

50 In Review; Civic Problems Led By National Emergency

Crime Experiment Launched After Bitter Debate; Sunday Movie, Parking Meter Issues Cause Minor Tempests; World War II Atmosphere Returns

The year 1950 began on a note of confidence and growing optimism for Newark and the rest of the nation. The post-war boom was tapering-off, and business recession, predicted by some, had not materialized. The country's economy seemed launched on an era of steady prosperity, and the town appeared well on its way to a return to "normalcy."

The international situation, which meant the long-standing tension between the East and the West, was referred to as the "cold war," and it had been cold so long that people had begun to take it less seriously and to speak of it often. The general sentiment was that all would be settled somehow in time. The national atomic bomb was high, but the nation's atomic experts gave assurances that the economy was sound and said the government stood ready to cope with the proper controls and if the upward spiral grew dangerous.

The face of this, the town and its people began to relax in a way not known since before World War II. Men in July came the event which simply changed all this—the Korean Communist invasion of South Korea and the prompt landing of United Nations forces, spearheaded by American troops, on the peninsula.

A few months later this "police man" became a war in all but name as the forces of Communist China moved the fight.

Newark was as deeply involved as any other American town in the war. Men were serving in all branches of the armed service, and one, Lt. James Silk, was among the first Delaware soldiers wounded in action. In August, the town was called upon for ever greater support to the military effort when Newark's Battery 'C' was ordered into federal service.

On the home front, an atmosphere reminiscent of the early days of World War II was noticeable. Prices rose on all levels, making one look wistfully back at the "high prices" of last January. There were rumors of developing shortages, sudden hoarding spurts here and there, government requests for voluntary price control and promises of a wage freeze.

A familiar ring was also noticeable in plans for organizing ground-attack over posts and civil defense units.

If there was any doubt in Newark that the nation was in the midst of a national emergency it was swept away recently when the announcement was made that the Chrysler Corporation would erect a huge tank assembly plant just south of town, employing more than three to four thousand workers. This assured Newark of a vital place.

Soroptimist Clubs Grant Fellowships

The Soroptimist International Association, American Federation focussed attention on the only Woman's Medical College in the world, when during the sessions of the executive board held in Philadelphia recently the board presented a check of $1,000 to the college for the establishment of a fellowship.

The Newark Soroptimist Club is interested in the decisions of this executive body which as just announced included the approval of three International Fellowships of $3,000 each, two through Unesco and one in Political Science, and the setting aside of $1,000 as a special federation gift to Unesco.

The Soroptimist Federation's plans to aid Woman's Medical College are more extensive than the initial award of the $1,000 gift and call for a two-year project to be announced following the approval of the board of directors.

Expert Will Survey Recreational Needs In 8-Day Study Here

Possibilities Of Organizing More Extensive Program To Be Investigated

A survey of Newark's recreational needs, including a sampling of public opinion on the organization of a year-round program, will be conducted by a visiting recreational expert the latter part of January.

Arrangements for the study, the exact dates for which have not yet been fixed, have been completed by the Newark Recreation Association.

The 8-day survey will be carried out by Weaver W. Pangburn, representative of the F. Elwood Allen Organization, New York City, a firm which specializes in recreational surveys and planning.

Mr. Pangburn, who made the Wilmington survey which eventually led to the establishment of Wilmington Recreation Promotion and Service, Inc., will conduct an 8-day study here, after which he will pass on his recommendations to the local Recreation Association. These will include his expert opinion on what sort of recreation program, if any, should be organized here and how it should be financed.

During his study, he will conduct man-on-the-street interviews and hold conferences with civic heads, town officials and leaders of private industry. Activities currently sponsored by the Recreation Association are the youth canteen in the Century Club and the ice skating rink on East Main Street. Plans for a town-wide square dance are also being considered.

Reduction In Cost Of Electric Power Secured By Council

Lawmakers Approve Amendment To Light Contract At Special Meeting

The town has secured a reduction in the cost of electric current it buys from the Delaware Power and Light Company for resale to local consumers, but the saving will not be passed along to the public in the form of lower electric light bills.

Instead, the increased profits on the sale of electric current will go to bolster the Town Council's revenue, thus benefiting the public indirectly by making it possible for Council to avoid increasing municipal taxes at this time.

The new rate agreement was fixed in an amendment to the town's current 5-year contract with the light company. The amendment was brought up at a special meeting, which was called hurriedly last Friday night just before the previously announced public hearing on G. Wesley Wollaston's request for a change in the zoning law.

Councilman William Coverdale refrained from voting on the amendment, saying he was not familiar with its provisions. The bill was passed, however, by simple resolution and was signed this week by Mayor Wallace Johnson.

Few details on the amendment, which is filled with highly technical terms, were made public, but Mayor Johnson and Councilman Samuel Diehl said the new rate is based on a sliding scale, varying with the rate of power consumption here. If local power consumption continues its present rate of growth, the town will save, they said, about $3,000 the first year and up to $100,000 in ten years.

Bank Shareholders Get Extra Dividend

An extra dividend of $3 a share in addition to the regular semi-annual dividend of $3 a share on the capital stock of the Newark Trust Company, has been declared by the board of directors of the bank.

Both dividends were payable to stockholders of record Dec. 15. The two dividends bring to $9 the total dividends paid during 1950 on each share of capital stock.

The board also voted to transfer $100,000 from undivided profits and unallocated reserve to surplus, making the bank's capital account $200,000, and the surplus $400,000.

In a letter to stockholders, J. Irvin Dayett, president of the bank, said that bank earnings for the present year made the extra dividend payment possible. He pointed out, however, that due to government regulations and increased taxes it is likely that net earnings will be lower in 1951.

Only 14 Arrest In December; 6 Drivers Fined For Speeding

Force Carries Out 16 In- vestigations, Including 12 Accidents

The Christmas spirit must have been at work even in Newark's underworld. Only 14 arrests were made here in December, a considerable drop from the monthly average. Police made 36 arrests in November and 56 the preceding month.

Majority of December's violations were for speeding, according to Chief William Cunningham's report. Six motorists were fined for exceeding the 25-mile limit in town.

The breakdown for the remaining arrests follows: drunkenness, 3; passing on right, 1; passing red light, 1; disorderly conduct, 1; failing to stop for a police whistle, 1; drunken driving, 1.

The force also carried out 16 investigations, including 12 accidents, three reports of larceny and one of malicious mischief.

Magistrate Clarence Forster reported the collection of $250 in fines.

The police department handled 318 phone calls during the 30-day period, investigated 36 reports of faulty street lights and provided overnight lodging for 2 transients. The police car traveled 3-228 miles.

315 Cases Handled By Visiting Nurse In 12-Month Period

Miss Alice Leak Reports Mak- ing 2,777 Individual Visits In 1950

Miss Alice Leak, Newark's visiting nurse, handled 315 cases during 1950, making 2,777 individual visits, according to her annual report. Of the total visits, 2-416 were nursing calls and 361 were instructive.

Sixteen chronic cases, carried throughout the year, required an average of three visits weekly. Mrs. Leak said, adding that one chronic case has been carried for 22 years, requiring three calls weekly.

Most of the nursing visits, Miss Leak explained, were made to chronic cases such as apoplexy, cancer, paralysis, arthritis, anemia, heart and kidney diseases. Maternity services decline since most patients are now delivered in hospitals. Only one home delivery was made by Miss Leak the past year.

The duration of acute cases, such as pneumonia, infections, etc., has been shortened considerably through the use of new medications.

Miss Leak's report for December lists 203 visits, including 180 nursing and 23 instructive calls.

The breakdown follows: apoplexy, 3; visits, 28; paralysis, 2; visits, 18; cancer, 3; visits, 28; pneumonia, 1; visits, 1; diabetes, 1; visits, 8; arthritis, 3; visits, 20; heart disease, 5; visits, 21; anemia, 3; visits, 9; kidney diseases, 2; visits, 21; accidents, 3; visits, 3; miscellaneous, 16; visits, 42.

Council Now Studying Number Of Revisions To Town Charter

Several proposed changes to the Town Charter are now being studied by the Town Council with a view toward submitting them to the next session of the General Assembly.

All revisions to the charter must be approved by the state legislature, and the local lawmakers are anxious to draft the necessary amendments before the deadline on entering legislative bills.

However, the Town Council's approval Tuesday night of a plan to revise the proposed new charter may make unnecessary any revisions to the present charter.

One of the proposed changes would permit Council's organizational meeting held just after the April election, to be secret. This has been a custom here for some time, although not formally permitted by the charter.

Another proposal would reduce from three to two the number of readings required for passage of an ordinance. The two readings would be spread over two Council meetings. Under the present set-up, the first two readings are usually carried out at a single meeting. The proposed revision, therefore, would work no substantial change in the present procedure.

Other proposed revisions would eliminate the mandatory requirement for annually fixing a road tax, give the assessor more time to make a real estate survey, and eliminate resident requirements for town officials.

The changes now under study have been proposed by Town Solicitor John P. Sinclair.

Mr. Sinclair's proposed changes follow:

Sections 3 and 4. Consider advisability of removing apparent residence requirement for town officials and other members of Council.

Section 10. Delete residence requirement for alderman.

Section 13, paragraph 2. Permit organizational meeting to be secret—Eliminate requirement of two readings at a previous stated meeting and provide in lieu thereof that one previous reading is required.

Proposed New Charter, Shelved Two Years Ago, May Be Revived

Proposal Approved To Dust Off Controversial Charter, Iron Out Its Disputed Points And Submit It To General Assembly; Public Hearing First

Newark's proposed new charter, shelved two years ago after it had caused a storm of controversy, may be revived, its disputed features ironed out, and a new draft submitted to the current session of the General Assembly.

A proposal to dust off the long tabled charter draft was approved at the January meeting of the Town Council on Tuesday night. The proposed new charter was submitted at the 1949 session of the General Assembly, where it died in committee. Since then the town has limped along under its present outmoded charter, which was adopted in 1887 and which severely hamstrings the operation of a modern community.

The plan to revive the proposed new charter was put forth at Tuesday's meeting by Mrs. R. O. Bausman, local civic leader. Her suggestion was immediately caught up by Mayor Wallace Johnson and Councilman Carl S. Rankin, both of whom said they felt the disputed draft could be made acceptable if a few controversial points could be ironed out.

This appears to be the beginning of a compromise movement among local factions whose dispute two years ago over the new charter was one of the chief reasons why it died in committee at Dover.

Council passed no formal resolution regarding the charter proposal, but Mayor Johnson agreed to call, if time permitted, a public hearing, possibly in the high school auditorium, to give every citizen an opportunity to air his views. The open meeting would be preceded by a special meeting of Council at which the proposed charter would be revised and solutions to controversial points worked out. The new draft would be presented for discussion at the public meeting.

Spectators and Councilmen agreed Tuesday night that if the local split over the charter could be healed, and the public lined up solidly behind a new version of the draft, it would stand an excellent chance of gaining approval at Dover.

It was pointed out, however, that the big question now is one of time. The deadline for submission of bills to the legislature, which will be set soon after the Assembly is organized, will not be far off. All groups will have to work quickly. It was stressed, if a satisfactory charter draft is to be prepared in time.

Further business Tuesday night, the Council voted for permanent installation of the Main Street parking meters, which were put in last July on a six-month trial basis. Councilman Samuel Diehl said the town's 50 percent share in the receipts to date totals nearly $5,000. The other half of the revenue goes to pay for the meters. Mr. Diehl also pointed out that police reports show a decided improvement in the Main Street parking situation.

Town Cash Reserves Now Stand At $21,385

Treasury Drops $4,307 In December

The town's cash reserves fell off by $4,307.02 in December with $21,385.23 remaining on hand at the end of the month's business, according to Treasurer Charles Long's report.

Income for December totaled $25,666.43 but expenses rose to $29,973.45, accounting for the decline in the reserves.

Major item of revenue was $14,135.60 in electric light receipts. Electric power returns accounted for another $8,681.43, and the third chief source of income was $1,772.36 in water rents.

Property tax receipts brought in $485 during the 30-day period, and parking fines added $180. Also on the credit side of the ledger was $336 in magistrate fines.

We regret deeply to report to you that Mr. Thomas Watson of Philadelphia, father of Mrs. Edwin Hixon, of our community, passed away Dec. 26, following a heart attack December 21.
The Vernon Schraders entertained a number of relatives for Christmas Day dinner.

The George Herbeners and Mrs.
Laura Morrison spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Herbeners.

Dr. Arthur Kelley was a New Year's Day guest at the LaRue VanSant's.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver entertained Mr. and Mrs. Chang Hum and Lynn, Susie and Sandra Hum Chew
New Year's Day.

Sorry to report that Shirley Hollett VanSant, who was allowed to come home the Monday before Christmas had to hit right back to the hospital on the Thursday before Christmas, and is still there. She is undergoing treatment and is doing very well.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hayden entertained Mr. and Mrs. James Hayden and son over New Year's weekend, and reports are that the reunion was greatly enjoyed.

Lt. Cliff Owen made it home to Sanford's by 3 p.m. Christmas Day, and had leave until the following Wednesday. He also made it back from Ft.
Meade for New Year's weekend.

The guest list for little Pamela Sanford's Christmas-birthday party on Dec. 26 included Caroline Abernathy,
Barbara George, Susie Hixon, Judy
Woodworth, Alice Mekallan, Ruth Ann
Akerman, Marie Ayers, Patty Owen, Timmie and Kenny Knauer, David
Ness, Bobbie Kraus, Tommie Filippi,
Billie Ayers, Jimmie and Bobbie Mc-
Vey and David Hayden.

The hit of the party was a special birthday-Christmas tree, decorated with popcorn balls done up in red, silver and blue tinfoil, covered with celophane, and the gilded "good-luck" walnuts which were suspended from the tree, and at the end of the party each little guest picked his popcorn ball and read his magic message from the inside of the gilded walnut.

Victor Richards returned home Sunday from the hospital in Westchester after having undergone surgery two weeks ago.

The LaRue VanSant family spent Christmas with the Owen VanSant family in West Chester.

Mrs. John Kalb has been confined to her home with a severe cold.

Mrs. Harry Blackburn is home from the hospital, but is very ill indeed.

Mrs. Bertha Plitt is definitely on the mend following her recent surgical adventure at the hospital in Wilmington.

One of the best Christmas stories we've heard is about a certain local character whose impersonation of Santa Claus ran into trouble when the boots he had borrowed in haste and jammed on just before a timely entrance suddenly felt as if they had a pin cushion in the toe. He had to take the boots off and investigate, audience or not. At this, a certain little girl among the waiting children called out,
"Oh, that's my daddy, I know his old blue socks!"

The Highway Zoo

Which Cage Is Yours?

Paul Jones, Director of Public Information for the National Safety Council, Chicago, Illinois, spoke before the 31st annual meeting of the Delaware Safety Council recently.

In his talk, Mr. Jones took his audience on what he described as a sight-seeing tour of a brand new kind of zoo, and the specimens he exhibited were not behind bars but behind the wheels of automobiles.

Mr. Jones called his automotive menagerie the Highway Zoo, and explained it this way:

"A lot of fuss has been made lately about an American horse and a German dog that have been taught to drive an automobile just like a human being.

"What's so amazing about this? It seems only fair. People have been driving like animals for years. You hadn't noticed it? Then come with me for a little tour of our modern Highway Zoo.

Mr. Jones then presented the following specimens of his unique menagerie:

The Chimpanzee: This is the character who hangs on to the roof of his car with his left hand while he drives with his right. This leads to all sorts of monkey business in traffic. Just what the big ape gains by this kind of gorilla tactics no one has ever been able to figure out.

The Roadhog: This animal has been around for a long time and is one of the most prevalent and unpopular in the Highway Zoo. He combines all the most distasteful characteristics of the barnyard without any of the useful attributes the real porker offers.

The Ostrich: This is the weird personality who believes that if he ducks his head behind the wheel and pays no attention to anything, nothing can harm him.

The Jackrabbit: This is the seatback type who zigs and zags through traffic like a frightened bunny. Too often he is a fat, puffy old geezer who couldn't waddle 100 yards in 10 minutes. But behind the wheel of his car he's the shiftest, most swivel-hipped jerk on the road—a real triple threat.

The Elephant: This is the big, stumpy, unpassable type who plants himself in the middle of the road and slowly plods along. He causes a lot of accidents by provoking eager beavers into zooming around him regardless of the risk. Accused of being a traffic hazard, he looks hurt and surprised and says, "Who me? I was only going 20!"

"There are other specimens in our Highway Zoo, of course," said Mr. Jones. "But the animal no person tries hard to emulate is the horse. This would require horse sense, and that is a very tough traffic achievement these days."

"The traffic accident problem will never be solved until we can contrive, by some magic formula we have not yet devised, to reach these characters and make each of them accept his part of the responsibility for preventing the accident he can prevent—the one he may cause," said Mr. Jones.

"Traffic enforcement is vital, and so is traffic engineering. But most important of all, it seems to me, is a better effort to reach drivers and pedestrians with an appeal for better traffic behavior that they will accept and obey."

Strata-Dome Sleeping Cars To Make Debut Soon

The first strata-dome sleeping cars to appear on any railroad in the east are now in service on two Baltimore and Ohio Railroad trains.

Of the three units, built by the Budd Company of Philadelphia, two will be placed in service on the B. & O.'s famous "Capital Limited," between Washington and Chicago. The third will operate on the B. & O.'s "Shenandoah," between Washington and Chicago, making the westbound trip one day, and the eastbound trip on the succeeding day.

Each of the three new cars has a glass-roofed dome with twenty-four seats on an upper level. On its lower level, each car has five roomettes, one single bedroom, and three large double drawing rooms. Each double drawing room is fitted with three arm chairs for daytime use and twin beds for sleeping.

The B. & O. also has strata-dome coaches on its "New Columbian" streamliner between Washington and Chicago.

Queries On Social Security Answered

Address all Queries to Social Security Administration, Customs House, 6th & King Sts., Wilmington, Delaware.

Q. I went to the Social Security Administration not long ago to get an account number card. In filling out the application, I had to give my date of birth. Can some inquisitive person get that information about me?

A. No indeed! All such information is held confidential and will be given to no one, not even representatives of other departments of the government, except as required for the proper administration of the insurance provisions of the Social Security Act.

Q. What is Old-Age and Survivors Insurance?

A. It is a Government insurance program to provide a monthly income for workers and their families. When the worker retires at 65 or later and for his family when he dies.

Q. I am fully insured under social security since I have worked in employment covered by the social security law for more than 10 years and have at least forty calendar quarters of coverage to my credit. I have quit my job since getting married last month. Upon reaching age 65, will I receive benefits from my own social security as well as benefits from my husband's?

A. No. You will receive the benefit which is larger of the two and not both. Normally a wife receives one-half of her husband's benefit. However, if she is entitled to more under her own work record, then she will receive that amount.

Q. I am receiving a pension as the widow of a veteran. If I go to work in a job covered by social security, can I get old-age insurance benefits when I reach 65? If I go to work will my widow's pension be stopped?

A. If you go to work in a job covered by social security and become "fully insured," you will receive old-age insurance benefits upon filing an application when you reach 65. The fact that you receive veterans' benefits will not affect your right to the old-age insurance benefits. You should inquire from the office where you filed your application for widow's pension as to what effect your employment will have on your widow's pension.

Q. If a wage earner dies and lacks a "quarter of coverage" to be "fully insured" for benefits, does the Social Security Administration refund the contributions paid into the Social Security Fund?

A. There is no provision in the social security law which permits a refund of contributions to the survivors of a wage earner who dies not "fully insured." If the wage earner was paid at least $50 in each of at least six calendar quarters during the last three years of his life, he may be what is called "currently insured" and certain benefits may be payable in that case. Get in touch with your social security office for more details.

Q. Will you please tell me if the social security law has been amended making it possible for wives to file at age of 60?

A. There has been no change in the old-age and survivors insurance provision which permits either a wife or an aged widow to become eligible for benefits before reaching the age of 65.

Q. I will be 65 in May 1950. I have no birth or baptismal certificate. I have other documents in my possession which show my age. Will these be acceptable?

A. Such documents as hospital records, naturalization records, passports, school records, insurance policies, etc., may be accepted by the Social Security Administration as proof of age depending upon when the document was first issued and if it clearly shows your age. At the time you file your application for benefits, bring these documents with you so that the social security office may have an opportunity to examine them.

Q. What jobs are covered by the Social Security Act?

A. Workers in commerce and industry generally—in factories, mills, stores, restaurants, etc.—are covered. Not covered by the law are, in general, jobs in agriculture, domestic service, Government service, and religious and charitable organizations.

Q. When did "Social Security" go into effect? Where can I file a claim for social security benefits?

A. The taxation of wages for social security benefit purposes went into

Q. If working at the age of 65 or over, do I still pay the old-age insurance tax? Also, is the employer notified when I reach age 65?

A. The tax is paid on wages for employment covered by the Social Security Act regardless of age. We do not notify your employer when you reach the age of 65. All information given by you to the Social Security Administration is held in the strictest confidence.

Q. I am over 65 years of age and operate my own small shop which brings me a small income. I worked as an employee from 1937 to 1939 in a job covered by Social Security Act. Taxes were deducted from my wages. Am I entitled to Old-Age Insurance benefits?

A. To be entitled to benefits, you must have been paid at least one-half the calendar quarters elapsing since January 1, 1937, and up to the quarter in which you reached the age 65. The income you receive from your shop is probably not covered by the Social Security Act and may not be counted. It appears therefore, that you have about eight of the required 30 quarters. We suggest that you get in touch with your social security office.

Q. Is my employer notified when I reach age 65?

A. We do not notify your employer when you reach the age of 65. All information given by you to the Social Security Administration is held in the strictest confidence. If you are 65 or over, to protect your interest you should file your application even though you continue to work.

Seeking To Maintain Beauties Of Campus

University of Delaware students have taken the initiative in recommending means of maintaining the campus beauty under the constant heavy use to which some parts of the buildings and grounds are subjected. The Student Government Association has appointed an all-student committee, charged with two responsibilities:

To develop in the students an appreciation of the beauty of the campus—long known as one of the best-planned and handsome colleges—and a desire to cooperate in taking care of it; and to give students an opportunity to suggest ways of making more efficient use of the campus and of protecting certain sections which are used a great deal.

"In no way will this committee act as a group of policemen," said SGA president Samuel T. Taluci in announcing the committee's appointment. "The members will represent the various groups which live in dormitories and fraternity houses on the campus. They will consider the proper use and care of the campus to keep it clean and beautiful. They will recommend additional use and possible improvements. We hope they will facilitate the work of the buildings and grounds department in keeping the campus in the condition which we all would like to see. The suggestions which the committee draws up will be forwarded to the proper university authorities."

The committee's chairman is Jack Christfield, a mechanical engineering student from Wilmington who is chairman of men's affairs for the Student Government. Other members are: Mary Lou Kocher, Jane Evans, Shirley Taylor, Lois Hirieman, Parke Perine, Richard Hughes, Patricia Leclone, Robert Baynard, Joseph Wallis, Brigitte Gregerson, Harry Mayhew, and Lois Deiss.

Former Resident Honored

Mrs. Hester Morris

Mrs. Hester Ann Morris, now of 45 Murray Avenue, Annapolis, and formerly of 372 South College Avenue, Newark, was the resident of Annapolis selected by the Evening Capital in its issue of December 8, for special recognition, having just observed her eighty-first birthday. This paper of Annapolis honors just such an interesting individual each week as that of Mrs. Morris.

Mrs. Morris, who now resides with her daughter, Miss Martha Morris, librarian at the Naval Engineering Experiment Station, Annapolis, was described as being a nimble home-maker who never tires of sewing, knitting, cooking and needlepoint. During the war Mrs. Morris received a citation for her knitting.

Mrs. Morris is a native of Eastern Shore of Virginia and grew up on a farm, learning there the many crafts of the earlier days, one of which she still practices, the art of making quilts on the old fashioned frames. After her marriage in Philadelphia to the late Hollie Morris the couple farmed in Delaware and later moved into Newark where their daughters, Miss Martha Morris and Mrs. Roy T. Walton (Miss Hester Morris) were graduated from the Newark High School and from the University of Delaware.

In addition to her household duties Mrs. Morris does not permit herself idle time as she is occupied in making needlepoint, knitting sweaters and mittens, multi-colored scatter rugs and the quilts. Her many items of handiwork made many lovely Christmas presents. Among her thriving house plants are thirty-five African violets, most of which she has raised from a single leaf.

Mrs. Morris has three grandchildren, Jane, Max and Peggy Walton who live near Milford Cross Roads. Jane and Max attend the Newark schools.

any department of the town government. Details were disclosed of the lease under which Council will take over a portion of the Academy building for use as a town hall. The lawmakers will set up their quarters in the first floor and basement.

Charter Changes

Section 14. Provide authorization for Council to institute a pension plan for town employees. Eliminate the words "appoint by ballot" and "elect by ballot" in the sections pertaining to alderman, secretary, treasurer, town constable and assessor and provide that these officials shall be appointed by Council.

Section 22. Delete this section in its entirety and provide power to appoint a town police force.

Section 23. Revise this section eliminating reference to constables and giving jurisdiction to alderman and any Justice of the peace having an office in Newark.

Section 24. Eliminate limitation on treasurer's salary.

Section 29. Provide that every resident over twenty-one who has paid a property or capitation tax for the current fiscal year and who has resided in town for three months immediately prior to election shall be entitled to vote. Note that this eliminates absentee freeholders. If it is desired that they shall continue to vote, then provide in addition to the above provision that any non-resident owning real estate within the town limits and having a property tax for the current fiscal year may cast a vote in the district where his property is located, but shall not vote in more than one district. Eliminate paragraph 2 of Section 29 and provide that elections shall be held under the supervision of Council which may appoint any number of election officials required. Revise prescribed method of tallying votes so that larger numbers of ballots can be counted officially. Delete most of the last paragraph of Section 29.

Sections 31 and 32. Revise these sections to give assessor more time. If it is believed desirable, I should like suggestions from the Council as to how it should be done.

Section 38. Eliminate mandatory requirement that Council meet in April for the purpose of laying a road tax.

1950 In Review

in the nation's emergency defense effort and promised to work a transformation in the life of this primarily residential community of 8700.

Despite the uncertainty of the times, Newark moved ahead along with the nation the past year, at least in a material sense.

The town made its greatest strides on the civic and political front. An important step was the launching of the long-heralded fluorine experiment. The action climaxed two years of study and debate here.

A minor revolution in the town's way of life came about last April when Sunday movies were approved in the referendum.

The town election, held at the same time, showed a continuing interest in local affairs. Nine candidates ran for three seats on Council, and the balloting was almost the heaviest in the history of the community.

Another local tempest was stirred up when the town fathers installed parking meters on a six month trial basis. The Chamber of Commerce, which protested the action, now agrees the meters have eased the parking congestion without curbing shopping, and it now appears the meters will become a permanent Main Street fixture.

Two major construction projects were completed here in 1950. The new elementary building, embodying the most modern features of school architecture, was opened in early April, and the same month saw the dedication of the new Masonic temple on Delaware Avenue.

Following is a week by week account of events here the past year as carried in the Post:

January

5-Town crews begin installation of fluorine equipment after year of debate and study. Dr. Wallace Johnson named to fill John S. Hopkins' place on Council.

dence, VFW proposes fund drive for iron lung for community use. 23-Seven year old Katherine Lore fatally hurt when hit by car on South College Avenue.

March 2-Mayor's post and three Town Council seats open in April election. Ernest L. Nachod, first candidate. C. E. Rittenhouse, Newark postmaster and businessman, dies suddenly. AAUW advocates referendum on year-round recreation program.

9-William Coverdale and Dr. Charles N. Lanier, Jr. file for Council. Referendum on Sunday movies to be held in conjunction with town election. Local chapter of NAACP to be formed. Four children of Mrs. Sarah Coursey burned to death in two-story house on New London Avenue.

16-No new candidates join race for Council seats. Gullege again hits town fluorine plan in Rotary Club talk. Dedication of new elementary building scheduled for April 1. Red Cross drive nets $5200.

28-Two contests develop in town election as Frank Durnall files for reelection against Lanier, and Daniel Harvey enters race against Coverdale. Musselman defends fluorine plan in Rotary talk.

30-Four more file for Council. Nine running for three seats. George Wilson, first Negro candidate in town's history, enters race. Dr. Wallace Johnson opposes Ford McBerry for mayor. Carl S. Rankin, Thomas Skripps and Harold Sheaffer make bids. Fluorine plan gets formal approval of state health board. Rev. George Walton elected president of Newark NAACP. Elementary school dedication Saturday.

April 6-Three way contest for Mayor develops when William B. Swan joins race. New elementary building still far short of needs, according to Supt. Wilmer E. Shue.

12-Dr. Wallace Johnson voter over Ford McBerry in Tuesday's vote. 20-Council considers installing parking meters on six month trial.

27-C. of C. may ask town-wide referendum on parking meters. Recreation drive lagging.

May 4-Parking meters authorized by Council. Open house at newly built Masonic temple.

11-Newark fluorine plan cited in American magazine. 150 Chrysler workers return to local plant after 100-day strike.

18-Sponsored to direct summer recreation program. 35 units to march in Memorial Day parade.

25-Dr. John J. Bunting, Jr., succeeds Dr. A. J. Jackson as pastor of Methodist Church. AAUW asks admission of Negroes to State Theatre.

June 1-Exam announced for Newark postmaster. Newark soldier has "bit" part in movie "The Big Lift". Seek to organize Moose lodge here.

8-Council passes parking meter ordinance. Largest high school class in history to graduate. Portable iron lung campaign hits goal.

15-PTA sponsors 2-week day camp. 22-Federal census lists Newark's population at 8,701, second largest city in state. Supt. Wilmer E. Shue says not possible to finance kindergarten program here next term.

July 6-Another new grade school seen necessary here by 1952. 13-Large scale school building program proposed for this district, funds to be sought at next session of legislature.

0-Mrs. Paul D. Lovett elected president of state legion auxiliary.

Delaware Battalion Gets Library From Delaware Citizens

Battery 'C' Shares In 1500 Books Donated By Delaware Citizens

A soldier may like to read Shakespeare or Superman, and if he's a member of the 736th Anti-Aircraft Gun Battalion he can take his choice.

It's all a matter of going to the new battalion library and taking a choice of more than 1,500 books and magazines sent by the citizens of Delaware for use by the activated Delaware National Guard unit now stationed at Camp Stewart, Ga.

In addition, there are stacks of recent and back issues of magazines of all types, and some 600 paper bound pocket-type books appealing to every interest of the enlisted men.

The cloth bound books have been catalogued by members of "B" Battery, one of the three batteries in the 736th from Wilmington, and go out on loan to other men in the battalion. The paper bound editions have been distributed to the day rooms of the other batteries—Headquarters and "A," both of Wilmington, and "C" from Newark, and "D" from New Castle—for use by the men of the individual batteries.

Pvt. Melton Fotta of Highland Park, Mich., and Pvt. Robert Hook of Syracuse, New York, draftees assigned to the 736th after its activation last August, have been put in charge of the battalion library.

The books, however, were not the only contribution of the people of the state of Delaware to their men in service and to the new draftees now assigned to the unit.

With the books, gathered in a drive to supply off-duty relaxation from the rigors of training for the 736th, also came dozens of jig-saw puzzles, half a dozen radios, a ping pong table and a pin ball machine.

The radios also have been distributed to the battery day rooms, which serve as gathering places, relaxation spots and writing rooms for the troops off-duty.

"D" Battery got the table tennis set, and "C" Battery was given the pin ball machine—won by drawing lots with the other batteries.

All the day rooms are equipped with soft drink machines and other conveniences to make them a club room for members of the individual groups. The rooms recently were completed with the addition of writing desks and chairs supplied by the post.

University Offers Four Scholarships

Available to Upper-Classmen In 1951-52

Four scholarships, three valued at $300 and one of $200, are available for University of Delaware upperclassmen, for use during the 1951-52 college year.

Offered by the Alumnae Association, the only restriction concerning the awards is that the applicant must have been a U. of D. student for one year previous to that in which she wishes to use the award. The scholarships are available to both commuting and resident students.

Application must be made by letter, stating need, scholastic rating, and participation in extra-curricular affairs. The application should go to Mina Brown, Alumnae Association executive secretary, in Purnell Hall. Applications should be in by April 1, a deadline which is strictly observed.

A committee will interview all applicants at Purnell Hall beginning at 1 p.m. on April 14. Members of the committee are: Dean Amy Rextrew, Mrs. T. Muncy Keith, Miss A. Elizabeth Edge, Miss Henriette Miller, Miss Dorothy Markert, Mrs. Richard G. Jackson, and Mina Brown.

Size, Location Low Fees Attract Youths To U. of D.

Size, proximity, and the relatively low fees at the University of Delaware are among the principal elements which attract students there, according to reports made by freshmen to President John A. Perkins.

But, once on the Newark campus, the freshmen are held by educational qualities, friendliness of students and faculty, active social life, and attractiveness of the campus.

These findings were gleaned from letters written by members of the class of '54 in response to a recent note from President Perkins in which he asked information as to why they came to Delaware, whether the university lives up to expectations, what features they find most agreeable, and those on which they think the university should work "to live up to its potential."

In a second letter this week to all freshmen, Dr. Perkins told them that "If I had needed selling, your instructive report would have sold me on our university. As it was, you helped to bolster my faith in what we're doing and my resolve to see that we always do at least as well, and whenever possible, better ourselves."

Winterize Your Milk Cooler For Good Work

It's just as essential to cool milk quickly in winter as it is in the summer, says Delmar J. Young, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware. "Air cooling will not cool milk quickly enough, even in cold weather, so it's best to keep your milk cooler in good condition and keep it going all winter," advises Young.

To winterize the cooler, check over the electrical system thoroughly to see if there are worn cords, or loose connections which might cause shorts and breakdowns. If the motor and compressor need oiling, use the proper oil in the right amounts. Do not over-oil. Check the compressor for defects.

Perhaps your tank is dirty, or has collected a layer of material on its sides. It will work better, and be more sanitary if you drain it, scrub and clean it, and then fill with fresh water.

'51 University Fund Drive Opens Jan. 1

Development Fund Seeks Stadium Donations

The 1951 Development Fund campaign at the University of Delaware is again dedicated to the proposed athletic stadium, for which some $200,000 already has been procured.

The appeal, which will be the sixth in the "annual giving" campaigns among Delaware alumni and alumnae, opened recently, when all the former students received announcements of the renewed goal. It is estimated that more than $100,000 will be needed to insure completion of the stadium.

The campaign announcement states that "The new stadium is fast becoming a reality. The contract for steel has been let and the university stands ready to start building as soon as the present National Production Authority ban is lifted. The alumni and alumnae associations are spearheading the drive for funds into the second year of the campaign. Current on-hand funds will make possible the erection of stands.

In a joint statement, Phillip H. Marvel, alumni president, and Mrs. T. Muncy Smith, alumna president, declare that "We are now moving ahead to gather the necessary additional funds to make the stadium complete in every respect. As soon as the ban on construction of places of this type is lifted by the NPA, the stadium will be erected. This is a real opportunity, granted us during the waiting period, to add to the funds and be ready to move ahead quickly with construction as soon as the federal government gives us the green light."
