

FLOWER SHOW TO BE HELD SEPT. 20

Plans For Tenth Annual Affair Now Completed; Special Awards Planned

Plans for the tenth annual fall flower show, sponsored by the Newark Garden Club, have been completed. The affair will be held at the Newark New Century Club on September 20 and 21.

Included in the entry list, to be published in the Sept. 11 issue of the Post, will be asters, calendulas, chrysanthemums, coleus, cosmos, cockscomb, dahlias, gladioli, marigolds, nasturtiums, pansies, roses, snapdragons, and zinnias, along with berried shrubs, evergreens, and artistic arrangements.

Special awards will be made for the best dahlia shown, for the most outstanding dahlia, and for the most artistic arrangement. Sweepstakes prizes will be awarded for the whole list and separate prizes for dahlias, gladioli, roses, pansies, snapdragons, and zinnias. A first award for a specimen of a plant, second award for a specimen of a plant, and third award, one point, for a specimen of a plant. In figure arrangements, twice the number of points will be given for specimens.

Plans to open the show earlier, expecting to be asked to make out their tags and attach to the exhibit, and to speed up entering, and remove the plants always been a bottleneck. It is planned to have the show open to the public by 2 o'clock on Saturday instead of three or four o'clock as in previous years.

The rains of last week which broke the drought, were a life saver for the flowers, according to A. B. Johnson, a member of the show committee, and present indications are that there will be a record number of plants shown ready for the show.

Officers of the garden club are:

President — Mrs. David Eastburn; Vice President, Miss Edwina Long; Secretary — Mrs. Edward Ginter; Treasurer — Mrs. E. L. Richards.

TORNADO AVOIDS NEWARK SECTION

High Winds Create Havoc In Northern Delaware And Parts Of Pennsylvania

Newark narrowly escaped serious damage on Tuesday afternoon when a 91-mile-an-hour tornado swept through northern Delaware, and parts of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

A large proportion of the damage in the vicinity of Wilmington was to fine shade and fruit trees, uprooted by the wind, none of which is covered in the ordinary windstorm insurance policy.

However, nearby Strickersville and Kembleville, felt the brunt of the high winds which in a few minutes tore the roofs from several homes, uprooted trees, and carried away outbuildings and chicken houses.

After striking savagely at the Pennsylvania section, the storm literally blew a 200-year-old stone barn to pieces at Friends School, injuring three women and a one-year-old child who were parked in a car.

The northwest wall of the garage gave way, dropping the floor, the automobile and its occupants beneath the tumbling boulders and falling roof. Firemen from Talleyville, Claymont, and Wilmington worked with State Police to clear the wreckage.

Prior to striking the school the wind had smashed five airplanes at the Atlantic Aviation Service, Inc., at the DuPont Airport, while damaging six others seriously. The wind churned the planes together and deposited several in a heap at the edge of the woods.

Hundreds of Diamond State Telephone Company workers labored all night in an effort to restore communications and employees were enlisted from Philadelphia, Chester, Kennett Square, West Chester, Newark and other adjacent centers to assist regular crews in restoring service.

LABOR FOR DEFENSE

★ U.S. DEFENSE PROGRAM ★

THERE have been many Labor Days observed in the United States since the date's establishment as a National holiday in 1884. Yet this Labor Day, 1941, must stand out among all the rest for the weight of its importance as an expression of the spirit of our people, in these times. Because Labor is the hub of our Defense program's operation: because Labor is at work, to insure Democracy: because Labor daily proclaims its unity, the tributes paid it on this day shall be no empty phrases; but sincere expressions of a nation's awareness of the vital role being played by those who toil in shipyard and plane factory, in ammunitions plant and gunnery: and just as valuable—in factories and businesses producing the daily needs of a civilian population which enjoys the world's highest standard of living. Without Labor to produce, to what avail would new products be designed. Without Labor to produce what purpose would there be to wealth. And without Labor to produce on a basis of all-out effort, what guarantee could we have of the safe-guarding of our own civil liberties, and of the resurrection of Democracy for all the world to live by freely — when civilization awakens to a new dawn . . .

Newark, Delaware, Thursday, August 28, 1941

JACOB F. SHEW

Residents of Newark, especially the older ones who have played a major role in the writing of local history, were shocked to hear of the passing of Jacob Franklin Shew on Monday.

Seventy-one years old at the time of his death, Mr. Shew spent more than 40 years of his life in the service of this community, and although he was born in Parkton, Md., his loyalty has been that of a native son.

Actively engaged as town electrician until about two years ago when illness forced him to do lighter work, he was devoted to the task of serving the town, regardless of the time or the weather.

His willingness to serve, his pride in a job well done, and a pleasant disposition with always a ready "hello" are only a few of the traits which will long be remembered.

BETTER CARS FOR 1942

The news is going 'round that automobiles will be hard to get in 1942, and pessimists predict that they won't be so good. They may be hard to get because the automobile industry has enlisted for Defense and that comes first. But the optimists expect 1942 automobiles will be the best cars ever built.

Early automobiles had no bumpers, the wheels and spokes were wood, thousands of wrists were broken in cranking-up by hand, before Kettering brought out the self-starter. The rubber tires weren't much good, it took a month to paint a car, windshields were made of ordinary glass, there were no windows or carpeted floors, no nice cushions; the gears were lousy and it took all three kinds to get up a mountain to the roadside cold-water stand where the driver could buy a pail of water for a dime, to cool down his steaming engine. Four wheel brakes hadn't been dreamed of. You changed your own tires, did your own grease-job, filled your batteries, carried an emergency can of gasoline, and hitched a spare tire on behind.

Now! Stop, look and listen, drive careful, don't run through red lights — and watch out for the cop, and beware of hitch-hikers. Automobiles have never followed progress. Progress has always followed automobiles. Today's machines are 10 times as good as they were 20 years ago and cost less than half as much.

The automobile manufacturers of this country have not, and will not, let the country down and their records show they would be ashamed to produce poorer cars for 1942 than they turned out in 1941 or any previous years. If they cannot make better cars, they won't make them at all.

America speaks! Answer the call of your country by buying Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps for its protection and defense.

America is in a state of emergency. Every citizen is urged to do his part by buying Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps.

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

- Q. Why should Americans buy Defense Bonds and Stamps now?
- A. Among the reasons are: (1) It is the quickest way in which every citizen can serve both his country and conserve his earnings, and (2) the purchase of the Bonds and Stamps helps not only to finance National Defense but also to prevent high prices and increased cost of living.
- Q. Can I pledge a Defense Bond as collateral for a bank loan?
- A. No. Bonds are registered and not transferable. They are payable only to the persons named on the Bond.
- Note.—To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

To avoid dangers of diseases, young turkeys should be placed on pastures on which no poultry has been grazed for two years. Moving feed troughs and watering equipment at weekly intervals to clean places on the pasture will also help to cut possibilities of turkey disease outbreaks.

Part of the Delaware Agricultural Defense Board's recent report to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard emphasized the need for the State's dairy farmers to receive direct increased milk prices if already apparent increases in milk production are to be continued.

Hot, August weather is as harmful to swine as it is to any other farm animals. And since heat causes a slump in feed consumption with resulting loss of weight gains, it's profitable for farmers to provide plenty of shade and clean water in hog lots.

FACED WITH A GENERAL INCREASE in expenses, officials of the American Legion Holding Company, operators of the local bowling alleys, are getting their heads together in an effort to maintain the same price which has been in effect since the building opened.

Whether or not they will have to face the example set by alleys in larger cities will be dictated by conditions created by the present emergency and not for the sake of gaining added profit at the expense of Newark's bowling public.

We were assured by Arthur E. Tom, have, treasurer of the local alley, that every effort will be made to shave expenses in order to avoid raising the price but the increase in operating cost this year will, it seems to us, necessitate a boost in the cost per game.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, THEY'LL have to consider the government national defense tax of $15 per alley which would cost the Legion organization a tidy sum of $120 for its setup. The amount of tax is now represented by 800 afternoon or 600 night games.

Pins have increased from $11.95 to $14.50 a set and for this equipment alone, the cost per season has been increased almost $100 to approximately $580.

And while you're considering the cost of maintenance — don't forget the license fee of $55; salaries, and materials for operating such as cleaning equipment, shellac, and polishes, all of which has increased in cost at about the same proportion as the pins.

All of these added expenses (not faced last year) call for a lot of bowling in order to compensate for the money spent even before the season starts, so if you suddenly discover you're going to have to pay a little more to enjoy the sport — don't be below about it — be damn glad you're here throwing bowling balls and not over these tossing bombs.

WE THOUGHT THEY WERE EXTINCT, but they weren't so we found ourself cornered by a Phillies' fan whose wrath was aroused by our remarks in last week's column. Seems like he wasn't too pleased by the tone of our verbal meandering which he considered not the least bit complimentary.

He missed our point, however — we weren't panning the Phillies, merely praising a fellow worker for a fine piece of detective work.

We only wish we could get as far down to the bottom of this column as Philadelphia is in the National League standings.

DICK, THE MISSUS, TUCK AND Sue hid off to Wallenpaukett this week where the editor is trying his hand at mastering the gentle art of trolling.

Washington is the only club that has been able, this year, to drive Thornton Lee, capable White Sox southpaw, from the box in five innings. Lee has pitched eighteen complete games, retired in another at the end of the tenth and taken out once at the end of the eighth.

40 GRIDDEERS EXPECTED TO GREET BILL MURRAY FOR OPENING PRACTICE

Two-A-Day Schedule Is Planned Until Start Of Classes; Heavy Equipment To Be Issued Tuesday, Conditioning Drills Wednesday

Twenty-seven members of last year's University of Delaware grid squad are expected to report to Coach Bill Murray on Tuesday afternoon to begin preparations for the opening game here with Juniata on September 27. A group of freshmen is expected to boost the roster to about 40 players.

Equipment will be issued and medical examinations given on the first day with the opening drill slated for Wednesday morning at nine o'clock. Two practice sessions will be staged daily until the opening of school on September 22.

Coach Murray will be assisted this year by Emory Adkins, successor to Flucie Stewart, and Bill Martin, who replaced Joe Shields. Both are graduates of Duke University, the chief mentor's alma mater, and are schooled in the system of play which netted the Hens one of their most successful seasons in recent years in 1940. Martin, who comes to Delaware from Kentucky Military Institute, was formerly associated with Murray at Winston-Salem.

Members of last year's squad expected to report are:

Ends — Fred Sloan, Howard Jarvis, Milne Schmid, Norm Lord, George Barlow, and Harry Wilkins; tackles — Bob Furman, Marvin Zeitz, Bob Papp, Bob Frye, and Marty Pierson; guards — Hugh Bogovich, Tony Stalloni, Charles Walton, Ed Carullo, Bill Laurelli; centers — Jim Mullen and Bill Hancock; backs — Al Newcomb, Bill Hogan, Walt Paul, Melvin Brooks, Lee Baer, Conrad Sadowski, Gerald Doherty, Jim Buchanan, and Donald Long.

Five home tilts are slated for the Blue and Gold this year, although two games, P.M.C. and Mount St. Mary's, are scheduled for Wilmington Park. Washington College will be played either on Frazer Field or in Wilmington.

Followers of the Delaware team are still talking about the brilliant finish staged by the 1940 eleven which dropped three games in a row at the start of the season and then proceeded to mark up five consecutive conquests, including triumphs over three outstanding rivals, P.M.C., Lebanon Valley and Washington College.

With most of last year's squad expected to return and a capable group of freshmen prospects, Coach Murray is again looking forward to a banner season. Veterans and sophomores will form the nucleus of the new eleven.

The 1941 schedule is as follows:

Sept. 27 — Juniata, home; Oct. 4 — P.M.C., home; Oct. 11 — Ursinus, away; Oct. 18 — Dickinson, home; Nov. 1 — Mt. St. Mary's, home; Nov. 8 — Swarthmore, away; Nov. 15 — Drexel, away; Nov. 22 — Washington College, home.

Newark Legion To Meet CYO All-Stars Saturday

The Newark Legion baseball team will close the lid on its 1941 season Saturday afternoon when the CYO All-Stars of Wilmington will invade the Continental diamond. Al Thorpe is slated to start on the mound for the state champions with Tom Moore on the receiving end.

The tilt will get underway at 2:30 o'clock.

Harris Stops Yanks

The New York Yankees have been held to two hits twice this season and, peculiarly, it took one of the Harris family to turn the trick each time. Mickey Harris did it May 30 while Robert Harris of the Browns duplicated the stunt on August 3.

"My Son, My Son"

"Plenty of 'Sons' pitching in the American League," says Jack Wilson of the Red Sox. "Our club has Dobson, Wil-son and Earl John-son while Washington has Anderson, Master-son and Hud-son. Then, you might add Apple-son and Ben-son."

READING FAIR TO FEATURE HOT MUSIC

Variety Of Entertainment To Be Offered, Starting Sept. 7

A coterie of topnotch grandstand attractions, including a nationally famous "jitterbug" band, Grand Circuit horse races, motorized thrill shows, big car auto races and spectacular circus and vaudeville acts, will be offered at the eight-day Reading fair which opens here Sunday, September 7.

Operating day and night through Sunday, September 14, the fair will present such outstanding personalities as Artie Shaw and his band, Gae Foster's Roxyettes, songster Eddie Roeker, Jimmy Lynch and his Death Dodgers, Lucky Teter and his Hell Drivers, and a host of big time auto race drivers headed by Ted Horn, the man who finished fourth at Indianapolis this year.

In charge of the inaugural program, Sunday, will be Jimmy Lynch and his Death Dodgers, the celebrated automobile stunt men who appeared at the New York world's fair. Lynch and his men will deliberately capsize speeding automobiles, drive cars through flaming board walls, and race automobiles over ramps three feet high.

Grand Circuit horse racing will get under way, Monday, with many of the country's topflight trotters and pacers taking part. The big sulky program, offering cash purse awards of $19,400, will be presented every afternoon through Friday.

Artie Shaw and his band will visit the fair, Monday night. The well known musicians will present a one-hour program of popular music and will appear in conjunction with the Roxyettes revue and Eddie Roeker. Shaw and his men are scheduled for only one performance at the fair but the Roxyettes and Roeker will be held over for the entire week.

Lucky Teter and his Hell Drivers, the nationally famous automobile and motorcycle stunt artists, are slated to move into the fair, Saturday. Teter's troupe will make its first appearance in the afternoon and then play a repeat engagement Saturday night.

Big car automobile racing will again ring down the curtain on the fair, Sunday, September 14. The racing events will be directed by Ralph A. Hankinson and will feature some of the topnotch drivers in the country.

Miss Katharine Colmery, South Chapel Street, is spending her vacation at Glacier Park and the Canadian Rockies.

MILLION SWALLOWS WILL MOVE TO AMAZON VALLEY FOR WINTER SEASON

Chimney Swift, Noted For Speed And Tireless Energy, Literally Lives In The Air; Migrate South During August, September, October

During August, September, and October a million or more small birds that live in the air and probably never touch ground are migrating in flocks of thousands to their winter homes, which are probably in the great rain-forest area of the Amazon Valley, Brazil, according to officials of the Fish and Wildlife Service, United States Department of the Interior. The chimney swifts are heading south.

Known to many as chimney swallow, the chimney swift has long attracted the attention of outdoor enthusiasts because of its unusual habits. A species that literally lives in the air, the chimney swift is scattered over a large part of the North American Continent in summer but never, except by accident, sets foot on land. The bird even eats and mates on the wing.

Like a six-day bike rider who speeds around the wooden saucer, the swift is noted for its speed and tireless energy. During daylight hours throughout the summer, it has the habit of continual flight, sailing, circling on set wings, and then with a rapid beat of wings spurring off in a burst of speed, racing along like a bike rider during a sprint or jam.

Probably the most unusual sight afforded by a flock of swifts is seen at night, when literally thousands gather and wheel in funnel-shaped clouds over a large chimney into which they descend to roost. Its roosting and nesting habits have given the bird its popular names, chimney swift. Ornithologists know the bird by its scientific name, Chaetura pelagica.

The chimney swift cannot walk, but its feet and legs are strong enough to hold the bird to the wall of a chimney as it roosts at night, braced by its spindly tail feathers. The bird, incidentally, has been benefited by civilization. Before white men settled in the New World, the bird roosted and nested in hollow trees. Now it lives in chimneys, crowding from the top to about 22 feet below it.

Though it roosts in flocks, the swift does not colonize during the nesting season. Usually only one nest is found in a chimney or hollow tree. The nest is described as a little half-saucer made of dead twigs and glued to the wall by a salivary secretion. From four to six eggs are laid. The young emerge from the nests when partly grown and attach themselves to the side of the wall.

Man's first large-scale contact with the chimney swift came probably in 1926 when Herbert I. Stoddard attached numbered bands to some chimney swifts taken in a special trap. Since then over 324,400 chimney swifts have been banded by Fish and Wildlife Service personnel and co-operators.

Approximately 9,800 of these birds have been retrapped and their numbers recorded. By this means the Fish and Wildlife Service has been able to study the flight habits of the bird.

The largest number of chimney swifts banded in one trap was 6,025 by R. S. Peters, now a service flyway biologist, in Atlanta, Georgia, in 1931. All, Biologist Peters has banded of these birds. John B. Coulton, J. C. Dickinson, operating a banding station at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Virginia, have banded 27,440; Mrs. F. C. Laskey, of Nashville, Tennessee, 17,330; Ida Merritt, Kingston, Ontario, 15,400, and J. W. Fleetwood, manager of the Plover National Wildlife Refuge at Bismarck, North Dakota, 14,640.

So far as is known the chimney swift migrates in the daytime only. For years it was not seen in winter, and was thought by some that the bird hibernated. Then it was discovered migration in the West Indies and Central America. No winter specimens have ever been collected, but it is thought the swift winters in Central or South America.

Arriving on the Gulf Coast in northward migration around the middle of March, the swift spreads out westward to eastern Texas, Montana and central Alberta. The species moves as far north as southern Canada.

But few people have the opportunity to stand on a rooftop and hold chimney swifts in the hand. Many people are fortunate enough during August, September, and October, to see large flocks zipping down chimneys flying toward South America.

The MACHINE that Farmers Built Is GEARED to Times Like These!

THE government has asked farmers to produce more meat, more milk, more poultry, more eggs, more vegetables. Farmers are doing their patriotic best in the face of an acute labor shortage, rising cost of necessary supplies, inadequate farm prices, and other difficulties.

Farm cooperatives have an important part to play in national defense. Farm purchasing and selling cooperatives can—and do

Simplify the operations of government in working with farmers.

Promote efficiency in buying farm supplies and in marketing farm products.

Stabilize prices.

Maintain and safeguard the principles of democracy.

It is good business at all times, and especially in wartime, to keep your cooperative in position to render the most effective service. Do your part to see that it has adequate capital. Contribute your patronage and do it voluntarily to keep down costs. Give your cooperative your aggressive moral support. See to it that selfish, monopoly-seeking interests do not secure unfair legislation harmful to farmer-owned and farmer-controlled cooperative institutions.
