HORRORS!

'The Rocky Horror Picture Show' is Newark's longest-running film and the unabashed 'toast' of the town

by Bruce Johnson

Armed with costumes, rice, toast, playing cards, squirt guns and a host of one liners that would make a call girl blush, area residents lined up outside the State Theater for the weekly Saturday midnight showing of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show."

With the gleam of anticipation in their eyes, they giggled and laughed with the familiarity of a common bond.

For more than 10 years this scene has been repeated outside thousands of theaters across the country. In that time, this, the other "Rocky," has grossed the movie industry millions of dollars and created concern in the hearts of parents and some fundamentalist groups.

What attracts "Rocky" audiences, their ages ranging from pre-teen to senior citizen, to the same movie week after week, with some fans viewing it into the hundreds of times?

According to the movie-goers it is not the movie itself but the energy and antics of the audiences — antics which often resemble an adult form of recess — that keeps them coming back for more.

"The movie in itself as an art form is worthless," said Jon Kmetz, a University of Delaware student who performs weekly as No-Neck in the State Theater "cast." "What makes me come back is that it's something exciting to do. You can do and be whoever you want, real or otherwise and no one will give you a hard time."

"It's an outlet," said Brian Kendall, a Delaware Technical and Community College student and leader of the Banzai Brigade, whose antics are so wild and humorous that the State Theater sells them tickets at half price. "Here we can be rowdy and have some fun. It gets my aggressions out and I'm literally exhausted after a show."

"The movie's great the first 30 times you see it, but after that it gets kind of boring. The main attraction is the crowd and the energy."

The movie is a modern musical adaptation of Frankenstein — with several alterations. The most notable is that "Frankie" is a transsexual-transvestite.

Originally, "Rocky" was a stage production in London. It was made into a movie by 20th Century Fox. At first the movie did not do well and was on the

Castle selects Christina

District to work on 'career incentives'

by Neil Thomas

When Gov. Michael N. Castle delivered his State of the State address last week, the Christina School District was an important part of the message.

Castle's speech stressed education, particularly the need to attract quality teachers through increased salaries.

"Certainly one reason fewer college students are looking to teaching as a career is based on salary expectations," Castle told a joint session of the House and Senate in Dover.

"It is my hope that when you and I leave here at the end of January, we will have taken the first steps in preventing a crisis in our schools. For, if we fail to act, it will be a crisis that confronts us," he said.

As part of his plan to improve salaries, Castle announced that the Christina School District had been asked to pilot a "career incentive program" as a model for the state.

The Christina Board of Education, after consultations with the Christina Education Association, voted unanimously Jan. 14 to accept the governor's offer.

Christina Superintendent Dr. Michael W. Walls said the governor asked the district to develop a teacher incentive plan with just three provisos — that any plan must include the state teacher evaluation plan now being developed that there be substantial teacher input and that the plan include additional incentives for teachers.

The Tilghmans

Newark couple has common bond in love of the printed word

by Neil Thomas

Words — especially those found on the printed page — have been a way of life for one special Newark couple, Cornelius A. Tilghman Sr. and Marjorie Johnson Tilghman of Winslow Road.

Marjorie is the daughter of Everett C. Johnson, who founded the Newark Post and published its first edition nearly 76 years ago, on Jan. 26, 1910.

Cornelius was a close friend of the family who edited the newspaper briefly on the sad and unexpected death of Mr. Johnson at the age of 48 on Feb. 20, 1926.

As well as the two knew each other back in the newspaper's early days, it was not until 1973 — with both in retirement — that their paths crossed and permanently intertwined.

Marjorie was born to Everett and Louise S. Johnson and is a true native of Newark, having been reared on a 50-acre farm near what is now Brookside.

She well remembers Newark as a small rural community of 3,000 — a figure which included students at Delaware College.

"One of my greatest childhood memories is when my grandfather took me sleigh racing down Main Street," she said.

The first races, she said, were always between Victor Willis and Daniel Thompson, who owned the best horses in town. Willis was a professional baseball player with the Washington, D.C. team who opened the Washington House, today the Stone Balloon, and "Square Thompson" was a noted leader of the community.

Marjorie made her first contribution to the Newark Post in 1915, with a letter to Santa Claus.

She remembers well her father's love of the printing trade, which he often remarked "is an art, not a job." He constructed a most unique print shop — the castle-like Pres of Kells, made of the gray stone of Iron Hill — at what is now the busy intersection of Park Place and South College Avenue.

Today the building — once "out in the country" houses the Newark Center YWCA.

The Press of Kells was named for the famed illuminated manuscript completed by a monk in Ireland during the 7th century.

The shop printed the Newark Post, as well as many fine books, such as a volume containing the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution, and "The English Bible as Literature."

It also printed the University of Delaware newspaper, The Review.

Cornelius, a native of Smyrna, became close to the Johnson family while editing The Review in 1924-25. He sometimes dined with the family and occasionally saw Marjorie on campus, where she was studying history.

Come the summer of 1925, Cornelius graduated and began working on the old Wilmington Evening Journal, then one of four daily newspapers in the city. He also did some work for its competitors, the Sunday Star, the Morning News and the Journal, Every Evening.

Later that year, Cornelius went off to Yale University to study English but he ran out of funds and returned to Newark.

In February, Everett Johnson died suddenly in his sleep, having been reading a volume of Carl Sandburg's biography of Abraham Lincoln.

The town, it seemed, was grief stricken, and Johnson's chief assistant left the Press of Kells, unable to continue after the loss of his boss and friend.

Tilghman gamely stepped in to fill the void. "I volunteered to edit the paper for Mrs. Johnson until she could get someone else," he said.

His tenure lasted from February until September, when a Rhodes Scholarship led him away from Newark — and the Johnson family.

Marjorie and Cornelius went their separate ways.

She graduated from the University of Delaware and began a long teaching career, including a 17-year stint at the Tatnall School.

Her love was history, an interest she inherited from her father. "Certainly my love of history and an interest in Lincoln, I inherited from him," she said. "My mother was good in mathematics, but that didn't rub off."

Cornelius, in Oxford, England, on his Rhodes Scholarship, both studied and kept his hand in the journalistic trade. "I was offered a job writing occasionally for the United Press, and I did some work," he said.

After three years abroad, Cornelius returned to the States. He taught and wrote, penning works for newspapers as well as fiction and radio scripts.

In the mid-1960s, he began a new career entirely, being named coordinator of remotivation at Delaware State Hospital. That job required him to remotivate patients who had been cured of their mental illness but who had become too accustomed to institutional life.

Still, he kept writing. He produced articles for professional journals, as well as employee newsletters.

By the early 1970s, the paths of Marjorie and Cornelius crossed once more. Both had retired from fulfilling careers and both were single once again after rearing families of their own.

In the fall of 1972, Cornelius decided to ask Marjorie out on a date. "I called up and invited her to a football game," said the long-time Fighting Blue Hen fan. "But she didn't go."

"I couldn't go," she said, laughing, "but we did get together later."

Today the couple enjoys "puttering around" their home, which is filled with memorabilia from the Press of Kells, gardening, reading and working with the Newark Historical Society.

Cornelius recently finished "Lake Wobegon Days," which he recommends.

They can recall different times in Newark, times when there were, incredibly, no traffic problems. "There were none when I was in college," Cornelius said. "My fraternity probably had the only automobile in use by college students, a Ford we bought for $25."

And yet, although their lives have been deeply touched by the past, both are very much alive, active and interested in the present.

Assistant superintendent

Dr. Sylvia H. Little, Texas consultant, will join Christina in March

by Neil Thomas

Dr. Sylvia H. Little, an educational consultant from Austin, Texas, has been named the Christina School District's new assistant superintendent for instruction.

Little was awarded a three-year contract by the Christina school board during a meeting Jan. 14. She is expected to begin her new duties in late March.

Little replaces Ann K. Bartle, who retired in late December after more than 30 years in public education.

School board President Carole

Ann Boyd of Fairfield said Little was selected because she "embodies all the attributes for which we were looking."

Boyd described the new assistant superintendent as energetic with a strong background in curriculum development and experience in the field.

"Also, she has shown an ability to work with people, which is a strong component of the job," Boyd said.

Little said from her Austin office that she is "quite excited" about her new position.

She believes her strengths lie in staff development, evaluation, management, curriculum and instruction.

It is expected Little will bring a unique perspective to Christina because she is coming from Texas, a state which has been making great changes in its educational system.

Little is leaving a position with Little and Associates, an Austin firm which specializes in management consultations.

She has held positions as assistant superintendent for educational services in the Phoenix, Ariz. Elementary School District Number One, director of training and staff development with the Texas Education Agency, and assistant to the director of the Office of School Surveys at the University of Texas.

Little has also been an elementary school principal and has taught in Chicago, Tampa, Fla. and Austin, and in the Armed Forces Dependent School System.

She has extensive experience as a consultant and in operating workshops and conferences for public schools and education service centers.

The new assistant superintendent earned her bachelor's degree from Southern Illinois University, and both her master's and doctorate from the University of Texas at Austin.

ASSE

Exchange students

Qualified high school students in the Newark area are offered a unique opportunity to spend an academic year or six week summer holiday in Scandinavia, Germany, France, Switzerland, Britain, Holland, Spain or Canada as part of the ASSE international student exchange program, according to Nancy Mikkelsen, ASSE's local representative.

"Until a few years ago, only a fortunate few could afford to spend a school year or summer abroad. Now, ASSE has changed all that," Mikkelsen said.

Students, 15 to 18 years old, qualify on the basis of academic performance, character references, and a genuine desire to experience life abroad with a volunteer European or Canadian host family.

PLAN / from 1a

Walls said the state will provide at least $100,000 to fund the project, on which the district hoped to begin work immediately.

Announcing the governor's proposal to the board, Walls said Christina administrative staff believed "it would be an opportunity to be in on the ground floor of a significant educational change in the state."

Following the school board meeting, Walls said the selection of Christina by Castle "is a real honor."

"The governor's office and the State Department of Public Instruction feel we have the pieces of the puzzle in place to work on this. I hope we can justify their faith," he said.

Walls said the district was chosen because of its long tradition of good relations with the teachers' organization, because of its suburban-urban mix, because its central office is large enough to take on such a project and because of its size.

School board president Carole Ann Boyd said the district employs fully one-sixth of all the teachers in Delaware, and agreed that the district's rapport with the CEA was a factor in Castle's selection.

"He has confidence in our district's ability to work positively with our teachers," she said.

"and that is an absolute necessity in this kind of thing."

Jo Callison, CEA president, said the organization's executive board debated the issue all weekend prior to Castle's speech, weighing the pros and cons of its involvement in such a process.

CEA agreed to the proposal, she said, because "we think this is an opportunity to look at a whole new concept in dealing with this issue."

"We're excited, and we're scared," Callison added. "We know there are political pitfalls involved, but we do think something very positive could come out of this."

Callison said career ladders instituted in some states have proved dismal failures, often pitting teacher against teacher in the evaluation process and weakening morale.

That, she added, can have serious negative consequences in the classroom.

The teachers hope that in the formulation process, planners "will study all the data they can get to see what is happening elsewhere today, and try to avoid the mistakes that have been made," Callison said.

"It will," she added, "be interesting to see if something can be done or not. We don't know yet."

AIDS meeting

Christina policy to be topic of special board session

by Neil Thomas

A special meeting to consider a policy on students with AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) and AIDS-related complex will be held Tuesday, Jan. 28 by the Christina School District Board of Education.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Jennie E. Smith Elementary School, 142 Brennen Dr., Newark.

The AIDS policy, based on that approved in December by the Delaware State Board of Education, had its first hearing before the Christina board during its Jan. 14 meeting.

However, several board members expressed an interest in receiving more information on AIDS because they did not feel that they were completely familiar with the problem.

At the Jan. 28 meeting, the board will hear from a physician, school nurses and an attorney.

The second reading and vote on the proposed policy are scheduled to be held during the board's regular meeting Feb. 11 at the R. Elisabeth Maclary Elementary School in Chapel Hill.

Basically, the AIDS policy states that a child entering kindergarten or grades 1-12 who has AIDS will be allowed to attend classes unless he:

- Has open sores that cannot be covered.

- Demonstrates physically aggressive behavior with a documented history of biting or harming others.

- Is, in the opinion of a physician, at risk from communicable diseases present in the school.

Further, the policy states that removal of a student with AIDS from a school will be reviewed by a state advisory panel appointed by the Delaware State Department of Public Instruction. Also at the Jan. 28 meeting, the board will examine its goals for the current year.

Light up!

For 'teachernaut'

State officials are urging the people of Delaware to join in a national spotlight on learning being arranged in connection with the flight of America's Teacher in Space.

Christa McAuliffe of Concord, NH, is scheduled to lift off in the space shuttle mission beginning Jan. 23. On the sixth day of the flight she will teach two lessons which will be telecast throughout the country for reception in the schools.

The night before her teaching day, people are asked to leave on their porch lights to signify their support for education and their realization of the importance of teachers.

If the original flight schedule holds, lights will go on Monday, Jan. 27, at 7 p.m. and be turned off at 7 the next morning.

Gov. Michael N. Castle in a prepared statement said he would have the lights on at his Woodburn residence.

SCHOOLS

Feeling the heat

Cramped schools mean redistricting, unhappy parents for growing Christina

by Neil Thomas

The Christina School District's Space Utilization Committee agreed Monday to the concept of reopening both West Park and Medill schools to meet a boom among elementary-age students.

By reopening those schools, the district could increase its capacity to accommodate about 900 new students.

However, Dr. William Russell, Christina's director of elementary education, said the district will "clearly" be enrolling more than 1,000 new students before the end of the decade.

Seating for those students can be found in existing schools, according to a feasibility study presented to the Committee by statistical consultant Stu Harrison.

To make use of the space will require redistricting - perhaps massive redistricting involving every elementary school in the district - Harrison told the Committee.

Judging by the angry reaction of 200 parents who jammed the Gallaher Elementary School auditorium for Monday's meeting, redistricting will be neither popular nor easy.

Parents aimed their unhappiness at Harrison, who had developed an experimental redistricting plan to show the Committee that additional seats can indeed be found in existing schools.

The plan would have shifted the entire student population of Jennie Smith Elementary School to two other schools, with Smith then used to house students from the growing U.S. 40 corridor.

Parents complained about the splitting of communities, increased bus traffic and the absurdity of not sending children to a school just across the street from their homes.

School officials pointed out that Harrison's plan was just an example of how redistricting could occur and was by no means one ready for recommendation.

Phil Tomas, a Christina spokesman, said it will be months before the Committee is ready to make a recommendation on redistricting to the Board of Education. Once the Board receives the recommendation, it will hold public hearings on the plan before accepting it.

The Committee, in fact, is concerned about formulating a recommendation and voted to meet weekly rather than monthly to get the job done.

The Committee will begin refining redistricting plans, and it is certain that students will be moving.

"There's no way to get the space you need without moving 1,200 - 1,500 students" Harrison said. "It's a fact of life that somebody has to move."

The key to any redistricting plan will be the three schools bunched tightly along Chestnut Hill Road - Smith, Cobbs and Brookside. Harrison said space is available in those schools, and the student population of neighborhoods serving those schools is flat or declining.

Meanwhile, there is a great deal of growth in the southern and western portions of the district, both because of new construction and changes in the make-up of neighborhoods.

Russell said McVey, Downes and Leasure schools are fast running out of space.

"The dilemma," said Harrison, is that we have enough seats to house the students, but the seats are in the wrong place. And there is no way I know to pick up a building and move it."

Russell added that it unlikely the district would be given permission to construct a new school in the U.S. 40 corridor until it has exhausted existing space.

To address concerns of the parents attending Monday's meeting, the Committee voted to form a subcommittee of parent representatives of all 12 elementary schools. The subcommittee will provide important information on parent concerns as redistricting moves ahead.

The Committee also began looking at the affect of the boom as it moves through the 3-6 schools, the middle schools and into the high schools.

It is believed the district will have to find additional space in its Wilmington buildings and perhaps redistrict to meet the boom in the 3-6 schools.

NEWARK: PAST & PRESENT

by Bob Thomas

This week Newark Past and Present will examine a more recent era in Newark's history — the 1970s.

In 1969, big plans were in the making. Plans included a huge housing development called Hidden Valley, a Christiana Mall-type shopping center, and a beltway around Newark to relieve traffic problems.

Many people feared that such large development would bring larger problems. Enough people were concerned so that by the end of 1979, none of those dreams had become reality.

Many firsts took place during those years. The University of Delaware constructed 15-story and 17-story dormitories even though a city ordinance prohibited structures of more than seven stories.

Student population doubled to 13,500 by the end of the decade.

The City of Newark and New Castle County governments resolved a major dispute over sewer rates, which resulted in a decrease in city rates.

In reaction to the bombing of Cambodia, students organized marches and rallies. Unlike other areas, the rallies remained peaceful in Newark. Mayor Norma Handloff and City Manager Edward Stiff participated in a candlelight march, and Deputy Police Chief William Brierley offered the students bullhorns.

In 1973 students started the community by filing to run for political office, a right they had been granted by the United States Supreme Court.

One of the biggest controversies resulted over a decision to relocate City Hall. After years of debate, options narrowed to two choices: a new building on the Dameron Tract, now College Square shopping center, or a new building at the Elkton Newark Road site.

Mayor Handloff favored the Dameron site, which many people felt would become the center of government activity with the completion of the state's Hudson Service Center.

Support for the plan was lost when Dave Gallo, owner of Park 'N' Shop shopping center agreed to sell the city a five-acre parcel on Elkton Road. This is the current site of the Newark Municipal Building.

While environmentalists fought to preserve the White Clay Creek, the Suburban County Hospital Task Force Incorporated fought to have a hospital built in Newark.

In 1974 the Wilmington Medical Center announced plans to implement Plan Omega. This resulted in the construction of an 800-bed hospital at Stanton called Christiana Hospital.

Some of the goals of 1970s were achieved, some were delayed, while still others were permanently abandoned.

The 1970s will long be remembered as a time of dreams, a time of conflict, and a time of progress.

Bob Thomas is the newly-elected president of the Newark Historical Society. He writes each week about the history of the Newark area.

I USED TO DRIVE FOR PLEASURE. NOW I DART FOR FUN.

I was always on the go. Then the doctor said my driving days were done. Well, I wasn't going to sit in a rocker all day.

My son suggested DART. It's safe, comfortable, and priced right for my modest income.

Now I DART to museums, malls, even to visit my family and friends without a worry in the world. And that's my idea of fun!

Two Newark natives will soon be television stars — at least for one day.

Les Statler and his wife, the former Nancy Mitchell, will be one of the competing couples on an episode of "The Newlywed Game" which will air Wednesday, Jan. 29.

Both Les and Nancy are Newark High School graduates. They have been living for about one year in El Toro, Calif., where Les is stationed as a sergeant in the U.S. Marine Corps.

The couple was selected for "The Newlywed Game" after they picked up contestants' applications during a studio tour.

Brookside

Community open house

Brookside Community Inc. will hold an open house from 1-3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 16 at its Community Building, 900 Marrows Rd.

The work was undertaken as part of Brookside's ongoing effort to work toward a "Community With Pride."

Tug McGraw

The goal of the dinner is to raise $13,000 for the Del-Mar-Va Council of the Boy Scouts of America and will be held at Clayton Hall on the University of Delaware campus off Del. 896.

Thomas Milbourne, dinner chairman, said this annual dinner is the major Boy Scout Fund raiser in the Newark area in support of the Council's program budget.

Dr. E. Arthur Trabant, president of the University of Delaware, will host the dinner and a cocktail hour with McGraw.

McGraw is one of baseball's most engaging and popular personalities. He played for 19 years in professional baseball, the last 10 with the Philadelphia Phillies. He currently produces feature news stories for WPVI-TV in Philadelphia, is a motivational and promotional consultant, and serves as spokesman for First Pennsylvania Bank.

Individuals contributing $150, or $175 as a couple will be invited to the dinner and cocktail hour. For more information, contact George P. Fleckenstein, 652-3741, at the Del-Mar-Va Council, Boy Scouts of America office.

Did you ever wonder what it must have been like in Williamsburg, Va., before the Rev. W. A. R. Goodwin, rector of the Bruton Parish Church there, inspired John D. Rockefeller Jr. to dream of turning back the clock and creating Colonial Williamsburg?

Did you ever think about the gigantic undertaking it was and how it looked in that small Virginia town before the great restoration project began?

I admit that I have often done just that as I have strolled the streets of the greatest indoor-outdoor museum in the world.

The Colonial Williamsburg Foundation must have been peeking into my thoughts because they have announced five weekend "packages" that involve a vicarious time machine. They are going to show the world how they went about putting together the pieces of a 200-year-old town. It took years of planning, archaeological work and architectural research. The weekends begin this Saturday and Sunday and will be offered Jan. 31 to Feb. 2, Feb. 7-9 and 14-16, and March 7-9.

Each of the weekends will give guests the opportunity to contrast the sleepy, even dreary, Williamsburg of the 1920s with the restored 18th century capital now visited by more than a million people a year.

Goodwin and Rockefeller wanted modern visitors to see the colonial capital as it stood

THE ARTS

by Phil Toman

when George Washington and Patrick Henry walked its streets. We now can.

It was, however, a long slow process. The Colonial Williamsburg Foundation was formed and the Boston architectural firm of Perry, Shaw and Hepburn began developing a plan. The firm had 88 original buildings and a 1782 map to help them. They fleshed out their town plan with more than 400 original structures.

The before and after photos which appear with my column this week are an example of some of the work which had to be done.

Scenes like this and those in other stages of the development will be a key part of this combination of art and history which will make up the five "time-travel" weekends.

All this and more will be revealed by Colonial Williamsburg Foundation architectural historians. A slide-lecture and walking tour of the historic area will focus on Williamsburg before and after the restoration. After the formal part of the program, guests will have the opportunity to talk with leaders in the project at more informal receptions and "Groaning Board" dinners which will bring back the ambiance of a colonial table "groaning" under the weight of so much food.

People who make the trip will learn about the copper plate found at the Bodleian Library at Oxford University. They can learn about the art and spirit of the times from the detailed research Colonial Williamsburg staffers carried out to make the historic area what it is today.

I am very excited about the concept of taking all of us interested in the arts and history of the period "on the inside" to see how it all came about. Too often museums hide "all the good stuff" for the chosen few with big bucks to spend. That is not the case with the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation. They want the art of the restoration, and it is an art, to be as well known as the art of the restored area.

I don't want this to read like an advertisement, but the offer is just too good to pass up. The "Before and After" weekends include a Friday night reception, two breakfasts, a performance of an 18th century comedy, lodging for two nights, gratuities and admission to all the exhibition buildings, shops, etc., for one price. The cost ranges from $163 per person at the Williamsburg Inn to $125 per person at the Motor House. For more information you can call 1-800-446-8956.

Colonial Williamsburg is about a five-hour drive from Newark and what a way to take an "arts break" in the bleak months just ahead.

"Williamsburg: Before and After" its restoration is the theme of five winter weekends that should delight any lover of American arts and history. These two photos show the Brush-Everard House as it appeared in 1930 and how it looks today after the restoration process.

Crazy Planet at Deer Park

Newark's Crazy Planet Band, featuring Vic Sadot and Rob Sadot, will perform at 9 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 29 at the Deer Park Tavern, 108 W. Main St.

The band will feature a lot of new material and two new members. Augie Parodi, who most recently worked with The Motion, will be handling the drums. Tris Hovenac, most recently working with The Jones Purcell Band, will take on the electric bass duties.

The early sets will feature love ballads and what the Sadots refer to as "Swampgrass music." The fiddle of Lester Craig Maurer, the mandolin of Julie Gordon, and the flute and xylophone of Clem Bowen figure prominently here.

Bowen makes a living building and selling bamboo flutes and wooden xylophones.

Rich Ashkanasi plays various percussion instruments, and Doug Montgomery plays jaw harp.

Because Jan. 29 is the birthday of Thomas Paine, author of "Common Sense," the famous pamphlet published in January of 1776, the middle set will feature a tribute to Tom Paine.

"The Ballad of Tom Paine," which was written by Vic Sadot and tells the life story of Paine, the reading of several quotations, and a rocked up version of Bob Dylan's Tom Paine song, "As I Went Out One Morning," will comprise the commemoration.

Such locally inspired songs as "White Clay Creek" and "The Fog Watch" and such exuberant swampgrass songs as "Small Town U.S.A." and "The Frog Jog" will also be featured.

The latter half of the evening's show will be devoted to the many new rock and blues style songs that Vic and Rob Sadot have been writing.

Cooper

Delaware Art Museum

An exhibition of selected paintings by Georgia artist Don Cooper will be on display at the Delaware Art Museum's Downtown Gallery from Feb. 3 through March 5.

Cooper's art reflects a Southern atmosphere - Stone Mountain, red clay earth, tall Georgia pines, and the native wildlife.

His imagery encompasses not only a vision of primeval Georgia, but also the notion of a self-contained society in which a man is at peace with himself and his environment.

Cooper's work has been exhibited both nationally and internationally for the past 15 years.

The exhibition is being presented through the courtesy of Phyllis Weil and Co. of New York.

The Downtown Gallery is located at Hercules Plaza, 13th and Market Streets, Wilmington.

For more information on this and upcoming exhibitions at the Delaware Art Museum's Downtown Gallery, contact Lial A. Jones, curator, at the museum's education department, 571-9594.

Castle Mall bank branch work begins

by Neil Thomas

Construction has begun at the Bank of Delaware's fire-damaged Castle Mall branch, and bank officials hope a new facility will be completed by early summer.

The heavily-used branch was severely damaged by a blaze which broke out late Sunday night, July 7, 1985. Since, customers have been using temporary banking facilities.

The first phase of the project, according to branch manager Harold Riley, is to break up the concrete pad on which the damaged branch sits. Workmen began that task Jan. 15.

Riley said it will probably be about four months before the new bank is completed.

The new building will be significantly larger than the present one, he said. It will measure 54 feet by 88 feet, compared to 40 feet by 41 feet.

"We're excited about it," Riley said. "The new building will be larger, different in style and prettier than the other building. And it will enable us to be better able to accommodate customers' needs." In addition to getting a new building, the branch will also be adding a fourth drive-in lane.

Total cost of the project is about $577,000. Riley said the new building, like the present one, will be modular. It is being constructed by Custom Modular Bank Builders Co. in Potlstown, Pa.

The bank has promised customers that there will be no loss of access to safe deposit boxes during the construction period. The boxes are located in the fire-damaged section, the only service inside that building to have remained in use the last six months.

Continuous access will be accomplished by removing the modular building which houses the boxes after business hours on a Friday and replacing it with one section of the new modular building during the weekend, Riley said.

Crews will work straight through to insure customers will be able to reach their boxes come Monday morning.

After the fire, the Bank of Delaware quickly got the branch back in operation by setting up a temporary modular building and temporary drive-in lanes.

"It has been a little trying at times," Riley said, acknowledging that there have been some inconveniences for customers and employees alike.

But, he added, "Everyone has been very good about it and very patient."

Dear New Castle County Residents

January 1986

This school year the New Castle County Vocational-Technical School District will celebrate its 20th anniversary. In April 1966, Governor Terry charged the newly appointed Board of Education to construct the most modern facilities and develop an effective curriculum to satisfy the needs of the youngsters of New Castle County as well as the needs of the county's divergent industries.

Today's vocational-technical schooling began through legislative action with the establishment of the New Castle County Vocational-Technical School District in 1966. The Delcastle Technical High School became operational in the 1969-70 school year. The Howard Career Center opened in 1975 as a full-time school under the administration of the former Wilmington Public School District. The Paul M. Hodgson Vocational-Technical School opened in 1976 as a shared-time facility under the auspices of the former Newark School District. Each of the schools served students on a countywide basis.

These three vocational-technical schools operated independently under the administration of the three separate school districts until July 1, 1978. Then, based on recommendations from the Delaware Advisory Council on Career and Vocational Education, legislation placed the vocational-technical schools in New Castle County under the jurisdiction of the New Castle County Vocational-Technical School District.

The primary reasons for establishing area vocational-technical schools were to avoid unnecessary duplication of programs, to maximize use of available funds to purchase expensive and unique equipment, and to provide opportunity for students to take specialized vocational-technical courses.

The success of our school district is exemplified by the strong student demand to attend our quality programs and our successful cooperative working relationship with business and industry to provide students employment opportunities. Our district is looking forward to continuing our service to the entire community and to moving forward with our twenty year commitment to the youth of New Castle County.

Sincerely,
 John F. Lynch, Jr.
 Board of Education President

I'd like to complain about the way you do the sports part. All you ever talk about is how great Newark High School does. I'm getting sick of hearing about it. I'm from Christina High School and we are hardly ever put in, or if we are put in we lost to someone or you are putting us down.
We're part of Newark too, although we don't hold the Newark name like Newark. I hope you change that.
We've done some good things, too. Try coming to visit us sometime — you'll see.

From time to time you hear people question aloud the political abilities of Gov. Michael N. Castle.
He is, they say, merely a caretaker for the successful administration of his high-profile predecessor, Pierre S. duPont. And to some extent that has been true. To date his term has been free of serious crisis, and Castle has benefited not only from the work of duPont but also from an upswing in the national economy.
Things have been going well, and Castle has been careful not to rock the boat.
But last week, in delivering his State of the State address, Castle began to set himself apart from duPont and to set himself above the criticism.
He took a decisive stand on an issue which is of primary concern to this nation — the education of our young people.
Castle acknowledged the pitifully low state of starting salaries for teachers in Delaware, and called on the legislature to take action during the 1986 session to avert a crisis in our schools.

At one time in the history of this state, Castle's speech would have been hailed as safe and easy. But education and educators have fallen on hard times in the world of public opinion. Reports knock them. Polls reject them. And voters spurn them come time for referendums on taxes.
So in this instance, Castle didn't play it safe. He went out and said what had to be said.
In a nation built on the principles of democracy, education is not just important, it is vital. The United States is only as strong as the minds of its young, and for us to allow ourselves to settle for anything less than excellence in our classrooms is a crime against the young.
Castle made the right choice in identifying education as a primary issue, but he also made the right choice in beginning to act toward improvement of our schools.

First off, Castle shook off what would have been an immediate wave of protest by burying the term "career ladder." It is a buzzword which when spoken quickly stirs teachers into a hornet's nest of anger. Career ladders have not had good results in states which have implemented them, often placing teachers in adversarial relationships.
Instead, Castle is proposing a "career incentive" plan. Just what that will be has yet to be determined, and that is where Castle made another good move.
In state after state, governors have tried to force some form of career ladder or merit pay plan on teachers on a statewide basis. This is nearly impossible, a fact which Castle evidently realized.
He, instead, has asked the Christina School District — the state's largest, with one-sixth of its teaching staff — to develop a pilot career incentive program. And one of the provisos of his request is that teachers be involved in the process.

POSTSCRIPT

by Neil Thomas

"I think it's probably a smart move to do something like this on a smaller scale," said Jo Callison, president of the Christina Education Association. "To test something out, evaluate it and see whether you can go from there or not."

It will be interesting to watch the career incentive plan develop. Who knows, maybe Delaware will develop a plan worthy of emulation nationwide. That will certainly put Mike Castle on the map.

ROCKY/ from 1a verge of being thrust into anonymity with piles of other worthless movies. But one night in New York City, people started shouting lines at the screen and thus began the genesis of a cult following.

Today, the showing of "Rocky" has matured into three dimensions: The movie, which is the story of a "normal" couple who, due to unfortunate circumstances, spend the night at Frankie's castle; the cast, which mimics the actions of the film; and the audience, which is undoubtedly the most entertaining of the three.
In fact, the audience becomes the show. In one of the more paradoxical aspects of the movie, they are not only entertained but they become the entertainment.
The audience is extremely vocal, tossing remarks to the screen or each other at will. Movie lines are shouted out before or as the actor or actress on the screen spits them out, and songs are sung with minor but worthwhile alterations in lyrics.

There is a working knowledge of the film and certain traditions of the movie that are carried over from week to week.
For example, rice is thrown during a wedding scene, toast is thrown during a champagne toast, and actual weather conditions are recreated in the theater when it's raining (squirt guns).
New and off the wall comments are appreciated and encouraged. There is dancing in the aisles, lots of movement and its basic, run of the mill controlled mayhem.
But the audiences enjoy it and the more screaming and yelling, the greater the excitement. It is an atmosphere in which odd behavior is encouraged and inhibitions are checked at the door with the ticket stubs.
"You really can't hear the movie and you really aren't paying attention because you're watching all the people around you," said the State Theater manager, Bob Weir, who has seen "Rocky" 298 times.
"That's basically all it is. The crowd is what makes the movie. How many theaters can you walk into and completely trash? I mean literally throw stuff around and scream and yell for two hours. You just won't see anything like it."

Throughout its 10 year run, the subject matter of "Rocky" has been questioned by various groups of concerned citizens. The movie is rated "R" and although the content is controversial, there is no nudity and it is not nearly as violent as some television shows.
According to Weir, judgment concerning the morality of the movie has to be made by the individual after viewing the film.
"You really can't go by what other people say the movie is about," said Weir, who has invited several concerned parents to view the movie. "You've got to see it for yourself and you'll find yourself laughing so hard and or watching others that you don't even hear the movie."
"It's not an immoral movie," said Kendall. "The film was made with fun in mind. There's no sex in the aisles and it's a very tame movie when it comes right down to it.

"I don't see what parents are so upset about. At midnight their kids could be out drinking and partying. Here, there's no alcohol. It's just fun."
At one recent gathering of the midnight faithful, a dozen middle-aged parents were prepared to attend "Rocky" for the first time.
"We wanted to see what this younger generation was up to," said Mary Kay Hague of Kennett Square, Pa. "You ask us why? Well, why not? We want to see what our kids get such a big kick out of."
After the movie was over and the happy but exhausted throng exited the theater, removing rice from their hair, Hague looked over and smiled. "It was great. Those kids are unbelievable. They were a lot of fun."
When asked if she would be back for the next week's showing, she answered, "No, once is enough."
But for most, once is never enough of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show."

Spartans streak to win

Coach hopes history does not repeat

by Bruce Johnson

St. Mark's High School boys basketball head coach John Fiorelli may teach English, but he's more concerned with history at the moment.

After the Spartans defeated Kennett Square, Pa. 62-37 for their fourth consecutive "blowout" victory, Fiorelli is concerned with history repeating itself.

"It's deja vu," said Fiorelli from the depths of the Spartan locker room. "This is our fourth game in a row like this, and the same thing happened last year when we won three or four big games in a row. But then we went up against Sallies and got hammered. So I hope we can get some good competitive games in prior to Sallies (Jan. 31)."

Senior guard and team leader Chuck Fischer agreed with his coach. "It's not good to win by large margins all the time," said Fischer. "We need to be challenged and get a good game in so we can get some rhythm."

Against Kennett Square, the Spartans didn't miss a beat. They exploded to a 10-0 lead with a textbook fast break that had Kennett doing the jitterbug. On defense, the Spartans did not allow a Kennett basket until 4:13 of the first period, eventually taking a 14-6 lead.

In the second period, senior center Scott Dyer tallied nine of his 17 points to lead the Spartans to a 31-17 halftime lead.

In the second half it was all Spartans as they danced to a 32 point lead before the entire bench was emptied.

It is the Spartan fast break that has led the closely-knit team to a six-game winning streak. They are a deceptively quick team.

"If a team hasn't seen us they might look at us and say we're not a good running team," said Fiorelli. "I think we caught Kennett off guard tonight, but word is getting around that we like to run and teams like Archmere and Sallies won't be surprised."

One of the key reasons for the Spartans' successful running game is the experience and depth that Fiorelli can utilize at guard.

"We've got five good guards who can move the ball upcourt," said Fiorelli of John Noonan, Scott Northey, John Burton, Mark Lynch and Fischer. "From what I've seen - with the exception of Howard, Newark, Sanford and your really great teams - I don't think there's a team in the state who can match our talent and depth at guard."

But as Fiorelli knows, someone has to initiate the fast break with rebounds. This was considered the Kids make sacrifices to play

by Todd Hickey

First, you have to learn to control a little black projectile that can travel at speeds faster than some cars. With that under your belt, you then learn to withstand having your body slammed into walls that are so eloquently called "boards." All of this while supported on two thin metal blades.

That in itself is enough to deter most budding athletes. But wait, there's more. Try buying all your own equipment. And paying to play and practice. Practice, by the way, is at 5:45 in the morning for some teams, right before school. Ready to jump right in?

By now, you'll probably agree that it takes a special breed of athlete to play such a demanding sport. But such athletes exist. They can be found in the New Castle County High School Ice Hockey League, sponsored by the county parks department.

The New Castle County High School Ice Hockey League is comprised of four teams: the Newark Stars, the St. Mark's Spartans, the William Penn Colonials, and the Dickinson Rams. It should be noted, however, that although the teams bear the names of certain high schools, players from schools all over the area can be found on all teams.

The league was founded in 1974, and originally consisted of 12 teams.

"It all started when the Flyers won the Stanley Cup," noted Newark head coach Mike Seningen. "That peaked interest in the kids."

Since then, however, participation has been steadily downward, and the number of teams has dropped considerably, the most recent victim being Concord's team, which folded at the close of last year.

Viking wrestlers improve intensity

New attitude pays off with two wins

by Bruce Johnson

Without it they flirt with mediocrity, but with a little spirit and intensity the Christiana High School wrestling team becomes an accomplished if not overpowering squad.

This is best witnessed by the Vikings' dramatic turnaround in less than a week of practice. After a disappointing 26-24 loss to Middletown which dropped their record to 1-3, the Viking grapplers rebounded against Concord, winning, 33-23, and walloped Claymont 52-10.

"We just kept talking about the need for more enthusiasm and intensity, which we lacked against Middletown," said head coach Drew Yeager. "We drilled them about it all week, and Danny Reeder's (assistant coach) been a big help."

"We're real proud of them," said Reeder. "The kids wrestled real well today and with a lot of intensity. Even the Claymont coach came over after the match and said, 'What are you feeding these guys?'"

But Christiana was only feasting on words of wisdom, and by the eighth match of the Claymont contest they had clinched their third victory of the season to even their record at 3-3.

"I expected a closer match, but I think Claymont got disappointed early and then it just started to snowball," said Yeager. "We ate up some of their wrestlers early and I think that had a demoralizing effect."

For Claymont (4-3), what was demoralizing was watching the skill and ease that the Viking grapplers displayed in handling the Indians on the mat. Christiana captured 10 out of 12 matches and ran a string of eight victories in a row. At one point, the Vikings col-

'Jackets employ new defense

Sysko, Haman, Brockell smother McKean offense in 32-31 victory

Each week it seems that Newark High School girls basketball head coach John Holland produces a new wrinkle to the Yellow-jacket attack. Last Friday, Holland implemented a new defensive structure that proved pivotal in defeating Blue Hen Conference Flight A foe McKean 32-31.

Holland pushed freshman sensation Susan Sysko into the middle of a 2-1-2 defense and teamed Nada Haman with Beth Brockell under the basket. The end result proved to be an impenetrable fortress that increased the 'Jacket record to 4-1 in conference and 9-2 overall, despite a poor shooting afternoon.

"McKean played a good, tough game," said Holland. "This is their home court and we seem to always have trouble here, even in our best years. We played well but there was a lid on that basket and three-fourths of our shots just wouldn't drop."

Concerning the defense, Holland added that it was just one of many defenses that the 'Jackets will utilize.

"It gives us a little more depth inside and a little more diversity on defense," he said.

What it did to the Highlanders was force their offense to the perimeter of the zone, where they took poor percentage shots from 15 feet and out.

With the height of Sysko, Haman and Brockell averaging around 5'10", any Highlander attempt to shoot or drive to the basket was immediately rejected by the threesome.

In particular, with the game on the line in the final two minutes, Brockell recorded two blocked shots and Haman rejected McKean's last shot of the game to seal the victory with five seconds remaining.

"The reason we won this game was the number of blocked shots we had, especially at the end of the game," said Holland.

With 1:43 seconds remaining, the 'Jackets had built a five-point lead with Sysko on the line. But McKean's pressure defense caused several turnovers and put the Highlanders back into the game. Despite the closeness of the contest, Newark's Haman wasn't worried.

"I feel real confident about the Newark defense," she said. "All of us are friends on and off the court and that helps when it gets going out there. We pick each other up when we make mistakes."

Earlier in the week, Newark upended Brandywine 55-40 after taking a 12-1 first quarter lead. Sysko and Brockell paced the 'Jackets, each scoring 11 points with Lisa Watson contributing eight and Tawana Williams scoring nine.

Glasgow picked up its first Flight A victory of the season, upending McKean 35-32. Michelle Brock paced the Dragons with 11 points. Kelly Kane contributed eight and Jennifer Fox totaled nine.

The Dragons were not so fortunate on Friday, losing to Flight A powerhouse Delcastle 57-35. Jennifer Fox tallied 14 points in defeat as the Dragons' record dropped to 1-4 in conference and 3-7 overall.

St. Mark's wins

Spartans topple Padua for key victory

It was an unexpected situation for the St. Mark's High School girls basketball team, to be dangling over the .500 mark at the halfway point in the season with a game against Padua to determine their fate.

But with the heart of their Catholic Conference schedule approaching, the Spartans were able to re-group for an important win over the Pandas 46-30 Sunday to increase their record to 6-4.

"We were hoping that we'd be 6-3 coming in here and walk out of here (Padua) 7-3 in preparation for Archmere, St. Elizabeth and Ursuline," said Spartan head coach Sue Ridge. "Suddenly we found ourselves at 5-4 and close to .500, and that's where no team wants to be. But we came away with the win and hopefully it will be a turning point in the season."

Against Padua, the Spartans stretched a 21-18 halftime lead into a 10 point lead by the end of the third quarter, allowing the Pandas' only four points in the quarter. The lead jumped to 18 points on Terre Alessandrini's 12-foot jumper from the baseline with less than a minute to play before Padua cut it to 16 on the last shot of the game.

The Spartan victory becomes even more impressive when considering that star center Lois Bukowski (12 points) spend a good deal of the game on the bench after getting into early foul trouble.

"We're not a tall team as it is, and if we ever have an advantage it's with Lois in there," said Ridge. "So when she's out we're in trouble. But I was pleased with the effort and particular the fact that we kept the lead and increased it without Lois."

The Spartans did increase the lead from three points to nine on the fine play of senior Marisa Cutroneo (14 rebounds) and sophomore Amy Carello, who spelled Bukowski and came up with numerous rebounds and forced several Panda turnovers.

Another reason that the Spartan lead increased was the fine play of junior point guard Liz Burns, who scored 12 points despite an afternoon of poor shooting. Burns played an instrumental role in breaking the Padua press and leading the Spartan fast break.

"(Liz) is a real young point guard and she's working real hard," said Ridge. "As she goes the team goes. She controls the game out there and she's the key to this basketball team right now."

Ridge also cited the play of the Spartan defense. Playing a confusing defense scheme, the Spartans kept the Pandas off-balance and did not allow them to gain their offensive rhythm. "It's a match-up zone where you play a man but you stay in your area," said Ridge. "There's a lot of switching and the key to it is communication. If they don't communicate then we're dead."

The defense proved so effective that it forced 35 Panda turnovers and held the Padua offense to just 7.6 points a period.

"We're not an offensive club and everyone knows that," said Ridge, "so we rely on our defense to keep us in the game. We held Ursuline to one of their lowest point totals this season. We got here on defense and that's where we start from."

Concerning the 35-33 loss to Kennett Square, Pa., earlier in the week, Ridge said that there were many outside factors that contributed to the upset.

"I don't want to sound like I'm searching for excuses but the girls had just finished three days of exams and they were physically and mentally exhausted," she said.

"As well, we as a coaching staff were unable to scout (Kennett) and we underestimated them. We also spotted them 11 points and yet we still had a chance to beat them at the end of the game," she said.

Senior guard Meg McCall agreed with her coach, adding that the Spartans just didn't execute properly.

"We just didn't execute well against Kennett," said McCall, who scored 11 points against Padua. "We executed better today (Padua) and moved the ball around looking for the right shot. It was a big win for us. It gives us a lot of confidence, especially going in to play St. Elizabeth on Friday."

Christiana swimmers earn 107-43 win over crosstown rival

Crosstown high school rivals Christiana and Glasgow went head to head in swimming this week with the Vikings emerging from the water with a 107-43 win.

Christiana's Tom Deam captured the diving competition and anchored the winning 200-meter medley relay (2:03.29) with Scott Tims, Andrew Marchoni and Kenny Snyder.

The Vikings also captured the 400-meter freestyle relay (4:36). Swimmers were Bryan Miles, Steve McMahon, and John and Mark Pucian. Glasgow's Tony DiMaio captured the 200-meter individual medley (2:23:70).

On Thursday the Vikings were not so fortunate, losing to A.I. duPont 103-63. Dean once again captured the diving competition and Tims won the 50-meter freestyle with a time of 25.1.

Glasgow dropped it's second meet of the week to Concord 116-50. DiMaio once again paced the Dragons, capturing the 500-meter freestyle (5:53.13) and participating in the winning 200-meter medley (2:02) relay with teammates Dan Louderback and Gregg and George Ruark.

In girls competition, the Dragons defeated the Vikings 99-77.

Glasgow captured the 400 meter freestyle relay (4:20.1) with the team of Krissy Ohliger, Phoebe Folke, Eileen Durham, and Cheri Radford Durham captured the 500-meter freestyle (5:56.1) and Radford recorded a victory in the 100-meter butterfly (1:14.6).

For the Vikings, Krista Kendall, Danielle Vandyke and Kim Huggins were all triple winners. Kendall captured the 100-meter freestyle (1:00.9) and the 200-meter freestyle (2:11.5); Vandyke was victorious in the 100-meter backstroke (1:07) and the 200-meter individual medley (2:14.9) and Huggins posted the best times in the 100-meter backstroke (1:11) and the 50-meter freestyle (26.8). All three girls teamed with Patricia Riale to win the 200-meter medley relay.

On Thursday, Glasgow was upended by Concord 111-57.

Ohliger captured the 50-meter backstroke (26.87) and Jennifer Sharp was victorious in the 100-meter breaststroke (1:26.12).

Christiana was also upset on Thursday losing to A.I. duPont 103-64. Vandyke was the only triple winner, gaining victories in the 100-meter butterfly (1:00.7) and the 100-meter backstroke (1:03.5). Vandyke also combined on the winning 200-meter medley relay.

The Newark girl's swim team defeated Wilmington in a closely contested meet 69-54. Kristen Barnekov was the only double winner, capturing a first place in the 200-meter freestyle (2:17.6) and anchoring the 200-meter medley relay team with her sister Joanne, Simone Stoye and Terri Pedrotti. Christa Vaughan captured the diving competition with a total of 110.7 points.

In other competition, Newark boy swimmers defeated Wilmington 97-54, and the St. Mark's boys defeated Mt. Pleasant 90-82 and Archmere 65-17.

SPARTANS/ from 1b

Spartans' weakness prior to the season, considering the loss of second team All-State center Rob Wirth.

"We don't have a big line-up but we've been looking better each week," said Fiorelli of his front court, which consists of Craig Bilinski, Steve Wing, Andy Stevens and Dyer among others. "We made a goal at the beginning of the season to do a better job on the offensive backboards. Last year we had a total of 144 offensive rebounds and prior to this game we had 109, so we're well ahead of last year's pace."

Considering the improvement of the team, the blow-out victories and the 7-2 record, Spartan fans have been wondering why their team has not been noticed publically.

"No one is talking about us because we haven't played that many tough teams," said Fiorelli. "I have to be honest - I really didn't think this schedule would be this easy up to this point, and I didn't think we'd be 7-2."

Fischer echoed his coaches comments. "We really haven't proven ourselves," said Fischer. "We haven't beaten anyone good, but we feel we can play against the good teams. If we keep winning, they're going to have to notice us."

Earlier in the week, the Spartans knocked off St. Elizabeth 79-46. Senior guard John Burton paced the Spartans with 24 points, eight rebounds and four steals in the Catholic Conference showdown. Dyer added 11 points and six rebounds.

In other action during the week, Newark defeated Brandywine 57-51 and McKean 92-54 to increase their Blue Hen Conference record to 5-0 and their overall record to 8-3.

Against Brandywine, the Yellow Jackets were led by senior Abdul Bey, who scored 16 points. Derrick

May and Craig Callahan each contributed 13 in Tuesday's game. On Friday, Bey once again paced the Jackets, scoring 22 points against the Highlanders. May added 17 points while Kevin Gardner contributed 14.

Christiana split a pair this week, losing a heartbreaker to Concord 63-61 in overtime and defeating Brandywine 86-65 on Friday night.

Against Concord, the Vikings were led by David Chittum's 21 points and Andre Mills' 18 points. Unfortunately, the game came down to who had the ball at the end of the game. Concord's Steve Dent scored with four seconds remaining to seal the victory.

The Vikings rebounded against Brandywine with Moise Pringle and Mills scoring 16 points each and Aaron Mack contributing 14. Pringle seems to have recovered from a bout with the flu as he also led the Vikings in rebounding, grabbing 13. Mack had 11. Dwight Roy and Chittum also had good nights, scoring a combined 25 points.

With the win, the Vikings record increased to 3-2 in Blue Hen Conference play and 8-3 overall.

Glasgow continues to have it's troubles and is searching for it's first conference win. The Dragons lost to McKean 54-52 and to Delcastle 60-47 to drop their record to 0-5 in conference and 2-7 overall.

Keith Leatherbury paced the Dragons throughout the week, scoring 10 points and grabbing 14 rebounds against the Highlanders and contributing 16 points against Delcastle. Bryant Wright also had a good week, averaging just under 15 points a game.

lected four pins in six matches with the other two matches ending with a technical fall (157-pound Rob Gates) and a major decision (140-pound Andy Moore).

Three of the pins came in the first round (147-pound Scott Tiney, 169-pound Cliff Garden and 185-pound Arnie Dunn) with the fourth pin coming midway through the second round (134-pound Shawn Caselvera).

Of the Viking wrestlers, Dunn looked most impressive, pinning his opponent in 55 seconds of the first round.

"I was just thinking about taking him down and keeping him on his back," said Dunn, who has recorded five pins in six dual meets. "I got a chicken wing on him and just ran it through. It's my favorite move. I expected a pin, but not in 55 seconds."

Dunn also attributed the Vikings recent success on the mats to added intensity.

"We talked it up before the match about how we needed to be more psyched and I think it helped us a lot today," said Dunn. "Last week we just weren't up and we just didn't wrestle well."

For Christiana and Yeager, the welcome addition of intensity could not have come at a more opportune time. The heart of their dual meet schedule is approaching, with competition against Brandywine, A.I. duPont, Newark and Glasgow, and Yeager hopes that the wrestlers can maintain their enthusiasm.

"At this point we're just taking one match at a time," said Yeager.

In other action, Glasgow got back on the winning track, recording three victories over the week. The Dragons defeated McKean 33-27 on Thursday and upended Dickinson 64-5 and Mount Pleasant 66-3 on Saturday.

Against the Highlanders, Mike Amand (114 pounds), John Copes (128 pounds) and Jimmy Marvel (147 pounds) recorded pins in pacing the Dragons to the Blue Hen Conference Flight A victory.

In Saturday's competition, Wendall Hall (100 pounds), Alex Settles (128 pounds) Vince Cortless (heavyweight) and Copes all recorded two pins for the day. Other Dragons recording pins were Chip Hill (114 pounds), Paul Hoff (134 pounds), Keith Truitt (187 pounds) and Marvel.

St. Mark's only wrestled once this week, defeating Brandywine 44-21 on Saturday. Paul Collier (114 pounds) and Mark Stimmel (121 pounds) recorded pins for the Spartans.

Newark wrestled in the Laurel Tournament, placing second (139 points) to Salesianum while defeating Laurel and Seaford. Kurt Howell (121 pounds) and Tom Bockius (heavyweight) won their weight classes.

A goalie stops a hard shot.

ICE/ from 1b

Senigen pointed to money as a possible factor in the decline of interest. Kids in the league have to pay a league fee for both practice and game ice time, as well as for their equipment. "It is possible for a kid to have paid anywhere from $300-$600 by the end of the season," said St. Mark's head coach Steve Lloyd, "but schools do help out with some of the money."

With such potential barriers, players nevertheless remain loyal to the sport. "They simply love the game," continued Lloyd, who skated for the University of Delaware and has done work with the county's Clinic League, which teaches youngsters the fundamentals of hockey. "It's a great spectator sport, as well as a great participant sport."

Lloyd's comments were echoed by Dennis Garvin, an eighth grader from Shue Middle School (seventh and eighth graders can play on every team except St. Mark's), who plays for Newark. "I like the game a lot. It's hard-hitting but still exciting and fast-moving."

Similarly, St. Mark's senior Steve Prusak, captain of the St. Mark's team, said, "I love the game. I've been playing since I was 10. I was real excited when I found out that the school I was going to attend had a team."

Family ties also seem to have a great influence on the decision to play hockey. Garvin's older brothers, Jimmy and Shawn, both played, for Newark and St. Mark's respectively. In fact, Shawn now plays for Delaware. Even Megan, Garvin's sister, is involved, managing the St. Mark's team.

In a similar fashion, Prusak emphasized the importance of family in the sport. "My interest in the game began when my uncle took me out on the frozen ponds on my grandfather's farm. There he taught me how to play."

Still others play the game for different reasons. "I used to play soccer," said St. Mark's senior Jimmy Keener, "but I wasn't that good. Hockey is the sport that I found I play the best. It's different from other sports." Keener also became interested through his brother.

Although full of devotees, the league nevertheless is always looking for new players. Younger children interested in getting into the game might look into the Clinic League, which runs in the summer.

Spectators, too, are welcome. With all the Flyers fans in the area, it seems an injustice that these kids must play their hearts out in front of a crowd composed of mainly close friends and family. Games are usually on Sundays, at 3:30 p.m. and 5:45 p.m., and are held at the University of Delaware ice rink.

University of Delaware football coach Tubby Raymond will again be serving as co-chairman of the event, along with Fred Sears, vice president of Wilmington Trust Bank.

Together with John Mervine Sr., president of Nanticoke Homes Inc., they hope to provide a superb day of golf while helping to raise funds to fight MS, the most common neurological disease of young adults.

Gause

Hospital stay

Sarah Gause spent the entire fall semester in the hospital and didn't miss a single basketball practice.

No, the University of Delaware standout forward and reigning East Coast Conference Player of the Year wasn't laid up with a painful injury. In fact, she was helping others get better.

Gause, a nursing major at Delaware and an Ursuline Academy graduate, spent two days a week at Christiana Hospital last semester as part of the clinical work needed to earn a degree in nursing this May. The work was tough and the experience was invaluable, but when basketball season rolled around in October it meant working from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the hospital and then on to the Field House for a grueling two-hour workout at 4 p.m.

"When I didn't dwell on it, it wasn't that bad," said Gause of her demanding fall schedule. "After work all of my friends would say they were going home to take a nap and I'd say I was going to basketball practice. But nursing is something I always knew I wanted to do. It was a great learning experience and I'm excited about it."

Despite her team's slow start, Gause is also excited about the East Coast Conference season.

"We know that we have a good team but we just haven't put it all together yet," said Gause. "The Virginia Tech tournament was a good experience for us. It taught us a lot and now I think we are ready for the conference. The feeling is positive."

"Sarah means a lot to the team," said Blue Hen coach Joyce Perry of Delaware's 9th all-time scorer and 8th all-time rebounder, who transferred from Georgetown in 1983. "She is quick on defense, handles the ball well, and shoots well both inside and outside. She scores, rebounds well, and shows leadership on the court. She contributes in every category."

LIFESTYLE

The teen years are supposed to be the best time in life. Everything from movies to advertisements for face creams tells us how wonderful it is to be young. When friends turn 29 or 35 or 40, we don't celebrate increasing wisdom and poise, we give them condolences. Yet, in spite of it all, I feel sorry for teenagers.

I admit that there are certain advantages to teenagerhood. They can sleep through almost anything, including a neighbor who starts his lawnmower at 7:30 on a Sunday morning. They can ingest vast quantities of food and not gain weight. They have huge amounts of energy — no doubt fueled by all that sleeping and eating. And they look good in beach wear.

As wonderful as all those things are, teenagers have one malady that, as far as I am concerned, wipes out all the glories of youth. It is called embarrassment, or, to be technically accurate, absolute, total, complete, utter and overwhelming humiliation.

I, myself, remember bits and pieces of it as though through a mirror darkly. I think God encourages us to forget the horrors of teenage embarrassment so that we can get on with our lives. Had we not been allowed to forget it, we might all be rocking in corners sucking our thumbs and attempting to return to the womb.

Naturally, the current crop of teenagers is convinced that they are the only ones in the history of the world to feel mega-humiliation; however, I felt the same way. My parents felt the same way. Their parents before them felt the same way, and so on back to Adam and Eve, who undoubtedly felt embarrassed by God.

I don't think teen embarrassment is gender related. I have seen both sexes destroyed in an instant, although the causes are sometimes different. Just try to give a son a huge kiss and hug when he gets off the plane from college. I saw that once at the Philadelphia Airport. The emergency squad had to administer cardio-pulmonary resuscitation.

Girls seem to be able to handle affection better than boys, but they have trouble shopping with their mothers who make a Big Deal out of buying a bra. A parent of either sex must never, ever get misty-eyed when dropping a 14-year-old off at camp. Misty-eyed — or even worse, weeping — parents present a camper with an enormous and disgraceful burden. Who wants to be known as the kid who is loved by his folks?

When parents chaperone field trips there is bound to be trouble. Some teens have been known to promise hari-kari, others merely threaten to run away from home. Regardless of the situation, both the parent and the teen lose. No matter how the parent dresses, she will be an embarrassment. If she goes in slacks and comfortable shoes, she looks dowdy. If she goes in a suit and heels, she looks like she is trying to impress people. If she talks to the bus driver or the teacher, she is being too friendly. If she keeps to herself, she is being a snob. If she talks to any of the teen's friends, she is being nosy. If she keeps to herself, she is being a snob. If she talks to any of the teen's friends, she is being nosy. If she sits with her offspring, she has condemned him to perpetual mortification.

One nice lady was almost lynched by her son on a field trip. The bus driver got lost, but the mother — always well prepared — had a map, and saved the day. Of course, parents are not the only embarrassment. Everything is embarrassing. A child I knew was humiliated by winning a spelling bee. Being a good speller when you are 13 is awesomely awful. When people congratulated her, she burst into tears. The only comment that did not elicit wails was made by a particularly sensitive neighbor, not so long out of teendom herself. She offered condolences.

HOMEFRONT

Being seen in an ordinary car, like a tan, 1977 Dodge Aspen, is embarrassing. Not having braces is embarrassing. Having freckles is embarrassing. Being successful is embarrassing. Being a failure is embarrassing. Having siblings is embarrassing. Eating in a restaurant with parents is embarrassing. Your mother's laugh is embarrassing. Your father's glasses are embarrassing. Worst of all, being embarrassed is embarrassing.

Space

The last frontier

Space, as Capt. James Kirk of the starship Enterprise often reminds television viewers, is the last frontier.

That is especially true for the growing number of Newark residents who live in apartments and small homes and must cope with a lack of it.

The Delaware Cooperative Extension Service has scheduled a special program to help such people learn to make the most of the small space available to them.

The Extension Service will train representatives from local organizations to make better use of available space during a leader training program from 1-2 p.m. or 7:30-8:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 27 at Townsend Hall on the University of Delaware campus in Newark.

Trainees will then make space utilization presentations to their own organizations.

The representatives will learn how to create more storage space, how to decide what to give away, sell or keep, and how to determine a fair price for items to be sold.

They will also learn how to arrange living space and find extra storage room in closets, under beds and on shelves.

Persons interested in attending the "Living in Less Space" leader training program should contact the Extension Service office at 451-1239 to register.

Support

Better breathing

The Delaware Lung Association will sponsor a Better Breathing support group for patients with emphysema, chronic bronchitis, and adult asthma.

Family members are also welcome to attend.

The group will meet 7-8:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 27 at the Jewish Community Center, 101 Garden of Eden Rd., Wilmington.

A respiratory therapist will be speaking on breathing aides and equipment.

To register please call 655-7258, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Keep records of expenses to aid planning process

"The only way you can tell if your family is financially healthy is to keep yearly records of income and expenses," says Debbie Amsden, University of Delaware extension home economist. "Keeping records also lets you know where you stand financially in any given month, and helps in planning your financial goals." Amsden recommends keeping track of regular weekly and monthly expenses as well as less frequent expenses such as insurance payments, car registration, gifts, doctors' bills, and taxes. "You can buy a record book designed specifically for recording expenses, but lined paper works just as well," she says. "List all regular expenses such as food, rent, utilities and clothing, then record what you spend weekly in each category. At the end of the month total the amounts." One way to prevent overspending in a particular category is to record credit card purchases when they are bought, not when they are paid for, advises the home economist. Amsden says expenses paid twice a year, such as insurance and dentists' bills, can come up quickly, particularly if you haven't set aside some money each month to cover them. To plan for these expenses, divide the estimated total amount by 12, then number of months in the year. That's the amount you'll need to set aside each month. For example, for a car insurance bill of $420 set aside $35 per month. You can keep this money in a special account. "Review last year's expenses for vacations, gifts and school supplies," says Amsden. "Set aside money each month for these too."

The home economist says keeping records of expenses helps you compare what you plan to spend in any given category with what you actually do spend. If the two figures differ greatly, consider adjusting your budget. "Another good reason to keep track of expenses is to help you make adjustments if there is a reduction in income or an unanticipated major expense," says Amsden. For more information on setting up a financial record-keeping system, call the county extension office in Newark at 451-1239.

Kids

Dental health

In celebration of National Children's Dental Health Month, the office of Dr. Jerome C. Kayatta will be inviting young Newark area children to visit for a hands-on demonstration of dental instruments and a fun ride in a dental chair. The aim is to familiarize children with a dentist's office in a positive way. Tours will be available from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays and Fridays. For information, call Linda Knight at 737-6761.

'Freshstart'

Stop smoking

"Freshstart" 21 Days to Stop Smoking, a program of the American Cancer Society, is now available to area residents. The program is available in audio and home video formats, according to Roy Sullivan, Delaware chairman of the Great American Smokeout Committee.

Both versions, which will be available in bookstores, drugstores, video outlets and in local libraries are hosted by comedian Robert Klein. They present a day-by-day disciplined approach to quitting, explaining how the smoker will feel and react each step of the way. Both psychological and physiological withdrawal are addressed, as well as expected reactions and how to cope with the symptoms of quitting. Any person or group interested in obtaining or learning more about this innovative program should contact the Delaware Division of the American Cancer Society 654-6267. Ask for Pamela Finkelman, director of public information.

'Garden Check'

Growing a successful lawn and garden requires the skills of a horticulturist, an entomologist and a plant pathologist.

During the growing season extension specialists and county agents are literally besieged with calls from homeowners about landscape and garden problems, many of which are seasonal and quite common.

To provide information to more home gardeners, University of Delaware extension specialists publish a newsletter, "Garden Check," every other week throughout the growing season.

Each issue of the six-page publication contains timely information on garden tasks and advice on solving plant-related problems. For example, the first issue last spring provided the following information:

- How and when to plant trees and shrubs.
- A reminder to prune and fertilize roses.
- Detailed instructions for pruning ornamentals.
- Lawn care recommendations.
- Recommended fruit varieties.
- Recommended treatments for several problem insects and plant diseases.
- The procedure for becoming certified to use restricted pesticides.
- Suggested home vegetable garden plan.

garden plan.

• Vegetable planting date chart. "Garden Check" is designed for experienced gardeners as well as novices who want to give their plants good care. For people who like to grow their own food, there is a section on food preservation. Mailings often include timely fact sheets. There are 12 issues a year, including special fall and holiday editions.

The newsletter is available to home gardeners and other interested individuals on a subscription basis for $5 a year. To subscribe write: Garden Check, Mail Room, Townsend Hall, University of Delaware, Newark DE 19717-1303. Make checks payable to University of Delaware.

Wanted

Home health aides

There is an urgent need for homemaker-home health aides in New Castle County, according to Janice McCants-Bodie, county director of Geriatric Services of Delaware.

The program provides an opportunity for a steady income and personal satisfaction of helping others less fortunate, McCants-Bodie said. There are no age restrictions, although preference will be given to the mature and reliable individuals who like working with the elderly and understands their needs.

"The woman who has raised her own family or has helped her aged parents or relatives in time of illness or stress often makes the best homemaker-home health aide. A friendly, understanding personality, good judgment or good health are more important for this work than years of formal schooling," McCants-Bodie said.

She explained that interested applicants will be screened to determine their level of experience and training. Those applicants without any formal experience in home health care are eligible to participate in the agency's 10-week, 75-hour paid training program.

A homemaker-home health aide's duties include, but are not limited to: caring for elderly, handicapped and disabled adults; bedside and personal care; carrying out the instructions of a physician or nurse; planning and preparing nutritious meals; marketing and light housekeeping.

Interested persons should call McCants-Bodie at Geriatric Services, telephone 658-6731.

Williamsons
Holiday reunion

A Newark brother and sister were able to spend 10 days together during the holidays before armed forces obligations took them to opposite sides of the globe.

U.S. Navy hospital corpsman Patricia Williamson and brother Peter Williamson, a sergeant in the U.S. Army, were reunited at the home of their parents Frederick and Veronica Williamson of 43 Chaucer Dr. in Brookside Park.

Patricia is stationed at the Long Beach, Calif. Naval Hospital, where she is a senior corpsman in the intensive care unit. She has been at Long Beach since October 1984 but will soon be completing her tour of duty there.

Come March, Patricia will leave for a new assignment at Camp Lester Naval Regional Medical Center in Okinawa. There she will serve an 18-month stint.

Before joining the Navy, Patricia was a nurse at the Memorial Division of the Wilmington Medical Center for three years. She is a 1982 graduate of Newark High School.

Peter was with the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C. before being assigned to the Army Armor Center at Fort Knox, Ky. in September, 1985. There he attended the Noncommissioned Officer Academy's Drill Sergeant School.

After a 30-day leave during which Peter and his wife Sandra (Green) Williamson visited Newark, he was off to his next tour of duty at Bad Kissengen in West Germany. There he will serve a three-year stint. His wife will join him in Europe.

Peter is a 1980 graduate of Newark High School and a 1982 graduate of Delaware Technical and Community College.

LEGAL NOTICE

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE IN AND FOR NEW CASTLE COUNTY PUBLIC BUILDING WILMINGTON, DELAWARE 19801

J. D. K-13, Page 303 No. 271 Term June 1985 (Letter) NOTICE OF EXECUTION (Certified Mail Return Receipt Requested) SELMA GOLDSTEIN Plaintiff,

GERTRUDE TILLMAN and NELSON CHAMBERS Defendants TO: Gertrude Tillman, 719 Church Street, Wilmington, DE 19801

(1) Judgment-creditor has requested the Superior Court to issue a Writ of Execution against you based on the confessed judgment entered on December 13, 1985.

(2) The judgment-creditor is claiming you owe $20,000.00 plus accrued interest of $1,500.00 to the date of judgment plus interest at the legal rate from the date of judgment plus attorney's fees of $75.00 plus costs.

(3) The judgment-creditor alleges that you waived your rights to notice and hearing prior to the entry of judgment against you.

(4) The entry of the Court judgment has resulted in a lien against all your real estate and the means whereby the Sheriff, with the Writ of Execution which has been requested, can levy against your personal property and real estate and ultimately sell at public auction your personal property and real estate for credit debt.

(5) A Writ of Execution can be used to attach wages in appropriate cases.

(6) You may appear in the Superior Court, Public Building, Wilmington, Delaware, Friday, February 14, 1986 at 2:00 P.M. at which time you may object to judgment having been entered and/or to the issuance of the execution process. If you object the Court will commence the procedure for a hearing. At said hearing the judgment-creditor will be required to prove that you effectively waived your right to notice and hearing prior to the entry of judgment and you may raise any appropriate defense.

(7) You are not required to appear but if you fail to do so, the Writ of Execution sought by the judgment-creditor, or other subsequent writ will be issued whereby the Sheriff could attach your wages in appropriate cases, or seize your personal property and real estate and ultimately sell them for credit against the debt.

(8) If you have any questions about these matters, you should consult a lawyer immediately.

Glove compartment getting crowded? Pick up a plastic storage box with a snap-on lid to hold extra maps, tissues, and the like, and slide it under the passenger seat.

If the transmission slips, or is mushy, it may be low on fluid. It doesn't cost a lot to change the transmission fluid and filter, if you do it promptly. Waiting may cause severe damage.

Have your car's exhaust system checked for leaks which could result in buildup of toxic gases in the passenger compartment. Especially important when driving with the windows closed.

A woman driving alone on an isolated road should not stop to change a flat tire, police warn. It's safer to drive slowly to the nearest service station or public place.

Zero miles per gallon...that's what you get when idling. Shut off your engine if you're going to stop for more than a minute, except in traffic.
