Stiff said all eligible officers from that sergeant up, who are at least 35, may take the test for deputy chief, with guaranteed succession to chief when Haussler retires.

Police personnel have until Oct. 15 to state whether they wish to take the test.

Eligibility will be based on a written test, 30 per cent; a psychological test, 10 per cent; seniority and experience, 10 per cent; a physical test, five per cent; character investigation, 10 per cent; personal interview, 10 per cent; and education or training, 20 per cent.

Council William M. Coverdale

back at the council table after missing two sessions while on vacation, urged removal of Section 501 in its entirety.

"I cannot remain mute on this subject when I see a proposal to eliminate only a portion of what is actually a highly controversial section in our zoning laws," Coverdale declared.

"Since the court has ruled that objectors have no legal status under 501-d then we should not have the rest of this section granting this power to permit multiple dwellings. . . . Zoning is a non-delegable duty of the council. I feel this section is vulnerable to further attack along these lines and that it should be eliminated in its entirety."

Councilman John H. Fassnacht, also returning after a pair of successive absences, pointed out that adequate provision for this case was "just what the proposed revised zoning ordinance intends," and urged its prompt adoption as "most important."

Proposed ordinances increasing from $1,600 to $5,000 the limit for city manager authority to contract for purchases, transfers or sales without soliciting bids and council approval, and deleting the three-council vote of council required for over-ruling the Newark Planning Commission on zoning, were approved at preliminary readings.

"Down-Grading"
Fassnacht objected to the latter as "down-grading the planning commission when it needs up-grading."

England replied that this was "hardly a correct statement of affairs." He said that the proposed ordinance was intended to permit council to "simply over-ride the planning commission vote by the same simple majority vote."

Mayor Norma B. Handloff pointed out that the "planning commission is not an elective body" and Councilman Olan R. Thomas added that a recent 3-2 vote by the commission disapproving a proposed U.S. Post Office site on the Dameron tract "would take six council votes to over-ride."

At City Councilman P. Mayer's proposal, council agreed to delay extension of Hillside Road pending Barksdale bridge and road improvements, and to provide a cul-de-sac instead of extension to Old Oak Road.

Continued construction of a building to house municipal offices at 414 Capitol Trail is to be halted pending report from the planning consultant.

No Spot Zoning
Councilman Thomas said that "complete zoning, not spot zoning is the feeling of area residents" and added that zoning should be "either commercial or remain as it is." Thomas urged that the building be razed "for too great a variance from original specifications," but agreed to halt construction pending report.

Council agreed to sell water to Town Court II Apartments just beyond the city limits, and approved negotiation for annexation of the property, and for provision of other city services.

Executives Are Country's Unhappiest Workers, Expert Says

"The American executive is the 'Forgotten Man' in this country," according to an expert who has spent most of his adult life helping executives solve their career problems.

"Although most people think the high-priced executive is sitting on top of the world, the truth is that executives are the most emotionally exploited, confused and unrepresented group of workers in our society," says Fred Chusid, Board Chairman of Frederick Chusid & Company, the nation's largest executive career counseling firm.

"Few people realize," he adds, "that nine out of ten executives in any city in the country would pack their attaché cases and leave their jobs today if another opportunity should present itself."

U.S. Census figures show that the average executive changes jobs every five years or moves to eight different companies in the course of a 40-year career.

While a blue collar worker can take his complaints to his union representatives, the executive has no one to turn to. He's usually afraid to talk to his boss, and if he tips his hand to men on his own level, he finds they have similar problems and what's more, they might maneuver to take his job away from him, Chusid said.

"Because success or failure in the executive world often depends on factors beyond the control of the individual, such as a company being merged into another organization, or a management change, executives often develop strong doubts about their abilities, progress and goals. These anxieties can result in serious personality problems which affect his personal as well as his business life.

Chusid's company does not find jobs for executives. Rather it offers what he considers a more important service. "We attempt to get the executive to understand himself, that is, to realize just what his strengths and objectives are in respect to his career," said Chusid. "Once his problems are clarified, he is counseled on how to get out of a stalemate situation, and if appropriate, he is coached on how to investigate or test the market for his abilities."

The Chusid company, founded in 1957, has headquarters in Chicago and maintains 10 full service offices in cities from coast to coast. In addition there are 9 branch offices throughout the country.

According to Chusid, as the complexity of the business world increases, the need for professional career counselors will become even greater. Getting a new job is usually not the answer by itself, he stressed. "What the executive really needs is professional advice on career decisions from people who understand his motivations and how they relate to the realities of the business world."

ALL ABOUT BABY

BY PEGGY FORD
 DIRECTOR OF INFANT INSTITUTE, D.O.I.A.

JEOPERS, CREEPERS

Maybe they don't make headlines or front pages, but babies at the crawling stages also explore space.

It might be less expansive portions of space than astronauts try to cope with, but to a "creeper" the kitchen or living room is also a universe and one that takes a little knowing.

Creeper clothing, therefore, must be flexible rather than confining so the little one can muscle in on his world and learn about objects in space as well as distances from one object to the next.

Cotton diapers, for instance, that softly serve as "rain checks," are made with diamond patterns consistently woven into the material which allow for stretchability. Parents who have to pin them appreciate this "give" aspect to diapers easily put on and removed without fighting the pins.

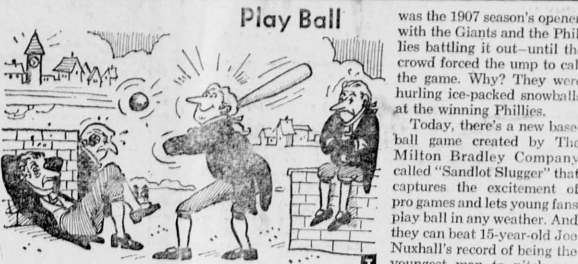

Babies, too, cotton up to cotton diapers because they feel good. They're cuddly yet cool, permitting circulation of air that holds enough but not too much body heat, and don't rattle. Cotton is silent and soft. Not synthetic.

From knowledge gained by the Diaper Service Industry Association, we learn how economical cotton diapers are. Their uses extend beyond the initial one. Cotton diapers also make excellent cloths for bathing baby, burping baby, wiping up spills and when baby is finally trained, diapers are dandy cloths for dust rags, washing and polishing furniture.

That's a lot of "space" to get out of a baby's space suit made with diamond designs for utilitarian stretch and absorption qualities giving economical comfort to creepers.

Little explorers of a little bit of space.

Play Ball

Strike it out of your mind that baseball originated in Cooperstown, New York. Abner Doubleday was a hero in the Civil War battle of Gettysburg—but he was not.

Now, take your turn at bat and see how many of these famous ballgame facts you can recall.

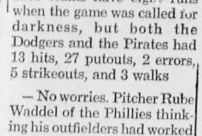

—All tied up. Not only did both teams have eight runs when the game was called for darkness, but both the Dodgers and the Pirates had 13 hits, 27 putouts, 2 errors, 5 strikeouts, and 3 walks.

—No worries. Pitcher Rube Waddell of the Phillies thinking his outfielders had worked too hard, brought them to the mound in the last inning of a six game series. Then he made them sit down, while he calmly struck out the last three batters!

—The show goes on. Though Lou Gehrig was hit in the head three times, had 10 fingers broken, a chipped elbow, and several attacks of lumbago, he never once missed a game!

—Called on account of?!

Now, try to top the Dodger-Boston record game of 26 innings. Be careful though, that another Ty Cobb won't organize a strike. He did it once—May 18, 1912—and the pre-game fielded Detroit nine took an historic drub!

Just set the game's ball on the batting tee, and aim your miniature batter, Slugger Sam.

If fielders miss his hit, consult the wheel and see how many bases you've earned. If the ball is caught you're out. Any number of persons can play, from age 5 to 14.

ARTHUR E. TOMHAVE

Pioneer poultry research scientist, an educator beloved by University of Delaware agriculture students over a long 40-year span; soldier, civic leader, husband and father, Arthur E. Tomhave had a fine, full, good life during which he bettered a way of living for the many, many he met along the way, and provided benefits for those of generations to come.

Chairman of the University of Delaware department of animal and poultry science, his pioneer research was instrumental in development of the thriving Delmarva poultry industry, and as a result of his efforts, economical eggs and cheap chicken dinners have replaced luxury cartons and rare, special Sunday fare.

A veteran of World War I, Arthur Tomhave returned to school to graduate in 1921 from Penn State, joined the Delaware faculty that same year, and continued his own education while teaching others, to earn a master's degree from Delaware two years later.

A leader in the American Legion, he served as perennial treasurer for the Newark Area Welfare Committee, an exacting, thankless task without monetary compensation, in providing relief, emergency aid for those in dire need.

We had the pleasure of meeting Arthur Tomhave as one of the very first of the many fine people with whom we became acquainted when a newcomer to Newark, and later had the privilege of fishing along with "Tommy" on a university faculty trip out of Lewes when the June wind was cold and raw, the trout refused to bite, and Mr. Tomhave was one of the most rugged members of a crew that included hardy Harry Rawstrom shivering along with an editor in the lee of the diesel exhaust pipe astern.

An associate pioneer in poultry research, Carroll W. Mumford was bowling with Arthur Tomhave as a member of the Senior Citizens group, when Mr. Mumford noticed his friend slumped in a chair on the bowling line. And appropriately enough, it was Carroll Mumford — an AEF veteran, too — who summoned ambulance aid for his old friend.

But Mr. Tomhave never recovered.

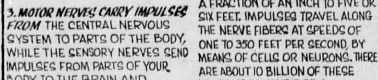

YOUR AMAZING NERVES!

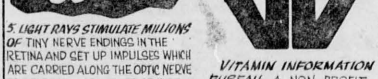

1. YOUR NERVES NOT ONLY ENABLE YOU TO SEE, HEAR, SMELL, TASTE, MOVE YOUR LIMBS AND PERFORM MANY OTHER FUNCTIONS, THEY EVEN HELP KEEP YOU ALIVE. FOR EXAMPLE, THEY DETERMINE HOW FAST YOUR HEART BEATS, HOW WELL YOU CAN SEE.

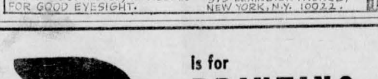

2. YOUR BRAIN AND SPINAL CORD MAKE UP THE CENTRAL NERVOUS SYSTEM, FROM WHICH EXTENDS THE PERIPHERAL NERVOUS SYSTEM, MADE UP OF MOTOR NERVES AND SENSORY NERVES.

3. YOUR NERVES ARE BUNDLES OF SEPARATE MICROSCOPIC FIBERS, LIKE CABLES, WITH LENGTHS RANGING FROM A FRACTION OF AN INCH TO FIVE OR SIX FEET. IMPULSES TRAVEL ALONG THE NERVE FIBERS AT SPEEDS OF ONE TO 300 FEET PER SECOND, BY MEANS OF CELLS OR NEURONS, THESE ARE ABOUT 10 BILLION OF THESE NEURONS IN YOUR BODY.

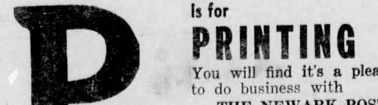

4. YOUR NERVES CARRY IMPULSES FROM THE CENTRAL NERVOUS SYSTEM TO PARTS OF THE BODY. WHILE THE SENSORY NERVES SEND IMPULSES FROM PARTS OF YOUR BODY TO THE BRAIN AND SPINAL CORD.

5. LIGHT RAYS STIMULATE MILLIONS OF TINY NERVE ENDS IN THE RETINA AND GET UP IMPULSES WHICH ARE CARRIED ALONG THE OPTIC NERVE TO THE BRAIN. ABILITY TO ADJUST TO DARKNESS OR DIM LIGHT IS ONE EXAMPLE OF HOW NUTRITION AFFECTS VISION. VITAMIN A (FOUND IN LIVER, CHEESE, CARROTS AND LEAFY GREEN VEGETABLES) IS NEEDED FOR GOOD EYESIGHT.

City Council

Coverdale pointed out that sale of city water beyond municipal limits was profitable at the 25 per cent increased rate and cautioned against using "threat of annexation."

With State Highway Department rejection of the city's recent request for a traffic light at the intersection of New London Road and Country Club Drive, council plans to adopt a resolution requesting the State Highway Commission to act favorably for such a traffic signal.

Realty Solicitors
Jay H. Conner of Wilmington, and Peter Warren Green of Newark are considered for employment as deputy city solicitors for Newark at a rate of $25 per hour, and after conferring with Conner, England is to talk with Green.

England said repair of sidewalks in George Read Village is city responsibility, and persons concerned are to be notified.

Coverdale pointed out that sidewalks, lawns and driveways on Tyre Avenue had been "hacked up" with recent installation of a gas main, and damage is to be ascertained for restitution.

Councilman Coverdale stressed urgent need for storm sewer improvements in the Delaware-South College avenue areas, which City Manager Edward R. Stiff said were underway: a "softening" of the weed control ordinance, which England said was being changed; and concerning query as to improved police recruitment procedure, was informed by Stiff that a report was to be presented this month.

Mayer requested report on the city water service contract, and to his question as to why the Du Pont Haskell and Stine laboratories on Elkton Road were not being sold city water, Stiff replied "they were 'probably there before we were.' England added that "you have the privilege of selling them water, but they must request it."

Fassnacht asked for a report on building permits if required for "small, do-it-yourself" jobs, and Councilman William E. Frame, Jr., urged the need for "uniform sidewalk requirements."

In discussion of the proposed Paper Mill Terrace subdivision for 310 housing units on a 21.03-acre tract, Fassnacht objected to his lack of "free choice on how to vote" — that he was "being told by the courts" that he couldn't disapprove the proposal.

Coverdale said that although approved by the planning commission, the project "does not meet the comprehensive development plan" prepared at a $40,000 cost to the taxpayers, a plan which "designates this area as low density."

Thomas objected to the project as having access only by a "bad turn on Paper Mill Road."

William Lynch, attorney for Albert H. Martia, developer, said that all zoning and other legal requirements had been met, and urged council to act favorably with approval of the project.

It was announced that a petition protesting the project, by four property owners in the area, had been received that day, and Francis M. Sullivan in the audience replied to Attorney Lynch that the project was protested for its inappropriate location with isolation from Parkland and other facilities, and cited it as being in violation of city charter requirements, with planning commission action termed "illegal."

And the meeting was recessed at this point.

ALL ABOUT BABY
 BY PEGGY FORD
 DIRECTOR OF INFANT INSTITUTE, DOW

JEOPERS, CREEPERS
 Maybe they don't make headlines or front pages, but babies at the creeping stages also explore space.
 It might be less expansive portions of space than astronauts try to cope with, but to a "creeper" the kitchen or living room is also a universe and one that takes a little knowing.

Creeper clothing, therefore, must be flexible rather than confining so the little one can muscle in on his world and learn about objects in space as well as distances from one object to the next.
 Cotton diapers, for instance, that softly serve as "rain checks," are made with diamond patterns consistently woven into the material which allow for stretchability. Parents who have to pin them, appreciate this "give" aspect to diapers easily put on and removed without fighting the pins.

Babies, too, cotton up to cotton diapers because they feel good. They're cuddly yet cool, permitting circulation of air that holds enough heat but not too much body heat, and don't rattle. Cotton is silent and soft. Not synthetic.
 From knowledge gained by the Diaper Service Industry Association, we learn how economical cotton diapers are. Their uses extend beyond the initial one. Cotton diapers also make excellent cloths for bathing baby, burping baby, wiping up spills and when baby is finally trained, diapers are handy cloths for dust rags, washing and polishing furniture.
 That's a lot of "give" to get out of a baby's space suit made with diamond designs for utilitarian stretch and absorption qualities giving economical comfort to creepers—little explorers of a little bit of space.

CHILDREN'S CORNER BY THOMPSON

Play Ball

Strike it out of your mind that baseball originated in Cooperstown, New York. Abner Doubleday was a hero in the Civil War battle of Gettysburg—but he was not.

Now, take your turn at bat and see how many of these famous ballgame facts you can recall.

—All tied up. Not only did both teams have eight runs when the game was called for darkness, but both the Dodgers and the Pirates had 13 hits, 27 putouts, 2 errors, 5 strikeouts, and 3 walks.

—No worries. Pitcher Rube Waddell of the Phillies thinking his outfielders had worked too hard, brought them to the mound in the last inning of a six game series. Then he made them sit down, while he calmly struck out the last three batters!

—The show goes on. Though Lou Gehrig was hit in the head three times, had 10 fingers broken, a chipped elbow, and several attacks of lumbago, he never once missed a game!

—Called on account of?!

ball. Just set the game's ball on the batting tee, and aim your miniature batter, Slugger Sam.

If fielders miss his hit, consult the wheel and see how many bases you've earned. If the ball is caught you're out. Any number of persons can play, from age 5 to 14.

Now try to top the Dodger-Boston record game of 26 innings. Be careful though, that another Ty Cobb won't organize a strike. He did it once—May 18, 1912—and the pre-game fielded Detroit nine took an historic drub!

LEAVE THE COUNTRY.

Of all the ways America can grow, one way is by learning from others.

There are things you can learn in the Peace Corps you can't learn anywhere else.

You could start an irrigation program. And find that crabgrass and front lawns look a little ridiculous. When there isn't enough wheat to go around in Nepal.

You could be the outsider who helps bring a Jamaican fishing village to life, for the first time in three hundred years. And you could wonder if your country has outsiders enough. In Watts. In Detroit. In Appalachia. On its Indian reservations.

Last year, for the first time, Peace Corps alumni outnumbered Volunteers who are now out at work overseas.

By 1980, 200,000 Peace Corps alumni will be living their lives in every part of America.

There are those who think you can't change the world in the Peace Corps.

On the other hand, maybe it's not just what you do in the Peace Corps that counts.

But what you do when you get back.

The Peace Corps, Washington, D.C. 20525.

Frank Boys Offers Help In Soybean Bug Menace

Hopes for a near-record soybean crop in Delaware this fall could be dimmed by two factors — weather and insects. And while farmers can't do much about the weather, Frank Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware believes they should be on the alert for insect damage.

Boys, who spot-checks soybean fields throughout the state weekly, warns that a number of different insects could cause trouble between now and harvest. Bugs that defoliate or feed on pods could cut yields drastically in the next few weeks, according to the entomologist.

Boys says farmers should continue to make routine field examinations during the next month.

Entomologists at the University of Delaware and county extension agents can provide helpful information to farmers in recognizing various insect problems in soybeans and can recommend control treatments.

Yale, Princeton Alumni To Meet In Benefit Polo

Yale and Princeton alumni polo teams will meet in the 12th annual scholarship fund benefit match this Sunday at 3 p.m. at Brandywine Polo Club, Toughkenamon, Pa.

The field will open at noon for picnics and will be followed by baseball and tug-of-war.

Princeton alumni will line up with Jack van Urk, Bill Prickett, Bob Connors and Cass Ledyard.

Yale alumni will counter with Richie Jones, George Weymouth, John Cheshire and Mike Poutlatine.

Mrs. Wesley Barrows First In Ladies Day Play

Mrs. Wesley Barrows won the most net pars Ladies Day golf event at the Newark Country Club last Tuesday.

Mrs. William Jones and Mrs. Bruce Ward took second and third place honors.

The calling of many doves in the late summer stillness, casually observed that there must be some great dove shooting in the area.

And Father Watson responded with a definite chill in the air that "we don't shoot doves here. The dove is a bird of peace." That ended any further conversation concerning dove hunting.

Dick Pleasanton, commercial sportsfishing skipper of the Young Lady, called Gibby Young last Thursday night to report that a 315-lb. blue marlin had been caught that day from Mr. Young's Ray Davis-built cruiser out of Ocean City, Md., the White Marlin Capital of the World.

The capture of a blue marlin is a real feat anywhere, with Hatteras priding itself as the blue marlin capital. Off the Delaware-Maryland coast, the big blue is a prized prize, indeed.

"Dick said he had some good news for me," Gibby related, pleasure mixed with some chagrin after he has unsuccessfully, personally pursued blue marlin from Bimini to Hatteras to Ocean City.

"I just wish I had been aboard when that big rascal was caught," Mr. Young said.

Don Jones, Billy Richards, Bob Truitt and the Billy from home returned to Newark last week after a perfect trip as guests of the Daniel Brothers — Clark, Cushing and Raleigh — on the Island of Bimini where the companionship, water, weather, fish and tropical paradise combined for an unforgettable pleasant once-in-a-lifetime adventure.

Bonefishing with World Champ Bonefish Willie as host over the 200-mi. expanse of white, shallow water flats; barracuda, big horse eel, jacks, snappers, groupers, and smashing tackle in the phosphorescent Caribbean under a full moon; grouper, snapper, an infinite variety of small tropical fish, ocean crayfish or clawless lobsters, and a gray-green moray eel with "a head as big as a dog" — a big dog's head, that is — were among features of the Bimini adventure.

Delaware's spear-fishing champion, accustomed to the murk of the Atlantic around the Lewes rocks, gloried in the classic Caribbean clarity of white, blue and green, and Billy Waggaman may well take a dim view of things when he next dives off Lewes.

"Billy Richards cast four new bucktails at one barracuda," the Billy from home related, "and the barracuda bit 'em off, one by one."

Big jacks by moonlight provided some tense moments, with Spike Daniel hurling his spinning rod and reel onto the beach in utter exasperation after a near two-hour battle when a jack finally snapped the line.

The four boys occupying the Daniel guest cottage, were regular guests of lovely Lee Daniel and her 15-year-old brother Spike at delightful dinners served by a B-lows.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day A $200,000 Mix-up

Some came expecting to see an impromptu rodeo, but the majority of the throng that gathered in the paddock in front of one of the Yankee-Tipton yearling barns at Saratoga 23 years ago were sincerely interested in the demonstration the Thoroughbred Racing Franchise Bureau was making that morning.

First of a half-dozen "volunteers" was Alfred G. Vanderbilt's $15,000 filly named Hill Poppy was in fact a $200,000 broodmare named Francine M. Months before, in shipment from California, a dark bay wearing Francine M's halter had been delivered to Spendthrift Farm in Lexington while the real Francine M. continued on to a farm in North Carolina, and was put in training as Hill Poppy. The story did not have a happy ending for all concerned. Francine M's owners, Frank McMahon and breeder, Leslie Combs, were elated to get their mare back, but Hill Poppy's owners were left with an empty stall. The filly Hill Poppy had died on Derby Day at Spendthrift Farm.

Yellowjacket Star Gerry McCormick Tackle At Miami

Former Yellowjacket star Gary McCormick of Newark is bidding for varsity football action in his sophomore campaign at the University of Miami.

McCormick had an excellent freshman campaign at Miami and followed this up with impressive work in spring sessions.

He is one of the left tackle candidates on offense and at 232 pounds is the biggest of the group.

The Hurricanes probably will open with a 224-pound senior as the starter but all indications are that McCormick will begin to see varsity action early and often.

Miami fell to a 5-5 campaign a year ago, largely because the interior offensive line was too small.

Miami opens its season Sept. 26 against Florida State University in the Orange Bowl.

Manly Steeplechase Scheduled Saturday As Feature In Fair Hill Weekend Finale

Pari-mutuel thoroughbred racing at the famous Fair Hill race course near Newark this Saturday, the second and final day of the 1969 meeting will feature the $5,000-added Manly Steeplechase Handicap, ever 14 jumps at a distance of "about" two miles.

The first race is scheduled for 2 p.m. and all proceeds from the two-weekend meeting, the 30th in Fair Hill's history, will be donated to Union Hospital of nearby Elkton by the sponsoring Cecil County Breeders' Fair, Inc.

Racing Secretary John E. Cooper, after inundation by 118 entries for last Saturday's opening card, anticipates a similar response from horsemen for the second day's sport.

He also expects several of the steeplechasers entered in last weekend's $4,500-added Fair Hill Steeplechase to return for the historic Manly which will be having its 48th renewal.

In addition to the Manly, the Fair Hill program will offer two

New Place-Kicker For Jeff Lippincott Problem For Raymond's Blue Hen Champs

One of the main problems facing the Delaware football team as it prepares for its Sept. 20 opener with Gettysburg is the lack of a consistent place-kicker.

"We really haven't found a man who is consistent in extra points and field goal kicking," says Coach Tubby Raymond. "We have had several volunteers, but so far we haven't found the man."

Top candidates for the kickoff, PAT and field goal chores are Junior defensive end Dick Smith, senior defensive end Bruce Hanley and junior offensive tackle Joe Shetler.

If the season started tomorrow, Smith probably would go the kicking. A 190-pounder from Reading, Pa., he hasn't kicked in competition since high school.

Hanley was the Hens' back-up kicker last year and Shetler handled the kicking duties for the freshman team two years ago.

The Blue Hens had one of the top kickers in the East for the last three years in soccer-style specialist Jeff Lippincott.

In his three-year career, Lippincott converted 68 of 77 extra point attempts and hit on 10 of 26 field goal tries for a total of 98 points. His kickoffs usually reached the opponent's end zone.

main house, and after an initial roast of lamb entree, the Delaware women took over to provide lobster, snapper, grouper and other Caribbean seafood for the main course each evening.

Carib conch chowder was acclaimed by the Delaware delegation, along with cold conch salad — at all times.

A native Bahamian diving companion warned a Biv away from the big moray menacing amid the reef grooves: a big blue marlin reminiscent of Papa Hemingway's Old Man of the Sea antagonist was hanging on a Bimini dock. Adam Clayton Powell was much in evidence as a genial islander; and from a great picture window at the Daniel castle, one could look down into the sea directly below where great and small fish cruised, and off to the horizon and Gulf Stream indigo beyond the lime-green shallows there was water, and there was plenty of that — and bonefish, bonefish, bonefish.

There's nothing quite like the white ghost of the Bimini Flats, whose speed with its initial, lightning-like rush through the foot-deep water has to be experienced for belief — and even then is incredible.

Back on the Florida mainland, a better than yard-long snook or robalo taken by a sportsman from Lake Worth, impressed the Delaware adventurers who will long remember the perfect trip to the Islands with particular appreciation for the Daniel hospitality.
