Miss Edith Spencer has been appointed Registrar.

NEW LIGHTING FIXTURES

Workmen are commencing preliminary work this week on the installation of new lighting fixtures for the commons, or dining hall in Old College at the University.

The lights, in the form of six clusters, hung from the ceiling of the beautiful room, are the gift of H. H. Sharp, an alumnus of the institution and chairman of the Commons and Buildings Committee of the Board of Trustees.

Mr. Sharp previously aided his Alma Mater in many matters of real importance to its growth and prosperity.

The chandeliers have been especially designed to conform with the architecture of the interior of the building, and will hold a total of 50 light 50 watt lamps. Drawings of the lighting fixtures reveal them to be handsome in every respect.

Dailey Pendleton Says He Was Too Ill to Appear

Postponement of the trial of Dailey Pendleton, the 19-year-old boy who is alleged to have stolen from the home of Frank Jamison McClellandville, on January 25th last, occurred in General Court on Monday.

Dailey came up with the defendant last week, when the trial was called, prompted the audience and many Newark residents believe that Pendleton was a fugitive from justice.

Paul Green, attorney for the defendant, stated to the Court on Monday that Pendleton was ill with tuberculosis and is being cared for by relatives. His motion for the postponement of the trial until the next term was granted by Judge Rich-

TEA ROOM HERE TO CHANGE HANDS

Announcement was made this morning that the Blue Hen Tea and Gift Shop, at the corner of Main Street and North College Avenue, will change hands on April 1st.

Mrs. Ida Battles and Miss Anne Ritz, both of Newark, will take over the business at that date. Complete details as to their plans for the future are lacking as yet. It is, however, understood that the new owners will redecorate and slightly alter the interior of the quaint building and that both the tea room and the gift shop will be continued.

ATHLETIC SOLONS HOLD ANNUAL DINNER HERE

"Billy" Rocap, Noted Sportsman, Addresses Delaware Letter Men and Guests

William H. Rocap, former amateur lightweight champion of the United States, sporting editor of the Public Ledger for many years, and at present Chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, was the principal guest at the second annual dinner of the University Athletic Council, held in Old College last evening.

Mr. Rocap, nationally known as an ardent advocate for clean sports, made one of his characteristic talks to the assemblage, pointing out in particular how Delaware may be again a pioneer—this time in the matter of "athletics for all," or the mass idea of physical education. The possibility of instituting such a plan at Delaware is now the subject of a special faculty committee recently appointed to investigate the situation.

William W. Roper, Princeton football coach, was also scheduled to attend, but sent his regrets.

Dr. W. Owen Sypherd, president of the Athletic Council, presided and acted as toastmaster. Seated at the speakers table with him were Victor Jones, of Philadelphia, Coach McAvoy, Mr. Rocap, Dr. Walter Hullen, Dean George E. Dutton, John Shilling, assistant superintendent of Public Instruction of the State, and Dean C. A. McCue.

About seventy-five undergraduates, alumni, faculty members, and guests were present at the dinner.

The Spring sport program came under discussion, and enthusiastic support of the Middle Atlantic States Meet to be held here on May 23-24 was urged by the speakers. This will be the most pretentious meet ever held in Newark.

Dr. Hullen responding to a call for remarks, forcefully urged the adoption of mass athletics for the University. He was followed by John S. Schaeffer, a Senior, who gave an example of the advantages of helping out the "scrub."

Following Mr. Rocap's address, in which he gave some very interesting glimpses of the State control of athletics in Pennsylvania, short talks were made by Coach McAvoy, Victor Jones, George Stewart, Manager Shockley of the track team, Alec Crothers, Everett C. Johnson, and by John Shilling.

The latter outlined the growth of athletics in the country schools, and laid particular emphasis upon one of the "Golden Texts" of Delaware education—Good Health. He said that the school authorities, by means of county track meets, High School associations and other means, are developing better school boys and girls in Delaware than ever before. His talk was very much appreciated by the diners.

Part of the college orchestra furnished music for the occasion and several college songs were sung during the dinner.

Newark Red Men Hosts At Union Meeting Soon

Big Doings in The Armory Scheduled for Next Wednesday Evening—Crack Degree Teams Here VISITORS FROM MANY TOWNS

One of the most important fraternal happenings of the year will be the union meeting of Red Men of the county, to be held in the Armory here on next Wednesday evening.

Minnehaha Tribe, No. 23, of Newark, has been designated as hosts for the occasion and every preparation for the influx of brother warriors and chiefs is being made. It will be one of the biggest Red Men's gatherings in recent years.

At the opening meeting, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, the lodgemen, their guests and friends, will hear an address by Charles E. Pass, Great Senior Sagamore of the Great Council of the United States. Mr. Pass is one of the leaders in the national lodge and his talk is expected to be very significant. All are cordially invited to attend the open meeting.

Later in the evening, three degrees will be conferred on eligible Red Men. The first, the Adoption Degree, will be given by the Massasoit Tribe, No. 56, of Clayton, and the second, Warriors and Chiefs Degrees, by the Manitow Tribe, No. 18, of Wilmington.

Music will be furnished throughout the evening by the crack Red Men's Band of Newark. A big crowd is expected to attend this unusual rally.

Minnehaha Tribe Elects

The members of the local Tribe are urgently requested to be present next Tuesday evening in the lodge rooms, when the annual election of officers will take place. There will also be the explanation of final plans for the entertainment of the guests on the following night.

Frank H. Balling has announced himself a candidate for Junior Sagamore of the local lodge.

FORMER NEWARKER HURT

Henry Null Reported Injured in Akron, O., Factory

Word has been received in Newark indicating that Henry Null, formerly a driver for the Stiltz Bus Line and well known throughout Newark, had been injured recently in Akron, Ohio, where he is employed in a rubber factory.

Nothing in the way of confirmation has been received. The message stated that he was injured in the back.

JUST LIKE BUTLER

With a string of over a dozen motorists waiting in line and fumbling for their license cards, two Delaware College "cops," gorgeously enough arrayed to cause General Butler to blush with envy, proclaimed a self-conducted "investigation" of all cars passing on through town yesterday at noon.

The burlesque carried on for several minutes, much to the delight of the college students and townspeople. Finally some one saw through the joke, and the party stopped abruptly.

One of the "cops" exhibited later an expensive cigar with which he was bribed by the driver of a big car, "to keep his name out of the paper."

FIREMEN CALLED TO TWO BLAZES LAST NIGHT; GLASGOW FARM HOUSE DESTROYED

Two alarms kept the Aetna fire-laddies on the jump last evening. Save for the Stanton blaze on Sunday, there have been few calls during the past two weeks, despite the storms and high winds.

The first call came shortly after 10 o'clock from the farm of W. C. Brown, on the Elkton-Glasgow road, about a mile from the former village.

By the time the firemen arrived on the scene, the house was beyond saving, but quick work kept the flames from the other farm buildings. Much of the furniture and belongings of Mr. Brown and his family were destroyed by the fire. The owner would

Stanton Scene Of Wild Excitement During Fire

Flames Seriously Threatened Entire Village Sunday Afternoon—Christiana and Newark Firemen There

LOSSES PLACED AT $12,000

Swept on by a 50-mile gale, flames threatened to destroy the major part of Stanton last Sunday afternoon, and only through the valiant efforts of nearby fire companies and the townspeople themselves was the catastrophe averted.

Three houses were completely destroyed, several more were aflame under the eaves and the frame addition to the Stanton Hotel was consumed. The total losses are estimated at about $12,000, partially covered by insurance.

The three houses were occupied by James Lombardi and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Norris, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Knotts and two small children. The blaze had its beginning in the Norris home, when a kindling fire in the kitchen range got beyond control of Mrs. Norris.

Wind Fans the Flames

A state of feverish excitement, not equalled in many years, gripped the people of the village during the blaze.

Most of the houses in the vicinity were of wood construction and the flames, after partially consuming the "row" near the hotel, appeared to be gaining headway over the frantic efforts of the volunteer firemen to check them.

Within fifteen minutes after the first alarm was given, the Norris and Knotts homes were doomed, and the hotel was ablaze in several places. The Stanton Garage, Boulden's garage and several houses east of the hotel were also ablaze at the roofs, caused by flying sparks.

Residents gathered up their most cherished belongings and stood on porches watching the fight, fearful lest their homes would be next to feed the fire.

For some time, cooler heads in the shouting, weeping crowd, believed that nothing could save the village, and careful preparations were made to move on a minute's notice.

BASEBALL BECOMES LIVE ISSUE HERE AS RESULT OF MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT

Nominations Made for Officers to Carry Team Through Coming Season—Minstrel Benefit Calculated to be Great Show

Baseball again came into the limelight in local circles at the meeting of fans in the Armory last Friday evening. The attendance was very gratifying to those in charge of the meeting and real headway was made in the preliminary work.

"It was definitely decided at the meeting to have a team and the prospects look unusually bright," said Frank E. Mote early this week. "The fact that a recent ruling has prohibited any Susquehanna League team from coming to Newark for players has given us the services of two or three good men. We expect to place a mighty good nine on the field this summer."

Another meeting will be held Friday evening in the Armory and each successive Friday for the next month, so that everything possible may be accomplished before the opening of the season.

At the meeting Friday evening J. L. Hafer was unanimously elected

NOONDAY ROBBER LOOTS SAFE HERE

While R. G. Buckingham, owner of the general merchandise store bearing his name, was eating lunch shortly after one o'clock yesterday afternoon, a wallet, containing over $230.00 in cash and checks, in addition to valuable papers, was stolen from his safe. The robbery was not discovered until about three o'clock, when Mr. Buckingham went to the safe to cash a check.

George Porter, clerk in the store, was at a gasoline pump for a few minutes between one and one-thirty, and it is believed that the money was stolen at that time.

A State detective arrived in Newark this afternoon and with Mr. Buckingham made a thorough investigation of several clues to the robbery.

Suspicion points to a Newark man, and it is believed that an arrest will be quickly made.

BOWLING RECORD BROKEN ON NEW AETNA ALLEYS

That the new bowling alleys in the basement of the Aetna Fire Co. building are proving popular with the members can be easily ascertained by a visit to the scene of action.

Every evening there are plenty of enthusiasts on hand ready to give the wooden pins all kinds of hard knocks.

A good natured rivalry has sprung up among the members and already a standing record has been broken.

Morris Ewing on Monday night rolled 181 for a new mark. The former high score, 151, was made by James McKelvey a few days ago. It is believed that as the game becomes more familiar to the members, the present mark will hardly stand.

Talk of forming a bowling team to compete with several teams in Wilmington is being indulged in by the firemen. Whether such action will be taken has not been decided. Meanwhile, the boys are busy each evening polishing up their games, or learning from the beginning.

BAND TO HELP

The Continental Band of Newark has offered its services for the coming Minstrel Show in the Opera House for the benefit of the Newark Baseball Team. Manager Bayard Perry is making arrangements for the band's appearance to enliven the occasion.

The show promises to be very entertaining and several new features will be ready.

chairman and H. F. Mote was elected secretary pro tem.

The chairman declared the nominations open for officers for the coming year, and the following were nominated:

For President—F. E. Mote, Hugh Morris.
For Vice-President—Ralph Edman-son, Harry Hill.
For Treasurer—J. L. Hafer, H. F. Mote.

TO SETTLE DISPUTE

Dover High and Newark to Play Off in Wilmington Monday Night

It was announced this morning that consent of authorities from both schools have been received for the game between Newark High and Dover High, to be played in Wilmington on Monday night next.

While the game will have no bearing on the State championship, it will settle once and for all which of the two great rivals is the better team. A large Newark delegation is expected to be present.

640 COLLEGE PEOPLE IN BIG THEATRE PARTY

JANE COWL PRESENTED WITH FLOWERS BY STUDENT BODY

A mammoth theatre party, given by Pierre E. du Pont, of Wilmington, the members of which included the entire Student Body of the University, the Faculty and their wives, was held on Monday evening at the Playhouse, in Wilmington.

Exactly 640 college people attended the performance of Shakespear's "Romeo and Juliet," by Miss Jane Cowl and her own company of artists. The company was brought from their New York engagement especially for the occasion by Mr. du Pont. The "Juliet" of Miss Cowl has been accorded universal favor by Shakespear critics, and her advent to Wilmington in the important role was a rare dramatic treat. Due to the huge block of seats reserved for the Delaware contingent in the evening, a special matinee was arranged to give more Wilmington people the opportunity to see the performance.

Special Train Carries Guests

The students of both the Men's and Women's Colleges together with the Faculty members and their wives assembled at the Baltimore and Ohio station here shortly after seven o'clock, Monday evening, and were transported to Wilmington in a special train, also arranged for by Mr. du Pont. The five cars were filled comfortably. Dean George E. Dutton and Dean Winifred J. Robinson were in charge of the party leaving Newark. Several more Wilmington students joined their companions when the train reached the city, and were then transported to the Playhouse in special trolleys.

The sight of the entire enrollment of the University leaving for a social affair in a body was without parallel in the recent annals of the institution. That the guests enjoyed the entertainment was emphasized upon several inquiries Tuesday morning.

Flowers for Miss Cowl

Between the acts of the performance, Miss Cowl was called to the curtain, and presented with two beautiful floral offerings from the men and women students of the University.

Miss Louise Jackson acted in behalf of the Women's College in the presentation and John H. Schaeffer for the Men's College. Following the gift, Miss Cowl made a short curtain talk in which she thanked the Delaware people for their appreciation of her efforts. The entire company seemed to be in splendid form, despite the strain of a long performance that afternoon. Miss Cowl, however, was suffering from a severe cold, and at one or two points was forced to break in her lines.

The students and faculty returned to Newark on the "special" arriving here shortly after midnight.

DECISION OF LOWER COURT IN ELKTON SUIT REVERSED BY COURT OF APPEALS

Huber Baking Company Wins Retrial in Damage Proceedings Growing Out of Collision on Newark Road

The Maryland Court of Appeals this week reversed the decision rendered in the Caroline County, Md., courts in the $25,000 damage suit of Mrs. Evelyn S. Kelly, of New York, against the Huber Baking Company, of Wilmington, growing out of an accident on the Elkton-Newark Road several months ago, when the Kelly car and a bread truck collided.

The suit was transferred to Caroline County from Cecil County at the request of the defendant, and tried there recently. The decision of the jury was appealed by the Huber Co., and the appeal was upheld, the Appellate Court holding that the jury in the case was erroneously instructed. The case will be re-tried at the Circuit Court for Cecil County in Elkton.

The accident occurred along the Elkton-Wilmington road, near West Amwell school house. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly were returning home from a trip to Washington, D. C., and one of Huber's trucks was enroute to Elkton. The touring car in which Mr. and Mrs. Kelly were riding, was overturned and badly demolished. Mrs. Kelly sustained a fractured skull and was a patient in Elkton hospital for several weeks. Two suits were instituted in the Circuit Court—one by Mr. Kelly for damages to his car, and the other by Mrs. Kelly for personal injuries.

The suit by Mr. Kelly was tried, and a verdict rendered for about $1800 in favor of the plaintiff.

$100,000 Damage Suit
To Be Tried At Denton*Victory Sparkler Co. Defendants in Action Taken by Former Employee

The suit of Miss Catherine Franck of Elkton, against the Victory Sparkler and Specialty Company, of Elkton, for $100,000 damages for alleged personal injuries, has been removed from the Cecil County Court to the Caroline County Circuit Court, Denton, for trial. The plaintiff was an employee of the Sparkler Company last year, working in the department where "spit devils" are manufactured. It is alleged that the fumes from the ingredients used poisoned the young woman's face.

The prospect of the suit coming up in Elkton during the present term of court interested many in the town, and since practically all of the principals in the case are well known Elktonians, the court room would have been crowded during every session.

This makes the second time within a few months that a trial has been ordered removed from the Cecil County Courts, the other being the Kassel-Webb-Vaughn murder case, sent out of the county at the last term of court.

The following article sheds some light upon the present status of the new racing plant of the Cecil County Fair Association, under course of construction between Glasgow and Elkton. Follows Timonium Meet

After the ponies entertain the fans at the Timonium Fair during the first week in September, the majority, it is believed, will be taken to Elkton to show what they can do on the new course.

Whether Elkton will use the pari-mutuels has not been officially announced, but if regular running races are held it is believed they will be because of the handsome revenue derived therefrom.

Elkton Doctor VictimOf Alleged Banditry*C. P. Carrico's Car Damaged by Shot but Driver Uninjured Monday

While hurrying out the Singlerly Road to visit a patient near Leeds, Md., Monday of this week, Dr. C. P. Carrico, of Elkton, narrowly escaped being struck by a bullet, fired by an alleged bandit along the roadside.

According to reports of the affair, Dr. Carrico was driving along near Childs when he noticed two or three men standing along the road, evidently firing at the glass insulators on the telephone poles with revolvers held in their hands.

He kept his eye on them, and after he passed, noticed that one of the men raised the gun in the direction of the car. Dr. Carrico dodged just in time, for the bullet crashed through the back curtain of the car and passed through the windshield, shattering the glass. The doctor immediately "stepped on the gas" and left the vicinity without parley.

Arriving at his destination, he sent a call to Elkton police, but no trace of the supposed bandits has been found.

It is said a car was parked near the spot where the men were standing, but the license number was not procured by the doctor.

Unless Marlboro uses the third week in September or there is a compromise between the major tracks in the fall it is pointed out that Marlboro would conflict with Laurel or Pimlico. It is not believed that would be advisable, according to gossip in turf circles, because the big tracks would attract the crowds.

It is declared that if Timonium, Elkton and Marlboro race in the order named, plenty of horses, and good ones at that, could be obtained. Several stables which ship to Havre de Grace late in the summer could be drawn from for material.

STATE BAR ASSOCIATION OFFERS PRIZES FOR BEST STUDENT ESSAY ON CONSTITUTION

Chair of History at University to Handle Details of Contest; Any Public or Private High School Student May Enter

SUPREME COURT JUDGES TO DECIDE WINNER

A report submitted to the regular meeting of the Delaware State Bar Association held in Wilmington, Saturday last, has provided for the establishment of prizes to the amount of several hundred dollars to be distributed among leading essayists of Wilmington and rural Delaware High Schools during the year.

The subject of each essay must be in line with some phase of the Constitution of the United States. Details of the contest will be arranged, it is understood, by Prof. George H. Ryden, of the History and Political Science Department of the University. It is required by State law that the Constitution be the basis for a course of instruction in every High School and the State University. The offer by the State Bar Association has awakened new interest among educators and it is likely that a more thorough course of study of the Constitution will be arranged for State students.

The report announcing the prize follows:

By Chapter 183, Vol. 33, Laws of Delaware, the General Assembly made it mandatory to teach the Constitution of the United States in all public and private schools within the State of Delaware, and provided that instructions therein should be given to all students beyond and including the eight-grade. This act was passed by the unanimous vote of the General Assembly by reason of the fact that the members thereof were fully aware that a knowledge and understanding of the principles of the fundamental law of our government were essential to good citizenship and the preservation of that government.

For the purpose of encouraging an immediate and widespread interest in accomplishing the object of the General Assembly, your committee recommends that the following prizes be provided and offered to students of public and private high schools of the State of Delaware, covering a period of five years, for essays on some phase of the Constitution of the United States, the specific topic and other conditions governing these essays to be chosen and governed each year by the Professor of History and Political Science at the University of Delaware. The amount of the prizes and the general conditions governing the same shall be as follows:

1. That a first prize of fifty dollars, and a second of twenty-five dollars, and a third of fifteen dollars be offered by some individual, preferably by a member of the bar, to the students of each high school, public or private, in the city of Wilmington.

2. That a first prize of twenty-five dollars, a second of fifteen dollars, and a third of ten dollars be offered in like manner to the students of each high school of the State outside of the city of Wilmington. A list of said high schools is designated by the State Superintendent of Schools is appended hereto.

The judging of the essays, and the awarding of the prizes in the respective high schools shall be passed upon by the several principals thereof, or by a person or persons to be designated by said principal.

3. That a prize of fifty dollars be offered by the respective Bar associations of Kent and Sussex Counties, and two prizes of fifty dollars each be offered by the Bar association of New Castle County (one for the city of Wilmington and one for the rural county) for the best first prize essay of the high schools in the respective counties (Wilmington being considered as a county).

For the purpose of determining the winners under this paragraph, the principals of the several high schools shall forward its winning prize essay to the secretary of the Bar Association of the county where said high school may be located. The said secretary shall remove all identification marks from said essays, substitute a number therefor, and forward the same to the Professor of History and Political Science of the University of Delaware, who shall judge the same and advise the secretaries of the respective county associations of the winning numbers.

4. That a prize of one hundred dollars be offered by the State Bar Association for the best essay among the winners of the four county prizes. The four winning essays of the county prizes shall be turned over by the Professor of History and Political Science of the University of Delaware to the secretary of the State Bar Association, who, after removing the identification marks and substituting numbers therefor, will forward same to the judges of the Supreme Court of the State of Delaware, who will adjudge the winner of these four prizes, and advise the secretary of the State Bar Association of the winning number. The award of the winners of the County and State Bar Association prizes shall be made at the same time.

AND IT HAPPENED ON PARK PLACE!

Park Place is again in the limelight!

That neighborly suburb of Newark, brought in the public eye upon several occasions in the past, especially by the expert gunnery of Walter Ritz in killing one of M. O. Pence's domesticated wild ducks he was fattening for dinner, is very much "in" again. Yes, indeed! This time Elroy "Skeet" Steedle, in attempting to house J. E. Dougherty's snorting Dodge last Sunday, got the wrong "jigger" in the right place, or something like that, and when Elroy collected his senses he and the car were about half way through the Dougherty garage and rearin' to get at the other wall.

It all came about through Mr. Steedle graciously trying to do Mr. Dougherty a favor, and such good intentions caused the matter to end with nary a hard look over the hedge. The garage door was torn from its moorings in the battle, as was the radiator cap on the Dodge.

"MUD-GUNNERS OF THE SENATE"

(As a Contemporary Sees Them)

There will come a day when Washington will recover its now lost sanity. When that day comes, the Senate of the United States will wish it might blot from its records all traces of Thursday, March 6, 1924. On that day it sank to a new low level in its history.

For weeks its mud guns have belched and splashed. What once was a great deliberative body has been resounding to the partisan yelpings of little men and the snaps and snarls of character assassins. They have made charges under the protection of the Senate they would not dare utter as man to man. They have made the oil investigation the excuse for an orgy of partisan denunciation the like of which had never been in the Senate and hardly anywhere else in America.

The country has looked on in a growing amazement. The public has been shocked and finally disgusted by this brazen exhibition of poison-tongued partisanship, pure malice and twitting hysteria.

Thursday capped the climax. That day two private telegrams from the President of the United States were read into the record of one of many senatorial inquiries. This was done in the hearing of the same Senator Walsh, chief inquisitor of that committee, who had taken exceeding great pains to see that certain telegrams and letters exchanged between himself and E. L. Doheny were "explained" before they were spread upon the records. Walsh and his committee took no such pains with the White House messages. It would have been easy for the investigators to establish the irrelevancy of these messages before they were made public with a round flourish. They chose to do nothing of the kind.

Did these White House messages relate in any way to the oil scandal? They did not. Was there anything overt in them? If so, it does not appear. They were, in fact, such messages as are sent as a matter of official routine and ordinary courtesy by any man in public life. The White House explanations of both were adequate and clear.

But they did not convince the narrow and hate-filled minds of some Senators. Hardly were they in the records before the filth-batteries of the Senate, manned by the Three Mad Gunners—Harrison, of Mississippi; Caraway, of Arkansas, and Heflin, of Alabama—went into action. Senate rifle pits spat venom. The drum-fire of Senate innuendo was laid down upon the White House.

Not a man of them all had a scrap of evidence. No matter, they made hearsay, rumor and suspicion serve, and for hours they mouthed venomous insinuations and bespattered the name of the President of the United States with sinister implications.

In all the Senate only one man had the courage to stand against them. Senator Lodge has known the Senate in its greater days. When he rose and made dignified protest against these savage innuendoes and fleeing vilification, the rabid pack turned on him as wolves wheel and snap. They would not be cheated of their daily hour of hate. As they turned to a new victim, political fairness and honor of the Senate sat mute as so many dumb, cowed and driven cattle.

When the Senate was the Senate, there were men who would have risen and read these whirling dervishes from Dixie a lesson in elementary decency. Where are they now, these older Democrats and Republicans? Where were the saner, fairer Democrats of today—Underwood, Glass, Bruce, Simmons and Ralston? Do they condone such exhibitions? Where was the courage of those Republicans who sat silent and shivering, leaving the white-haired Lodge to stand alone and fight alone? Where, for instance, were Curtis, Watson, David Reed, Moses, Pepper and Willis? Where was Pepper, paladin of fair play, and Borah, the pure of heart?

The situation in the Senate has come to be impossible. The upper house has worked itself into a frenzy. It has made itself the home of arsenic squads who poison reputations and of well-poisoners who destroy character. Weeks ago it wandered afar from the main and principal aims of its investigations. It is now the haunt of political gunmen. If these are the breed of Senators that popular vote sends to Washington, then it was an evil day for the Nation when it approved the Seventeenth Amendment.

Disgust with Senate tactics is rising to a danger mark. The people of this country are fair-minded and believe in fair play. They are now realizing that the Senate's actions are the very pith and essence of pettiness. There is actual danger of a backfire of national disgust that will discredit all investigations and all investigators. A wearied and resentful people is about ready to cry out to both parties, "A plague on both your houses!"

Gentlemen of the Senate, you will do well to get back to your work! Let there be an end to the savage, unfair and partisan tactics that are disgracing a once great body. The country is weary of it. It is beginning to be weary of you. You rant and pose and talk too much. Get back to your original investigations and hold to them. Quit trying to make political capital of everything you touch.

Your attempts to smear the White House with oil will react upon you. Nobody is going to believe on the word of a cross-road politician that President Coolidge got any oil money, is protecting anybody who did or that he is tainted by this black thing that stalks in Washington. Gentlemen of the Senate, be good enough, for your own sake, to put your political mountebanks, your partisan clowns and your God-sakers back in their places! You are gambling with your own reputations and dicing with the good repute of the Senate.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

TO VACCINATE MANY CATTLE DURING YEAR

Prevention of Anthrax in State To Be Carried On Forcefully

In order to properly protect cattle from the inroads of anthrax, veterinarians in New Castle and Kent counties and upper Sussex county began last week the spring inoculation of cattle with anthrax vaccine. Few people of this generation realize that each year cattle on farms bordering on the marshland of the state, undergo this preventive measure, but it is only through such protection that anthrax is kept down in Delaware.

Hides brought to this country for tanning and manufactured in Camden, N. J., and Wilmington, into leather, were blamed for the spread of anthrax through germs being carried by the refuse waters from the two cities both of which flow into the Delaware river. As a consequence farmers whose lands lie bordering on the Delaware river or its tributaries were considered a splendid field for the development of the disease. Later, it is asserted that danger from anthrax germs being carried in the river waters has been eliminated by a process at the tanneries which destroys the germs.

While this may be true, yet it is also true that any abatement in the vaccination process usually results in anthrax developing. In one section of New Castle county, where the cattle on marshlands had been inoculated continually for several years, it was decided last spring not to bother to vaccinate. It was thought that the herds had been thoroughly cleared of any anthrax germs. This, however, proved unwise, because before the summer was very far advanced, anthrax appeared in that section. As a result, the Board of Agriculture through the veterinarians are this spring proceeding as they have in other years and are vaccinating the cattle on marshland farms.

The farms in the interior, not being within the prescribed danger zone, are seldom known to develop anthrax among the cattle. Because human beings can catch anthrax from the hides or cattle, makes the precautions of the state board doubly important. Vaccine for the vaccination is furnished by the Board of Agriculture and the veterinarians are recompensed for their services.

Those who are engaged in this systematic crusade are Dr. H. P. Eves, Wilmington, Dr. H. B. McDowell, Middletown, Dr. H. McDaniel, Dover, Dr. Evan Roberts, Milford. It is estimated that about between four and five thousand cattle will be vaccinated this year.—Sunday Star.

PARENT-TEACHER NEWS OF THE WEEK

A supper and bazaar was held recently by the Oak Hill Home and School League, and the proceeds from this have been used to buy forty good books for the school library. Ten of these are being given by the Wanamaker Store, of Philadelphia. At the last regular meeting of the association two delegates were elected to attend the annual P-T. A. Convention in Dover, on April 12th: Mrs. G. Zipse and Mrs. J. K. Pryor.

A fine musical program was enjoyed by all who attended the March meeting of Odessa Home and School Association on Thursday afternoon, March 13th. Kites of paper, with strings sailing from them, had been made and sent out to announce the date, and to invite the parents and friends of the school children to come to the school. Recitations were all appropriately spring-like. The topic for the month was "Music" and this was well discussed by the teacher, Mrs. Ada Scott Jolls, of Middletown. There were songs and folk dances by the Grammar Grades, as well as a demonstration of Health exercises, done to Victrola records. The new piano was much appreciated in the Assembly Room. The members of the Association will hold a bake on March 28th, and the money raised from this will be used to pay the balance for the piano, and to provide some furniture for the Assembly Room.

Iron Hill Colored P-T. A. met on March 13th and had a very interesting meeting. The school children provided parts of the program, including a dramatization of geography lesson and geographical drill by ten of the pupils. "Music in the School" was the subject to be discussed and this was given by the president of the Association, Mr. William Holmes. The meeting adjourned after the serving of refreshments.

AUTO ACCIDENTS TAKE A TOLL OF 21 LIVES

1923 Records Compiled by Highway Engineer Are Announced

A report issued by the State Highway Department on Saturday shows that 21 persons were killed and 80 injured in motor accidents occurring on Delaware highways in the year ending March 1. The figures show that of this number 16 of the persons who were fatally injured were riding in Delaware cars and three in cars with another State license.

Of the injured 42 were passengers in Delaware cars and 18 in outside cars. In addition to this, there were 64 cars damaged to the extent of $300 or more. These were equally divided between Delaware owned motors and cars owned outside the State. There were 135 cars in mishaps, 92 of them being Delaware owned cars.

The plan to keep a record of the motor accidents happening on Delaware highways was inaugurated by C. Douglas Buck, chief engineer of the State highway system, in the hope that through such a record other accidents in the future might be averted. Outside the office of Mr. Buck, at Dover, is a large map of the State, probably eight feet long. Whenever an accident happens a pin is inserted at the place where the mishap took place. If it's a fatal accident, there is a red-colored pin. If it's a case of a collision, where the persons are only injured and not seriously, another colored pin is inserted and if it's purely one of damage to cars, another pin of still a different color is inserted. In this way a person and State highway officials or attaches desiring to learn about the accidents within the 12 months can quickly ascertain the facts by glancing at the map.

Bicycle Power Plant

An old bicycle makes an excellent power plant for driving an ice cream freezer, or some other piece of household machinery which is usually operated by time-consuming and laborious hand cranking. The cycle frame is blocked up and bolted rigidly so that a person may straddle the seat and pedal. The crank is removed from the ice-cream freezer and replaced with a cog-wheel. A chain transmits the power from the bicycle sprocket to the freezer.

Our French Friends

Being a Series of Articles on the true every-day French Life—of which we have heard so much, and know so little.

(Written especially for "The Post")

III NEWSPAPERS

The editor of a French newspaper takes himself very seriously; he even dresses the part. The chances are that he will affect whiskers of flowing and ornate patterns; his cravat will be a large loose one, black in color and tied in a wide bow. His hat will be of the exact shape of the ordinary narrow brimmed straw hat, but it will be made of black felt. He looks like a cross between an art-student and an undertaker.

Undoubtedly the French editor has strong reasons for taking himself seriously; for the party ideas he expresses in his paper are followed with passionate enthusiasm by his subscribers. If he be the editor of one of the greater journals he will have an enthusiastic and loyal clientele, who are completely wrapped up in the ideas and policies set forth by his paper. There is a devotion to the paper almost unknown in this country. With us, very few give "a whoop" what paper they read, provided it contains the news—but with a Frenchman, his paper, his party organ, is the one and only paper worth looking at—all other papers are anathema and their readers less than "nozing." Of the great French dailies the following is an alignment as regards party:

L'Action Française—Royalist
Le Temps—Conservative Protestant
Le Figaro—Catholic Bourgeois
Le Progres—Socialist
L'Oeuvre—Radical Socialist
L'Humanité—Communist
Le Petit Journal—Republican
Le Petit Parisien—Bourgeois
Le Matin—Bourgeois

At the present time there seems to be a well defined agreement among the papers not to print anything that seems to indicate that France is at all militaristic in nature. The attacks of her enemies have produced an agreement between editors to the effect that nothing shall go into their papers indicating the slightest desire for further annexations.

As an illustration of this attitude, the following experience is in point: Like most of us I had a plan by which the world could be maintained in a state of peace—a beautiful plan, worthy of Mr. Bok himself. As a solution for peace in Europe I argued that whatever nation held the Ruhr would have in its grip the basis for European domination, because whatever nation has a preponderance of resources that nation will dominate in population and in aggressiveness. To spike the guns of future wars I argued that a Ruhr State ought to be formed under International control. Since this zone would be under International control neither the Krupps nor any other manufacturer of arms could make use of the iron and coal for the creation of the hideous instruments of human destruction. Thus I argued that the power to make trouble would be taken out of the hands of any nation. The New York Herald, Paris edition, thought my plan was as good as some of the others submitted and published it. It then occurred to me that it would be distinctly agreeable to see my article translated and listed in French papers. I asked my French friends about it, and with that frankness which is so refreshing in the Frenchman, they advised me as follows: "No," they said, "Monsieur, you can never get that plan published in France; our enemies are hunting everywhere to find expressions of a desire on our part to encourage the separation of the Ruhr from Germany, and they would fasten on your article as an expression of our own sentiments." None the less, I thought I would see what I could do; so I took my little plan from one paper to another, but each time it was refused with the gracious courtesy of which our French friends are the masters.

The French are deadly afraid that they will get the reputation of being militaristically inclined. All they want is to collect according to the terms of the Versailles treaty; save their country from bankruptcy and settle down in peace. The nation is practically a unit behind Poincaré in his determination to make Germany pay for the evil inflicted upon "La France."

During this past summer captured German cannon from the period to the Great War were wheeled from the store houses where they had been put away after the armistice, and placed anew about the city squares. This display of enemy cannon is to remind the French of the horrors of war and to aid in steeling their resolutions to make their ravager pay for the evil he did to them.

ODD TABLES NOW A DISTINCT MODE

End, Gate-Leg, Tip Top, Small Square, Porch and Others Have Place in Homes

A few years past a home was equipped with merely the utilitarian tables, kitchen, dining, living and study, and more were not even considered except, perhaps, in the more pretentious homes. But what a difference in these days. Tables are one of the chief decorative elements in the home, and are made in an infinite variety of sizes, styles and even colors. The Chinese red lacquer tables will make for a high light of color in any room, and furnish a warm and bright spot to the eye, especially on a winter's night when it is bleak and cold outside.

How convenient the little end tables are at the arms of the davenport or big armchair. Furnished with a lamp adjusted to the proper angle, they make sewing or reading a pleasure for any member of the family. A gate-leg table, with drop leaves, is ornamental and in the small home where there is no dining room it becomes very useful when it is time to serve the meal, by simply covering table when you want it, and a library table at all other times. Even though a dining room is usually provided in the home, the gate leg table does not lose its utility. How many times on special occasions, an extra table is necessary to take care of the overflow of guests. The gate-leg table carried in from the living room or hall, will provide the necessary space for your guests and not mar the beauty of your dining room in any way.

Let Me Do Your Interior Painting and Varnishing Now

I can give it closer personal attention and save you money

"Save the surface and you save all."—Paint & Varnish

NEXT Spring I'll be up to my ears in outside work. So will every other Master Painter. This is my slack season—now and for the next three months. There's no good reason why it should be. If people would have these interior painting and varnishing done in the winter, they'd get first class work done by the best men in the business—instead of rush work at Spring prices.

It's a good proposition from my standpoint, too. I wouldn't have to lay off my good men. I could cut down my overhead. I could spread my work over a whole year, instead of crowding it into seven or eight months. [This would save me a money and it would save you money, too.] I can take on your inside work now and give a close personal attention. (I don't forget that. Give me a ring today.)

WOMEN NEED MORE LABOR SAVING IDEAS

Household Tasks Require Modern Devices To Help In the Care of the Home

Marriage is usually entered into on the theory that it is a partnership affair. By partnership, it is generally understood a fairly equal sharing of responsibility and labor, so far as possible.

A woman expects her husband to deliver the material results of his labors without complaint. She also feels that she has the right to such money as is necessary for herself and children. In return she understands that she is to manage the home equally as well and without complaint.

This Is Sometimes Impossible
Hardly without our knowing it, times have changed in respect to household tasks. When our grandmothers kept house they had the help of servants. Nowadays the servant question has become so much of a problem that the average housewife has long since given up and is doing the work all herself. This tradition has taken place more or less gradually so that the housewife in many instances, and certainly more frequently her husband, fails to realize that she is trying to cope with a situation which her grandmother would have considered hopeless. She is trying to do single-handed that which her grandmother accomplished by means of at least one servant.

It therefore becomes vitally important that the modern housewife make use of every labor saving device of which she can avail herself. Long ago the man of the house surrounded himself in his office and factory with labor-saving and time-saving devices, and, irrespective of change in the labor situation he has acquired the use of labor-saving devices as a matter of course. The fairest-minded husband would be shocked at the indifference with which he is permitting his partner—his wife—to go on day after day, year after year, coping with an almost impossible situation with comparatively few household labor-saving devices.

A comparison of this kind serves to show the husband how wholly unfair, even though he is so thoughtlessly, in not realizing how unequal the partnership has become. Ultimately the wife comes to feel that possibly she is a failure. She does not seem able to hold her own end of the bargain. Her strength is not equal to the task.

The Solution

The washing machine and the electric cleaner, the electric iron and the electric fan are fairly familiar to all housewives. Their use, however, may be greatly improved by a study of the conditions under which they are used. A well-equipped laundry with convenient outlets for hot and cold water, well-drained floor, good light and ventilation; electric sweeper so situated that it can be used at a moment's notice without carrying it up and down stairs. Many housewives now have a cleaner on each floor. Electric fans should be equally accessible. The electric dish washer is very rapidly coming into its own. This will save the housewife many valuable hours in the course of a year, and make her housework much easier.

The electric percolator, toaster and iron are well known but should be used to an even greater extent. The kitchen utility motor is a valuable addition, and will save the housewife much aggravation caused by dull knives. The electric whipper will be found an invaluable aid, as it will produce better and quicker results without the tiring grinding of the old-fashioned contrivance. "The Electric Susan" can be used to greater advantage in kitchen, dining room, sewing room or bedroom. It provides several electric outlets for various devices without the necessity of running separate cords to the wall plug.

The Suction Fan

This highly efficient apparatus makes possible constant ventilation of the entire house without affecting the heat of the home. Kitchen odors, which would otherwise prove very objectionable, are done away with, and the housewife is assured that the room in which she spends the largest part of her time will be one of the pleasantest rooms in the house. Considering the fact that times have changed so radically as regards the servant problem, thus making the greater use of electrical devices imperative, it is quite logical to assume that some attention should be given to the placement of convenience outlets. No husband who is employed in a shop would think of running a long cord across the floor of the shop to the other side of the room to plug in on an electric current in order to operate an electric drill or other piece of bench apparatus. He would consider such a procedure as but a temporary make-shift, and in no way

SOCIAL AND LOCAL NEWS

The pupils of the 6A Grade received news, stating that Miss Martin's, teacher of 6A Grade, mother died Saturday, March 8th. It is doubtful whether Miss Martin will be back to teach again this year.

Miss Harriet Wilson, teacher of third grade, is back to school again, after being absent some time, due to illness.

Mr. Johnson, of the Newark Post, told Miss Eckman that sometime soon he will give permission to the 6A Grade to visit the Kells and see our paper being printed.

The seventh grade has a History and Science teacher, Miss Cope.

Miss Fanny Medill returned to school Monday, March 3rd, after being absent for a period of time due to illness.

Several pupils of the 6A Grade have been absent on account of sickness.

The P. F. C. Club gave a party on Saturday, March 8th. Miss Dorothy Bell is president of this club.

The H. P. C. Club will meet April 3, 1924.

Herman Messick, of the 7th Grade, is giving a party Saturday, March 15th.

SPORTS

Newark High School defeated New Castle High School in basketball last Tuesday. The score for the boys 18-17 and the score for the girls was 33-9. The members of Newark school are very glad they won as it makes them nearer the second championship of the State.

On Thursday, February 13, 1924, the East-End team started baseball practice. They hope to get the championship this year.

The reason Newark did not get the championship is because Dover beat Newark one and Newark beat Dover once when the score was added up, Dover beat Newark again. Therefore the championship was given to Dover.

Newark Company E was defeated in a game of basketball with the Bronsom Library team of Wilmington last Friday. The score was 22-11.

The Bronsom team was playing under Eastern League rules. The Newark team was not used to playing that way and the game was lost on fouls.

PLANS FOR PLAYGROUND IN ELKTON BOOMED FOLLOWING SALE OF MANSION

M. E. Church Trustees, Gleaners, Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce Cooperating in Providing a Place for the Kids to Play

Following the purchase two weeks ago of the Mitchell home on East Main Street, Elkton, by the trustees of the Elkton Methodist Episcopal Church for the establishment of a Community House, interest in the proposed playground for the children of Elkton has progressed rapidly during the past few days.

A large lot lying next to the mansion has been designated as a splendid place for the erection of apparatus. One of the good features is the fact that the lot is far enough away from the street to reduce the possibility of accidents to a minimum.

Both the Chamber of Commerce and the newly organized Rotary Club of Elkton have announced their whole-hearted support of the movement and it is confidently expected compatible with shop efficiency.

Ponder on a few such thoughts as these and you will see why it is that woman with her present-day lack of household help should be given, if anything, more consideration than the man in his shop.—Ex.

SPRING TIME DAYS

I
Spring is coming fast,
Winter is almost past;
This is the month of March
For the wind blew through the leafless larch.

II
In spring you hear the birds
sing,
They sing so merry a tune;
Then from the apple trees it brings
Apple blossoms pink and blue.

III
The babbling brook by the hills,
And down by all the mills;
Everyone loves springtime
The dowers are so gaily in bloom.
Beatrice S. Moore,
Pupil of 6A Grade.

SPRING DAYS

I
Spring days are coming fast,
Also March's windy blast,
The birds are sweetly singing
And the flowers are gaily blooming.

II
Down the hills the brooks go babbling.
Signs of spring are always bringing Spring days are bright and cheery,
In place of winter days, so dreary.
Martha M. Jaquett.

SPRINGTIME

When spring is here
The birds begin to sing,
The flowers begin to bloom
Because it is spring.

The air is warm
And the children go out to play.
The skies are blue
And the sun sets late in the day.

The leaves are green on all the trees
And the blossoms are so gay,
All the bees make their home
After the children run away.
Dora Handloff.

A LOVELY THOUGHT

The flowers are gaily blooming.
The birds are sweetly singing;
In this month you see a flower
Bowling to a flower like a bowler.
Beatrice S. Moore.

A FLOWER SEED

All through the winter I slept under the ground with my brothers and sisters. It was warm under the ground, because I had a thick blanket of earth
over me and sometimes Mother Nature covered me with a white blanket. All was still except the whistle of the wind and the murmur of voices of people passing by on the street.
One day I felt very warm and I knew the sun was shining warm. I heard a little bluebird singing and it said, "Come out little flowers, it is springtime."

I roused myself from my long winter nap and began to push up through the earth to reach the warm sunshine.
Martha M. Jaquette.

A ROBIN'S TRIP TO THE NORTH

One day my neighbor, Mrs. Wren, came over to my house and said she was getting ready to go back to the North. I was sorry at first because I had a nice little house in the top of an orange tree. But I thought she would like to have company on her journey. Every day the men use to come out and pick the oranges and send them to the north. Some of them right to my home in the North.

On the first day of March we started for the North. Mrs. Wren was very glad for me to go with her and her husband. We flew over the beautiful rivers and the woods. The trees were budding and strange birds singing and making their summer homes. The farther we went the seemed to get colder. Then I knew we were getting closer to the North. All of my friends had gone about a week before we left. We were about two weeks on the way. On the 14th day of March we arrived here. I was so glad to see my friends. They came to meet us, and Mrs. Cardinal invited me to supper and Mrs. Bluebird invited Mrs. Wren and her husband to supper. We had a very nice trip. Now I am getting ready to build my home for the summer.

THE TALE AN OLD MUSKET TOLD

One day Tom, Jack and Harry were playing soldiers in the garret. In the garret was a closet full of old things.

The boys looked about the room for guns, or anything to use in playing soldiers. They went to the closet and brought me out and said I was just the thing. They were saying, I wish I could tell the tale of my life. Just then I began to talk and tell them the story of my life.

I was made in a factory with a lot of other muskets. I was carried to the Mississippi River by train, then I was put on a boat and taken to the camp where the soldiers were. My master or a man who carried me killed two men with me. He was Jack's grandfather and that is how I came to be in this house. The children were going to play soldier with me, but their

THE BOX OF GOLD

One day some boys were playing soldiers. They began to dig a trench. While digging one boy struck something hard.
He exclaimed, "This must be a rock; I will have to dig it out of the way before I can dig any more!" He dug around the supposed rock and lifted it out of the earth. He was very surprised to find that it was not a rock, but a box which was very heavy. "There must be something in it," he said. One of the other boys asked him why he had stopped digging. He replied that he had found a box which was very heavy. They all ran to the spot and the boy opened it. Inside he found a box of gold. The boys all ran to tell their parents of their find.
Their parents were very poor people and were very glad to get the money which they needed so badly.

The patronesses were: Dr. and Mrs. Hollihen, Dean and Mrs. Dutton, Dean Robinson, Miss Taylor and Mrs. Wilson. This dance was the last regular dance given by the Women's College until the farewell hop in June.

Cleaning Steam Radiators

With the exercise of slight ingenuity it is a simple matter to thoroughly clean steam and hot-water radiators in a moment's time with a vacuum cleaner. Hang a damp cloth on the wall-side of the radiator and connect the blower attachment to the vacuum.
The dust is blown through the radiator and caught by the moistened cloth, the blast of air quickly forcing accumulated dust and dirt from every crevice.

WHILE OUR HERO SLEPT

During the height of the Brown fire at Glasgow last evening, one of our firemen heroes suffered an attack of the Jim-Jams or something and went to a nearby house for a rest. It appears that he was still resting when his associates packed up and left for home. So our hero (whose name we withhold in deference to his dignity), receiving no answer to his lusty shoutings in the darkness, trudged homeward, muttering many strange and terrible words between trudges.

He "checked in" at 2 a. m. Not bad walking for an old timer.

CENTURY CLUB GUESTS OF DEAN ROBINSON

Trip Enjoyed by Club-women Yesterday

The Newark New Century Club met on Tuesday afternoon, March 18, at 2.30, in the English Room, Science Hall, Women's College, as guests of Dean Robinson.

After a business meeting the Dean gave an illustrated talk on her recent trip through Northern Italy. Having left Switzerland and entered Italy, she told how interested she and her party were in the peasants by the road side, and the bringing in of the crops.

She showed pictures of Genoa, and spoke of how all Americans were thrilled when they visited the quaint little town—the birth place of Columbus. She told of the cemetery which contains the most beautiful sculpture in the world. There were pictures of St. Peter's in Rome, and she told of their audience with the Pope. She showed pictures of the triumphant arches, the Appian Way, and of the gruesome catacombs.

From Rome she went to Florence, and when there she thought how old and at the same time how young in art. There were pictures from Perugia, and from beautiful Venice.

At the close of her talk she invited the club over to Residence Hall, where she served ice cream, cake and coffee.

How about making things comfortable for the HOUSEWIFE?

MARCH rains, and April ones, too, may be fine for starting the green grass. But in the meantime the wife as she hangs up the clothes gets muddy feet, bad colds and maybe worse.

A little strip of concrete between the clothes poles is easy to lay, costs little and pays big in good temper and good health.

There are a dozen other bits of work around the home that take no time to do, but are big time-savers after they're done.

Let us help you by supplying the materials.

MOVE HEISER HOUSE TO DELAWARE AVE. SOON

William P. Wollaston Buys Property from College

Plans are being rapidly adjusted for the removal of the Heiser house on Main Street opposite the college campus, to a new site on Delaware Avenue, adjoining Wolf Hall.

The house has been reported sold to William P. Wollaston of this place. The price paid for the building was not disclosed.

Workmen are now busily engaged in digging a new cellar for the building on the Wollaston lot on Delaware Avenue, preparatory to moving it.

That the undertaking is of no mean proportions has been admitted by many local people familiar with building. As far as can be learned, the house will be transported down across the college property to Delaware Avenue and thence to its new site.

With the sale and removal of the Heiser house, the College has now cleared away every building on the south side of Main Street which heretofore blocked the Development Plan as instituted several years ago. With the completion of the new Library, the old building at the corner of South College Avenue and Main Street will no doubt be razed. A clear vista will be the result from the upper campus to the Women's College.

Just when the actual moving of the house purchased by Mr. Wollaston will take place has not been learned. It is evident, however, that the work will consume several weeks.

STANTON SCENE OF WILD EXCITEMENT

Firemen Arrive on Scene
About twenty minutes after the first alarm was sounded, the new Christiana engine arrived on the scene, and did valiant work in checking the flames. They took command of the situation, and under the direction of their chief, Charles G. Smith, brought order out of chaos and formed the battle lines to save the town. Stanton residents showered the little company with praise after the fire was subdued for their prompt and efficient work.

The Aetna Company of Newark was on the scene shortly after Christiansh, shared the glory with the neighboring firemen. The Newark hose was stretched to Calf Run, and with the Christiana engine aiding in the pumping, two powerful streams of water were thrown on the fire.

In this manner the flames were literally "drowned" and the eastern section of the village saved from ruin.

It is said by eyewitnesses that at one time during the afternoon ten buildings were aflame.

In the confusion and wild excitement, many women fainted, and others ran up and down the street with tears streaming from their eyes. One man was saved from serious injury when a spark set fire to his clothing. As far as could be learned there was no one injured.

From 1.30 o'clock until darkness set in, the firemen struggled with the blaze. Over 1000 people watched the fight, many of them coming out on trolleys from Wilmington, Newport and Richardson Park.

Two chemical engines from Wilmington responded, as did the Cranston Heights firemen.

Fears for the life of Mrs. Norris during the early part of the fire caused great concern. She wouldn't leave her home, and was intent in saving what she could. Several men finally entered the burning house and dragged her to the street.

Never before has Stanton been thrown into such confusion, and the residents there were profuse in their thanks to the nearby fire companies for their services in time of dire need.

PLAYHOUSE

Fritz Kreisler

One day Fritz Kreisler, now one of the most famous of virtuosi, was recalling his poverty stricken youth. "In those days in Vienna," he said, "my friends were divided into two classes: those whom I could and those I could not borrow money from." But if Kreisler was born without the proverbial silver spoon in his mouth, he was given most of the other things which the Gods may confer on a single mortal.

In those days Vienna was a hot bed of culture, and perhaps the gayest city in the world. "We didn't work," said the late Richard Epstein, referring to the student days when he knew Kreisler in Vienna, "we just had talent." And at a cafe table one night, sat Fritz Kreisler, Arthur Schnitzler, the Viennese author, Hugo Wolf, composer of immortal songs, Otto Weininger, who wrote "Sex and Character," and Moritz Rosenthal, then a young man of little account. What results has time brought about? Today Rosenthal is one of the greatest pianists of his generation. And Kreisler, who says, with sincere modesty, "I was the least talented of all"—the years bring strange things to pass. But at least they have not spoiled Kreisler. He knows how precious fortune is. It is easy to believe that sometimes, as he faces audiences of thousands, or attends performance some fashionable function, that he would fain get back to those Vienna days, with his cronies, when everything was youth, and idealism and art, when "we didn't work, we just had talent."

The artist will be heard in concert at the Playhouse, Wilmington, on Thursday evening, March 27th.

STATE CHECKER CHAMPION BLOCKS OFF NEWARK STARS IN CLEVER MATCHES HERE

Charles H. Lynch of Wilmington Wins Seven, Loses Two and Draws Three Games—Cornog and Walhraven Save the Day for Newark

AWAKENS NEW INTEREST IN ANCIENT GAME HERE

Checkers, that ancient and honorable sport which has been handed down to us through generations, came into its own in Newark last Thursday night, when a large crowd saw State Champion Charles H. Lynch, of Wilmington, pit his strength against fifteen of Newark's best players. The matches were held in Powell's restaurant on Main Street. With just a handful of spectators present at the start of the play, the crowd increased to such proportions later in the evening, that the champion had difficulty in moving up and down the long table.

Mr. Lynch played purely for exhibition purposes, and gave a remarkable exhibition of continuous concentration. Playing fifteen acknowledged checker experts at one time is no mean feat, and the result, 7 games won, 2 lost and 6 drawn, would indicate that he has the stuff which makes champions.

Alfred Walhraven, a veteran, and Ernest Cornog, a youngster, forced the champion to acknowledge defeat after almost two hours play. These two men exhibited the strongest games seen here in many years, and were heartily congratulated at the finish by Mr. Lynch.

Played Continuously

The plan of the games, new to Newark people, was the continuous method. Four of Mine Host Powell's tables were placed end to end, and the Newark stars, many with their own beloved boards and men with them arranged themselves along one side.

The champion then called for the whites as his men, and play began.

BLINDFOLDED MATCH

Before the regular games, last Thursday evening, Mr. Lynch played a match with Mr. Green without seeing the boards, relying entirely upon his concentration powers to follow the movements of the pieces.

The game went to a draw, and some very interesting situations were developed.

The game by moves follows:

(Mr. Lynch opened with the Blacks.)

11-15	29-25	20-11	7-10
23-19	10-15	15-18	14-18
8-11	17-13	22-15	10-15
22-17	2-7	10-28	18-22
11-16	21-17	17-10	15-18
24-20	8-11	6-15	22-26
16-23	26-23	13-6	31-22
27-11	19-26	1-10	28-32
7-16	30-23	11-7	18-27
20-11	7-10	15-19	32-23
3-7	32-28	23-16	23-17
28-24	9-14	12-19	23-18
7-16	25-21	7-2	22-16
24-20	5-9	10-14	18-14
16-19	28-24	2-7	21-17
25-22	11-16	19-23	draw
4-8

He passed from one to another of his opponents, making one move at a time until he passed the length of the tables, and then repeated the operation. Obviously, he faced a new problem at every board. It can thus be readily seen what a strain upon his nerve and mind a match would be.

The following men pitted their strength against the champion:

Frank M. Lutton, Ernest Cornog, Grover C. Henderson, Linwood Walbridge, Alfred Walhraven, Oliver Miller, Lee Crompton, Amos Collins, Horace Smith, Dr. Thomas F. Manns, Walter Boyd, of Stanton, Benjamin Wirt, A. M. Green, of Wilmington, William Cole and Herman Cohen.

Ranged about the playing table on all sides was the silent "cheering section." At times through the play, one could hear a pin drop, so intense was the silence. Not only the players, but the spectators followed every move with interest and all manner of well-intended advice and "Now this is what he should have done" lectures were passed from one to another.

It was a real checker crowd, make no mistake. Doctors, lawyers, merchants, farmers, school boys—every phase of the community was represented, all drawn to the scene by the magnet of The Game. To many people the wealth of interest and intense devotion to checkers was a revelation, and on all sides came the consensus that it was "some game."

Stiff Battles Put Up

The champion had no easy time of it, as the number of draws testify. Many times he stood over a board for several minutes, figuring out some clever attack made by his adversary.

Of the fifteen, the playing of Cornog, Walbridge, Henderson, young Amos Collins, Walhraven, Wirt and Manns stood out and drew many favorable comments from the spectators.

Organized cheering there was none; but every good move, every opening blocked came in for its buzzing comment. As the games wore on to exciting finishes, the ardor for the crowd increased in proportion.

The playing of genial Benjamin

Wirt, was a revelation to his friends. "Ben" said he hadn't seen a checker board in three years, and was "invigorated" into the matches Thursday evening. But rusty or not, he put up a whale of a game, and had a chance to win until the last few moves, when Mr. Lynch caught him in a trap and forced him into a draw.

Another strong game which elicited congratulations from the champion was played by young Amos Collins, son of Frank Collins, of Newark. The youngster stuck to the masts, playing Mr. Lynch man for man until he was one of the two active players.

Between his game and that of Walhraven, Mr. Lynch had no easy time of it for the last fifteen minutes of the match. Collins, a "dark horse," drew his match and received a nice compliment from the champion.

Frank Lutton, conceded to be a favorite to win, got into trouble late in his match and was forced to lose two men to Mr. Lynch, thus ruining his chances to win. He withdrew.

Walter Boyd, a newcomer, hailing from Stanton, was another "dark horse" and he played right up to tradition. He had the champion in several holes, from which only the latter's great experience extricated him.

"Shorty" Henderson, and his earnest playing was a favorite with the crowd as was Walbridge. Ernest Cornog played the best game of the Newark entrants. He out-generalled the champion time and again and won his match without much trouble. Gossip has it that Ernest had been practicing diligently for weeks, waiting for his big chance. It came Thursday night and he was there to meet it with both fists.

Other strong games were played by Dr. Manns, Lee Crompton, William Cole and Horace Smith.

Visitors Comment on Games

Four Wilmingtonians accompanied Mr. Lynch to Newark and witnessed with great interest the matches played here. They were A. M. Green, Paul Bradley, Charles K. Lynch, and James Renshaw.

All expressed themselves as delighted with the interest shown in the ancient sport here and said the town holds right now the nucleus of a checker club which could put up a winning fight with any other club in the State.

All the players expressed their thanks to Walter Powell for the use of his restaurant for the games. At times the room was so crowded that all thoughts of serving food to passing travellers was out of the question.

Walter didn't mind the inconvenience a bit, though, and was one of the "ringside" spectators all evening.

Mr. Lynch himself expressed great satisfaction over the growth of the game in Newark and added his compliments to those already voiced by his associates.

The games lasted from shortly after eight o'clock until 10:45. Nearly one hundred people crowded into the restaurant during the progress of the matches.

Stanton Juvenile Grange which has been holding meetings on Monday evenings, will in the future hold their meetings on Wednesday evenings, at the home of Mrs. C. P. Dickey. All members are urged to be present this evening.

We 23,000 Men

Present you the utmost in fine cars

THERE are 23,000 of us building Studebaker cars. Most of us are partners in the business. Thousands of us are stockholders. All of us, after a certain time, get dividends on wages.

All of us, after two years, get vacations with pay. All of us, after one year, get dividends on wages. After five years, that annual dividend adds 10% to our earnings.

The company spends vast sums on co-operative work with us. When we retire, we get pensions.

So Studebaker cars represent the best that we, in combination, know how to offer you.

Some of us belong to management. If we do better than expected, we get 10% of the excess. So every man among us does his best to make Studebaker cars supreme.

Our fine backing

Behind us is an honored name. For 72 years Studebaker has been the leader in quality and class.

We have $90,000,000 of assets. We have $50,000,000 in model plants. We have 12,500 up-to-date machines. So Studebaker cars are built by modern and efficient methods.

We have an engineering department which costs $500,000 yearly. That to maintain and develop Studebaker standards.

We subject Studebaker cars to 30,000 inspections. That requires 1,200 men. All told over 70,000 machine and hand operations are performed in manufacture of a Studebaker car. In so many operations, though each one is small, there is a great opportunity for economies and savings.

We have a $10,000,000 body plant, to maintain the Studebaker standard of coach work. There sons, fathers and grandfathers are working together, to build such bodies as Studebaker always built.

Those bodies are finished by many operations, including 15 coats of paint and varnish.

The open bodies are upholstered

All Studebaker models are equipped with Timken bearings. There are few cars in America, regardless of price, which equal ours on this point. In our Light-Six, for instance, we put more Timken bearings than are used in any competitive car, within $1,500 of its price.

We give unusual equipment. On some Big-Six models, for instance, we include two nickel-plated bumpers, one or two extra disc wheels with cord tires, a courtesy light, a motometer, steel trunk, etc.

How we do this

We give you these extra values through quantity production. We build 150,000 cars per year—more than any other fine-car builder. Our large expenses are divided by that enormous output.

We do it by building our own bodies, our own parts. Thus we save outside profits.

We do it because we have up-to-date plants, with all forms of modern equipment.

The results are these:

Beauty, quality and luxury such as no maker can surpass.

Prices far below the usual. Our Light-Six, built by ordinary methods, would sell for from $200 to $400 more. Our Big-Six can be compared only with the highest-priced cars in the world.

Here are 13 models, from $1,025 to $2,635. Each of them offers scores of advantages over any comparable car. They offer such values that the trend toward Studebakers has become overwhelming.

Go analyze the reasons before you buy a quality car.

See how Studebaker gained top place

145,167 people last year paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

The sales have almost trebled in the past three years. Studebaker growth in fine cars is the marvel of this industry.

Go see the reasons. See the scores of extra values Studebaker offers.

There are 13 models. Prices start at $1025. They go to the highest price a fine car needs to cost.

Don't buy a car for years to come without knowing how Studebaker gained its amazing popularity.

in real leather. The closed bodies in Chase Mohair. That is made from the silky fleece of Angora goats.

We pay for those extras—and others—out of savings. Building our own bodies saves you on some types up to $300 per car.

We never stint

The rule here is to give the utmost in every part and detail.

We have 35 formulas for steel. Each has been demonstrated best for its purpose. On some of these steels we pay 15% premium to get the formulas exact.

"Every room cosy"

What's the use of having an extra bedroom, or guest room, if it can't be heated comfortably and economically?

Stoves and other old-fashioned heating methods simply will not keep the house comfortably and evenly warm at all times. Then there's the drawback of ashes, dust, soot and odors all over the house—with much time and labor spent in tending the fires.

Steam, hot water or vapor heating systems do heat the entire house, cleanly, evenly and comfortably—on much less fuel. They're permanent, too; don't have to be replaced every few years. When guests arrive, the extra bedroom can soon be made cozy by turning on the radiator.

Let us show you how economically radiator heat can be installed.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK AHEAD FOR BASEBALL AT UNIVERSITY--TRACK SCHEDULE HEAVY

Lack of Pitchers and Infielders Will Hamper McAvoy's Team During Season—Mike Underwood Lone Veteran

With the preliminary training period but a few days off, the baseball prospects at Delaware are still looked upon as anything but encouraging by men closely associated with the team. Coach McAvoy will in all probability call out his pitchers for early exercise sometime this week, and the balance of the candidates next week.

With the pitching staff shot to pieces and only one veteran in the infield, the outlook at the present time for a winning ball team looks poor.

The schedule of seventeen games includes many old rivals of Delaware on the diamond, and is well balanced and strong. It is not, however, to be compared with the schedules played during 1921 and 1922 seasons, when as high as twenty-five games were listed.

Delaware will take no long trip through the South or North this year, confining their engagements out of town to the Army, Navy, Gettysburg and Dickinson.

Underwood Leader of Team

"Mike" Underwood, veteran of three hectic seasons on the gridiron, is leader of the team this year, and will play his old position at shortstop. In his first two seasons at Delaware, "Mike" was one of the most consistent players on the team, and many timely drives from his bat have won games for the Blue and Gold. The combination of Yap, Underwood, Wilson and McDonald, however, is not present this year, and the patient process of rebuilding an infield with the material at hand must begin all over again. Russell Hunt, who played in many games last year, will no doubt hold down third base this season. Hunt is a strong hitter and with more experience should develop fast.

The other two positions, first and second, must be filled within the next two weeks, and the problem becomes more acute each day. Since no practices have been held so far, it is impossible to get a line on the Freshmen candidates.

The outfield, with Mannix, Murray and Chun or Hoch in line, offers no great difficulty. Mannix is one of the mainstays of the team and should have a great season.

Pitching Staff Weak

The whole trouble with the prospective 1924 team lies with its extremely weak pitching staff. Games lost last year, despite some remarkably heavy hitting by Delaware batters were lost as the result of weak pitching.

Ev. Magaw and Pryor are the only veterans left over from 1923. Magaw still has a world of speed and peculiar delivery, and two years ago promised to develop into a star, last season saw him not in the best of condition. Pryor needs much more experience before he should be pitted against heavy hitting teams like Army, Gettysburg and Navy.

Harper, a Freshman, has been boomed by many students as a valuable addition to the staff. Vic Willis had him under his wing in practice last Fall, but had nothing to say about the prospects.

Providing Kanky Chun, the versatile Chinese star, has recovered sufficiently from his injured leg to get into harness, he will either do the catching, or replace Hoch in the outfield, and allow the latter to work behind the plate.

A more comprehensive survey of the team must await the first week of outdoor practice. But the fact remains, that the prospects for the coming season are, to be perfectly frank, anything but bright.

With honest pride I announce the return of Mr. Guy Bates Post to the speaking stage. More than a quarter century ago Mr. Post rapped at the door of "opportunity" in the great maelstrom metropolis—New York. The answer to his knock was gruelling days and sleepless nights. Every heart-felt "wail" echoed and re-echoed in his brain until the "wail" turned to "I will." Today the "then youngster" bears, carries, controls more honors, more weight, more followers than any other man in his profession.

All America honors his achievements.

He has the distinction of having entertained more men and women within a given period than any other person in his line who ever lived. In every city in which he has appeared he has established new records from point of financial receipts. From "National Border to Border," on every side, he has been acclaimed "The Leader."

The consensus of many of America's foremost critics is: His intensity disturbs and arrests. As the greatness of his genius that is—to a greater or lesser degree—the thing that governs, controls, dwarfs or magnifies the actions—attitudes—good or bad qualities—that makes or mars humanism. By his genius compelling his auditors to feel they are parcel and part of the play—causing their pulses to throb with his, their hearts yearn, glow, ache and are glad with the beats of his heart, until actor and audience become welded as one—fused in the finesse of a single thought.

THE PLAY—"The Climax," by Edw. J. Locke, play filled with suspense that comes spontaneously from that soul, secreted in every normal person's breast of thinking age—interspersed with natural effervescing comedy that bubbles into chuckles and bursts into roars, causing tears to recede into the ducts from whence they spring, at the critical moment when more sorrow would be anguish, more selfishness produce pain. A play serious enough to make you think, funny enough to make everyone laugh, clean enough to please the clergy, good enough to live. His appearance Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee, March 21 and 22, at the Playhouse, Wilmington, will be the dramatic event of the decade.

MELVILLE B. RAYMOND, Director of Tour.
