The close-knit Hitchens family dedicated their M*A*S*H theme in the American Cancer Society fundraiser to the memory of Korean War veteran John W. Hitchens who died of cancer at age 70 in January.

Korean War provides family inspiration for personal battle umor and friendships during the Korean War helped the characters in the movie and television series, M*A*S*H, to get through less than desirable times.

For one local family, these same characteristics helped them deal with their own enemy intrusion of cancer.

In memory of John W. Hitchens, 70, who lost his fight against pancreatic cancer in January, his family formed one of 62 teams that walked and ran laps around the Hodgson Vo-Tech High School track during the 20-hour "Relay for Life" sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Hitchens also was a U.S. Army veteran and served with the 7th Calvary. "My husband was in the Korean War, and he was affectionately called 'The Old Man' by his friends at the Aetna Fire Company where he was a life member," explained Karol Lynn Hitchens. "So, we decided to do M*A*S*H (as our theme at the event)."

Hitchens said her oldest son, Jack, came up with the theme title of "The Old Man's Brigade," which is also a song.

With a 32-by-16-foot barracks tent, a pup tent, wooden street sign, Red Cross symbols and three generations of Hitchens family members dressed in dog tags and army-green Tshirts, it wasn't hard to locate campsite number 41. That was where Klinger, Radar, and Hot Lips Hullihan look-a-likes were hanging out.

In accordance with the theme, each family member's T-shirt bore a verse from the song. For each of his son's it read, "We never will forget him, He made me what I am."

In preparation for the relay, all of the Hitchens' contributed to their cause. "My son, Karl, is a paramedic supervisor for New Castle County and he was able to get this huge tent," explained Hitchens. "Everybody else contacted friends and other family for donations."

By the beginning of the event, the family had raised over $1,200 for cancer research. Throughout the night they also sold red, wax "Hot Lips" to raise more money.

A duty roster at the camp listed the responsibilities of the team, including trash detail, courier and medic, in addition to the designated track times for each member of the family.

Hitchens walked in the first lap, designated for survivors, hand-in-hand with her longtime friend Rita Metzker, who has been fighting breast cancer for over 13 years.

And from 7 p.m., Friday, June 9, to noon on June 10, family members ranging from 3 to 67 years took their turns on the track.*

"You know, we didn't even have to wake up the kids to get them out on the track when it was their turn," said Hitchens proudly. "They took (responsibility) for it themselves."

Midway through the night, the Cancer Society conducted a luminary ceremony to light the circumference of the track. "That was very touching," said Hitchens.

During the last few months of her husband's life, Hitchens said that her family never left her side, so when she e-mailed them about this event, there was no question everyone would be supportive.

"I told them that we were all going to do this... for John," said Hitchens.

Interestingly, Hitchens had already planned to participate in this year's Relay for Life with her husband before he died. "But little did we know that John would be diagnosed with cancer two weeks after that," she said.

Hitchens said that her husband would have laughed about their idea to create a Mobile

New Castle man charged in shopping center stabbing

Newark Police arrested a New Castle man in a stabbing incident at the Newark Shopping Center on June 10. Larry J. Reed, 18, was charged with assault and possession of a deadly weapon during the commission of a felony and released on bail.

According to police, the 17year-old victim got into an argument with Reed over a woman. During the fight, the defendant stabbed the victim in the side with a switchblade knife and fled Luke Bowen, a junior at Avon Grove High School, witnessed the attack while skateboarding with his brother and friends at the shopping center.

All of a sudden (the victim) is lifted right up in the air, and I see a lot of blood and a knife sticking out of his right side,"

Bowen said many bystanders ran away after the stabbing but he took off his shirt, put it over the knife wound and applied pres-

"I was just trying to remember my training as best I could," said Bowen who took a Red Cross lifesaving course last summer. "I kept checking his pulse - his heart was really beating fast...His eyes kept rolling back in his head.

Bowen said police and and an ambulance arrived within 15 minutes after the stabbing. "It seemed like forever," he said.

The victim was admitted to Christiana Medical Center. He has since been discharged.

Attempted robbery on New London Rd.

Newark Police are investigating an attempted robbery in the 300 block of New London Road around 1:15 a.m. on June 17.

Police report a 20-year-old woman told them she was walking along a footpath that leads from the Pencader complex at the University of Delaware's Laird Campus to New London Road. Near the road, she was approached and knocked to the ground by a suspect described as a black male in his 20s with crewcut hair, about 6 feet tall and 160 pounds, wearing jeans and a dark shirt.

The suspect had a handgun in his possession and demanded "items" from the woman but fled when a truck passed by. Anyone with information is asked to call Crimestoppers at 1-800-TIP-3333 or 366-7111.

Student brings bullets to school

A 10-year-old student at Downes Elementary School in Newark was charged with disorderly conduct after he brought six bullets to school on June 13. Police report the child was showing the bullets to other students and gave away several to students. The State Attorney General's office was consulted before the charge.

District seeks committee members for strategic planning

By KATY CIAMARICONE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Christina School District is seeking new members for the district's Strategic Planning Steering Committee which will meet in July. Their mandate will be to develop three to four major objectives for Delaware's largest school district to meet over the next five years.

The committee, which has met every five years since it was established in 1990, is made up of 25 members, including parents, teachers and other school district faculty.

The committee was developed to improve the Christina School

District by recognizing "its strengths and to comprise action plans to improve its weaknesses and to analyze external events that impact students and faculty," said Capes Riley, assistant superintendent for the school district.

Riley said when committee members meet on July 10 and 11, they will also address important issues such as improving math and reading programs, providing more space, and making technological advancements.

The committee establishes the school district's major beliefs, and then they create a mission statement," Riley said.

After the committee members meet in July, he said, they will submit a plan of action to the Board of Education for review.

The members will meet again in the spring of 2001 to evaluate the school district's progress in achieving the goals.

"In previous years, the Steering Committee has had a profound impact on the educational system in Delaware," Riley said. "The last time the committee met, its members decided that overcrowding in schools was becoming a large prob-

As a result, referendums were passed, and new buildings were eventually extracted, Riley said.

Downes students in tune for concert

Students at Downes Elementary School grooved to the beat at two "End of School Concerts" last week.

One performance featured the Downes fourth grade Blues Project in which students learned about the history of blues music as expression and social commentary.

Among the instruments they learned how to play in the project were keyboard instruments, recorders (song flutes), and band instruments like clarinets, saxophones, trumpets and cellos

To learn about improvisation, they listened to recordings by jazz artists like Sonny Rollins and Charlie Parker. Many of the students even wore dark sunglasses and funky hats to set the mood at this week's "gig."

The winners of the recent Recorder Composition Competition also appeared in the concert. The recorder is a baroque song flute that has been popular with professional musicians and amateurs for over 500 years.

At a second concert, the first and second graders sang songs, including two songs with sign language.

In July, low-floor buses without steps for disabled and handicapped will be introduced.

Newark to Elkton bus service also will begin this summer with routes running from 6 a.m. to 8

DelDOT is also working to find a transit hub for Newark. Conceptually, it will be located at the College Square shopping center, Miller said.

"Most complaints I get (about the Deer Park intersection) are related to trucks," Mayor Hal Godwin said. "I always felt if we could reduce truck use, we could reduce the number of complaints.

Problems contributing to Newark's truck troubles, according to DeIDOT planner Mike Fitzpatrick, include a lack of rest areas, a lack of safe weigh-inmotion and roadside inspection areas, inadequate off-street storage areas adjacent to major shippers, toll avoidance by truckers, and a lack of an official truck route system.

parking lots," she said.

An expanded rail yard at Chrysler and a weigh-in-motion inspection area on Route 896, could also improve the Deer Park intersection traffic, Fitzpatrick

He also suggested elevating or tunneling the railroad crossing at that intersection to eliminate the grade crossing problems if a traffic signal were installed there.

There is no question in my mind that freight issues will be getting increased attention at DOT," Canby said.

About one year into the freight and goods movement study, Fitzpatrick said DelDOT had another year's work remaining on truck issues. The Freight Rail plan will be in final form by July,

Godwin was also anxious to hear about traffic signaling improvements in six major areas of Newark including 50 intersections pinpointed by DelDOT and city staff

Work on Park Place has been delayed because of rights to the utility poles and DelDOT is exploring a wireless option to the system, Moghissi said.

Councilmember Thomas Wampler noted that the University of Delaware parking garage on Academy Street would greatly affect traffic flow on Park Place and new studies would be needed once use of the structure began. Wampler said the new garage will allow parking for over 500 cars.

The Christina School District is developing a new 5-year District Strategic Plan. The District is seeking volunteers to serve on the strategic Planning Steering Committee.

In order to be considered to serve on the committee, please submit your name, address and phone number to Dr. Capes Riley, Assistant Superintendent, Christina School District, 83 E. Main Street, Newark, DE 19711, by Wednesday, June 28, 2000.

The first Steering Committee Planning Session will be held in the Staff Development Room at Gauger/Cobbs Middle School on July 10 and 11, 2000, from 8:00 AM to 4:30 PM.

The second Steering Committee Planning Session (2 days) will be held in Spring 2001. During that session the committee will evaluate action plans developed by action teams to make sure that they outline the tasks required to accomplish the objectives of the strategic Plan. The committee will also submit the Strategic Plan to the Christina Board of Education for review and adoption.

If you have any questions, please contact Dr. Riley at 454-2000, ext. 257.

District seeks committee members for strategic planning

By KATY CIAMARICONE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Christina School District is seeking new members for the district's Strategic Planning Steering Committee which will meet in July. Their mandate will be to develop three to four major objectives for Delaware's largest school district to meet over the next five years

The committee, which has met every five years since it was established in 1990, is made up of 25 members, including parents, teachers and other school district faculty.

The committee was developed to improve the Christina School

District by recognizing "its strengths and to comprise action plans to improve its weaknesses and to analyze external events that impact students and faculty," said Capes Riley, assistant superintendent for the school district.

Riley said when committee members meet on July 10 and 11, they will also address important issues such as improving math and reading programs, providing more space, and making technological advancements.

The committee establishes school district's major beliefs, and then they create a mission statement," Riley said.

After the committee members meet in July, he said, they will submit a plan of action to the Board of Education for review.

The members will meet again in the spring of 2001 to evaluate the school district's progress in achieving the goals.

"In previous years, the Steering Committee has had a profound impact on the educational system in Delaware," Riley said. "The last time the committee met, its members decided that overcrowding in schools was becoming a large prob-

As a result, referendums were passed, and new buildings were eventually extracted, Riley said.

The Steering Committee is here to make sure the district has a vision and everybody is moving in the same direction to reach that vision," Riley said.

Downes students in tune for concert

Students at Downes Elementary School grooved to the beat at two "End of School Concerts" last week.

One performance featured the Downes fourth grade Blues Project in which students learned about the history of blues music as expression and social commentary.

Among the instruments they learned how to play in the project were keyboard instruments, recorders (song flutes), and band instruments like clarinets, saxophones, trumpets and cellos.

To learn about improvisation, they listened to recordings by jazz artists like Sonny Rollins and Charlie Parker. Many of the students even wore dark sunglasses and funky hats to set the mood at this week's "gig."

The winners of the recent Recorder Composition Competition also appeared in the concert. The recorder is a baroque song flute that has been popular with professional musicians and amateurs for over 500 years.

At a second concert, the first and second graders sang songs, including two songs with sign language.

scheduled stops at the Newark Train Station. Ray Miller, the director of Delaware Transit Corporation, said the added trips. initially part of 1-95 reconstruction efforts, will now continue full-time, as will the current free parking at the station.

In July, low-floor buses without steps for disabled and handicapped will be introduced.

Newark to Elkton bus service also will begin this summer with routes running from 6 a.m. to 8

DelDOT is also working to find a transit hub for Newark. Conceptually, it will be located at the College Square shopping center, Miller said.

Although a heavily-visited issue in the past, reconfiguration of the the Deer Park intersection at West Main Street received little new discussion. With a "no clear winner" recommendation coming from DelDOT, the issue has been stalemated for over a

"Most complaints I get (about the Deer Park intersection) are

related to trucks," Mayor Hal Godwin said. "I always felt if we could reduce truck use, we could reduce the number of com-

Problems contributing to Newark's truck troubles, according to DelDOT planner Mike Fitzpatrick, include a lack of rest areas, a lack of safe weigh-inmotion and roadside inspection areas, inadequate off-street storage areas adjacent to major shippers, toll avoidance by truckers, and a lack of an official truck route system.

With the majority of trucks coming in on Routes 896 and 273 directed toward the DaimlerChrysler Corporation to unload assembly line parts and supplies, Fitzpatrick suggested using the railroad instead.

A Parts Department employee from Chrysler who attended the council workshop said the company would like to see an increase in the use of rail shipments, but does not have the storage capacity for early arrivals. 'We are moving just under 400 trucks a day in and out of our parking lots," she said.

An expanded rail yard at Chrysler and a weigh-in-motion inspection area on Route 896, could also improve the Deer Park intersection traffic, Fitzpatrick

He also suggested elevating or tunneling the railroad crossing at that intersection to eliminate the grade crossing problems if a traffic signal were installed there.

There is no question in my mind that freight issues will be getting increased attention at DOT," Canby said.

About one year into the freight and goods movement study, Fitzpatrick said DelDOT had another year's work remaining on truck issues. The Freight Rail plan will be in final form by July, he said.

Godwin was also anxious to hear about traffic signaling improvements in six major areas of Newark including 50 intersections pinpointed by DelDOT and city staff.

DelDOT's chief traffic engineer, Reza Moghissi, said intersections on Elkton Road, Cleveland Avenue, and in the downtown area at Main Street, Delaware and Library avenues, had been improved under the Intersections near Delaware Stadium on South College Avenue, along Route 273, and along Park Place will be the next, with intersections near the stadium to be finished for football season and those on 273 to be complete by the end of the year.

Work on Park Place has been delayed because of rights to the utility poles and DelDOT is exploring a wireless option to the system, Moghissi said.

Thomas Councilmember Wampler noted that the University of Delaware parking garage on Academy Street would greatly affect traffic flow on Park Place and new studies would be needed once use of the structure began. Wampler said the new garage will allow parking for over 500 cars.

City council does not vote or take action on any items discussed at city council workshops.

"It wasn't until we made his funeral arrangements and we had to provide his discharge papers that we knew he earned three bronze stars while he was in the Korean War," said Hitchens. "My kids are saying, 'Mom, you don't get those for sitting around in a chair!"

For their war, the Hitchens' M*A*S*H unit took second place in the camp competition and placed fourth for costumes. They were the only family group to win prizes against their corporate counterparts at the relay.

A new provision in the agreement will automatically renew the agreement for successive one-year terms when the eightyear term expires. Either party may give 30-days notice not to renew the agreement.

Newark resident Jean White commended city council on the agreement but said she would prefer it not be subject to automatic renewal.

"It's difficult to get in to see (the items)," White said. 'Making it more accessible should be part of the agreement in return for the city supplying

Although the Society has a telephone number to make appointments, and some scheduled hours when the station is open, White explained she had been unsuccessful in past efforts to visit the facility.

Thomas said it was "interesting" that anyone felt there should a mandated time for the facility to be open. "There is no public access required under our agreement and we have no obligation to have displays or to open the building, although we want to if we can," Thomas said. Although the city provides the space and maintains the utilities without charge, Thomas said the Society pays all of the expenses associated with their historical activities.

"We do not get any kind of funding from governments, grants or anywhere else," he said. 'We pay all of our own expenses for displays, cabinets and anything else we do."

Thomas said members were getting so overwhelmed that they voted to scale back some community activities about two years ago. "It became burdensome and people were burning out and saying this was a lot more work than they thought," he said. "It's easier to do now that we scaled back."

According to Thomas, approximately 1,500 people have visited the displays in the past 11 years. "Of that number, we have had Boy Scouts and Brownie troops, a lot of researchers, and two times the Smithsonian included us in part of a tour on railroads in Delaware," Thomas said. "And during open houses in 1990 and 1991, about 500 people went through.'

Medals for Korean War Service an overdue honor

A mericans are waking up to the fact that the "war" in Vietnam was not the only forgotten conflict in our history.

Over a million military personel saw combat during the three years of the Korean War.

As with too many American conflicts in other countries, this effort began to support the recognized government there at the time.

Many of the young men and women who were sent to Korea had already been under fire in Europe and Asia during World War II.

Some of them had been part of the rear guard in those areas well into the late 1940s.

As noted in an article in this week's paper, the National Guard was also actively engaged overseas for the first time during the Korean War.

Thousands of people who thought they would only be called up in the event of attack on American soil found themselves spending months, and years, on the other side of the world.

Engaged in fighting for most of a decade, they desperately wanted to get on with their lives.

They did so in big and little ways, raising families, doing their jobs, finding joy and comfort in the most ordinary events.

Now, their children and grandchildren are starting to wonder what really went on in those weary three years.

Confusing, costly billing practices

By DR. FLOYD E. MCDOWELL, SR.

NEWARK POST GUEST COLUMNIST

Every senior citizen organization and center should present and discuss the health care billing problems and practices that need to be corrected in our state.

Each Medicare user can prevent paying health care providers for services these providers are not properly billing to Medicare and to other secondary insurance coverage. Governor Carper and our state legislators should quickly pass a law that would clear up this confused billing and help save Delaware's Medicare users huge sums of money they unwittingly pay because of their health care providers billing mistakes.

My wife and I are both senior citizens covered for health care by Medicare and a comprehensive private insurance plan. I will use our experiences with confusing incorrect health care provider billing as representative examples of what is happening with other senior citizens in our state.

Over the past two years, we have had a number of visits with our physician at the Health Care Center at Christiana, Labcorps laboratory and with a couple of health care specialists. I will use the Christiana Center and Labcorps as examples of incorrect billing that could have cost us hundreds of dollars.

Each time we went into a provider's office, we gave information about our Medicare and other insurance coverage. Labcorps sent us bills for four visits they stated we had to pay as individuals. Soon a collection agency asked for payment of these four bills with the usual threat that our credit rating would be damaged if we didn't pay them. I called the collection agency (not a toll-free number). When I asked why our Medicare and secondary insurance didn't pay for this lab work, he asked me to give him both of our Medicare and other insurance coverage information. I did and he then told me, "These bills are now paid for and you will not be billed again." I then called Labcorp's headquarters in Virginia and talked with one of their executives. After listening to me, she told me Labcorp realized it had some serious billing problems and was working to solve them. I studied the Medicare forms related to each of these four Labcorp services and each form had the statement, "The information provided (by Labcorp billing) does not support the need for this service or

The same type of problem was experienced with a billing the Health Care Center of Christiana sent to Medicare. The Medicare explanation refusing payment was "The information we requested (from Christiana Care) was not received."

On one Medicare form involving a specialist provider, a statement informed that the specialist's billing office did not even include my wife's Medicare number nor information about her secondary insurance.

My wife and I are in full agreement that all of the professional and other staff in these provider's offices are courteous, helpful and very professional. After these billing nightmares were experienced, I had to go into Labcorp for a laboratory procedure. As I gave my Medicare and other insurance coverage information to the receptionist, I asked if all of this coverage information would be sent to Medicare. She replied,"Sir, we know nothing about how our billing office operates. But we do get many complaints about our billing."

I called the newly formed Delaware Medicare Fraud Alert program and found a courteous, understanding person who listened to my information.

I called our Delaware Health Care Commission office, briefly explained my call and was told someone would call me back. This was a week ago and I have not received a call back from that office.

I called our State Attorney General's office and was told our State Insurance Commissioner's office dealt with this type of situation. I called our Insurance Department's office and was referred to an official. I have never used nicotine or alcoholic beverages but I do find that as I get older and encounter experiences like these health care billing problems, I find myself cursing more. The Insurance Department official acted as if he didn't want to hear what I felt needed to be communicated and definitely seemed to me to be defending these provider's billing practices. I did curse him as I stated he acted as if he worked for these providers. He did indicate something of sensible value when he stated a law was needed to help prevent or eliminate these practices.

The best law would be to provide total coverage to all citizens at all times with a Delaware single-payer non-government run system. This would save approximately 40 percent of all private/public funds by eliminating the health insurance industry from our lives. This industry contributes absolutely nothing to any aspect of health care. In a single-payer system, only one billing is

If our lawmakers won't support a program and cost effective single-payer Delaware health care system, a consumer protection law should be passed which would include the following requirements of all health care providers:

Before a citizen leaves a provider's office, he/she should be given a written, signed statement that the service(s) provided is covered or not covered by Medicare and/or other secondary insurance coverage held by the citizen.

The one-page of information given each citizen would include a statement about who to call in case the Medicare covered citizen is billed. This information would included the phone number for the provider of service and the toll-free numbers of the provider's billing office and the Medicare office which will receive the provider's billing.

When double-billing practices are documented, provide both fines and felony prison terms for decision-makers responsible for ripping off senior citizens. All stealing should be treated equally and if theft is proven in this area of our culture, it is the worst type imaginable.

In the meantime, every Medicare covered citizen should carefully study every billing report sent by Medicare, demand explanations where indicated and do not pay when individually billed until every question has been answered. And every citizen is urged to contact Governor Carper and her/his state legislator and ask them to understand the importance of passing legislation to prevent these costly practices.

Army Reserve commemorating Korean War

All veterans of the action to receive medals

It was on June 27, 1950, that President Truman first announced the United States' intervention in a war that would test the strength of the U.S. Army Reserve, then the Organized Reserve Corps.

The United States entered the Korean War to defend South Korea from communist attempts to bring down the recognized government and gain jurisdiction over the entire Korean peninsula.

After the North Korean army's invasion across the 38th parallel, the United Nations reacted with the resolution to use armed force for the first time.

"While the Army Reserve has been involved in every major American conflict of the 20th century, the Korean War was the first time the Reserve was allowed to demonstrate its ability in combat," said Lieutenant Colonel Mike Burbach, a public affairs officer at Office of the Chief, Army Reserve.

By August 1950, the Reserve provided 404 units in addition to 10,584 individual USAR officers to the Army's efforts in Korea:

More than 240,500 Reservists were called to active duty during the Korean War.

They received seven Medals of Honor and 10 percent of other top combat decorations. The war lasted until July 27, 1953, when a cease-fire agreement was signed.

Today's Army Reserve provides technological, medical, engineering, transportation and logistical support to the active Army.

Army Reserve units mobilized for operations in Southwest Asia and Somalia, and today continue missions in Bosnia and Kosovo.

"Unlike the Reserve that served the nation during the Korean War, the Army Reserve is now an absolute necessity for the Army to deploy, train or take part in any major military operation," explained Burbach.

Korean War commemorative activities begin June 25 in Washington, D.C., when U.S. Senator John Glenn, a Marine Corps veteran of the conflict, and Defense Secretary William S. Cohen will speak at the opening ceremonies to an expected 10,000 Korean War veterans and their families.

Also in attendance will be representatives from 20 United Nations countries that fought along side United States forces.

Representing Korea will be the South Korean Ambassador to the United States, Hong-Koo Lee. U.S. President Clinton will speak at the Korean War Veterans Memorial in Washington DC.

In a more timely commemorative effort, Korean War veterans have been authorized by Defense Secretary William S. Cohen to receive the Republic of Korea's Korean War Service Medal.

"We would like to give those medals to all 1.2 million veterans and the families of veterans who have died," said Air Force Major General Nels Running, director of the commemoration committee. The process is expected to take about four years.

On a community level, Maj. Gen. Running and the commemoration committee is sponsoring Korean War Commemoration Communities.

Running feels this will supply the "grass-root support," needed to reach veterans.

Approximately 2,000 communities have signed up.

Proposal to expand Delaware 'Pill Bill'

State legislators are proposing a legislative Task Force to look into expanding the Delaware Pharmacy Assistance Bill (the Pill Bill) already passed for HMO disenrollees...

The recent news that "CIGNA" will disenroll over 3,700 New Castle residents from their federal government's approved Medicare HMO plan means many members will lose their pharmacy benefits, and that they will be forced to enroll in another Medicare HMO plan (without prescription coverage) or return to a more costly traditional Medicare fee-for-service

When seniors are disenrolled from the federal government HMO Medicare risk plan, they are eligible to enroll in another qualified HMO, or the standardized, traditional Medicare feefor-service plan, which means they may need to secure a Medicare supplemental plan (mediagap coverage).

Depending on the age of the seniors, the supplemental plan selected, and if pharmacy benefits are included, the current monthly premium, from one insurer, can be between $50 and $90 (for Plan D, without pharmacy benefits).

For a Plan I, with a limited pharmacy benefit, the current minimum monthly costs (of one insurer) can range from $126 to $240 depending on the ages.

And some carriers may not provide coverage for new enrollees if they are currently using prescriptions.

Three known deaths already occurred this year by children being left in a car seat in the car for more than two hours. While the temperature outside the vehicle was only 63 degrees, on a 93 percent day with the windows cracked, the temperature in a car can reach 125 percent in 20 minutes, 140 percent in 40 minutes.

"Heat rapidly overcomes the body's ability to regulate temperature and, in a closed environment, the body can go into shock, which causes circulation to the vital organs to fail," warned Dr. Martin Eichelberger, M.D., director of trauma surgery at Children's National Medical Center and president of the SAFE KIDS Campaign.

Car trunks can be especially dangerous; kids can get in but not out. In very hot weather, heat stroke could result, leading to permanent disability or death in minutes.

Because of this danger, General Motors Corporation has developed a kit to prevent child deaths in trunks of vehicles. The kits, available through dealers, will prevent trunk lids from closing on children. They also provide a means of escape in the event a child becomes entrapped in a trunk.

All of Delaware meets at the Fair

Arguably the greatest family entertainment-fun package offered in our state each summer is the Delaware State Fair. It is held near the Kent-Sussex county line just south of Harrington.

For 10 days each year, the Delaware above the canal and the Delaware below the canal come together for a celebration of what made Delaware important in commercial and cultural history and a celebration of what makes it important today. That is quite a tall order considering the diversity of the First State. The fair has been able to live up to that promise for many years. I think this year will be no exception.

Many improvements have been made over the years at the fairground. As an example, the entire midway now has blacktop. This may seem unimportant to some, but if you have ever taken little children in their little white shoes to a fair or carnival just after it rains, you will know why I think that is an important improvement.

Thoughts of a state fair anywhere in our nation can conjure up all sorts of pleasant images – great learning opportunities for children, amusement rides, art shows, flower shows, petting zoos, food (notice how that word shows up a lot in my columns?) and the like. Our fair does offer something for everyone, no matter the age.

Slowly over the years, New Castle County residents began to be fewer and fewer at the event. My own family, good Delawareans since about 1816, ended their trips. Then came World War II and rationing and that just about ended participation from the north.

Two major travel problems were, first, getting on the fair grounds and, second, the distance all but the earliest arrivals had to park from the gates. The second one meant a walk of a half-mile or more through either dust or mud. Well, those kinds of problems are all behind us here in the First State thanks to the Delaware Transit Corp. (DTC) the rail arm of DelDOT!

Once again this year DTC rail specialist Doug Andrews has announced that there will be an opportunity to ride an air-conditioned Amtrak train from the Newark area to within a few hundred yards of the fair's west gate and back on Saturday, July 22. You can have a great afternoon at the Delaware State Fair in Harrington without any of the travel problems we used to have.

travel problems we used to have.

If you would please look at the photo with my column today, you can clearly see just how close the Amtrak Diesel is to the midway as it rolls to a stop. It is a short stroll right to the West Gate. By the way, my daughter Jean took that photo so I will now pause for you to admire her artistry. Thank you!

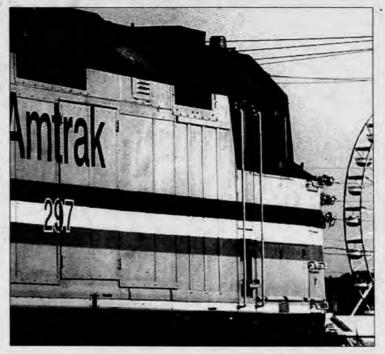

The Rail to the Fair train will make three stops in the Newark Post service area. One is surely to be good for you and your family. The first stop is at Delaware's newest station. It has two names and you may take your pick, Churchman's Crossing or Fairplay. The first name for the geographic area and the second for the great racehorse bred and trained on the horse farm that once occupied the site. Train time there is 9:51 a.m.

The next stop is at Newark's SEPTA station. It is located under the Route 896 bridge as the road passes over Amtrak's Northeast Corridor main line. There are signs to help you find your way into the parking lot. Train time in Newark is 10:03 a.m.

The final area stop is in Middletown, good for our southern tier readers. It is at the site of the old Pennsylvania Railroad Station. Train time there is 10:51 a.m.

The train will leave the Fairgrounds at 5:30 p.m. for the round trip to the same stations.

Many things come together to make this a pleasant journey for young and old alike. I am very happy to report that Andrews will once again be providing the geographic and historic narrative along the route of the old Delaware Railroad, along a part of the Pennsylvania Railroad line from Wilmington to Cape Charles and Norfolk. His narrative, different every year, is one of the highlights of a great trip. He also points out excellent photo opportunities far enough ahead of time to let your get your camera ready to go.

The Delaware Transit Corporation and Amtrak will operate a reservation only air-conditioned train to and from the Delaware State Fair on Saturday, July 22. It will make stops at three Newark area railroad stations and go directly to the fair's West Gate.

For more information and tickets, which must be purchased in advance, you may call DTC at 302-577-3278, or e-mail adandrews@dtc.dot.state.de.us.

AstroPower introduces new line

Newark-based AstroPower Inc. is rolling out a new line of larger solar cells and power modules. The solar cells are the largest and most powerful commercially available solar cells, according to the company.

The larger cells can reduce the cost of electricity generated by the solar cells. That's because installation, manufacturing and other costs do not go up in direct proportion to the amount of electricity generated by larger cells.

The larger cells are in demand because of a desire for "green power" that does not use fossil or nuclear fuels.

AstroPower earlier made a splash technology that allows cellular users to tap into the sun's power to recharge their phone batteries.

AstroPower is now the largest US-owned manufacturer of solar electric power products, and one of the world's fastest growing solar electric power companies.

Fueling this growth is technology developed by the company and the success of its manufacturing operations. AstroPower has manufacturing facilities in the Newark area.

POST GAME

A good time to jump in

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Summer has long been a time for carnivals and rides. Well, after 18 months away from the local sports carnival, there's no better time to return than now.

This week is always one of the best of the summer sports calendar. The Carpenter Cup ran all week and Blue-Gold All-Star Football Game is Saturday night at Delaware Stadium.

Valania

The
Carpenter Cup is an excellent opportunity for the state's high school baseball players to see how they match up against all-star teams from the across the region. Leagues throughout southeastern Pennsylvania and South Jersey enter their best all-star teams.

Delaware, after years of entering just one team, now puts two teams into the single-elimination tournament.

It's a great competition that, more often than not, sees Delaware teams fare well.

We've always had some great youth league baseball teams in our area. Teams from Newark National, Newark American and Canal always seem to be vying for state championships. Our local American Legion teams always excel. The Carpenter Cup is another format in which we generally come away feeling pretty good about the quality of our schools, leagues and players.

As far as the Blue-Gold football game goes, what else is there to say?

It's been long regarded as one of the top all-star high school events in the country. Recent years have done nothing to change that perception.

It's a chance to see the best high school seniors in the state play against each other under the lights at Delaware Stadium. It's a chance to take part in a festive pregame atmosphere with tailgating and everything else that 's associated with a big-time football game. It's a chance to get a

Blue-Gold All-Stars set to shine

Local players set for action Saturday night

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A quick look back to last fall reveals that the best high school football teams in the state included Newark, Middletown, St. Mark's and Caesar Rodney. The only thing more difficult than playing one of those teams is probably playing an all-star team comprised of many of their players.

Well, that's exactly what's going to happen in Saturday night's 45th annual Blue-Gold All-Star Football Game at Delaware Stadium.

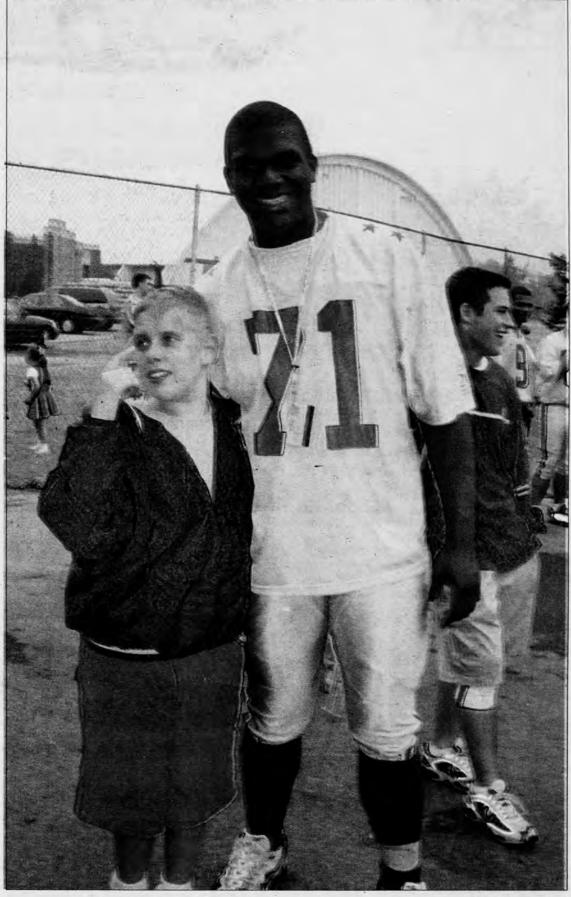

The Division I champion Yellowjackets, Division II champion Cavaliers as well as Division I semifinalists CR and St. Mark's all will put players on the Gold team for this year's contest. At first glance, this fact, plus the addition of many other all-stars, would make the Gold a prohibitive favorite. But a closer look reveals otherwise.

"All you have to do is look at what happened last year," said Gold coach Mark DelPercio, of Glasgow. "The Gold had players from Newark and Middletown and everybody thought they were going to dominate. What happened? They went out and got

If you look at the team Most Valuable Players, it isn't hard to figure out who dominated the 23rd annual Blue-Gold All-Star Baseball Game Monday night at Frawley Stadium.

Dickinson's Dave Harden pitched two perfect innings to help lead the Blue to a 3-0 victory over the Gold and took home his team's MVP honors. The award, however, could have gone to the entire Blue pitching staff. The combination of Harden, Clint Willoughby, Dan McGinnes and A.J. Sutsko limited the Gold All-Stars to just one hit all night.

Leading 1-0, the Blue broke the game open with two runs in the fifth inning. Newark's Ian Deptula reached first base on an error, stole second and came in to score on Brock Donovan's single to left field. James Drane, who walked and advanced to third on an error and Donovan's hit scored on A.J. Zickgraf's sacrifice fly to deep left field.

The Blue took a 1-0 lead in the second inning as Bret Underwood singled and eventually scored on Duben Word's single.

Travis Timmons, of Sussex Tech, picked up the Gold's MVP award by pitching a scoreless fourth inning.

Smyrna's Mike O'Neill got the Gold's lone hit – a single in the fourth inning.

and Christiana's Duben Word for not knowing exactly what color they were wearing or what sport they were playing Monday night. The two were part of a group of six players that participated in Blue-Gold football practice sessions in the morning and afternoon and were shuttled quickly from Newark to Frawley Stadium to play in the Blue-Gold Baseball

Old high school friends to become college foes

Harris, German on opposite sides of Stanford-Cal rivalry

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

In many cases the Blue-Gold All-Star Football Game caps a great career for high school football players. For a few, however, the all-star game, and all the practice and preparation that goes into it, marks the beginning of a college career.

Newark High's Kwame Harris and Micah German fall into the latter category.

Harris and German, both linemen, teamed up to help lead the Yellowjackets to three consecutive Division I state championships. Both are excellent students and both are headed to the San Francisco Bay area to attend college on football scholarships.

The only difference is, Harris is going to Stanford and German to California (Berkeley) So while they'll end up on the opposite ends of one of the most fiercest rivalries in college sports, they get one more opportunity to play together.

"Coming [to Blue-Gold camp] really has got me thinking about my future," said German, already sporting a Cal baseball cap. "It's a great honor to play in a game like this and it will be great for me to start getting ready to go to German (6-5, 270) says he's been in constant contact with the Golden Bears' coaching staff.

"I talk to them every week," he said. "I have a great relationship with the coaches, especially my offensive line coach, Ed White. The attention they have given me has been unbelievable.

"I think I'll be moving from one family at Newark - the coaches here are great that way - to another at Cal. I'm really looking forward to it."

German leaves for Cal Aug. Football practice begins Aug.

For Harris (6-6, 320), the Blue-Gold game is a similar experience.

'I'm really looking forward to playing in this game," said Harris, who was one of the most highly recruited high school players in the entire country. "It's very special to be playing with the best high school athletes in the state of Delaware. It's also kind of the beginning to my college career. After the game is over, there will only be a couple of weeks before I go to Stanford.'

Harris will leave for Palo Alto on July 16. Stanford begins football practice Aug. 7.

"This will be a good experience, getting used to playing against all good players. It will be great."

As for his friendship with German, Harris says he's happy that his former teammate will only be 45 minutes away during college.

"No matter where you go to college, it's always tough to be away from home for that first time," Harris said. "I'm glad Micah will be that close. He's a great friend. I think it can help us both. But [Stanford and Call] is such a huge rivalry, we'll have to put that aside on the football field. There are no friends during the game."

their butts kicked by the Blue.

"I think we can learn a valuable lesson by just looking back a what happened last year.

This year's Gold squad will certainly have some explosive players. Running backs Brandon Brown (Middletown) and Brown Brandon Haman (Newark) have that capability as do Duben Word (Christiana), Virgil Rush (Christiana) and Louie Wright (St. Mark's). In addition, the Gold has All-State lineman Kwame Harris and Michah German from Newark.

"There are some good players [on the Blue]," German said. "There's no way any of us are not thinking this isn't going to be a very tough game. They have a lot of talent for one, and I know we were taught to never underestimate anybody."

The Blue may come in as the underdog but it only has to look back one year to see what can happen to the favorite. Plus, it has some exciting players of its own including William Penn's B.J. Davis.

"On paper, [the Gold] probably looks like the better team," said Blue coach Jim Simmons, from Mount Pleasant. "But Newark and Middletown and St. Mark's don't get to bring their whole team and they don't get to bring their systems. They have some very good players, but sometimes it's having the whole team and system in place that makes those programs even better. They don't have that."

One thing that doesn't change from year-to-year is the revercoaches have for being part of the

"It's a pleasure and an honor," said Simmons, who is making his first appearance has a head coach in the all-star game. "I think it may be even more so this year with first-year coaches. We get to coach the best high school seniors in the state. It promotes your program and it also let's you find out that the guys on your rivals are pretty good guys. It's a great situation.

DelPercio, also a first-year head coach in this game, echoed those sentiments.

"It's a tremendous honor to be selected by your peers to coach this game," he said. "To not only coach the tremendous talent, but the quality kids we get to be with.

Everything we do - all the off-field events - are really first class. It's just a great thing to be Local players on the Gold team include from Newark: Michah German, Kwame Harris, Brandon Haman and Ian Deptula; from Glasgow: Matt Folke, Troy Beulah and John DiStefano; from Christiana: Duben Word and Virgil Rush; from St. Mark's: Louie Wright, Jeff Martin and Jeff Shahan.

Blue-Gold game more than just a sporting event jump on the Fourth of July with a great fireworks display that immediately follows the game.

More important than all of that, however, is the game is a chance to raise money for the Delaware Foundation of Retarded Children.

The DFRC distributes proceeds from its fund-raisers to programs that benefit children with mental retardation. The funds are allocated as grants and seed money that support the programs for physical and social development, vocational training, assisted and independent living, education, advocacy, the arts, research and recreation.

As good as the Blue-Gold game is as a football event, it's even better as a "people" event.

The goal of the game is to provide experiences that will be remembered for many years." The game celebrates differences and celebrates the human spirit. It's hard to watch Blue-Gold event after event without being touched by the people involved.

We're fortunate to live in a community that is always well represented in this game.

Every year it seems that some of the best players in the state are from right here. They are the ones that get the biggest benefit from participating in the whole Blue-Gold experience.

Often, it's not until a few years later that the players realize how special their time really

Yes, the Blue-Gold game is a great place to jump back into the local sporting fray. But it will hardly be the end.

The rest of the summer will be filled with youth sports competitions that always seem to display how good our athletes and summer leagues really are. Before long, it will be time for high school sports again.

As far as rides go, there's no better one at the sports carnival than the merry-go-round - it's great to be back on it.

baseball game, but are members of the Gold squad for the football

"It was a crazy day," Deptula said. "My mom picked me up from practice and I ate a couple sandwiches in the car on the ride up and then played. It was fun, though.'

Both Deptula and Word contributed to the Blue's baseball victory. Deptula scored one of the Blue's runs and Word knocked in the team's first run with a single.

"It was definitely different," said Deptula, who will play cornerback Saturday night. "I haven't thrown a baseball in 10

Others who were part of this unique doubleheader included Middletown's Chris Lloyd, Dickinson's Josh Nelson, Archmere's A.J. Sutsko and Woodbridge's Jason Rust. All six were excused from the third football practice of the day to attend the baseball game.
