Omicron Delta Kappa Initiates Seven New Members

Initiation of Dr. Carl J. Rees and six students as active members of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary leadership society took place last Wednesday at 6 p.m.

The six students initiated included four seniors and two juniors.

Senior Terrell W. Bynum, chemistry and philosophy major is president of Belmont Hall, co-editor of Concept and president of the philosophy club. Richard W. Feeny, agronomy major, is vice-president of the SGA, and a member of the Student Personnel Problems Committee.

Meeting the challenge of faster-than-average enrollment growth is the major problem confronting the university's faculty, staff and board of trustees in the 1960's.

Growth problems were highlighted Saturday at the semi-annual meeting of the trustees where major board actions related to accommodating a rapidly increasing student population.

BOARD ACTIONS

Among the board actions were approval of plans for another dormitory-dining hall complex, appropriation of funds for the enlargement of the Student Center and the acquisition of much-needed land for campus facilities.

E-52 Drama Group To Stage 'Hamlet' In Campus Theatre

Peter Wilson, as Laertes, attacks King Claudius (played by guest actor Mark Watts) and accuses him for the death of his father in a scene from "Hamlet," the E 52 Shakespearean Production which opened last night in Mitchell Hall. It will be repeated tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 P.M.

Choir Christmas Concert Features Poulenc's 'Gloria'

Francis Poulenc's "Gloria," which received its world premiere less than two years ago, will be performed by the university Concert Choir at its annual Christmas Concert Thursday and Friday.

The "Gloria," and the more traditional Back "Magnificat in D" will make up the program to be given in Mitchell Hall.

Thursday night is the public performance at 8:15 p.m., with the second night designed primarily for students and other members of the campus community. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. to allow time for the annual Christmas carol sing in front of the library immediately following.

Soloists in the "Magnificat" will be Winifred Buzinskis, AS-3, mezzo-soprano; Dorothy Rathje, alto; Donald Morgan, tenor; and Joseph Krewatch, bass. Guest soloist will be Shirley Tedford, soprano.

Commissioned by the Koussevitsky Foundation of the Library of Congress, the "Gloria" was written in a style similar to Vivaldi works, with text based on the liturgy.

The performances, open to the public without charge, will be under the direction of Dr. Ivan Trusler, director of the university's choral organizations.

Nationally Known Society Initiates Seven Engineers

Delaware Alpha of Tau Beta Pi, national engineering honor society, recently initiated seven Delaware men into the chapter.

Welcomed into the society at a banquet held at the Kent Manor Inn on Nov. 30 were Assistant Professor of Chemical Engineering Dr. John R. Ferron and six undergraduates:

INTERNATIONAL

* The meeting between Russian First Deputy Premier Mikoyan and President Kennedy on November 29 was reported to have been without any agreement. The Russians still linger in their vow to take troops and bombers off of Cuba. In accordance to previous agreement, the U. S. has lifted its Cuba blockade.

* Dean Rusk stated in a television interview on November 28 that the free world must not be complacent as a result of the rift between Red China and Russia. The basic difference between the two countries' foreign policy of Communist conquest is, according to Rusk, that the Chinese advocate a harsher, franker approach, while that of the Russians is "more subtle and sophisticated."

Murphy Discusses Greek Expansion; Notes Importance Of Physical Plant

"Expansion can be had only if you are willing to work for it", said J. Edward Murphy Tuesday night in an informal discussion with fraternity men and interested independents.

"A body of kindred souls, with common goals, willing to carry out their interests" - this is the only prerequisite for establishing a new chapter. Within 30 days we can form groups as good as the ones on this campus. A stranger couldn't tell them apart."

Mr. Murphy continually stressed that physical plants do not come overnight. The charter members of the fledgling chapters must be willing to work for their houses. They should be aware that they may have to meet in public facilities until they are financially able to rent a home. Once the independents decided to affiliate with a national, they can then expect some help from local alumni and perhaps some financial aid also.

The gathering in the Morgan-Vallandigham Room was told that "the system has been a highly successful and intrinsic part in the development of the university, scholastically and otherwise.....If the fraternity system is good for fraternity men, it is good for many more. If it is good for others, now is the time to do something about expansion."

Mr. Murphy challenged the Women To Change Name To Conform With Laws

WEC has changed its name to the Executive Council of the Association of Women students.

Delaware's female student body will now be officially referred to as the Association of Women Students.

The change is in accordance with the constitution of the Intercollegiate Associate of Women Students, which suggests that all collegiate women's governing bodies standardize their names.

The LAWS, the only national governing power, was created in order to help women govern themselves during their college careers. Self-government not only strengthens leaders, but improves the whole campus community. Leadership, the LAW feels, will increase women's ability to fulfill the role of the educated woman in society.

A LAWS area meet is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 8, at the University of Maryland. The Executive Council of Delaware's AWS will be represented by Lloyd Blackburn, AS3; Corinne Hager, AS4; Kathy Hager, PE4; Judy Hartmaier, AS3; Barbara McLaren, AS4; Nancy Schafer, AS4; Beth Ward, HE4; Judy Williams, ED4; Mary Martha Whitworth, AS3; and Miss Love, advisor to the Executive Council. Beth Ward is Delaware's contact to LAWS.

The agenda of the meeting will include discussion of new ideas and problems in women's government and a speaker from the Labor Department, Mrs. Barker.

Soph Art Class To Deliver Two Design Seminars

Professor Julio Acuna of the art and art history department announces the presentation of seminars to be given by his sophomore class, Design 102.

The seminars will be presented at 3 p.m. in 216, Robinson Hall on Tuesday, and Thursday. They are open to students and faculty who may be interested in attending.

They will be presented as follows:

Tuesday - Art Nouveau Moderator, Donald Wagner, ED5; Panelist, Barbara Price, ED5; Linda Motley, ED5; Sandra Morley, ED5; Margaret Heller, ED5.

Thursday - Design in Advertising in the United States

Moderator, John Landis, AS5; panelists, Carol Herter, HE5; Doris Jarmon, AS4; Anne Pearson, ED4; Virginia Green, AS4.

Discussion and coffee will follow after each seminar in 102, Robinson Hall.

Sophs To Sponsor Folk Song Group Pete, Paul, Mary

Peter, Paul and Mary, nationally known folk-singing group, will appear in Carpenter Field House, Dec. 14 from 10 to 12 p.m.

The trio is being sponsored by the sophomore class. Tickets are now on sale during lunch and dinner hours at the main desk in the Student Center. The price is two dollars.

Phi Tau Stresses Brotherhood, Unity

On December 6, 1924, the Alpha Gamma Chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity was founded at Delaware.

Phi Kappa Tau goes back to March 17, 1906, when it was founded at Miami University of Ohio. Alpha Gamma is the twenty-seventh of seventy-six chapters of Phi Kappa Tau stretching from coast to coast.

The president of Alpha Gamma is Henry Kuratie, III, a senior agronomy major; the vice president is William E. Warren, a junior English major; the treasurer is Walter H. McCoy, a senior in business administration; and the secretary is Ojars Lidums, a senior history major. These capable officers are in charge of the varied activities of the chapter.

Members of Phi Kappa Tau have interests outside the fraternity as well as within it. Brothers hold officerships in Alpha Zeta honorary fraternity, IFC, Student Center Council, and ASCE, as well as participating in other campus, community, and religious activities.

living and working together, we hope to improve ourselves and to further our educations. This strive for betterment is manifested in the academic, athletic, and social aspects of campus life.

NEW SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Alpha Gamma is now operating under a new scholarship program through which a great deal of help and incentive is given for study. An up-to-date record is kept of each brother's academic progress and help is offered if needed. Every Phi Tau is sincerely interested in his brother's problems and is always willing to offer aid where possible.

A program of incentives is also in effect. Our Graduate Council offers a twenty-five dollar savings bond to any pledge receiving an index of 3.00 or better, and a bond is also awarded to the brother with the most improved index. Scholastic trophies are also awarded.

The brothers of Phi Tau are also interested in athletics. There is participation in all Santa adds cheer to Phi Tau's annual Christmas party.

UNIFIED, YET DIVERSIFIED

Alpha Gamma Chapter has forty-three brothers and pledges who are engaged in all aspects of educational endeavor. A source of pride to the brotherhood is the fact that there is no stereo-typed image of a Phi Tau. We have a unified brotherhood with diversified interests.

The emphasis of the fraternity is upon brotherhood. By intramural athletics as well as participation in varsity athletics. More emphasis is being placed upon this aspect of our activities which we hope will result in more victories.

SOCIAL ASPECT
Another point of pride with the brothers of Phi Tau is our excellent social life. We are a social fraternity, and this aspect is not neglected. Phi Tau sponsors a series of coffee hours, open houses, house parties, banquets, and other activities climaxed in the spring with the annual Phi Tau Weekend featuring a formal dinner-dance, a house party, and a

Kent Dorm Hosts Annual Faculty Tea On Sunday

Kent dorm will host its annual Faculty Tea on Sunday, December 9. Invitations have been extended to 80 faculty couples for the informal gathering, which begins at 2:30 p.m.

Carolyn Gibe, HE4, heads the planning committee for the affair, while Carol Ann Bracklin, HE4; Trudy Foraker, HE4; and Betty Ann Genevick, AS3, serve as advisory board and assistants to the chairman.

The event is one of the highlights of Kent's social year and it is hoped that faculty members will avail themselves of the opportunity to meet and talk with the dormitory group.

IFC Sponsors Peabody Players

Inter-fraternity Council will sponsor the Peabody Woodwind Ensemble on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Sigma Nu house. The ensemble is composed of students from the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore.

They are: Wilda Heiss, flute; John Marin, oboe; Christopher Wolfer, clarinet; William Hamilton, horn; and Karl Porter, bassoon.

Students and faculty are invited to attend.

Twenty-four women were initiated into Kappa Delta Pi, education honor society, Wednesday night.

Honor Society Inducts 24 Future Educators

Kappa Delta Pi, an honor society in education initiated twenty-four new members into its fellowship on Wednesday evening.

Those initiated in the formal ceremony held in the Faculty Lounge of the Student Center are both juniors and seniors planning careers in education.

They are: Emily Brown, ED3; Joyce DeLussa, ED; Mary Gladling, ED3; Peggy Henriksen, ED3; Midge K'Burg, ED3; Loreta Lazarczyk, ED3; Barbara Mc-

Kee, AS3; Joan Nelson, ED3; Helen Palmer AS3; Laura Willis, ED3; Doreen Woodward, AS3; Lynn Eyster, ED4; Linda Gibbons, ED4; Janet Hall, ED4; Linda Hirschfield, ED4; Sylvia Hymovitz, ED4; Deborah Isaacs, AS4; Virginia Kelbler, AS4; Carolyn Lane, ED4; Ann Pearson, ED4; Pat Randall, ED4; Karen Stewart, ED4; Anne Marie Tavani, AS4; and Catherine Weaver, AS4.

PURPOSE

Part of the purpose of Kappa

Delta Pi is to recognize outstanding contributions to education and those educators and teachers who, through their excellence in teaching, exemplify our ideals.

The Zeta Omicron chapter announced the election of Dr. Evelyn Clift, associate professor of ancient languages and literatures, and Dr. Anna DeArmond, associate professor of English, to honorary membership. Both were honored in a ceremony immediately following the initiation of active members.

OFFICERS

The officers performing the ceremonies were president of the chapter, Jane Barker, ED3; vice president, Jean Wootten, AS3; secretary, Bobbie Kappel, ED3; treasurer, Pat Coyne, ED3; historian, Phyllis Batten, AS3; and counselor, Miss Aletha Pitts of the school of education.

A banquet held in the Morgan-Valandingham Room followed the initiation. Dr. Charles Bohner, assistant professor of English, was invited as our guest speaker on American Education.

Noted Physics Expert To Give Campus Talk

Professor John A. Sauer, Professor of Physics at the Pennsylvania State University, will serve as a visiting lecturer at the university Wednesday and Thursday.

He will visit under the auspices of the American Association of Physics Teachers and the American Institute of Physics as part of a broad, nationwide program to stimulate interest in physics. The program is now in its sixth year and is supported by the National Science Foundation.

Professor Sauer will give lectures, hold informal meetings with students and assist faculty members with curriculum and research problems. Professor Ferd E. Williams, head of the department of physics will be in charge of arrangements for Professor Sauer's visit.

Dr. Sauer received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Rutgers University in 1934 and 1936 respectively and his Ph.D. from the University of Cambridge, England in 1942. He did graduate work at Harvard and Oxford universities and taught at Union County, New Jersey Junior College, Rutgers University, and the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

From 1941 to 1944, Dr. Sauer served as Lecturer in Physics at the University of Pittsburgh and Senior Fellow of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research. For the next two years he was Assistant to the President and Director of Engineering and Research of the Elastic Stop Nut Corporation of America.

DR. JOHN A. SAUER

He was appointed in 1946 as Professor and Head of the Department of Engineering Mechanics of The Pennsylvania State University and in 1953 was made Professor and Head of the Department of Physics. He served in both capacities until 1962; he is now Professor of Physics.

He is a member of the Society of the Sigma Xi, Sigma

What's Going On Here

A group of isolated incidents have occurred on campus since the Thanksgiving recess which, although each is unfortunate enough in itself, collectively manifest poor coordination of student affairs.

The first of these concerns the barricades erected by the maintenance department. Undoubtedly, the department had the right to attempt to stop the grass cutting which they felt not only detracted from the beauty of the campus through the paths subsequently created but also increased the university's grass maintenance costs unnecessarily.

They chose, in our opinion, a very immature approach to the problem by creating barricades, putting down manure, and taking names of the violators. We feel, however, the most unfortunate aspect involved concerns the complete disregard of the opportunity to channel the information to the students through the Student Government Association and the Review.

In the new university catalogue it states: Upon entering the university, each full-time, undergraduate student automatically becomes a member of the Student Government Association. This organization assumes the responsibility of self-government delegated to it by the faculty and trustees in the interest of the university.

Student Government officers are elected by vote of the student body. These elected representatives bring the extracurricular needs of the students to the attention of the Administration and serve to interpret university policy to the student body.

Student committees, elected, or appointed by the Student Government Association officers, promote interest in student activities, and with the cooperation of the faculty and administration regulate matters concerning student life.

SGA in this instance could not interpret these rules because they were unaware of the action until it was enforced by campus police. Thus, both SGA and the Review were unable to perform their helpful functions of communication to the student body.

The ironic note, however, concerns the names that were taken by the campus police and turned into the Dean of Students office. As yet, members of the Dean of Students office are unclear about the action of the campus police and as to the one responsible for initiating this action.

Another incident which concerns us of late, has to do with traffic regulations in the Student Center. These rules, initiated after a traffic survey, were intended to facilitate free movement of traffic in the overcrowded lot. The system involved making the entrance to the lot the drive from Academy Street, and the exit of Courtney Street. Granted, the idea has merit but unfortunately, (a) the new regulations have not been publicized, (b) inadequate signs were installed.

This year the city of Wilmington is in the process of changing the direction of many of its streets. Before this is done, however, the changes are first adequately publicized in both the Morning News and the Journal. The Review would have been happy to be of the same assistance. Moreover, this safety measure was installed during the Thanksgiving recess when no-one was around to see what was being done.

Our only complaint about part (b) is the fact that the sign by Academy Street is small, obscure, and on the wrong side of the drive. Is an accident to occur before one realizes that this is a safety measure?

The third, and last incident, which concerns us here, is the new basketball ticket distribution policy of the athletic department, designed to eliminate a repeat of the St. Joe's game of last year. Why didn't the students have a voice in this policy?

Each spring the athletic department presents to SGA its plans for football ticket distribution in the fall. Doesn't our student government deserve the same consideration during basketball season? Wouldn't SGA have, by pure numbers, a better chance of innovating a better policy than the present inadequate, wasteful one that we feel will cause people to get their tickets early to assure a seat and then not attend the game. Also wouldn't it be advisable to distribute the tickets in such a way that people will not have to stand in exits due to over-crowding. Therefore, the fire hazard which occurred last Saturday would be eliminated.

What we propose is that the Dean of Students office, which has ultimate responsibility in the area of student affairs, better utilize the existing channels of communications through the Student Government Association and the Review. Therefore, SGA could better perform its stated function of interpreting university policy in toto to the student body.

"You know, since that barricade business I got the strongest feeling we're not alone."

By LOUISE MAHRU

Four years ago in a Paris newspaper, L'EXPRESS, there appeared a timely cartoon. It was the April, 1958 edition of the Gaullist paper, but it has humorous bearing on today's France.

The pictorial satire showed General de Gaulle as Mozart's DON GIOVANNI commander. Crouching in the corner of the drawing were Don Juan-Gaillard and Leporello-Lacoste whispering about the commander. "I saw it move."

Move it did, in fact. But the trek to 1962 political triumph was no Odyssey for De Gaulle. It was constant uphill struggle, won only by his undaunted perseverance and unquenchable authority.

BACKWARD GLANCE

Fashioned into a national hero of the Resistance period during the war, he assumed his country's leadership in the faltering Fourth Republic. Indignant at the inefficiency of this system, De Gaulle retired to his villa at Colombey-les-deux-Eglises. Moderately active with his RPF group, he dissolved it in 1953 when he saw that despite his aspirations for it to become a supra-party force for unified progress, the RPF was becoming rapidly partisan.

Until 1958 he awaited his cue for a grand entrance. As one Frenchman said, "Caught between red terror and white terror, France was scared blue."

AT THE HELM

De Gaulle took into his own strong hands the reins of political power lost by the incompetent Fourth Republic. With the permission of the French populace he ruled by decree for 6 months; he drew up a new constitution, saved France from bankruptcy, quadrupled the French reserves, terminated the frightfully expensive Algerian War, and harnessed the galloping inflation.

France owed him a greater gratitude for his most outstanding contribution. He gave her back her morale, her grandeur, her pride, all lost since Hitler's conquest and the Petain traitor regime.

De Gaulle stabilized French government, spurred on the lagging economy, put hope and renewed national pride in the heart of every citizen, as well as restoring to France her humbled international prestige.

As we all know, conversation is terribly important on a date. When lulls in the conversation run longer than an hour or two, one's partner is inclined to grow lopy—even sullen. But occasionally one finds it difficult to keep the talk going, especially when one is having a first date with one. What, then, does one do?

If one is wise, one follows the brilliant example of Harlow Thurlow. Harlow Thurlow prepares. That is his simple secret. When Harlow is going to take out a new girl, he makes sure in advance that the conversation will not languish. Before the date, he goes to the library and reads all 24 volumes of the encyclopedia and transcribes their contents on his cuffs. Thus he makes sure that no matter what his date's interests are, he will have ample material to keep the conversation alive.

Take, for example, Harlow's first date with Priscilla de Gasser, a fine, strapping, blue-eyed broth of a girl, lavishly constructed and rosy as the dawn.

Harlow was, as always, prepared when he called for Priscilla, and, as always, he did not start to converse immediately. First he took her to dinner because, as everyone knows, it is useless to try to make conversation with an unfed coed. Her attention span is negligible. Also, her stomach rumbles so loud it is difficult to make yourself heard.

"Wash your cuffs and be my love!"

So he took her to a fine steak house where he stoked her with gobbets of Black Angus and mounds of French fries and thickets of escarole and battalions of petit fours. Then, at last, dinner was over and the waiter brought two finger bowls.

"I hope you enjoyed your dinner, my dear," said Harlow, dipping into his finger bowl.

"Oh, it was grandy-dandy!" said Priscilla. "Now let's go someplace for ribs."

"Later, perhaps," said Harlow. "But right now, I thought we might have a conversation."

"Oh, goody, goody, two-shoes!" cried Priscilla. "I been looking everywhere for a boy who can carry on a intelligent conversation."

"Your search is ended, madam," said Harlow, and pulled back his sleeves and looked at his cuffs to pick a likely topic to start the conversation.

Oh, woe! Oh, lackaday! Those cuffs on which Harlow had painstakingly transcribed so many facts—those cuffs on which he had noted such diverse and fascinating information—those cuffs, I say, were nothing now but a big, blue blur! For Harlow—poor Harlow!—splashing around in the finger bowl, had gotten his cuffs wet and the ink had run and not one word was legible! And Harlow—poor Harlow!—looked upon his cuffs and broke out in a night sweat and fell dumb.

"I must say," said Priscilla after several silent hours, "that you are a very dull fellow. I'm leaving."

With that she flounced away and poor Harlow was too crushed to protest. Sadly he sat and sadly lit a cigarette.

All of a sudden Priscilla came rushing back. "Was that," she asked, "a Marlboro you just lit?"

"Yes," said Harlow.

"Then you are not a dull fellow," she cried, and sprang into his lap. "You are bright! Anybody is bright to smoke such a perfect joy of a cigarette as Marlboro which is just chock full of yummy flavor, which has a Selectrate filter which comes in a soft pack that is really soft, and a Flip-Top Box that really flips, and which can be bought wherever cigarettes are sold in all fifty states and Duluth . . . Harlow, tiger, wash your cuffs and be my love."

"Okay," said Harlow, and did, and was.

Letters To The Editor

Letter Encourages Student Center's Cultural Program

TO THE EDITOR:

Three cheers for the Student Center Council! Those of us who went on the Philadelphia Orchestra trip Monday night enjoyed the whole evening immensely; it was an altogether delightful experience.

The featured performer, the oboist John De Langle, was superb; from our seats right under his nose, we were able to feel a remarkable rapport during the oboe concerto. Another fascinating (to many of us) aspect of our situation was that we could see Ormandy's face as he was conducting; few of us had realized how heavily he relies on facial expression, in addition to his hands.

But above all, the excitement of hearing a live orchestra, of being able to watch as well as listen, made it a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

NEXT TRIP

Hopefully, we will have the opportunity to do this several times in the coming year (the next concert for which tickets have been ordered, I understand, will be in January, featuring Van Cliburn); if the enthusiasm of this group is a reliable index, there is certainly no question of student apathy!

In view of the many letters you have been printing deploring the cultural stagnation of our student body, this should be an encouraging note.

Reader Believes Twist Is Not Editorial Material

TO THE EDITOR:

I have just finished reading the editorial of the DELEWARE (SIC) REVIEW dated November 16, entitled BE DISCREET. I think this was one of the finest satires on dancing I've ever read. At least it was written and could only have been written as such.

According to your article this is "one of the most important problems facing the student body." Oh come now. Since when are the students of Delaware or any other higher body of learning faced with such a "perplexing" problem as a national dance craze? I don't recall reading in any of my college texts where the "Black Bottom" the "Charleston" or the "Castle Rock" had influenced the tide of national or international affairs.

PRESSING PROBLEM

Yes, sir, the incident at "Ole Miss" several months ago was nothing as compared to the paramount problem that plagues the U. of D. campus! It's my only hope that news of your predicament doesn't reach the national level, as it would be a sorry sight to see the Delaware (SIC) National Guard surrounding a campus dance!

I would like to know how Irving Berlin, a man who has written many patriotic songs, had the nerve to endanger the national mores when he wrote in his new musical MR. PRESIDENT, a number entitled the WASHINGTON TWIST!!

The current controversy over that age-old punishment, the whipping post, has led us to take a few samples of university opinion on that subject.

Miss A. Janney DeArmond, Associate Professor of English:

"It's barbaric! The idea of corporal punishment, I think, is outdated."

Patti Heindol, ED5: "I think it's inhumane; it's also unnecessary and ineffective."

Tom Aldridge, AS3: "They should cut it out. I think it's mean. I don't think it serves its purpose. It doesn't cut out crime. It's been proven by surveys that people come back and do the same thing again. It's cruel to humans like whipping a dog."

Kathryn Sewell, AS5: "It depends. In some cases it would be very advantageous, and in others it would be a decided disadvantage. It should be used with discretion, fitting with the personality of the criminal and with his crime."

Mike O'Neill, AS6: "I'm for it. It keeps people more in line. It impresses in the mind an experience which a person can never forget. The memory would put terror into committing another crime for which the whipping post type of punishment would be prescribed."

Alice Hale, ED3: "I believe in corporal punishment to a certain extent, but the whipping post is outdated, crude and unnecessary."

Socialism For U.S.A.

BY TONY deLELLIS

Americans are perhaps the most vehement anti-socialists in the world.

They shudder in horror at the thought of the surrendering of their earnings to a common bank from which the whole nation draws.

DESTINY OF AMERICA

In this article, I shall endeavor to illustrate that socialism, in various forms, exists in the United States and that it might well become an accepted form in America.

The average American considers the United States to be the last outpost of the free enterprise system and completely immune to the strain (as the average American calls it) of socialism.

The average "informed" American housewife knows that socialism is the cause of the world's major evils - hunger and revolution, tyranny, and free love. There is a possibility that she would still not like socialism, even if she knew what it was.

INCOME TAXES

She probably does not realize that paying income taxes is only a step away from socialism . . . and that universal compulsory insurance in the form of social security is socialism.

America, she tries so hard to avoid it - nay, to crush it. Then she elects a President whose party causes the Socialist candidate to withdraw from the 1960 elections. There was no Socialist candidate for the Presidency in 1960 because the Democrats had taken their platform. It consisted of federal aid to education, socialized medicine, and various agricultural reforms. These policies, which the Socialists had been encouraging, have become part of the Democratic platform.

I think it does not matter whether I nor anyone else likes socialism at present. I think that we, in the United States, might be the last to choose voluntarily complete socialism but that we ultimately will - and of our own accord.

GRADUAL CHANGE

There will be no violent revolution. The changes will simply occur or evolve as we see fit. It might be that the railroad industry be nationalized. (By the will of a majority of the people). Then perhaps the trucking industry might, of necessity, follow the same course until eventually all of our major industries will be subject to observation and control by the U. S. government.

President Chides Language Courses, Urges Usage Of Modern Techniques

Dr. John A. Perkins, president of the university has called for more venturesome use of modern teaching devices by his own and other university faculties.

'It is not to higher education's credit that, except for the use of laboratories, it teaches in much the same way as did Plato in his Academy twenty-four hundred years ago,' Dr. Perkins chides in his annual report for 1961-62.

'There are too many skeptics, traditionalists and those who feel themselves mechanically inept, who are reluctant to avail themselves of these helpful services,' Dr. Perkins adds.

Jennifer Jones Stars In Weekly Campus Cinema

BY CHARLES BRANDT

'The Barretts of Wimpole street' is the featured attraction this weekend (Dec. 8 & 9) at the Campus Cinema program. Starring Jennifer Jones, John Gielgud, and Bill Travers, this inspiring movie tells the true story of one of the most famous of all romances.

Bedridden Elizabeth Barrett, is tyrannically supervised by her over-bearing father. She finds solace in poetry. This leads to her meeting with poet Robert Browning. Their ensuing impetuous love affair enables Elizabeth to recuperate and finally defy her father's rule.

The great love they felt for each other can be attested to by some of the finest love poetry in the English language. 'How do I love thee', is a line familiar to us all. It is contained in Elizabeth's volume to her husband, 'Sonnets from the Portuguese.' This film contains much of the flavor of these and Browning's outstanding poems.

This cinemascope color production was directed by Sidney Franklin. His ability to render such a touching performance from Jennifer Jones is to his credit. Bill Travers turns in a fine job. And, of course, John Gielgud is brilliant.

The feature will be shown Saturday and Sunday at 8:00 p.m. in Wolf Hall Auditorium. Admission is free.

Class Evaluates Future Problems At Coffee Hour

Graduate school and foreign study information will be discussed next Tuesday from 4-5 p.m. at a coffee given by the Senior Class.

Juniors are especially invited to attend this meeting in the Faculty Lounge of the Student Center.

Faculty members from each department will be prepared to discuss and answer questions on the opportunities and problems connected with application for further study.

RESOURCES CENTER

In September, 1961, the university established a Teaching Resources Center to assist its faculty in the use of teaching aids, such as programmed learning for teaching machines, films, slides, tape recorders and overhead projectors. Delaware faculty members were encouraged to attend workshops on programmed instruction and later held one of their own on the university campus under the supervision of the teaching resources director and his small staff.

'After surveying our situation,' President Perkins writes, 'the use of simple-to-construct slides called transparencies was concluded to be the most effective and economical first step in a wider use of visual aids. A significant number of our faculty have, under professional instruction in a workshop held on a Saturday and Sunday in the spring of 1962, learned to construct these inexpensive, but effective slides.

CLASSROOMS FITTED.

'To encourage their further use, most classrooms holding 100 or more students have been permanently outfitted with the needed overhead projectors and screens. In addition, some experimentation in the use of low cost, eight millimeter sound films in instruction is under way in public speaking and in reading.

'Such teaching aids must be widely utilized,' Dr. Perkins continues. 'We must become more efficient through enlarging the size of classes and still teach effectively. We must enable the individual to learn more and more on his own, although knowledge becomes ever more complicated.

'Funds for additional film and slide projectors, tape recorders, sound film, cameras and supplies needed to make the necessary audio-visual aids available, would be a worthwhile investment, bringing the full advantages of our technological age into higher education.'

PTA Conference To Discuss Aspects Of College Life

Parents of prospective college students will be attending a PTA Day Conference at the University tomorrow.

It is a joint project of the Delaware Congress for Parents and Teachers and the university's extension division, and is designed for parents of youth who have decided to go to college or in the opinion of their guidance counselors are college material.

Meetings will consider admission requirements, costs, student personnel services, fields of studies and the university's expectations for its students.

President John A. Perkins will greet the parents at a luncheon in Kent Dining Hall. Other speakers during the day will include George M. Worrlow, dean of the school of agriculture; Dr. Edward Ott, director of admissions; John E. Hocutt, dean of students, and Roy M. Hall, dean of the school of education.

The day will begin at 9:30 in Wolf Hall auditorium. Following lunch, the parents will meet in special sessions with members of the faculty in Allison Hall classrooms.

Norman Kugel, is chairman of the event for the Delaware Congress of Parents and Teachers.

MRHA Develops Closer Faculty-Student Relations

Presidents and newly elected Faculty Associates of the Men's residence halls attended a coffee held yesterday by the Interhall Council.

The Faculty Associate Program, originated by the Interhall Council and shared with AWS, is to have interested professors share their knowledge and culture with the residents of a hall in order to further the students' education.

This program is also intended to boost the student-faculty relations on campus by giving students the opportunity to know a few professors on an informal basis.

At several scheduled times each month the Faculty Associates will visit their residence hall become acquainted with the students and to advise them on their dorm programs.

The Faculty Associates were chosen by a committee which feels that these professors can be of benefit to the students by sharing their knowledge and because these professors are interested in students outside the classroom as well as inside.

The Interhall Council and the AWS have met several times to coordinate the selection of professors and will continue to meet until all interested faculty members have been contacted.

The professors contacted realized the lack of student-faculty relations and were glad to see this program initiated.

LIEUTENANT JOHN MONTEFUSCO, HISTORY MAJOR, CLASS OF '61

"If I had it to do over again, would I take Army R.O.T.C.?"

My wife and I are in Panama at the moment. She likes it. You know, Officers' Club, dances—that sort of thing. I like it, too. But whether I stay in the Army or not, the question is: Would I take Army R.O.T.C. if I had it to do over again? Yes, I certainly would. In spades, I didn't realize how lucky I was. At the time I figured: Okay, so I'll get my degree—get an Army commission, too, and pick up some extra money along the way! I wasn't the leadership type, I thought. I was wrong. Boy, was I wrong! Looking back on it, I wouldn't trade the leadership training I got for anything! Take my word for it, leaders are made—not born! Whether I stay in the Army or not, nobody can take away what I've learned. And let's face it, where can anybody my age step out of college and walk into a standard of living this good? Look, if you have already invested two years in college ROTC, take it from me: Stick it out! It'll be one of the smartest things you ever did. I say so."

Directory For Summer Jobs Now Available

Summer jobs listings throughout the United States for college students is now available in directory form.

The 1963 'Summer Employment Directory' gives the names and addresses of 1,485 organizations which want to employ college students. It also gives positions open, salaries, and suggestions on how to apply.

The many types of jobs in the directory are found at summer camps, resorts, various departments of the government business and industry. National parks, ranches, and summer theatres listed also need college students.

Students wishing summer work apply directly to the employers, who are included in the directory at their own request.

Copies of the new 'Summer Employment Directory' may be obtained by sending $3 to National Directory Service, Dept. C., Box 32065, Cincinnati 32, Ohio. Mark 'rush' for first-class mailing in December.

Reform For Land Program

By SAM YOHAI

STUDENT FROM COLOMBIA

The system of land property in Latin America has remained very much the same as it was a few hundreds years ago during Spanish domination.

This system presents two forms of land property or systems of production: Minifundios and Latifundios.

A minifundio is a rural property too small to provide its owner with a decent standard of living, a Latifundio is a rural property so extensive that can not be cultivated completely in an efficient way.

ECONOMIC PROBLEM

This system of land - ownership is in my opinion the main problem that the economies of the Latin American countries face. Therefore it must be dealt with deep interest and concern. As the situation stands now only a few companies, families, or individuals own and control the agriculture life of Latin America.

The inefficiency of the present system has brought about a society where most of the people suffer poverty and illiteracy. History shows that throughout the world this kind of society is victim of political struggles, anarchy and finally totalitarian systems of government.

As long as only 1.5% of the people are the owner of 50% of the cultivated land, we will have social injustice and insecurity throughout Latin America.

REORGANIZE SOCIETY

Latin American states must "destroy" the "latifundios" in order to reorganize their society, eliminate economic feudalism, give the land to the peasants and diversify their national products. The existent monopoly of the land must be destroyed because it neither favors a diversification of products nor can it fulfill the needs of a growing population. Today's Statistics show that the rate of agriculture production in these nations is not nearly as high as the demographic growth.

Even though these conditions have existed since the conception of these nations, today the situation has come to such an extreme that any delayment might endanger the democratic ideals of the latinamerican people. It has come the day when the urgency of a land-reform-Reforma Agraria- has become evident to the peasants as well as to the land-owners.

One thing very important is not to think of a land-reform in Latin America as a communist technique but as a road to accomplish progress and development.

DESIRE FOR PROGRESS

Millions of Latin Americans want to see progress in their countries. They are anxious erica where the standard of living fulfills the basic needs and aspirations of a human being.

We want to see our countries playing an important role in international politics, not as a "trouble-spot" or as an "underdeveloped region" of the world, but as block of nations, which guided by democratic ideals will strengthen the unity of the Western World and work to bring about peace and betterment of mankind.

The redistribution of land and its cultivation is the matter on which we ought to concentrate all our power. How to accomplish this land reform has been a major topic of discussion among the economists and politicians of Latin American countries. Different approaches have been suggested some of them based on constitutional agreements, others on totalitarian ways.

Hamlet Plays Pool !

By GEORGE SPELVIN

Don't panic, my friends. The great Dane, though he seldom misses a cue, has not taken up pocket billiards. The headline merely summarizes this, my first column of the season.

'Hamlet,' by one William Shakespeare, was played to a full house last night as the E-52 Players' second major production of the year opened.

The efforts of a large cast and crew and the direction of Dr. C. R. Kase crystallized into a dynamic expression of the famous tragedy. I recommend it to all. It may be experienced tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15 in Mitchell Hall. Dare not miss it!

SOLE BUSINESS

Plays are E-52's sole business. The players create three major productions each year and three student-directed lab theatre programs, as well as a Children's Theatre show which tours in May. These activities will be discussed in greater detail in later columns.

E-52 is introducing a player's pool. The pool is basically a catalogue of names of persons who have acted with E-52 or have helped on the production side or have expressed a sincere interest in doing either. It will serve as a 'pool' from which qualified actors or technicians may be selected to fill positions for a play.

SELECTION PROCESS

For example, a crew head is needed for the costume committee for the next production, Brecht's 'The Three Penny Opera.' The production manager goes to the production pool and notes the 'costume people.' They are notified of the opening and from the volunteers a crew head is selected. The acting pool operates similarly.

Any member of the campus community may be a member of the pool, simply by submitting name, address and field(s) of interest to an E-52 member or to the office of the department of dramatic arts and speech in Mitchell Hall.

ADVANCE NOTICES GIVEN

Members of the acting pool will receive advance notice of all tryouts and will be an integral part of the assembly of a top-notch cast. The members of the production pool will be considered first in the organization of a production staff, since their ability and skill is known.

Watch this column next week for a full report on 'Hamlet'.

January 16, Wednesday - Friday classes meet.

January 17, Thursday - Saturday classes meet. (Last day of classes).

January 18, Friday - Final Examination begin.

PEOPLE TO PEOPLE PRESENTS: Carlos Taracido

By CAROL ELLIS

The recent Cuban Crisis opened the eyes of many sleepy Americans. To Carlos Taracido, formerly from Cuba, the Cuban Crisis has been in the making since 1959.

CARLOS TARACIDO

"I believe that the Castro regime was a well-planned plan made by the Communists. When Castro first took over our government in 1959, no one suspected that he was a Communist. We were all fooled - we thought he would help our people.

"As he gained power, however, we began to lose all of our rights, and life took on a totally new picture. The people hate Castro more and more every day, but the militia ruled, and there is nothing that can be done to regain the lost freedom.

RESIGN POSITION

"Until 1961, my father held a position in the judicial portion of the government similar to the American district attorney. Then Castro decided that he should be replaced, and that he should join both the militia and the Socialist party. My dad is not a military man, and he also doesn't believe in the Socialistic ideals; he was forced to resign his position. Shortly after this, he was fortunate enough to be able to come to the United States.

"I came here about three months before he did. I had been active in the Students' Anti-Castro movement, and my family thought that I would be safer in the United States."

Carlos arrived in Miami with only the clothes he was wearing. Any money that he had with him had been confiscated by the Cuban officials before he left, and it was not possible to fly his luggage here until four weeks later, due to the overcrowded planes.

INVOLUNTARY EXILE

"Castro has passed a law saying that anyone who leaves Cuba may not return. This is very difficult for me to accept; legally I am not a citizen of any country, but in my heart I am still a Cuban. Castro has made it impossible for me to ever return home, but he can't change my feelings."

When asked his opinion of President Kennedy's actions concerning Cuba, Carlos replied, "I believe all Cubans wanted the United States to do something about Castro. What President Kennedy did was good, but he should have done more sooner. Castro is a disease plaguing Cuba, and as such, he has to be destroyed.

"If one looks at the countries where Communism has taken over, such as Hungary, one sees a very sad picture. The people must do what is the desire of the dictator, because they have no way to resist.

HOPE FOR CUBA

"I can appreciate the freedom which we have here in the United States - we are able to live our own lives as we desire - and I only wish that the people in Cuba could do the same."

Carlos is majoring in International Relations here at Delaware. He hopes to continue studying for a master's degree, also in International Relations, after graduation, so that he can qualify for Foreign Service.

ANNOUNCING THE 1963-1964 AFFLERBACH FELLOWSHIPS*

BACKGROUND OF THE COMPETITION: No matter how much time our People in Naming spend thinking up just the right color names for our shirts (Maize, Stone Green, Peat Blue, etc.), the Eagle Secret Shoppers inevitably report that you choose your Eagle shirts with such statements as "Gimme six of them greenish ones" or "Could I bother you for two or three dozen of those stri-ped ones." Our problem is in selecting names which will capture the imagination of the shirt-buying public. ❖ NATURE OF THE COMPETITION: The 10 Afflerbachs for 1963-64 will go to those persons suggesting the best names for our colors. Imagination-capturing names, like Well Red, Long Green, Charlie Brown, or Navel Orange. You may wish to inspect our shirts - for inspiration, if not purchase. Eagle shirts don't always have an Eagle label - some fine stores sew in their own - but if you write us, we'll suggest your nearest Eagle Shirt Color Inspection Station. ❖ STIPEND: The grand prize winner will have his (or her) choice of a Traveling Afflerbach (a grand all-expense-paid weekend at the Bush House in Quakertown - an exciting chance to become acquainted with the natives - many of whom are us, including Miss Revera Afflerbach, herself) or a Stationary Afflerbach (a dozen Eagle Button-down shirts). The 9 other Afflerbachs will consist of a grant of four Eagle Button-down shirts. Each, that is. ❖ RULES: The competition is open to all students and faculty members at schools, as well as to those who have filled in the coupon below.

*This, actually, is Eagle's second competition in as many years. Those of you who partook of the first, that is, what to do with the pocket on a Shirtkerchief, will doubtless be excited to learn that the book containing many of your letters to Miss Afflerbach has now been published by the Macmillan Co. and is now available at your bookseller. We have called it Dear Miss Afflerbach, or The Postman Hardly Ever Rings 11,342 Times, and the price is $4.95.

Library Awarded ChemBook Grant

Three hundred dollars has been presented to the university library for the purchase of books in chemistry.

Dr. Herman Skolnik, chairman of the Delaware section of the American Chemical Society, announced the tenth annual award from the society.

"The continuing support of the Delaware section helps materially in augmenting the library funds available to us from regular sources," said Dr. William A. Mosher, chairman of the department of chemistry.

"This support, coupled with the society's special services to our students, its scientific meetings and its annual student awards add up to a very important adjunct to our instructional and research programs.

It is this kind of conscientious assistance which has raised the university to its present place among the nation's leading institutions in chemical education and research," he stated.

John Kennedy Receives Grant As Top-Notch Grad

John E. Kennedy, Jr., of Chadds Ford, Pa., a graduate of the university, has been awarded the top scholarship in business administration offered at the University of Virginia graduate school.

He won the Samuel Forrest Hyde Memorial Fellowship as the student who has successfully completed his first year of graduate study, has contributed most to the welfare of the school during that year and by his personality and devotion to the objectives of the school given the greatest promise of achieving a useful career. The grant is made without regard to financial need.

Kennedy was a member of the class of 1956 majoring in civil engineering. He played baseball and was vice president of the SGA.

VARIED POSITIONS

Dr. Rees has long been a member of the university community, serving as professor of mathematics, chairman of the department of mathematics, acting dean of the school of engineering, Dean of the Graduate School, and university provost. He has resigned from these latter two positions only last spring. Dean Rees is presently teaching mathematics participating in some of the many community and service programs with which he has worked throughout his career.

Trustees Make Future Plans For Student Center Addition

(Continued from Page 1) sity was empowered to take appropriate steps to plan and construct another dormitory complex on the East campus. The first of these units, Harrington Hall, was completed in 1961. A second is under construction and will open in September, 1963. Construction of the third unit will begin next year with completion anticipated by 1965. Enrollment growth has compelled the university to move up the completion date by a full year. To finance the building, the university hopes to execute a loan agreement with the Housing and Home Finance Agency for approximately $2,900,000. The five-section dormitory will house 545 students and, like other similar units, it will have a central dining hall capable of serving about 1,000 students per meal in cafeteria style. Although the new building will conform substantially to the style of Harrington Hall, the location of its wings will be modified to suit the ground area.

STUDENT CENTER

Also approved were plans for an addition to the present Student Center building located on the East Campus. Despite the fact that the building is a comparatively recent addition to the campus plant, it already has become too small to adequately serve the needs of the student body anticipated.

The bookstore space is too small, meeting rooms, dining facilities and faculty lounge are all inadequate for the numbers they must serve. Additional facilities for student recreation also are needed.

The university's architects, Howell Lewis Shay and Associates, have recommended alterations and additions costing approximately $1,050,000, which will be supported from endowment income, gifts and income-producing activities within the Student Center.

OTHER ADDITIONS

Included in the changes will be: enlargement of the basement to permit expansion of the bookstore and the installation of eight bowling lanes; the addition of small dining and meeting rooms on the first floor level; enclosure of the present sun deck for use as hobby and craft and student organization rooms; the addition of a larger faculty dining area, five guest apartments and a faculty-guest lounge; provisions for a larger exhibition area for art displays; and the relocation of present entrances in accordance with existing traffic patterns.

Greatly aiding the university in meeting its future land requirements was a gift from Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Laird, Jr., of Wilmington. It consists of a tract of land, approximately 37 acres, located between North College Avenue and New London Rd., south and east of Fairfield Crest.

The board formally expressed appreciation to the donors "for the foresight in providing the property required for the university to meet its growing educational obligations."

HOUSES NAMED

Two other residences owned by the university were named in honor of former residents.

The house at 189 West Main Street was named in honor of Alfred A. Curtis, a longtime friend of the university. A second house at 215 West Main Street was named in honor of Rathmell Wilson, president of the board of trustees and acting president of Delaware College from 1859 to 1870. These homes are being used as student residence halls.

GRADUATE GRANTS

The board disclosed that an anonymous benefactor has established a 20-year trust which will be used to improve opportunities for graduate students in the humanities.

President John A. Perkins explained that highly qualified graduate students are as important as competent faculty in the development of strong graduate programs. He noted that only institutions with adequate fellowship programs have been able to attract outstanding students and, concurrently, develop distinguished graduate programs.

Between Us Girls

By PENNY LIPSKY

Christmas is a time for religious reflection, fun, dancing, parties, and expressing our good will through presents.

With regard to the last of these, a problem often arises. What should I buy for my boyfriend? for my roommate? for my relatives? How can I stay within my budget and still give an appropriate gift to all?

These are some suggestions for presents which will, hopefully, be of some use to the prospective buyer.

ROOMMATE OR FEMALE RELATIVE

1. Magazine subscription - this gift lasts the entire year and serves as a constant reminder of your thoughtfulness. Vogue, Mademoiselle, or Seventeen are appropriate selections.

2. Flowers - what girl wouldn't appreciate a bouquet of roses on Christmas morning?

3. Roller bag or jewelry case for travelling - most girls need these but won't buy them for themselves.

4. Fuzzy slippers - both attractive and warm, these are an excellent gift for dorm dwellers.

5. Dr. Denton's pajamas - complete with trap door.

6. Stadium boots - they're great for walking around campus especially through the manure piles.

BOYFRIEND OR MALE RELATIVE

1. Ukulele or bongo drums - music to sooth the savage beast.

2. Magazine subscription to Playboy or Esquire.

3. Novelty cigarette lighter or for the pipe smoker a humidifier, pipe stand or tin of his favorite tobacco.

4. Shave coat - this comes in handy for a pajama party.

5. Cravat or ascot - continental, anyone?

6. Writing case - stop complaining that he doesn't write, and do something about it.

7. A pair of black socks or dress wear.

Gifts which may be given to either sex include:

1. Watch bands - scarab for the girls and madras for the boys.

2. A good book - this can be a treasure for future times.

3. Record album - like a good book, a good record album can provide hours of enjoyment.

4. An umbrella - as the poet says:

When the monsoon season hits,

An umbrella would be a practical gift.

Now that you have the gift, here are two novel methods for wrapping them. One, for larger gifts use the Sunday funnies to decorate the box. The funnies are both attractive and inexpensive. Second, for those smaller items such as lighters, put the present in a piece of wrapping paper fashioned to look like a snowball, and place it under the tree.

The natural habitat of the Cupcake is the Home Economics kitchen. She believes, as her mother did, that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. While this viewpoint might be considered unsophisticated by many of today's more enlightened male students, none of them has ever been known to turn down a tin of her Fudge-Frosted Nut-Filled Brownies. She really has a way with a dish and, as you can see, she's quite a dish herself.

Just as the Cupcake has found the perfect recipe for Frosted Brownies, the makers of Pall Mall have found the perfect recipe for a delicious smoke. Taste Pall Mall's natural mildness and see what we mean.

SEPT. 5, 1752, NEVER HAPPENED!...Nor did any date from Sept. 3 to 13, at least in England and the American Colonies. Why? The King decreed that these days would be skipped to correct a discrepancy between the Old English calendar and the newly adopted Gregorian calendar. This left puzzled Englishmen and colonists with one 19-day month and a 355-day year.

Christmas Trains Set For Trip Back Home

Special travel arrangements have been made to accommodate students traveling to and from Newark for the Christmas recess.

There will be a train from Newark, going north, on December 19. Northbound Pennsylvania train 130 will make a special stop at Newark at 1:15 p.m. to receive passengers if 15 or more students purchase tickets in advance for this train. (Note - the railroad will not permit passengers to purchase tickets on this train. Tickets must be obtained prior to boarding the train.)

A reservation for this train may be made by obtaining a form from the Student Center Office and returning it by Thursday, Dec. 13. Students who make ticket reservations must purchase their tickets from a representative of the Pennsylvania Railroad at the Student Center on Tuesday, December 18, between the hours of 1:30 and 4 p.m.

SPECIAL BUSES

A special bus will depart from the Student Center at 1:00 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 19, for the local Pennsylvania Station making connections with the 1:15 train. Tickets for this bus must be purchased by noon on Tuesday, Dec. 18, at the Student Center Office. The fare is 20¢.

per passenger.

A special bus will depart from the Student Center at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 19, for the Pennsylvania Station in Wilmington making connections with northbound train 132 which leaves Wilmington at 4:41 p.m. This bus will run provided 15 passengers make reservations. Students who wish to use this bus are asked to complete a bus reservation and turn it in at the Student Center Office not later than December 13. Tickets for this special bus must be purchased at the Student Center Office by noon, Tuesday, Dec. 18. Sale of tickets begins on Friday, Dec. 14. The fare will be 70¢.

RETURN TO CAMPUS

There will be a train from the north to Newark on January 2. Southbound Pennsylvania train 137 which leaves New York City at 6:30 p.m. will make a special stop at Newark at 9:13 p.m. on January 2 to discharge passengers provided 15 or more students purchase tickets in advance. This train makes stops at Newark, New Jersey (6:44 p.m.); Trenton (7:34 p.m.); North Philadelphia (8:07 p.m.); 30th Street Station, Philadelphia (8:28 p.m.); and Wilmington, Delaware (9:01 p.m.) This is the only train which will make a special stop in Newark on January 2. Reservations are to be made in the Student Center Office. Tickets are to be purchased at the Student Center on Tuesday, Dec. 18, between 1:30 p.m. and 4 p.m.

There will be a special bus from the local train station to the campus on January 2. It will meet the above train at 9:13 p.m. The fare will be 20¢ per passenger. As the passenger traffic may demand, this bus will make stops at Warner Hall, on Delaware Avenue, opposite Sharp Hall, on Academy Street opposite Smyth Hall, and at the Student Center Parking lot opposite Harrington.

Verdict: Melody At Holiday Ball

PAUL JUDGE

This year's "Holiday Ball" will feature the music of Paul Judge and his Orchestra.

This annual Christmas dance will be held from 8-12 p.m., Dec. 15, in the Student Center.

Paul Judge's dance music has achieved great popularity for its knack of being able to satisfy a variety of musical tastes. His orchestra has played successful engagements at the Chez Vous, in Philadelphia; the Steel Pier, in Atlantic City; and the Sunnybrook Ballroom, in Pottstown.

Tickets for the dance are $2 per couple and will go on sale Monday in the Student Center.

A photographer will be available for pictures, which will be $3 for a folder of two prints. The dress will be semi-formal.

Four Engineers Go To New York To Join ASME

Four seniors from the mechanical engineering department attended the winter meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in New York City Nov. 27.

Attending were Gerard Bjwaard, EG3; Len Gorny, EG4; Richard Pase, EG3; and Edward Miller, EG3.

The morning sessions consisted of papers presented by students of Rutgers, Villanova, Alabama, Dayton, and Wisconsin Universities in the Old Guard Prize Competition. The papers dealt with missile boosters, heat tension measurements, heat transfer, explosive forming, and expendable pallets.

The afternoon sessions attended were those dealing with human factors and the engineering research being one in this field. Papers were presented on research now being done in biomechanics, and forces imposed on drivers and passengers in automobile crashes.

All meetings were held in the Statler Hilton Hotel.

There have been several events this semester of which we are especially proud. The brotherhood took much delight when Nancy Harvey, our Homecoming Queen candidate was chosen to reign over the event, and when our "Show the Huskies" float was awarded second place in the float judging. Also, we were honored by a visit from our national president, Dr. W. A. Hammond. Dr. Hammond visited with the brotherhood, attended a meeting, and offered suggestions for the betterment of the chapter.

In Phi Kappa Tau, the brotherhood is the important aspect, and our activities are an outgrowth of this. We are a unified body of men working for our mutual benefit.

Ware Wins MAC Point Race According To Official Stats

Delaware and Bucknell went down to the wire for the Middle Atlantic Conference University Division football championship, and the statistics show why.

In final individual statistics, Bucknell players won four of six statistical titles while a Delaware player took one.

In team statistics, three titles went to University Division champ Delaware and three to Bucknell.

Delaware emerged from the 1962 conference campaign with the division scoring champion in Clint Ware, a previously unheralded reserve who scored 42 points against MAC opposition.

The Blue Hens as a team averaged 233.2 yards a game rushing for the rushing offense title and held the opposition to 47.8 yards a game to claim the rushing defense crown. Their remaining honor came in the all important category of scoring, where the new titleholders averaged 26.6 points a game to edge Bucknell, second with an average of 26.0 points a game.

SPORTS SCENE

By DAN TWER

Football notes keep popping up even though basketball season is now upon us. Congratulations are in store for two Hen gridders: to Ron McCoy for receiving the Taylor trophy from the Wilmington Touchdown Club as Delaware's outstanding senior footballer; and to Paul Chesmore for being named to the Associated Press Little All-America second team, the first Hen so honored since Jack Turner in 1959, Delaware's captain-elect was also given honorable mention on the E.C.A.C. all east squad.

The fans were a big part of 1962 Delaware gridiron successes. All Delaware Stadium attendance records were broken, including the single game record (against Bucknell) and the seasonal mark. A great deal of credit goes to the winners of this year's spirit trophies; Sypherd Hall, Smyth Hall, and Kappa Alpha. Finally, it has been announced that Delaware will officially receive the Lambert Cup at a banquet in New York on December 13. It looks as if a TV appearance is out this time, but we'll accept the Cup graciously anyway.....

After a rather shaky beginning, we have hopes that Delaware's basketballers are about to settle down and begin playing the topflight ball they're capable of. Of course, a great deal of pressure has been placed on the shoulders of the Hen quintet. More is expected of them than of any Delaware court team in the history of the game at the university. It's understandable that a team not used to such pressures will be a bit jittery.

A comment or two is necessary concerning the spirit at Saturday's opening game. For the most part the fans that packed into Carpenter Fieldhouse like sardines were just great. Their frenzied response to a dramatic Delaware comeback no doubt helped the team in the waning minutes. However, at one point, when Nate Cloud was removed from the game, the fans were far from considerate. If they had but known that Nate was suffering from a severe case of flu from which he has yet to fully recover, they might have been a bit less hasty in their condemnation.

Though it seems hardly possible to improve the spirit of last Saturday, we are making an effort to provide the impetus for increased interest in cheering at athletic contests. A Blue Hen costume in which someone will cavort at football and basketball games will soon be designed, hopefully in time for its first appearance after winter recess. The basic design at this writing appears to be that of the hen in sweatshirt as depicted on the back of Delaware bookcovers. Any and all suggestions are welcome. The hen is something we've wanted to see at the university for some time.

A final note. A mild misunderstanding seems to have arisen concerning tickets for basketball games. Students need not procure tickets five days in advance of the game in question. Tickets will be available five days ahead of each game and students may begin picking them up then. Students may continue to obtain tickets even up to the night of the game (at the ticket window) but run the risk of the game being sold out before hand. So get your tickets for F & M now and if you can't make the game, follow the Hens on radio!

Hens Harass Hopkins;
Test PMC Tomorrow

Rebounding from the scare of last Saturday night to drub Johns Hopkins 70-47, Delaware's basketball team meets Penn Military College tomorrow in Chester.

Dave Sysko scored a career high of 27 points Wednesday in leading the Hens to victory over the Baltimore five, and picked up 15 rebounds to lead in that department. Pete Cloud and Ron Smith were the only other double figure performers with 13 points each.

The Blue Hens shot nearly 50% from the field (28-59) and were 14 for 19 from the free throw line. Good work on the backboards enabled the Hens to grab 52 rebounds to double the opposition total.

The forces of coach Irv Wisniewski launched the basketball campaign last Saturday as a sellout crowd watched the Hens battle from behind to overtake a determined Lehigh squad in overtime, 60-54. The Hens placed four men in double figures, Sysko leading the way with 18.

Wrestling Title

A quick recap of the intramural touch football season reveals that Sigma Phi Epsilon took top honors for the third consecutive year. Colburn's "Go" Team finished second, followed by Sigma Nu and Synchronicity.

In between football and basketball, which gets into full swing next week, several tournaments were concluded, including wrestling, cross country, its coldest shooting first halves within memory, scoring but 25 points to Lehigh's 32. At the 10:05 mark of the second period, the outlook appeared hopeless as the Hens had scored but three additional points and now trailed the Engineers, 43-28.

Sigma Nu emerged team champion in the wrestling tournament completed Monday night. KA took the runner-up spot followed by ATO and Sig Ep. Individual title holders were: 123 lb. - Richard Holland, Farm House; 130 lb. - Richard Hamilton, Harter; 137 lb. - David Rishel, Harter.

147 lb. - Don Smith, Theta Chi; 157 lb. - Don Fisher, Sigma Nu; 167 lb. - Luke Lackman, ATO; 177 lb. - Dennis King, KA; 191 lb. - Richard Reinhart, Sigma Nu; Unlimited - Bill Spangler, Sigma Nu.

Brown Hall captured the cross country title. Brown's Bill Greenplate led the pack across the finish line followed by Bob Kidwell of KA. The intramural handball crown was taken by perennial champion, living legend, Wally Thompson of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Thompson defeated Dave Warner of ATO in the finals. "Intramural" Wally also reached the final round of the ping pong tournament where he is slated to meet fellow Sig Ep. Don Moore.

Pete Cloud and Smith on offense, and Steve Saville on defense led the last minute charge that tied the game. Smith calmly sank two free throws with 12 seconds remaining to put the Hens in the lead 54-52. A jumper by Stolberg sent the game into a five-minute overtime.

The Hens took command in the overtime period. Smith and Sysko scored on field goals and backcourt ace Gerry Galluccio zipped two foul shots to ice the game for the Hens as Lehigh failed to tally a single point in overtime.

Tomorrow night's foe, PMC, bowed to the Hens last season, 79-58. Game time is 8:15 p.m., air time 8:00.

In the Delaware-Lehigh freshman contest the Chicks of coach Mickey Heineck triumphed 71-59. Denny O'Brien topped the scoring with 20 points. Elliot, Szczerba, and Himes all tallied in double figures for the chicks.

REVERSAL OF 3-8 LOG EXPECTED

Wrestling Picture Bright;
Matmen To Face Haverford

"We're as strong as we've been since I've been here. In three years, I've never had a team with the potential of this one."

That was Delaware wrestling coach Gene Watson, talking about his '62-'63 mat squad which begins competition at Haverford tomorrow. His manner is uncharacteristically optimistic, but with good reason.

Competition has been tremendous at most of the weight levels, with weekly eliminations revealing seesaw battles between wrestlers of excellent ability. "We'll definitely improve on our 3-8 finish of last season," predicts Watson, and with a top effort we can reverse that record."

BEAMAN CAPTAIN

Captain Jerry Beaman, a senior heads the list of returnees. Beaman will wrestle at either 167 or 177, probably the former. He's one of the few Hen grapplers with little competition. As it appears there'll be fine depth in the middle weight ranges.

Starting at 123 pounds, the nominee will be sophomore Bill Ashley. Also looming as a key man at 123 is senior George Stamos, ineligible during the first semester but probably available for the second part of the season. Stamos won the W. S. (Red) Tawes Memorial Trophy last season as the squads most improved wrestler. If Stamos returns on schedule, Ashley may move to 130.

Presently slated for duty at 130 pounds is John (Jay) Ferrick, a sophomore with great potential. Ferrick's normal weight is in the low 140's, but he will wrestle in the lower weight class out of necessity.

A three-way fight looms at 137 between senior letterman Barry Haldeman, John Seibert, a junior; and Jon Heuberger, a sophomore. Haldeman won last week's eliminations but will be pressed by the others. Seibert may yet win the nod if he can lick weight problems.

LANNING VICTOR

A 147, senior letterman Dan Lanning is battling Bob Ruth, a sophomore. Lanning was last week's elimination winner in a hairline decision over Ruth.

Two men are also in contention for the 1957 spot, Bob Young, a junior letterman, and Southard Jones. Beaman is tentatively set for 167, and John Strode will wrestle at 177.

Two heavyweights complete the squad, junior Al Slader and soph Paul Basehore.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT--Delaware wrestling coach Gene Watson inspects the troops during recent Hen practice. Wrestling prospects appear to be the best in Watson's tenure as Hen mentor.

Swimming Captain Charlie Derrick

Mermen To Open Season
Against F & M Tomorrow

Have aces, will travel is the byword of the 1962-63 Delaware swimming team, but coach Harry Rawstrom believes his Blue Hen natators may be thin in depth behind the standouts.

Rawstrom's charges will open their ten-meet card tomorrow against Franklin and Marshall in Lancaster, Pa. His teams have finished 6-4 in each of the past two seasons.

Rawstrom added, "We've got personnel that can win individual events. But intercollegiate swimming has made such tremendous strides that our competition gets tougher every year."

Six lettermen will return from last year's club, senior captain Charles Derrick, butterfly and freestyle; diver Dutch Holsinger, senior; senior Calvin Horn, backstroke and freestyle; Ken Horne, senior, breaststroke; junior John Osborn, formerly known for his kicking exploits as a Hen gridder, a freestyle sprinter; and breaststroke and butterfly specialist Gary Otwell.

Another key man is a sophomore, Leonard Bird, who has the Taylor Pool record for the 220. Bruce Overbay should earn points in the breaststroke. Other leading second-year contenders are Kelsey Brown, freestyler; Martin Cassidy, a candidate in the breaststroke and freestyle; Sandy Ehrman, a diver; John W. McGinnis, individual medley, breaststroke and freestyle entry.
