Brunner To Direct Intimate Theatre With "Dr. Knock"

As an extension of the greater freedom characteristic of E-32 University Theatre throughout the academic year, the University of Delaware's first intimate theatre, Room 014, will be presented May 18-21, at 8:15 p.m. in Mitchell Hall with no charge to the public.

Closely following Donald Biehn's well received Theatre Piece No. 1, another student will present his personal approach to theatre.

James Brunner, culminating four years of preparation as actor, director and lighting designer at the university, will direct "Dr. Knock," the first full-length comedy directed by a student.

Room 014 is a former rehearsal room in the basement of Mitchell Hall. A coat of black paint, hidden lights above the ceiling, a plaid stage, and chairs for an audience of less than 100 have converted it into Delaware's first attempt at intimate theatre.

Actors Nono Kelly and James McGuire of Wilmington, Val Rand of Newark, Donald Biehn of Hockessin, and Donald Grimes of Westmont, N.J., will perform within three feet of the audience.

Written in Paris by Jules Romains in 1923, "Dr. Knock" is a satire of John Q. Public. Dr. Knock, recuperating from an attempted swindle, becomes an expert swindler and dupes an entire town.

Senior Citizens Celebrating May As LBJ Proclaims

During May, Newark senior citizens are observing Senior Citizen's Month as proclaimed by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Recently, 45 senior citizens visited Social Security headquarters in Baltimore, inspecting computers and other electronic equipment used in processing Social Security records.

On May 23, Newark's seniors will attend Senior Citizen's Day in Dover.

A recognition tea for volunteers assisting at the center will be held at the Newark Senior Center on May 24.

"Our program could not be carried on without the help of the many volunteers who assist with classes, transportation, and contribute supplies," Mrs. Gertrude H. Johnson, executive director said.

Representatives from the Senior Center will be interviewed on Don Dwyer's Comment program, on Radio Station WNRK next Thursday.

Coast Guard Plans Free Boat Checks At Newark Center

Courtesy motorboat examiners of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary will be on duty at the Newark Shipping Center to examine boats and advise boatmen of new safety regulations. This service will be available tonight between the hours of 6 and 9, free of charge.

As part of its program for greater safety in pleasure boating, the Coast Guard has asked that every motorboat carry a fire extinguisher, flares, and a horn or whistle.

Boats that meet these and previously established safety standards will receive the auxiliary decal for display on the windshield, and this will not be subject to boarding and inspection by Coast Guard or marine police while afloat.

Commander John Hopkins of Newark Flotilla 14 said that there will be no delays in inspection line at the shopping center because of the number of examiners on hand.

Boatmen are advised to trailer their boats, using the Main Street entrance.

Mrs. Strickland's German Shepherd Repeats Top Score

Mrs. Winifred G. Strickland's two-year-old German shepherd, Randy of Wytheha, repeated his top scoring obedience performance last Saturday at Ludwig's Corner, Pa.

Randy's second triumph in his first two showings was at the Chester Valley Kennel Club Show where he scored 100 out of a possible 200 points.

He netted 194 1/2 points to top a large field of entries at Long Island, N.Y. the week before.

Last Saturday—as the week before—runner-up to Randy was his mother, Nanta aus Kattenstrath, handled by Susan Strickland, Nanta scored 190 1/2.

Six Horses Lost In Burning Barn Of Southard Jones

Volunteer Firemen Battle Early Saturday Morning Blaze During Three Hours

Six riding horses died in a blaze that burned for three hours Saturday morning at the Southard Jones farm on Red Mill Road.

Jones, who estimated the loss at $10,000, said that the fire is under investigation by the state fire marshal's office.

The 29-year-old, two-story frame structure was leveled. Two horses were lost to safety by Jones.

The 53-year-old landscape contractor said that one nine-year-old mare followed Jones out as he ran through the barn opening stalls. A filly escaped when a side door was opened.

Two mares with foals died in the fire that started about 4:30 p.m. Volunteer firemen from Christiansburg and Newark fought the blaze.

The farm at 147 Red Mill Road is between the Penn-Central and C&D-E&O railroad rights-of-way.

A Christiansburg Fire Co. spokesman said that when firemen arrived the barn was fully involved in flames.

The Jones home is a little more than 100 feet from the barn. A heavy downpour helped keep the fire from spreading.

No one, according to Jones, was in the barn at the time the fire was discovered.

Also lost were from 25 to 30 tons of hay and a small tractor.

Olaf P. Bergelein Named To Succeed Leslie B. Williams

Former Chem Engineering Prof To Return To U. D. As Associate Grad Dean

A former professor of chemical engineering is returning to the University of Delaware this year as associate dean of the college of graduate studies and coordinator of research.

Dr. Olaf P. Bergelein, Delaware faculty member from 1946 to 1966, will return to the campus after having served since 1966 as an educational consultant for the Texas A & M College system in East Pakistan and as program director of an Afghan-American Project in Kabul, Afghanistan.

Acting President John W. Shirley, who announced the appointment, said that the post of associate dean has not been filled for several years, but as coordinator of research, Bergelein succeeds Leslie B. Williams, who is resigning to accept a newly created position as assistant secretary with the American Society for Engineering Education in Washington.

Dean Bergelein will arrive about Aug. 1, and Williams begins his new assignment July 1.

Bergelein, a native of Michigan, received his baccalaureate, master's and doctor's degrees from the University of Michigan, and worked for Hercules, and on military projects during World War II.

He received a Fulbright scholarship for research on geothermal power in New Zealand and is author of 20 major technical publications.

Williams, a former U.S. Air Force colonel, came to the university in 1963. He had been assistant director of international scientific affairs for the U.S. Dept. of State.

A graduate of North Carolina State and the University of North Carolina, Williams was a research engineer and physicist with Socovac Vacuum Oil Co. During World War II he served in the Pacific Theatre as communications officer for the 1st Air Force. Later he became commander of a control group of the Tactical Air Command, and in 1950, chief of the aeronautical research laboratory of the Air Research and Development Command, USAF.

Rep. William F. Hart Seeks State Senate Seat

After one term in the House, Rep. William F. Hart, Republican from Chestnut Hill Estates, declared his candidacy for the State Senate Sunday, and opened a campaign against the Delaware State Highway Department.

Hart, dressed like Barrow, of Bonnie and Clyde notoriety, rode through his district in an open 1936 Packard touring car last Sunday.

"I want to show that there's more than one way to have a hold-up," Hart said. "Many state agencies are holding up the little guy."

Hart pointed to toll booths on the Delaware turnpike and old one-lane bridges on Red Mill Road. He has maintained that tolls should be eliminated for local turnpike traffic and that bridges should be replaced.

The 40-year-old representative is seeking to be the first senator from the 9th District created by legislative reapportionment this year. The district, between Wilmington and Newark, includes parts of Hart's old 16th Representative District and four others.

An estimated 60 per cent of the voters in the senatorial district are Republicans.

Hart established 10 information centers in houses of campaign workers throughout the district last Sunday.

He promised to devote his attention to problems within his district, maintaining action on a local level must serve as a steppingstone to statewide legislation.

Hart is laboratory manager for Hanson Corp. of Delaware.

Council Approves 1st Reading For Annexation Of 67.4-Acres

Final Reading Of Ordinance To Annex Dameron Tract Scheduled June 10; Proposed Open Housing Deferred Pending Amendments For Council Action On May 27

The first reading of an ordinance for city annexation of 67.4-acres of the Dameron tract west of Marrows Road, east and north of the city line, and south of Odgetown Road, was approved unanimously, but the first reading of a proposed ordinance for open housing was deferred for inclusion of recommended amendments and rescheduled for an initial reading on May 27, at the regular meeting of Newark City Council last Monday night.

City Manager Edward R. Stiff reviewed history of proposed annexation of the Dameron property, reporting a petition received in February, 1967, requesting city annexation of 67.4-acres to be zoned Business C, and the Newark Planning Commission's opinion that such acreage was "too much for Business C zoning."

Attorney Bayard W. Allman, representing Mr. and Mrs. James E. Thompson as owners of the Dameron property and petitioners for annexation, summarized his client's case, citing "at least three agencies seeking parcels of land" in the tract, including "the town, university, and post office," and asked the "town to waive its right of condemnation of the property with a minimum of 45-acres" needed for development.

Mayor Norma Handoff declared a recess for council discussion of the problem — a recess to which Councilman William M. Coverdale objected with "I did not attend the recessed meeting. According to the charter, we vote upon executive sessions."

Mayor Handoff explained that the closed session during recess involved "discussion of a matter involving the interests of the city," and City Solicitor Clyde M. Enard, Jr., replied to Coverdale's objection with "the majority recessed, therefore we fulfilled the charter's intent." Enard added that there was "no action taken" during the recess session, and that there was "nothing in recessed action."

The mayor said "we are about to take action by motion of the council," and a proposed ordinance to annex the 67.4-acre tract with 45 acres to be zoned Business C, and the remainder to be zoned Residential RM-1, was approved unanimously, with a second, final reading scheduled for June 10.

Open Housing Plan

The scheduled first reading of a revised open housing law was deferred after a discussion of proposed amendments, and when Councilman John E. Enard's motion for a first reading failed to receive a second.

"I don't feel we should sit idly by and let someone else settle our problems for us," Enard said, citing lack of state statute for fair housing as a reason for action.

Fassnacht's proposal to include the proposed open housing ordinance for a first reading with the council agenda for the May 27, meeting, was approved in a 6-1 vote. Coverdale's amended comment that the "law infringes upon the constitutional rights of property owners and is unwarranted in a city that has no major problems in this area."

Introducing the revised open housing proposal, Enard said that the title had been "changed to reflect broader coverage" and that an "anti-block-busting clause" had been inserted.

Mayor Handoff said that she had "some changes to propose, and that all have to do with setting up the fair housing board."

Her proposed changes included an increase in board membership from six to seven "to avoid ties" in voting, and establishing an attendance of four members as a quorum.

Good performance, properly compensated, was cited as the hallmark of an ongoing chamber of commerce program by John A. Murray, director of extension at the University of Delaware in the seminar he conducted for the public relations committee of the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce in the Extension Building on Amstel Avenue.

Murray outlined for members of the newly formed chamber public relations committee, various styles of news writing, and explained the inverted pyramid form.

The director of extension, with a background of journalistic experience, explained development of the modern newspaper form and cited 1860 as the year in which the change to the modern approach to news transpired.

Philip A. Toman, director of information services for the Newark special school district, was named chairman of the newly formed committee by President F. Racine Stafford of the Newark chamber.

Committee members include Tim Burns of Radio Station WNRK, Wallace Buttersworth, Bank of Delaware, and Mrs. Pat Winter of the News-Journal.

The Road Report . . . BY ARBA

HIGHWAYS have a long history . . .

The term highway was brought to America by colonists from England. There, as in America, wild animals traveled the grassy high ground in search of the best grazing land. Public thoroughfares between communities that followed these animal paths became known as "high roads," "high ways," and finally highway.

Robert Stevens Cautions Homeowners On Con Men

The arrival of spring usually heralds arrival of landscape con artists who have a regular field day on the homeowner's expense, cautions Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

If you doubt the reliability of a firm, check with the Better Business Bureau of Delaware.

There is no charge for services, Stevens adds.

The Kabob's The King

The Kabob's the king of the barbecue. And with green pepper, pineapple and onions alternating with meat on skewers, that's real barbecue feasting. Lunchon meat, often thought of as lowly in the meat kingdom, takes to a marinade in this recipe and emerges delectably.

Current jelly, crushed pineapple, dry mustard and ginger blend to form the marinade—and a basting sauce later as the kabobs cook over hot coals. Add a super-size salad and your barbecue becomes an outdoor dinner deluxe.

Kona King Kabobs

- 1 (10-ounce) jar currant jelly
- 1 (9-ounce) can crushed pineapple
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 3/4 teaspoon ginger
- 3 (12-ounce) cans luncheon meat

Combine jelly, pineapple, mustard and ginger; heat until jelly melts. Slice luncheon meat diagonally twice to form triangle-shaped pieces. Add meat to jelly mixture to marinate; allow to stand at room temperature for 2 hours.

Alternate meat, green pepper, onions and pineapple on skewers. Broil over hot coals, turning frequently and brushing often with jelly sauce until meat and pineapple are heated through, the vegetables crisp-tender.

Ask Dr. QUIZMEE

Dr. Quimbee, our information specialist, is happy to answer his readers' questions in his weekly column. All responses are verified by Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia.

The 25-volume set of Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia were near this week. Jay Jay Jackson, asking this question: "When was the draft first used in the United States?"

Compulsory conscription in the draft was first used in 1777 in Virginia and Massachusetts. George Washington commended the plan to the Continental Congress which one year later agreed the other colonies to use the draft. Then Waters, who wants to know: "What is the derivation of the word 'luna'?"

The word comes from the Dutch word 'luna', meaning moon or head of a household. Originally, the word was used in the United States to describe a political leader or a financial manager.

Eleanor Frazer, whose question is: "I've heard that the smallest church in the world is in Iowa—could you please tell me where it is?"

Actually, the world's smallest church is the Union Church in Keweenaw, Maine. Its floor area measures 31 1/2 square feet and its dimensions are seven feet by 4 1/2 feet, hardly enough room for one clergyman, one worshiper and one churchman.

If you are the first to submit a question, which appears in this column, you will receive, free, the full 25-volume set of Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia. The writer of this column is the sole judge as to who is first. Mail your question to Dr. Quimbee in care of this newspaper.

Scott Nixon Seeks Plant-Animal Need In Research Study

Do plants need animals as much as animals need plants?

Scott Nixon, a graduate student in botany at the University of North Carolina thinks they do, and is trying to prove it.

Nixon, a native of Newark, has attempted to create a simple biological system under laboratory conditions in order to observe interdependency and balance between plant and animal species.

The experimental project is in four fiberglass pans in a controlled environment chamber in the UNC ecology laboratory which simulates tropical conditions of Puerto Rico.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary B. Hahn Taylor, a daughter, Mrs. Priscilla Tautain of Flemington, N.J.; two sons, Edmund G. Jr., of St. Georges, and Sgt. Charles W. Taylor, serving with the armed forces; a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Taylor of Wilmington, and four grandchildren.

F. E. Boys To Speak For Rose Society On Pesticide Use

Featured speaker at the May meeting of the Delaware Rose Society will be Frank E. Boys, research assistant specialist in agricultural chemistry at the entomology department of the University of Delaware school of agriculture and experimental station.

Boys will present practical hints on use of pesticides in control of insects which attack roses and other garden plants, and will show color slides to illustrate his remarks.

Following graduation from the University of Delaware in 1948, Boys was employed by Union Carbide and by Central Chemical Co. before joining the Delaware school of agriculture in 1964.

He is author of an extension folder "Larvae the Label Presents A Pocket Guide to Pesticides," which lists insecticides, fungicides and herbicides by both common and trade names and is a valuable guide for home gardeners in the purchase of spray materials. A. D. Cobb reported.

The meeting will be held in the Brynmore Avenue School in Hockessin at 8 p.m. next Wednesday and will be open to the public without charge.

HEALTH & SAFETY

Mainly for Mothers by Carol Hart

Fire and Children Don't Mix

Never underestimate the power of a match. In the hands of little children it can become an instrument of injury and even death in the home.

Annually in the United States some 6,000 persons are killed by fires and burns in the home. More than 1,000 of these are children under five years of age. About one third of the children are alone at the time.

The Council on Family Health, a non-profit organization established by members of the drug industry to promote family health and home safety, suggests some ways of preventing accidents caused by heat and flames in the home.

Never leave little children alone at home, no matter what the urgency.

Never leave small children alone in a room with a heater going, a burning fireplace, or lighted candles. Children are fascinated by flames and are easily distracted by them.

When you have finished ironing, place the hot iron where it cannot be touched by little children. Coil the cord nearby, out of reach of little hands.

Clothes of fire resistant materials help provide some protection, but care should be exercised wherever heat is used in the home. Some clothing materials are so highly flammable they can burn to ashes in an instant.

Other materials melt and burn into the body.

Heaters should have protective covers, and be located where members of the family cannot brush against them. Fireplaces should be screened and the entire family should keep a safe distance from the hearth.

Burning candles should be snuffed out before everyone leaves a room.

Keep cigarette lighters and matches out of reach of youngsters. Many a parent has been surprised to discover a child under five is strong and skillful enough to flick a lighter, or strike a match.

It takes only an instant for a fire to start. The presence of a responsible adult in the home can be the best guard against children playing with fire, advises the Council on Family Health.

A. Nelson Sills Superintendent At Delaware Park

Track President Baird C. Brittingham has announced the appointment of A. Nelson Sills as superintendent of Delaware Park.

Sills, 43-year-old resident of Newark, succeeds the late Clarke M. Pardee, who served as superintendent since Delaware Park's opening in 1937. Pardee died last April 4.

Sills, a civil engineer, joined the track's official family in 1961 as assistant superintendent. During his years with Pardee, an internationally respected authority on race track construction and maintenance, Sills assisted in the layout of private training tracks for Edward P. Taylor and George P. Collier at Chesapeake City, Md., and in development of a race course for the Rose Tree Hunt Club in York, Pa.

Delaware Park's new superintendent, who earned his engineering degree at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Class of 1945, has a varied background in his profession.

Prior to joining Pardee's staff, Sills served six years as assistant construction engineer of the Delaware State Highway Department, and for three years was executive secretary of Highway Constructors of Delaware, Inc.

His first professional assignments following graduate work at Penn State University, were in North Africa and Alaska where Sills was involved in construction of bases for the U.S. Air Force.

He is preparing Delaware Park's main track, as well as the turf and steeplechase courses for the 61-day meeting which will open Memorial Day, May 30.

Sills, father of four children, is married to the former Nancy Jones of Bridgeton, Del.

He has distinguished himself as a sportsman as well as an engineer. His Labrador retriever Dutchman's Black Mood, won the national amateur retriever championship in 1964.

Opening Scheduled Saturday At DP For Stable Area

Delaware Park racetracks have marked their calendars with a red circle around Thursday, May 30. That is not only Memorial Day, but the date when the thoroughbred sport returns to the Stadium track for its longest meeting of 61 days, beginning through Saturdays, Aug. 4.

During that stretch, there will be two week days - June 4 and 11, both Tuesdays. Otherwise, there will be no interruptions except for Sunday.

While fans are marking time while opening day, an earlier date - this Saturday, is as important one for owners, trainers, riders, groomers, exercise boys and other assistants - even the horses themselves.

This weekend opens the stable area to the vanguard of thoroughbred slated for competition at Delaware Park.

A CAPITAL IDEA

GOODWILL WEEK

National Goodwill Week was observed May 5-11. Founded at the turn of the century, Goodwill Industries has built the largest network of private vocational, educational agencies in the world serving all types of handicapped people. There are now 136 autonomous Goodwill Industries; 42 branch workshops in 178 cities in the United States; and another 22 abroad.

The purpose of Goodwill remains the same — to rehabilitate disabled lives and limbs.

In recent years, the emphasis on the idea of service has been greatly expanded. Of 80,000 people being helped by Goodwill, some 50,000 receive traditional job opportunity and experience. But half of these persons also are being helped by additional evaluation, counseling, psychological and medical care, and therapy.

In 1967, the 50,000 employed handicapped persons earned $37-million instead of living on charity from friends or relatives, or on a dole from government agencies. They paid a total tax bill of $3.5-million.

But, the importance of Goodwill Industries cannot be measured in money alone. Its most important contribution to the nation's life lies in what it gives to those it helps in terms of hope, self-respect and a chance to build productive, interesting lives.

The spirit of initiative and self-help represented by this fine organization is exemplary.

This nation could use large doses of the same spirit in the running of more of its affairs.

George Jarvis R Seeks House Seat In 23rd District

George Jarvis of Harmony Hills near Newark, announced his candidacy last Thursday for the State House of Representatives from the newly-created 23rd Representative District.

A Republican, Jarvis made his announcement before a reorganization meeting of the 23rd District GOP committee.

The district encompasses that area north of the Kirkwood Highway between Newark and Limestone Road.

As president of the Harmony Hills Civic Association since 1964, Jarvis participated in zoning hearings, worked for county acquisition and development of 26 acres of parkland now known as Harmony Brook Park, and helped develop a summer playground program through the Greater Newark Recreation Association.

A GOP election district committee chairman since 1966, Jarvis has worked with Rep. William F. Hart (R-Newark) on community problems which led to installation of crossing gates at the Penn Central on Harmony Road; traffic control lights at Harmony Road and the Kirkwood Highway; design improvement of the intersection at Kirkwood Highway and Harmony Road; and school bus safety improvements.

Jarvis attended Mount Saint Mary's College in Emmitsburg, Md., where he earned a B.S. degree in 1945, and a BS degree with a major in history, and lettered in basketball.

He served in the U.S. Navy during 1945 and 1946, spending 10 months in the Philippine Islands.

In 1951, he joined the DuPont Co. at Seaford, and is a technical service representative in the textile fibers department.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis have four children.

City Council

Councilman Olan R. Thomas proposed inclusion of a section of the open housing ordinance adopted by the City of Milwaukee, and thus, the mayor's proposals, and other amendments offered by council are to be incorporated with the revision to be presented for a first reading on May 27.

Two ordinances were approved at final readings — a law providing real estate tax exemption for persons 65 and over with incomes not exceeding $3,000, on the first $5,000 of assessed property value; and establishing a non-refundable fee of $50 for zoning application.

DOVER AFB OPEN HOUSE

Dover Air Force Base will offer open house this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in observance of Armed Forces Week. The program will include combat capabilities of the Military Airlift Command; and band and drill team performances.

Street Program

A contract for street construction and repairs was awarded to John Julian Construction Co. for the low bid of $105,882.50. Work includes street improvements for Woodland and Manns avenues at $37,262.50 and $3,570; sidewalk construction and storm sewer for Woodland Avenue at $6,420 and $4,400; the Church Street cut-de-sac, $1,684; general street maintenance and repairs $47,376; and storm sewer spot corrections, $6,100.

Thomas urged elimination of sidewalks on Woodland Avenue pending readiness for walkway construction throughout the area, but City Secretary Charles B. Long pointed out that "sidewalks are required with installation of new streets."

Alderman Perry's Raise

Councilman Arthur P. Mayer voted agreement to increase Alderman Daniel B. Perry's annual salary by $500 to $10,000, from $9,500. The raise was approved by a 5-0 vote. Mayer said that an initial $500 increase had been approved last June, retroactive to April 1, 1966. And at his urging, council approved a second $500 increase to the $10,000 ceiling, retroactive to last Oct. 1.

City Manager Stiff reported that he had filed application for Newark to obtain $379,250 in state funds for parkland acquisition on a 50-50 matching fund basis, and Councilman Frank J. Osborne, Jr., commended the manager and staff "for promptness" in being first in line for such assistance.

The park proposal was referred to the planning commission for study; Stiff was authorized to negotiate for the purchase of a 2,500 sq. ft. site to serve the youth well field and industrial park; and Monday's meeting was adjourned at 10:45 p.m. after extension of the 10:30 deadline for passage of the two ordinances slated for final readings.

Here are 7 knotty problems facing the Air Force: can you help us solve one?

1. Repairs in space. If something goes wrong with a vehicle in orbit, how can it be fixed? Answers must be found, if large-scale space operations are to become a reality. For this and other assignments Air Force scientists and engineers will be called on to answer in the next few years, we need the best brains available.

2. Lunar landing. The exact composition of the lunar surface, as well as structural and propulsion characteristics of the space vehicle, enter into this problem. Important study remains to be done—and, as an Air Force officer, you could be the one to do it!

3. Life-support biology. The filling of metabolic needs over very extended periods of time in space is one of the most fascinating subjects that Air Force scientists are investigating. The results promise to have vital ramifications for our life on earth, as well as in outer space.

4. Space orientation. The orbital problems of a spacecraft, including its ability to maneuver over selected points on the earth, are of vital importance to the military utilization of space. There are plenty of assignments for young Air Force physicists in this area.

5. Synergetic plane changing. The ability of a spacecraft to change altitude can also be crucial to space operations. Where but in the Air Force could S.C.B.'s get the chance to work on such fascinating projects right at the start of their careers?

6. Space propulsion. As our space flights cover greater and greater distances, propulsion—more than anything else—will become the limiting factor. New fuels and new propulsion techniques must be found, if we are to keep on exploring the mysteries of space. And it may well be an Air Force scientist on his first assignment who makes the big breakthrough!

7. Pilot performance. Important tests must be made to determine how the pilots of manned spacecraft will react to long periods away from the earth. Of course not every new Air Force officer becomes involved in research and development right away. But where the most exciting advances are taking place, young Air Force scientists, administrators, pilots, and engineers are on the scene.

WANTED BY THE FBI

JAMES EARL RAY, also known as Eric Starvo Galt, Harvey Lowmyer, John Willard, James McBride, James Walton, W. C. Herron and James O'Conner.

James Earl Ray, a Missouri prison escapee, sought under the alias Eric Starvo Galt in connection with the gunshot slaying of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., is one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives." FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover ordered the special addition of Ray to the "Ten" list to insure widespread dissemination of Ray's photograph and description to speed his location.

Ray has been intensively sought since the murder of Dr. King on April 4, 1968, as he stood on the balcony of a Memphis, Tennessee, motel. An exhaustive FBI fingerprint search, comparing latent fingerprints uncovered in the Dr. King case against fingerprints of over 53,000 persons on whom wanted notices were posted, determined that Galt and Ray are identical.

A Federal warrant, issued at Birmingham, Alabama, on April 17, 1968, charges Ray, under the alias of Galt, with conspiring to interfere with a Constitutional Right of a citizen, Ray, who escaped on April 23, 1967, from the Missouri State Penitentiary, is also sought for unlawful flight to avoid confinement for robbery. His long criminal record also includes convictions for burglary and forging U.S. Postal Money Orders.

A white American, born in Alton, Illinois, on March 10, 1928, Ray is 5'10" tall, weighs 163 to 174 pounds, has blue eyes and short brown hair. He has a nervous habit of tugging at an ear lobe and his left ear protrudes noticeably. Known as a "loner" and "drifter," Ray has worked as a baker, laborer and color matcher. He has taken dancing lessons and completed a course at a school of bartending.

Consider Ray armed and extremely dangerous. Report any information concerning him to the nearest FBI office.

Don't Say Goodbye to Accidents

Accidents that cause injuries, pain and misery are here today — and here tomorrow.

Keep a clear and detailed account of the accident record for each member of the family, advises the Council on Family Health. Such records serve to refresh memory which can play tricks, and provide vital information to doctors for proper diagnosis and treatment.

The records need not be as complete as those kept by doctors and nurses. They need only be simple accounts of the accident and treatment. They will come in handy when a child enters college, gets a job, joins the armed forces, marries, or applies for special benefits.

Note whether the accident was a poisoning, fall, burn or scald, cut or any other type of injury. Write down the date and place, and the exact nature of the injury: broken bones, damaged areas of flesh and skin, injury to a vital part of the body. Record any surgery that was required. Note the reaction to the surgery or medication.

Be generous with the size of form you use. You may discover to your surprise there is more information to be recorded than you expected. And you may find out that a member of your family is more accident prone than you realized.

Family health and accident records should be filed where they are easily accessible. More than one member of the family should know the safe-keeping place.

Too often, such records are kept faithfully by the housemaker, who keeps the score, a secret from other members of the family. In cases of emergency, when the housemaker herself becomes ill, it imposes an additional burden on the family if no one else knows where the family accident records are stored.

Ask D. QUIZMEE

Dr. Quismee, our information specialist, is happy to answer his readers' questions in his weekly column. All responses are verified by Funk & Wagnall Standard Reference Encyclopedia.

The 25-volume sets of Funk & Wagnall Standard Reference Encyclopedia were with this week by Elmer Balligan who asked: "When and where did the shaking of hands originate?"

Probably in the ancient land of Judea in South Palestine in the fifth century before Christ, Scripture records that a man named Ishak asked an associate to shake hands to prove that his heart was right. The idea was that when a man shakes another's hand, he can't draw his sword.

Mrs. Evelyn Arthur also would like to know: "How did the ringer of the curfew originate?"

In the Middle Ages, throughout Europe, a bell was tolled at night to signal when it was time for citizens to go to bed. Originally, the purpose was a precaution against fire.

Mrs. Irene George who came up with this last query: "Is it true that there are such things as 'slimning fish'?"

Yes, in India, there's a fish that sometimes travels on land by holding its body in a U-shape. It is called a "slimning fish."

If you are the first to submit a question which appears in this column, you will receive, free, the full 25-volume set of Funk & Wagnall Standard Reference Encyclopedia. The writer of this column is the sole judge as to who is first. Mail your question to Dr. Quismee in care of this newspaper.

"If there's one God, why are there so many religions?"

That's a question that has plagued thoughtful people for centuries. Religions often have seemed to divide men rather than join them—which could hardly be God's will.

In our time, so full of wonders, we're witnessing what may be the greatest wonder of all: the growing force of inter-faith understanding. It seems to promise a fuller flowering of God's hopes for man. You and me.

Great new things are happening in churches and synagogues these days. But find out for yourself. This week. Then take your strengthened faith out into the world—and put it to work.

BOOKS IN REVIEW By Percy Maddux

Revolution in Russia: As reported by the New York Tribune and the New York Herald 1894-1921. Edited by Edward W. Perlestein. The Viking Press, New York. 320 pp. $10.00.

"What" you may say, "another book on Russia?" No, indeed, Edward W. Perlestein's "Revolution in Russia" is not just another book on Russia. It is an unusual book in that the story is told in newspaper despatches of the time, with a connecting narrative by Mr. Perlestein.

It makes fascinating reading and is accompanied by pictures and cartoons. The story opens with the death of Czar Alexander III in 1894, and the downfall of the Russian royal family. The story continues beyond the February and October revolutions of 1917 through the counter-revolutionary attempts up to the final triumph of Bolshevism as the government of Russia.

This is not a dull book nor is it propaganda for or against Communism but a relation of the events leading up to and through the great Russian revolution.

The Dance Through the Ages, By Walter Sorell. Grosset and Dunlap, New York. 9 by 11 1/2 in. 304 pp. $14.95.

Dancing comes natural to human beings and from the very earliest times has been a mode of expression. Hence we have primitive dances, which may be easy enough to perform. Throughout the ages, however, dancing has developed into a more difficult art and has taken on many different forms, such as social dancing and theatrical dancing.

In Walter Sorell's book "The Dance through the Ages" we are shown how dancing originated and how it was regarded and developed in ancient times. When the story gets to modern times, however, it branches out into the ballet and so it continues through the rest of the book, telling stories of famous dancers over the centuries, but ignoring other forms of the dance.

This attractive book is profusely illustrated in black and white and in color, with many full-page illustrations and even two-page spreads. However, many of the pictures are taken of dancers in action and the figures are fuzzy.

Other members of the university chapter of AIAA attending the meeting were President Peter Krane, Norman Best, Brent Marsh and faculty advisor Dr. Barry S. Seidel.

The 25-volume sets of Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia are on sale this week.

To Mrs. Clifford Nelson for this question:

"Where do you find mushrooms of the yellow and black sponge variety?"

This choice species of edible fungi, called the morel, has a cap which is greenish yellow to dark olive. It is commonly found in the Spring in old apple orchards and woods, and on burned over land or areas where wood ashes have been scattered.

To Valerie Bacon who asks:

"Why did the Dodo bird become extinct?"

Extinction is partly attributed to the importing of domestic animals to the island of Mauritius, in the Indian Ocean, where the birds lived in the forest. Such animals as hogs, escaped, multiplied, and destroyed the dodo birds' eggs.

To Marcus Wetmore for asking:

"Who was the youngest competitor ever to win an individual Olympic championship?"

Two American girls won women's springboard diving championships when they were 13 years old. Marjorie Gething won in 1936, and Allison Riggins in 1920.

Coach Ray Ciesinski's Yellowjackets finished seventh with six points in the 400-yard hurdles in a record 1968 last Saturday at the Peninsula Relays in Wilmington's Baynard Stadium, as Newark took sixth place with a 16-point total.

Coach Jim DiStefano's Christiana Vikings finished seventh with six points, ahead of McKean, Conrad, DeLaWarr, Wm. Penn, Howard and Salesianum.

McKean won the Group 1 relay with a team total 16: Dover and Wilmington tied for second with 14. Brandywine finished fourth with 12, and P.S. duPont was fifth with 11.

Bill Barrow Wins 7th County Title For Trapshooting

Bill Barrow of Newark won his seventh New Castle County trapshooting championship last Sunday, breaking 99 out of 100 clay targets at the Wilmington Trapshooting Association's annual event on the Glasgow range.

Barrow, 54, broke 72 straight targets before his lone miss in the string of 100.

Current Penn-Del trapshooting champ, Barrow fired a perfect 90x50 in Wednesday's warm-up for the county crown.

Barrow has won five county championships with but one miss in each 100 rounds, and last held the title in 1964.

"I can't understand it," Carroll W. Mumford frowned, and the frown further narrowed as Mumford brows when a pair of trolling anglers passed close by, trailing a meshed fish sack of silvered shad. We attributed our luck to an assortment of dull darts abused with long use, and came on in at 5:30 that evening to keep a social com. in the quiet back house in Newark by missing what probably proved to be the shank of the shad fishing just before twilight.

The next afternoon, with Hosts Lynnard Reed and Arthur Rittenhouse on the Chester River just below its Millington headwaters, we observed a stream near full of fish—herring from 10 to 12-inches of silver-splashed scale length—fish that flashed flanks golden in the tea-colored water of the Chester River as they schooled close by the banks on their spring spawning run far from the sea.

And these fish were no more receptive to our offerings than had been residents of the Susquehanna River on the previous afternoon.

If anything, the Chester River situation was more frustrating, because we could actually see the fish—hundreds of them—purposely ignoring our flies and darts.

In desperation, Mr. Mumford resorted to worms, but these, too, were of no avail.

With a spinner, he plucked a beautiful dark green rattle, and a silver, standing ferris hord, and his companion managed to take a couple of very juvenile crappies with a tiny white streamer from a flyrod, but that was all the hook and line action we could muster.

However, the herring in the Chester River indicated that the surface activity we had noticed on the Susquehanna had been due largely to these same unresponsive fish, and not to shad.

From what we have read, herring are supposed to hit a tiny dirt or a wisp of a fly, but these Chester River herring apparently had not read the same material.

Lynnard Reed, with a small diameter dipnet on a long shaft, provided a half-dozen herring for us to take home, but Mr. Reed's effort with the small net resulted in a lot of work with many misses and little return.

Launch with Messrs. Reed and Rittenhouse in their mobile home beside the river—"don't say 'trout'!" Lynnard cautioned—feared unexpected ice cream and cake for a happily surprised pair of sandwich men.

A barred owl hooted hollowly from the woods across the river, its wild laughter provided a pleasant touch of real wilderness amid the cottages crowding the banks of what not too long ago had been a near uninhabited waterway—and the big owl may have been preparing for his twilight hunting with some untimely confusion because of the drizzle and dark, early afternoon.

And then we happened upon a short handled, aluminum framed net of impressive depth and diameter—and quickly dipped up some four dozen herring to take home.

We could have filled the car trunk with fish, but took only as many as we believed we could eat and conveniently give away.

"Good fish!" Paul Pressman Bill Durham declared as one recipient of fresh herring, "Bones and all."

And Fred Brown, a fish fancier to rival an old polished oil of pair of portlions—his herring and wife Blinnie's.

Mr. Brown had recently returned from a successful mackerel jigging expedition on the Atlantic Ocean out of a New Jersey port, and should have had enough fresh fish as table fare to satisfy a starving man. But Browne likes spring-run herring—and so do we.

Alex D. Cobb, gentler gentleman from Indiana, welcomed a packet of herring fillets, too, but after a tour of Farmer Cobb's rose garden, asparagus and strawberry beds, and inspection of various trees nurtured in Indian and perhaps Indiana fashion, also, with planted fish, there may be some doubt as to whether the Chester River herring ever reached Mr. and Mrs. Cobb's table.

Reminiscing of some superlative fishing with son-in-law Pete Powell in the lakes of the Big Scrub near Ocala, Fla., Alex Cobb recalled an impressive catch of jacks as pickered are somewhat scornfully termed with little regard by Florida fishermen—jacks that were treasured around a tree now flourishing as a result.

During a round of golf sandwiched between lass and speckled perch fishing trips, A. D. Cobb inquired as to the origin of the sand traps in reverse—piles of sand that dotted the course—and was informed by his caddy that these

Yellowjacket Gary Ludwig Hurls 6th Win; Newark To Play Dickinson For BHC Lead

Coach Francis Fulghum's Yellowjackets tied 5-1 Dickinson for the Blue Hen Conference lead last Tuesday as Right-handed Gary Ludwig hurled a three-hitter at Mt. Pleasant to win a 1-0 thriller.

Second basemen Gary Connell scored the winning run with a single up the middle in the fifth inning, coming all the way home with a pair of Mt. Pleasant errors in a pickoff attempt.

First basemen Dick Bauer collected two of Newark's three hits on a two-in-three plate performance.

Tuesday's win was Ludwig's sixth of the year, and he won his fifth last Friday by scoring on starter Don Stinski's infield single in the home half of the seventh for a 7-6 victory over visiting Conrad.

Stinski had moved into left field when relieved by Ludwig on the hill. Conrad moved into a 6-3 lead in the top of the seventh after Newark tied the game with five runs in the sixth.

Hens Top Bucknell To End MAC Drive With 7-1 Season

Delaware Coach Bob Hannan's Hens defeated Bucknell 5-4 here last Monday to conclude their Middle Atlantic Conference campaign with a 7-4 log.

After Bucknell had scored twice in the top of the sixth, Delaware retaliated with three runs in the home half.

Two errors by centerfielder Frank Arentowicz and Dave Cathcart's ground-rule double keyed the Hens' uprising.

They scored single runs in the seventh and eighth, but had some anxious moments in the top of the ninth when Bucknell jumped on Larry Walker for two runs.

Ward Bowser's two-run single was the damaging blow, but Walker ended the game when he caught John Garbark to fly to left.

For Walker, a sophomore who ended the season with a 3-1 record, it was his first complete game of the spring.

He spaced seven hits and struck out six.

Delaware was scheduled to wind things up yesterday at Glassboro.

mounds were the result of salamander mining activities.
