COLLEGE TRUSTEES IN QUARTLY MEETING

Changes Suggested and Reports Read

One of the most successful meetings of the Board of Trustees for years was held yesterday morning. President Mitchell and Secretary Evans had prepared a docket, following the several reports submitted to the members of the Board several days ago. By being thus thoroughly acquainted with the several questions to be brought up, the meeting assumed a business aspect that was heartily commended. In all the problems presented Dr. Mitchell entered into the discussion, showing he had familiarized himself with the details of the several phases of the College. His advice was sought on all these questions and the clear explanations of his views, created a feeling of co-operation that promises well for the future.

The Finance Committee, Governor Miller, Chairman, presented a comprehensive report of a proposed budget for 1915. Lacking some few details, the Committee asked that a special meeting be held on December 28th when budget, based on a review of past expenditures, will be presented for the approval of the Board. Here again, in this work of the College finance, Dr. Mitchell has taken an active part. His work in the making up of this budget was highly spoken of by the Governor in his report. When complete, the finances of the college will be so set forth that the public can see just what is being done with the Federal and State funds. To so arrange these facts, from all the various sources of revenue, is a difficult task. Again, when complete, each department will receive its appropriation for the year. It will make the several committees and departments of the College to conform their policy of development and expansion in keeping with the funds in hand. This will mean the better confidence of an interested public as well as the greater business efficiency of those in charge.

The committee on Building and Grounds made important suggestions of needed improvements. One of these is that of a Commons for the student body. At present, there is really no central meeting place, so necessary to the social and moral welfare of the boys. Absence of this has almost of necessity forced the fraternities on the college. There should be some common meeting ground where college spirit and friendship could be formed, which go so far in making for breadth of view among college men.

This suggestion was presented to the Board and not for immediate action.

Another question is that of more laboratory room. Recent growth of the Agricultural Department and an increased number of students has crowded the science departments. While there should be more room at once, it was thought advisable to postpone this until the old dormitory could be renovated, making that building for the entire use of the several laboratories.

Chancellor Charles M. Curtis, chairman of the committee on the Women's College, in his report, mentioned that some larger equipment would soon be needed in some of the laboratories. The committee also reported on the opening of the new college, the students enrolled, etc. A resolution offered by Chancellor Curtis, commended the Affiliated College Commission for its work in selecting a site and erecting the buildings of the new institution.

Former Governor Preston Lea, President of the board, was authorized to appoint a legislative committee. This committee will be named later.

Plans for the summer school for 1915 were also discussed. At the special meeting of the board in December it is likely that it will be decided to ask the legislature for an increased appropriation for the summer school. The appropriation for the past two years has been but $1,200 a year, although twice the number of students were enrolled last summer than were expected when the school was first created two years ago. Dr. Mitchell was made director of the summer and he made the request that State Commissioner of Education Dr. Charles Wagner, have the same association with the school as he had last year.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of General William H. Stevens, of Seaford, and Lewis P. Bush, of Wilmington, both members of the board of trustees for some years. General Stevens was appointed a trustee in 1892 and died this year. Mr. Bush was appointed a trustee in 1902 and died two weeks ago. The latter was a member of the committee on grounds and buildings at the time of his death and Henry B. Thompson of Wilmington, was named to succeed him on that committee.

The degree of bachelor of science was conferred on Paul Dougherty of the 1914 class, on the recommendation of the faculty. Because of sickness Mr. Dougherty had not completed his work at the time of commencement in June, but completed the work last summer.

The tuition for non-resident students was decreased from $60 to $25 a year.

In response to an invitation from Dean Robinson, members of the trustees and the faculty of the Women's College were entertained at luncheon at the Women's College. A delightful luncheon was served and a vote of thanks given Miss Robinson and the girls who assisted.

County Farm Bureau Announces Meeting

The first regular meeting of the New Castle County Farm Bureau will be held on Saturday at the office of the State Fair Association at Wilmington. County Agent Cooch will give a report of his work and outline some plans for the different organizations to take up in their respective communities. One prominent feature will be on Farm Management and the business methods as applied to farming.

Important Meeting

The local W. C. T. U. will meet on Friday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. E. K. Butler. This is the meeting for the annual election of officers. Arrangements will be made for the entertainment of delegates to the New Castle County Institute, to be held in the Presbyterian Church, Newark, on December 9. Ex-Governor Glenn will be the principal speaker at the convention.

Ebenezer Supper

Ladies of Ebenezer M. E. Church will hold their annual supper in the basement of the church on Thanksgiving evening. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone.

Report From Missionary Convention

The regular meeting of the W. H. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Warner McNeal on November 20, the president presiding. Mrs. E. K. Butler had charge of the devotions. Mrs. Howard Williams, delegate to the recent convention held in Wilmington, read a very helpful and interesting report. Mrs. R. F. Friedel gave a five-minute talk on the subject of Home Missions. After the business session, a pleasant social hour followed.

Christmas Sales

The Cooches' Bridge Chapter, Daughters American Revolution, will hold a Christmas Sale and Bake at the home of Mrs. Ernest Frazer on Saturday afternoon, December fifth.

Ladies of the Newark M. E. Church are planning a sale of fancy articles suitable for Christmas gifts to be held on December twelfth. Aprons of every kind and style will be a special feature. There will also be a bake in connection with the sale. Further details will be announced next week.

A MESSAGE FOR THE COMMUNITY

Rev. C. L. Candee To Address
Next Meeting

A Community Meeting will be held in the Academy Building on Tuesday evening, December first. Following a musical program featured by solos by Mrs. J. Pearce Cann, and a piano solo by Howard Wivel, the address of the evening will be given by Rev. Charles L. Candee, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, Wilmington. His subject will be Civic Consciousness, and in the talk there will be a message for everyone. Every public-spirited person in the community is urged to attend, and bring a neighbor along.

National Grangers Boost Delaware

That the visit of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, to Wilmington has been a great boon to the State and has done much to place Delaware on the map, is the opinion of W. P. Peach, a member of the executive committee of Harmony Grange, No. 12, of Mill Creek hundred.

Mr. Peach said that the reputation of Delaware as a corn-growing and apple growing state had been greatly enhanced since the grange meeting began. C. E. Spence of Oregon and C. B. Kegley of Washington, both great apple growing states, admitted that Delaware had them beaten on apples. Mr. Peach, acting on behalf of Harmony Grange, sent samples of apples raised by the members of that grange with national delegates to 30 states.

State Senator H. M. Culbertson of Media, Wisconsin, took some corn to place on exhibit in a glass case in the High School at his home and also at the State Institute.

The bulk of the corn came from Mr. Peach's farm. He has no name for his corn, but has been breeding his variety for 45 years, and the yield is from 80 to 100 bushels an acre, depending on whether the season is wet or dry.

Committee On Self-Help

In order to aid students of Delaware College who are self-supporting, President Mitchell has appointed the following men a committee on student self-help: Professor H. E. Tiffany, representing the faculty, Mr. H. L. Bonham, representing the business interests of Newark, and Mr. Joseph Weaver, '15, representing the student body. The committee has already formulated tentative plans, and has even secured Saturday afternoon work for several students. As soon as possible, the committee will issue a booklet explaining its full purpose, its methods of work, and the results which it has attained. The appointment of this committee will make it possible for every sufficiently prepared Delaware boy who has ambition and pluck to secure a college education.

Parents Entertained At Grammar School

Children of the Fourth Grade, Newark Public School, played host to the mothers this afternoon, when an entertainment was given in their school-room. Chorus by the school, including Whittier's Corn Song, Thanksgiving Day, and America, were rendered by the school. Mrs. Lee Cooch exhibited relics of colonial days and gave an interesting talk. The event of the afternoon, in the minds of the children, however, was the play, "The First Thanksgiving," in which the well-known characters of John Alden, Miles Standish and Priscilla, figured. The soldiers and the Indians of historical fame were all at the feast, the parts being cleverly portrayed by the little folk who had been carefully trained by their teacher, Miss Pennington, assisted by Prof. Manns and Prof. Rich.

Following the entertainment a Parent-Teacher Association movement was next discussed and steps taken looking toward such a local organization.

ATTRACTIVE NEW TOWN CLOCK

Chimes Peal Every Quarter
Hour

The Farmers' Trust Co. of Newark have placed on the side of the bank, a large clock, for the convenience of the public. The clock is regulated by master works placed inside the building. The dials of the clock are large so that one may easily make out the time from a considerable distance. It is lighted at night by electric lights.

But the most attractive feature of all is the chimes, which ring out in various combinations of tones every quarter, half, three-quarters hour, and hour. Four strokes—Westminster—announces the quarter-hour; eight strokes—reville—marks the half-hour; twelve strokes—Cathedral peal—the three quarter hour; and sixteen strokes—Westminster—the full hour.

The clock is a town asset and will be appreciated by everyone.

Militiamen On Guard

Owing to the fact that Delaware provides no rural police who can be detailed for such duty as has arisen in connection with the enforcement of the hoof and mouth disease quarantine, Gov. Miller called upon Adjutant General I. P. Wicksham, to supply men for this work from the Organized Militia of Delaware. Lieutenant Frank Clark, of Co. E, is in charge of squads of men stationed along the Delaware and Chesapeake Canal, at Summit Bridge, and at Newark. Five men have been on duty in this town, since last Thursday, three being stationed at the junction of roads from Pennsylvania and Maryland, in front of the Deer Park Hotel, and two at the corner of Chapel and Main streets. The men were kept busy the first few days emphasizing to the public the positive orders from the Governor.

Another Potato Story

The story on potatoes which appeared in last week's Post brought out another feature, crop grown, about Newark this season.

A Seydell, who moved from Milford last spring and purchased the Lovett farm, has made a remarkable showing with a potato called the Late Rose. Mr. Seydell is a practical farmer with a smack of science thrown in. He is an experimenter, a farmer student of his crops. This section appealed to him at first because of the advantages of location. His first season here, in spite of the dry weather, has won his approval on soil conditions. A man of successful experience in vegetable and fruit growing, we can appreciate his statement that our land here is well adapted to mixing crops, supposed by many to be a success only in the lower counties. This land here, says Mr. Seydell, will grow potatoes at a profit. He advocates the late plantings. The Late Rose, a variety he brought from the lower county, has given him a yield here of 250 bushels per acre. His planting was made on July 15th. Considering the drought from that time, this is a remarkable showing. To show that it was not altogether a peculiar type of cultivation, a neighbor of Mr. Seydell grew 40 bushels from 1-2 bushels planting.

The potato is a smooth pink skin potato—an excellent eating potato immediately after digging. The tubers are uniform in size and offer an interesting proposition for some of our prospective growers.

May Resume Work On Road

Residents of Georgetown, it is reported, think it likely that work on the State Boulevard will be shortly resumed. General T. Coleman duPont was in the neighborhood last week and, it is said, advised several parties owning land along the route of the road to retain their holdings. The work could be promptly resumed in the Georgetown section, where a start has been made, should General duPont determine to renew operation.

NATIONAL GRANGERS VISIT NEWARK

Inspiring Addresses at Delaware College

A large crowd turned out to greet the delegates of the National Grange, last Thursday, when they visited Delaware College. The visitors were met at the station at 3 p. m. and taken to the Women's College. After they had made an inspection of the buildings, the delegates were taken to the Delaware College Oratory, where they listened to several profitable addresses. Governor Miller presided at this meeting. He spoke of the work now being done to stamp out the foot and mouth disease in the northern part of the State, and urged the farmers present to do all in their power to make that work effective. After Dr. Brenner, a government expert from Washington, and Dr. H. P. Eves, State Veterinarian, who have been fighting the disease untiringly, had explained the symptoms, the ravages, and infectiousness of the disease, and had suggested measures that should be taken to prevent its spread, Governor Miller introduced the principal speaker of the afternoon, Ex-Judge George Gray, of Wilmington.

Dr. Mitchell was to have made the third address, but owing to the fact that the visitors had to catch an early train, he merely invited the delegates and their friends to the Gymnasium. Here they were entertained at a banquet. Governor Miller acted as toastmaster and several visiting delegates responded to toasts.

The visitors left for Wilmington at eight o'clock.

The feature of the afternoon was the speech of Hon. George G. Gray, Delaware's distinguished jurist, who addressed the grangers on the duties of citizenship, emphasizing the power of public opinion and every individual's responsibility in making it. The strongest parts of the speech referred to the functions of localized and centralized government illustrated by reference to Equal Suffrage and Prohibition, and to international arbitration. Perhaps no man living today has been as active in the realm of arbitration both in industrial and diplomatic circles, as Judge Gray, and his words are of unusual significance. The portion of the speech relating to the subjects mentioned follows:

"Certain states are now trying the experiment of woman suffrage, and the results are being watched with increasing interest by the peoples of all the states. Whether this great enlargement of our electorate shall generally obtain, will depend upon the comparison of advantages and disadvantages that flow from it, as found by actual experience. How much better is it, that so radical a change in our existing fundamental law should gradually come, if come it must, as the result of localized experiments, than to come with the awful sweep of centralized power over our broad expanse from ocean to ocean and from the lakes to the gulf, imposed, it may be, on unwilling communities and protesting peoples, with all the ensuing bitterness and resentment which the exercise of an arbitrary power is bound to produce.

"Yet, an amendment to our constitution for this very purpose, as well as one for the purpose of a nation-wide prohibition, is being urged by many good and excellent people, who would change our fundamental law and weaken the structure of our local self government, because they are impatient with any obstacle to the instant achievement of the ends they have in view. Pardon me, if I differ from some who hear me, and allow me to express the hope that there are some who will assent to what I have said. At all events, I am appealing to you, as individual members of your great association, to ponder long and seriously the far reaching proposition to which I have alluded. I am expressing no opinion, either for or against the abstract merits of either proposition. I am only protesting against the method by which it is sought to accomplish ends, however meritorious; a method which takes from the states a control so essential to the integrity of their sovereignty, and which, if sanctioned, tends to a dangerous centralization of power not contemplated in our dual system of government.

"It seems almost impossible to make a public address, however short, at this time, without allusion to what is in the minds and hearts of us all, growing out of the unprecedented internecine war now raging in Europe. It casts its baleful shadow across our own horizon. Many fair hopes for the future of the world have been shattered, and it almost seems as if the hands of the clock of time had been turned back for centuries, and that the savagery of primeval races was to replace our vaunted civilization. Even we, separated from the warring nations by the broad ocean that lies between us, cannot escape entirely from the consequences of the awful cataclysm. We must not despair, however. God reigns, and let us hope that reason is not permanently dethroned. More than ever do we need to preach the gospel of international arbitration as a substitute for war, and that international controversies can be

Delaware College Extension Lectures

On Friday evening, November 20, Professor C. A. Short spoke at an open meeting of Peach Blossom Grange, Middletown, on "Rural Sanitation."

On Wednesday, November 18, Professor E. L. Smith addressed the Avon Club of Felton on "Napoleon Bonaparte."

On Friday, November 20, at Delmar, Dr. Vaughn gave a lecture on "A Summer in Europe." In this lecture the speaker described the trip taken during the summer of 1913. It embraced a tour of England, Scotland, Belgium, Holland, the Rhine country, Switzerland, and Paris.

On Tuesday evening, December 8, Rev. M. H. Litchler of Baltimore, will give the first of the lectures in the Historical Series. His subject will be "The Challenge and Social Unrest." Dr. Litchler will be remembered for his strong sermon to the graduation class at Commencement last June. This is a free lecture and the public is cordially invited.

Union Thanksgiving Services

Union Thanksgiving services will be held in the Presbyterian Church, Newark, on Thanksgiving morning, at 10 o'clock. The sermon will be preached by Rev. L. E. Poole, of the Newark M. E. Church.

Accident On Delaware Road

The breaking of a wheel on a car of an extra freight caused the wreck of ten oil tank cars and four box cars, on the Delaware Railroad, near Wyoming on Thursday afternoon. Oil poured from the tanks into the ditches along the track, and one tank crashing through a box car loaded with cotton seed oil burst the barrels, spilling their contents. Both tanks were badly damaged and were blocked for several hours. The train crew escaped injury.

Buckingham, Pleasant Hill, Sunday, November 29, Services at Ebenezer Church at eleven o'clock. Interment, Ebenezer Cemetery. Two children, Warren and Clifford Buckingham, survive.

REPORT OF THE AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE

At Meeting of Board of Trustees

The number of students pursuing the agricultural courses at Delaware College is making steady and rapid growth. The students in the entering class who have elected agriculture number 35, practically one-third of the Freshman class. In the spirit of these students there is much to be admired. They are better prepared upon entering, and their attitude toward their work is highly commendatory. As usual, the College sent a team of three students to compete at the National Dairy Cattle Judging Contest. Sixteen teams entered this competition. Delaware stood eighth; defeating the teams from Cornell, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Hampshire, Nebraska, South Dakota, Kansas, and Arkansas. The College feels proud of the record that these young men have made, because their standing in this competition is indicative of the character of work that Delaware College is doing in agriculture.

The only minor chord that makes itself heard in the work of instruction at the College is the great need for better facilities. We need more, larger, and better equipped laboratories. We especially need a building at the farm in which the chill can be taken from the air, for judging live stock, harnessing teams, studying farm machinery, repairing various kinds of farm tools, etc. Our work will never be complete until this want is supplied.

Extension

Through the provisions of the Smith-Lever Bill, passed by the last Congress, Delaware has placed an agricultural agent in each of the three counties of the State. These men are just getting their work well started, and we have a right to expect much from it. It is hoped that having the county agents in the field will lessen the demand for extension work in the field by heads of departments. This has not yet proven to be the case, but we are still hoping that the men who are manning the various divisions of the agricultural department will be relieved to a large degree when the present season's work is finished. We all appreciate how unsatisfactory it is to have one man engaged in so many activities, as it makes it impossible for him to do his best work in any one of them.

In this connection, I should like to call your attention to the desirability of having the bill accepting the Smith-Lever fund by the State drawn in such a manner that it will automatically carry with it the increase of appropriation which the State must make in order to get the increase appropriated by the Federal Government. This amounts to $1260 for next year, and an additional $1260 per year until the amount reaches approximately $9000 per year. If the bill is drawn in this way it will relieve the College of any further action in securing the necessary appropriation to receive the increased Federal appropriations.

In connection with our extension work, the College has recently inaugurated what will serve as a department of poultry keeping. This came to us by the offer of the State Board of Agriculture and the Philadelphia North American to co-operate with the College in establishing on the College Farm the International Egg Laying Competition. This has brought to us 100 pens of five birds each, with a reserve pen of 100 birds. The State Board of Agriculture has furnished the houses and the fence; the North American supplies the feed, utensils, and the care takers. The College has furnished the ground, erected the plant, and will pay the superintendent's salary of $100 per month. Inasmuch as this work has to do with extension, it has been thought best to charge the superintendent's salary to the State Extension fund. It has been announced in the State papers that the superintendent of the poultry plant, who is an expert in all matters pertaining to poultry keeping, will be available for interviews, answering questions and, in some cases, for lectures on poultry keeping. This supplies a long felt want in the agricultural department, and I am confident that it will be well received by our constituency. It may be added in this connection that Mr. Pollard, superintendent of the poultry plant, has some high class poultry of his own, and has given the College one-half interest in the produce of these fowls on the basis that the College will furnish the housing and the feed for them; the sales of eggs or chicks will be divided equally.

The Experiment Station

It is with regret that I state my conviction that this division of the Agricultural Department has not maintained the high standard of work which characterized it shortly after its reorganization. This has been brought about entirely by the demands made upon the station men for extension work and for teaching. It is impossible to do high grade research work when the worker's attention is divided along two other lines of endeavor. The Office of Experiment Stations has not as yet definitely criticized this important phase of our activities, and I trust that the tendency to neglect it can be corrected before the authorities at Washington will have an opportunity to do so.

I have hoped that, as time went on, it would be possible to differentiate between the extension worker, the teacher, and the research man. At present, however, the demands for extension work and for teaching are so pressing that the research man has been relegated to an unimportant place. Under the conditions existing at present, it is impossible to make any radical changes. However, I wish to call the attention of the trustees to the Station's affairs, and have them make some suggestions towards improvement.

The Farm

The farm still continues to attract a large number of people, and the addition of the poultry plant will undoubtedly attract thousands more. There is a feeling on the part of most people that the farm is a valuable asset to the State, and of course it is our earnest desire that this feeling should obtain throughout the whole State if at all possible. The peach crop the past season was unusually large; the harvest amounting to about 6500 baskets. The prices, however, were low, the crop bringing in, in round numbers, $3000. Much of the fruit was of the highest class, and added a great deal of valuable data to that which has been accumulating for the past four years. Six acres of alfalfa have recently been started, and, as the stand is unusually good it is hoped that this will be another attractive feature of the College Farm. The herd is increasing in size and value. A number of good sales have been made during the past five months. It is the practice of the farm officially to test promising individuals of the herd as they come into profit. One heifer, bred by the College, is now under test and her record for the first six months is worthy of more than passing notice. In this time, she has produced 6096 lbs. of milk and 350 lbs. of butter. When it is appreciated that the average cow makes 140 lbs. of butter in a year, and that this heifer has made 350 lbs. in six months, we realize what this record means.

It may be of interest for the trustees to know that the College Farm has just sold a pair of Percherons for $1500. In this connection it may be added that, since the farm was purchased for the use of the College, $4200 has been spent for registered horses; the farm has sold registered horses amounting to $5592 and, at the present time, we have pure bred horses valued at about $750.

The building, as stated in a previous report, are beginning to show the effect of wear, and it is hoped that they can all be repaired during the coming winter. Roads and walks are also needed to accommodate the increasing number of visitors who are coming to the farm each year. The farm must now be considered more or less of a show place. The people of the State expect it to look well at all times. It is impossible to keep it up to a high standard without considerable expense, and it might be well for the trustees to decide upon a policy in this regard.

It should be borne in mind that the College farm is used by the College for instructional work as well as by the Station for investigation and that, in consequence, the College or the State should share in its maintenance. In fact, it is necessary that something definite in this direction should be done at an early date, inasmuch as Dr. Allen, a representative of the Office of Experiment Stations, has recently questioned the right of the Station to maintain a farm of this character on Experiment Station appropriations. He recommends that the State or the College maintain the farm, and that charges for maintenance of teams, men, etc., connected with definite experiments be made against Experiment Station funds.

When this policy is carried out by the State it will relieve the tension under which the agricultural department has been for sometime, and will materially raise our standing with the authorities at Washington, which is necessary if we are to render our maximum amount of effective service to the State. You will readily see that the Experiment Station could hardly be allowed to carry the farm and all its activities, especially when it is called upon to render services to the other departments of the College; for example, the farm teams and men have been engaged for practically a month, with the exception of a few days, upon the grounds of the Women's College, and in the erection of the poultry plant at the College Farm; and neither of these at present are connected with Station work.

Recommendations

As Dean and Director I would suggest, therefore, that they ask the State for an appropriation of $5000 per year, for maintenance of the agricultural department, this money to be used primarily in carrying those desirable activities of the department which are not allowed under the regulations concerning the disbursement of Federal funds. This would enable the farm as a whole to be independent of the Office of Experiment Stations, whose representatives would no longer ask to direct the expenditure of the farm sales.

Very respectfully submitted,
H. Hayward.

AMONG THE NEW MAGAZINES

The War At Close Range

In the December number of Everybody's Magazine, Frederick Palmer continues his articles on conditions in Europe, under the subject "The Grim Business of War." Mr. Palmer is now in Germany, in an attempt not only to report war news from behind the German lines, but to discover at first hand, conditions resulting from the war, in Berlin, and elsewhere. The article pictures at close range the work of the trenches, and sums up the strategy and the results of the first three months of fighting. It gives us realistic glimpses of Europe at war. Extracts are given below:

"In the morning of the war every officer and soldier was fresh with energy, as the runner is fresh from the rubber's hand at the start of a race. The officers of all the armies unnecessarily exposed themselves. Each nation rejoiced in those early exploits of abandoned courage which proved that the old spirit survived. Troops going into their first charges swept on in formations whose fearful exposure was all very well for maneuvers, but not against modern artillery, rifle, and machine-gun fire."

"Old heads expected this. Temerity was better than timidity at the start. Germany had her exhibit of the folly of heedless bravery before Liege and in the daring of the Crown Prince's army before French trenches; France had hers in the first rush of German trenches against Alsace; Russia hers in East Prussia; England hers in the charge of the Ninth Lancers, which unlike that of the Light Brigade, was not because someone had blundered, but because they wanted to do it. Each nation gave its press only the story of the charges that succeeded. It left untold those of the decimation of battalions, regiments and brigades to no purpose. "With the Aisne, the mental ecstasy and physical ardor of the troops were spent. Discomfort and hardship became the commonplace of existence. German officers who started out with dress-suit cases following them on motor-trucks were glad to have a toothbrush and comb in their pockets. English officers who had rubber baths and pajamas and mattresses in their kits found it a luxury to sleep in a haymow and get off their boots. Soldiers who had looked so neat as they left their mobilization depots were grimy and bearded."

There was an end to the sport of war. It has become a business, an occupation. The courage of impulse had passed. In its place had come the courage of wisdom, of grim, tactical cunning and determination. All commanders had passed the word for officers to take care not to expose themselves unnecessarily. An officer is a piece of property, costly to train, not easily replaced."

"If one could sail low in a plane over the French and German front in France, one might say this was not a war at all; that it was a competition in excavation; that these armies were not composed of men, but of rodents. He would see little ganglia of troops and transports on the roads back of human warrens, and groups of guns behind the cover of hills and woods, now silent, now firing leisurely, now rapidly, at a point hidden in the smoke of bursting shells and the dust of trenches rising heavenward; which would mean that one or the other was attacking today and trying to gain a little advantage. The vista would seem hardly more warlike to the eye than blasting and digging a railroad cut. It might suggest rival villages of beavers and prairie dogs."

"Day and night some force must be in the frontal trenches eyeing the enemy venomously. The army becomes divided into watches like the navy. Those off duty are away from the muck and stench of the trench, yet near at hand, ready to rush back at the first alarm. They have such shelter as they can make; or if they have luck and the frontal trench is on the outskirts of a village, the chance of war gives them a house and its comforts. There is everywhere the comradeship of patriotism. The men play cards; they break into song. Sometimes they get letters from home, censored; sometimes they get newspapers, censored. They know almost nothing of the progress of the war as a whole; only of what is going on in their little world, as isolated as that of an arctic exploring party snow-bound."

Delaware Consumers' League Active

The Consumers' League of Delaware is distributing public school scholarships to worthy families, and is continuing the campaign to induce early Christmas shopping. Money is much needed for the scholarships. The league is at present carrying on an investigation into the sanitary conditions of stores and factories, with a view to drafting a bill on the subject. Miss A. W. Bird is the general secretary.

Delaware Represented At Convention

The alumni of Delaware College were represented at the recent meeting of the secretaries of college alumni associations held at New York on November 19 and 20. This association is composed of the secretaries of the alumni associations of most of the colleges in the country. Mr. Egmont Horn, '09, who represented Delaware, will try to put into practice at our College some of the plans in use at other colleges to keep the alumni together. He will try to keep dependable lists of the alumni, and report to the alumni interesting happenings at the college. He will also see what can be done toward publishing a periodical alumni paper. Mr. Horn will give a full report of the meeting at the Delaware College Alumni banquet in February.

HERE AND THERE

Members of the Georgetown New Century Club celebrated its seven-teenth anniversary on Saturday with an elaborate program at the close of which refreshments were served.

Charles Waite, a well-known chemist, long connected with the Radnor pulp mill at Elkton, was stricken with apoplexy in the Playhouse in Wilmington on Friday evening and died an hour later at Delaware Hospital.

Wilmington bank clearings last week totalled $1,569,150.17 against $2,272,740.17 for the like week last year.

While Charles D. Lackey, a Wilmington broker, was attending a dance in Pythian Castle on Friday night his automobile, standing with others in front of the building, was driven away and was found about 3 o'clock on Saturday morning on a vacant lot at Second and duPont streets partly wrecked. On the floor of the car several empty cartridges were found.

Wilmington last week reported 29 deaths, 64 births and 23 marriages compared with 25 deaths, 39 births and 20 marriages for the like week last year.

Gunners around Delaware City are killing large numbers of ducks chiefly mallards and blackheads.

Middletown school pupils have filled a large case with toys of many kinds, to be shipped for distribution among children of Belgium.

The Seaford Parent-Teachers Association endorsed the suggestion of Dr. J. A. Ellegood of Wilmington that the eyes of all school children be examined.

The Zwannendael Club of Lewes, has perfected plans for raising funds for Belgian relief, including a moving picture benefit.

A meeting of 165 representatives of Wilmington's business interests was set for yesterday afternoon at the head of the Hotel du Pont, to arrange for forming a clearing house for the Chamber of Commerce.

Quartermaster Sergeant Ira G. Townsend, of Dover, has been chosen Second Lieutenant of Company G, O. M. D., vice Howard T. Emiss, resigned.

Nurses of the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington, cleared $300 from their rummage sale, held for its benefit.

Sixty men were hired on Friday for grading the site for new shell plant of the Bethlehem Steel Co. at Riverside, near New Castle. Piling for the wharf has arrived, and contracts for the building will be let soon.

Merchants of Dover have formed a business men's league with Elad L. Clark as chairman.

Business men of Delaware City are again planning the organizing of a Board of Trade.

The Wilmington Y. W. C. A. is preparing to start a campaign to raise $125,000 for a new home in that city.

Kent County Levy Court has appointed a committee to look after road improvement legislation during the coming session of the Legislature.

Harry L. Cannon of Bridgeville, was appointed last week a member of the State Board of Agriculture and State Live Stock Sanitary Board by Governor Miller.

The Wilmington Street and Sewer Department has provided for a 160-foot boulevard along Grant and Bayard avenues from Eighth to Eighteenth street.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is not only a day; it is a condition of the mind. Official proclamations do not inspire; they only better the opportunity. National observance, it is in very truth, individual in attitude of reverence. An interesting thought, too, Thanksgiving Day is an American day. Saints of Thought, Heroes of History, Events drenched in Truths, have their anniversary all over the world,—but Thanksgiving is ours. Other peoples, other nations, have, of course, the same spirit, but as a day set aside—the recognized sentiment of a nation—it is distinctive, an American institution.

Conceived during the hardships of the New England colonists, it has grown to the heart beat of a people. Beautiful among these memories, stands the official proclamation of Lincoln. Bowed with the critical responsibility of History, a house divided against itself, the life of a Nation threatened, a Country, Christian and brothers, drenched in blood—that master man asked a nation to kneel with him before the God of Battles and Prince of Peace. Since then, Thanksgiving, has been honored in undivided and national observance.

Strange, yet strikingly human, Thanksgiving is more truly observed in times of stress than in times of blessing. In these days of the complexities of our hurried work-a-day world, we are prone to forget. But this, today, Thanksgiving 1914—what reason have we for the peace and plenty of our Nation? While in sections of our country, our wants and needs may not be supplied with a bounteous plenty, yet in comparison, our Nation is sublimely blessed. With the greatest war of History waged by foremost nations of the world, these states of ours have major reason for thanks. He who guides the Destiny of Nations has wonderfully rewarded our thought and actions. But in reverent recognition of our fortune, let us not forget the responsibility. Never in history was a people presented with the opportunity or faced with the responsibility as we are today. With manifold occasion for Thanksgiving, let it be by the hand as well as with the heart. Sitting at the feast of our harvest tomorrow, give it to us to sense in some practical way, the distress of our sister nations. Misdirected energy, false ideas of loyalty, ill-conceived dreams of duty, have laid waste to homes and harvests across the seas. By catching a glimpse of the scene we can the better serve, and give thanks, worthy of form and name.

In pew, by the fireside, wandering afield in God's open—according to the thought of your better selves, may this Day be your best with better yet to come.

NATIONAL GRANGE VISIT

The visit of the National Grange was indeed a happy event. Accepting the invitation extended by President Mitchell, Newark responded with more than usual generosity. Her guests were received with enthusiasm and in return expressed appreciation for the courtesies extended them. The presence of Judge Gray was especially pleasing. The honor thus extended to the town and College was deeply appreciated by a host of admirers. Perhaps no man living today has played so active a part in both industrial, national and international arbitration as this Son of Delaware. His address, commented upon in another column, was given with the usual Gray force and dignity, known so well to all Delawareans. The Grangers, from all parts of the country representing many phases of life, gave us a broader outlook on Agricultural conditions as existing throughout the country. Those in charge of the exercises and banquet are to be congratulated for the gracious manner in which the whole affair was conducted. Such occasions as these are of no small moment to our town and our college. We hope to see a frequent repetition of similar functions.

WANTED—A LOCAL COMMITTEE

We wish to call the attention of our readers to an Ad appearing in another column, telling the story of the Belgian Relief Work being carried on in Delaware. The committee in charge has established headquarters for the winter in the duPont Building, Wilmington. Specific information is given, and special requests are made in the advertisement. In conversation with headquarters today, we were asked by Mr. David Marvel, in charge, to do what we could toward the establishment of a local committee, whose duty it should be to see that every farmer in the community is asked to contribute some produce: wheat, corn, bacon, hams, beans, etc. for the relief of the suffering women and children abroad. Like committees are already established at New Castle, Middletown, and Milford, and it is hoped within a short time to have one in every town in Delaware. Let Newark not lag behind in this work of mercy. The names of men who will volunteer for such work are wanted at this office.

DEVELOPING IDEALS

Let us call the attention of our town folk to the announcement of the Alumni Association of the High School in another column. The Community Meetings as originated by this organization are representative of a growing spirit of co-operation. Without funds, without organized support, the newly formed association is making Community a word of meaning, fraught with wonderful possibilities. They have been most fortunate in the selection of their programs. The meeting next week is in keeping with their policy to provide the best. A large audience should greet Mr. Candee, who volunteers his service, in the interest of this work.

more righteously and satisfactorily settled in the form of reason than on the battlefield. We are proud of the record our country has made from the beginning. We have led the way in what might be called a new diplomacy, and displaced the tortuous methods of the old diplomacy by a straightforward and honest dealing with all nations. We have proclaimed to all the world that there is no justiceable international controversy that the American people are not willing to settle by the peaceful methods of an arbitration or an impartial international tribunal. We adhere to that purpose. We have introduced the great principles of morality and legality into our relations with other countries, and have added strength to the world-wide public opinion which is the only sanction of international law.

"We must not let the neutrality, however, under which we enjoy our freedom from the ravages of war, be a selfish neutrality, which prevents our sympathies going out to the unhappy nations engaged in the conflict or to the sufferings of the innocent victims of the strife. Let us applaud the vigor and clearness with which our President has declared our neutral position, and pray that he may have wisdom to steer our ship of state through the troubled waters that may surround it. If that neutrality is attacked or violated, we must be prepared to defend it, and we do not encourage or sanction the militarism that we denounce, if we make adequate preparation to defend our country from attack. A man of peace does not detract from his character as such, if he carry a bludgeon or a gun to defend himself against a highwayman. If we have the will to defend ourselves against aggression, we must take the ordinary means to enable us to do so successfully.

"Mr. President, in these troublous times, the behests of international law becomes more and more important to us, and in a country like ours, where settled public opinion holds such undisputed sway, it becomes more and more important that our people should be familiar with the precepts of that great moral code to which we in the past have sought to conform, and that as a people we should be informed, not only of our rights, but also of our duties. I am glad, therefore, to be able to tell you that, at a recent meeting of the Society of International Law, of which I am a member, measures were taken to induce all our public institutions of learning to introduce into their curriculum the study of international law. I hope that our college here in Delaware will not be among the last of those who accede to this suggestion.

Carl Vrooman, assistant Secretary of Agriculture in the cabinet of President Wilson, addressed the Grange meeting held in the College Oratory last Thursday. His talk was an inspiration to the many farmers present, for it illustrated more forcibly than pages of printed matter could do, the intelligence, wisdom, and sympathy which is being applied to the problems on farms by the department. Mr. Vrooman spoke of the New Agriculture, declaring that though since the population of the earth, there had been husbandmen, there had been no real science of agriculture until the beginning of the nineteenth century. The United States leads the world in the amount of time and money she devotes to the development of this science. To date the expenditure is somewhere between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000. The results, we must admit, have not been as satisfactory as they should have been. We are actually not producing as much wheat as the farmers produced twenty-five years ago; we have robbed the soil faster than Science has enriched it. The livestock industry has not only relatively, but actually, decreased.

Louis Brandeis, Mr. Vrooman continued, a few years ago astonished the world by the statement that the railroads of the country might save, by the application of efficient methods, one million dollars per day. I say to you if the farmers of this country were to apply those methods which have been demonstrated, to be successful—through government experiments and the work of experts—they could save five million dollars per day. They could double the yields of every state in one decade.

There are many difficult and puzzling problems arising in this newer agriculture. Chief among these is how to embody the newer methods into the farm management. I recall a farmer in Kansas who had been induced to try alfalfa, and had succeeded in getting a good stand. I happened along one day on a visit to the farm to find the farmer in the greatest distress. "Look at that stuff," he said. "It's got to be cut and harvested and I must plant my corn." Because of the frequency of problems like this there has been added to the department at Washington, a bureau of farm management whose business it is to work out such problems as these on the farm.

But someone asks, "After we double our yields, then what?" As we get larger yields we get lower prices." This is indeed one of the serious problems that confront us, but these things have a marvellous faculty of adjusting themselves. I recall a certain section of France where a fruit and flower industry, in the space of ten years has reached the 20 million dollar mark. The people raised the fruit and flowers; the railroad met the demand for their shipment by putting on fast freight trains which carried this perishable produce to the heart of Europe in shorter time than it is possible for a passenger to go. Secretary Houston, shortly after taking up the work of the Department, introduced the Bureau of Markets, and of Home Economics, to work out the problems facing the consumer, the producer, and the middle-man, remembering the rights of each. The lesson they aim to teach to every man is that he is first a citizen, and second a business man with crops to buy or sell. They aim to develop a spirit of co-operation which will combine with the great spirit of democracy as the foundation of our government. Do not take the anti-social attitude of fighting against co-operation because (1) such an attitude will make you an enemy of progress, and (2) this spirit is gaining force and those who oppose it will be ground to powder. Those who promote these ideas will render a service to their generation equal to that of their forebears, by developing a civilization founded on justice, where the problems that confront the nation will be developed by reason rather than force; where the same patriotism that is taking millions in Europe to the battlefield, will prevail at the ballot box and plow in the times of peace.

It is our own mission to make these ideals real. If we rise to this mission we will contribute our share to the history of this nation, and make it a leader, and a guide, to all the nations of the earth.

President Mitchell Gives Encouraging Report

The report of Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell, president of Delaware College shows that there are now in attendance at Delaware College 197 students and at the Women's College 58, making a total of 255 students registered at the two colleges. The report in part follows:

"The character of the student body, however, does not come out in these figures and it is the high character of the men that constitutes our chief basis for encouragement (continued on page 8)

SOCIAL NOTES

Prominent among social events of the season was the tea given at the S. J. Wright residence on Tuesday, when Mrs. S. J. Wright, Miss Wright, and Miss Elizabeth Wright, received between sixty and seventy-five friends. A profusion of great yellow chrysanthemums, with their spicy loveliness, added to the attractiveness of the parlor where the guests were received. In the line with the hostesses were Miss Margaret Smith, of Salisbury, Md., Mrs. J. P. Wright, and Mrs. Ernest Wright.

Beautiful gowns of the women made the scene a lovely one. Mrs. Wright wore a rich wisteria bengaline; Miss Elizabeth, a lovely creation of yellow; Miss Smith, a charming combination of pink and white chiffon; Mrs. Pilling Wright, a beautiful blue brocade; Mrs. Ernest Wright, a handsome white crepe meteor, and Miss Wright, a becoming peach brocade.

Mrs. John Pilling, Mrs. C. A. Short, and Mrs. H. S. Goldey directed the guests to the dining and living rooms, where a buffet supper was served. Mrs. H. L. Bonham and Mrs. C. O. Houghton presided in the dining room, assisted by Mrs. J. Pearce Cann, Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, Miss Alice Kerr, Miss Harter, Miss Hughes, Miss Pilling, Miss Eleanor Pilling. The decorators had saved their greatest efforts for the dining room, where the beauty of a great center table was set off by a large basket of yellow chrysanthemums, tied with yards of dainty gauze ribbon. Delicate green candle shades, added to the charming effect. In the adjoining room American Beauty roses and numerous brass candlesticks were conspicuous among the decorations.

The invited guests included: Mrs. A. T. Neale, Miss Lindsay, Mrs. Harvey Hoffecker, Miss Mary Hoffecker, Mrs. J. W. Brown, Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Elmer Thompson, Miss Long, Miss Brady, Miss Stoll, Mrs. Thomas Manns, Mrs. Daniel Thompson, Miss Hossinger, Miss Caudell, Mrs. George Dutton, Miss Inelab Thompson, Mrs. Whittier, Mrs. Louis Thomas, Mrs. C. The Sigma Nu Fraternity has issued invitations for the fifth annual dance to be given in the Newark Opera House on Friday evening, December 11. The dance will be one of the social events of the season at Delaware.

Dr. W. O. Sypherd will entertain a party of young folk this evening at the home of Dr. W. H. Steel. Informal dancing will be the program for the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Bonham will give a dance on Friday evening of this week.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Hermann will play hosts to a party of friends at the Army and Navy football game, to be played on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, next Saturday. Among the members of the party will be Mrs. Fisher of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Pearce Cann, Newark.

Miss Elizabeth Wright gave a bowling party last Saturday evening, in honor of her guest, Miss Margaret Smith, of Salisbury, Md. Among those present were Misses Ethel Green, Isabel Stotts, Elizabeth Edgert, Ruth Cleandaniel, Margaret Postles, Emily Frazer, Edith Spencer, Cornelia Pilling, Eleanor Pilling; Messrs. Grieves, Cann, Taylor, Salevan, Sumwalt, Sypherd, Brower, T. Wilson, K. Mitchell.

New Century Club News

On Monday afternoon the members of the New Century Club thoroughly enjoyed having Mrs. S. J. Reynolds, president of the State Federation, with them. She gave a most interesting account of the recent Biennial held in Chicago. Before taking a short recess the Club was treated to a piano solo by Miss Wilson. The piano has been very silent this winter and the music was doubly appreciated. After the selection the Club hostesses and Hospitality Committee served coffee and cakes. The program followed, Mrs. Alfred Curtis giving an account of her trip to Egypt and journey up the Nile. Many interesting pictures were thrown upon the screen and souvenirs of travel exhibited.

C. A. McCue
W. O. Sypherd,
Committee.

John A. and Charles W. Clark wish to thank the friends and neighbors for their sympathy during the illness and death of their father, William S. Clark.

Women's College Notes

A Thanksgiving recess has been granted to the students of the Women's College from Wednesday afternoon, November 25, until Sunday evening, November 29.

At the invitation of Dean Robinson, the members of the Newark New Century Club are meeting with Miss Caudell and Miss Robinson in the sewing room at the Women's College to make garments to be sent to the Belgians.

Miss Mary E. Rich, professor of education in the Women's College, made visits to the following schools last week: Blackbird, Van Dyke, Mathews, Deakyneville, Walker, Green Spring, Brown Cottage, Stump Corner, Taylor's Bridge, Fieldsboro. These schools are all in rural New Castle County. At each school Miss Rich gave a short talk on methods of teaching and various other problems which confront the teachers and pupils of rural schools.

Professor Clarence A. Short has presented to the Library of the Women's College books on plane spherical trigonometry, plane and solid geometry, and plane and spherical trigonometry with tables.

Help Swell Children's Fund

A moving picture benefit will be given next Friday, December 27, for the Children's Christmas Fund under the auspices of the Children's Committee of the New Century Club. No special canvass will be made by ticket-sellers, but all interested in the plan to give the children of the town a happy Christmas are urged to see the excellent films to be presented on that evening.

Supper Returns

Although all the money is not in to date, the treasurer reported today about $275 cleared from the supper given by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church last Tuesday evening.

"True Blue" Reunion

day, October 31st. This class has met with their teacher annually for eight years. It was organized in 1909. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. Cecil Creswell, and all united in singing the class hymn, "How Firm a Foundation." This was followed by prayer and scripture reading (Phil. IV: 4-8). Miss Clara Couden, secretary, read the minutes of last year's reunion and the report of attendance since then (Dec. 13, 1913). The highest records have been attained by Misses Clara Couden, Elsie Wingate, and Mary Brown. The treasurer, Miss Emily A. Scott, gave her report as follows: on hand at the beginning of the year, $37.67; Free Will offerings, $5.70; total, $43.37; expenses during the year were, Christmas gift to our pastor, Mr. Van Overen, $5; mission work in Kentucky, $5; chairs for Sunday School, $9; total expense, $19; balance in treasury at the close of the year, $24.37. The weekly basket collection given to the Sunday School Treasury by the class was the election of officers ETAE amounted to $7.11.

Next in order was the election of officers, resulting as follows: president, Miss Emily A. Scott; vice-president, Miss Isabel Scott; secretary, Miss Mary H. Brown; assistant secretary, Miss Anna Young; treasurer, Miss Reba Steele; assistant, Miss Elsie Wingate; press reporter, Mrs. J. Cecil Creswell. After singing "God be With You Till We Meet Again," the class adjourned. Refreshments were served in the dining room which was decorated with autumn branches and Halloween trimmings. The ten members present were photographed in groups on the porch. As it was growing late the girls all bade their teacher Good-night, having spent a most enjoyable afternoon, and hoping that their teacher and members may have many more happy occasions like this.

Fire At St. Georges

Yesterday morning shortly before 1 o'clock a fire was discovered in the stables of Charles H. Jamison, at St. Georges, a short distance from the Presbyterian Church, and within a short time the large building and a nearby barn were completely destroyed, together with four horses, five carriages, a hack, harness, whips, blankets, robes and a quantity of hay. The property was formerly a carriage shop and recently had been converted into a stable and remodeled. It was owned by Postmaster Reynolds of Delaware City. The loss is about $4,500, part of which is covered by insurance.

Three houses, a short distance from the stables, tenanted by William D. Kaufman, George Dickinson and John Carter, were on fire several times, but were saved from destruction by the combined efforts of firemen from Delaware City, the engines of the Fame and Reliance companies of Wilmington that were sent down by Fire Chief Magill.

NEWARK IN WARTIME

Interesting Recollections By A Resident

Looking out of my window I see two sentries of the Organized Militia of Delaware pacing backward and forward in front of the Deer Park Hotel, guarding the interest of the State in reference to the mouth and hoof disease which is causing so much loss to farmers in Delaware. The sentries on guard carry me back in memory to my boyhood days during the Civil War, when where the sentries rode out from Wilmington and proclaimed martial law in Newark and stationed mounted cavalry guards at all the approaches to the town to see that none should escape. A search was then made for those that had been informed on as supposed sympathizers of the Rebellion. The Rev. James L. Vallandigham was arrested and compelled to take the oath of allegiance to the United States Government. Francis S. Bradley, William Schultz and others were arrested and taken to the city hall in Wilmington and forced to scrub the pavement in day light to the amusement of the spectators. Both of these men were capable of breaking the fifth commandment, and no doubt had pronounced qualifying adjectives in their minds, but under the circumstances utterances of public speech was not prudent at that time. When they were put in the carriage that was to convey them to Wilmington I saw the officer give them a kick as they stepped into the vehicle that was to convey them to the City Hall in Wilmington. The supposed informer of those arrested was John Kennedy who was celebrated for his famous ice cream which was served in the parlor where Doctor Dauley is sometimes called upon to exercise his muscular strength in pulling operations, in an easy manner. A company of troops were stationed at the old depot most of the time during the war, and it was at that time a great sight for the people of Newark to see the soldiers drill. They were stationed here more for perfecting themselves in the manual of arms than for defence. They were quartered in the old freight house, and at times it was hard to tell which were the most numerous there, the rats or the soldiers. It was a customary sight every day to see long trains of soldiers going and waving their flags as happily as children at play, on their way to the front from which thousands and tens of thousands never returned. A military spirit pervaded the entire community. The boys of Newark formed a company and had regular drills. We used wooden guns and tin bayonets. I remember that I aspired to be an officer. My brother being a member also joined a company gotten up under Captain David J. Murphy. He was much under age, but I have heard him say that the drilling he had with the boys gave him a great advantage in drill than the raw recruits. The company from Newark was composed of from forty to sixty men—some of them still in Newark. Joseph Lutton, Thomas Mullen and James L. Walker were three that I can remember. They joined the Seventh Delaware regiment and were stationed at Fort Hill near Baltimore—Camp Canon, and Cockysville on the York road, when the Governor's mansion was burned by the rebels. They were not in any active service and all returned and were mustered out in Wilmington, and were allowed to retain their blankets which my brother has now in a good state of preservation. The boys at Christiansiana also had a company who drilled with wooden guns and tin bayonets. There was some disagreement between their company and ours and we were to give each other battle, but peace terms were arranged and no blood was shed. In view of the recent unpreparedness of some of the European countries I think it would be well for all boys to be drilled in the manual of arms, not that we desire war, but for the defense of the nation should we ever be engaged in war. The air resounded with songs of the "Bonnie Blue Flag," "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys are Marching, etc.," "Rally 'Round the Flag," and "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." Let us hope that our beloved country shall never be engaged in war, but should war come let us be prepared with an able defense so that the flag of this country shall never be lowered, and the United States be a determining factor among the nations of the world.

T. F. Armstrong.

Here and There

The Elk Mills Gun Club will hold a shoot on its grounds tomorrow (Thanksgiving Day).

Ladies of Head of Christiansiana Church will hold their annual supper on Thanksgiving evening in the Church basement.

The outbreak of the foot and mouth disease has led to the quarantining of dogs in Cecil, Harford and other counties in Maryland.

The automobile of Walter F. Melson, on Marshallton, who was visiting friends at Ninth and Jackson streets, Wilmington, on Saturday night, was driven away by unknown parties and was found several hours later at Second and du Pont streets, where Charles D. Lackey's car had been abandoned by unknown parties who had used it on Friday night.

Fire of unknown origin on Wednesday morning destroyed the dwelling and other buildings on the farm of Charles Mai, near Greenwood. The family roused by the smoke barely escaped. People who hurried to the scene from Greenwood saved the stock.

The Kent county Levy Court has deferred action until its regular December meeting upon the request of the Lyeomg Transit Company of Harrisburg, Pa., for the exclusive right to operate its "trackless trolley" lines along the road of the county.

The market at Seaford is said to be glutted with rabbits, which were selling there last week at 15 cents each.

Ten shares of the stock of the Sussex National Bank, owned by the late W. H. Stevens, were sold last week at $151 per share.

Most sections of South Wilmington were flooded last Monday by high tides in the Christiansiana, and water rising for several feet on the first floors caused several plants to shut down, while people in dwellings were driven to the upper stories.

After hearing protests of butchers, farmers, commission merchants and milkmen against various provisions of Wilmington's new food law regulations recently passed by City Council, Mayor Howell on Thursday night sent the ordinance back with his approval, suggesting that amendments shown by experience to be needed could be made.

Charged by Dr. M. I. Samuels with practicing medicine without a license, Lewis B. Coates, who claims to be a regular physician, was held in $500 bail for Court by Justice Gluckman in Wilmington on Friday. Coates says he attended the University of Pennsylvania when he was graduated in 1885, that he formerly practiced near Summit Bridge, removing later to Philadelphia, and that he did not know that he was required to be re-licensed in Delaware. Dr. Samuels, it is said, has preferred like charges against two of Coates' associates.

Snow flakes which melted rapidly fell at intervals at Milford on Thursday.

Edwin Sheer of 818 West street, Wilmington, aged 42 years, a patient at Hope Farm, hopelessly ill with consumption, shot himself fatally in bed, one day last week, with a revolver held under the covering to muffle its report. He leaves a widow and three children.

John G. Townsend, owner of canneries at Rehoboth Beach and Selbyville, has begun the erection of a large plant at Georgetown for the packing of fruits and vegetables, employing a large number of hands. He has let contracts for tomatoes and many acres of strawberries for the coming season.

G. A. Ewing is endeavoring to form a stock company to establish an annual fair for Sussex county on the ground now used by the Georgetown Driving Park Association, which would afford an admirable site for the enterprise.

Owing to the prolonged fall weather, but few turkeys from lower Delaware, it is reported, will be fat enough for the Thanksgiving market, and the bulk of the fowls will be held for Christmas.

The Farmers' Creamery Company, formed by farmers of the Middletown section, engaged in butter making for about fifteen years, which prospered for a time, was to cease operations on Saturday. The concern found that high prices paid for milk by city dealers curtailed its supply and wiped out its profits.

Chief Engineer Cooper of the power plant of the Wilmington & Philadelphia Traction Company, was sealed about the face, head and hands on Wednesday morning by escaping steam in the boiler room which he entered to save Jerry Johnson, a colored fireman. He found Johnson lying on the floor, outside the room, so badly burned that he was removed to Delaware Hospital for treatment.

Members of the order from all sections of the State attended the annual session of the Grand Lodge of Delaware, I. O. O. F., in Wilmington, on Wednesday. Grand Master W. T. Hobbs in his report recommended action toward establishing an orphanage and home fund and the appointment of a committee to solicit contributions from members of the order. Grand Secretary William W. Douty reported a total membership of 3812, a gain of 386 for the year and net assets totalling $201,504.01. The Rebekah branch was prospering and showed a net gain of 35 members. Grand Treasurer P. J. Isaacs reported a balance in bank of $654.45. The Past Grand Masters Association held a banquet in the evening and chose the following officers: president, C. P. Maroney; vice-president, S. E. Lewis; secretary-treasurer, G. C. Nailor; historian, W. W. Douty. The Grand Lodge elected the following officers: Grand Master, G. T. Magee, Wilmington; Deputy Grand Master, Howard E. Lynch, Dover; Grand Warden, Dr. Merritt Burke Harrington; Grand Secretary, W. W. Douty, Wilmington; Grand Treasurer, Philip J. Isaacs, Wilmington; Representative to Sovereign Grand Lodge, Frank Davidson, Wilmington. Officers of the Grand Encampment were chosen as follows: Grand Patriarch, S. E. Warren; Grand High Priest, W. A. Walker; Grand Senior Warden, Dr. F. C. Smith; Grand Junior Warden, W. S. Holt; Grand Scribe E. B. Henze; Grand Treasurer, Hubert A. Roop; Grand Marshall, S. Cooper Hill; Grand Representative, O. M. Burkhardt.

A burglar entered the home of Emanuel Greenbaum, one of the finest in Seaford, between 6 and 8 p. m. on Friday by breaking slats of a shutter and the glass of a window. He ransacked the premises and carried mattresses and other bedding to the attic, which he pushed under the eaves and set on fire, probably to cover the robbery. Two sons-in-law of Mr. Greenbaum stopped at the house, on their way to their homes for supper, to see if things were right as the occupants had been absent for several days. J. Edward Winder, who was passing the house about 8 o'clock, first saw the blaze and noticed a man in the attic pulling down a window blind, the man later leaping over a fence into the Robinson yard adjoining and ran thence by way of Conwell street. Winder gave the alarm, and the firemen and neighbors responded. Ladders were run up, and a stream was played on the blaze which was finally controlled. The damage, mainly due to water, will reach perhaps $1500. Just what plunder the burglar got could not be learned until Mr. and Mrs. Greenbaum, who were notified, returned.

THE MEAT SUPPLY IN THE COUNTRY

Uncle Sam's Experts Tell About It

To the many to whom the presence of the dread hoof and mouth disease has brought a horror of eating meat, the word of the specialists at Washington is received with a sigh of relief. Their statement follows:

According to the specialists of the Department of Agriculture, people even in states quarantined for the foot and mouth disease need have no fear of eating meat, provided they cook it thoroughly. The foot and mouth disease is not easily communicated to human beings through food, although milk from a diseased cow might transmit the disease to a human being. In the case of milk, however, pasteurization will render it entirely safe.

Human beings who do get the disease commonly get it from direct contact with a sick animal. It is wisest, therefore, for people to keep away from all animals having the disease, unless they are properly provided with rubber gloves, coats and boots, and these are thoroughly disinfected after each visit to the animals.

In the case of meat, as in the case of milk, it must be remembered that all herds which actually show the disease are quarantined, and neither milk nor meat from the sick animals can be sold. Sixty per cent of the meat used in this country is produced in the nearly 900 Federally inspected slaughtering and packing establishments located in 240 cities. In these establishments no animal is slaughtered until it has passed an ante-mortem inspection and also a most rigid post-mortem inspection by a veterinarian at time of slaughter. After slaughter its meat cannot leave the establishment until it has been carefully examined and stamped "U. S. Inspected and Passed."

In all these establishments no animal showing any symptoms whatever of foot and mouth disease is allowed to go to slaughter, and no meat which on post-mortem inspection, shows any suspicious symptoms of this complaint can be shipped out of the establishment. All meat suspected of coming from an animal suffering with this complaint is sent, under government seal, to the tanks to be rendered into fertilizer. The federal inspection stamp on meat, there means that it is entirely safe.

The federal government, however, has no jurisdiction over local slaughterhouses which do not ship meat outside of the state in which it is slaughtered. If, however, meat from one of these local slaughterhouses, which are purely under state or municipal control, all danger of its communicating the disease to human beings would be removed when it is thoroughly cooked and sterilized. Those who are located near an infected region and wish to be absolutely certain of the safety of their meat should cook it thoroughly.

The disease when contracted by adults is not at all a serious illness. It commonly takes the form of slight fever sores in the mouth and a slight eruption on the fingers. In the case of children it may take a more serious form, especially if complicated by other illnesses.

WHAT THE CHURCH OWES TO THE PRESS

Rev. R. L. Jackson Refers To Assistance Of Newspapers

The Church and the Press was the subject of a sermon preached Sunday night by Rev. R. L. Jackson, pastor of Hanover Presbyterian Church. He took his text from Acts XI: 22: "Then tidings of these things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jerusalem." Among other things Mr. Jackson said:

"Could we turn to the files of the Jerusalem Gazette for the middle of the first century we should find no end of thrilling stories. Every issue would contain something startling concerning the new religion of Christianity and its converts. Whole columns would be devoted to the activities of the apostles. Brief biographical sketches accompanied by their photographs would be among the features of the page devoted to religious news. Perchance we should come upon a special edition of the above journal issued to herald the conversion of Saul and Tarsus. Saul's conversion would make a staggering scoop for any newspaper and warrant it in getting out a special number. There was enough doing in Jerusalem and all the regions round about to furnish most irresistible copy.

Unfortunately, the Jerusalem Gazette never existed, and we are compelled to fall back upon such brief records as constitute the Book of Acts. They may have satisfied the men of their time, but to us, on account of their extreme brevity, they are most exasperatingly unsatisfying. The modern metropolitan daily, with its wealth of details, its column after column of exciting happenings luxuriantly reported; its photographic illustrations which leave nothing to the imagination, has spoiled us. We want all our narratives after its vivid and voluminous style.

The newspaper of today is a great overshadowing institution. There is nothing like it. Nothing is in its class. No institution enjoys its vogue; none yields its influence. Its spell is upon everybody. For the modern man to be without his newspaper in the morning is to be in positive pain. A peculiar indescribable goodness goes with the privation. To have something happen and not know it, what is more irritating?

has just as greedy a circle of readers as his confrere. These representatives of the church sometimes are pettishly peeved when their unconscious efforts to swamp the paper with their contributions of news and sermons are firmly resisted by the religious editor. Instead of thanking him for what he is able to do for them, they berate him for what he is unable to do, and publish abroad the enmity of the secular press to religion.

Now, given a clean, honest newspaper, that gives the church and its affairs the attention they deserve; given a newspaper that stands for clean politics, humane business, decent living and the church should give it a lift every chance it gets.

First of all, it should urge the members to subscribe for it. Church members who take yellow papers which are not fit for yellow dogs and who fail to take papers that present all that is sweet and good in life, ought to be disciplined. In all seriousness, we are miserable sinners if we do not take the best papers.

Once more, church members should advertise in only the clean, wholesome sheets, and not in those that need a bit of chloride of lime to make them tolerable. Alas! how many good papers go to the wall because they lack the support of the people who should patronize their advertising columns. And finally, the good people of the church, including the clergy, should support the editors in every stand which they take for righteousness. How many preachers ever wrote a note to the editor when he writes a strong, noble editorial? I don't mean a note for publication but just a nice little personal letter of commendation for private perusal. And how many ever help the reporters to what they legitimately desire? We like the word of commendation from the editor; we are happy to have the reporter publish our doings after he has finally wormed them out of us; but are we eager to make their work easy and attractive?

Never in the history of the newspaper has so much space been gratuitously given to the church, to enable it to do its work. Never was the newspaper so friendly and helpful as today. Let us wake up to this fact, and let us lay ourselves out to help the makers of our daily and weekly press realize their ideal of a newspaper, for an ideal they have, and we shall find on inquiry that this ideal includes the production of something that shall add not only to the interest and zest of life, but also to its real worth.

Polly Of The Circus

Miss Elsie St. Leon, in the original Frederic Thompson's "Polly of the Circus," which will be the attraction at the Playhouse, Wilmington, on Nov. 26th, 27th and 28th, with a special matinee on Thanksgiving Day and Saturday, has a wonderful play with a wonderful record. A circus story wherein strongly contrasting characters meet, mingle and make a tale of absorbing human interest. It will be presented in Wilmington, with all its vast and elaborate scenic equipment and the wonderful circus features that won it fame and success in its original production.

Charming, fascinating, petite Polly, the "Circus Riding Girl," is born of a generation of circus folk and when her mother, the greatest rider of her day, dies a victim of her own ambition, Polly is left alone. But she is not without friends, for "Big Jim," the boss canvasman with a great big heart as generous as the breadth of his shoulders, and "Uncle Toby's" pathetic devotion to their ward, is one of the most charming touches of the story with its atmosphere of sawdust and tinsel. Her mother's spirit lives in her and she becomes her worthy successor as a star of the sawdust ring. The reckless abandon of her riding brings her to grief. She falls from the back of her horse and is carried unconscious to the parsonage nearby, and there is set the combination of Mandy, the motherly old colored housekeeper; the manly susceptible young parson, John Doughlass; the fascinating little convalescent; the well-meaning but narrow church folks and "Polly's" parents, who want her back with the circus—all pulling wires that makes "Polly of the Circus" an appealing story from beginning to end.

In reviewing "Polly of the Circus," the New York Herald said: "This is a gripping story of the sawdust ring that brings us fond recollections." The World said: "It has originality; every boy and girl up to seventy years old should see it."

The company now presenting this fascinating character comedy is the only one in this country.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL

ment. They are as a whole a noble group of young men, revealing uniformly capacity for growth, studious habits and aspiration. I have never dealt with a more responsive student body. Not a single act nor word has marred the order and fellowship in the life of the college. In general they are a hard working body of men. Some of them are struggling bravely to make their way through college, and a few instances of heroism could be cited that would move the hearts of the people of the state, could they know intimately the facts.

"With a view to aiding these men, a committee on student self-help has been organized, consisting of Professor H. E. Tiffany, representing the faculty; H. L. Bonham, representing business men, and Joseph Weaver, representing the student body. This committee will organize a bureau of student employment, seeking to find profitable places for men while they are pursuing their studies in college.

"The committee on extension lectures consisting of Dr. E. V. Vaughn, chairman; Dr. R. C. Reed and Professor C. A. Short, are doing a valuable work throughout the State in furnishing the various communities with lectures and addresses by the different members of the faculty. The publicity committee, consisting of Professors G. E. Dutton, H. S. Sager and R. R. Pailthorpe have kept the press of this state supplied with a budget of information as to the affairs of the college. Dr. E. V. Vaughn represented the college at the conference of mayors in Philadelphia on November 12 and 13, and Professor Hayward and Dean Robinson represented the college in Washington during the week of the annual sessions of the Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges of the United States.

"The Summer School has been of untold benefit to the public schools of Delaware, as well as indirectly to the college. In the summer of 1913 there were present 169 teachers, and in the past summer 190 teachers. As you know, the legislative appropriation of $1,200 for the Summer School is continuing or annual. This assures the continuance of the Summer School.

"The college is owned, controlled and supported by the state. It is buttressed by federal funds that have grown within 44 years from less than $5,000 to $85,000, with an assured appropriation under the Smith-Lever act, within the next seven years, of $93,749 all told. This does not take account of the farm sales amounting to about $11,000 a year. In addition to the income from the state and nation, the alumni and friends of education have of late strengthened the college by such gifts as the 'Joe Frazer Athletic Field,' the various contributions to the Woman's College and the alumni endowment.

"The college began with a small plot of ground in the center of Newark. Besides small additions to this additional plot, its real estate today embraces a farm of 214 acres, and the campus of the Women's College of 19 acres, making all told 250 acres.

"It is not area, nor population, nor wealth that constitutes the claims of a state, but rather ideas, initiative, and the spirit of social service. In all these respects Delaware occupies a rare vantage ground. Through a college dominated by the ideals of simplicity, sincerity, and thoroughness, the people of this state have a chance to enrich the life of the whole nation and to impart an inspiring impulse to the moral purposes of America. Such a task challenges the thought, strength, and devotion of all the people of this historic state.

"Very respectfully yours,
S. C. Mitchell,
President."

REPORT OF

The report of Winifred J. Robinson, as dean of the Women's College of Delaware, follows:

"I cannot express too great appreciation of the way in which my colleagues have responded to the work necessitated by the organization of the Women's College. Both the men and women have shown the most cordial spirit of co-operation as to the educational work of the college, and the women of the dormitory have taken up the organization of the non-academic activities with wisdom, tact, and enthusiasm.

The college was opened on September 15, 1914, with an enrollment of 31 students in the dormitory, 14 day students, and 10 special students in home economics, making an entire enrollment of 55. Later, two regular students and one special student were allowed to enter and the entire enrollment is now 58.

Science Hall was not completed until October 9, but every class convened on schedule time, the assembly room, the halls, and parlors of Residence Hall being used for the work. The laboratory work was necessarily delayed until the equipment could be put in order. To make up for this loss of time Professor Caudell has arranged for additional laboratory hours on Saturday mornings until Thanksgiving and after that Miss Mosserop will assign an additional period on Saturday morning until the dormitory chemistry laboratory work has been completed.

The report of the standings of students made by the faculty of November 1 shows that while many of the students are handicapped by poor preparation they are earnestly trying to meet the demands made upon them. It is gratifying to note that the professor of mathematics has found that the young women have higher standings than those of the freshmen at Delaware College.

In organizing the work and social life of the women's dormitory, the women on the faculty have had in mind the creation of a society in which students should be trained in taking individual responsibilities. Students who wish to do so are assigned the work of caring for the parlors and reading room, and serving in the dining room, etc., for which they are paid ten cents per hour, the directions for this work being given by Professor Caudell. Each student is required to care for her own room. As to social affairs, a few simple rules have been made.

In looking after the health of the students I wish to express appreciation of Dr. Kolloek's gift of his services and those of Dr. Robin of Wilmington, in making the necessary physical tests to determine the kind of athletics that should be permitted for each student. Each student, whose parents were willing, was asked to take the inoculation of serum to prevent typhoid fever. The infirmary is well equipped, but we have had no use for it as yet.

In general I can say that I feel very gratified that we should have a body of faculty and students who are so willing to work as the members of our present college community are.

Respectfully submitted,
Winifred J. Robinson, Dean.

Suffrage Work In Delaware

Delaware is to be the scene of a whirlwind campaign in behalf of woman suffrage during the next two years. This state has the unusual distinction of being the only one in which an amendment to the state constitution, if carried by a two-thirds vote of two successive legislatures, becomes law without reference to the vote of the people.

A Cry For Help

The undersigned have been appointed by the Governor of Delaware a Committee to lay before the people of the State the most distressing cry that ever came from the lips of a whole people—"FOR GOD'S SAKE SEND US FOOD."

Help Starving Belgian

It impossible to picture in all its terrible reality a situation which has never before confronted the civilized world. The whole of Belgium has, within a few short weeks, been devastated by the Demon of War and their seven or eight millions of people have had literally swept away from them their homes, their fields, their very country itself and innocent of any fault, find themselves starving on the blood-stained soil of what was once their country. The rich and powerful countries that surround them are locked fast in a deadly struggle, whose magnitude staggers the imagination. It is from the great heart of the American people, then, whose homes are untouched by the ravages of war, that help must come. Our civilization and common humanity forbid us to turn a deaf ear to such a cry. We must not stop to count the cost of responding to such an appeal. The crisis is unprecedented and exceptional and our efforts to meet it must also be exceptional.

Save a Belgian Child From Starvation

We appeal to the manhood and womanhood of Delaware to be true to the traditions of our Christian civilization, and to share our abundance with those unhappy and innocent people. "We give twice by giving quickly." Reflect that, if you individually help, some Belgian child or woman will be saved from starvation.

What is wanted quickly is, not clothes, but food.
