Armed Might In Pattons 48's Rolls At Chrysler Tank Plant

M-48's Continue to Rumble From Assembly Line As Delaware Tank Plant Gears For New Year's Army Ordnance Production

America's armed might is being steadily increased today as the volume production of Patton 48 medium tanks were two years ago ground was broken for the construction of the massive Chrysler Delaware Tank plant in Newark.

On January 9, 1951, a dozen or so men with two or three dozers began clearing off a wooded farm area of about 200 acres along South College avenue. Today more than 100 persons are employed in a 500,000-square-foot plant producing M-48 medium tanks for the Army's defense.

In addition, preparations are near completion for the volume production of the Army's secret, all-weather tank, designated the T-43. The T-43 is a rapid converter from farm to defense plant is evidence of American industry's ability and "know-how" and a reflection of the experience gained by Chrysler Corporation in building more than 100 tanks in World War II.

It was only ten months after the tank was broken—and only two weeks after the first piece of production machinery was installed—when a pilot model T-43 tank rolled off the Chrysler plant in Newark. Three weeks later, the T-43 pilot followed by a T-43 pilot model. Both of these tanks were built at the plant itself and only partially completed. Six months later, 48 tanks, by then in volume production, were christened Patton 48's and described as the world's finest medium tanks" by the Army's Frank Pace, chief of the Army Ordnance Department, in ceremonies held in Newark on July 1, 1952.

The new Chrysler-built heavy tank, mounting a 120 mm. gun, has recently been referred to as the counterpart of Russia's Joseph Stalin II, a 67-ton behemoth. It is E. W. Soren, mobilization director, has called the T-43 "the best that exists anywhere".

Work at the tank plant during the first year progressed constantly and schedule and at year's end substantial portion of the 10,000 tanks, tools, fixtures, and needed for production of new tanks had been installed.

In addition to the huge manufacturing building, facilities now being built at the plant include a story administration building, a plant, a final point shop, a long tank testing track, and a pair shop as well as smaller structures.

Electric power, water, and sewer lines were needed at the new plant. To hasten the installation and help defray the cost of construction, the new Christiana Hundred hospital interceptor, which

Marine Laboratory Show Undersea Fishes Film

Sunday Movie Concerns Delaware Bay Netting Problem Under Study

Marine Laboratory of the University of Delaware will present a new underwater movie titled "Trawls in Action" at the Hall, Monday, at 8 p.m. This was made underwater near the Mediterranean Sea as part of a study for the best possible operation of trawl nets, which are used in many parts of the world. The movie scenes were taken by "frogmen," who are also swimming around and even through the net as it is drawn along the bottom. The film has been made through the courtesy of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Commercial fishermen and fishermen are interested in the method of fishing. Trawls or "nets" were introduced in Delaware Bay late in 1944, and have been the center of discussion, argument and legislation since that time. The Marine Laboratory has obtained this film as part of its efforts to obtain factual information available to those interested in salt water fishing.

The film shows clearly the operation of a trawl, and provides some of the answers to the questions that have concerned fishermen and fishermen for years: Do trawls of the net close tight, or does it all when the net is being towed? Do the net destroy fish or leave it unchanged? Do fish swim out through the net, or are they permanently trapped when they are in the net? Do the fish die when they are in the net? Do the fish die when they are in the net?

Other interesting questions will be shown in the movie. Members of the staff of the Marine Laboratory will describe the trawl and its operation in Delaware Bay and determine whether trawling should be abolished, modified or restricted in order to get the maximum benefit from the Delaware waters.

As Kenneth R. Dash said of this play when it opened in New York: "Mix one tablespoonful of sex, a couple of spoonfuls of politics, bake it all with a lot of feminism, and there you have the recipe for a hilarious comedy." "Strange Bedfellows" promises to be one of the best evening entertainments ever provided by the University Drama group.

Visiting Nurse Comforts 3057 Ill Persons During Past Year

"Alice H. Leak, R.N." is the simple signature following one and a half pages of typewritten report summarizing in cold statistics a Visiting Nurse's report of her work in the Newark area in 1952.

It doesn't take much reading between the lines to understand that a tremendous amount of kindness, love, help, comfort and tireless effort were involved in Miss Leak's 3,057 visits during the year to those in need of just those very things.

The long list of patients attended includes chronic cases of heart and kidney diseases, apoplexy, anemia, cancer, paralysis, arthritis, and diabetes; acute cases of pneumonia and laryngitis; prenatal and maternity cases; fractures, amputations, infections, and miscellaneous accidents.

These errands of mercy are performed under many adverse as well as favorable conditions—in good and in bad weather, at all hours from early in the morning until late at night; in town and in remote, rural locations. Some of the homes visited have comfortable facilities, while others lack even the bare necessities. But these visits all have one thing in common—relief for persons in distress.

A great many people are thankful for Alice H. Leak, R.N.

Following is her report for the month of December:

No. of visits, 274—nursing, 261, instructive, 13.

Town Councilmen In Stormy Session Tackle Zoning Laws

Frank Durnall Presides In Absence Of Mayor Johnson; New London Ave. Re-Zoning Ordinance Approved For Construction Of Colored Housing Development

The Newark Town Councilmen had a somewhat stormy time during the regular bi-weekly session at the Town Council Hall here Tuesday night, but it was mild to what was developing on the outside during the proceedings within Newark and the councilmen cars were being covered with the deepest snow of the winter.

During the meeting considerable discussion took place across the table concerning the actions of the Council and their regulations by various articles and sections of the charter. The solicitor was asked for rulings from time to time—gave them—and the proceedings continued after each pause for a technicality.

Frank Durnall, Councilman from the Middle District, presided in the absence of Mayor Wallace Johnson, with Councilmen Carl Rankin and Dr. John R. Downes, of the West District; Samuel Diehl, Jr., of the Middle District; Wm. Covard and Donald Hill, of the East District; John P. Sinclair, City Solicitor; Charles Long, Secretary; and Francis Neide, City Engineer, attending.

A petition was presented to the Council by Mrs. Lillian M. Thompson, objecting to the re-zoning of the property at 58 West Cleveland Ave. The property is owned by John Chambers, who had previously petitioned the Council for such re-zoning in order to establish a package liquor store at that site.

The objecting petitioner was read as follows:

"We the undersigned, do strenuously object to a package store at 58 West Cleveland Avenue or on the adjoining lots which John Chambers proposes to use for that purpose and for which he is making application." The petition was signed by Mrs. Thompson, Elsie R. Davis, Mrs. Robert Greenplate, Earl W. Gregg, Ralph A. Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Delaware Gregg, Otis Gregg, Mrs. May Morgan, Mrs. Helen Tyler, and Thomas G. Anderson.

The Council, who is concerned with zoning ordinances as they relate to business or residential districts and not to the nature of business, approved a motion that the petitions be returned to the signers for re-wording, eliminating mention of the proposed package store.

After some discussion, the planned purchase and installation of two Permalites for traffic guidance at Academy and Main Streets was approved.

No reply has been received from the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad regarding drainage ditch construction on Cleveland Avenue, and another letter will be sent to the railroad requesting some definite response.

The problem of parking over the sidewalk at the M & E Cleaners was discussed and efforts will be made to remedy this unsafe condition.

City Engineer Neide reported that the work of widening North College Ave. had not been started but that such construction was planned and would be carried out when feasible.

The second and final reading was approved for re-zoning the Green Estate property on the east side of New London Ave. This land, to be known as New London Heights, will be used for a colored development consisting of 101 prefabricated single homes.

A motion made to have the first reading of ordinance on the re-zoning of the Willis Property, east of Capitol trail was defeated by the opposition of Hill, Covard, and Diehl.

Home Economists Suggest Plans For Better Living

Specialists Advocate Use of Vitamin A Foods, Planned Play, Buying

Resolved for 1953—better family living through play, planning, better food, and intelligent buying.

That would sum up the suggestions of three home economists, specialists at the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

Plan to use more dairy products, citrus fruits and tomatoes, vitamin A foods, and foods rich in thiamine, says Miss M. Gertrude Holloway, nutritional. Miss Holloway points to a country-wide study that shows that American diets are most often lacking in calcium. This can best be supplied by dairy products. Vitamin C is second in importance. To ensure this, Miss Holloway suggests more citrus fruits and tomatoes. Vitamin A seems to be lacking in diets, especially on farms in late winter and early spring. More green and yellow vegetables, and butter, would be a remedy. Town and city diets are often short in the important vitamins, thiamine. It is found in foods such as pork and whole grain or enriched grain products.

Miss Ruth E. Pearce, clothing specialist, emphasizes intelligent buying. The fabric and clothing piece is huge and complicated, explains Miss Pearce, and homemakers become confused when buying. This confusion could be lessened if homemakers would read labels. They are for the buyers protection and explain how the garment is made, what it is made out of, and how to care for it. Follow the label directions and avoid buying sources is Miss Pearce's resolution.

Mill Creek Hundred News

Sara Pennington Evans, Corres. Phone Hockessin 598

So numerous have been the changes in the Hundred during the past few months that one almost stops to wonder if this is really a rural area.

If you should take a drive up Limestone road, you would see that the foundations have been started by Bai-Tone for the first two new homes in Limestone Acres, reported to be in development for 400 new houses.

In the Creek Road area, there are many new residences. Construction has begun for the North Star settlements over Hockessin way and the excavation and grading work for the new bypass is almost completed.

Coming back towards Newark, let's stop and look over the new Louviers building and grounds at Milford Cross Roads. The new service station being erected where the little gas station and store is located, will make another improvement there. So much for building progress.

Let's glance at another change. Starting Jan. 2 the Marshallton mail route, which served many families in the Hundred will now be known as Marshallton R.D. 4, Wilmington, Del. One can hardly believe that Wilmington will serve this part of New Castle county. Yes, each year sees many changes and 1953 will bring its own new developments and improvements.

The Capt. William McKenn Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold its January meeting on Monday, Jan. 12 at the home of Mrs. Lester Brewington on Cooper Farm. Yearly reports will be given.

Reservations for the annual banquet for the MYAF are still open however, the number is limited to 110. Contact members of the group early. The guest speaker will be U.S. Senator J. Allen Frear and the affair will be held in the church social hall.

A Hymn Is Born

BY CLINT BONNER

Away In A Manger

A fighting man writes a tender carol

With ashes of religious martyrs strewn over Europe, a perpetual series of court battles and prospects of being burned at the stake, none but the most resolute character would have dared oppose the authority of the ancient Roman Church. But Martin Luther was a most resolute character.

Luther has been labeled "the shameless monk" . . . "a child of the devil" and "a barbarous writer and demagogue." The leader of Europe's religious Reformation has also been called "an extraordinary genius" . . . "an inspired personality" and "the champion of conscience and individual freedom." The light in which Luther might be regarded depends, of course, on which side of the controversy lies the individual's sentiments.

But none can deny that Martin Luther led a strenuous and eventful life, that he was resolute and determined in his convictions and that he was dauntless in purpose. "I was born to fight with devils and factions," he once said, ". . . let me speak the truth with too great severity than once act the hypocrite." Nor would a timid soul have stood in the court of Charles V and dared defy the emperor. But as a rule the strongest men are the most gentle. The same Luther who boldly nailed his 95 theses on the chapel door and publicly burned the papal edict of excommunication, loved nothing more than peaceful hours at home with his family.

On Christmas, 1530, the fighting Reformer gathered his children about him and read stories of the Nativity from the Bible. Then he took his little son, Hans (John) on his knee and wrote a Christmas carol. It is one of the tenderest of all children's songs and has been sung for more than four centuries at cradles all over the world. Some hymn books do not give the name of the author at all and some scholars say the author is unknown. Other hymnologists claim Luther wrote at least the first two stanzas as well as the music.

So, while adults argue their points of theology, and history records the most heinous of crimes in the name of religion, little children pay homage at Christmas to one who gave his life in the hope that grown men might live as free of hatred as children for whom these lines were written:

Away in a manger,
No crib for a bed,
The little Lord Jesus,
Laid down His sweet head;
The stars in the sky,
Looked down where He lay,
The little Lord Jesus,
Asleep on the hay.

The cattle are lowing,
The Baby awakes,
But little Lord Jesus,
No crying He makes;

January 15 Vital Amended Estimates Tax Deadline Date

Employees Subject To Withholding Tax Are Not Affected

Several million taxpayers face a double obligation to the federal tax collector in 10 days.

Jan. 15 is the deadline for filing amended estimates of income taxes for 1952, and also for paying the final installment on estimated taxes for last year.

Those who don't have either about amended estimates, however, if a file your regular 1952 tax return and pay the tax due by Jan. 15. An amended estimate is needed only if your previous estimate was more than 20 per cent from actual income.

The big majority of U.S. taxpayers are wage-earners, most of whom are not required to file tax estimates. Most of the estimates are from persons in business for themselves, or from those with considerable investments.

Those Who Pay

tax estimates ARE required from earners only if:

Their wages were not subject to withholding last year.

They have more than $100 income apart from their wages from which taxes were withheld. Examples of such income are rents, dividends on stock, or profit from the sale of property such as an automobile or securities.

In the latter case, only half of the profit is taxable if the property was bought more than six months before its sale.

If their 1952 wages subject to withholding tax were more than $100 plus $500 for each exempt person, figures out $400 for a married man or $300 for a married woman with two children.

Those who do not have to make an estimate of income due if they file their 1952 return and pay taxes by Jan. 15. The filing of a return into the tax collector's book into consideration, the fact that many crops are harvested in the year and the farmer's estimate of what his production is (to be until he gets it into the market).

The tax estimate forms—Form 1041-ES—may be obtained from the office of Internal Revenue for the district in which you live. Your office or bank can give you the forms.

Christmas Seals

Turn $65,000

The sale of 1953 Christmas Seals already returned to the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society of the $60,000 goal.

Gerald A. Beatty, society president, is hopeful that delayed response to the 1952 Christmas Seal Sale thus far has been due and we are grateful to those who have acknowledged their Christmas Seal letters." Dr. Beatty says, "However, I want to repeat that it is still not too late to send your Christmas Seal, and I should like to see you who has not already responded to the 1952 Christmas Seal Sale. It would be a great help in our fight against the infectious disease killer in tuberculosis." Dr. Beatty says for Christmas Seals are sent to the holiday season—Christmas Seal funds work the hard to help protect all of tuberculosis." Dr. Beatty

GRANDCHILDREN

I had been calling on my friend, Mrs. Manson, and was about to leave when her three grandchildren and their mother came bustling into the quiet house.

"May I leave the kiddies here, Grandma, while I go to the dentist?" asked the pretty young woman.

"Of course, my dear, you know I love to have them," answered Mrs. Manson, smiling, as she released five-year-old Jack from a welcoming embrace.

"Thanks a lot. I'll be back as soon as I can." With that the mother was gone.

"Now, what'll we do, Grandma?" Jack caught her hand, his dark eyes sparkling with anticipation.

"I'm going to stay and help amuse these children," I said, removing my coat and feeling resentful that my friend, who was not altogether well, should have three youngsters thrust upon her for the afternoon.

"Don't trouble unless you want to stay," was her answer. "No, don't stay," she added. "I know you have another appointment. The kiddies and I get on nicely together—don't we, Mary?"

Six-year-old Mary was holding her grandmother's other hand, leaning a golden head against her arm. Two-year-old Tommy had dragged out a box from a corner and was piling up on the rug the toys he took from it.

"I'll look in on my way back," I promised, as I replaced my coat.

Almost two hours later I returned, expecting to find my friend near exhaustion. Jack let me in. "Look!" he exclaimed, as he waved a paper windmill before my face. "I made it! And this train!" He pointed to a row of boxes tied together with a string, the end one roughly fashioned to look like a locomotive. "I can be the knots now; Grandma showed me how."

"Wonderful!" I admired.

Instead of being exhausted my friend looked younger and brighter than I had seen her for some time. "I'm helping Mary finish this doll's dress," she said, cutting a thread.

The girl caught up the work and ran to me. "See, I dressed this doll myself!" she told me, and her blue eyes glowed.

Someone else pushed in close, raised a scratch book covered with crayon scribbles. I did not understand his jabbering, but I did interpret the earnest look on his chubby face and duly admired the "beautiful" art work. The littered room held an air of contentment. I was sure that everyone was happy.

Soon the children's mother arrived to take them home and I started to say good-bye.

"But don't go!" she pleaded. "The children do that!" she said, pointing to the children, she smiled at the kiddies, time to cut the string.

Good Luck, Mitch!

Fred Mitchell, who has done a pretty fair job of everything he has tackled — from a shortstop berth with Delaware's Blue Hens to editor of the Post — has turned in his eyeshade and editorial desk for another assignment and we're sorry to see him leave for a number of selfish reasons.

He can make up the Post in a hurry when necessary — write a full head, a good lead and a full story — and he knows so many of Newark's residents that we believe he could compile a city directory off the cuff. We're grateful for his assistance in briefing us in our effort to get out the paper.

Newark is a nice town. We like it. And you report that we've met real folks — friendly, kind, and hospitable. It's good to be with you.

 To the Firemen of the Aetna Hose Hook and Ladder Co.

We want to thank the Fire Chief and the volunteer firemen that helped put the fire out at our house, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 28.

We can not say enough for the good job you did and the way you worked. You took care of everything you could in the house; you covered over the furniture and then had the water run into buckets so it would not run down to the second floor. You surely did a good job, and we cannot say how much we really appreciate what you did for us.

We hope everyone will give to this wonderful Fire Company everything they can, for you never know (like us) when you will have to call on these fine men.

So once again, Firemen, many thanks which is so little to say for such a big job.

Yours sincerely,

 Dear Sir:

It is with mixed amusement and disgust that I read how various persons pass the buck of responsibility for children not following the straight and narrow way.

I feel I was an average boy and that my parents — believers in the Bible — did not spare the rod to spoil the child. The use of hickory twig oil sometimes left stripes on me. The dose was used with discretion and to me was bitter, but at the age of 60 I now feel it had a great influence towards law abiding citizenship. Today the law would have punished my parents!

As for my wife, God never let a better woman wear shoes. She was raised in the home of very poor parents and only went to school for about three winters. The school was blessed with one new water bucket, a new corn broom, and one box of chalk each season. But the teacher was permitted to read the Bible and the children said a prayer at the start of the day.

Incidentally, I may be doing a good service when I recall to mind one boy who recently made news as to how his mother was hindered by his father in correcting him. He was given money, etc. above the average child and I am told that the home they last moved from was unduly abused.

In conclusion, the Bible says to train a child in the way you would have him go and he will not depart. However, I believe that after a child leaves his parents he blends with outside contacts, and in many cases, before leaving home.

SEPARATES are ideal for the school-going girl, for they can be mixed and matched and worn with many color and fabric combinations. They are especially suitable for the school girl whose change purse lacks the jingle of necessary cents for new wardrobe items, because separates can be made easily by her, with a little material and some thread.

WOOL FELT A LA MODE
 This season, wool felt is being used in a wide range of colors, for circular skirts and vests. It's such an easy fabric to sew with since it requires no seam finishings or hems. Just zip up the seams and darts and run a stitch around the outer edges for reinforcement and there you are—an attractive and fashionable accessory to pair with your other separates.

APPLIED FOR THE OCCASION
 The vestkit shown here sports appliques of hearts and flowers, a bowling ball and pins, and an opened book for the book worms. If your club group has been looking for an outfit that can be worn to the meetings, this little felt vestkit is just the thing. For instance, if you belong to a literary group, repeat only the book applique all over the vestkit. If you have a bowling team, applique the symbols of your favorite sport on the jacket. Your team will be the sensation of the bowling lanes in vestkits adorned with felt balls and pins, with a full skirt, for ease of action, to match.

SEW IT YOURSELF
 This adorable wool felt fashion accessory can be made in a wink—no seam finishings, no hems. Any vest pattern can be used. I would like to send you the simple sewing and cutting directions for making it and a beanie to match along with tracing patterns for the appliques. If you would like to make this FELT VESTKIT, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper for the instructions on Leaflet No. E-2511.

Special Short Term Studies Offered In Varied Fields

Five classes designed especially for people interested in dairy farming are being offered in the University of Delaware's Farm Short course, January 26 to February 26, 1953, according to Sam Gwinn, Assistant Short Course Director.

In addition, there will be eleven other classes in different phases of agriculture during the five weeks session, from which students may choose.

The dairy classes include Raising Dairy Cattle Replacements, Pastures, Dairy Cattle Diseases, Grain Crops, and Control of Livestock and Poultry Pests. Supplementary to this list are such classes as Farming Today, Marketing Farm Products, Rural Community Leadership, and others.

"The class on replacements will deal with care of the newborn calf," says Gwinn, "as well as feeding and management of dairy calves, housing, growth and development, identification, and registration. Feeding, care, and breeding of dairy heifers will also be discussed."

Among the other classes being offered this year are Soil Management, Care and Management of the Laying Flock, Common Diseases and Insects in Home Gardens and Their Control, Control of Household Pests, Fruit and Vegetable Growing in the Home Garden, Keeping Poultry Healthy, Landscape Gardening, and Production and Management of Beef Cattle. Each student will choose five or six classes.

Newark Loses To Dynahs 47-44, In Final Seconds

Ciesinski Pleased With Team's Great Defensive Work In First Fling At Man-To-Man Defense, As Hurm Paces Scoring; Jackets Play Brown, Friday

With 30 seconds remaining, and the score 46-44 in favor of the fast-moving P.S. duPont Dynahs, the Newark Yellowjackets missed three foul shots and their chance for an undefeated season. Coach Ray Ciesinski's boys dropped a hard and well played, even-even ball game, 47-44.

It was the first time the current crop of Yellowjackets have played a man-to-man defense, and Coach Ciesinski's expressed his satisfaction with the defensive play by the whole team.

Night Accidents Blamed For Over 20,000 Fatalities

Bad driving vision and excessive speeds at night, when drivers should automatically slow down from their daytime pace, are two of the biggest factors blamed by safety specialists for the increasing death toll on the highways.

More than one out of every three drivers is "definitely below average in vision at night," according to Thomas N. Boate, public safety director of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies. He pointed out that this falling of more than 20,000 motorists must be given increased attention in efforts to reduce the growing toll of night accidents. At least 15 percent of this group, or more than 3,000,000 drivers, have vision that "renders them dangerous when they drive a car," he declared.

Night-time traffic accidents claimed more than 20,000 lives last year and well over 750,000 men, women and children were injured, Mr. Boate said. The death rate per vehicle has been estimated as high as four times greater at night than in the daytime in proportion to traffic volume, which is substantially lower during the hours of darkness.

According to the Committee on Safety of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, darkness is so significant a hazard that the prevention of only one-third of the adult pedestrian fatalities that occur at night would save more lives than the total of all pedestrian fatalities in the daytime.

The 20,000 fatalities at night among motorists and pedestrians in 1950 was 57 percent of all traffic deaths. This was 9 percent greater than the post-war low of night fatalities in 1946, when 48 percent of last year's victims of accidents were killed in hours of darkness.

During the past decade, these deaths have increased between 48 and 61 percent, the total annual toll, with the highest percentage occurring about four pedestrians injured while crossing streets as they ran down at a duck and dawn, according to survey made in 23 states. Half of these accidents at intersections where no traffic signal.

National Golf Day Set For May 23

National Golf Day, for $1 the worst duffer can compete against the nation's best, will be held May 23.

A year ago more than 80,000 duffers "competed" against Ben Hogan, United States Open champion. The duffers used club or allotted handicaps while attempting to match Hogan's score from scratch on the Northwood Club Course in Dallas, Tex.

The golfer who will play against the field this year will be announced soon.

Last Racing Day Worth $53,490

July 5, 1952 was just another day to most people, most places, but to the Delaware Racing commission it was the last day of the racing season at Delaware Park and was worth exactly $53,490.18.

This figure was omitted in the Delaware Racing commission's annual report to the public on Dec. 16. The report showed a total revenue of $1,157,401.88.

Commission Chairman Joseph W. Chinn, Jr., announced Tuesday that the July 5 receipts, through a clerical error, were not included in the original total and that with such inclusion the season's receipts amount to $1,210,892.04.

Eisenhower Urges Nation Support March of Dimes

NEW YORK CITY—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower called on the American public to support the 1953 March of Dimes being conducted throughout the nation during all of January.

He joined in the annual appeal after meeting the two Raleigh, N.C., sisters who are pictured on the 1953 March of Dimes poster. They are Patricia, 6, and five-year-old Pamela O'Neil, both of whom were stricken with polio but now are recovered completely.

"It's hard to believe that these are the same little girls whose pictures are on the March of Dimes poster," he noted. "Now they're completely recovered from polio, thanks to the generosity of the American people."

He urged all Americans "to help the others like them by joining the March of Dimes."

Later, he joined the poster girls in making a short film which is being shown by television stations throughout the nation.

This year's March of Dimes follows the all-time record polio epidemic of 1952 in which more than 55,000 were stricken. At the beginning of 1953, there were 58,000 polio victims of former years still undergoing treatment, with financial help from local March of Dimes chapters.

Rabbits Wanted For Re-Stocking

Chief State Game Warden Thomas N. Stoyton is in the market for 7,500 rabbits to satisfy the demands of Delaware sportsmen who would like to find some game in the local woods next season.

Conservation authorities believe that re-stocking programs are expensive and inefficient — that food and cover planting and conservation of existing brushlands are the answers to improved hunting, but to satisfy public demand, Stoyton is making every effort to purchase rabbits for release in the state.

Missouri, which has provided Delaware with rabbits during the past several years just doesn't have them to export, and Stoyton explained that the order for 7,500 rabbits for release in Delaware this month and early next month will not be filled and that there is little expectation of obtaining them elsewhere.

Rabbit hunting is the most popular of all types of hunting in the state and was considered better than usual in the season which opened Nov. 15 and closed Dec. 31.

Pauline Betz To Unveil Jokari At Convention Hall

Former Tennis Champion Will Demonstrate Latest European Sports Craze

Pauline Betz, former national and world tennis champion, will be in Philadelphia Wednesday, January 7 to give an exhibition of Jokari between the games of a National Basketball Association doubleheader at Convention Hall. The Warriors play Boston and New York meets Syracuse that night.

Miss Betz will be assisted in the exhibition by Sandor Glancz, former world table tennis champion.

Jokari is the latest sports craze of the Riviera and England and is starting to "catch on" in the United States.

Jokari is best described as squash-tennis without a court. It is a simple game consisting of two smartly-styled paddles, a center control box, a rubber ball and about ten feet of rubber cable. It can be played by one, two, three or four individuals almost anywhere 20 feet of open space can be found.

Miss Betz is just one of many of the nation's leading tennis players and squash performers who have been testing the game. They report it is ideally suited for adult and child activities.

John (Bud) Palmer, All-American basketball player at Princeton and former captain of the New York York Knicks and now a leading TV sports announcer, has become quite adept at the game. He recently made an instructive film with Miss Betz on how to play Jokari.

Unlike the majority of sports, Jokari is an excellent companion for the boy or girl who finds a spare moment or two alone. Since the ball always snaps back, the problem of walking around saying, "Jokari anyone?" is eliminated.

Sergeant James Ferguson, brother of Mr. Fred Ferguson, Possum Park road, is enjoying a thirty-day leave. Sergeant Ferguson flew home from England on December 19th. He is stationed at the U.S. Air Base, Woodbridge, England.

Ten years of army service have provided interesting experiences in various parts of the world, in the Pacific area, in Alaska, including a long drive home from Alaska, and now in England.

Sergeant Ferguson is finding many points of contrast between English and American customs. He much prefers the English railway with its compartment arrangement and subway travel is much smoother. However, shortages are clearly evident when it comes of food and clothing.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Furness and children, Nancy and Harry, left for Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, on Wednesday after spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Furness and family, Kirkwood Highway.

Mrs. Furness' sister, Mrs. John J. Miller and family of States Island, New York, were also holiday guests at the Furness home.

Walter Furness, Jr., celebrated his twentieth birthday two weeks ago. Mrs. Elizabeth Hilbert of Philadelphia spent the holidays with her daughter, Mrs. Emory C. Holbrook, Roseville Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lynam, East-ern Heights, celebrated the New Year with the arrival of a baby daughter, in Wilmington General Hospital. Mother and daughter returned home on Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lamborn are being congratulated on the arrival of a baby girl on December 24th. The Lamborns are new residents in Delaplane Manor.

FARM GOALS
Delaware's farmers will be aiming at these production goals in 1953: Corn—170,000 acres and 6,366,000 bushels; Oats—8,000 acres and 800,000 bushels; Soybeans—60,000 acres and 825,000 bushels; Hay—70,000 acres and 95,000 tons. The wheat acreage is the same as in 1952. The total is 61,000 acres and a little over one million bushels.

Statistics Show U. of D. Provided 19% City Income

One-Fifth Of Profits From Power and Light Attributed to School

In a press release, the Office of Public Relations, University of Delaware states that the University of Delaware is a direct economic asset to the Newark community as well as the focal point of the educational and cultural life of the state.

The state university provided 19.2 per cent of just about one-fifth of Newark's net revenue for the operation of the Newark city government for the fiscal year which ended February 28, 1951.

Newark's total net revenue for that period was $344,674.93 of which the University of Delaware made payments totaling $66,138.00.

During this same period the city of Newark realized a profit of $79,000 from the sale of light and power, $17,900 or 21.9 per cent of this figure represents the profit which accrued from the municipal sale of electric power to the University. This amount becomes more impressive when contrasted with the figure of $26,920 which represents Newark's "total take" from all net property and capital taxes. If it were not for the profit from the sale of electricity to the University, Newark's taxes would have to be about two thirds higher than they are now.

The University of Delaware takes increasing pride in its role of a "leading useful community enterprise" in the light of the fact that Newark has the lowest tax rate of any Delaware community—a total of 66 cents on $100 of assessed valuation, 33 cents of which is levied as a special school tax.

Comparable towns and cities in our state like Dover, Seaford, Georgetown, Middletown and Milford have local tax rates which range from $1.00 to $1.30 plus special school levies of 24 to 36 cents.

BUY EARLY
Checking fertilizer needs and buying early assures you a good crop next year, say University of Delaware agronomists. Bottlenecks in warehouses and dealers sheds can leave you up in the air at planting time. Early buying spreads the manufacturers' load over a longer period, assuring more regular supplies. And by the way, decide on your fertilizer needs by having your soil tested at the University of Delaware agronomy department. Contact your county agent for details.

How To Have a Glamorous Bathroom

Curtains made of towels highlight this cheery bathroom. Its Provincial theme accented by Cannon's "Chauticler" ensemble.

It's easy to redecorate your bathroom each week. You can do this without spending a cent on painting or papering or even on structural changes. All you do, suggests the Cannon Home-making Institute, is to change your color scheme each week. With varied towel colors, plus occasional changes of small decorative accessories, your effects can be constantly new and interesting. For instance, your bathroom may one week have a gay Provincial theme, with "Chauticler" bordered towels. You can use the same style towels for window curtains, tied back with strings of wooden beads to match the borders.

On another occasion, you can create a Victorian theme by using richly patterned floral towels in brilliant colors to contrast with your walls. In this plan, you may change window draperies to a clean-cut candy-stripe chintz. Add some Victorian bric-a-brac, and you have a bathroom in an entirely different mood.

Or, you may choose for your bathroom's decor a strictly modern theme. For this, a smart idea would be solid color towels of sculptured or textured designs in colors to match or contrast sharply with the wall colors. Bright cakes of soap in a modern wire bowl would be an attractive accessory. Do you see how easy it is to change your bathroom to match your mood? All it takes is a variety of towels in lively colors, a few charming accessories—plus lots and lots of imagination!

Income Tax Data To Be Issued School Pupils

Distributor of material prepared by the Bureau of Internal Revenue to assist junior and senior high school students to file federal income tax returns, and obtain tax refunds or to pay the taxes due soon will be distributed to the Delaware schools from Washington.

Francis P. Graham, director of the Delaware office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, explained that hundreds of ten-year students at Delaware are employed in summer months and during other vacations. Most of them are subject to federal withholding taxes, taken from their pay by employers and turned over to the government.

If the students receive more than $500 in a year they may be subject to a tax. Information will be distributed on how to file the return and pay the tax.

Secondary schools in the state, Mr. Graham pointed out, have already introduced practical income tax instructions to help their teenage students. However, texts readily available in the schools and teachers are not always up-to-date or entirely adequate to meet the practical needs of the working students.

Mr. Graham said that the materials will be distributed to the schools directly from Washington, with present plans calling for about 19,000 schools to receive the material across the nation.

Newark Dentist Opposes Parley On Fluoridation

Dr. Musselman Speaks Before Wilmington Group On Water Problem

Dr. P. K. Musselman, Newark dentist, said that Mayor James P. Hearn has been asked to appoint a committee of experts from Delaware and out-of-state to confer with Wilmington officials on the question of fluoridation of the city's water supply.

Dr. Musselman, a strong advocate of fluoridation, described the idea of a referendum on the subject, saying, "How can you ask people to vote for or against it when they know so little about it?" He made the statements at a meeting of county and city council members at home and public school in the Lere School auditorium.

Dr. Musselman said Henry Welch, executive director of the Welfare Council of Delaware, wrote to Mayor Hearn requesting a response by Jan. 20.

In his letter, Dr. Welch reportedly advised creation of a committee of authorities on fluoridation from other states, chemists, a biochemist, bacteriologist, and others who would meet with members of City Council and the Wilmington Water Department to discuss the merits of fluoridation.

Dr. Musselman told the group that about 80 per cent of Wilmington school children receive no dental care, and that fluoridation of water would cut down tooth decay by 40 to 65 per cent.

Would Cost $25,000 Dr. Victor D. Washburn, who pushed the project during his recent term as city health commissioner, said installation of the system would cost about $25,000.

Pierce V. Marvel, Ninth Ward city councilman, said that while the Water Department could undertake the project on its own authority, City Council would have to pass on the funds necessary for the program.

Wm. E. Sanders Retires After 60 Years As Druggist

Estimates Filling 350,000 Prescriptions; None for Healthy Self

William E. Sanders, 136 West Main Street in Newark, has put away the mortar and pestle after sixty years and the observance of his 60th birthday. With the last day of 1952, Mr. Sanders officially retired.

The soft-voiced old pharmacist estimates he has filled more than 350,000 prescriptions. But none of them has been for himself. He avoids coffee, tea, tobacco, and liquor, and relies on nature to keep him healthy.

His own remedy for colds: "I go to bed and sleep 24 hours." After selling his business in Newark 10 years ago, Mr. Sanders became one of those invaluable aides to druggists in the Wilmington area in the World War II and post-war years—a relief pharmacist.

The war gave experienced men like Mr. Sanders an opportunity to perform a real service with prescriptions.

In the past decade, Mr. Sanders has given assistance, emergency and otherwise, in 24 drug stores in a territory extending from Wilmington to Perryville, Md. This includes 22 in the Wilmington area, one in Newark, one in Elkton, and one in Perryville.

The peak of his career as a proprietor was reached in World War I, when he owned five drug stores in Philadelphia, one in Newark, and one in Camden, N.J.

In those times, as in the Second World War, the shortage of experienced practitioners created unusual circumstances. The New Jersey State Medical Board granted Mr. Sanders an emergency permit to practice in Dorchester County, Md., he began to learn pharmacy in Kennelville. Prior to that, he was a general store clerk at nearby Millington.

Mr. Sanders lives in Newark with a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Sanders. His wife, Mrs. Nettie J. Sanders, died in June, 1951, two years after she and her husband celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. Sanders, in addition to five grandchildren and three great grandchildren, has a daughter, Mrs. L. W. McKay, of Collingswood, N.J., who also is a pharmacist. Another daughter, Mrs. Norman Lush, lives in Westmont, N. J., while another son, William N. Sanders, of Lansdowne, Pa., is with the Federal Reserve Bank in Philadelphia.

Delaware Nurses Request Change In Age Limit Law

Permission for a graduate nurse to begin practice at the age of 20 following graduation is asked in a bill to be submitted the General Assembly by the legislative committee of the Delaware State Nurses' Association.

At the present time a nurse must remain on general duty in a hospital until she is 21 years of age. The bill, reported by Mrs. Eleanor P. Jester, executive secretary of the association, would permit a nurse to start her career after graduation and passing the state board examination.

Many Under 21 A number of nurses graduating at the present time are under 21, Mrs. Jester said, but added the bill requires them to wait until they are 21 years old before beginning professional careers.

Other portions of the bill calls for licensing of practical nurses in Delaware. Those now in the field may waive this requirement by presenting letters from two doctors and two former patients as proof of their qualifications.

An executive secretary for the state Board of Examiners for Graduate Nurses is also asked at a salary not to exceed $5,000 yearly; and that the name of the board be changed to the Delaware State Board of Nursing.

Would Raise Fee The bill would also raise the registration fee for a nurse who has finished her training from $10 to $15. This would not affect nurses already licensed, but the re-registration fee of $1 biennially would be raised to $2.

Members of the state examining board would be appointed from a list of three names submitted to the governor two months before the vacancies occur by the state nurses association.
