Quality Education Ranking With Best Cited For Newark

Fiscal Planning Committee
Reports To School Board
On Comparative Area Study

The Newark special school district should have a quality education program ranking with the best in the Delaware Valley and has the resources to accomplish this, according to a report submitted by the district's fiscal planning committee and made public today by the Newark Board of Education.

The committee is a lay group commissioned by the school board in January, 1961 to "plan for expansion of the board over a five-year period with the object of achieving a higher quality level of education for the district."

Dr. Sigurd Andersen served as chairman of a committee including Mrs. A. J. Brothers, Mrs. R. C. Carter, Kenneth Davis, Mrs. J. E. Eldridge, Samuel Handoff, Harry D.
Hutchinson, Albert H. Jones, Mrs.
Abe Kutner, Theodore Leininger,
Mrs. G. C. Meyer, Mrs. J. A. Nelson,
and R. G. Weiner. School board members Alan D. Brown, and
Raymond G. Weimer, Delaware State
Telephone Company, spoke on Industry.

H. Gibbons Young of Young & Williams, realtors, discussed Development; Harry H. Lambert, president of the New Castle County Levy Court spoke on Government; and J. Othum Small, president of the State Board of Education, discussed his specialty.

Comparisons were made in terms of present school expenditures; quality of educational program; and ability of the community to provide financial support for the schools.

The committee's recommendations included both immediate steps and long-range proposals for financing
the educational program in the district.

Local Man Faces Lifetime In Jail On Murder Charge

Lewis W. Tucker, 30, of 1614 Bay Street, Newark, faces life imprisonment if his conviction on a first-degree murder charge stands.

Last week a Superior Court jury found Tucker guilty in the Aug. 30, 1960, slaying of Gertrude V. Perkins, 30, of New London Avenue, Newark.

The jury deliberated three hours after a four-day trial.

The case can go through two stages of review. Tucker's court-appointed attorneys—Wilfred J.
Smith Jr. and Theodore F. Sandstrom—are expected to file a motion for a new trial or judgment of acquittal.

If that is denied by Judge Charles L. Terry Jr., who heard the case, an appeal to the State Supreme Court is possible.

The death penalty cannot be imposed. The law restoring capital punishment was enacted last Dec.
10, nearly 16 months after the crime
of which Tucker is accused.

Tucker is in the New Castle Correctional Institution in default of $75,000 bail.

BRIDGE Day Event Conducted Tuesday In Public Schools

BRIDGE Day program for the Newark school district last Tuesday, as representatives of business, religion,
industry, development, government
and education visited local school buildings.

After lunch in the Ogletown Junior High cafeteria, guests were conducted on tours of Newark schools,
and community representatives addressed an assembly of the public school staff in the Newark High School auditorium, on each facet of BRIDGE—a program developed to bridge a gap in understanding between the schools and community.

William J. Gallagher, president of the Newark Chamber of Commerce,
Mrs. G. C. Meyer, Mrs. J. A. Nelson,
and R. G. Weiner, School board
members Alan D. Brown, and
Raymond G. Weimer, Delaware State

Roger Dobson Out As Third District Council Candidate

Roger Dobson, 55 Ritter Lane, has withdrew as a candidate for election as councilman for the third district.

In a letter dated last Tuesday to City Secretary Charles D. Long,
Dobson wrote:

"Due to the sudden illness of my wife, which has involved two major operations within one week and expected lengthy periods of convalescence, I wish to withdraw as a candidate for City Council in the third district in the coming election."

"After due consideration I have made this decision since I feel it would be unfair to the voters of the third district if I continued to be a candidate when I have been unable to meet the people personally and discuss their desires and problems, while at the same time I feel I must consider the health and welfare of my family."

Dobson's withdrawal leaves a four-way race between Vernon Ariz, Eric Mayer, Betty McClendon,
and Charles Reott in the third district.

Central W. Park PTA's To Combine April 11 Meetings

Next Wednesday, Central Elementary and West Park Place PTA's
will hold a joint meeting in the Central cafeteria. Members of Moditt PTA are invited to attend, as are any other interested residents of the Newark school district.

At 7:30 p.m., West Park Place
PTA will meet in the gymnasium and Central Elementary PTA in the cafeteria for short business sessions primarily for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year.

The joint meeting will begin at 8 o'clock with a report, "Look at the Future for the Newark School District," presented by Dr. S. L. Andersen, chairman of the fiscal planning advisory committee appointed over a year ago by the Board of Education. Dr. Andersen will answer questions after his report.

Candidates for the school board election will be presented.

They are Martin Gauger, president of the school board, and James E. Crow, who is seeking election to the school board for the first time.
Gauger and Crow will present their views and answer questions from the floor.

ship has been offered by the University of Delaware to Emil Markgraf Schepers of 810 Lehigh Road, Newark.

Association of Teachers of German,
and is a student of Gertrude Weaver
at Newark High School.

The test was administered locally at the university.

Record Crowd Hears Election Candidates Cite Plans For City At Public Meeting

A record crowd attended the public meeting at the Central Elementary School gym last night, with candidates for election to the office of mayor, and for council seats in the third, fifth, and sixth districts.

William O. White, retired Curtis Paper Company official, was moderator for the first meeting with the four contestants for mayor, and each candidate was permitted five minutes to present his platform, after which all four responded to questions from the audience in an hour-and-a-quarter overall session.

Candidates for the three district council seats met later with their district constituents.

William M. Coverdale advocated minimum debt and taxation without retarding growth of the city; real-estate planning; the expanding of utilities revenue; monetary reform
for tax-exempt property; and reassessment of local real estate.

George T. Felbeck, Jr., cited need for "alert, responsible leadership"
in a period of all-time high growth;
scored past government for failure to follow through on approved legislation, citing sidewalks and drainage as examples; and for failure to "plan ahead," to delegate responsibility; and for interference with the city manager plan.

He proposed to expedite work of the planning consultant; to control residential and provide recreational areas; to avoid a ring of unplanned areas about the city; to upgrade the engineering and police departments; and to receive all queries with "courteous, prompt attention."

William J. McNertney stated that he had filed his candidacy in November, "as early as possible," and since attended all council meetings. He advocated an aggressive program with "no complacency,"

and "an imaginative program responsible for problems of the people."

Citing the sale of utilities as providing 32 per cent of municipal revenue, while failing to obtain Durnall said of a final special meeting of Newark City Council last Tuesday night, and expressed public appreciation for cooperation received in his six years as the city's chief executive.

"I feel sure that the records of this city will attest to your accomplishments in days to come," Mayor Durnall said of the current council and of municipal employees. "My deepest gratitude for your help."

To the citizens of the community,
he said, "I thank each and everyone for the opportunity to have served you and assure you that I will distinguish the office of mayor with the same humility with which I assumed it."

Council again reconvened the Ritter
Lane area from RM to RD in response to a petition from residents of the area to prevent apartment house construction—a measure passed last Feb. 12, but questioned because of a technicality.

In other action, council vacated
the non-existent Donnell Avenue east of New London and north of Cleveland Avenue to eliminate another technicality; awarded a contract of $27,610 to Aircraft Electric Supply of Wilmington for city purchase of a transformer; and approved purchase of 10,000 electric lines in the newly annexed southern portion of the city for $3,639.29.

Concerning "rumors," Rankin said that he had been appointed by council as informal assistant, as an engineering consultant for the city with earnings limited to $100 monthly; that he was terminating such services, and that his bill for

Delaware Favorite As College Choice Of 1961 Graduates

Nearly half the Delaware high school graduates who entered college last fall chose the University of Delaware, a survey by Dr. Howard E. Row reveals.

Dr. Row, assistant state superintendent in charge of secondary education, found that 953 of 32 per cent of the 3,033 Class of 1961 graduates enrolled in a four-year college course last fall.

Of the college group 421 or 43 per cent chose the University of Delaware.

Dr. Row's study also shows that 10 of 33 Delaware high school valedictorians elected to attend the University of Delaware.

Graduates enrolled in 209 different colleges outside the state, and Delaware State College enrolled 47 Class of 1961 grads.

There are three classifications of wallpaper—water-resistant, water-sensitive and plastic-treated, and Miss Jones says if you're not sure your wallpaper is water-resistant, try rubbing the paper gently in an inconspicuous place with a damp cloth.

Miss Jones says water-resistant wallpaper may be cleaned with a solution of non-abrasive washing powder in lukewarm water. Immerse a cloth or sponge in this solution and wash the entire surface of paper with long, free strokes.

Best results are obtained by starting at the baseboard and working towards the ceiling. Don't scrub. Rinse with clear water.

A clean cloth dipped in dry borax is frequently effective, Miss Jones reports.

Stubborn spots of grease should be treated with a paste of Fuller's earth and benzene or carbon tetrachloride. Apply the paste, let it dry and brush off.

Cotton Stretch Advantages Cited For Teen-Age Set

Slacks made of fabrics that fit snugly and stretch when you stretch are the new rage of the teen-age set, according to M. Katharine Jones, New Castle County home demonstration agent.

Putting the stretch in cotton fabrics will add to their usefulness in many clothing items, and it also has possibilities for use in plastic-coated auto upholstery and interior linings, Miss Jones advises.

Farmland Values Up 6% In 2 Years

Vaughn Announces

Farm real estate values in Delaware increased nearly six per cent from 1959 to 1961, according to Gerald F. Vaughn, U.S. Department of Agriculture economist assigned to land utilization research at the University of Delaware.

This was a larger increase than occurred in any of the other states which comprise the "Megalopolis" region from Washington, D.C., to Boston, Vaughn said.

The census of agriculture conducted in the fall of 1959, showed Delaware's farm real estate (land and buildings) to be worth about $242 per acre. The six per cent increase has raised the value to $257 per acre.

Vaughn gives the following as principal reasons for the increase in Delaware farm real estate value:

1. Increase in suburban residential-industrial demand for land in northern Delaware.
2. Increased speculation on even greater future demand for land associated with the FAL-1 project in New Castle County, the expansion of suburban development around Dover, and the Cape Charles to Norfolk tunnel-bridge project.

Newark, Delaware, Thursday, April 5, 1962

COURAGEOUS CANDIDATES

Newark's four candidates for mayor — Councilman M. Coverdale, George T. Felbeck, Jr., William J. Ramsey, and Carl S. Rankin — demonstrated determined championship courage with their bids for the office next Tuesday by Mayor Frank M. Durnall, in a full-house, SRO audience at the public meeting in the Central Elementary School gym.

Required real courage to face that audience of some 1,000 interested citizens of Newark — persons very interested in their community and its municipal government, or not have been there. And although the audience was for the most part, some hostile, heavy artillery and a number of explosive questions fired at them from the floor.

William O. White, the Gentleman from Georgia by way of the Paper Company in Newark, conducted the meeting in fine fashion, with a big assist from Mrs. Charles D. Long, the League of Women Voters.

Four candidates for mayor of the City of Newark showed themselves well, indeed.

Regardless of the outcome, Tuesday's election will prove an act of courage for the mayor's office.

Letters To The Editor

Fl. Monmouth, N. J. March 6, 1962

Dear Sir:

After receiving your paper for over two years of my Army career, I figured that it was high time that I wrote to you and thanked you.

When I joined the regular Army in September, 1959, I asked my wife Alice to have the paper sent to me. This was done, and I have been receiving it ever since.

During this time I have had one overseas tour in Korea, returning in 1960. I received the paper regularly there and everywhere I have been stationed since.

I am truly grateful for the wonderful job you are doing in keeping the servicemen from the Newark area up-to-date on local happenings in their home town and surrounding areas. It really makes home seem a lot closer, especially when we are on overseas assignment.

Please keep the paper coming! My wife, Alice, and our two children Tracey and Jay live at 901 Barksdale Road.

Sincerely yours,

SP-4 Sever W. Spencer, Jr.

The Baptist Revival is a evangelism endeavor, with all church departments organized and in training to support Evangelist Ellis' efforts.

Rankin said that he was retired and could devote all the time needed to the job of mayor. McNetney said that providing for his young family was his first responsibility, but that he would give the mayor's job "the best I have."

Pelbeck stated that he could devote three or four evenings a week to the job, and Coverdale said that he could take leave from his place of employment "without criticism."

Concerning criticism of the university with the acquisition of the primary and other land in Newark with reduction of tax income, Pelbeck pointed out that the university had provided 12 per cent of Newark's revenue for the last year with millions purchased, and Rankin reported that the city was losing but $25,000 annually with tax-exemption.

Replying to a query on the future tax and utilities rates, Rankin said "I helped establish them," and declared his intention of continuing with current low taxes and high utility rates, so that those who can't afford it, can cut down on excess electricity.

Quality Education

In evaluating present expenditures, the committee reported that the salary schedule and number of supervisory personnel in Newark are inadequate compared to other districts examined; that Newark's expenditures for instruction, including salary schedule, number of staff, instructional aids, also are inadequate; and that Newark is to be commended for a "very economical operation."

In evaluating the quality of the educational program, the committee found that the percentage of teachers with masters' degrees or beyond, was less in Newark than in other districts in the comparison, and the percentage of students attending college who received National Merit Scholarships, certificates of merit, and letters of commendation also was lower for Newark than for schools visited.

The report concluded that the Newark district's present financial support of schools is substantially below that of most neighboring districts.

Specific steps recommended by the committee are:

Coach Jim Flynn Faces April 11 Opener With Extra Depth In Champ Track Squad

Coach Jimmy Flynn, who's readying his runners and jumpers for the April 11 opener with Temple on Fraser Field, has more depth than last year with fine holdover talent and the addition of topflight sophomores and transfers.

The Blue Hens can't do much better record-wise than in their last two seasons. They haven't been beaten since mid-way through the 1959 campaign.

Wes Stack, captain of the track and cross-country teams both this year and last, returns to hold down the distance assignments.

The Seaford athlete was unbeaten in the mile and two mile events in dual meets last year, and the man who finished right behind him—Roy Jernigan of Wilmington—also is in with Flynn.

Stack was timed in the mile at 4:18.8 indoors this spring at the ICA meet in Madison Square Garden. He was the only Middle Atlantic Conference representative to place in the meet, and his time was just two-tenths of a second off the Blue Hen's outdoor record.

Stack also will have help in the mile from Lee McMaster of Wilmington, fresh mile and half-mile record-holder last year. He already this season has been timed in the mile at 4:24 indoors.

Sophomore Mike Brown of Wilmington, and Marshall Johns, veteran from Winter Park, Fla., provide a double threat in the sprint.

John Anderson, sophomore speedster from Arlington, Va., is the top choice in the hurdles.

Dave Biezin of Wilmington; Morley Taylor of Newark, and Ken Schroeck of Orkney Beach, N.J., are capable in the 440.

Two record holders—Ollie Baker of Media, Pa., and Larry Pratt of Wilmington, head line-ups in the field events. Baker holds the school record in the high jump at 6-0, but is receiving strong competition from Bob Miller of Springfield, Pa., and Annie Rosenthal of Long Branch, N.J.

Pratt owns the Blue Hens' shot put and discus records, both set last year. He hurled the shot 48-7½ against Washington College and the discus 151-10½ against Johns Hopkins. Dick Schwartz of Linden, N.J.; Dave Kunes of Maplewood, N.J.; and Rosenthal provide depth in these events.

Flynn believes he has two real "finds" in transfers Bob Tattall from Wilmington, via Yale, and Bob Kidwell of Newark from Bucknell.

Tattall set a new Carpenter Field House broad jump record with a leap of 22-1½, and jumped 22-11½, a foot better than the Hen's outdoor record, at the South Atlantic AAU meet in Baltimore. Kidwell already has pole vaulted 12-6.

Foxhunting Horse Trials Scheduled For Saturday

BRIDGE

The second annual BRIDGE Day program was conducted by officials of the Newark special school district last Tuesday in an attempt to "bridge" any gap in understanding between the public school system and other community groups.

Representatives of Business, Religion, Industry, Development, Government and Education were conducted on building tours, observing our public school system in action. This guest was most favorably impressed with our schools, grounds, teachers, pupils, and facilities—and if there was any gap in understanding, it has been well "bridged."

The Newark Post, Newark, Delaware, Thursday, April 5, 1962

"The perch run—yellow perch, that is—just about over," Larry Sjogren said Saturday at his Larry's Landing on the clear brown Chester River below Millington, Md.

Hailing a trio of anglers peering upstream in one of his boats, Larry Sjogren quite unnecessarily called out already undivided attention to a pair of mighty large-mouthed black bass—golden green and dripping—that the passing sportsmen were holding high in the air, along with a most impressive string of big white perch and silver-blue dappled crappie.

With the possible exception of young Terry Crowe, none of the fishing foursome from Newark was much interested in yellow perch anyway—with Billy Richards and the young man from home, we had yanked yellow nets through the North East River ice not too long ago—and Larry's rundown on current fishing, along with this very conclusive bit of visual evidence, engendered enthusiasm to no mean degree.

While their adult companion was conversing with Mr. Sjogren, Terry Crowe caught a yellow perch and Billy Richards caught a silver dappled in some fast fishing readiness from the dock, and Billy Wagmann was inspecting with interest a great mass of speckled crappie reposing in the landing net of a boat that had just arrived to replenish its live bait supply.

"Come on, Dad! Let's fish!" Billy urged as spokesman for the juvenile contingent.

With Larry's live minnows and an abundance of worms provided by the Billys in some efficient, easy effort behind Jack Richards' plowing tractor earlier in the morning, we rowed downstream into the warm wind that blew in mighty, intermittent blasts. All forward progress was halted at the height of each blow, but we gained yardage in between gusts.

Ordinarily, an outboard motor is just an unnecessary load to carry from car to boat and back again at Larry's Landing, as the Chester River is narrow and protected from the wind by the wooded banks. But last Saturday proved the exception. The wind was whipping.

As a result, we pulled into the first likely looking cove and began fishing. Silvered schools of spangled herring were swirling in the shallows, stirred, leaping, were seeking the pale sunshine along the rock banks after winter's hibernation and flight after flight of great gray Canada geese drifted before the high winds, honking high overhead as they harassed their legions far to the north.

But the fish weren't biting in that first cove, and we pulled out of the ice and into the wind of the main stream for a rough row of some quarter-mile to the upstream lee of a willowed island where we hoped that a great tangle of brush would be good to the crappie as it did to us.

Billy Richards caught the first fish almost as soon as his worm hit the water—a small yellow perch—and then the first crappie of the day dragged a minnow and a cork ball down into the dark depths, flashed a silver speckled side in a stirring struggle, and we were in business.

The crappie hit with enthusiasm—a spirit certainly shared by the fishermen—and the fish were piling up in the bottom of the boat faster than we could string them over the side.

They were beautiful fish, but not quite as big as we would have liked, an after stringing a dozen of the larger ones, we hauled anchor and cast around for another school of another, older generation.

Much later, without catching another fish, we returned to the scene of the bonanza—caught several small sunnies and crappie—and rowing upstream for a last chance try, this time with the wind in our favor, tied to beside a tangle of fallen trees where we were fishing.

Crappie came aboard four at a time—Terry Crowe caught the fish of the day, a beauty of real heft—and most of these were a size larger than those of the first school.

With 27 selectively string, and with the sun low over the trees, we left the fish while they were biting—a novelty—and headed home.

The first drop of rain fell as we pulled into the cove and between the Chester River and Middletown, we drove through near solid sheets of wind-blown water—something like piloting a submarine.

One more fish, and we would have been soaked. As it was, we were warm and dry—and lucky.

The first class, beginning at 11 a.m., will be for junior hunters ridden by children 17 and under.

The feature of the day will be the E. Ross Taylor Challenge Trophy

NRA Pony Leagues Organizing To Provide Baseball Play For All Local Boys 8-12

Pony League organizational meetings were held this week as coaches and managers from the five-league system set up tryout dates and locations, general league organization and seasonal plans.

The Pony League system again is being organized with each league operating on a semi-independent basis. Commissioners are being selected to administer the individual leagues.

First tryouts will be held April 14 and 20. A player draft will be held after general tryouts, with a six-week team practice period before the season starts the first week of June.

Pony Leagues are for boys 8-12 who are not playing on other organized baseball teams. The leagues provide opportunity for any boy desiring to play baseball and meeting age requirements, to be assigned to a team with assurance of playing a part of every game.

During 1961, nearly 600 boys registered and played in the Pony Leagues. More than 70 adults, including dads, granddads and other interested baseball enthusiasts helped make the NRA Pony Leagues successful.

The leagues are conducted by interested, volunteer adults as coaches, managers and commissioners.

Due to anticipated increase in the number of boys who desire to play in the leagues this year, the NRA announces the need for additional help from the community.

Concrete blocks, masonry, lumber, and roofing materials are to be provided by Service, Inc., Clarence Burris & Sons, Grubb Lumber, and George Shorter, Gene Delle Donne reports.

The American Little League building committee headed by Mrs. Ben Peoples includes Fred Arimoto, James Call, and Lou Rosendo.

Bob Burton Wins Wrestling Title As Maryland Soph

Robert L. Burton, sophomore and No. 1 fullback for Coach Tom Nugent's powerful Terrapins at the University of Maryland, won the 191-lb. championship in the National Invitational AAU Wrestling Tournament at Washington last week.

Bob, a Newark High School graduate in the Class of 1960, was twice the state wrestling champion at 180 lbs. for the Yellowjackets under Coach Andy Marcantonio.

A star football player for Newark, he was awarded the trophy as the outstanding player in the 1960 All-Star High School Football Game played at Delaware Stadium for the benefit of the Delaware Association for Retarded Children.

In the recent AAU championship, Burton was runner-up for the outstanding wrestler award.

Back To Back Homers By Strode, Cap 9th Inning Rally In Hens' 3rd

Back to back homers by John Strode and Fred Rullo capped a five-run, ninth-inning rally that gave the University of Delaware a 12-7 decision yesterday over the Duke Blue Devils.

Coach Harold Raymond's Blue Hens, with a 15-hit attack and junior Warren Hood's brilliant relief pitching, scored their third straight win of the season after dropping their first two starts.

Hood, a righthander, relieved John Shew with the bases loaded and none out in the fourth.

Bob Grenda walked to start Delaware's winning uprising; advanced to second on Gary Hebert's sacrifice and singles by Reeves Montague and Tom Aldridge scored two runs. Then Strode followed with his 360-ft. shot.

Rullo completed the scoring with his solo homer to left.

Hood allowed but four hits and three runs in six innings of relief and might have escaped without being scored on except for two Delaware errors in the eighth. He is

T. V. Lark, brilliant winner of last fall's Washington, D.C., International, in an epic struggle with "Horse of the Year" Kelso, is the leading eligible for the mile and one-sixteenth grass fixture.
