projects, and exhibited canned and frozen foods at the fair. She has given some 12 home economics demonstrations before local and county groups.

In 1957, Miss Goff was New Castle County home economics medal winner.

Donald Ray Starkey, 17, Felton, is a firm believer in the importance to agriculture of newest scientific discoveries and modern technology. Chosen state winner in the 4-H Boys' Agricultural program, he was awarded a trip to the national congress, provided by International Harvester Co.

A productive livestock project and an excellent tractor maintenance record put this ambitious teenager into state limelight this year.

When Starkey joined the Houston Cardinal 4-H Club in 1954, he had one heifer as a project. This year, he raised his herd to 12 animals, completed a tractor project, and grew six acres of soy beans.

At the 1958 Kent County Fair, Starkey had one grand champion, tied for first in dairy judging and won the tractor title. Later, he placed second in the state tractor finals. He also won a top prize for animal fitting and showmanship.

These 4-H programs are conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

U. of D. Agricultural Extension Service

We Americans are indeed fortunate for we always seem to have enough to eat. Our bountiful harvests continue to keep us among the best fed people of the world, and 1958 gives promise of being another year of abundance. Because of this abundance, retail food prices are expected to average a little lower than the record level of this past year.

This good news is based on expectations of larger supplies and lower prices for hogs, poultry products, fresh vegetables and potatoes. Not all food prices will be lower and part of the reduced farm prices will be offset by further increases in processing and marketing costs.

Even so, the thought of lower food prices, however slight, is encouraging to the family food shopper.

Let's take a quick look at what 1959 offers.

Beef—There will be a little more beef on the market but the increase will be less than the increase in our population. Beef prices will be like this in '59.

Pork—Pork supplies for 1959 will be heavy and prices will be much lower. Look for a sharp decline in prices early in the new year. This winter and spring is the time to buy pork.

Lamb—Sheep production is increasing, however a very little more lamb is expected on the market in '59 so prices will average about as they did in '58.

Veal—The calf crop will be larger, but many will be held back for fattening herds to make more beef later.

Poultry—Large supplies of chickens and turkeys will continue and prices will remain low.

Eggs—Large egg supplies promise to keep egg prices down at least as low as, and perhaps lower than, in 1958.

Vegetables—Fresh and canned vegetables will be more plentiful and frozen ones less plentiful than last winter. Those that will be particularly plentiful are tomato juice, tomatoes, snap beans, sauerkraut and peas.

Fish—Look for increased supplies of canned fish through the winter. Large packs of salmon, tuna and sardines make them plentiful.

Teen-Ager Feeding Farm-Home Week Discussion Topic

Annual Program At UD
Scheduled Feb. 10-12
With Variety Of Topics

"How Hungry is Your Teenager?" is just one of many questions which speakers at the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Week, Feb. 10-12, will try to answer.

Miss Mayton Zickelsoose, nutrition consultant, Delaware State Board of Health, will talk about the problems involved with feeding the teen-age girl, the poorest fed member of the family, and the teen-age boy who has the highest food requirements in the family.

"Building and Maintaining Normal Mental Health" is another topic to be the subject of a symposium.

Members will include Dr. Emma Reinhold, Colwyck High School guidance counselor; Dr. Gorham Lane, professor of psychology, University of Delaware; William Grace, pastor, Olivet Presbyterian Church, Wilmington; and Merton Berger, mental health association of Delaware.

The Wednesday afternoon and evening programs will be devoted to the home gardener's subject which has been moved up to become a part of the Farm and Home Week program. In the past it has been held in March.

Other topics and speakers will be "Spring Accessories for Milady's Wardrobe" by Mary Houghton, fashion coordinator, Wanamakers; "Political Aspects of Aging" by Paul Dolan, University of Delaware; the New American Look in Living" by Beth Peterson, DuPont home economist; "Meat in the Modern Man" by Ronald Davis, National Livestock and Meat Board, Chicago; "Sew it Yourself-Home Furnishings for the Limited Budget" by Satenig Sahjian, Greist Manufacturing Company.

"All candidates are magicians after the elections and hard to find after the election," Tom McNight.

THE OUTLOOK IS GOOD

What is the outlook for the farm equipment industry in 1959?

That question, naturally, was asked when the Farm Equipment Institute held its annual meeting a short time ago, and the consensus of the delegates, without exception, was that the outlook is good. Estimates held that business would increase by 10 per cent or more.

These estimates are based on a solid groundwork of fact. The population continues to grow. But the proportion of that population engaged in farming continues to decline, and the average size of the American farm is rising. This means that fewer people must account for more production. And a major key to that accomplishment is modern equipment.

Looking at it another way, the wage rates of hired farm labor have increased a smashing 313 per cent since 1940. Even if farmers could bear this cost, competent labor is often unavailable. Again, the machine, along with the other modern aids to agriculture, provides the answer.

This brings up an extremely important matter—the cost of that machinery. And here the record is a striking one. Taking 1947-49 as a base, labor costs in the industry have increased 64 per cent, finished steel prices 81.6 per cent, and tractor and implement tires 55.6 per cent. But during that same period, the prices charged for agricultural machinery and equipment, including tractors, have risen only 38.3 per cent.

To sum up, today farm equipment is not only a necessity, but an excellent buy.

IT'S PEOPLE WHO COUNT

Nearly every one knows about the new drugs that control pneumonia and tuberculosis and the Salk vaccine that prevents polio paralysis.

What most of us generally forget is that behind these medical triumphs are people. Without skilled people in the clinics, the hospitals and the research laboratories, the fight against disease could not go on.

Despite our recent advances in medical science, there is a growing shortage of these trained disease fighters. We need over 100,000 more nurses, physical and occupational therapists, medical social workers, doctors and experts all down the line from clinical practice to laboratory research.

To fill this gap in medical manpower, The National Foundation has just announced the most impressive plan for health scholarships in our history.

The National Foundation, originally known as the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is the voluntary health organization that runs the March of Dimes, gave patient aid to some 325,000 polio victims, financed the Salk vaccine and educated 70 million Americans to use it as protection against polio paralysis. It is now expanding its scope to include, besides polio, America's No. 1 cripple—arthritis—and the nation's most unmet childhood problem—birth defects.

Over the next 10 years The National Foundation proposes to set aside $12 million in March of Dimes funds to help 505 students each year get college training in the health professions. Each scholarship will pay $500 a year for four years. The National Foundation's 3,100 chapters will select from each state five to 25 students a year, depending on population.

Through this scholarship plan, The National Foundation is putting the emphasis for winning the health back on people. And it's people who count.

DRAWING FALSE CONCLUSIONS

One common excuse we hear for not getting polio shots is that "There no reason to worry about polio any longer. Why, there were less than 6,000 cases in the whole United States last year." The person who says that is well-informed on statistics. But the conclusion he draws is dangerously incorrect.

Polio did drop off from 28,983 cases in 1955 to 15,400 in 1956, and then to 5,894 in 1957. But the principal reason for the encouraging drop in incidence was the fact that millions of Americans were taking advantage of the protection offered by the Salk vaccine. Most of the cases recorded last year were totally unnecessary, the result of failure to vaccinate.

It is difficult for some people to understand that they receive no protection whatever from their neighbors' vaccination. The protected neighbor may not get the paralytic disease, but he still is capable of passing the virus on to others. Lulled into a false sense of security, the unvaccinated may walk the streets with no more protection than those who fell victim to the disease during the terrible polio epidemics of the pre-Salk era.

Many parents who have been quick to insist upon vaccinations for their children of school age fail to realize that these same children can still bring the disease into the home, where it may find prime targets among infants and adults who have not had the Salk shots.

No one can tell how widely the virus will be distributed during the coming months. Certainly, you will not be able to detect its presence in your community. There is only one way to remove yourself and your children from the target area. Go to your doctor—or to your polio vaccination clinic—and start the three-shot series TODAY. Don't be among those unfortunate people who waited until it was too late.

A native of Tennessee, Mrs. Savage owned a house on East Main Street, Christiana, where she lived with her son in Knoxville in 1956. Her husband, Levi N. Savage, Sr., died in 1955. A member of the Christiana Presbyterian Church, she would have been 82 years old this month.

Disabled Vets, Widows Urged To Report Income

Some 1,200 disabled veterans and widows of veterans in Delaware who receive monthly pension payments are being reminded by the Veterans Administration to report their annual income promptly and thus avoid the risk of having their payments stopped.

Leon Fields, manager of the VA regional office at Wilmington, said that VA is now mailing to all pension recipients a tabulating card upon which the income report may be made. Pensions cease if the income of a single individual exceeds $1,500—or $2,700 if the recipient has dependents.

Regulations require payment to be stopped if the income report is not received within 30 days.

Elm Log Burning Will Save Trees From '59 Beetles

Give elm bark beetles a log and they'll take a tree. That, in effect, is what can happen when you keep green elmwood around as fireplace logs. Elm bark beetles nest in such wood over the winter, their favorite cafeterias.

The home owner who expects to keep wood into next season because he has had some dead or dying elms removed and has cut and stored the trunk and larger branches may be in for a peek of landscape trouble.

H. A. Toney, field supervisor of the Davey Tree Expert Co., says all elmwood cut down in the past six months should be burned before next spring. At that time the beetles will take wing to feed and spread the deadly Dutch elm disease.

Most people select the driest wood first for fuel because it burns easier and better. This is good for heat but hardly comforting when it comes to destroying live beetles lurking inside and waiting for the first chance to take wing.

The first step in the control of Dutch elm disease is sanitation, a term that simply means destruction of the wood in which the disease carrier, the elm bark beetle, can breed. This means burning all wood that may be infested, including fallen branches and trunks as well as the woodpile.

The beetle breeds only in those parts of elm trees that are recently cut, dead or drying and which still have tightly adhering bark.

"Y" Membership Program Planned For Newark Area

The Newark YMCA membership committee met Monday evening to plan for 1959 enrollment. Dr. Lowell Perkins, former chairman of the Newark YMCA, heads the committee.

Members of the committee made tentative plans to contact those whose memberships expire in the first three months of 1959, and a more extensive campaign to interpret the program of the YMCA for the community was discussed.

Assisting Dr. Perkins on these assignments are Frank Rush, Robert Auer, Holger Schaumann, Mrs. Artemis Mavromatis, Mrs. Edward Cooper, Ray Keese, John Hopper, Mrs. Cora Saunders, Herman Handloff and Frank Mullen, who will meet monthly for the first part of 1959 in order to complete plans for coverage of the Newark area.

The current YMCA informal adult education courses are the first in the series of new programs for Newark.
