NEWARK POST

VOLUME III

NEWARK, DELAWARE, WEDNESDAY, JULY 10, 1912

Agricultural Notes

The College Farm has purchased three very fine Ayreshires from the Simpson farm, Lake Arthur, Pa. These animals were purchased entirely upon individuality and will be used for class room and demonstration work.

A very fine Jersey bull has also been purchased from the Willoughby farms, Mentor, Ohio. This animal, of the island type, contains over 35 per cent. of the blood of the eminent "Raleigh," who is the sire of 35 daughters of merit in the registry.

Dr. Spruance of Wilmington was an interested visitor at the college farm on Monday. Dr. Spruance owns a number of farms in the vicinity of Smyrna and is particularly interested in questions pertaining to soil fertility.

The sweet pea experiment as being conducted on the college farm has proved a very popular one to all living within a radius of a mile or more. The blooms are to be had for the picking and every day finds many appreciative visitors.

The agricultural store houses on the campus are being rapidly torn down and moved. Within a short time the ground formerly occupied by these buildings will be cleared for the Frazer field.

A letter recently received from the State College for Colored Students at Dover, reports a yield of 45 bushels of prime wheat from 15 acres.

OPEN AIR SERVICES POPULAR

The first of the series of open air services was held on the campus of Delaware College last Sunday evening, the congregations of the town uniting in this twilight service. The steps leading to the auditorium served as a stadium and were well filled with worshippers. A pleasing feature was the congregational singing of old hymns, in which every one enthusiastically joined.

Rev. H. B. Phelps preached the sermon from 1st Corinthians, 1st chapter, 24th and 25th verses: "But we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling block, and unto the Greeks foolishness; but unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God."

The entire service was short and helpful; the surroundings were ideal. In view of the many pleased expressions heard from all present it is believed the plan will gain in popularity with each meeting.

WEDDINGS

BROOME-CAMERON

Miss Carrie Elizabeth Broome and Herman Gilpin Cameron were married at the home of the groom's parents last Saturday, July 6th. They were attended by the groom's brother, W. R. Cameron of Newark, and Miss Mazie Montgomery of Taylorville, Pa. On account of the recent death of the bride's father the wedding was a very quiet one, only a few friends being present. The parlor was decorated with potted plants and cut flowers, the color scheme being pink and white. The guests were served with luncheon previous to the ceremony, following which Mr. and Mrs. Cameron left for a short trip.

Those present were: James Broome, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cameron, Mrs. L. Snyder and two daughters, Miss Mina Dorman, Mrs. La Fayette Cones, Mrs. Taylor Shivers, Mary L. Campbell, Messrs. W. R. and Roscoe Cameron, Master Marshall White.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. James Lindsey Miller of Newark announce the betrothal of their daughter, Agnes Lindsey, and Benjamin William Ward of Delmar, Delaware.

Mr. Ward, a graduate of Delaware College, is a son of the late Cyrus Ward, a prominent farmer and lumber manufacturer of Sussex county. Miss Miller is a granddaughter of Mrs. Agnes E. Miller of this town.

HARVEST HOME

HELD AUGUST 1st

The annual Harvest Home, under the auspices of the ladies of Ebenezer Church, will be held in Whiteman's Grove, near Milford X Roads, on Thursday, August 1st. This woods meeting has for years attracted large crowds from far and wide and is the mecca for politicians in election years. Among the speakers are Caleb E. Burchenal of Wilmington, Rev. Asbury Burke, Bethel, Md., and Mrs. Aaron of Dover.

Dinner will be served by the ladies and special music will be an important feature of the day.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT WHITE CLAY

At the White Clay Creek Church next Sabbath morning the exercises will take the form of a "hymn service." After a short talk by the pastor several familiar hymns will be sung and references will be made to the different circumstances or incidents that led to the writing of same. The choir of late is being assisted very acceptably by Arthur Chillas and Gilbert Chambers, Jr., on the violin.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON RETURNS FOR TRAINING

Sir Thomas Lipton, the famous speed beauty which attracted so much attention here last season has been sent to the Tyson stables for another course in training. Mr. Tyson sold this horse last season for $7000. He is known here as the $7000 prize beauty.

TO PARADE ON SATURDAY

Ivy Castle, No. 23, K. G. E., will hold a rally on Saturday night, July 13th. Knights will be present from Christiana, Marshallton, Hockessin, St. Georges, Landenburg. There will be a parade at 7:30, the procession led by the Diamond State Commandery, escorted by Minnehaha Band. After the parade there will be a public installation in Red Men's Hall.

PROFESSOR TAUBENHAUS SWEET PEA DOCTOR-TO ADDRESS BOSTON AUDIENCE

Professor J. J. Taubenhaus will speak before the National Sweet Pea Society at the exhibit under the auspices of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in Boston on July 13th. His paper will be on the Present Knowledge of Sweet Pea Diseases and Their Control.

Professor Taubenhaus has been carrying on extensive experiments along this line of work at the college farm, where one-half acre is planted with 120 varieties of this flower. This experiment has been taken up in connection with work on the diseases of legumes, and places the Delaware Experiment Station on record as the first to take up the study of diseases of flowers.

Professor Taubenhaus is also carrying on experiments for the control of diseases of the sweet potato plant. He spent last week making investigations among the large growers of lower Delaware.

GIFT TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. S. M. Donnell on Monday evening to pack a barrel with flour and sugar to be sent to the Girls' Industrial School, Wilmington. The local organization sends this contribution at this time every year.

FIREMEN'S CARNIVAL

E. C. WILSON

What enthusiasm and co-operation can accomplish has been demonstrated in Newark during the past week, when crowds of people from the country for miles around have centered their attention upon the old academy grounds, where the carnival of 1912 was held. The announcement, "Larger and greater than ever," has been faithfully fulfilled and the workers are rejoicing in the comfort of plans carried to a successful finish and work well done.

Nature smilingly contributed the choicest of summer weather, as her share in the scheme, and after five days of open air festivities the decorations were as attractive as on the opening night.

On the afternoon of the Fourth, although an enthusiastic baseball game was in full swing only several hundred yards away, a good crowd strolled around the grounds and liberally patronized the attractions which the management had provided. Minnehaha Band was present and entertained the people with choice selections. There was much disappointment over the non-arrival of Hon. L. I. Handy, who was to have delivered an address. After telegrams and telephoning the trouble was found to be due to a late train and Mr. Handy's failure to make connections enroute from Cape May. Following the announcement the Baby Show loomed into importance and immediately became the center of attraction. Over fifty babies exhibited all the charm of dimple and smile, and cooed and laughed to the delight of the visitors. Prizes of five dollars each were offered for the fattest and the prettiest babies, and the judges, Mrs. Pearl Nelson, of Washington, D. C., Mrs. William Peach and Miss Thatcher, of Wilmington, found their task a difficult one. The prize for the fattest baby was won by Harold Strahorn, aged 9 months, who weighs 31 pounds. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Strahorn of Appleton, Md.; that for the prettiest child under two years of age was awarded Helen J. Eastburn, the 20-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Eastburn of Milford Cross Roads. Little Miss Eastburn deposited her prize in the Newark Trust and Safe Deposit Company Savings Fund, and joined the blue ribbon class among depositors of her age.

In the evening between two and three thousand people visited the grounds. It is remarkable that among that crowd of people, on a holiday, no disorderly conduct or conversation was detected by the most critical.

The management is to be congratulated upon the display of fireworks the firemen provided for their patrons. They were not only well displayed but of an unusual quality and variety. Six hundred dollars were taken in at the various booths on Thursday evening. Over 600 tickets were sold at the vauville tent.

There were no special features provided for Friday, but the grounds were so pleasant and attractive that many visited them and made the evening a marked success.

Saturday, the closing day, was the greatest of all!

Obadiah Henry and his famous coffee and sandwiches induced many who came in the afternoon to stay for the evening without leaving the grounds.

Every booth on the grounds was kept busy the entire evening satisfying eager customers, and $800

Other articles were won by the following:

Delaware. Here I found high-class farming. Delaware is not much larger than a good-sized Missouri calfpen, but she is a beauty and when it comes to up-to-date farming, she is far ahead of us.

"The kind of farming I saw today in Delaware, is the kind I am going to have in our 'Friscio' demonstration farms, in fact I now have at least three farms where we are close up to the Delaware idea.

"Great fields of fine wheat waving yellow in the breezes almost ready for the harvest. Great fields of corn almost as clean as a parlor floor. Great fields of potatoes, cabbage, onions, in fact a full line of vegetables of all kinds.

"Great fine meadows, now being cut, mowers running, and men shocking the fine hay. These hay crops are clover, orchard, meadow cut and red top grasses. Alsike and sweet clover both in great evidence, fine stock, good barns and fine houses. Cherries ripe, apple trees loaded, everywhere beautiful roses and other flowers, ideal homes with an air of prosperity and contentment."—Every Evening.

OBITUARY

WILLARD P. SHAKESPEARE

Willard P. Shakespeare, aged 22 years, died at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at his home, 2311 Pyle street, from tuberculosis, with which he had been ill since last Christmas. After spending some time in the Wilmington High School, young Shakespeare went to Delaware College, from which he graduated with honors in the 1911 class. A year ago he represented Delaware College at the Y. M. C. A. conference at Northfield.

Last September he entered Harvard University and was getting along well there until last Christmas when he came to his home in this city for the holidays. Because of illness he was unable to return and grew gradually worse until his death Tuesday morning.

A. L. ROBINSON

Attie L., wife of Walter R. Robinson of Newark, and daughter of the late James and Mary A. Pippin of Cecil county, Md., after a year's illness, entered into rest last Sunday morning, July 7th.

The deceased was a lovable character and her many friends will always remember the patience and Christian fortitude with which she bore her illness. She is survived by a husband and five children.

BASE BALL NEWS GAMES OF THE WEEK

By winning the last four games played, two with Elkton and two with North East, the Newark team of the Tri-County League has taken rapid strides towards the top and is now tied with Aberdeen for third place and is but one game back of Havre de Grace, the club that is leading the league. Three games were played last week, two on the Fourth of July and one last Saturday. The local club was the only one in the league that won all three of these games. Havre de Grace, Port Deposit, Aberdeen and Elkton, the four teams that are bunched with Newark, each won two and lost one.

Havre de Grace, the leaders, have won 10 and lost but 4 games. Port Deposit, in second place, has won 9 and lost 4. Newark and Aberdeen have each won 9 and lost 5. Elkton is also close to the leaders with 8 won and 5 lost. Counted in the games won for Newark is the one played here several weeks ago when Aberdeen with the score a tie and after battling in the tenth inning left the field, refusing to allow Newark a but in the tenth. It is understood that all the other games were decided in favor of Newark, and as this was clearly a technical game it is counted for Newark also, at least until the decision of the league decides differently, which is highly likely under the circumstances. The standing of the teams entering the game referred to as won for Newark and lost to Aberdeen, follows:

	W.	L.	Pc.
Havre de Grace	10	4	714
Port Deposit	9	4	692
Newark	9	5	643
Aberdeen	9	5	643
Elkton	8	5	616
Oxford	4	9	308
North East	3	11	214
Elk Mills	2	13	134

For teams when they are not actually suited over a decision of the umpire or over any other matter pertaining to the game to leave the field seems to be a habit in this league. No more unsportsmanlike practices could hardly be conceived and if necessary there should be a special meeting of the league and a rule adopted that will put a stop to such conduct. In fact few let teams now days even think of doing such a thing. There should be a rule placing a heavy fine on any team that is guilty of such a thing and if necessary to stop it expel the offending team from the league. It must be remembered that the fans are paying up their good money to see these games and they are entitled to some assurance when they pay, that they will see a whole game. North East, Aberdeen and Elkton, have all three been guilty of this unsportsmanlike conduct in games with Newark.

It happened twice with Newark last week. In the morning game at North East, on July 4th, the North East club was dissatisfied with a decision of the umpire and left the field, and Elkton did the same trick here last Saturday afternoon. At least among the local fans there is much dissatisfaction over the affair. They are supporting the club well but will not continue to do so unless such practices are stopped. It is simply folly to make any appearance towards maintaining a league if there is no rule to make the teams play out the game.

The game on Saturday was featured with wrangling almost from the start. It was expected by many of the local fans that there would be trouble with Elkton and they were not disappointed. There was no necessity for the boys from Cecil county to leave the field simply because a decision of Umpire Hogan's went against them. As a matter of fact the fans were divided in their opinion as to whether or not the man was out at the plate in the sixth inning, who was called safe by Hogan. This would indicate that the decision was at least a fairly close one and no one on the field was in a better position to see it than the umpire. He evidently in all fairness called the runner safe and Elkton promptly packed up and left the field, with three more innings to play after 600 or 700 fans had paid to see a complete game. The president of the league whose duty it is to assign umpires is also largely responsible for the trouble. He failed to send an umpire here, and two players, one by each club, were picked. After these players had once been picked to act as umpires, however, their decisions were just as official and binding as if one of the regular umpires had been acting.

From the standpoint of those who want to see good clean baseball it would also seem that Newark made a mistake in taking up so much time and really stirring up the hard feeling by claiming Scott out a base when he hit the ball over the hedge for a home run in the sixth inning. There is no doubt but what technically he was out if he did not the base, but how many are there among the real baseball fans who give up their money to see a game of baseball, who want to see a club even if it is the home club take advantage of a technical point under such circumstances. Some of the players are reported to have justified their objection to the run counting because Scott cut the base, by quoting what they do or do not do in the "big league." As was stated before there is no doubt about the runner being out if he did not the bag and the umpire personally saw him do it, but to cite what they do or do not do in the "big leagues" is foolish because of the fact that very few things are being done in a league of this size where there does not even seem to be authority to make a team play the game out the same as they are in the major leagues.

The fact remains that with three men on the bases and Elkton three runs behind, Scott made a timely out for a home run, which should have put Elkton one run to the good. There was no doubt about it being a fair home run and the player deserved all the more credit because of making it at such a timely time. Now under these circumstances when the player had unlimited time to almost creep around if he so desired, was there any true fan in the crowd, no matter what club his sympathy was with, that wanted to see any credit taken from the player by having him called out because he probably carelessly, if at all, cut a base a few feet? Certainly there was not and many have been heard to remark that they did not want objections made on such flimsy technicalities. At any rate there was one way that Scott could have called out and that was for the umpire to see him cut the base for the "safe" could no more take the weight of "space" player that Scott did or did not cut the base and call him out on that alone than he could call the runner out for not hitting the ball to right field instead of left field.

The umpire, however, called

Scott, who made the timely home run that every true sport likes to see, out, and that retired the side and left the score a tie, 7 to 7. In Newark's part of the sixth two runs had been scored when Elkton left the field because of being dissatisfied over a decision at the plate.

The score of the six innings of Saturday's game follows:

Tri-County League Notes.

Newark will go to Elk Mills for a game next Saturday. This will make the second trip to Elk Mills and also the last under the schedule.

Manager Marney was in Oxford on Sunday and had a talk with the president of the league. "Dick" Morris lost a fine opportunity on Saturday to help put the game on ice for his team in the third inning. With a man on first and one down the first three balls that Watson pitched to "Dick" were balls. The little shortstop instead of waiting for a base on balls fouled off the next two, both of which were high, and consequently was a pinch.

The warm weather is bringing "Vic" Willis' arm out in great shape and the big fellow will no doubt pitch better ball than now on.

Murray on Saturday was under the disadvantage of being stale as he had not pitched for several weeks. Under the circumstances he did good work in the box.

"Vic" Willis made a fine throw

OSLER THEORY PROVEN FALSE

Not all men are superannuated at the age of seventy. The Medical Record contains an account of a most skillful removal of the appendix of a man who was over seventy-five years old, and crippled with gout, by a surgeon of seventy-four, who retired from practice more than ten years ago. The patient was at work again in less than twenty-three days after the operation.

Concerning Your Home

EVERY home should have a modern and thoroughly dependable plumbing system. Defective and unreliable plumbing fixtures in the bathroom, kitchen or any other part of the house, invariably interfere with the comfort and convenience of the whole family and often seriously affect health. It is therefore most important that your home should be as perfect in respect to the plumbing equipment as modern sanitary science can make it.

This is always the case when "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures are installed in a house. These fixtures are unexcelled for quality and sanitary efficiency, hence they are the fixtures we recommend and supply. The plumbing work on every job we do is proof of our high regard for QUALITY. May we estimate for you?

JULY 10, 1912

GET SENTIMENT OF VOTERS

A prominent Republican, member of State Central Committee, friend of Mr. Heald, said recently that there was absolutely no sentiment against the nomination of Mr. Heald. He realized, of course, that an opposition could be worked up but that it was inadvisable and would only embarrass the organization.

In his enthusiasm to carry this nomination through he has failed utterly to sense the situation. If as a member of the State Central Committee he thinks that there is no opposition to Mr. Heald let him call together the twenty-two Republican members of the last House of Representatives and ask their opinion of the sentiment in their respective districts. Then let him act accordingly. The members of that Legislature have the welfare and success of their party at heart as well as any friend of Mr. Heald. It will be learned that there is a well founded and overwhelming opposition that had well be reckoned with. Those men, many of them, will never again seek office and can give unbiased opinion. They represent certainly no small majority of the voters and their opinions should be sought rather than resented.

By getting this sentiment and conferring with these men it would strengthen the Republican organization of which they are no small part. No more popular nor practical move could be made by the State Central Committee than such a meeting. By thus conferring with representatives all over the State, candidates would be brought out and supported that would make up a ticket which would have the support of the State. In no other way could the real sentiment of the voters be so well made known.

For the success of the party we call on the leaders for some such expression of opinion. Those in charge of the State Committee are only elected to carry out the wishes of the voters. An attempt to thrust the nomination of Mr. Heald on the party will be met with no uncertain resentment and opposition, whereby cooperating with the voters and showing a spirit of recognition of their wishes and judgment, there need be no fear of the success of the party in this State.

CARNIVAL A SUCCESS

Newark outdid herself last week. Even the college with its State-wide interests has never drawn the crowds that visited the carnival grounds. The arrangements had been so perfected that everything seemed to go off without a hitch.

To attempt to say a word complimentary to those who were responsible for its success would be in the nature of a registration list. Every one in town who had work assigned him did his utmost for its success. Fire Chief Wilson with his corps of assistants is deserving of much praise. It was their untiring energy and enthusiasm during the period of preparation that held everyone to his task. The wonderful success of the whole affair was due almost entirely to the masterly leadership of Fire Chief Wilson and his assistants. Several times during preliminary arrangements there was a spirit of doubt. Pointing to last year's carnival would claim it better to be sure and "let well enough alone." But the new schemes were inaugurated, new ideas and attractions projected. These linked with a contagious enthusiasm after once launched, gave Newark her greatest carnival. It was not only a financial success but it drew crowds of people to Newark, and the firemen gave them a right royal entertainment. Newark on parade or in carnival can present herself in a progressive attitude as a wide-awake town.

Aside from the financial success the carnival points an object lesson that some of us may have failed to see. It shows conclusively just what can be done with a leadership and spirit of co-operation. With this same enthusiasm over some civic betterment what pleasant and needed changes might be made. But that is another story. This is intended to be a word of commendation.

The firemen are to be congratulated for their success and the favorable prominence given the town. And the town deserves much credit for the support and assistance given such a worthy cause. Both have reason to be proud for Newark has, during the last week, truly forged far to the front.

METHODS OF EDUCATION—A LIVE QUESTION

Appropos of our articles on Herbert Spencer and his ideas on classical education, comes the criticism from the National Educational Association which is holding its fiftieth annual convention in Chicago.

A report based on an investigation in twenty-five states shows according to the National Council of the organization, that entirely too much attention is devoted to training students for college and too little to vocational preparation. The opinion is expressed in strong terms when they claim that our high schools are giving too much attention to work that is "generally bookish, scholastic, abstract and inadequate to meet the practical problems of life."

This, coming from our National Association, must be taken not as an insurgent move, but the result of the leading conservative authorities of the country.

That the work of our high schools is not meeting the needs and demands of the hour is admitted by all those attune to the spirit of the times.

It is the question of the day. The economic and political safety and future progress of our institutions depend upon the proper solution of this educational problem.

As we have called attention to the fact before, the whole system of education in this State is now being thoroughly investigated by the State Board of Education.

That recommendations will be made by this board to the next General Assembly is assured. Our State has not kept pace with her sister states and some decided change may be expected.

We should like to urge free expression of opinion through the People's Column and let us get the ideas of all classes of our citizenship. Many of our readers refuse to take part in these discussions, taking the attitude that the column is used exclusively for knockers on customs, traditions and existing states of affairs. Our attention was called recently to this attitude by one of Newark's best informed.

She thought conditions could be improved at our local high school, but on our request to set them forth in print and give expression to her ideas, she said the suggestion would be severely resented and no good accomplished. The same attitude is taken by many relative to college affairs. A gentleman of education and prominence in the State said he was not satisfied with the existing conditions at the college. He advocates a thorough investigation and would lead back to the ideals of a cultural institution instead of the present tendency of the training school idea. Yet, through fear of publicity and reluctance to enter a serious discussion, his ideas are wasted energy.

Criticism of our high school by this line, or of our college by this method, would lead to great middle class. Their names would add dignity to the question and demand serious attention. Vocational training and the cultural education are vital questions today, and only by healthy discussion shall we decide to the best interest of the present and the future. Your ideas may be of extreme type. Insurgency is not confined to the political world, but, like in the political world, is an expression of unrest and dissatisfaction with existing conditions. These questions demand our attention. Not only have they a bearing on the present but are also vital to the welfare of our children and the future citizenship of the State and Nation.

The time is ripe for a change in educational methods but it must not be a revolution. The cultured gentleman of the old school and the militant class are passing away. They make up the romance and struggles of history.

Today with its mechanical personalities and material craze from ises no good unless we can hold fast to the ideals of this newer age.

LET THE BAND PLAY

Now that the carnival is over, Newark will need some summer recreation. As a suggestion, we mention a series of band concerts in open air.

Aside from the pleasing entertainment, it would be a good business proposition. They would attract our rural friends to town and the merchants and business men would be benefited.

And too, they would create a friendlier relation among our town folk and boost Newark.

A series of four concerts, during August, would complete a pleasant summer in Newark.

First concert by the co-operation of our merchants.

Second concert by our manufacturing interests.

Third concert through the generosity of the New Century Club.

Fourth concert by our own Minnehaha Band.

FLY TALK

The female fly deposits from 120 to 130 eggs at a time. She may lay that many four times a season. In from ten to twelve days the young insect emerges, and ten days later becomes sexually mature. Dr. Howard, an authority on insect life, says that a female fly surviving the winter and depositing 120 eggs on April 15 might occasion the issue, on September 10 following, of 5,598,720,000,000 of adult flies. Of that number one-half would be females.

In fact, were it not for the fact that mankind is swatting the fly in all sections of the earth, in a year or two there would be enough flies to devour everybody in the world. Wilhelmsenians should do their fair share toward keeping the fly nuisance down. The first step they should take is to clean up all fly-breeding places. It they do that, and follow it with industrious swatting, their work will be effective. The swat-the-dirt and swat-the-fly campaigns should go hand in hand.—Evening Journal.

HIGHER EDUCATION NEEDED

The recommendation of the State Board of Education as to the establishing of an affiliated college in Delaware for women is an interesting article for the people to consider, and for that reason we have printed the report made by a special committee of that body to the board at its meeting last week in Dover. From the report itself the impression is given, that the establishment of a college for women is to be rather expensive as to buildings at the start, but moderately costly in its maintenance. This we think is the reverse of what the people expect from the real conditions, and the matter will be treated from that standpoint by the legislature next winter. That there must be higher education for women in Delaware, we believe every person who knows anything of educational matters will admit, and that it must come now is certain, but the ways and means will have to pass through the channels of criticism and suggestion before it arrives, a completed plan.—Milford Chronicle.

CARNIVAL NOTES

The fire company is certainly trying to keep up with the growth of the town. Council has been making an annual appropriation for years. Would it be amiss for Council to pay the expenses of wiring the grounds and perhaps a complimentary purse.

Fire Chief Wilson is too modest to make the request but we imagine he would accept the gift very graciously.

The only disappointment of the whole carnival celebration was the absence of Hon. L. Irving Handy on the Fourth. By missing train connections enroute from Cape May, where he was orator at a banquet on Wednesday evening, he failed to reach Newark.

A pleasing feature of the carnival this year was the concerts by the Red Men's Band. The organization, though quite young, made a most excellent impression. The cheer for Minnehaha led by Big Chief Smith was given with hearty enthusiasm. Although this band is strictly a Red Men's organization, Newark is beginning to speak of it as our band.

No one wants to see a fire and if occasion arose, the boys would show their usual fighting qualities. In case, however, the shack at Newark Center should get afire, we hope the railroad will build a depot in keeping with the town.

The Red Men of Newark and nearby camps certainly did themselves proud in their parade.

The most gratifying thing about last week, there wasn't a knocker in the whole town. Those who are not associated with the firemen entered no protest. It was firemen's week.

SQUIBS

The tariff, says Governor Wilson, will be the issue during the coming campaign. The Republican party stands ever ready to go before the people with this issue.

If Woodrow Wilson is not caught before election praying for deliverance from his friends, then we miss our guess.

Just you watch that home dog in Missouri on election day.

Hon. L. Irving Handy holds the honor of being the original Wilson man in Delaware.

A prominent local Democrat says his only regret of the Democratic Convention is that the Wilson success only adds another plume to Willard's cap.

Don't worry. Handy is plucking them every day in Kent and Sussex.

THE CAR IN A CLASS BY ITSELF

THE CAR that is the superior of any stock gasoline car at any price in power, speed, easy riding qualities, simplicity and all-around ability. A car to be operated and maintained by its owner at the maximum of efficiency and minimum of up-keep cost; not a flimsy, assembled toy but the product of fifteen years experience and ample capital.

It has no fly wheel, clutch, shaft, chains, change-speed gears, universal joints, carburetor, magneto, batteries, cooling system, self-starting mechanism; in short, none of the complicated and cumbersome harness required to make up, to some degree, for the deficiencies of the gasoline engine.

It is subject to no disorders that cannot readily be located and remedied, usually without recourse to machinist or repair shop. The engine cannot be "killed" or stalled.

It is longer lived than a gas car, for it does not shake itself to pieces. There are only twenty six moving parts.

Its tires wear longer from its light weight and smooth, gliding motion. There is no jerk or jar when starting.

In material, workmanship, style and finish it is the peer of any automobile constructed, yet its cost is moderate.

IT IS THE STANLEY STEAMER.

from deep right to the plate, cutting off a run.

Notwithstanding the fact that he had a bad day on Saturday Elkton's shortstop handles himself like a good player.

The ball that Del Willis had down the third base line in the sixth inning was fouled by two feet but the Elkton player made a mistake when it showed it over further. This arouses the suspicions of an umpire and invariably they call it safe when a player is detected pushing the ball foul.

Many more such affairs as teams leaving the field will hurt the game in Newark.

"Vic" Willis hit one that Scott had to back the hedge to get. About two more yards and it would have been a homer.

Our Flag---
Two Stars Added

How The Englishman Fails to Appreciate It

Last Thursday was the legal day for adding to the American flag the two new stars emblematic of the two new States which have been admitted to the Union since July 4 of last year. The constellation of stars in the blue field of the flag will be in six rows of eight stars each. It will probably be many years before the symmetry and compactness of this arrangement will be disturbed unless Hawaii shall succeed in entering the Union and establishing thereby a precedent for the future treatment of some of our insular possessions.

Frederic Harrison has written that "nothing more artless, confused and unheralded can be conceived than the stars and stripes." Harrison writes as an Englishman who thought that the American flag was a development from the British flag and English heraldry. He does not call it ugly. He could not do that. The least patriotic of Americans certainly will agree in the opinion that the "Stars and Stripes" is the most beautiful flag that floats. Dr. William Elliot Griffiths in the current "Independent" shows very clearly that the basic idea of our flag, the stripes representing the thirteen original free and independent States, is derived from the Dutch.

The history and the memorable struggle of Holland for liberty were familiar to the leaders of the American Revolution. The seven stripes in the flag which represented the seven States of the United Netherlands did not require much change to represent the thirteen original United States of America. These stripes represent, as Dr. Griffiths expresses it, "history, permanence and unity." The blue field may perhaps be considered a British contribution, but the constellation of stars is new and is our own. Dr. Griffiths calls the stars a "prophecy," but they are hardly that. The constellation increases in number only as the States of the Union increase in number. They are the witnesses and expressions of the nation's growth.

Dr. Griffiths concludes his article with the observation:

"Each State, while honoring her own emblem of sovereignty, counts only one more sacred than her own—the Stars and Stripes. Above 'Old Glory' Americans allow nothing to float save that church flag, on our ships and in our forts, which calls men to worship the Power that made and preserves us a nation."

There is an error here. The United States Senate only last month asked our Secretary of War whether any church flag was ever raised above the Stars and Stripes and Mr. Stimson wrote in response to the President of the Senate: "I have the honor to inform you that at no time and under no circumstances is any flag, emblem, or banner ever raised above the Stars and Stripes over any fort, encampment, building, or ground under the jurisdiction of the War Department of the United States."

COLLEGE SPORTS EXPENSIVE

Training of Athletes Questioned

A writer in one of our leading magazines charges college athletics as a source of the increased cost of a college education. The educational institutions of the United States, the writer states, spends at least one million dollars a year on their athletic sports.

One of our exchanges in commenting on this expenditure says: Fifteen of the leading universities last year devoted more than $700,000 to the single purpose of maintaining athletic sports, and these figures do not include the cost of supporting gymnasiums. At Harvard alone the University

Athletic Association spent $130,000 for athletic last year. No wonder that we are becoming sport mad and that interest in sports of various kinds overshadows so far as the public is concerned every other feature of our life. Considerable of the expense of maintaining athletics comes directly from the student body, but not all of it by any means. In addition the social life at all universities has become more expensive than it was a few years ago and the actual expense of living at a college town has also increased.

So far as athletics are concerned it is a grave question whether the college authorities should not do something to abate the evils of over indulgence. Originally college sports were designed as a by-play and to furnish recreation needed by the studious young men. But gradually their importance has increased to such an extent that with many young men athletics are supreme. And yet only a small percentage of students engage in the games. The others are "would-bes" and onlookers. Modern athletics in colleges have come perverted from their original intention.

Cecil County Letter

The Misses Mary and Esther Terrell of Elkton, entertained the Misses Katharine and Helen Steh of Newark on the Fourth.

Mrs. George Karl and Mrs. Chadd Rous of Elkton, visited Mrs. Aaron Jones in Newark during the week.

A large barn is under construction on the John Taylor farm, near Richardsmere, in the Rising Sun section, which has a novel feature—the enclosure of the portions occupied by stock with glass, giving light in abundance at all seasons, and ventilation in summer.

Frank Holmes of Elkton, is about again, after a serious fall from his bicycle, which struck a stone while he was riding down one of the hills on Elk Neck, one day last week. His collar bone was broken and he was severely shocked and bruised.

Taylor W. McKenny, proprietor of the garage and livery stable opposite Elkton station, is now running a large five-seated auto hack between Elkton and Chesapeake City.

Wheat and hay cutting in Cecil is about over. The latter's yield is much heavier this year than last. Few farmers have threshed as yet, but some report 20 bushels per acre. There is a good amount of straw and the heads sampled are mostly well filled. Altogether, the prospects are good for a usual yield of wheat, running from 15 to 30 or more bushels per acre, according to quality of land and quantity of fertilizer used.

Mrs. Annie Eliza Vincent, wife of Robert H. Vincent, whose funeral was held on Wednesday, from the home of her father, David Sentence, was a sister-in-law of Howard S. Vincent of Elkton.

The National Bank of Chesapeake City, organized a few years ago, is steadily prospering. Its directors last week declared a semi-annual dividend of 2% per cent, and added $2,000 to its surplus fund, which now totals $10,000.

Children's Sunday school will hold its annual festival tomorrow, Thursday evening, in the hall in the village.

Rev. J. F. Kingsley, pastor of Providence M. E. church, Philadelphia, will again manage the local preachers' annual campmeeting, held at Leslie, on the B. & O. R. R. The camp will open this year on next Wednesday, July 17, and close on Tuesday, the 30th. Prof. W. N. Thomas will have charge of the music. The camp is usually well-attended by Cecil and nearby residents.

Dr. J. Horace Jenkins of Saundersville, Pa., a brother-in-law of Gove S. Seotten, proprietor of the Howard House, Elkton, has rented the office of the late John E. Mackall on Main street, and will again practice in the town and neighborhood.

The three-story brick Bennett property, store and dwelling, on Main street, Elkton, recently bought at mortgage sale by the Mutual Building Association, has been sold for $3,100 to Mrs. Columba Gardullo, wife of Michael Gardullo, a thrifty Italian painter.

Edward Cleaves, aged about 56 years, who lived alone, was found dead on Sunday in his cabin, near West Amwell school house, about two miles from Elkton, probably from the effects of heat prostration and lack of prompt treatment. He was well known in the Third and Fourth districts and was skilled in many lines of mechanical work.

Elkton's widely advertised Fourth of July parade, etc., proved a fiasco but brought the result sought for—a crowd of people—those of whom that were not too sore from disappointment attended the Elkton-Elk Mills baseball game in the afternoon.

The National Bank of Elkton building, on Main street, originally the Sewell and later the Oliver mansion, has been repainted, greatly improving the building's appearance.

The Elkton Improvement Company owners of the old Cecil county fair grounds, some time ago laid off the property in building lots. Thus far a number on upper North street have been sold. Roy M. Egner last week buying No. 9 for $400.

Marshall E. Biddle of Elkton, a P. B. & W. R. R. fireman, is about again after his recent painful experience but lucky escape, when struck on the head and face by an object projecting from a car of a freight train which his engine was passing.

The Scott fertilizer factory, one of Elkton's leading industries, is about to be enlarged by a two-story addition, east of the present buildings, built on the ground now covered by the coal yard and trestle. The new building will be 50x90 feet in dimensions and will give an increased floor space of 14,000 square feet or more. A new coal yard and trestle will be provided along Bridge street. The work of erection will give employment to quite a number of mechanics and laborers.

Among recent transfers of Cecil real estate recorded in the Circuit Court clerk's office are the following: Martha B. Drummond to Elva May Brown, the Drummond farm in the Fourth district; Caroline H. Boyd of Baltimore to Eugene Fendit, the Plummer farm, near West Amwell, recently bought by the former at mortgage sale. Consideration, $1,300.

Gradon Ogle, a former well-known resident of the West Amwell section, near Elkton, who had long been employed in installing machinery at various places in the South, died on Friday in Georgia. His son, Samuel, left at once to take charge of his father's remains and bring them to Elkton, where the family reside. Mr. Ogle is survived by his wife, two sons, Samuel and Graham, Jr., who is now located in Nevada, and a daughter, Mrs. McAllister, who is a well-known trained nurse now on the staff of the Maryland University, Baltimore.

Christian Endeavors Plan Summer Institute

The Maryland State Christian Endeavor Union is planning the Summer Institute and Annual Convention at Pen-Mar, July 22-28.

The Institute, on the first four days, it is expected, will bring together some of the most experienced workers and specialists in C. E. work from this part of the country.

Mornings are to be devoted to the working sessions, the school of methods: Missions, Junior Work, Efficiency, Bible Study and Personal Work will be considered in these conferences.

It is possible, too, because of the prominent part Christian Endeavor male members have been taking in the great Men and Religion Movement nationally and in this State, and the number of men and boys who are in its membership—that special emphasis may be placed upon this one phase of its many activities.

Afternoons are left open for recreation; twilight services are to be held on the slopes overlooking the beautiful Cumberland valley.

Prominent speakers will address the platform meetings at night. The annual convention is to be held three days immediately succeeding the institute; having the convention during the summer and in the country is somewhat of an innovation; but after the splendid entertainment at Colora last fall it is thought the plan to meet in the mountains during the summer will also prove popular.

Special railroad rates have been granted, and some people are now planning to go, some to take their vacation at that time.

President Rev. Edgar T. Read, with the other State officers, is planning to make this a week of much interest to Christian Endeavorers and their friends, and other young people's organization workers as well.

"How Can I Get Money To Go To College?"—A Girls Question

"How can I get the money to enable me to go to college?" This question is being asked now by a great many girls who are anxious to go to college, but whose families cannot afford to pay the expenses of a college course for them. Inasmuch as a great many girls have paid their own way through college, it has been proven fully possible, and every girl whose going to college depends on her getting some extra money, should know how other girls have done it.

The following are some of the ways in which students at Goucher College have paid their expenses: They are given merely as examples of what an earnest, industrious student can do in any college. It should perhaps be remarked in the beginning that only an exceptional student could make money enough to pay her board in addition to her other expenses, but any girl, if she lives at home or with friends in or near the city, can make enough to cover her tuition and all necessary incidental expenses.

Many girls have taken advantage of the opportunity offered for work as playground directors during the summer. All of the playgrounds in Baltimore are open during July and August, and several of them from the first of May to the last of October. The salary is thirty dollars a month for directors, and twenty dollars a month for assistants.

Another very remunerative work is that of coaching private pupils, during the summer, for which the charges are from fifty cents to one dollar an hour. One student accepted the position of private tutor or governess for some small children and thereby greatly increased her fund of experience as well as of money.

These are some of the ways in which the summer can be utilized for making money, but in the winter, too, the student can add to her income. One way is by acting as emergency substitute in the public schools before and after Christmas, as the college holidays are longer than the public school holidays and the absence of many teachers at that time gives the college girl a good chance to substitute and thus earn a dollar for each day.

Then there are the night schools which are open three nights a week, from October to March, and in which the salary is two dollars a night, or an average of twenty-four dollars a month. It is also possible for any girl who stands well in her studies to be recommended by her teachers as a "coach" for college and high school pupils who are deficient in their work. Besides this, in nearly all colleges there are positions which students are appointed to fill, such as assistants in the various departments or college postmistress, and preference is invariably given to the girl who is making her own way.

The things mentioned so far are such as the ordinary every-day girl can do successfully, yet there are other ways for girls to use their special gifts. Some can become college correspondents for newspapers. And one girl who writes unusually well has even paid all her expenses by writing articles for the magazines. But the smaller gifts are by no means to be despised, and sewing may bring in a neat sum, as hand work and fancy work can always be readily disposed of. A girl who likes that sort of work can solicit subscriptions for popular magazines, and in a college not in Baltimore, the position of college agent for one of the photographers in the city pays very well.

It is quite a varied list, is it not? But "when there's a will there's a way," and different girls have found different ways to solve the money problem in college. Perhaps some who read this article will determine to go to college, and while there will find new and still different ways, but in any case, "what girls have done, girls can do."

Discuss Whipping Post

To try to correct the wrong impression that prevails relative to the alleged cruelty and barbarous punishment of the whipping post in Delaware, Chief of Police George Black, of Wilmington, will deliver an address before the International Association of Chiefs of Police at their annual convention in Toronto, Canada, in July. Chief Black says that incorrect and exaggerated reports of whippings, as sent broadcast through the country, have caused many to think criminals in Delaware are treated in a most inhumane manner when whipped at the post. He will demonstrate before the convention that the whipping post is not a cruel punishment and that it has a wholesome effect as a deterrent on the criminal class of this state.

Plans For Pure Food Show

A Pure Food Show will be held at Brandywine Springs Park for ten days beginning on August 15. Every indication points to the coming exposition as one of the largest and best ever held in this section. On the first day that the list was open fifteen exhibitors entered their names. While there will be numerous national concerns that will have exhibits at the park, it is intended to make the affair local in a sense and to show what is sold in Wilmington in all lines. It is expected that the number of those taking spaces will be large. In addition to the local attendance, it is expected that a number of large excursions will be run from Philadelphia during the ten days that the show is on.

Accident Saturday Night

James Smith, of Wilmington, at present employed on the macadam road being built near town, while driving along Main street last Saturday night, crashed into two teams hitched in front of P. M. Sherwood's store, overturning one and damaging all three.

Mr. Smith was thrown from his team and severely cut about the head. He was carried to the porch of W. H. Barton's store, where Drs. Steel and Killok rendered medical assistance. Later he was removed to his home.

Town Ordinances To Be Enforced

Town Council several weeks ago passed a resolution providing for the preparation of a new set of ordinances, as it was believed the present ones were out of date. An examination, however, has shown the ordinances are all that is required. It will be necessary to prepare a new one to cover the taxation of hucksters and street peddlers. The license will probably be fixed as follows: Huckster with two horse team, $10; huckster with one horse team, $5; street peddler, $8.

The first of the popular excursions to Tolchester, which are run by the Pennsylvania Railroad, is scheduled for Wednesday, July 17. Excursions will be run to Atlantic City on July 21 and August 21.
