Time for youth center?

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

In response to a less than warm welcome recently in the Newark Shopping Center, a group of teens proceeded across town to the city municipal building Monday night to complain to the city council.

"Where's the sense of community for young people if the city will not allow people to gather openly in a public place?" asked Nathan Gray of Newark, referring to enforcement of no loitering and trespassing rules at the shopping center.

When councilman Thomas Wampler pointed out that the shopping center was private property and the young people had no more rights there than in someone's driveway, Gray brought up another point.

"Whether it's public or private property, there's no place in Newark for young people to hang out," he said. "We want a community center where we're not obliged to purchase wares in order to be there."

Gray said most of the young people who frequent Main Street, including the approximately

Vo-tech district officials dispute claims

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Officials in the New Castle County Vocational-Technical District are crying foul over a series of news articles that presented faculty retreats as fun-filled getaways paid for with tax dollars.

Recent allegations in the News Journal that the district paid the teachers' bar tab and for a DJ at two-and-a-half-day conferences at the Great Oak resort near Chestertown, Md., were distorted, school superintendent Dennis Loftus said.

Loftus admitted the district paid the cost of keeping the bar open late — which amounted to the $20- to $30-salary for keeping a resort staff member on hand.

At no time, the superintendent said, has the district paid for alcoholic beverages at any of its retreats.

Loftus also disputed the Wilmington newspaper's claim that the district paid for a DJ, saying the cost of a karaoke night was paid for out of a teachers' Sunshine Fund.

Teachers contribute to the fund and have the power to spend the money as they see fit, said Loftus.

"Why are we being singled out?" Loftus asked Tuesday during a two-hour interview in his office at Delcastle Vo-Tech. "We just don't understand. ...We are attempting to do the right thing based upon suc-

Here they come! All 15,000+ of them!

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

FOR 3,377 University of Delaware freshmen moving to campus this weekend, it means the beginning of a long, four-year road that will eventually drop them off on the doorstep of a new millennium.

But for now most of them, along with university officials, are just worried about getting to campus as this year's 15,000 undergraduates swell the population and bottlenecks most downtown streets.

"It's the best possible situation this year," said Douglas Tuttle, director of Public Safety. "Because of the holiday, hopefully there won't be a lot of street traffic."

But Tuttle knows from experience how chaotic the situation can get and suggested avoiding the Courtney Street area off Academy and the Rodney and Dickinson complex near Barksdale Road. To ease the parking problem, Tuttle said his department has talked with Newark Police to find a solution.

"We're going to permit short-term parking under our control," said Tuttle, who estimates that an extra 5,000 cars could converge on the town. "We'll give out passes for 30-minute parking and then advise [parents] to park at a nearby lot."

Even before students hit campus, university officials were singing the merits of the incom-

Stolen vehicle arrest

Newark police arrested Richard F. Gentner, 19, of Garnet Street in Newark, after he was stopped near E. Main and S. Chapel streets while driving a 1995 Nissan pickup truck which had been reported stolen from New Castle. Gentner was charged with receiving stolen property, removing the identification plate and certification sticker and numerous traffic violations.

Underage alcohol drinkers charged

Newark police reported a number of arrests for underage alcohol consumption in town this week. On Aug. 23 around 11 p.m. Adam DeHart, 20, of Newark was observed drinking beer from a bottle in the parking lot at Burger King on S. Chapel Street. On Aug. 24 around 1 a.m. James S. Mahoney Jr., 19, was cited for underage consumption at Delaware and S. Chapel streets. On Aug. 25 around 2 a.m. police charged Jedidiah Vonsteinbergs, 19, with underage consumption after he was observed visibly intoxicated on university property near W. Main Street and N. College Avenue.

On Aug. 26, police arrested Vani Gaddanidi, 19, after the manager of Grotto Pizza on Main Street said he observed her taking a drink from a companion's beer at the restaurant. On Aug. 19 around 11:30 p.m. police arrested Jon Olin, 19, after he was seen drinking in the Deer Park Tavern.

Fire set at playground

On Aug. 19 around 4 p.m. a resident observed three unknown white youth setting fire to playground equipment at Downes Elementary School on Casho Mill Road. The neighbor told police the boys appeared to all be about 12-13 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches tall and thin builds, wearing jean shorts and t-shirts. Anyone with information is asked to call police at 366-7111.

Marijuana found

On Aug. 20, county police arrested James Farmer, 23, of Strawberry Run Apartments near Newark, after a month long investigation of suspected drug sales in the area. Police went to an apartment in the complex where they found two pounds of marijuana, $5,000 in suspected drug money, a rifle, and various drug paraphernalia. Farmer was charged with possession with intent to deliver, possession of a firearm during a felony and maintaining a dwelling for the delivery of a controlled substance. Farmer was also charged with endangering the welfare of a child after his two-year-old daughter was found in the apartment.

Workers recently installed some of the brewing equipment in the Iron Hill Brewery nearing completion on Main Street. According to company president Kevin Finn, the tentative opening for Newark's first brew pub is now October.

"We've gotten a little behind - that's not uncommon in these things," said Finn. "We're starting to hire and we'll be brewing test batches of beer after Labor Day." Finn said it takes up to 14 days to brew ale and 21 days for lager. "We'll probably dump the first batch, though," said Finn. "It sometimes takes time to get the brews right when you start."

Pep Boys shops in sting operation

Undercover visits by state investigators to four Pep Boys shops in Delaware, including one in College Square shopping center in Newark, resulted in a Cease and Desist Agreement this week.

According to Delaware Attorney General M. Jane Brady, the state found that the shops either did unauthorized repairs or misrepresented the amount of repair work required in five in eight visits.

Other shops involved in the investigation are: 3207 Kirkwood Highway, Wilmington; 2904 Concord Pike, Wilmington; and 919 North DuPont Highway, Dover.

With the help of a Delaware State Police mechanic, investigators from the state Consumer Protection Unit posed as customers at the shops. The most serious violation occurred at the Kirkwood Highway location where an investigator was told a car needed repairs totaling $735 when in fact the actual problem was related to a spark plug and repairs averaging about $48.

Pep Boys neither admits nor denies the allegations but did pay $11,000 in penalties and $5,826 in costs to settle the matter. Company officials also reported that the employee involved in the alleged work at the Kirkwood site had been fired.

'Con artists' working here

New Castle County police have issued a "scam alert" to residents concerning suspected "con artists" and organized thieves operating in the county.

Between May and August, homes in Tavistock, Valmy, and Weldin Ridge were burglarized. On Aug. 20 a suspicious female was scared away from a home in Westover Hills where she was observed looking into windows and trying doors. She fled in a dark blue sedan driven by another female, police said.

A general description of the suspects are white females, ages ranging from late teens to late 40s, 5 feet 3 inches to 5 feet 8 inches tall, dark or olive complexion, dark hair and may have heavy foreign accents. In some incidents, a white, 4-door Buick was seen in the area.

Police said the suspects typically approach residents and distract them while accomplices enter the home and take small items. Offers of home repairs at "unbelievably low" prices are another method used on victims.

Residents are advised to keep doors and windows secured even when they are working around the house and yard or going to the store. Doors from the garage into the house are particularly vulnerable. Seek several estimates before arranging repair work and check consumer affairs to see if the business is licensed.

after onslaught of UD students

By ROB WHERRY

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Any area business owner or Newark resident is all too familiar with the effects 15,000 students can have on this small community.

Students open bank accounts, buy groceries in supermarkets, shop on Main Street and settle in for a final meal at local restaurants before saying goodbye to their parents.

"This weekend will be rockin' and rollin'," said Larry Stevens, co-manager of the Acme of Elkton Road.

Stevens added that the store stocks up on many essentials in anticipation of the return. "They'll come in this weekend looking for health and beauty aids, shampoo, shaving cream... a lot of bathroom stuff," he said.

Peggy Sokria, an assistant manager at the Happy Harry's on Main Street also sees a large increase in business. "Well, we always have Back-to-School sales," Sokria said. "But we also stock a lot of fans because the dorm rooms can get hot."

And what about the impact on the city's resources?

Besides shopping at local businesses, students also crank up the air conditioning, turn on lights, and use over one million gallons of water.

One of the longstanding rumors in Newark is that in addition to terrible traffic and people parking in every available inch of space when the university reopens in the fall, the sudden surge in demand causes the water pressure to drop in other areas of the city.

"The water pressure doesn't actually drop, but there is a tremendous water demand," said Joe Dombrowski, director of water and waste water for the city. "The peak should come the week of Sept. 9 when everyone is on campus and in classes."

But, added Dombrowski, the situation is not as bleak as last year when a drought was causing tremendous shortages. "We had a nice rain (last Tuesday), the creeks are high and were pumping at normal," he said.

96 UD freshmen are St. Mark's grads

ing freshman class. It's the school's largest since 1988, a significant point because the university offered the same amount of high school seniors admission this year as last year.

"This is a very good sign in the highly competitive market for the best students coming out of the mid-Atlantic and East Coast regions," said Bruce Walker, associate provost for admissions and financial aid.

The class includes 73 valedictorians, 164 students with perfect 4.0 grade point averages, and an average SAT score of 1,131. There's also 20 sets of twins and one set of triplets, with the oldest student being 72 and the youngest turning 16 on the first day of classes.

The Newark area is heavily represented with 96 freshman from St. Marks, 69 from Glasgow, 65 from Newark, and another 62 coming from Christiana.

One of the immediate problems

- Youngest student turns 16 on the first day of classes facing most of these freshman on the first day here will emerge when they all try to fit every possession from home into a small, confining dorm room.

Linda Carey, manager of housing assignment services, said that all freshman receive a summer bulletin telling them what to bring and what to leave at home, but agrees sometimes the advice is ignored.

"I think in most cases it does work," said Carey laughing. She added that like other years, some students will be put into extended housing — makeshift dorm rooms in lounges and basements. Because of the large numbers requesting housing, Carey will have to wait out cancellations, room changes or students who move off campus before finding everyone a permanent home.

Regardless, everyone will survive this weekend and aside from moving in, getting oriented and feeling out the town, once classes start these freshman are expected not only to be the first graduating class of the 21st Century, but also to surpass all those classes who have come before.

"When looking at the important measures of academic success used in the admission process," said Walker. "The Class of 2000 is predicted to out perform every class in recent history."

Roy Rogers plans on hold

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Plans for the old Roy Rogers site on Main Street are on hold while current lessees, developers, and the property owner try to reach an accommodation.

"We hand-delivered a letter to owner Jim Brennan," said Jeffrey

Lang, spokesperson for Commonwealth Management Group, proposed developers of the site. "We offered to meet and talk with him, the mayor, other city representatives or anyone else he liked. He refused through his attorney Bayard Allmond."

Brennan holds the land lease on the site presently leased by Boston Market, which wants to install one of its affiliates, Einstein Bagels, at the site. Commonwealth proposes to demolish the present building and erect a 15,650 square-foot, one-story retail building together with parking for 24 cars, which would include retail space for the bagel store.

Boston Market has agreed to assign their lease to Commonwealth so the development can proceed. However, Brennan has so far refused to give his approval to the plan or even talk to planners about his concerns. "We made a financial offer between $600,000 and $800,000 to Jim Brennan for the property so we could go ahead," said Lang. "I told him to get three appraisers if he thinks that's not a fair price and we'll pay whatever they determine, but he just doesn't want to work with us."

According to Lang, Brennan also has refused to discuss offers by the developers to guarantee payment of possible mechanics liens during building, or to set up funds for deferred maintenance and future lease payments, if Brennan prefers to remain the owner.

Lang said Boston Market has resorted to hiring an attorney to file suit in Chancery Court for a declaratory judgment stating lessees have the right to demolish and rebuild on the site without the owner's permission.

"The lease gives the lessees the right to improve the property and we believe that includes demolishing and rebuilding," said Lang. "We have an option to (take assignment) of the lease from Boston Market, but we won't exercise that until this is settled."

Meanwhile building plans could be delayed up to a year. "Boston Market's hands are tied until this thing is resolved just like everyone else," said Lang. "so we don't have to do anything until they get an answer from the court."

LETTING IT ALL HANG OUT

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

GENERATION after generation of teens have performed this same ritual in pizzerias, pool halls and parking lots in small towns and big cities across America. And in Newark, the ritual lives on. It's called "hanging out."

Besides the Jam 'N & Java coffee shop, the Newark Shopping Center boasts a movie theater and a billiard parlor which are both open late; a bowling alley once frequented by rock star George Thorogood sits to the rear.

With these attractions, the teens naturally view the center's parking lot as an alternative to gathering at the Christiana Mall — a place where they can meet other young people between the ages of 13-25 and just be themselves between roughly 7 p.m. and midnight.

"There's pretty much someone here from every high school," said Laura Kappauf, 16, of Wilmington.

But the young people say the increased presence of police to backup a small security force employed by the shopping center has only intensified the growing tension between them, the merchants, and quite possibly the rest of the "establishment." (Remember that word?)

"If you stand in one place, the cops will tell you...you have a choice," said Jason Hoard, 16, of Bear. "You can either be escorted out of the parking lot or they'll escort you to your car."

"If you're just out there hanging out," his friend Mike Manlove added, "they'll hassle you."

Manlove, 15, of Newark, said the parking lot is perhaps the central hangout in the county, drawing teens from as far south as Middletown and as far north as Aston, Pa.

See HANGING OUT, 14 ▶

Council listens to teenagers

▶ TEENS, from 1

25 who filled seats in council chambers with him, do not cause problems. "But we're not allowed to hang out and the police treat us in an extremely aggressive and unpleasant manner."

City manager Carl Luft said the actions of the police were a response to a request for service by businesses at the shopping center. "This is not a public park. This is private property and we've been asked to help."

However, Mayor Ronald Gardner assured Gray and the others that if they felt they were being treated unfairly, both he and the police chief wanted to know the particulars.

Bruce Diehl, an older resident of Newark, said he agreed with the young people. "I didn't come here to speak on this issue tonight, but they're right," Diehl said. "We don't have anything for them but we have things for senior citizens and other people."

Councilmembers said a youth center was proposed in Newark a number of years ago but organizers could not agree on a location. "We also found that only a few of the young people gathering on Main Street were actually from Newark," said Harold Godwin. "And when we surveyed the kids, they said they did not want to come to a community center because that was too structured."

Godwin said perhaps the time has come to consider the project again. "But if it's going to be a city function we have to face it, it's not going to be cheap to run."

Godwin also commented that the city used to sponsor dances at the fire hall for young people. "That worked well until more and more kids came and there were problems with beer drinking and fights in the parking lot."

Luft said a community coalition put together by Peter Wells (pastor of New Ark United Church of Christ) and the business association had been meeting for several months to discuss Main Street issues. "They'd like to get more communication with young people and this is an opportunity to do that," said Luft. "You're welcome to come and air your concerns."

Wells, reached after the meeting, said the coalition is made up of representatives from the university, local churches and organizations, business people and city officials. "We're interested in celebrating community and encouraging the exciting things happening on Main Street," Wells said. "We want to find some answers and not just talk."

■ The next meeting of the community coalition is 3 p.m. on Sept. 11 at the Newark United Methodist Church on Main Street.

$1 tolls on I-95 this weekend

Beginning at noon today and continuing until 11 p.m. on Monday, tolls at the I-95 toll plaza in Delaware will be reduced to $1 in an effort to speed traffic.

Delaware Department of Transportation officials said heavy traffic on holidays and weekends has traditionally led to some back-ups at the toll plaza while collectors make change for the current $1.25 toll. "Keeping traffic moving on the I-95 corridor is of the utmost concern to us," said DelDOT Secretary Anne Canby.

Lower tolls will be used on a trial basis to gauge if the option actually helps to speed traffic through the plaza.

Variable message boards on I-95 will inform travelers about the lowered tolls and hopefully reduce confusion at the booths.

In addition, if weather permits, motorists can expect to see outside lanes open with roving collectors to accept tolls.

DelDOT officials said this measure has been helpful in the past in easing congestion and frustration for travelers.

Time to step forward

THE CITY OF NEWARK has been taking a lot of heat lately for enforcing rules established in the Newark Shopping Center at the request of business owners. There are two things wrong with that.

First, the city should be commended for doing the job taxpayers expect — providing police services to protect private property. In this case, police increased patrols of the shopping center following incidents of assault, underage drinking, vandalism and trespassing there.

Second, the city of Newark has been asked by some teens to supply a center for them just as it does other age groups.

The problem here is that the "city" is not just the city council and the city manager and the employees in the municipal building on Elkton Road. The "city" is also the residents and taxpayers of Newark who pay for the services provided here.

A youth center might be a good idea but where are the residents who would provide the land, or those whose property would adjoin it? Where are the taxpayers who would provide the money to buy land and build or renovate the building? Where are those whose money would provide heat, lights, water and furnishings? Where are the people who would staff it and clean up after the young people who would go there?

If incidents at the shopping center are any indication of what "might" happen, where is the money to pay police to protect the property and the teens who "hang out" from those who go there for other purposes?

Where are the parents of the teens who go to the shopping center now and apparently expect others to provide space and entertainment for their children?

So far, very few adults have come forward to speak about supporting or working on a youth center project in Newark. City officials and other community leaders together with the Newark Business Association formed a community coalition in May to consider ways to engage young people in activities on Main Street. But they cannot and should not do it alone.

If the people of the city of Newark truly want to deal with the problems caused by large groups of young people "hanging out" on private property, or on public property paid for by taxpayers, the "city" of Newark needs to come forward and be heard.

IT SEEMS a striking coincidence that coming hard on the heels of Hollywood's megabucks science fiction extravaganza, "Independence Day," serious scientists have announced the possible discovery of life on Mars.

The evidence — the potential existence of fossil microscopic organisms in a rock collected on the planet in 1984 — apparently is still being debated and evaluated, but the story has served to perpetuate the fascination mankind has exhibited for centuries in the possibility that life exists elsewhere in the universe.

Mars, the moon and Venus have been considered the most logical locations. Since we already have learned that the moon is devoid of intelligent life, and Venus remains difficult to see because of cloud cover, attention has shifted to Mars which for more than two decades has been the target of probes by NASA investigators.

The book, "The Viking Mission to Mars," published in 1975 by Martin Marietta Corporation, its several subcontractors, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory and NASA, explain the rationale for continued space exploration and its anticipated benefits.

That Earth will be, or already has been, visited by inhabitants of other planets is very much a part of our literature, drama, film and television. Usually such stories have been hair-raising tales of alien invasion and conquest, although the highly successful film, "E. T.," brought a kinder alien form to the screen.

Perhaps the best known tale of Martian intruders was H. G. Wells' "The War of the Worlds," first published a century ago. It featured creatures with vastly superior military power who destroyed much of London before being overcome by diseases caused by germs to which Earth's residents had become immune.

Sir Richard Gregory, reviewing Wells' story in "Nature" in 1898, said, "It is worth remark that scientific romances are not without a value in furthering scientific interests; they attract attention to work that is being done in the realm of natural knowledge, and so create sympathy with the aims and observations of men of science."

Many readers of mature years will recall that "War of the Worlds" provided the basis for a sensational radio dramatization by Orson Welles' Mercury troupe in 1938. Orson Welles transplanted the site of the Martian invasion to northern New Jersey, and so realistic was his production that panic occurred among many listeners and local authorities were deluged with calls for assistance.

A less frightening, but possibly more thought-provoking dramatization was the film, "The Day the Earth Stood Still," which appeared in 1951. Michael Rennie starred as the ambassador sent by spaceship to warn Earth's leaders that their warlike ways were

OUT OF THE ATTIC

Another summer of hot, crowded driving to the beach is coming to an end. However, generations of Delawareans on the way to Rehoboth Beach saw this peaceful view taken from a 1930s postcard. Ruth Lewis Miller of Windy Hills said she is not sure of the exact location depicted, but this stretch of road is definitely long gone now. "Out of the Attic" features photographs from Newark's history, recent and long ago. If you have a historic photo, we'd like to share it with our readers. Special care will be taken so that it can be returned to you after it is printed in this feature. For information, call the Newark Post, weekdays, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., at 737-0724.

■ Aug. 31, 1921 Boy Scouts enjoying life in the open

The Newark Boy Scouts, under the leadership of Assistant Scout Masters Warren and Ramsey, went to Smalleys Dam last Saturday and erected their camp where they will stay until Labor Day. The camp is named Roosevelt and is in an ideal location. It is situated on a peninsula of the mainland, jutting down among the Heinz Islands, so named because there are 57 of them, in the southern part of the lake. It is on good high ground, overlooking the inlet to the lake and is in close proximity to the Delaware Canoe Club Camp and several private camps.

School auxiliary, state board to resume relations

Relations between the School Auxiliary and the State Board of Education will resume, according to reports received; and the School Building Program and other projects for educational advance will be carried out. Following a conference on Monday attended by Dr. Brown of the State Board and Dr. Odell and H.P. Scott of the School Auxiliary, to is understood the differences were adjusted. The School Auxiliary is in session to day. Tomorrow the regular meeting of the State Board will be held at which it is understood that representatives of the School Auxiliary will be present. Official action will probably be taken outlining the policy and relationship between the organizations in the Educational work of the State.

■ Sept. 1, 1971 Thumb down bus idea

Residents of an area of suburban Wilmington recently got an opportunity to make known their views regarding school busing and integration. About 670 answers have been received to date to a one-page questionnaire by Charles A. Rutter of Woodcrest and Mrs. Mario Marini of Westview. The questionnaire is entitled "Busing Children for the Sole Purpose of Promoting Racial Integration in the Schools." In a letter written to Robert H. McBride, president of the State Board of Education, Rutter and Marini wrote, "The questionnaire is intended to serve as a means of informing responsible officials of the sentiments of many Conrad Area School District residents regarding the above subject. The results of the poll speak for themselves. The concept of busing children for the sole purpose of racially integrating schools was overwhelmingly rejected."

Newark teacher to represent U.S.

Mrs. Thelma G. Thompson a teacher in the Newark School District, has been selected as the only teacher from the United States to attend the International Curriculum Conference to be held at the University of Southampton, England, September 8 through 11, 1971. The title of the seminar is "Education - Technology - Industry - Society."

Mrs. Thompson is past president of the Newark Schools Education Association and a member of its executive board and representative council.

■ Aug. 22, 1991 Residents rally for Brookside work to resume

Angered by continuous delays in the renovation of their neighborhood shopping center, resident of Brookside picketed in front of the center for two hours Saturday.

Brookside Shopping Center, located on Marrows Road in Newark, is an eyesore to the local community, picketers said. Its dilapidated appearance and crumbling parking lot, they said, are intolerable — especially after five years of waiting for its restoration.

Rose Yannes, president of Brookside Community Inc. — the neighborhood's maintenance organization and civic association — said the local developer who owns the center has promised Brookside Park residents a complete renovation since 1986.

Bear-Glasgow seniors welcomed

Cornerstone Senior Center in Glasgow is inviting older residents of the area to join their fall programs.

"We currently have about 150 members who come from Bear, Glasgow, Middletown, Newark and even Elkton," said director Victoria Lyons. "We feel there are a lot more people who would come but we've had a hard time letting them know we're here."

The center has operated in the Cornerstone United Methodist Church on Route 896 for six years, but is not affiliated with any religion.

Currently open three days a week for 50 weeks a year, the center offers speakers on a variety of topics, health screenings, clinics for diabetes and blood pressure, first aid classes, disability equipment rentals, lunches, and information and referrals for senior services. A hairdresser comes to the center twice a month as well.

"Health and Social Services workers have told us they like this location for their programs because there's very little between Newark and Middletown otherwise," said Lyons.

Recreational activities include oil painting and water color instruction, ceramics and craft classes, card playing, parties, picnics and monthly trips.

A staff of four run the center with the help of volunteers. "We're in a catch-22 because most state funding is only for full-time centers and we can't afford to be full-time without more funding," said Lyons.

Lyons said the center will start fund-raising in the local community and businesses this fall. "We think we fill a real need here," said Lyons. "We're the only senior center between Christiana and Middletown in this part of the county."

Cornerstone Senior Center is open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Lunch is served at noon. "We have the best home-cooked meals in the state of Delaware," said Lyons.

'Volunteer of Season' named

Newark resident John Farrell has been named "Volunteer of the Season" for his work with youth in the city's department of parks and recreation.

"John has been coaching girls' softball for the past five years," said Mayor Ronald Gardner. "But he does much more than just coaching — there's also planning and a lot of help for the young people themselves."

Gardner added that because this is the first year for a senior girls' league, Farrell has been taking vacation days from his job with New Castle County emergency medical services to work with a new team.

Farrell

Farrell explained that the parks and recreation leagues did not have teams for girls over 14 when his daughter reached that age. "If a young girl wanted to play recreationally, she would have to stop until she reached 18 and could join a local women's league," said Farrell. "The senior girls' league filled that gap."

Newark officials established the annual volunteer award to recognize those individuals and groups who give their time and talents to city programs. A resolution passed by city council notes that volunteers are "an essential element of the efficient and effective operation of the city of Newark."

A Newark resident for 23 years, Farrell also serves as volunteer fire chief for the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company.

Growing better every day

■ Part II of III

American producers, processors and retailers take pride in supplying American consumers with abundant, safe and wholesome food. They also take pride in contributing to economic growth and rural development, preserving the environment and improving technology.

This is part two of a three-part series focusing on American agriculture. The series is based on material supplied by the Agricultural Council of America. Part one dealt with American agriculture and the economy. In part two we'll look at today's farm profile and American consumers.

■ Today's Farm Profile

The U.S. has less than 7 percent of the world's land but produces 13 percent of the world's farm commodities.

Less than five million people live on the farm today, compared to 29.8 million in 1900.

Families or individuals own 87 percent of today's farms, comprising 65 percent of total farm acreage.

Women are involved in the operation of more than 13,000 farms. The average size of today's U.S. farm is 588 acres; in Delaware, 224 acres. The average age of today's farmer is 55 years.

■ AMERICAN CONSUMERS

Americans spent $606 billion for food in 1992, 45 percent of which went to away-from-home meals and snacks.

Americans spend 11.4 percent of their personal income on food, compared with: Japan - 21%; Italy - 26%; Greece - 42%; China - 53%.

In 1993 Americans ate, per capita: 64 pounds of beef, veal and lamb, 50 pounds of pork, 53 pounds of poultry, 17 pounds of fish and shellfish, 19.5 dozen eggs, 264 pounds of fruit and 102 pounds of vegetables.

There are more than 150,000 U.S. supermarkets, offering more than 26,430 different foods.

A family of four eats about 5,000 pounds of food each year.

It's obvious that the American farmer does by far the best job in the world of producing abundant, high-quality, low-cost food.

LOOKING FOR A FIELD OF DREAMS

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

JERRY ORAVITZ has either much to be thankful for, or a huge burden to shoulder.

Oravitz, a 33-year-old Bear resident, directs the non-profit Boys and Girls Club on U.S. 40 for children and young people between six and 20. The $4.2 million youth center opened in 1994 and promptly signed up 4,200 members, the highest total in its brief history.

Since then, the club's membership has dropped off to about 3,000, but that's still enough to jam the center. Oravitz, a former St. Elizabeth and Salisbury (Md.) State College baseball player, has a vision: To develop the roughly three acres behind the club into fields for football, soccer and baseball, and moving some of the sports activities outside.

Where they belong.

He also sees volleyball courts, bleachers and a concession stand located on the vast but uncultivated parcel of open space behind his 34,000-square-foot building.

"This is my dream," Oravitz said. "This could be a great athletic complex...We [also] wish there was more classroom space, but you've got to work with what you got."

As many as 600 kids may be scampering around the main room, the gym and the swimming pool, playing foosball or basketball, floor hockey or kickball, pool or baseball, or just plain chasing after each other.

"The hardest thing is keeping them under control," said David

Alexander, 26, of Newark, a part-time worker at the club. "You tell them we're going to do (all the activities) — but not in one hour. ...Trying to come up with new ideas is very tough. It's a challenge. It's definitely a challenge."

Meanwhile Oravitz and his small staff of five full-time workers press on. Although the children get along well for the most part, there are times when conflict persists.

"I like to...give the kids an alternative to throwing things at each other, kicking, punching, fighting," Alexander said. "They spit, they curse. You name it."

The club presently has a learning center, a computer lab and a teen center as well as a full-time social worker in the Family and Individual Services Program. Year-round activities include after-school and Saturday programs.

Support also comes from the county police substation located of the barriers that exist between the police and the community."

Although conceived to provide activities for children from nearby residential communities, the club now seeks members from the entire U.S. 40 corridor.

For example, the club directors would like to see more children — as well as adults — get involved with the swimming program. "Most people don't know there's even a pool here," said Betsy Czeiner, 26, who heads the Red Cross-accredited program. "We really gear the program to self-esteem and confidence. We make a child's accomplishments in the water sound like a great thing."

Sometimes the greatest obstacle children face in learning to swim are their nervous mothers. "I have to make the mother feel comfortable as well as the child," said Czeiner, who holds a physical education degree from West Virginia Wesleyan.

Instruction is available for infants and toddlers as well as adults Monday through Friday, and Monday through Saturday beginning Oct. 1. Also, the club has a swim team for children 6-15.

Also offered this fall are instruction and classes in aqua-aerobics and water jogging and blocks of time for lap swimming.

The club has scheduled a sports auction in Hockessin on Sept. 9 to raise money for developing a playing field at the center. Further information is available at the center.

Interested citizens are encouraged to attend this meeting and to provide their suggestions on shaping Delaware's future transportation program. This meeting will provide a variety of opportunities to discuss the process by which the MPO and the Department of Transportation (DelDOT) set priorities in the selection of major transportation projects; outline the process by which DelDOT brings those projects to fruition; the new legislative initiative for joint participation in programming between the public and the private sectors; and to discuss proposed Capital Improvement Projects, and the MPO's Transportation projects.

Each meeting will have an informal workshop session at the start, followed by an auditorium session. A court reporter will be available during both sessions to record formal comments. Interested persons are also invited to submit written comments during the public meeting process and these also will be included in the formal record of the CIP meetings. Copies of the present currently adopted FY 1997 - 2002 CIP document are available by contacting DelDOT at the address and/or phone number listed below.

Mandated by Subsection 8409, Chapter 84, Title 29 of the Delaware Code, the meetings are designed to ensure that the public has ample opportunity to participate in the planning process.

If requested in advance, DelDOT will make available the services of an interpreter for the hearing impaired. If an interpreter is desired, please make the request by phone or mail to DelDOT. DECADES BEFORE ANYONE EVER
 TALKED ABOUT "HOME-STYLE" DINNERS,
 THERE WAS A LITTLE COUNTRY
 RESTAURANT IN SOUTHEAST OHIO THAT SERVED THEM.

HOMESTYLE PRICES. KIDS MEALS UNDER $2.00.

This is where it all started, almost 50 years ago, just down the road from the Bob Evans® Farm. We believed in giving customers homestyle meals at a fair price. Still holds true today. Why, you can come in for homestyle meatloaf or turkey with all the trimmings or our open face roast beef at prices that won't break the bank. Or get something different like our Chicken Monterey. And if you want extra rolls or refills of iced tea, coffee or soda, there's no charge. And for kids, there's a special menu under $2.00. We'd like you to stop by, since we're in the neighborhood. Just look for the new version of our restaurant, the one pictured below.

The finest are coming to Grand Opera House

TOMAN'S TEASER for Today: What do the Concerto Soloists Chamber Orchestra of Philadelphia, the Academy of Ancient Music and the Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra all have in common? If you answered that they are among the finest performing groups in the world you would be correct. But, if you answered that they are all coming to the Grand Opera House this season as part of the Grand Concert Series, consider yourself up-to-date in the world of the performing arts in and around Delaware!

Indeed, they are all part of the excitement of still another series Delaware's Center for the Performing Arts is offering us during the 1996-97 season. Since this is the fifth week in succession I have been sharing information with you about what was last year a near dormant house, you are aware that the Grand Old Lady of Market Street is undergoing a renaissance under its new executive director, Ken Wesler.

The Grand Concert Series opens Saturday, Nov. 9, at 8 p.m. with a spectacular visual as well as aural presentation. With Music Director Marc Mostovoy at the helm, the Concerto Soloists Chamber Orchestra of Philadelphia will offer a multi-media performance of Antonio Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons." Projected on the Grand stage will be slides of 150 famous masterpieces to illuminate the music of "The Red Priest."

As if that weren't enough, the orchestra will offer a world premiere of a work featuring projections of scenes from the Delaware Valley. No "nodding off" will be permitted at this concert. You will have two senses satisfied in one evening and where else but at the Grand Opera House. Great way to open a series!

The works of Handel and J. S. Bach will be in good hands on Saturday, March 29, at 8 p.m. when Christopher Hogwood will bring the Academy of Ancient Music and two fine soloists to center stage. The evening will open with Handel's Concerto Grosso in E minor, Op. 6, No. 3. Soprano Emma Krikby will join aggregation for another Handel work, the motet "Silete Venti." Bach will be the featured composer in the second half of the concert. We will hear his Violin Concerto in A minor with soloist Andrew Manze. Ms. Krikby will return to perform in Cantata 202, the "Wedding Cantata."

Roy Wilbur of the Grand PR office pointed out an interesting sidebar story to me. The Academy of Ancient Music was founded in the 18th century for the purpose of performing "old" music. However, as defined by its director Dr. Pepusch, "old music" was any that was composed more than 20 years earlier. The definition has changed just a bit in the 20th century and I, for one, am very glad it has.

Not only is the Academy of Ancient Music famous on both sides of the Atlantic for its concert appearances, its discography is enormous, strengthening its reputation even more. It was the first to record all of the Mozart symphonies with period instruments. Currently they are involved in a project to do the same to the Haydn symphonies — all 106 of them!

The third in the series will be a performance of the Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra on Sunday, April 13 at 7 p.m. The Bournemouth's commitment to a contemporary repertoire is not only underscored by its association with Henri Dutilleul, the orchestra's Composer Laureate, and its performances of the complete Tippett symphonies but also by the works it commissioned for its centennial celebration.

The opening work on the concert to be heard at the Grand will be the premiere of a new work by Bingham, commissioned by the orchestra. The concert will continue with Elgar's "Cello Concerto in

The century-old Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra will be part of the Concert Series at the Grand Opera House during the upcoming season.

A minor having Andrew Manze as soloist. Rachmaninoff's Symphony No. 2 will round out the evening.

The Grand Concert Series is truly one which offers something for you no matter what period of music you favor. The Grand offers single tickets for each event but also offers some great discounts if you take the entire series. Tickets for all three orchestra concerts begin at $59. You can get more information about the Grand Concert Series right now. You may stop by the Grand box office at 818 The Market Street Mall, or reach them by phone at 302-652-5577 or 1-800-37 GRAND; on the World Wide Web at <http://ameristar.net/grand/> or E-mail at GRANDOPERA@AOL.COM.

In these past four columns, as well as the one you are reading today, I hope I have whet your appetite to be part of the excitement this season at the Grand Opera House. Take advantage of the richest treasure of the performing arts in our area. Enjoy!

■ Phil Toman has been a columnist for the Newark Post since 1969. An enthusiastic supporter of the arts locally, he has a vast knowledge of the arts in the mid-Atlantic region. He and his wife Marie are longtime residents of Newark. Toman hosts a weekly radio program on WNRK.

Allegations follow most successful year

CLAIMS, from 1

cessful practices of other businesses and organizations.

The recent news articles came in the wake of perhaps the three-school district's most successful year ever.

Earlier this year, Red Book magazine named Hodgson Vo-Tech in Glasgow as the top high school in Delaware, and Wilmington's Howard High School of Technology received the Superstars! in Education award by the state Chamber of Commerce.

The district also received a Delaware Quality Award of Merit, thus becoming the first school district or state agency to win an honor usually reserved for a corporation or small business.

"We're setting the pace," said John Lynch Jr., president of district's board of education. "It looks like it's a lot easier to condemn us than to catch up with us."

Among other things, the district has been accused of squandering tax dollars on frivolous expenses such as:

- Teachers could choose whether or not to attend the workshops, meetings and discussion groups offered at Great Oak;
- That Howard vo-tech teachers at a retreat last month "golfed, lounged around the pool or played volleyball (with) a cooler of beer close at hand;"

- That the district paid fees dealing with bartenders and a disc jockey.

Loftus, the district's superintendent since 1989, said attendance during the various meetings and presentations at a given retreat were all mandatory. "It's a very structured, formal process," Loftus said. "We'd ask you to leave (if you chose not to participate)."

Added Lynch: "No one has ever signed up for a retreat) and had that attitude."

Loftus said all recreation expenses at the conference come out of the teachers' pockets as well. "Out of the 50 people who would go, you're lucky if two or three people use (the resort's nine-hole course)," he said. Moreover, he added, the district covers only three meals at a cost of about $80 a day.

The teachers and other faculty members receive no pay for attending the retreats, which are scheduled in July and August during their summer vacation, Loftus said.

According to assistant superintendent Joe

Deardorff, the cost of retreats amount to less than 1 percent of the district's total budget. "World class organizations typically spend seven to 15 percent on staff development," said Deardorff.

"We've never been so blatantly attacked," Lynch said. "We will continue to show the community, our parents, our students and our staff that we are not abusing their trust. We are providing the best education possible." "We don't care what's reported on us as long as it's honest and objective," Loftus said.

Teens want place to hang out

HANGING OUT, from 5

"Here, it's alternative, grunge and punk," Manlove said. "You can express your own style."

"If you express yourself (at the mall)," said Hoard, a regular at the shopping center for about two years, "people will stare or start something with you. Here, it's real peaceful. Nobody wants to start anything. ...I haven't seen a fight since I've been coming down here."

"All we're doing is sitting and talking," Kappauf said. "If we were causing a fight or destroying property, maybe it would be different."

Young people eventually do grow up, however. Just like their parents did.

"We did the same exact thing in front of the Charcoal Pit and Dunkin' Donuts on Concord Pike," said Shelby Miller, a 26-year-old Newark bartender who visits Jam'N & Java regularly. "Where else were you going to go (during high school years)? We were just bored. ...It's definitely a limbo-age."

disturbing to other nations of the universe. Rennie's message was reinforced by the presence of a powerful associate, a robot named Gort.

Contemporary citizens and scientists are by no means the first to speculate about life forms from another galaxy. Great Britain's Percival Lowell wrote in 1895, "To be shy of anything resembling himself is part and parcel of man's own individuality. Like the savage who fears nothing so much as a strange man, like Crusoe who grows pale at the sight of footprints not his own, the civilized thinker instinctively turns from the thought of mind other than the one he himself knows."

To admit into his conception of the cosmos other finite minds as factors has in it something of the weird," Man, Lowell predicted, may not find his double, but he most certainly may find "cousins," life forms, including superior ones, in other parts of the universe.

St. Mark's v-ball hopes to defend title

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

MILLTOWN — The Spartans lost only two starters to graduation from a team that went 16-3 and won the state championship a year ago.

And they return the core front court returns, which was probably the key to last season's success. Which probably means trouble for the rest of the state. Again.

"[But] we've got to realize that every team we play is going to be out to get us," middle hitter Kate Hubbard said. "...That is a lot of pressure. That isn't something we've been exposed to before."

Like last year, St. Mark's still lacks the true big hitter in the middle; but the Spartans will make up for the absence with numbers.

"Since we have a strong hitter at every position, it really stretches the defense out," St. Mark's Coach Dave Stover said.

Hubbard and outside hitter Kristin Darby lead a talented platoon of seniors who've already tasted the ultimate success. Offside hitter Lauren Williams (Sr.) and outside hitter Allison Sternberg (Jr.) round out the front court.

Stover said sophomore Jen Mack should more than pick up the slack for Megan O'Neill (Wilmington College), a middle hitter who graduated. "We're going to be stronger offensively than last year," Stover said confidently.

But the coach remains uncertain about who will replace setter Toni Swan, who will play basketball at Delaware. "That's the big question," he said.

The front-runner for Swan's old job is junior Lisa Darby. Other candidates include sophomore Maria Egler and junior Angela Buffone. The rest of the back line is in the competent hands of seniors Susan Oberlander and D a n a Steinbrunner.

"Are there any real weaknesses? No," Stover answered himself. "Our only weakness [right now] is inconsistency. Defensively, everyone's back.

They're just a very talented team...looking forward to the season.

"Even though they had a very successful season last year, their work ethic and attitude is even better this year."

But in spite of their coach's high hopes, another title won't necessarily fall onto their laps. "We have to start all over, but think it's a challenge" Hubbard said. "We can't really think about last year because everything is new.

"Everyone has new players. It's a completely different season."

Newark tries to rebound from injuries

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POSTSPORTS WRITER

The season hasn't even started yet and Newark High soccer coach Hugh Mitchell has had more surprises than he normally sees in a year.

The Yellowjackets, coming off a 14-4 season and a trip to the quarterfinals of the Delaware High School Soccer Tournament, lost several key players but also had a fine nucleus returning. After a week of preseason that nucleus was severely depleted by injuries and other assorted problems, throwing Mitchell's off-season plans completely out of whack.

"It's been my most frustrating preseason ever," said Mitchell who begins his eighth year as head of the Newark High soccer program. "We planned to do some different things this season but I haven't had my whole team here yet to get the chance to practice them."

One of the keys to this season for Newark is returning senior All-State and All-American Colin Carew. Mitchell had hoped to expand Carew's role from primarily a defender this season, but the injuries have prevented that from

Fall sports raring to go

IF YOU'RE A HIGH school sports fan, then you must be itching for the start of the fall sports season.

Well, you won't have to wait much longer as school begins Tuesday and games soon after. Two sports in which the local schools will provide a lot of excitement are soccer and volleyball.

Glasgow returns as the defending state soccer champion and St. Mark's enters the season as the defending state volleyball champion. Those teams as well as other local ones will again be in the hunt this season.

Glasgow, Newark and Christiana will all have strong soccer teams and all three will fight — along with Alexis I. DuPont — for the Flight A championship. St. Mark's, winners of five state titles in the last 10 years, will also be very strong.

Inside on the volleyball court, the three Christina District schools will again be very good and fight for the Flight A title. Last season Newark and St. Mark's faced off in the state championship match while Glasgow advanced to the state semifinals. Christiana had an outstanding season but was upset in the state tournament.

The Newark area may be the best area in the state for both of these sports. There are strong feeder programs for each. Before a student reaches high school he or she has played in numerous big game situations. This, no doubt, helps when the athlete reaches high school.

There are many opportunities for kids our area. Parental support is also very strong.

All this makes for great high school teams and great high school action.

Glasgow volleyball team returns nucleus

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

GLASGOW — With a host of returning players from last year's state semifinal team, Glasgow High's second-year volleyball coach Dan Rebilas has just one tough question to answer — how does he top his first year?

"I've thought about that," said Rebilas, whose team recorded a 14-6 record on its way to a third place finish in the Delaware High School Volleyball Tournament last year. "Did we get too much too early? Did we pay our dues?"

The Dragons lost three players (Beth Olney, Jackie Lee, Nicole Sentman) from last year's squad that finished better than any other Glasgow volleyball team this decade.

However, there are 10 juniors returning that will make up the nucleus of the team. They include setter Natalie Dunlap, outside hitters Kristin Nau and Jill Biggs and middle hitter Brandi Redrow. Also returning as juniors will be Jamie Sassaman, Rachel Schluetter, Chelsa Harding, Sheila Nimrooz, Lindsay Baker and Erin Anderson.

Seniors Katie Folke and Melissa Latta will also contribute the success of the team as will sophomores Jessica Marley, Erica Richardson and Candice Bowman.

"Everything is coming along pretty well," Rebilas said. "The girls are working real hard. Our big thing is for them to believe in themselves. That was our big motivating factor last year when we knocked off Ursuline in the state quarterfinals."

Rebilas believes last season's state tournament experience will be a big help this fall.

"They got a taste of success last season," he said. "I really think they want some more now."

The Dragons first goal, according to Rebilas, is to contend for the Flight A title. That in itself will be a tough task this season for everyone in the league. Newark, Christiana, Brandywine, Alexis I. DuPont and William Penn — along with Glasgow — all could contend for the title.

"I think we should be all right though," Rebilas said. "The girls are great to work with. They see the goal at the end. They have a different attitude now. Winning and losing are both contagious. When you're losing all the time, you go out and expect to lose. When you're winning all the time, you expect to win and find ways to do it."

Spartan gridders mature

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

MILLTOWN — The St. Mark's High football team could take to the air this season with its starting quarterback and a host of potential targets all returning.

The Spartans compiled a strong 7-3 record in '95 but a relatively weak schedule took them out of the running for an at-large berth in the state tournament. With senior quarterback Ryan Zarzycki (5-11, 170) expected to step up this season and a beefed up schedule that includes perennial Top 10 schools like Newark, Christiana and Brandywine, St. Mark's could see some action after Thanksgiving this season.

"I think this year's team is a lot more mature," said Coach Vinnie Scott, who begins his fourth year. "They have a job to do, and their aim is to get it done. They're business-like."

Zarzycki's job will be to complete passes. Flanker Billy Cooper (5-8, 150) will be his main client. But the senior won't be Zarzycki's only meal ticket. Senior backs Mike Watkins, who is expected to anchor the running game, and Mike Rash (5-10, 183) are also capable receivers. Tight end Kevin Bock (5-11, 206), another senior, is yet another potential target.

Scott believes kicker-punter Chris Birch (6-3, 180), a senior, could be among the best in Delaware.

The Spartans return an experienced group of two-way linemen led by sophomore tackles Brian (5-11, 220) and Peter Santoro (5-11, 216), who are twins. Senior Adam Czerwyski (6-0, 211) and junior John Testa (6-0, 222) will line up at guard and senior Mike Maguire (6-1, 189) is the center.

The same cannot be said about the team's defensive unit which was hit hard by graduation, particularly at linebacker and in the secondary. Rash, junior Dave Williams (5-10, 165) and sophomore Tommy Ellis (6-2, 199) should start at linebacker. The defensive backfield includes Watkins, Cooper and junior Justin Jackson (5-11, 165).

Scott also expressed concern about the team's depth, but declined to make any predictions. "I never know what to predict. ... That's what keeps me coming back," he said.

CHS hockey eyes rebound

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

CHRISTIANA — The Vikings' coaches are earning high marks for their field hockey program from fellow coaches and officials. But the task at hand is improving on last season's dismal 1-14-1 record.

"I would like to see the slashes in the win column," said Christiana Coach Denise Rosaio-Graham, who begins her fourth season.

The team may have more momentum than it's had in some time. Most of the players competed in the county's summer league at William Penn and compiled a winning record. "They're going to have to take that [experience] with them," Rosaio-Graham said.

She expects a strong defense to lead the Vikings toward the elusive .500 mark. Goalkeeper Kelly Baker (Sr.), links Kelly Dombrowski (Sr.), Anna Germain (Soph.) and Melanie Thompson (Sr.), who earned honorable mention in the conference in '95, back Alison Swain (Sr.) and Melissa Horwitz (Sr.), a second-team all-conference defensive selection who figures to see time on defense and offense, anchor the unit.

Dombrowski also will see time up front with forwards Amy Rude (Sr.), Hollie Knowles (Jr.), Angelina Vaccarino (Jr.) and Jennifer Weiner (Jr.) as the coaches search for ways to inject life into an offense that lost leading scorer Christina Collins to graduation.

Other players who will receive playing time are Gina Madron (Sr.), Ericka Swigart (Sr.) and Katie Lawson (Soph.).

Newark High Julianne Sweeney, a junior link, prepares for the upcoming season during a recent practice. The Yellowjackets hope to improve on a 7-7-1 season from a year ago.

Newark's Hoosty on JMU volleyball team

Former Newark High volleyball player Michelle Hoosty is a sophomore member of the James Madison University volleyball team.

A 5-foot, 8-inch outside hitter, Hoosty ranked second among the Dukes with 98 digs last season. She recorded a career-high eight kills in a victory over Liberty and registered 16 assists in a win over Campbell College.

Hoosty also excelled in the classroom and was named a Scholar Athlete by the Colonial Athletic Association for the 1995-96 school year.

"She made incredible strides in the spring," said James Madison's first-year coach Chris Beerman. "Her desire, work ethic and competitiveness really is evident when you see her play. She is a true hustler, sacrificing her body almost to the point of being dangerous. I just love having her attitude in practice."

The former Yellowjacket was a first team All-Blue Hen Conference as a junior and a senior in high school and was first team All-State as a senior.

Glasgow hockey gets new coach

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

GLASGOW — The Dragons new field hockey coach wants her players to do more than "hit and hope." Much more.

"Communication is what I've stressed from Day 1," said Lisa Kosanovich, 23, who replaced Angie King in early August. "Every drill we're talking — and not about what happened at lunch."

Glasgow suffered through a disappointing 5-10-1 season in '95, but Kosanovich has a deep group of upperclassmen who reported to practice in top shape. "Our offense looks very good," she said. "We're where I want to be right now. They're hungry. They're ready to take their game to another level. They're anxious to work hard."

Kosanovich expects to play a 4-3-3 that will capitalize on her large stable of quality forwards. Junior Annie Santo and sophomore Julie Van Deusen have the most experience; seniors Amy Rendle, Tricia Kleinot, Jamie Olson and Shannon Thompson and juniors Danielle Skorupa and Allison Meirding will compete for the other two slots and provide depth up front.

Seniors Jessica Linn and Rosemarie "Roo" Parag and juniors Jessica Krause, Rachel Hamilton and Kristy Lloyd will compete for the three midfield positions. The backfield consists of seniors Kaziah Williams, Bonnie Foster and Heather Bell.

Senior Susan Campbell and junior Gina Duncan are the goalkeepers.

"They're all battling," said

Kosanovich, who has spent a large chunk of the preseason on the game's mental nuances. The Christina District lacks a feeder system at the middle school level, she said, which puts the three high schools at a disadvantage.

"We have to make up for two years in a short period of time," she said. "We have to compensate."

Kosanovich lettered in three sports at Concord High and earned All-State honors in field hockey and basketball. She went on to play for the University of Delaware softball team, serving as captain during her junior and senior years.

She is beginning her first year at Glasgow, where she will teach physical education. She credited both King and Glasgow Athletic Director Randy Nowell for helping adjust to her new responsibilities.

Lesher bangs out first major league homer against O's

► POST GAME, from 15

Baltimore Orioles in Camden Yards.

While doing some work in front of the television Tuesday, I stopped when Lesher, leading off the fifth inning, deposited a David Wells changeup 387 feet away in the left field seats.

According to the announcers on the Home Team Sports telecast, however, the fan that caught the ball would not relinquish the ball to the Athletics to give to Lesher. Evidently, that was taken care of and a clubhouse attendant retrieved the ball for the former Yellowjacket.

The home run capped a great week in which Lesher got three hits in eight at-bats. Hopefully, we'll now see a lot more of Brian Lesher.

St. Mark's soccer looks to continue winning tradition

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

MILLTOWN — It's not like a St. Mark's High soccer team needs to begin a season with extra incentive — but that's exactly what this year's team has.

The Spartans, winners of five state championships in the last 10 years, were beaten on a controversial overtime goal in the semifinals of the Delaware High School Soccer Tournament. That's a bad enough way for a season to end. Add in the fact that the loss came to archrival Salesianum and it's not hard to understand why the memory is so vivid.

"Oh definitely," said senior Chris Ricevuto of whether that loss would serve as a motivating factor this season. "That's not how we want a season to end. We definitely want to get back to that point."

St. Mark's returns seven senior starters and a host of juniors from last season's unbeaten junior varsity team. That JV team posted an 11-0 record and outscored its opponents 67-2 during the season.

"The preseason has gone pretty well," said Tom DeMatteis, who begins his 11th year as head coach of the Spartans. "We have good balance and good depth and this is a very hard working group. Those are the kind of things you need to have a good team."

DeMatteis also has help from his seniors when it comes to stressing the hard work.

"When you have a young team, we have to push everybody a little harder," said senior keeper Joe Iudica, who has been a second-team All-State selection in each of the past two seasons. "We're constantly working hard and pushing they younger players as well."

Other seniors who will help Ricevuto and Iudica lead the way will be Jason Kraiss, Eric Reynolds, Andrew Robert and Mike Romanczuk. Returning starter Dan Keane leads a strong group of juniors that include Rob Ballas, Justin Brown, Jeff Burress, Luke Dilworth, Tyler Hogan, Warren Hughart, Brian Lenz, Adam Martin, Matt Rifino and Scott Ruberto. Sophomores who will contribute include Greg Czerwinski and Jason Dzielak. Other contributing seniors on the squad include Andrew Veveiros, Steve McManus, Jarrod Doucette, Eric Camac, Kyle Cresswell, Todd Driscoll, John Grady, Dan McConnell and Jason Tebbens.

The Spartans, as usual, play a strong schedule with matches against Flight A's Concord, William Penn, Brandywine, Alexis I. DuPont and local rival Newark. Other instate foes include archrival Salesianum, Archmere, St. Elizabeth, Wilmington Christian, Tower Hill and Dover. Out of state opponents will be Chestnut Hill (Pa.) Academy, West Chester (Pa.) East, Avon Grove, Malvern (Pa.) Prep and North East (Md.).

"We're excited about the season," said DeMatteis, who will be assisted this season by former Spartans' star Nick Papanicolas. "There are a lot of good teams in the state this year. Hopefully, we'll be up there."

"We have some juniors and seniors who will step in and play and they think it's their turn, their time to step up."

This time, however, they hope for a better ending.

happening so far. Nevertheless, Carew will play a major role in the 'Jackets' season.

"I'd really like to try to be more productive on offense this year," said Carew, who is nursing a sore ankle. "But still be able to have the same type of defensive year."

"I think we have the potential to have a good year. Our young guys are getting a lot of experience right now while everyone is injured and that will be good for us later on."

Seniors Todd Everett and Brian Gillespie will also be vital parts of the team, according to Mitchell. Sophomore Mark Rigney is also a returning varsity starter.

With all the injuries Mitchell has had a chance to see the younger players and two of them, freshmen Dave Sylvester and Noah Thomas, both defenders, will start.

Junior Eric Suro is a returning goalkeeper but has been hampered by an injury allowing freshman Colin Burns to see some time in the preseason.

Tony Fioravanti is another senior who is expected to contribute greatly.

Once again, Newark faces a stiff schedule with a strong Flight A slate being complemented by tough out of league games with St. Mark's, Caesar Rodney and Dover.

"Flight A is unbelievable this year," Mitchell said. "That's a murderer's row schedule with those teams."

Despite the problems and tough schedule the coach feels his team can have a good season.

"It's a challenge to me as a coach and to the players," he said. "But I'll tell you, the young kids have really stepped up and the seniors have really shown some good support."
