Pierre S. DuPont Guest Of Fellow Delawareans At Big Testimonial

Outlines Bold Plan for Educational Progress of State

700 DINERS COME FROM ALL OVER STATE

Seven hundred men and women of Delaware, foregathered from every section within its borders, joined together Saturday evening to express their earnest appreciation of the great work being done by one man.

The man is Pierre S. du Pont. The occasion was a testimonial dinner, arranged and executed by warm friends throughout the State, and held in the gold ball room of the Hotel Du Pont in Wilmington. It was perhaps the greatest voluntary tribute ever paid to a Delawarean; certainly one of the most representative gatherings in years.

Simplicity, dignity and grace finely balanced with informality and keen jollity marked the dinner. The speakers were Chief Justice James Pennell, of Delaware; Dr. Edward A. Alderman, of Virginia, and Mr. du Pont. The chairman was Henry P. Scott, chairman of the dinner committee. In their capable hands rested the after-dinner program.

Past history of our little Commonwealth, its deeds and glories, and ambitions and hopes for its future played leading parts in each speech. It was peculiarly fitting that such a program was carried through. Mr. du Pont's courageous and far-sighted hopes for the future of Delaware, hopes that seemed at times almost staggering, found utterance clearly and simply in his address. Dr. Alderman, head of one of America's greatest Universities, brought an observer's keen analysis to the audience; while Mr. Chief Justice Pennell recited a chronicle of Mr. du Pont's work for the progress of the State and outlined vividly the True Education.

A National Experiment

As Mr. du Pont's address unfolded itself to his hearers, new ideas, bold ambitions, and an abiding confidence in them all were distinctly felt.

Delaware, he pointed out, is in a position now to attain a prominence in the Nation never before dreamed of. Hers is a field for service. Through plans already in preliminary stages, Delaware might, according to Mr. du Pont, become a National Laboratory, not a laboratory in the usual sense, but the seat of extremely important experiments in social welfare, education, scientific combating of disease and State government. The immediate advancement of education to its highest peak in the State is Mr. du Pont's first thought. Then other phases of our State life will come in for advancement. As he quietly outlined his hopes, the speaker impressed his hearers with the practicality of the entire scheme. It was a new experience, certainly, for Delaware people.

At this juncture, a group of star and eagle Boy Scouts bearing the twin colors of State and Nation marched down the center aisle of the ball room, and came to a halt at the speakers' dais. Governor Robinson arose and in a few simple words, presented on behalf of the people of Delaware, the two emblems to Mr. du Pont, together with a design of the pedestal in which they will ultimately rest. Mr. du Pont replied in an effective little speech.

Dinner Program

During the course of the banquet, the Orpheus Quartet sang several numbers, and at stated periods, William P. White arose and led the diners in old favorite songs which were lustily rendered. There was an enormous amount of visiting and renewing of old acquaintances during the dinner; everyone seemed to spot

FIRE THIS MORNING

Aetna firemen were called out this morning to fight a small blaze in the store property of Ottavio George, on Wilbur Street, extended. Little damage was done, it is reported.

IS SERIOUSLY ILL

John Frick, well-known resident of lower Depot Road, was reported today to be suffering from a severe attack of grippe at his home.

PHOTOGRAPHIC RECORD OF SUN'S ECLIPSE BY NEWARK AMATEURS

Above is a photo of the solar eclipse made on January 24, by L. R. Detjen and G. F. Gray from third floor of Wolf Hall, through an open window. The time of the exposures is as follows, reading from left to right: 7.55 a. m., 8.00, 8.10, 8.20, 8.30, 8.40, 8.50, 9.00, 9.06, 9.10, 9.20, 9.30, 9.40, 9.50, 10.00, 10.10, 10.20 and 10.25.

WILL MOVE HIS STRING

Herman Tyson Must Have Faster Track for Workouts

Confronted with a "broken down" track, Herman Tyson, Newark driver and trainer of fast trotters and pacers, is contemplating a change in training quarters when the warm Spring weather breaks.

The track on the Huber estate, where Mr. Tyson winters his string, is not fit for fast work. For some years the track has been on the decline. For general workouts and light drilling it serves its purpose, but he cannot give his charges their fast trials and sprints on the oval this Spring. Mr. Tyson has several tracks in mind for future use, among them being the fine Harrington course.

HELD FOR ALLEGED ASSAULT WITH GUN

William Hibbard Center of Stormy Hearing Here
Monday Afternoon

Arrested on a charge of attempted assault and pointing a gun, William Hibbard, proprietor of an electric shop along the Lincoln Highway near White Clay Creek Church, was haled into Magistrate Thompson's court here Monday afternoon. After hearing the testimony in the case, Mr. Thompson held him under $500 bail for court. Bail was furnished by Dr. Merritt Burke.

According to testimony offered, Frank J. Blodgett and Joseph Hollet, the latter well known in the Strickersville district, but living in Washington, and two other men, drove their car up to Hibbard's place about two o'clock Monday afternoon, for repairs to be made. Repeated knocking on the door failed to bring out the proprietor, although he is alleged to have been seen lying on a couch inside. When Hibbard finally did come out, he ordered the men off his place, and when they remonstrated with him, is alleged to have returned with a shotgun and fired five times at the group of four visitors. None of the shots injured the strangers, who fled precipitately from the scene.

Highway Officer Jones, who happened by, was pressed into service by Blodgett, and made the arrest. Blodgett and Hollet testified at the hearing.

Hibbard during the hearing stated that he ordered the men off his place because he believed them to be the ones who, he claimed, shot him in the hand one day last week and made off with $15 in cash which he carried.

GEORGE COOK GETS CORN EXHIBIT CUP

George Cook, a student in the Agriculture Department of the local high school, was the guest of honor at the banquet of the Dover Rotary Club last Thursday evening. This club of progressive business men annually awards a silver cup to the boy under 18 years of age who has the best exhibit in the boys' class at the State Corn Show. George was the lucky boy this year. R. E. Wilson, County Agent for Kent County, was chairman of the meeting. The cup was awarded by the club president, A. R. Hanson.

R. W. Heim, State Director of Vocational Education, and H. A. Munn, Instructor in Agriculture at the local school, were also present and responded with short talks.

Sun's Eclipse Halts All Activity Here

Townpeople View Phenomenon From Every Point of Vantage Saturday

Heralded far and wide all over the country for days previous, the once-in-a-lifetime spectacle of the eclipse of the sun took place on schedule in Newark last Saturday morning at 9.12 o'clock.

All Newark stood still and gaped at the sky through smoked glass for an average of five minutes on that date. Prompted by the prophecy that there will not be a similar occasion until 2144, the community felt called upon to view a 98 per cent eclipse while they had the opportunity.

Contrary to some expectations, the tiny slice of light from the sun was sufficient to keep people from bumping into one another in the dark, for the two minutes of almost totality, but nevertheless it was a sight worth seeing. Weird shadows crept across the ground and up buildings; an abnormal purplish light blanketed an earth which five minutes beforehand was shimmering in the warmth of a winter sun. Many forsook their smoked glass and watched the shifting lights on the ground.

Many cameras clicked their earnest record of what Newark saw of the eclipse. Perhaps the best amateur achievement is published this week.

Dr. George A. Harter's office was a center for the college folk who witnessed the spectacle. Every eastward window held its quota of watchers, and despite the biting cold, scores stood on lawns and in streets watching the moon get on the wrong side of the celestial highway.

$100 FOR ONE LINE

Mrs. George Wood Is Newark's Prize Limericker

Mrs. George F. Wood, of Delaware avenue, is the happy recipient of a check for $100, awarded her for the addition of the best line to a recent Limerick in the Evening Public Ledger, of Philadelphia.

When Mrs. Wood's photograph appeared in the Ledger Monday evening, the length and breadth of Newark swelled dangerously near the breaking point. At last we command first page space.

A Ledger man called on Mrs. Wood last week and presented her with the check.

New Bank Director

Owen K. Moore, assistant treasurer of the Farmers Trust Company here, was elected a director of the bank at the recent annual meeting held here. With this addition, the old board and list of officers were re-elected for another year. The regular 8 per cent dividend was declared payable on February 1st, 1925.

"NOTHING TO IT" SAYS DR. JOHNSON OF REPORT THAT HE CONTEMPLATES LEAVING PRACTICE

Persistent rumors which have been circulating throughout the community for some weeks that Dr. Wallace M. Johnson contemplates leaving his practice here and returning to a Wilmington hospital for duty, were branded as false by Dr. Johnson last Friday.

"Nothing to it," was the swift comment when the subject arose. "I have absolutely no intention of leaving Newark, and cannot understand how

Cannery Directors Are Re-elected For 1925

Over 200 Acres Already
Pledged by Nearby Growers
For Coming Season

As a result of the highly successful annual meeting of the stockholders of the United Packing Company of Newark held last Wednesday in Wolf Hall, members of the board of directors are very optimistic over the prospects for the coming season.

The meeting was attended by scores of members and non-members of the co-operative organization, and without a hitch, re-elected the old board for another year, with Thomas B. Miller, of Elkton, president; W. Truxton Boyce, of Stanton, vice-president, and J. Earl Dougherty, of Newark, secretary-treasurer. The other members of the board are Eben B. Frazer, J. Irvin Dayett, Herman Cook and J. H. George.

Paid Eighteen Dollars Per Ton
Despite the exceedingly poor crops the past year, combined with the difficulty in getting the tangled affairs of the old United Canneries Company straightened out, $18 per ton was paid to the growers for tomatoes during 1924, with a possibility of a slight raise coming.

The cannery under the management of H. Richardson Cole, carried through the program in a remarkable manner, and turned a general feeling of unrest among the growers into genuine confidence, both in the management of the concern and in the prospect for coming years. Mr. Cole was re-elected manager of the company for 1925.

Are Signing Up For 1925

Members have already signed up for over 200 acres for the 1925 season, according to reports, and there is every indication that the capacity of the plant here, providing a good crop is raised, will be taxed to its limits. Stockholders are invited to call at the company's offices here and sign up before February 10th. From that date on, the remaining acreage will be thrown open to non-members.

It was brought out at the meeting Wednesday, that despite the short crop that proceeds from over 400 acres signed up had not been delivered. This was probably due, it is reported, to ruined crops. Some believe, however, that a part of it is due to growers selling on the open market despite their contract with the packing company. This practice appeared general during the past season, as the open market was in most cases, a means of quick sale at top prices, while the cannery price was undetermined and variable.

The dearth of a good crop can be appreciated when it is known that tomatoes averaged 4 tons to the acre and should have been 6, while corn averaged 3 tons and should have been 4.

COLDEST MORNING IN YEARS, SAY PROPHETS

This morning was the coldest January 28th in several years, according to opinions freely expressed about town by veterans at the goosebone game.

Thermometers registered anywhere from 2 to 5 degrees below zero at six o'clock, according to reports. At nine o'clock, a thermometer on Wolf Hall registered three degrees above the line.

The sudden cold, which enveloped the community last night caused many phone wires to contract and break under the strain. Several telephone crews were at work today restoring over fifty service lines in this section.

A warm sun this afternoon began melting the four-inch snow which fell yesterday.

FINDS WATCH STOLEN ON CHRISTMAS EVE

Wm. Henry, Newark Negro,
Held Over For Court
Trial

When Horace Swan, a Negro living in the New London Avenue district, walked up to Ellwood Bostick, an acquaintance, the other day, and asked him for the time, he was astounded to see his own watch staring him in the face. The timepiece was taken from his pocket, he alleges, on Christmas Eve, in Saunderson's pool room on New London Avenue.

After the shock had worn off, and he had questioned Bostick about the watch, a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of William Henry, another colored denizen of the same section, charged with larceny.

At the hearing which occurred yesterday in Magistrate Thompson's court, Swan gave a vivid and impressive account of how it feels to have your pocket picked; of his vain search for the missing timepiece, and finally of its shocking re-appearance in a friend's pocket. It is alleged that Henry sold the watch to Bostick, thus complicating matters somewhat.

After hearing the evidence, Magistrate Thompson held Henry in $1000 bail for General Sessions Court. The ante was a trifle high for Henry, so he was escorted to the Workhouse in Constable Ellison's three-wheeled chariot.

New Hours For Local Post Office

Under authority of the Post Office Department, announcement is made by Postmaster W. H. Evans that, effective February 2, 1925, the post office will close at 6 p. m.

The lobby will remain open as usual from 6 a. m. until 9 p. m. daily and Sunday for the accommodation of box holders and patrons desiring to deposit outgoing mail.

On the same date, the city carriers and rural carriers will leave the post office at 7.30 a. m. instead of 8 a. m.

"Alarming Situation" If College Budget Is Cut, Says Pres. Hullihen

University Head, in Open Letter, Foresees Probable
Loss of Standing

DOES NOT BELIEVE PEOPLE WILL APPROVE REDUCTION

That the recent action on the part of Governor William D. Denney, in recommending a cut of $27,000 from the University of Delaware budget, which is incorporated in the State Appropriation Bill, is regarded by University officials here as endangering the future of the institution, was openly expressed this week, by the President, Walter Hullihen, in an open letter directed to members of the Alumni Association.

Backed up by a brief summary of increased attendance as against increased appropriation during the last five years, Dr. Hullihen makes a strong appeal to the Alumni and the people of the State at large in presenting the University's side of the case.

In the course of the statement, he says:

The University has just been put on the Accredited List of the Association of American Universities. This means that its credits and diplomas will now be accepted at par by any institution of higher learning in America or Europe. With the curtailment of teaching force and efficiency which would be necessitated by this cut, there is little likelihood that the institution could be retained on the accredited list.

Quite as serious as loss of standing as a first class college, moreover, will be the effect upon both public school and collegiate instruction in the state of Delaware. Under such a cut in income it will be necessary to make drastic reductions in our teaching force and to curtail or abandon the Two-Year Teacher Training department of the Women's College, which is now sending out each year thirty to forty adequately trained teachers to teach in the elementary schools of the State. The loss to the public school system of Delaware from the curtailment or discontinuance of this department would be incalculable and at the same time the standing and efficiency of the University in all departments would be seriously impaired.

I do not believe that the people of Delaware would approve this reduction, if they fully understood the situation. I do not believe Governor Denney would have recommended it, had he realized its consequences to education in this State. His interest in the University is shown by his recommending in the same message appropriations for an additional dormitory and dining-room at the Women's College; but, obviously, the Board of Trustees does not want accommodations for more students, if it cannot provide adequate teaching for those already enrolled.

According to figures compiled and presented in a brief and concise manner in the communication, the cost to the State for maintenance of the University in 1920 budget, compared with the 1925-27 budget, shows an increase of 2 per cent per year. On the other hand, an increase of one hundred and twenty-six students is shown by the figures for the same period.

NEWARK HEPTASOPHS INSTALL OFFICERS

Alonzo Messick Is Chancellor Of Local Lodge This Year

On Wednesday evening, January 14th, the M. E. Grand Archon Lester Cloud and his staff from the Grand Conclave of the State of Delaware, Heptasophs, or Seven Wise Men, visited Newark Conclave of Heptasophs and installed the following officers for the ensuing term:

Chancellor, Alonzo Messick; M. E. Archon, Bayard B. Widdoes; Provost, Ralph Edman; Prelate, Alfred George Widdoes; Herald, Henry Capel; Warden, Ward Lindell; Sentinel, William Marrs; Financial Scribe, Raymond Davis; Recording Scribe, Frank G. Widdoes.

WELL-KNOWN ELKTON WOMAN FALLS DEAD

Mrs. Mary E. Foster Succumbs To Heart Trouble At Son's Home

While visiting the home of her son, Dory Foster, on West Main Street, Elkton, last Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Mary E. Foster suffered a sudden heart attack and died before medical aid could be summoned. The sudden demise of this well-known woman, came as a great shock to her many friends. She was 75 years old.

Mrs. Foster, who lives a few doors down the street from her son's home, came up to look on at a birthday party being held by her little granddaughter, Virginia Foster. Thirty or more little friends of Virginia were in the house having a gay time. Shortly after the grandmother entered the home, seemingly in the best of health and spirits, she collapsed without warning in a chair.

The funeral was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dory Foster on Monday afternoon, and interment made later in Elkton Cemetery.

Deceased was the widow of the late William T. Foster, of the Elk Neck district. She is survived by several sons and daughters, all grown.

PROVIDENCE

Mrs. George Colt, of Philadelphia, was a week-end visitor at the home of her brother, Mr. William Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hardestine and daughter, Mrs. George Racine, and grandson, were Saturday and Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. David Eastburn and sons, Rodney and Randolph, of Red Mills, were visitors at the home of John E. Buckingham Sunday evening.

Should Wear Glasses

He was a hard-looking ruffian, but his counsel, in a voice husky with emotion, addressed the jury.

"Gentlemen," said he, "my client was driven by want of food to take the small sum of money. All he wanted was sufficient money to buy food for his little ones. Evidence of this lies in the fact that he didn't take a pocketbook containing $250 that was lying in the room."

The counsel paused for a moment, and noticing the silence interrupted by a sob of the prisoner.

"Why do you weep?" asked the judge.

"Because," replied the prisoner, "I didn't see the pocketbook."

Backs the Rural Police

One of the strongest supporters of the rural police project in every state is the Grange and this organization of farmers is everywhere advocating the extension of the state constabulary in states where it has already been created and the making of the beginning towards such a system in other states. The protection which the rural police furnish to the farmers' property, as well as the greater safety secured on the highways by their presence leads the farmers to feel strongly in favor of the rural police system and their backing is assured in several states where the subject will be up for discussion in the legislatures of the coming winter. In many emergencies in rural districts the state constabulary has proved its value to an unquestioned degree.

ELK MILLS

The new lighting plant in the M. E. Church was tried Sunday night and is quite a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Jackson are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Amelrage, of Perryville, spent the week-end with Mr. Nelson Kay.

Mr. Conrad Ganzman is having a double house built by Mr. Harry Carter, near his home in Elk Mills.

Mrs. George Mann, Sr., is improving from a broken rib suffered in a fall recently.

Mrs. E. M. Miller spent Sunday with her brother, Mr. C. C. McVey, and her son, Wm. R. Miller, in Chester, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Todd and son, of Edge Moor, Del., spent the week-end with relatives.

Mr. Fred Atkinson, of Philadelphia, spent the week-end with relatives here.

Monday evening Mr. Alonzo Asbury and brother Matney and sister Maud Graham and Miss Carrie Creswell started to motor to T. W. Asburys, near Pylesville, Maryland. On account of the previous snow they found the roads not broken. Within half a mile of their home they had to get out and walk, as they were taking their sick brother home. After leaving him and starting back, about 11 o'clock, having a blinding snow storm, sleet and rain caused them much trouble. They did not reach Elk Mills until 6 a. m.

Thomas Creswell, Jr., who was visiting his parents, T. Creswell, Sr., in Elk Neck, has returned, as his brother Edward and he have taken new work in the Marley Paper Mills.

Miss Augusta Kraus is spending the week-end with her parents, F. J. Kraus, in Union Hill, N. J.

TURKEY SHOOT SATURDAY

Members of the Elkton Gun Club announce a poultry shoot to be held at their grounds, west of Elkton, Saturday afternoon. Several events will be handicap affairs, and the officials are anxious for a large gathering to enjoy the sport.

BIDDING FOR ROUTE

To carry mails on the Star route between Elkton and Chestertown for a period of four years, the following have submitted bids to the Post Office Department: Marion Council, Winfield D. Morris, Fred P. Jump and J. Olin Pippin.

NEW HIGHWAY POPULAR

Travel is increasing daily along the new Elkton-Wilmington Highway, via Glasgow, Del., and many Elktonians are using this route daily in their trips to the city. While the distance between the town termini of the road is said to be about the same, better time can be made by autoist due to the light traffic and absence of towns along the way.

The concrete bridge being erected at the east end of Elkton on Delaware Avenue, where it joins the highway is progressing slowly. Work was halted several times recently owing to the bitter cold weather. There is every indication, however, that the bridge will be opened for traffic before early spring.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL IS PROGRESSING NICELY

The work on the new Elkton Grammar School building, fronting Railroad Avenue, near the Armory, is coming along rapidly and plans are being made to use the building in a few weeks, according to reports. The building will greatly relieve the congestion in Elkton schools and comes as a great boon to the county in general.

It is reported that the Elkton Parent-Teacher Association has already placed an order for a new piano, which will be used exclusively in the new building.

Her Favorite

Miss Teachem, wishing to arouse the interest of her Sunday school class, asked the scholars to write down the names of their favorite hymns.

All bent their heads over pencil and paper for a few minutes and then handed in their slips. All except Mary.

"Come Mary," said the teacher, "write down the name of your favorite hymn and bring the paper to me."

Mary wrote, and with downcast eyes and flaming cheeks, handed the teacher a slip of paper bearing the words, "Willie Smith."—Youth Companion.

CHICAGO RADIO STATION FINDS THAT ONE OUT OF EVERY THREE PEOPLE ARE LISTENERS

Chicago radio stations have 4,500,000 regular listeners within a radius of 250 miles of the city, a survey just completed by Station WLS shows. The survey included personal interviews with over two thousand persons in thirty-two cities in this radius and mail questionnaires answered by four thousand others in ninety places.

Of the estimated fourteen million people living within 250 miles of Chicago, approximately 35 per cent own radios or hear Chicago stations on neighbors' sets, the survey revealed. All but 6 per cent of the persons approached in the survey reported hearing Chicago stations at some time, and fully 82 per cent had heard WLS.

The survey further revealed the programs desired by radio listeners. Instrumental music is most popular and is followed closely by vocal music, with a decided preference for male voices. Farm and home programs also rank high, while radio plays, readings and speeches are favored in the order named.

Weather Outlook

IMPORTANT NOTICE—As each of our friends know, this store does not go in for weekly, monthly or yearly "sales." Thus, when we announce an event like this, there must be reasons, and there are. (First) In order to get ready for our Spring and Summer season, we find it imperative to turn over our stock—completely and thoroughly. In doing so, we are even including scores of next Spring's models.
We MUST have more room. (Second) We want more customers; we want people to see and know for themselves that Handloff's is a REAL store, handling REAL merchandise for all the family. We already have a host of good friends—and after this Sale, we know we will have many new ones.

I stand strictly behind the values given in this page. This is a SACRIFICE SALE—and IT'S WORTH YOUR WHILE TO COME IN!

Testimonial to Mr. du Pont

Pierre S. du Pont—Citizen—was the guest of Delaware People on Saturday evening at Hotel du Pont.

There have been many Delaware scenes there, Red Cross Drives, War Conferences, Greetings to Delaware Boys returning from the front, but none of them surpassed or were more representative of the whole State than the assembly gathered there on Saturday evening to honor Pierre S. du Pont—Citizen. Civic-minded, thinking men and women from every section of the State were there. The scene was one of dignity yet free from embarrassing formality; colorful, yet simple. Enthusiasm prevailed, but with poise. Words of high praise were heard, but void of flattery. The honor and appreciation were indicative of prevailing feeling, falling in outward expression. There was a freedom of good cheer rather than brilliancy. It was just Delawareans paying a simple tribute to a Citizen, their fellow Citizen, who by his wealth and by his personal energy, time and thought had done so much for them and their children.

The occasion had a perfection of simplicity that actually made it striking. Those responsible for the execution of the idea and plan are to be congratulated.

Mr. du Pont, with his usual modesty, dismissed his personality and with that rare trait that is his talk of Delaware, its history, work today, and plans for tomorrow.

It was a great tribute to a Citizen.

I Am The Newspaper

I was born in the silent forests far from the ports of men. I have watched the Redman hunt his game by day and great animals fight to death by the aurora's pale glare!

The woodsman's axe, an icy stream, a merciless shrieking of wheels and knives, terrific heat and pressure, and I am a great white ribbon, spun into a roll, only to be drawn out again through the battering, thundering jaws of a printing press.

But in the hands of all men I am now an inspiration, a clairvoyant, a historian. My sides are covered with magic, symbols of a gigantic significance.

I am the voice of the nation; the light of the world. When I go forth I bear the decrees of the greatest brains and threats of the strongest mob forces of my time.

I tell my story; a king topples from his throne, and millions of soldiers march gallantly to an unknown death. I sing their requiem and it is known in the farthest corners of the earth, and in its deepest seas.

I weave dreamer's thoughts, spans of steel over great torrents, and build spires of stone to shelter men's gods. I speak, and continents are served and worlds are cemented.

I tell my tales of the prince and the pauper. My anthems are of the free and the brave; and I chant the song of the wage slave in dusty noon; or I bring comfort to tired eyes and jaded minds by feverish midnight.

I am feared by all men, yet wooed and courted like a fickle muse.

Where men have gathered together I am. And until the last man has gone home to the Great Beyond, I shall be.

I am the papyrus of time.

I am the newspaper.—Ex.

PIERRE S. DUPONT GUEST OF FELLOW DELAWAREANS AT TESTIMONIAL

An old friend in the office, and there was a continual weaving in and out between tables.

While the ball room and adjoining foyer were jammed with tables, the courses were served and removed with an ease and efficiency which prompted many comments on the part of the diners. The hotel management managed every detail admirably, and the service could not, in the opinion of the guests, have been better.

As the program opened, Chairman Scott arose and spoke briefly upon the idea of the dinner and welcomed heartily the guests, especially those who had made the long trip from southern points in the State. He turned and here introduced Mr. Chief Justice Pennewill.

The State's chief jurist was warmly greeted as he was presented to his people. In the course of his opening, he said:

"A more representative assemblage of Delaware citizens has probably never been seen on an occasion like this than the one we look upon tonight. It represents the best thought and highest hopes of our people, and they are always glad of an opportunity to express their admiration and respect for an individual who has done much for his State."

In closing, after he recited the great achievements of Mr. du Pont, the speaker added:

"No one could be more unselfish in the work he has sought to do, or more earnest in its consummation. His controlling thought is the public good, and his only compensation the consciousness that he has done his duty as a citizen of the State. The good work which so strongly appeals to him has taken on increased impetus in the last few years, and not only in this State but in others men of wealth, realizing the importance of better and more general education have given generously of their means to aid in its promotion. And every citizen can contribute something that will help in the good work. If nothing more there can be appreciation of the efforts that are being made to insure better schools, and in consequence, better citizens in coming years."

Dr. Alderman's Address

After speaking at length on the understanding he holds of Delaware and Delaware problems, Dr. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, spoke feelingly of the comradeship of Thomas Jefferson and Du Pont de Nemours, an ancestor of Pierre S. du Pont, and in this vein, stated:

"There is fitness then surely in the appearance here tonight of an humble official descendant of Thomas Jefferson to urge on causes dear to him in a great progressive State and to acclaim a lineal descendant of the great Frenchman, du Pont de Nemours, whose progeny, and whose very name, make in a later and an economic age, have illustrated his virtues and kept bright and shining, his name and his fame. It pleases me to fancy that somewhere on some mount of Faith Thomas Jefferson and du Pont de Nemours may have sight of the scenes of earth, and may behold the University of Virginia, buffeted and struggling but lying beautiful and vigorous on its green lawn, and the Commonwealth of Delaware rising to heights for power and prosperity through the devotion of a man of du Pont blood to the education of all the people in the schools of all the people."

"I conceive the chief work of you progressive Delawareans, whether Service Citizens or not, to be the development of an irresistible public opinion in a democracy for the accomplishment of necessary, permanent, public ends. A democracy cannot exist unless it is based on intelligence. Jefferson's and du Pont's noble faith in men was not in men, but trained men. The education of all the people, therefore, is the primary interest of any democratic state. Let us all remember that education is the primary, not the secondary interest. It doesn't come after roads or power plants, or anything else. It comes first and stays first, and a public opinion holding that creed is on the road to unexampled progress."

"Good Roads, Flowers, Parks, Better Schools, Trees, Pure Water, Fresh Air, Sunshine and Work for Everybody"—OUR MOTTO

Dr. Alderman brought out an important point in the life of Jefferson, when he said:

"Jefferson appeared at the age of thirty-seven years in the House of Delegates in Virginia with five bills in his pocket, and he fought for ten years to have them all passed. They struck at the very root of the life of the proudest and most conservative commonwealth in the nation."

"The first was a bill to abolish primogeniture, to free the land for all the people. These should be no leaving the land to the eldest son, no beginning of an aristocracy in America."

"His next Bill was the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom. Here his thought was to free the soul of man and crush the infamous beast of intolerance."

"The next was a system of free education extending from the primary schools to the university. The mind, too, should be free."

"The next was a Bill to curb what seemed to him, and later proved to be, the greatest menace to the Republic, the Institution of Human Slavery."

"The whole daring program designed in a harmonious way to free the corporate and community spirit of a great State and to give it community genius and corporate power. Did any individual in the world ever enter any Legislature before with that sort of program in his pocket? They talk about radicals in Washington and elsewhere, the Brookharts and La Follettes and Magnus Johnsons. They are complaisant stand-patters to Thomas Jefferson. I believe they mean well, and I respect their spirit, but they do not always know precisely where they are going, and he did. He was a glorious intelligent radical."

The benediction, pronounced by Bishop Philip Cook, closed the evening.

THESPIANS WORKING

High School Play Shaping Up For Debut on February 12

The Senior Class of Newark High School are all agog over the prospects for the presentation of its play, "Come Out of the Kitchen," in the Opera House here on the evening of February 12th.

Rehearsals are being held after school hours several days each week, and although the date set is still some time off, hard work for each member of the cast is already the rule. The last days of rehearsal will be devoted to a general polishing up of the parts under the capable supervision of Mrs. Herman Tyson. Mrs. Tyson is assisting Miss Houston and Miss Heiser, the co-directors of the piece, and from all reports, the people of Newark will see a splendid play.

"The Louise" Passes From the Picture

Never again will the old "Louise" churn and lash the waters of Chesapeake Bay with her paddle wheels, groaning under the weight of hundreds of excursionists.

The last quiver has shaken her ribs. She is to be replaced next summer by the haughty "Express," carrying screw propellers, if you please; automobile space, and a "ball room." (The "Louise" carried a dance hall.)

Age yielding to swaggering Youth again.

Success to the new boat, of course; but somehow we'll miss the "Old Lady of the Bay." We'd like one more puffing ride on her—if for nothing else than Memory's sake.

Wouldn't you?

BUYS APPLETON FARM

Charles K. Lynch Reported Purchaser of Peterson Farm

Charles K. Lynch, of Stanton, is reported to have purchased the Selma Peterson farm near Appleton and will remove to his new home in the early Spring.

Mr. Lynch was a former resident of Cecil County, and was active in politics. For a term he was treasurer of the county and acted as secretary to the County Board of Education. He is well known in both Elkton and Stanton communities.

THE DAILY AND THE WEEKLY

From the Big Timber (Montana) "Pioneer"

Col. Dan Whetstone, editor of the Cut Bank Pioneer Press, believes he sees the passing of the country weekly. The rapid development of the airplane service, he thinks, will eventually deliver the morning daily paper at every farm home; and when that day arrives the home paper is doomed.

No chance, man, no chance! The course of the daily paper and the country weekly are as widely divergent as those of a cold wave westbound, and a chinook, eastbound.

The Smiths, Browns and Joneses we have always with us; but there are two classes of Smiths, Browns and Joneses as there are two classes of transcontinental winds.

The daily paper deals with the Smiths, Browns and Joneses of national repute. It has to do only with John Smith, financier; William Brown, statesman; Charles Jones, philanthropist. Smith corners the wheat market, clears a cool million, and black headlines on the front page of the daily tell the whole world of his achievement. Brown electrifies an audience with a dissertation on the world court, and the morning page carries a likeness of that eminent statesman and a verbatim report of his address. Jones donates $5,000,000 to an educational institution, and at 3 a. m. the contribution is heralded to the world. And the world reads and forgets.

The country weekly deals with John Smith, tiller of the soil; Bill Brown, laborer; Charley Jones, tradesman; connected by name only with the headlines of the daily.

John, or "Jack" Smith, tiller of the soil, drives his flivver to the county seat, parks in front of the corner grocery, does his weekly shopping, shakes hands with the sheriff, talks a minute with "ye editor," and drives home. Saturday the rural mail carrier deposits a bundle in the box at the farm gate. Smith runs through a mass of circular advertising, glances at the agricultural weekly, scans the front page of the live stock journal, and from a mass of accumulated mail sorts out the home paper. Glancing first at the commissioners' proceedings, then at the school notes, then over to the market report and country correspondence, he turns to the "local happenings" and finds the following: "Jack Smith, one of our most prosperous and popular farmers, was in the city the first of the week from Bohunk Center on a business visit. He states that copious showers during the past two weeks insure a bountiful grain and hay crop in his locality."

Smith is satisfied, and meekly notes that on his next trip to the county seat he will look up his subscription.

Grandma Brown adjusts her "specs" to the tip of her nose, opens the home paper, and with palsied finger traces the various items on the local page. When almost ready to give up in despair, sandwiched in between a patent medicine advertisement and a hay for sale reader, she reads:

"Grandma Brown, mother of Bill Brown, our jolly and accommodating drayman, who has been seriously ill for two weeks, is reported much better at this writing."

And thus the home paper is more firmly cemented to the Brown household than if united by bands of steel.

Charley Jones, the butcher, crams the weekly edition into his coat pocket, gathers up a five-pound roast and beats it for the Jones fireside. The evening meal over, he gets his slippers, draws a chair to the family stove, starts at the top of the first column and reads down, with an expectant air. Here it is!

"Charley Jones, our rotund butcher, is rejoicing over the arrival of an eight-pound boy at the Jones home, Monday morning. Mother and child are doing well, and Charley will recover."

A loud har, har, har! A squeaking of an old armchair, a shuffling of feet, and Charles rushes to the family bedroom and, with much gusto, reads the article to Mrs. Jones, by the side of the infantile inspiration for the item.

And thus the story runs, week by week, month by month, year by year. As long as the world revolves on its axis, as long as there is a Santa Claus, as long as night follows day, as long as man believes in a Supreme Being, the country weekly will ride the billows of prosperity or adversity, the most welcome visitor in ever rural home and at every small town fire-side.

New State Masters

New state masters are heading off Grange work in two states with the beginning of the year. In Pennsylvania, John A. McSparran retires after 10 years' leadership of Grange affairs, and is succeeded by Philip H. Dewey, who has been very successful as state lecturer. In Kansas, the new leaders are Caldwell Davis, very prominent in state affairs, and a brother of Former Governor Davis, succeeding J. P. McMullen. In this state Governor Robert P. Robinson was unanimously re-elected master of the State Grange for another two years' term.

MR. JOE SPIVUS

[His Column]

"IS THERE NO ONE IN THE CROWD—"

NEWS ITEM—A stray brindle dog was run over and killed on Choate street last Sunday. No one claimed it.

He was just plain "dawg," so we gather from reports. But his limpid eyes, dim now as the Long Sleep approaches, must have looked long for a familiar face in the crowd. Was there no one to help him through with a smile?

He lay still.

None mourned. Why should they? He was a little nobody in a strange land. Somewhere back in puppyhood, there might have been some one—who cared just a little; the touch of whose hand made him wriggle with joy. But that was Yesterday.

That hand is missing now—now, of all times. If he could only feel a friendly knee under his tired head,—hear a kind word, it would be so much easier. There might even be a wag left in the brave little tail. . . .

The mellow eyes are hopeful till the end.

"Well, that makes one less damned mongrel in the streets," says the Public.

The Public is always right.

***

We regret to state that several people of our acquaintance who tuned in to hear Willie J. Bryan speak at Atlantic City last week, and caught a Bed Time Story instead, immediately stopped fishing further for Willie.

***

What Willie evidently needs to restore him along with "a good five-cent cigar" to public repute, is another Democratic Convention.

***

Judging by the response cigar makers made to the eloquent plea of former Vice-President Marshall, we wish some one would cruise into the limelight and plead for a "comfortable $1.50 seat in a Theatre."

***

ANTICIPATION

Here are the correct words to "The Prisoner's Song," that haunting melody from the southern mountains, which everybody's singing but nobody knows.

This is what we call a Public Service—printing this. (I hope we don't get arrested for it.)

Tack this inside your lunch kit for a memory-shaker!

THE PRISONER'S SONG

*I wish I had some one to love me,
Someone who would call me their own.
I wish I had someone to live with,
For I'm tired of living alone.*

*Please meet me tonight in the moonlight,
Please meet me tonight all alone,
For I have a story to tell you,
It's a story that's never been told.*

*Tomorrow they take me to prison
And leave my poor darling alone,
With the cold prison walls all around me
And my head on a pillow of stone.*

*Now if I had a ship on the ocean,
All mounted with silver and gold,
Before my poor darling would suffer
The ship would be anchored and sold.*

*If I had wings like an angel
Over these prison walls I would fly
And I'd fly to the arms of my poor darling
And there I'd be willing to die.*

—Dahlhart.

For those of the Literati who occasionally get past the personal, these words are distinctly not for you. For once, Spivus draws the line.

All criticisms beginning with "why sell the ship, why not take the 'poor darling' aboard," and that sort of thing, will be sent to the furnace room. It makes no difference whether he sells the "ship" or lets the "darling" suffer, and be damned. This is not a public speech, it's a SONG,—a real, honest-to-goodness American folk song, too. The first one since "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

TWO SOLOISTS ASSIST
CONTINENTAL BAND

Many Expected to Attend
Concert In Opera House
Next Sunday

The interest of music lovers of the community is being centered at present on the forthcoming concert by the Continental Band of Newark in the Opera House here on Sunday afternoon next, at 2.30. It will be the first concert of the winter season to be given by the band.

In the program, announced yesterday by Bayard Perry, manager of the band, it will be noted that the musicians will be assisted at this time by two well-known young Wilmington soloists, Miss Frances Sheridan, and Charles La Boube Edwards. Miss Sheridan possesses a rich soprano, and is a favorite with Newark audiences. Mr. Edwards, son of Charles T. Edwards, director of the Band, is an accomplished violinist, and will play two of his own compositions Sunday.

The elder Edwards will again direct the Band. David Chalmers is Band leader.

The complete program follows:
March—"Robinson's Grand Entree," R. L. King.

Overture—"The Bridal Rose," C. Lavallee.

Soprano Solo—To be selected, Miss Frances Sheridan.

Overture—"Gypsy Queen," K. L. King.

Serenade—"Dew of Evening," F. H. Losey.

Violin Solo—"Dawn of Day," Chas. La Boube Edwards, Chas. La Boube Edwards; Chas. T. Edwards, Accom.

Waltz—"Old Timers," M. S. Lake.

March—"Fort Dayton," R. F. Seitz.

Soprano Solo—To be selected, Miss Frances Sheridan.

Overture—"Cloth of Gold," Fred Jewell.

Serenade—"Evening Song," F. E. Noel.

Violin Solo—"An Idyle," Chas. La Boube Edwards, Chas. La Boube Edwards; Chas. T. Edwards, Accom.

Overture—"The Sky Pilot," A. M. Laurens.

March—"Stars and Stripes Forever," Sousa.

Your Income Tax

No. 2

The exemptions under the revenue act of 1924 are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together, and heads of families. In addition a $400 credit is allowed for each person dependent upon and receiving his chief support from the taxpayer, if such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

The normal tax rate under the revenue act of 1924 is 2 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal exemptions, credit for dependents, etc., 4 per cent on the next $4,000, and 6 per cent on the balance. Under the preceding act the normal tax rate was 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income above the exemptions and credits, and 8 per cent on the remaining net income.

The revenue act of 1924 contains a special provision for reduced taxes which did not appear in previous laws. All net income up to $5,000 is considered "earned income." On this amount the taxpayer is entitled to a credit of 25 per cent of the amount of the tax.

For example, a taxpayer, single and without dependents, may have received in 1924 a salary of $2,000 and from a real estate transaction a profit of $3,000. His total net income was $5,000. Without the benefit of the 25 per cent reduction his tax would be $80. His actual tax is $60. From his net income of $5,000 he is allowed a personal exemption of $1,000; the tax of 2 per cent on the first $4,000 is $80, one-fourth of which, or $20, may be deducted.

For the purpose of computing this credit, in no case is the earned net income considered to be in excess of $10,000. A taxpayer may have received for the year 1924 a net income from salary of $20,000, but the 25 per cent credit can be applied to only one-half of this amount.

Too Many Shocks For Rich Lumberman
Throws Peaceful Rising Sun Into Turmoil

Head of Brockett Lumber Company Runs Wild in Auto,
After Mind Slips a Cog—Taken
To Sanitarium

The Rising Sun (Md.) "Midland Journal" of current date, carries the following story:

Since Sunday evening the town has been agog with excitement, and no tale of the happenings has been too extravagant, depending solely upon the imagination of the person retelling it and the eagerness and credulity of the listener to absorb it, as to the embellishment given.

The facts, as nearly as we are able to cull them from the extravagant assertions to be heard on all sides, are that a high powered car in which were a white man and a negro, stopped at Rising Sun Garage Sunday evening for gasoline. Officer Whittier, of the State Motor Vehicle force, who happened to be at the garage, requested the stranger to show his driver's license. Instead of complying the driver of the car stepped on the gas, leaving his colored companion behind.

The officer gave chase, and here follow more extravagant tales as to the speed attained by the car.

At any rate, it was a wild chase and despite the fact that the officer managed to puncture a front tire with a revolver shot, and that the tire came off, the machine was not overhauled until Deer creek bridge was reached, where it came to grief.

The driver, who was in a greatly excited state, was brought to Rising Sun and placed in a room at the Maryland House, where he became violent during the night, requiring the services of a physician and two or three others to restrain him. It was finally necessary to take him to the town lockup.

Papers found in his pockets showed his name to be L. B. Brockett and that he is president of the L. B. Brockett Lumber Co., Inc., Johnsonville, N. Y. He is a thirty-second degree Mason and wears an emblem shot with diamonds. His bank book it is said, shows checking balance of $26,000 and another book around $100,000.

In response to telegrams sent to his home, one of Mr. Brockett's business associates, Mr. Sharp, and his legal adviser, Judge Scott, reached Rising Sun on Wednesday.

It seems Mr. Brockett, who has been a hard working business man, has twice suffered mental breakdowns and been confined in private institutions. One of the many numerous reports in circulation is to the effect that the present breakdown was superinduced by some of the high powered stuff bootleggers dispense.

The story of the colored man, who was sent home on Wednesday, is to the effect that Mr. Brockett had asked him to accompany him to Washington. They left New Haven, Conn., at midnight Saturday. While passing

His Singing Voice

The vicar's daughter was very enthusiastic and appreciative about the new curate, and when she called on an elderly woman of eighty for an afternoon tea, she soon turned the conversation in this direction.

"You know," she said, "he is capable in so many ways. But what I like about him most of all is that he is a true altruist."

"Well, I'm surprised to hear that," exclaimed the hostess, "for I heard him singing last Sunday, and I could declare he was a tenor."—Vancouver Province.

through Philadelphia a policeman ordered Mr. Brockett to stop, but keeping on, the officer shot and broke a window in the car. On the edge of the city a police noticing the bullet hole asked how it was made. Mr. Brockett said boys threw a brick against the glass. He was allowed to drive on. This the colored man says, unbalanced Mr. Brockett's mind.

With the arrival of Mr. Brockett's friends a hearing was held before Magistrate Briscoe and gues totalling $130 imposed for reckless driving and operating a car without license.

All bills were settled and arrangements made for taking the sufferer to an institution in Boston. Accompanied by Dr. R. C. Dodson, who had been the attending physician, and H. M. Duyckinck, proprietor of Rising Sun Garage, the Federal Express was stopped at Perryville Wednesday evening, and the party of five boarded it for Boston.

TWELVE IMPORTANT QUESTIONS AFFECTING THE AUTO INDUSTRY ANSWERED BY A LEADER

Edward S. Jordan, Manufacturer, Says Ford "Was the First Man To Build a Car For the Other Fellow"

The purchasing power of the United States this year will be far beyond anything we ever have seen, according to Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motorcar Company.

Twelve striking and pertinent questions regarding the automobile industry, all queries which seem to be on the tongue of every one, have been answered by Mr. Jordan in a statement to Jordan stockholders.

Jordan is one of the most widely traveled executives in the industry and is said to have wider acquaintance among distributors and dealers than any other man in the business.

Here are the questions, with Jordan's characteristic answers:

First. Who will survive in the automobile industry?

A. Those manufacturers building a good product, standardized from the point of production, who first eliminate all unnecessary overhead, concentrate upon a single model and place themselves in a position to finance the business from the purchase of raw materials to the last payment by the customer.

Second. What is the next most important stage in the automobile industry?

A. The engineering stage, aside from minor improvements, has passed. The production man has had his inning. The capacity of the industry is beyond the capacity of the dealers to distribute. The next stage is the financing stage and the settling down to a normal business basis, which may best be characterized by comparison with the farm implement business.

Third. Will the industry be concentrated in the hands of a few companies?

A. Yes, undoubtedly; but on the day that any effort is made to dominate the industry by any one corporation, that is the day that I would like to start in the business. You cannot corner brains, style and hard work.

Fourth. Why is Ford the most successful manufacturer?

A. Because he was the first man to build a car for the other fellow. All the early manufacturers built cars in which they liked to ride themselves.

Fifth. Will there be some big combination in the automobile industry?

A. In the passenger car business there are too many young men who are having too much fun running their own successful business. Any combination of the weaker companies would be a failure. The strong ones will hold out against combinations for some time to come.

Sixth. What is the solution of the whole European problem?

A. Two million Fords and 2,000,000 telephones. Transportation breaks down the barriers of language, customs and prejudice. That is why we have a united group of forty-eight states constituting a nation with one language, one purpose and one ideal.

Seventh. What has been the greatest development in the automobile business in the last five years?

A. The building of 45,000 miles of permanent roads throughout the United States.

Eighth. What would be the greatest development in the future to benefit the automobile industry?

A. The production of an aluminum alloy which would sell at the price of steel—something which Mr. Ford might have had in mind when he was talking about Muscle Shoals. This idea alone would revolutionize the whole business of transportation.

Ninth. What is the solution for the traffic problem?

A. More floor space for transportation in the congested area; remove the speed limits on the movement of automobile traffic and convince the merchants that they must follow the plan of the branch banks and drug-gists in establishing shopping centers in all of the principal suburbs of every city.

Tenth. Will American manufacturers dominate the world market?

A. They will if they continue to build cars suitable for all kinds of roads. America will dominate the export market largely because we have the production facilities and the experience to build satisfactory cars at much lower cost than any other nation in the world. The export business is increasing rapidly.

Eleventh. What is the greatest problem in the automobile industry today?

A. To induce the manufacturers to regulate their production in keeping with the merchandising ability and financial capacity of the distributing organization. Each new car that is offered for sale is merely applied in part payment on the purchase of an old one.

Twelfth. Will the profits of automobile companies increase?

A. They will increase in so far as the manufacturers succeed in applying business principles to the reduction of overhead and the elimination of unnecessary models. Too many manufacturers are building models which compete with other products of the same factory.

Bankers Demand Law

Against Safe-Blowing

In view of the wave of criminal operations against banks, a more universally drastic State law against burglary with explosives is proposed by the American Bankers' Association through its Committee on State Legislation.

As made public the recommended law provides that any person who, with criminal intent, breaks into any buildings and attacks a vault "by the use of nitroglycerine, dynamite, gun powder or any other explosive shall be deemed guilty of burglary with explosives." It also proposes punishment by imprisonment for a term of not less than twenty-five nor more than forty years. In regard to this law, the bankers' statement says:

"The operations of the 'yegg-man' type of bank burglar call for punishment of unusual severity, and this is not provided by the ordinary statutes against burglary in States where the above law does not obtain.

Apple Company Sale Feb. 7

Announcement has been made by Henry Ridgely, of Dover, receiver of the Delaware Apple Company, that the public sale of 931 acres of land, orchards, buildings and equipment of the company, located near Bridgeville, will be held on February 7, at 10 o'clock. If the real property does not bring $93,100, all the property will be withdrawn from the sale, Mr. Ridgely declared.

Cross-Words Enunciated

It is claimed that the cross-word craze will improve our vocabularies. "The Cross-Word Puzzle Book, Third Series," goes so far as to give a sample conversation between two addicts, as follows:

Mrs. W.—By the way, didn't I hear that your little Junior met with an accident?

Mrs. F.—Yeset. The little oaf fell from an ape and fractured his artus.

Mrs. W.—Egad!

Mrs. F.—And to make matters worse, Dr. Bloop botched it so we had to trek into town for a specialist.

Mrs. W.—Joe's ire was so aroused that he told Dr. Bloop right to his visage that he was a dolt and an art.

LONDON PICKS UP WIP DURING SUN'S ECLIPSE

For the first time in radio history, an American broadcasting station was heard in Europe in daytime. The feat that heretofore was considered impossible by radio experts of both continents, was accomplished Saturday morning during the total eclipse of the sun.

Station WIP, on the Gimbel Brothers store, Philadelphia, had made arrangements with Station 2LO at London and Station 2BD at Aberdeen, Scotland, to stage a trans-Atlantic test during the eclipse period.

Station WIP began its broadcasts promptly at 7 a. m., eastern standard time, as arranged. At 7:45 a. m., WIP began a program of orchestral music, and continued to broadcast it until 8:30 a. m.

About 9:30 a. m. a cablegram was received from 2LO saying that WIP's signals had been distinctly heard in London at 8:12 a. m., eastern standard time. This was before the eclipse was noticeable at Philadelphia.

A telegram to WIP from Howard Adams, Jr., of Baltimore, Md., reported hearing 2LO's broadcast at 9:09 a. m. James Capozio, of Philadelphia, distinctly heard 2BD at Aberdeen, Scotland, and held their signals for three minutes. Rossmore Thatcher, of Asbury Park, N. J., wired WIP that he had heard 2LO clearly. This was the first daylight trans-Atlantic test ever attempted, and the first time that two-way broadcasting was heard in daylight between the two continents.

Whether or not the eclipse of the sun had effect on the radio waves emitted from the three stations is unknown.

New Demerit System went into effect the first of February. It replaces the old Merit and Demerit system. The new one operates on a month basis. If a student receives ten demerits within a month, may be suspended from school for one week. The demerits are canceled at the end of each month.

Singing Class is held every Tuesday and Thursday in the Assembly Room. Miss Anna Ritz, a graduate of the Women's College of the University of Delaware, has charge of the class.

On February 27th the members of the football team were presented with gold footballs. This is the fifth consecutive year that Newark High School has won the D. I. A. A. State Football Championship. Mr. Nunn, coach of the team, was presented with a gold football by the members of the football squad.

Newark High School is completing one of the most successful basketball seasons it has ever had. The team has won the right to represent the Northern District of the State in the championship game with Seaford on Saturday.

On Friday, March 6th, the High School basketball teams played the teams representing the Alumni. The High School girls won by the score of 17-12. The High School boys trounced the Alumni 18-12.

The Junior Prom will be held in the Newark School Building on Friday evening, May the first.

The student body of the High School is hopefully looking forward to April the first, the date we are supposed to move into the new school building.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NEWS

Six members of 5-A and 4-B classes were promoted—namely, Viola Frazer and Colbert Wood to the Sixth grade, and four from 4-B to 4-A. Marie Gregg and Frances Hall won the two movie tickets for the spelling contest in 4-A grade and the two in 5-A and 4-B room were Margaret Grier and Charlotte Jackson. 5-A and 4-B grades received a beautiful picture of Switzerland, presented by Betty Ford and her father, also a letter from a teacher in Switzerland. The High School pupils are making a health record of our class. In our art class we are making tables and setting them when they are finished. We shall be glad to have anyone come to see them. Interesting morning exercises are held here under the direction of student teachers from the Women's College. During the past week the periods have been made interesting by pictures of the inauguration. These were taken by Dr. Manns while attending it. In the 5th Grade we had as winners of the spelling contest Sara Cockran and Marshall Eastburn and these were awarded the tickets to the motion picture "The Hoosier Schoolmaster."

Dorothy Lundy and Maude Stevens have moved from this district. Dorothy Campbell from Maryland entered our grade Monday last.

We have been making and illustrating Health Booklets. This was interesting work and we are proud of our books.

We are now keeping health charts and will continue this throughout this term.

Because our flowers froze in the winter, we now have narcissus bulbs which we are trying to have in bloom for Easter.

The 7-B class is very much interested in getting clippings of the affairs of the world for every Friday. This is about things which are going on in the various nations of the world. Last Friday the clippings were about the inauguration of the President. One member of our class, Sally Sweeney, saw the President take the oath. She told us in class Monday all about her trip which made us all wish we had been there also.

Foot Comfort Demonstration

MARCH 25, 1925
ALL DAY

Foot troubles are universal. Government records show that 7 out of every 10 adult people have some form of foot trouble.

You are probably a victim of foot trouble yourself. It may be only a corn, a callous, a bunion or some more serious trouble such as weak and broken-down arches. You might not know the nature of your trouble but you do know that your feet ache, pain, and get all tired out on the slightest provocation.

Foot Comfort Expert Here

Come to our Foot Comfort Department on the above date and get a Free Demonstration. There's no charge for this valuable service. This work is in charge of a Special Demonstrator from The Scholl Mfg. Co. This is an opportunity that every foot sufferer should grasp.

FREE PEDO-GRAPH PICTURE

In a few seconds' time, without removing the shoe, he can make a photographic print of your foot that positively shows if you do have foot troubles and to what stage the trouble has progressed. This service is absolutely free and places you under no obligation whatever.

NEWS GLEANINGS OF INTEREST TO PUPILS, PARENTS AND TEACHERS CONDENSED FOR QUICK READING

P.-T. A. MEETING

The Newark P.-T. A. meeting held on Tuesday evening, March 10th, in the High School Assembly Room, was an unqualified success. There were a large number of parents and teachers present and close attention was given to the reports read by the Primary, Grammar and High School departments. A regular meeting night was chosen, namely, the second Tuesday of each month. A request for a contribution toward the fund for the music in the High School was talked. The President reported that some were anxious about the dangers at the Grammar School corners as to traffic during assembly and dismissal hours. Miss Allen told how a similar difficulty was overcome in Detroit and Ft. Wayne, by the Boy Scouts and students handling it, and suggested that the Grammar School take it up here. Suggestions were made to use "Slow" signs. Dr. Manns favored the idea and suggested the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce and that the pupils be instructed to avoid walking on the street. Dr. Crooks emphasized the correction of "jay" walking and teaching correct ways of crossing the streets. Prof. Wilkinson moved that Dr. Heim be a committee of one to consult the Chamber of Commerce and request them to put up signs through the town. The Secretary was instructed to write the Chamber of Commerce explaining the dangers and the need of some steps to avoid an accident.

Martin Doordan spoke on behalf of the Senior Class trip to Washington requesting a "bake" to make up a deficit of about $80.00. It was decided to accede to this request.

Mrs. Houghton was then introduced by the President as the speaker on the topic "How to Improve the Attendance of pupils in the Newark Schools." Mrs. Houghton said that the teachers were already doing all they could to correct this and that parents were entirely responsible for any shortcomings in attendance and punctuality. Dr. Crooks said that the attitude of the pupils was wrong judging by their lack of anxiety when going to school late. Prof. Wilkinson suggested a banner as a means of motivating the laggards. Miss Allen endorsed this and supplemented it with the addition of a picture for the room.

Mrs. Manns then led the discussion of the topic "How to Keep Pupils in at Night, attending to their lessons." Mrs. Wilkinson said that if we expect pupils to spend their evenings at home and stay home ourselves most of the time with them allowing them only week-ends for off nights and if the parents would co-operate together to make this idea general it would go a long way to solve the problem. Club meetings, etc., should occur on Friday or Saturday nights.

Mr. Owens introduced the topic, "Are our schools over-crowded?" He showed that experiments pretty uniformly agree that from thirty-six to forty pupils may be taught in one class without serious loss to educational results, but stated that personally he believed from twenty-five to thirty was much better for results.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

For the High School Martin Doordan read the following interesting report of some of the student activities.

A number of the High School classes are being conducted in new and interesting ways. Some of the outstanding examples of these activities are to be found in the Home Economics classes, the French classes, the Plain Geometry class and the Sophomore English class.

In the Home Economics classes the girls are conducting a contest to see which of the two sides is first able to bring the weight of its members to normal. Health problems are being studied and projects in planning and serving economical meals are being carried on.

In the French classes, a French Club has been organized known as "Les Chercheurs du bon Français." The officers are as follows: President, Erica Grothenn; vice-president, William Doyle; treasurer, James Jaquette; secretary, Lidie Towson.

The Plane Geometry class is absorbing its mathematics by playing a game known as baseball. This stimulates the interest of the students to a very great extent.

The Sophomore English class is taking an imaginary tour of the United States. At various points in the trip letters giving very detailed information are written to persons at home. This plan serves to motivate the work and adds interest to a phase of the study of English which otherwise often becomes dull and uninteresting.

Between You and the Weather

When you lie in bed some rain-whipped night, it will warm you to think of the unbroken coat of Metal Roofing that lies between you and the searching downpour.

As you listen, shivering deliciously, think how your roof protects, more than anything else, your investment in your property.

GOOD Metal Roofing, such as LYONORE METAL, if given reasonable care, will in turn give you lifetime service. "It costs less because it lasts longer."

When you build, be sure to specify LYONORE METAL ROOFING.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

Newark, Delaware, R. F. D. 5,

March 9, 1925.

The following letter, intended for publication last week, was withheld due to the absence of the communitarian's signature. Since then the error has been rectified, and we publish it in full today.

An item to set straight in the minds of those who chanced to see in last week's Post on the first page headed "Counter Warrant Fails Its Purpose" J. Harold Mote and Leroy Crompton after Sabbath School started to Cooch's Bridge to see the fish pond. On the way they met William Tierney. When opposite, his car darted across the road striking the Mote car in back of the left front wheel and mashed in fender; the Tierney car had its front wheel mashed and other damage done. After a heated argument between the two named parties, Tierney knocked Mote to the ground and immediately he swore out a warrant for manslaughter. When our boy brought us home from church he at once explained the case and said "Mamma I don't know why I did not strike him back." I replied, "You were led by a higher power."

I will say those who saw the two cars said immediately how could such an unjust sentence be meted out as the cars were proof who struck first, but if they had been at the hearing they could have easily known, as the witness who saw the whole affair was not allowed to say one word. We have been informed it was a framed-up case against our boy before the case ever came up.

This is not the first unjust sentence. Was not Jesus tried before Pilate? Tried, convicted and put to death though innocent. And all down through the ages such sentences have been meted out to the innocent. John Bunyon, for instance, was cast into prison yet innocent, and while serving his term wrote Pilgrim's Progress and through this book he was the means of bringing more souls into the kingdom than he could ever have reached by word of mouth.

After listening to that most eloquent sermon Sabbath morning from our pastor, Rev. Frank Herson, Matt. 16-24, and impressing that we must bear our daily crosses in order to win our crowns, so this is one of the crosses our boy will have to bear, this unjust sentence that was placed on him. Words cannot express how we as fond parents love and admire him more than ever knowing not only from his lips but facts stated to us that he neither bribed nor told an untruth to have the case go his way.

Harold has paid these unjust debts and some one is dividing the spoil the same the Roman soldiers after the crucifixion divided Jesus' garments among them, but my boy has a just debt yet to pay the same as we all do when being absent from our place of worship on the Lord's day.

—A Fond Mother.

LAP-DOG ETHICS

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our city, by any act of dishonesty or cowardice, nor ever desert our suffering comrades in the ranks."

"We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the city, both alone and with many; we will revere and obey the city's laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in those above us who are prone to annul or to set them at naught; we will strive unceasingly to quicken the public's sense of civic duty."

"Thus in all these ways we transmit this city not less but greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."—Oath of the Young Men of Athens.

Therein lies the democratic ideal—the idea of intelligent individuals voluntarily co-operating to realize the highest common good.

All this sounds mighty fine and indefinite. Consequently we all like it, and bask pharisaically, with a stagnated mental and moral comfort, in the artificial warmth of this super-hokum. For it is hokum as it stands and as it would generally be interpreted. It is only when we make it specific, and come to the awareness that the words of the Oath of the Young Men of Athens does not apply only and in a general way to our neighbors and the political philanthropists, but in a direct and definite manner to ourselves, that it ceases to be the typical Pollyanna jargon behind which American society hides from its greatest enemy: truth in concrete terms.

We read the Oath and show it to our wife with the highly astute remark that it is "good dope"—that's all; we never think of it again. We don't seem to be able to comprehend the fact that if we honestly believe the Oath to be "good dope" that every time we oppose a measure to improve our community just because it cuts off thirteen inches of our front yard or increases our taxes eighteen cents a year that we are liars.

As long as it remains in the abstract—fine. But when it applies to something tangible—why, that's entirely different.

Edwin Markham has said, "We have committed the Golden Rule to memory; let us now commit it to life. We have preached Brotherhood for centuries; we now need to find a material basis for brotherhood. Government must be made the organ of fraternity—a working-form for comradeship." This is only another expression of the idea of unselfish co-operation necessary for a real democracy, of a universal fairness applied not merely in conversation of world affairs but also in the apparently little things and events of everyday life. Idealism is not something hazy and indistinct like a beautiful dream; it is just as real as materialism.

It is difficult for a person who dares to be honest with himself to understand the hypocritical code of conduct by which most of us regulate our lives. We have a nice, made-to-order idealism which we simply adore to talk about and which we try to bequeath verbally to our children. Then we have a vicious, selfish materialism which we actually practice. It is the first which inspires us to attend church and to praise humanitarian movements when we don't want to go to church and when we are not in sympathy with the movement. We do it because "it is a good thing," and doesn't particularly inconvenience our financial resources. It is the second which prompts us to drop a "nice" in the collection plate at church to "not have any money right when someone comes to up to in the humanitarian move the second which gave us great American slogans, "business" and "It's up to look out for himself."

No wonder our children have little respect for us. We taught them a great deal of actions and attitudes that conventional phrases and attitudes. We can't see how it is Athenian's Oath, granted a "good dope," can possibly in we should purchase from merchants. We go to the city our shopping. The reason is simple: we feel that we would endanger our social prestige if we were to be seen departing from one of our own "small-town" stores with a package or two. But we don't consider that only those who feel that their social position is insecure take this attitude; only those who salama to the false, undemocratic, and corrupting influences of our standardized society ever feel any doubt as to their social security.

We like to talk about improving our town, but when the time comes for the actual work we "are not at home." Unless we will receive some direct personal benefit we never consider "transmitting the city greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us." If the proposed improvement brings with it any direct benefit to us, we slander all the little, selfish, narrow-minded slackers who adopt our usual attitude toward other civic affairs, and we get out and work vigorously for the new post office which will increase the value of property or stimulate the stagnant up-to-now worthless real Rarely is there community arising from altruism. We are much for that. Our lives are with the fronts painted brick dwellings. And we selves upon being self-made. Few of us "live such lives we die everyone, even in undertaker, will be sorry."

We have taken the idea of "city begins at home" to our but our conception of the mightily small. We jabber and secretly worship at the hollow egotism. The St. Liberty could appropriately placed by a Statue of Hypocrisy.

"We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the city; we will revere and obey the city's laws. We will strive unceasingly to quicken the public's sense of civic duty. We transmit this city not less but greater than it was transmitted to us."

And we wink at the bootlegger, fail to clean our backyards, arrive through town at a thirty-mile hour rate. We are the practical list.

—Communitarian.

PERSONALS AND SOCIAL NOTES

Among the Newarople who attended the testing banquet to the S. du Pont in hotel du Pont, Wilmington, last Saturday evening, the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Walther, Prof. A. Wilkinson, B. Thompson, and Mrs. Samuel Wright, Ever-C. Johnson, Dean George E. Dutton, Arthur G. Wilkins, business administrator, Dean W. J. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Evans, George A. Harard R. W. Heim.

Mrs. J. Pilling Whit had as her guests yesterday afternoon, a large group of Newark out of town people, the occasion of a luncheon. Following lunch on guests indulged in a "cross wizzle" party, an innovation in New Reports indicate that a most rable afternoon was spent by one, including some who confess to be their first struggle with well known black squares. Mrs. J. Wright, Mrs. John Shaw and Ernest Wright had little diff. in taking home three beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonall, of Wilmington, spent Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lafferty here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McNeal spent Monday afternoon Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Howard, of Wilmington, spent with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Green, near Newark.

Dr. and Mrs. Downes Wilmington, spent Sunday the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Green, near Newark.

Dr. and Mrs. Rayl Downes were Wilmington visit Monday of this week.

Miss Edwina Long entertain over thirty of Newark out of town guests at a bridge party held in the Blue Tea room here on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Long is hostess at the same place to a group supper bridge party.

About fifty guests entertained by Miss Elsie Wright her home here last Wednesday noon, at a large bridge luncheon of the guests came from out of town. Beautiful decorations and a feature of the occasion. Table held an attractive basket with yellow tulips, pink rose and sweet peas. The effect was fully carried out in other respect making a most harmonious ensemble. On Thursday evening, Miss Wright entertained a like number and their husbands at supper at her home.

At the afternoon party Wednesday, prizes were won by M. T. Neal, Mrs. Charles L. Reand Mrs. James C. Hastings.

Miss Edith Spencer returned last Wednesday from a visit with Mrs. Carl Taylor in Richmond, Virginia.

Mrs. George L. Towl, Mrs. E. C. Clemence and Miss went to Dover on Monday to attend meeting of the Women's Legislative Committee.

Mrs. M. C. Badger, of Leesburg, Virginia, is the guest for several weeks of her daughter, Mrs. Helen Wilson.

Mrs. Amy Barnsley, of New York City, is the guest of Mrs. W. E. Holton.

Mrs. Tom Ingham is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ingham, of Patterson, N. J.

Mrs. R. W. Heim will entertain at three parties next week. The first will be a card party on Wednesday afternoon, the second a dinner and bridge party on Thursday evening and a sewing party on Friday afternoon.

The Stork

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Medill of this place are receiving congratulations upon the birth on Monday of this week of a baby daughter. Mother and child are doing very nicely, according to reports.

Attended Convention

F. Allyn Cooch, local representative of the Continental Life Insurance Company of Wilmington, attended several sessions held in connection with the annual meeting of the sales force of the firm in the Hotel DuPont, Wilmington, last Friday and Saturday. Several cups and prizes were awarded to agents making the best records for the past year.

NEW CENTURY CLUB

The Newark New Century Club meeting for March 2nd should be of unusual interest, for on that date Professor Ryden, of the University, will present for discussion the proposed Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution and other pending legislation, after which any one may ask questions and discuss the subjects involved.

The meeting will be open to all women of the community, because we believe the questions are of vital interest to everybody.

—Secretary.

Alumnae To Dine

Women's College Graduate Affair On February 21st

For the first time in the history of the Alumnae Association of the Women's College, the graduate girls will hold their annual dinner outside of Newark. The Hotel du Pont has been decided upon as the place for the party, and February 21st is the date.

Lack of dining-room facilities has made it impossible for the ever-growing Alumnae body to dine with the students, as has been the former custom.

Mrs. Ruth Cleandaniel Bausman of Newark is actively at the head of the plans for the dinner.

FEDERAL COLLECTORS HERE FEBRUARY 24

United States Collector of Internal Revenue, John W. Hering, has announced the time and place to which Deputy Collectors of Internal Revenue will sit throughout New Castle County during the month of February in filing their returns for the year 1924. In view of the various changes in the new revenue law which has involved some changes in the form in which the returns are filed, it is believed the assistance and information which Deputies will give will be of great benefit to many taxpayers.

Collector Hering stated the features that will not doubt give the most trouble involved are the questions of exemption, especially where the status of the taxpayer has changed during the year, the earned income deduction and problems connected with records of a business and during the year 1924. Deputy Collectors have been instructed in all features of the law and will be prepared to give such information, it was stated.

The schedule for New Castle County is as follows:

February 24-27, Newark.
February 25-27, Middletown.
February 23, Delaware City.
February 19-21, New Castle.
February 23, St. Georges.
February 28, Claymont.

GRANGE GOVERNORS ARE MANY

The recent election of Robert P. Robinson, treasurer of the National Grange and Delaware statemaster, to the office of governor in this state for a four-year term focuses attention upon the fact that numerous Grange leaders have been elected governor in their respective states. Among these were Gov. Bell of Vermont, Gov. Robie of Maine, Gov. Loose of Michigan and Gov. Bachelier of New Hampshire, the latter serving as lecturer of the National Grange and then elected head of the Grange organization of the country, which position he filled for six years. Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania has long been a prominent Grange worker and speaker, while the same is true of Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, last year's lieutenant governor and this year elected and inaugurated governor, but holding the position less than 24 hours because of his election to represent his state in the United States Senate.

Members of the Grange are almost invariably leaders in their respective communities, filling positions of public responsibility and trust; while in nearly every state legislature each year there is a liberal sprinkling of members of the Grange in both branches.

PLAYHOUSE

The Society Melodrama, "The Devil Within," by Charles T. Horan, will fill the bill at the Playhouse, Wilmington, on Friday and Saturday nights with a Saturday matinee and will be found to be one of the outstanding successes of the season. Opening at the Apollo Theatre, Atlantic City, where it played for a week, it won the approval of the most captious critics and played to capacity audiences at every performance. From the rise until the fall of the curtain the story grips and enthralls with its thrills, its heart appeal and its mystery. The author does not go outside life for his theme, he places before the spectators the problem of life that engages every student of human nature—the constant warring of our evil impulses over our desire to do that which is accepted as right.

The production is under the personal direction of the author and Byrley Birch, who have made careful selection of the cast, which includes Helen Holmes, Mary Hampton, Dorothy Walters, Leonore Sorsby, Irene Shirley, William Ingersoll, Henry W. Pemberton, Coates Gwynn, Walter Petri, Joseph Smiley and Reed Brown. In short, "The Devil Within" should afford good entertainment to those who are fortunate enough to see this great melodrama before it goes into New York.

Elkton High Basketeers Win Fifth Straight Game Within A Week

Notable Record Made by County Seat Boys — Nosed Out Strong Sudlersville Five Last Friday Night

Elkton High Girls Open With Oxford

The girls' team of Elkton High School will inaugurate their first season of organized basketball on Friday afternoon of this week in the Armory, playing the Oxford, Pa., sextette.

The Pennsylvania lassies have been going great guns this season and are said to be in line for the Chester County Championship. Recently they made a triumphal invasion of Delaware County, beating Chester girls, and other strong teams. As yet the Elkton team is an unknown quantity. Their supporters will be out in force however, Friday, to root for a victory.

Elkton, Md., January 26.—The smooth-working Elkton High School basketball team hung up its fifth straight victory last Friday night in the home town Armory, when they took the fast Sudlersville High game, 29-27.

Winning five official games in a row is no mean feat in itself, but winning them all in the space of one week is a notable achievement and the basketball fans of the county seat here are all het up over their powerful school team.

During the Sudlersville game, Alfred Kay, star center on the local quintet, accounted for no less than eleven of the total of 29 points earned by his team, caging five field goals and one foul; whereas Perkins, tall, graceful and accomplished forward, managed to register three two-pointers and one free throw. Jake Minster, capable guard and captain of the team, and Tom Kay, another guard, also gave good accounts of themselves, doing excellent work on the defensive, and scoring five and four points respectively. On the visiting team, Stack and Wilson were undoubtedly the individual stars, the former making five field goals and three fouls, while Wilson had to be satisfied with three baskets of each kind.

The lineup:

Sudlersville H. S.
—Goals—
	Field.	Foul.	Pts.
Smith, forward	2	1	5
Knotts, forward	0	0	0
Wilson, center	3	3	9
Wallace, guard	0	0	0
Stack, guard	5	3	13
Totals	10	7	27

Elkton H. S.
—Goals—
	Field.	Foul.	Pts.
Crothers, forward	0	2	2
Perkins, forward	3	1	7
A. Kay, center	5	1	11
T. Kay, guard	2	0	4
Minster, guard	2	1	5
Totals	12	5	29

Substitutions—Elkton: Foster for Crothers; Crothers for Foster; Foster for Perkins. Time of halves—20 minutes. Referee—Giles.

Newark High Defeats Caesar Rodney Team

Win 23-14 Verdict Friday Night—Local Girls Play Tie Game 24-24

Before a large crowd in the Newark Armory last Friday evening, Coach Nunn's High School basketeers won their first important D. I. A. game, and jumped into the lead in the upper half competition, when they defeated Caesar Rodney High School, 23-14, in a fast game.

Newark had all the better of the struggle, and while never far in front, always held a comfortable lead. Shorty Chalmers, with five field goals and four fouls was the night's high scorer. He played a splendid game. Malone, the diminutive forward, also gave a good account of himself. Captain Doyle played a hard, aggressive game at guard, and helped keep the visitor's totals down. For Caesar Rodney, the work of M. Jackson stood out as the best individual performance.

This victory enables Newark to breathe a bit easier as the team is now at the top of the heap in the upper half championships.

From indications the past few days, Coach Nunn believes that Laurel will be the ultimate winner of the southern half title. The score:

Newark
—Goals—
	Field.	Foul.	Pts.
Malone, forward	2	2	6
Chalmers, forward	5	4	14
Jaquette, center	1	0	2
Patchell, center	0	1	1
Doyle, guard	0	0	0
Totals	8	7	23

Caesar Rodney
—Goals—
	Field.	Foul.	Pts.
M. Jackson, forward	4	0	8
A. Jackson, forward	1	1	3
Pifer, center	0	1	1
Pickering, guard	0	2	2
Smith, guard	0	0	0
Wright, guard	0	0	0
Totals	5	4	14

GIRLS' GAME
In an exciting struggle, the preliminary game between Newark and Caesar Rodney girls ended in a tie, 24-24. In girls' rules, there is no provision for an extra play-off period and the score must stand. Followers of both teams were disappointed that the game was not decided, as both teams are strong contenders for the State girls' title.

For the first time this season, Miss Frazer of Newark has been outscored by a visiting forward, when Miss Jackson netted 22 points while "Aggie" managed to collar 20. These two girls practically carried their teams along by their uncanny shooting. The score:

Newark
Caesar Rodney
Frazer, forward	.....	Roe	.....
Blockson, forward	.....	Jackson	.....
Hossinger, center	.....	Lafferty	.....
Robinson, side center	.....	Ackerman	.....
Johnson, guard	.....	A. Evans	.....
Singles, guard	.....	F. Evans	.....
Substitution—Chalmers for Singles.

DOVER ON FRIDAY

Newark High stacks up against an old rival when they tackle the Dover High quintet in the Armory on Friday evening next, in another important D. I. A. game. The result of this fracas is awaited with keen interest by followers of both teams, for upon its outcome rests the standing of both teams in the State championship series.

Elkton Guardsmen

Lose To Cecilton, 16-12

Company E, of Elkton, lost a hard fought game to Cecilton last Friday, the score being 16-12. It was a close defensive game, with scoring held down by good guarding. Manlove and Boulden were the stars for Cecilton, while Taylor and Preston looked best for Elkton. Score:

Elkton
—Goals—
	Field.	Foul.	Pts.
Foster, forward	1	0	2
Taylor, forward	2	1	5
Preston, center	2	1	5
West, guard	0	0	0
Totals	5	2	12

Cecilton
—Goals—
	Field.	Foul.	Pts.
Boulden, forward	2	2	6
Manlove, forward	3	1	7
W. Davis, center	1	1	3
Short, guard	0	0	0
B. Davis, guard	0	0	0
Totals	6	4	16

Referee: O. Foster.

P.T. NEWS

BLACKBIRD

Blackbird Home and School Association held their January meeting on Friday evening, the 16th. A very creditable program was given by the pupils, and the subject for the month was discussed. All agreed that Blackbird school has many needs to be supplied before the children can be given all the advantages they should have. Plans were made for a Valentine social to be held in connection with the next meeting, in February. Ice cream was sold during the social hour which followed.

HARMONY

Harmony P-T. A., District No. 32, met on Wednesday evening, January 21st, for the third meeting of the school year. A letter of appreciation was read from the Near East Relief Commission, thanking the school for its donation.

MILFORD CROSS ROADS

About fifty were present at Milford Cross Roads for the P-T. A. meeting on January 21st. A play given by the entertainment committee was much enjoyed. Maps are to be bought by the association for their school. The membership has almost reach 100 per cent of the families of the community. A minstrel show is to be planned for the benefit of the association, and the next meeting is to be February 18th.

Colonel S. J. Smith, Former Newark Resident, Guest Of Cuban Officials And Government

Popular Chaplain of Veterans of Foreign Wars is Filling Pulpit in Florida Church During The Month

The following was clipped from a recent issue of the Palmetto, Florida, "News":

"The pulpit of the Presbyterian Church will be supplied for the next few months by Colonel Smith, chaplain, retired, of the United States army. Colonel Smith has seen much of the world, and brings to us, with his spiritual power, an abundant knowledge of world affairs. He is a most interesting speaker, and the public is cordially invited to worship with us and to hear him. We hope to have him delivery soon one of his illustrated lectures on China."

Colonel Smith has recently returned from a trip to Cuba where he visited several old friends, officers of the Cuban Regular Army whom he met on the Mexican Border and at the Artillery School at Fort Monroe, Va. He was the guest of the officers of the Escuela De Cadets, Castillo Del Morro, at Havana, the "West Point of the Cuban Army." The Colonel is greatly impressed with the spirit and efficiency of the fine army of our little island neighbor. He expects to return to Newark early in April.

MONTHLY MEETING

Edward Megilligan Elected President of Association For Coming Year

The regular monthly meeting of the Fairview Parent-Teacher Association was held Thursday evening at the hall.

The meeting was opened by singing "Ould Lang Syne." The Lord's Prayer was then repeated in concert. After the regular business meeting, the election of officers was held for the ensuing year. Those elected were as follows:

President, Mr. Edward Megilligan; Vice-President, Mr. James Little; Secretary, Miss Pauline E. Thompson; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Frances Whiteman; Treasurer, Mr. John Kirk; Pianist, Mrs. Edward Megilligan.

The meeting was closed by singing "America."

A short program was given, consisting of music, recitations and readings. Refreshments were served.

MERMAID

Despite the unfavorable weather, Monday night, the Harmony Grange held an interesting meeting in the Granger Hall at Mermaid.

An order amounting to between $900 and $1000 for clover seed, pooled by the members, was ordered sent for filling. Several more additions are expected before the list closes. This is one of the largest orders given in recent years.

Another discussion centered about sending the national grange monthly magazine to every home of a member.

At the Lecturer's Hour, the following entertainment was rendered:

"Interesting Happenings at the National Grange," by Mrs. William P. Peach; story-telling, by Miss Sarah Pennington; reading, by Mrs. Annie Dennison; humorous blackface skit, by Frances Dennison and Ruth Jarmon.

Several people in the community who have been confined to their beds with illness, are reported to be slowly recovering their health.

The Misses Helen and Sara Pennington spent the past week-end with Miss Helen Pillsbury, at Ashland, Delaware.

Dr. Davis of Health and Welfare Commission Tells of State Needs in Tuberculosis Work

Question by reporter.

Seen in his office in Dover, Dr. Arthur T. Davis, Executive Secretary of the State Health and Welfare Commission, was asked whether the Sanatorium which the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society offers the State debt free would fit in with the tuberculosis work of the Commission?

Answer.

Dr. Davis replied, "Yes, a State tuberculosis sanatorium is the keystone in the arch of tuberculosis work in any state and from it should proceed the campaign directed against tuberculosis." The Commission now has a full-time tuberculosis clinician and is providing diagnostic clinic facilities for physicians and patients throughout the State. A service rapidly becoming more complete. The public health nurses of the Commission who assist in these clinics, would then be in closer contact with the sanatorium arranging for the entrance of the patients, helping to keep the family in contact with the patient in order that he will remain long enough to have his disease arrested and afterward visiting the patient at his home to see that the advice of the sanatorium is followed out and that there is no relapse.

Question by reporter.

Is not tuberculosis in Delaware largely a city problem?

Answer.

No, quite the reverse. Here is a chart compiled from the Commission records covering the 5 years from 1919 to 1923, showing that there is nearly twice as much death from tuberculosis in rural sections as in Wilmington. Each spot on this map represents 5 deaths. The total for Wilmington being 521 and for the balance of the State being 987. There are some 765 tuberculosis patients in Wilmington and 1557 in rural Delaware. If, from the rural record those dying in hospitals were removed, the general showing would not be materially changed.

TUBERCULOSIS DEATHS IN DELAWARE
During the Five Years 1919-1923

Question by reporter.

Is not Delaware too small a State to need or afford a State tuberculosis sanatorium?

Answer.

No. Rhode Island, a smaller state, needs and has a good sanatorium at Wallum Lake for 350 patients. Mississippi with over half of its population colored, has a splendid sanatorium for both white and colored patients and Mississippi is much more rural than is Delaware, having not one city of over 50,000 population. New Jersey, Maryland and Pennsylvania have 270, 530 and 2037 sanatorium beds respectively and in addition, many county tuberculosis sanatoriums are in use or under construction. Quite irrespective of size, States generally have found by experience that they need at least one bed in a sanatorium for each death per year. By this measure, Delaware needs at least 250 beds since it had 258 deaths from tuberculosis in 1923.

In New York, the State law provides that each county of 35,000 population or more shall provide its own tuberculosis sanatorium facilities and that every county of less than 35,000 population shall have a contract with the sanatorium of an adjacent county to provide care for its tuberculosis patients. Under this plan, in addition to a state sanatorium, New York State has 34 county tuberculosis sanatoriums; while the State of Connecticut with but 8 counties has 5 state sanatoriums, one of which is devoted entirely to children.

Mid-Year Exams On

Students in both colleges of the University and in Newark High School are in the throes of the mid-term examinations this week. It follows that quiet reigns consistently throughout the haunts of the boys and girls. There is much at stake.

INSURANCE MEN

MEET IN MILFORD

The Field Service Club of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, comprising the agency force of that company on the Peninsula, held its monthly meeting at the Hotel Windsor, Milford, Delaware, last week. C. J. Holzmüller of Milford, the President, presided, with J. Lester Scott as Secretary. There was a large attendance, including J. B. Warner, Jr., of Wilmington, the Agency Manager. Addresses on the business outlook for the year were made by practically all those present, and it was the opinion that conditions are good for a record-breaking showing. The fact that the Equitable wrote more life insurance in Delaware last year than any other Company was the keynote of the meeting.

In addition to those named above there was present, T. C. Collins, Milford; E. A. Simon, Seaford; W. B. Derriekson, Selbyville; C. D. Molzmueller, Milford; John Price Hyatt, George E. Plummer and W. Harry Lewis of Wilmington; J. M. Barnes, Newark; W. E. Tilghman, Dover; W. B. Parker, Winton; Maryland; R. H. Morris, Easton, Maryland; and Ralph R. Purnell, Salisbury, Maryland.

Following the meeting the Club held a dinner at the hotel. The next meeting, in February, will be held at Easton, Maryland, it being the purpose to hold the sessions at different points on the Peninsula.
