A RECREATION ROOM IN THE BASEMENT..

PAY FOR IT IN CONVENIENT
MONTHLY INSTALLMENTS TO SUIT YOUR INCOME . . .

How often have you wished you could use all that waste space in the basement? It's like adding another story to the house—merely putting a new room down there—a place for children to play—to dance, entertain.

Our new Finance Plan enables you to make additions and betterments like a recreation room, a porch, new roof or built-in garage NOW, and to pay later in small monthly installments. Investigate this plan at once. We are headquarters for complete information on modernization, including the loan to finance the work.

Save Time and Money by Using
4-SQUARE LUMBER

Even in the smaller jobs of repairing and remodeling you'll find Weyerhaeuser 4-SQUARE is easier to use and produces a better job.

When Arthur P. Mayer, owner of the Covered Wagon Poultry Farm in New Castle County, constructed 10 poultry houses a year ago last spring, he included insulation in the roofs and walls of the houses. Mr. Mayer is glad that he had the houses insulated because he was able to keep them warm last winter and during a recent hot spell the houses a year ago last spring, he invare poultrymen may obtain a new mimeographed booklet on insulation and ventilation of poultry houses by writing H. L. Richardson, poultry specialist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, University of Delaware, Newark.

A GOLF COURSE IS A LONELY place these days and the men who make a habit of following that little white pellet around the fairway (and the rough) must be pretty tough to get along with at home, now that the rain is wrecking havoc with the pursuit of their favorite recreation.

Knowing that the weather governs the amount of golf played and that the sport exerts a mighty influence on our local linksmen, we sent Lucifer, our right hand man, out to quiz a cross section of Newark housewives, all of whom are widowed at least half the time by this great game.

WE BRING TO YOU THE RESULTS of this poll:

Mrs. Sandy Trappe: "If this weather keeps up another day, I'm going home to mother. Sandy hasn't been the same since the rain started and if the sun doesn't start shining soon, I'm afraid we'll have to call it quits. He actually gets violent at times and I'm beginning to fear for the safety of the children."

Mrs. Adam N. Slicer: "My husband always boasted that he could take the game or leave it alone (usually it took him), but ever since the rain started he's been like a lion in a cage. He broke three mirrors trying to pitch into the fireplace before I finally removed all valuable furniture from the scene of the massacre. After begging me for three days to allow him to drive just one ball, I finally consented and he teed up on the sofa. On the backswing, he knocked two pictures off the wall, completely demolished a bridge-lamp, and knocked one of the doors to the sun porch off its hinges. On the downbeat, the trouble really started (the always did need a lottuv room for his drives) and he shattered two window panes, then gouged out a hole as big as your flat in the sofa. He missed the ball (always does on the first swing), lost his balance, fell to the floor spraining his ankle, and the club flew from his hands and knocked the maid unconscious. I can understand now why they make golf courses so big—gawd knows they need the room."

Mrs. T. Ruff Green: "Shh, Ruff's sleeping for the first time in a week. The poor man hasn't had a minute's rest since the rains set in but he's finally dropped off through sheer fatigue. He was violent for the first two days, then became despondent and took poison—drank some varnish that he puts on his clubs, but it just made him want to play more. Oh, if that sun would only shine again, maybe he'd become normal again."

MRS. HOY P. ALLOY: "ASST HOW dya like dem woids, kid. I joined dem and a lot more to since da old man aint been able to play dat golfof stuff on accounta da rain. Foist when he sees da dark clouds, he don't pay no attention, but den when it keeps right on a rainin', he really starts cussin'—boy, and how! On da second day, he starts really gettin' mad, see, and he broke four clubs over me head in two minutes. You shoulda saw it, friend, it was a scream, but da coicous to troo now. He liked bashin' heads so much dat he's takin' up ice hockey in a big way. He's freezin' me out... haw, ain't dat some joke, kid."

Mrs. Ima Widow: "No, Harry isn't with us any more. The poor man just pined away. Started poutin' when the rains came and never recovered... missed his golf, you know. We'll maybe be it's a blessing—at least I won't have to worry now about that nineteenth hole and the boys' taking him over every week at a dollar a hole. I only hope there isn't a course where he is now... that would be like jumpin' from the fryin' pan into the fire."

And so, according to Lucifer's reports, you can readily see what a drastic change this rain is wrecking in many of our local families... golf is a funny game, but it gets 'em thataway and it seems like a man's soul just ain't his own when he starts chasin' that elusive little white pellet around a lot of glorified fields punctured with cups.

We extend our sympathy.

NEWARK TAKES FIRST GAME IN COUNTY LEAGUE SERIES

Bear Whipped, 4-3 In Ten Innings As Poor Support Proves Costly To Bill Shirk Packs Moundsman; Play Thrills More Than 500 Fans

By Nick McIntire
(Secretary-Treasurer of Jr. Co. League)

Battery Park, New Castle, Aug. 24—Newark stalked the Bear baseball team in their own lair, Saturday, but it took more than the power in the Legionnaires' rifles to stop the courageous Cubs in ten innings, 4-3 in the opening game of a best out of three series for the Junior County League championship. If ever there was a stout hearted fighter who deserved a better fate, it was Bill Shirk, ace of the Packs' pitchers, whose downfall came as the direct result of an error.

The slow curve ball artist should have been the winning pitcher in regulation time of the scheduled 7 inning contest, but his mates let him down and the Newarkers were quick to convert errors of omission and commission into runs. On the other hand Bear wasted numerous scoring chances by foolhardy play.

It was a great game of baseball, one that would have gone down as a classic contest, even in the "Big Show," as these two juvenile teams thrilled some 500 fans, here, for 2 hours and 20 minutes. Throughout the entire contest, however Shirk stood far above any other player on the field. From the fourth inning to the tenth he held Newark scoreless, allowing but three hits while he rammed a two run homer, double and single himself.

In the opening half of the tenth Gene Robinson lead off for the College-towners with a single. It was his second hit. The Legion right fielder stole second while Henry Brooks was fanning, and when Shirk retired the heavy hitting Charlie Weldon on an easy pop to short Bear fans settled back more comfortably and relaxed completely when Cecil Cochran dribbled a grounder down to the second baseman Nelson Wilson. The ball took a funny hop, however and bounded past the 16-year-old out into right field while the fleet footed Robinson raced all the way home with what proved the winning run. Bob Sheaffer who went into play second when Arnie Wells was struck on the meat hand by a foul tip and Schaefer took over the back stopping duties, fled out in back of the plate to end the inning.

That one run was all that Bob McCormick needed, though, and he quickly turned the Bear Station team back in 1-2-3 order in their half, fanning the clean-up man.

Bear Misses Chance

Bear missed a great scoring opportunity in their first turn at bat after Shirk had stopped Newark's opening bid with a base on balls to Brooks as their only threat. Al Thorpe boisted a fly in back of first that Brooks smothered and Laws tapped one back to "Fuzzy" and was killed at the initial sack. Bob Strawbridge smashed a wicked bouncer down to third, which Weldon came up with but juggled and then Brooks dropped his hurried throw that was high. Gott dumped a single into center field and Jack Weaver followed suite, filling the bases. McCormick pulled out by getting Harry Ainsworth on a bouncer back to the Newark got their other marker in the fourth. Wally Dunsmore smacked a triple and Georgie Schaefer dumped a bunt in front of the plate, which Shirk fielded, but too late to catch Dunsmore at home and Weaver's relay to first also missed the Newark second baseman. McCormick and Griffin went down and Newark did no more scoring until Wilson's boot in the 10th.

With two down and Wilson on second as the result of a single which Robinson allowed to get by him for two bases, Shirk then put his club back in the game by blasting a McCormick toss out of the park.

Bear missed another chance in the 7th. Wood was hit by a pitched ball, but when he went down Wells accurate peg nailed him dead at the keystone bag. Shirk's long single was wasted as Thorpe fled out and Laws fanned. In the 8th Strawbridge lined a bingle into left and advanced to the hot corner on two infield outs but McCormick forced Ainsworth to left a fly to Griffin. Shirk doubled in the ninth with two down but was left stranded when Weldon tossed out Thorpe.

The two teams met here again Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the second game of the play-off. A win for the Newarkers will give them the pennant for a second straight year, while if the first half champions come through a third and final game will be staged here on Sept. 7.

Delaware Winner Of Good Driving Contest In National Competition

Cornelius J. Flynn Seeking Career In Aviation; University Scholarships To Be Awarded To Winners Tonight

With his heart set on using his driving skill as a stepping stone to a career in aviation, Cornelius J. Flynn, 2089 Barry Street, Wilmington, leaves for New York City intent on winning the top $5,000 scholarship to be awarded this week by the Ford Good Drivers League in a contest sponsored by Edsel Ford.

In the presence of Dr. A. A. Collins, his guardian, Floyd Jackson, President of the Delaware Safety Council, Wilmington Police Chief, Frank J. Mahoney, and Edgar F. Isaacs, Traffic Department, Delaware State Police, young Flynn is pictured receiving the certificate of his State Championship from George F. Lyons, Delaware Safety Council Director.

Champion Good Driver Flynn scored his Delaware triumph over stiff competition in a contest which included a severe twenty-five mile road test, an essay of 300 words on the subject, "What I Can Do Personally to Reduce Automobile Accidents," and a written examination of questions based on the book, "How To Become a Skilled Driver," written and published for the Ford Good Drivers League. Runner-up for Delaware honors was Edmund McKnight, 811 West Twentieth Street. Delaware Champion Flynn joined a parade at the New York World's Fair on Monday of the champions from every state in the Union. Flynn competed with these champions for the title of National Champion, and for one of the 48 university scholarships to be awarded by the Ford Good Drivers League. The scholarships range in value from $100 to $5,000.

In the final tests, the contestants will be judged on day and night driving; maneuver operations such as parking, braking, backing, clutching, etc.; and on physical reaction tests, including vision. Mr. Flynn says that he hopes he won't have any tougher assignment than the one handed him in the Delaware Contest, that of stopping his car without tipping over an empty bottle set up on the floor.

Contestants in national finals will be scored by driving experts, directed by the board of judges. Upon the results of these practical tests, the judges will elect the national champion and runner-up and will award the university scholarship prizes.

The awards will be announced at the Good Drivers League's First Championship Banquet in New York City tonight. Edsel Ford, president of the league, is scheduled to attend. On August 30 there will be an elaborate program of entertainment including a big league baseball game and a visit to the World's Fair at night.

Tom Wright Gets Major Baseball League Try-Out

Tommy Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Wright, a familiar figure in local baseball circuits, was given a try-out with the Philadelphia Athletics on Saturday. The husky moundsman was put through his paces by Pilot Earl Mack and Coach Lena Blackburne and was later instructed by Manager Connie Mack to return this week for further trial.

WILDLIFE INSTITUTE SECRETARY APPOINTED

J. Paul Miller, Biologist, To Fill Vacancy On Sept. 15

J. Paul Miller, for the past 10 years a biologist in the Fish and Wildlife Service, will resign from that organization, effective September 15, to accept appointment as secretary of the American Wildlife Institute.

In charge of the Section of Research and Program Planning in the Division of Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration since its organization in 1938, Mr. Miller will be succeeded by William J. Howard, his former assistant. W. C. Henderson, Acting Director of the Service, today reported to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Miller will succeed C. M. Palmer, Jr., as secretary of the Wildlife Institute. Palmer, who recently resigned to enter private business, has accepted an appointment to the institute's board of trustees. He is now living on Chestnut Hill, near Newark.

"I am, of course, sorry to receive Mr. Miller's resignation," said Mr. Henderson, "but I am likewise delighted that he was named secretary of the institute. Mr. Miller is well qualified for his new post, and his appointment assures a continuation of the excellent cooperation the service has received from the institute under Mr. Palmer's direction."

After obtaining a Bachelor of Science degree in biology from Washington State College in 1929, Miller studied wildlife management under Dana J. Leffingwell. In 1930, he resigned a teaching fellowship to accept an appointment as a biologist in the U. S. Biological Survey, which on June 30, was consolidated with the Bureau of Fisheries to form the Fish and Wildlife Service. He was in the Section of Food Habits, Division of Wildlife Research, until 1935 when he was transferred to the Section of Wildlife Surveys.

Miller conducted extensive investigations in the New England States on forest-wildlife relationships. In 1936, he was detailed to make a nation-wide study of wildlife as a supplementary farm enterprise. During this investigation, sponsored cooperatively by the Biological Survey and the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, he visited every game department and land-grant college in the country.

MURRAY TO LAUNCH GRID DRILLS ON WEDNESDAY

Twenty-Three Members Of Hen's 1939 Squad Invited Back For Pre-Season Workouts; Several Promising Freshmen Expected

The University of Delaware's 1940 football season will be launched next Wednesday when 23 members of last year's squad and a promising group of freshmen are expected to report to Coach Bill Murray for the first pre-season drill.

4,000 TO COMPETE MATCHES

National Test To Be Staged At Camp Perry

Washington, D. C.—More than 4,000 peaceful American sportsmen and sportswomen of the rifle and pistol toting fraternity, who shoot for the fun of it, are making ready for the annual trip to Camp Perry, Ohio, and the National Rifle and Pistol Championship matches which will run from September 1 to 21, under the joint sponsorship of the National Rifle Association and the War Department.

Because of unusually extensive army maneuvers scheduled for August, the matches this year were delayed two weeks from their original date by the War Department in order to allow National Guard and service teams to take part. A conflict with opening dates of many schools and colleges has forced C.M.T.C. participation in the matches to be cancelled.

An annual event since around 1875, shortly after the organization of the National Rifle Association, they were given Congressional recognition in 1902 when funds for trophies and conduct of the matches were appropriated. Since that time the matches have become not only one of the largest sports events in the country in number of competitors, but have served as a training for potential marksmanship instructors in any national emergency.

All during August tryouts were being held for membership on the National Guard and civilian rifle teams in each state and territory, with expenses to the matches paid by the Director of Civilian Marksmanship of the War Department, for the successful competitors.

National championships, both individual and team, in 30 and 22 caliber rifle and in all caliber of pistols will be settled. Since early June championship matches have been fired in nine regions covering every state, in both rifle and pistol. Four winners from each region, two each in pistol and rifle, will have their expenses paid to the matches by the National Rifle Association to meet at Camp Perry for the national small bore and pistol titles in the unlimited and beginner classes. In all the regional matches more than 25,000 marksmen took part.

Faced with a stiff eight-game schedule this year's Blue and Gold program is expected to be better equipped for its campaign than any team in recent years. Two practice sessions will be staged daily, according to the coach, who will pace his grid through light workouts in order to prepare them for the heavier work to come.

Conditioning exercises, including athletics, punting, passing, and drills are expected to take up much of the time during the initial drills. Morning practice will be held at 9 o'clock, while the afternoon work will not start until about four o'clock in order to escape the heat.

Nine of last year's regulars are expected to turn out for the first year. Among them are: Bill Murray, including two backfield men and members of the forward wall. Brooks, who was handicapped during the latter part of the 1939 season by an injured ankle after performing brilliantly for several games, and Sam Sadowski, one of the best defensive and blocking backs on the team, expected to form the nucleus of next year's backfield.

Members of last year's forward wall who will make their appearance Wednesday are: Co-Captains Wendle and Wilmer (Lank) Anderson and guard, respectively, Wilbur Laurelli, guard; John Grady and Bert Northwood tackles, and Frank Carullo and William Hancock, ends.

In addition to the regular backfield men who will report, much is expected this year from Jim Spillane and Paul, a couple of sophomores who arrived from West Nottingham Academy, Md., last week and (from Spillane, in particular, gave promise of better days to come when he performed brilliantly against Washington U. in the Hen's final game of the season.

Others who have been invited to turn for the drills are: Bill Murray, Al Newcomb, Ken Pleasanton, Lewis Clark, and Jim Mullin, backer; and Bogovitch, George Bear, Norman Charles Vibbert, Luke Selby, and Papy, linemen.

Murray, who succeeds Steve Gleda as the Delaware grid coach, a former Duke athlete and for the nine years has served as athletic director at the Children's Home, Washington, D. C., where his teams compiled a record of 10-1.

In football he won 69 games, nine and tied three and for his four years, his varsity teams have been recognized as outstanding in the South. His basketball team won 123 games, while losing only 36 in baseball they have scored 74 victories against 36 defeats.

While at Duke, Murray participated in varsity football and track and was an All-Southern football player in 1928. He was voted the most valuable player in his senior year, was graduated with an A.B. degree in economics and history.

Murray will be assisted by F. L. Stewart, former director of athletics at Appalachian State Teachers College, and Joe Shields, a member of the physical education staff.

FINISHED FOURTH

Hughes Thomas Makes Good Showing On Links

Hughes Thomas, assistant professional at the Newark Country Club, did not win the top prize, but he turned in good performance to tie for fourth in the sixth annual Philadelphia and vicinity golf tournament for the city's master championship at Melrose Country Club, Monday.

Willie Pulombo, of the Herndon Country Club, Wilmington, and D'Angelle, Plymouth Country Club, near Norristown, deadlocked for the top prize with identical scores of 33-75, four strokes over par.

They will meet in an 18-hole play-off for first prize money and the Cup, donated by Johnny D'Angelle, brother of Baederswood's Jimmy at Melrose course on Sunday. Only one stroke behind the leader was John Browne, Melrose, who had a pair of 30's for 76, while Merionville's Stanley Parkorsky and Thomas looked with Paul Mader, Melrose, tied at 80, with cards of 40-38-78.

SERVICE with a SMILE

Some people just talk about it. We really give you service with a smile. And it's good service too! This is one place where you don't have to worry about getting charged plenty for just fixing a door handle or tightening up a bolt. You pay exactly what the job is worth and not one nickel more.

We can keep smiling in here because we're doing a good job for people. That pleases us—keeps us happy. And it must please the customers, too, because they keep coming back.

You'll find a welcome here any time—and you'll get a good job done on your car (any make or model)—or it won't cost you a cent.

SOIL GROUP TO CONDUCT TOUR THIS AFTERNOON

To Inspect Results In Conservation Program

Farmers in New Castle County will be given the opportunity to see, under practical farm conditions, soil and moisture conservation practices carried out through the Soil Conservation Service. In cooperation with the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, the S.C.S., a branch of the United States Department of Agriculture, will tour farms in this vicinity this afternoon, starting at 1:30 o'clock.

Terracing, contour-cultivation and other soil-building and soil-keeping practices will be pointed out during the trip. The program is now being supported by 102 farmers in New Castle County. Work of the Soil Conservation Service has been concentrated in this section since water erosion of valuable topsoil is more prevalent in the northern section of Delaware.

First stop for the group will be the 286-acre Richard S. Rodney farm, located on Route 273 between Christiansa and Hare's Corner, where Project Engineers Alvin C. Stone and Sam Carman have directed terracing operations with amount to about three and one-half miles of crop land and terraces and about a mile of diversion terraces on 118 acres in the farm.

Other erosion control practices on the Rodney farm, operated by George Lee Brown, include strip cropping as recommended by H. B. Hendricks, agronomist for the project; tree planting on land retired from crop production because of low fertility, and improvement of pastures since dense growth of pasture grasses stops soil run-off.

John Desmond's farm, opposite the Delaware Water Company property on the road between Christiansa and Cooch's Bridge, will be the second stop where guests will see pasture terraces, strip cropping, and diversion terraces.

The final inspection will be made at the Frank B. McVaugh farm, at Little Baltimore or Star Route, between Corner Ketch and Limestone Road.

Those expected to conduct the tour are: Richard S. Snyder, project manager; Paul Nefflen and Kenneth Stone, Jr., assistant soil conservationists, and George M. Worrlow, agricultural agent for New Castle County.

HEALTHY PULLETS MAKE BEST LAYERS

Care Urged In Selecting Season's Flock Of Layers

It's round-up time on Delaware poultry ranges—time to select pullets for the season's laying flock. Experiences of the past year serve to make poultrymen extra careful to select only those having promise of being good layers. W. C. Skoglund feels that if those poultry farmers who house every pullet they raise without getting rid of the undesirable birds could actually see what these "boarder" birds consume in the way of feeds without producing a good quantity of quality of eggs, there wouldn't be much hesitation about disposing of them.

Skoglund, who is in the animal industry department of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, says that the best time to house the future laying flock is before a majority of the pullets have started to lay eggs. To make sure that there will be no "boarder" birds in the flock, only the healthy, vigorous pullets are placed in the houses. A healthy, ready-to-lay yellow pigmented bird should have an abundance of yellow pigment in the shanks, beak and other sections of the body.

When the bird's body has developed properly, early laying is a desired characteristic of good pullets. Birds which are ready to lay will have large, red combs and wattles. If early-maturing birds have weak bodies, it's best to get rid of them at the same time that slow-maturing birds are culled. Crooked beaks which might prevent birds from feeding properly or any other body defects are additional causes for culling. Well-shaped head, a flat, broad back, a wide heart girth, deep body and legs set far apart are characteristics to look for when selecting the best birds for the future laying flock.

While the birds are still out on the range, shifting for their feed to the type of feed to be used in the laying house will allow them to make the change-over gradually without causing a slowing of their feeding resulting check on growth. Pullets can also be taught to use nests before being placed in the houses by locating a few nests around the range.

SHOW AT HOTEL DUPONT

To Sponsor Bloom Exhibit

Many members of the Newark Garden Club are planning to enter the annual show staged under the sponsorship of the State of Delaware Dahila Society, Mrs. David Eastburn, president of the local organization announced yesterday. The affair will be held at the Hotel duPont, Wilmington, on Sept. 26 and 27.

The following classification was announced:

Class 1—dahlias predominating-arrangement in pottery container, space allowed, 36 inches high, 30 inches wide; arrangement in basket container, space allowed 18 inches high, 30 inches wide.

Class 2—Artistic arrangement in black container, space allowed, 36 inches high, 30 inches wide; arrangement in metal container, space allowed, 18 inches high, 20 inches wide.

Plant material, proportion and scale, color, and charm, will each count 25 per cent in the judging of plants. The above-mentioned flowers do not have to be grown by the exhibitors.

Any member who wishes to exhibit is requested to call Mrs. Eastburn as early as possible in order that accommodations may be made immediately.

TESTS ON CANTALOUPE

Best Varieties Important

One of Delaware's major vegetable crops that has been commanding consistently-good prices on a highly-competitive market during recent weeks is the State's cantaloupe production.

Seeking ways and means to help Delaware growers maintain the quality of their cantaloupes, Dr. K. J. Kadow, acting head of the University of Delaware Department of Horticulture and a member of the University's Department of Plant Pathology, arranged extensive cantaloupe experiments in Sussex County this spring.

At the farm of I. T. Hastings, Bethel, Dr. Kadow and Donald MacCleary, research entomologist for the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, set up experimental plots where tests have been conducted during the cantaloupe season for the control of insects and diseases, one of the most important causes of off-grade cantaloupes. In these tests, eight dust treatments were made on as many different plots to determine the best dusting combinations for early types of cantaloupes. On 14 other plots at the Hopkin farm near Laurel, spray chemicals were applied in an attempt to find combinations of pest-destroyers that give pest control for late cantaloupe varieties.

Realizing that all of the pest control measures available at the present time would be of no value unless the best possible cantaloupe varieties are planted to begin with, W. H. Phillips, of the University of Delaware's Department of Horticulture, was assigned the task of trying out 80 different cantaloupe varieties. He has been testing each of these varieties for sugar content, size, weight, flesh color, shape, ribbing, and resistance of the vines to disease. This quest for better cantaloupe varieties for Delaware production is being carried on at the farm of Hartley Hastings near Bethel.

LIST MANY VACANCIES IN CIVIL SERVICE

Competitive Examinations For Positions Announced

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations for the positions listed below.
