Senate salutes Jim Neal in final minutes of his final session

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

AFTER A POLITICAL CAREER that has spanned two decades, endured two budget crises, five tax cuts and countless law-making decisions, State Senator James P. Neal is retiring from public life.

Neal's political career began in 1968 when he lobbied Newark's city council members for a fair housing law.

"I'm not Jefferson, Washington and I'm no James Madison, but when I looked at other people on city council I realized they aren't either," Neal said. "And I said, 'I can do that.'"

He became active in Newark's government and went on to become a councilman himself in Newark's District 1 for five years. When on the council, Neal sponsored and wrote a city information ordinance. It was then he realized he could make a difference. The ordinance, which remains in effect today, requires those buying property in Newark to read and sign an affidavit saying they understand the potential land use for areas surrounding their purchase.

State senator James P. Neal begins retirement from public life with a stroll through his Covered Bridge Farms neighborhood with his wife, Nancy, and the family pet. Neal, an engineer by profession, began his civic activism in 1968 when he lobbied the Newark City Council for a fair housing law. After more than a quarter-century in elected and community leadership positions, Neal is not seeking re-election to his 10th District seat in the Delaware State Senate.

Amick ready for run to fill Neal's seat

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

With a new lease on life, Newark area State Representative Steve Amick (R), is looking forward to campaigning for Delaware's District 10 senate seat.

Amick announced his candidacy for the senate seat last fall after Senator James P. Neal (R) said he would not run for reelection. He has served eight years in Delaware's House of Representatives for District 25 and said he believes he can use his experience in the senate.

After undergoing coronary artery bypass a couple months ago, Amick said he is more aggressive than ever.

"Doctors assured me there's no reason I shouldn't lead a normal, happy life," Amick said.

In fact, his heart problems were the reason he got into politics. He said he learned he would probably have some problems about 10 years ago. "It was one of the things that led me to run for office in the first place,"

Amick

Amick said. "Things I said I was going to do someday, I decided to do now."

The Republican candidate said he is looking forward to campaigning in the 25th senatorial district because it includes the area where he grew up — Nottingham Green.

"I'm looking forward to campaigning on the streets I'm familiar with," Amick said.

Some of the issues residents might hear Amick talking about this summer include boot camps for first offenders, violence in schools, the "quality of life" and conservation of open space.

Amick said the state is at the point where it needs to either build new prisons or come up with alternatives. He proposes a boot camp type atmosphere that will rehabilitate offenders while keeping them "very, very busy."

"We really must insist on getting violence out of schools," Amick said.

He said he is in favor of providing alternative schools, or doing "whatever it takes to get violence out of schools."

As far as the quality of life is concerned, Amick said he has been involved with Rep. Michael Castle's Quality of Life Legislation, which is a package of bills enacted when Castle was Governor, that ensures a non-destructive development process.

In-city model school plan draws school board fire

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Superintendent's Community Task Force review of a model school caused debate at the July Christina School board meeting.

School Board members and Christina Superintendent Iris Metts disagreed on how detailed the task force should be when exploring model schools.

Dissent and concern from board members came when Metts announced the task force is looking into the possibility of providing schooling for grades Kindergarten through 12 in the City of Wilmington.

Metts said this would give parents of children living in Wilmington a choice of letting their children attend school in their own community. This option would only be for a limited number of students, with the remainder of students continuing to attend Newark area schools, she said.

Currently, under the federal court's desegregation decision of the 9-3 plan since 1978, Wilmington students attend school for grades 4-6 in the city and are bused to the Newark area the other nine school years.

Board Member George Evans asked if this concept would be like having a mini-Christina School District in Wilmington and said, if it is, he fears that this could lead to resegregation.

Metts said the task force, consisting of about 40 Newark and Wilmington parents and residents without children, is looking at types of schools which could be viable in the district.

She said when types of model schools are proposed to the school board, it will be up to board members to decide which recommendations pass or fail.

Board President James Kent said some school board members' reactions show just how sensitive the desegregation issue is.

Several board members said they were concerned the task force was focusing too specifically on this one model. Metts said the task force has many different ideas floating around.

According to the superintendent, the task force is also looking at the possibility of offering a school for grades Kindergarten through sixth grades in the county.

Metts added another possible task force model is, because of a natural racial integration in parts of the county within the district, community schools (that abide by the federal-mandated ratios of minority students because of that integrated population) that may be able to exist without busing.

Other models Metts said the task force is exploring

The back two-thirds of Daugherty Hall was demolished in less than seven hours July 19 to make room for a new University of Delaware student center. University officials said construction of the student center will begin by Sept. 1.

Building disappears almost before ink on permit dries

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Only 15 hours after the demolition permit was issued by the City of Newark Building Department, the back part of Daugherty Hall came tumbling down.

Newark Building Director Junie Maley said the demolition permit was issued to the University of Delaware at about 4 p.m. July 18 and razing of the building began at 7 a.m. the following morning.

According to Maley the permit allowed the demolition work to be done within 90 days of the issue date.

Andrew Diffley, with Design Contracting Inc., the company who did the demolition — said, an excavator, which is a heavy piece of equipment, was used for the job.

"Structurally nothing was wrong with the building," said Diffley. "But it wasn't hard to take down with the right equipment." The part of the building torn down, was a 1927 addition to the original Presbyterian Church built in 1868. The back wing was removed to make way for a new University of Delaware Student Center.

The current student center, located on Academy Street, was built in 1958 when there were about 3,500 undergraduate students attending the University of Delaware. This fall undergraduate enrollment is expected to be more than 14,600.

The remaining part of the building will be incorporated into the new student center and will be restored as a lounge and special event space.

Sen. Neal, wife ready for relaxing retirement

► NEAL, from 1A

"You get a flush out of that and say, 'Yeah, it's not so hard to get things done'," Neal proudly remembered.

Nancy Neal, the senator's wife of 32 years, said they were both busy during his city council days, and it "worked out fine." It wasn't until he began campaigning for higher offices and she returned to school that Nancy realized budgeting their family time was essential. "My wife never thought she was marrying a politician," Sen. Neal said.

One of only a few Newark city councilmen to rise so high in state government, Neal was elected as state representative for District 25 in 1978.

After one term in the house, he became the state senator for District 10 in 1980. It was here he made a name for himself as a "money man."

Neal was a member of the Joint Finance Committee or the Joint Bond Committee each year he was a senator.

In between legislative sessions,

"I'm not Jefferson, Washington and I'm no James Madison, but when I looked at other people on city council I realized they aren't either. And I said, 'I can do that'."

JAMES P. NEAL
10TH DISTRICT STATE SENATOR

civic association meetings, committees, councils, forums, business dinners and more, Neal was a project engineer for DuPont for 32 years. He was named "Delaware's 1989 Engineer of the Year" by his colleagues. Neal retired from DuPont 2 1/2 years ago and currently works part-time for Tetra Tech Inc., an engineering firm in Newark.

Neal said working daily as an engineer, in addition to holding a government office, sometimes proved beneficial when constituents called his home.

If someone called with a concern, which Neal said eventually launched most of his legislative proposals, his wife usually fielded the call. By the time Neal got home and returned constituents' phone calls, most frustrations had been vented.

Nancy, whom he met on a blind date while attending the University of Illinois, said she didn't mind taking the calls because she got to talk to a lot of interesting people.

Leslie Drummond, the oldest of Neal's three children, recalls her father juggling his priorities well.

"He always said if you don't like the way things are going, then do something about it," Drummond said. "And he was a good example of that...I know he's never going to be totally out of politics."

His second oldest child, Karen Neal, lives in Chicago and the youngest, his son J.P., lives in Arlington, Va.

Neal has served Delaware in many other places than the state senate chamber. As Vice President of the Suburban County Hospital Task Force, he helped to ensure Christiana Hospital was built in the "suburbs." He sponsored Little League and Babe Ruth baseball teams and played an integral role in founding and carrying on the work of the Interagency Council for Adult Literacy, the Emmaus House in Newark, the Task Force on Library Automation and the funding to automate Delaware's public libraries, and the University of Delaware's capital and program development.

In an effort to honor his commitment to Delaware citizens, the state's senators did what they do best—adopted a resolution. About 3 a.m. July 1, the last day of the legislative session, senators unanimously passed Senate Resolution 37, which is a front-and-back proclamation listing Neal's extensive contributions to Delaware, and more specifically the Newark area.

Neal will go to Dover for the last time as a senator later this summer, when he will help appoint Delaware judges.

But as a civilian his first official duty will most certainly be to spend time with his first grandchild, who was born to his oldest daughter Tuesday evening at Christiana Hospital. Perhaps the senator will discover voting on names for his grandchildren is as fulfilling as voting on bills.

Sen. Neal
'Rational rules' Amick's goal

► AMICK, from 1A

"These bills are just starting to have an effect and will benefit New Castle County in the long run."

Preserving Delaware's open space is also important to the candidate. He said he would like to aggressively solicit farmers for their development rights. At present, Amick said there is only about $50,000 set aside to pay farmers for development rights and he would like to earmark more money for the program. He would also like to see a more proactive search process for potential farms adopted.

Speaking more abstractly, Amick said he wants to make the legislative process more equitable. Providing for more rational rules and a well-trained staff are among his goals.

Amick, his wife of 25 years—Louise, and his six-year-old son Paul live in Newark. He will be running against Paul Lesniak this fall for the 10th District seat.

Resignation still rippling

WHEN SENATOR James P. Neal (R) announced he would not seek reelection last fall, it set off a domino effect in Newark area politics that is still rippling.

Neal said he didn't want to announce his retirement until he was sure a candidate he supports would run for the District 10 seat.

Steve Amick (R), state representative for the 25th district, filled Neal's wish list for a successor. In the same fashion, Amick said he wanted to be sure a candidate he supports would run for his house seat. Stephanie Ulbrich (R) fit the bill for Amick and announced she would run late last year.

Paul Lesniak (D) will oppose Amick for the senate seat, assuming no primary is held.

Soon after Ulbrich publicly announced her candidacy, Newark City Councilman Tony Felicia (D) threw his hat in the ring and announced he would run against her.

In March, Newarkers watched area State Senator Thomas Sharp (D-Wilmington) ousted as majority leader and Newark area State Senator Roger A. Martin (D) replace him.

This week however, Martin announced he will not seek reelection and endorses Democratic candidate Paul G. Clark for the position. This move opens up the fourth Senate seat available this November and the majority leader slot.

Assuming Clark has no primary opposition, Donna Reed (R) of Breezewood will oppose him.

While local politics heat up however, Neal will slow down. According to his wife, Nancy, they plan to go on some of the vacations they didn't have time for until now.

MAIN STREET EXPERT REPORTS

Business group expansion could lead revitalization

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A VARIETY of volunteers could help spice up Newark's Main Street, according to an expert from the National Main Street Center.

The vehicle these volunteers can ride to success is the Newark Business Association. It would serve as the foundation for a system of volunteer-run committees and subcommittees with one common goal—to improve Newark's downtown area, a revitalization expert said.

During a morning meeting July 15, Matt Hussman, of the National Main Street Center which is headquartered in Washington, D.C., told about 20 local residents and city representatives that Newark has a strong downtown, especially when compared to other Delaware communities. Hussman has been working in Delaware for about a year.

Hussman discussed his April 27 visit to Newark and his assessment of Main Street. He elaborated on some of his previous suggestions, stressing the value of a market analysis and more importantly, utilizing the data gathered from such an analysis.

The broad-based volunteer concept, to include "citizens" from the community at large as well as business people, is one way to get an accurate picture of Newark's downtown problems and solutions, according to Hussman.

Deidre Peake, executive director of the Newark Business Association, said her organization is "looking forward to structuring a volunteer base." She went on to say details were still sketchy, but said she wants to include Hussman in the planning stages of an expanded business association.

Whether Main Street Center representatives or other experts in downtown revitalization will be able to continue the four-step program (design, promotion, economic restructuring and organization) depends on funding.

This year's budget for the Delaware Department of Tourism earmarked $50,000 for the Main Street Program in Newark and other state communities.

Although some details need to be streamlined in an effort to cut costs, Gigi Windley, Director of the Department of Tourism, said she was "100 percent" sure Newark would retain its state funding. Referring to the program's expert training and assistance, Windley said, "For example, one individual (expert) doesn't have to come to each community and make separate speeches...instead he could go to each location, then meet everyone later for a training session."

SUMMERTIME CARNIVAL

Children enjoy riding the Dragon Wagon ride at the St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Carnival. The carnival, featuring food, games and rides, runs through July 23 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on the church grounds on Del. 7 in Bear. Proceeds from the event will benefit the congregation's building fund to construct a new church.

Coalition watches building demolition

► DAUGHERTY, from 1A

Construction of the new student center will begin early this fall and is scheduled to be completed in the spring of 1996.

As part of the building was being torn down Tuesday, members of the Coalition to Save Daugherty Hall, a grassroots organization of community members and university students who formed to save the building, were seen watching, taking photographs and video of the demolition process.

The Coalition has collected about 2,500 signatures in two and a half months, opposing the demolition of the building.

Wallace McCurdy, member of the coalition, said the organization had talked about having a rally or funeral service for the building.

Newarker David Robertson, also a coalition member, said he's very sad to see the building demolished. "It's just a building in one sense of mortar and stone," said Robertson.

"But it just struck me, that we don't realize what an emotional feeling we get about inanimate objects."

He said the wooden floor, now gone, was one of best dance floors in Newark.

coalition will now have to change its name, the group does not plan on disbanding.

"It's hard to accept a loss of this magnitude," Robertson said. "But our challenge now is transforming the commitment we had for saving the building, to an effort of getting the university's charter changed."

A charter is a legal document given by the state legislature which spells out the rights and privileges of a municipality or public institution.

Robertson said University of Delaware should have to be under zoning regulations of the City of Newark and go through public review processes on their land use policy.

Another Coalition member, Jean White, said trying to change the university's charter is meant for the ultimate good and is not being done out of retaliation by the group.

Try 'McPersonal' approach at new Bear restaurant

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

If a Big Mac attack leads you to the drive-thru at the new McDonald's in Governor's Square Shopping Center, you will experience an innovative fast food concept.

For the first time in Delaware, a fast food drive-thru has three windows enabling customers to order directly to a person, not an electronic order board.

The Bear McDonald's drive-thru has a new concept, called "Face to Face", for the personalized service, according to Les Dukart, of Dukart Management Corp. which owns the franchise.

Signs informing customers of the new system are at the beginning of the drive-thru, telling drivers to proceed to the first window to place and pay for food orders.

"The McDonald's Corp. has done surveys which show customers like being able to see who they are talking to," said Dukart. "Over time there will probably be fewer errors when placing orders."

Alan Dukart, also of Dukart Management, said, "Overall the new drive-thru concept is positive. We're still learning and so are customers."

He said the during the first week the store was open there was some customer confusion. "Customers were pulling out of line, because of the absence of curbing, and passing the cars ordering in front of them," said Alan Dukart.

Brittany Barry, 3, daughter of Duane and Barbara Barry, plays at the new McDonald's restaurant in Bear.

"We weren't clear enough to customers where to proceed," he said. "Now we inform them to follow the car in front."

And after taking an informal poll of customers ordering food at the drive-thru, customer feedback seems positive.

"It's much better," said McDonald's Customer Barry Burns of Elkton, Md., "Two windows move a lot faster, you have more time to decide what to order and when ordering you can look at a person and they can hear you."

Dave Kittl of Newark said ordering to a person is more personal. Newarker W.J. Williams, agrees, saying, "It's better than that box (where people usually order)."

Les Dukart said business at the new store, opened on June 15, is going well and all has gone as planned, with the exception of the store's underground power lines being hit by lightning on opening day.

Buses head to Glasgow,

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

NEXT MONTH, the Delaware Rail Administration will expand bus service in the Route 40 corridor.

The new bus service, called the U-bus service for the shape of the route, will tie the City of Newark, with additional transportation services, to the Glasgow, Bear and Christiana communities.

About 20 people attended a hearing July 11 about the proposed bus routes in the U.S. 40 area. Concerns voiced included the safety of crossing U.S. 40 to get to bus stops and that 7:30 a.m. is not early enough for Bear students taking buses to get to the University of Delaware campus for 8 a.m. classes.

Dan Lacombe of the Delaware Transportation Authority said Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) officials are looking into putting in signalized cross walks near the Glasgow Boys and Girls Club and at Fox Run Shopping Center for safer pedestrian crossing of U.S. 40.

Also, he said bus routes will be adjusted as a need is shown.

The new U-bus service will begin on Aug. 15.

Shuttle buses will be used on the U-bus route, enabling them to fit under the Avon Underpass during the Newark and Bear/Glasgow bus loop.

The U-buses will make stops at Peoples Plaza, proceed along U.S. 40, stop at Governor's Square Shopping Center and Lexington Green Apartments off Del. 7.

Although there had been some problems getting permission from Delle Donne & Associates — the owners of Governor's Square Shopping Center — to have buses cut through the shopping center, a compromise has been worked out.

Jim Collins, a representative of Delle Donne, said negotiations led to resolution last week and that the smaller buses will run through the shopping center.

Buses will proceed to Christiana Mall and Christiana Hospital, down Ogletown Road, through the Avon Underpass on Del. 273, into Newark on Main Street westbound and Delaware Avenue eastbound. The bus will make the marked stops on Main Street and Delaware Avenue in Newark.

Bus service will begin in Newark at 9:35 a.m. and at Peoples Plaza at 9:40 a.m. and will end in Newark at 6:35 p.m. and at Peoples Plaza at 6:40 p.m.

Beginning Sept. 6, the Delaware Administration for Regional Transit (DART) is scheduled to run buses every 30 minutes during rush hours between Peoples Plaza and Wilmington via U.S. 40, Governor's Square Shopping Center, Lexington Green Apartments and I-95 into Wilmington to Rodney Square.

Steve Welch, DART representative, said DelDOT officials are negotiating for some park-and-ride parking for bus riders to be set up at Peoples Plaza and Christiana Mall.

Also, DART recently added a route which services the Newark and Stanton areas.

Unsung Heroes

A TRIBUTE TO PEOPLE WHO MAKE A DIFFERENCE IN OUR COMMUNITY

Bubbles 'just for fun'

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

YOU COULD SAY that Newarker Felix Cartagena has a bubbly personality. Cartagena, also known as Newark's own bubble man, has been named an unsung hero because for years he has set up his bubble making machines at local events to the delight of young and old alike.

He does this on his own time and at no charge for people to enjoy his machines. He says his payment for this is the "smiles and giggles."

"Give him a big thank you for his generosity, ingenuity and whims," the anonymous person who nominated Cartagena wrote on the entry form that arrived at the Newark Post.

"I wouldn't say I'm a hero but I try to impact a positive aspect to life," said Cartagena. "Young kids are surprised when I tell them I do this for nothing."

at the Glasgow DuPont sight, said he enjoys sharing the bubbles and watching people's reactions.

"People come upon this and it's so surprising to see the vast amount of bubbles," said Cartagena. "It touches people. Kids like them and I've even seen little white-haired ladies dancing in the bubbles."

Having been called Mr. Bubbles, a bubblesmith and a bubbologist, Cartagena is frequently at Carpenter State Park and local events, such as Liberty Day. In June at Newark Nite he had three machines running that filled the street with bubbles.

Posted on all his bubble machines are signs saying, "Not for sale, not for rent, just for fun."

Although Cartagena lends the machines to friends for parties and gives printed instructions for people to make their own machines, he does not plan on going into business or building the machines for profit.

"I'm a tinkerer," he said. "I don't do it to make a million dollars. It's for a fun thing to do."

He said he would have to charge at least $200 per bubble machine, if he sold them. He said he has had friends enjoy hobbies, such as kite making, who went into business producing kites and after the busi-

A better coach there isn't

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THERE AREN'T TOO many people that have had a bigger effect on the local girls' softball scene than Steve Baker has.

Baker, a car inspector for Amtrak, has coached two Canal Little League teams to the Little League Softball World Series, won four state championships as a manager in Little League, won four Mid-Atlantic Regional championships and two Eastern Regional championships, plus was an assistant coach on four more state championship teams. He was also head coach of Caravel Academy's 1991 state championship softball team.

To say Baker is a softball coach, though, is only scratching the surface of what he does for kids.

He has been a board member at Canal since 1986, serving in numerous capacities such as equipment manager, safety officer, and division officer for both the Senior and Major softball divisions.

He also can constantly be seen working on fields at Canal and Caravel.

Oh yes, he is also an assistant girls' basketball coach at Caravel. There has been many years when he has coached three teams at one time.

Two springs ago, his schedule was unbelievable.

After working 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Amtrak, Baker would go to

Caravel and prepare the field for either practice or a game. He would then coach at Caravel. Following that he would coach his Major Division Canal team. Throw in the fact that he was an assistant for a tee-ball team and a board member and you can see the amount of time Baker would spend.

"I just love dealing with the kids," Baker said. "It's my life. A lot of people love sports teams or have hobbies or play golf; I love to be a part of Canal and coaching."

Twice in the past three years, Caravel has hosted the state championship softball game. Both times, after torrential rain storms, Baker spearheaded a group — of mostly Canal people — to prepare the field. Working by a car's headlight, he and several others were at the field well past midnight so that the girls could play their state championship game on time. Most everything else on the sports schedule was postponed.

Through it all, Baker has developed and kept a wonderful rapport with his current and former players. Many of his former players at Canal, despite going on to play at high schools other than Caravel, cite Baker as not only their favorite coach — but the one they've learned the most from as well.

It would be hard to find a person more devoted to kids and the sport of softball.

Nardo offers 'food for the soul'

By NANCY TURNER
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Val Nardo's Needy Family Fund has provided nourishing boxes of food for hungry families in the Newark area for 25 years.

For Val Nardo, founder of the project, and the many volunteers who make it possible, taking part in the effort is nothing short of food for the soul.

Valentino W. Nardo, Sr., a native Delawarean, founded the Needy Family Fund in 1969. At the time he was a retired accountant with a reputation for wielding a mean violin. As a matter of fact, in his earlier years, Nardo earned local celebrity status playing big band sounds regularly at Bainbridge Naval Base in Maryland and throughout the tristate area with several bands, one of which carried his name.

Today, he still loves his music, but it is the philanthropy of providing food for others that brings him the most joy.

"I started this as an act of thanksgiving to God," said Nardo, "after a member of my family was very ill. It has become my ministry to help the poor."

The first year, Val and wife put together ten baskets in the kitchen. They knocked on doors and delivered the baskets themselves.

Over the years, Nardo has been joined in his mission of caring by corporations and organizations throughout the area. Last year the Needy Family Fund served 790 families.

At 75 years of age and having "survived repeated surgeries and cancer," Nardo says he will continue his work with his last breath, but even so, Nardo knows the importance of organizing the fund so that it will be strong when his days are done.

Recently, Nardo began training cooperating agencies to "run the plan."

In the past, Val and more than 125 volunteers have gathered money and food donations, put the food baskets together and distributed them themselves. Now, local organizations and agencies are being taught how to make their own food baskets. The distribution aspect of the project is being handled by individual organizations like the Newark Area Welfare

Kay Bogart saves lives

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

How does one go from a feeling of helplessness, to a life-saving teacher?

Kay Bogart, of Sycamore Gardens in Newark, began a career that's helping save an uncountable number of lives when her two-year-old daughter, Jenny, choked on some candy.

Jenny is 10 years old now and Kay is a volunteer for Aetna Hose Hook & Ladder Fire Co. ambulance crew.

Volunteering to help during ambulance calls is not as easy as one might think. It takes many hours of training and on-the-job experience.

Kay began her life-saving career in 1987, after her daughter's incident. After taking CPR courses she became an instructor. She then took first aid classes and became a Red Cross certified Basic First Aid and CPR Instructor.

By 1991, Kay was an American Heart Association Instructor Trainer. She was training the people who trained people to help save lives.

Her commitment didn't end here, instead it blossomed.

She works at DuPont as a Chemical Lab Technician and volunteers her time there as a member of the DuPont Emergency Response Team. Kay also uses her vacation days and evening hours to teach as become an Emergency Medical Technician. This course led her to volunteer for Aetna.

Kay's husband of 24 years, Barry, is also a CPR instructor, thanks to his wife's commitment. Jenny also knows more about life-saving techniques and first aid than most 10-year-olds.

"I am very proud of her," Barry said and Jenny concurred.

Kay said she loves riding with Aetna and enjoys the on-the-job camaraderie. She plans to continue riding on alternate Friday nights, and eventually hopes to ride every Friday night.

When Kay isn't teaching or riding with Aetna's ambulance, she spends time cleaning the mannequins used for CPR training.

She said it's not uncommon to see a pile of mannequins on her back porch. When she was visiting her parents' house recently, she hung several from the clothes line to dry after cleaning.

One of the most important messages Kay said she would like to convey is that CPR is not "Hollywood." A lot of people hesitate to learn CPR because they fear they will need to use it on strangers, according to Kay. But, what Kay would like to reiterate is that CPR is mostly "Mom and Pop" stuff.

She said most incidents where CPR and other life saving techniques are needed occur when a many as 20 to 30 classes a year. Some classes are for employees at DuPont, but she also teaches preschool and day care givers, school teachers and children, scout groups, nurses, doctors and dentists.

Christina offers a different type of summer school

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IT'S SUMMER BREAK from school, but some students in the Christina School District are still hitting the books.

About 600 students are participating in the Christina Academy, which is being held at Marshall and Bayard elementary schools and Glasgow High School.

The emphasis during this summer school is on gaining knowledge through hands-on experience and less on learning from books.

At Marshall, children in a class studying dinosaurs took a field trip to the Museum of Natural History. One class studying the ocean visited the Baltimore Inner Harbor.

The entrepreneurship class toured Christina Mall and Woodstown, N.J.'s Cowtown Flea Market to view how items for sale are displayed. They then held a market in the school hallways, selling popcorn, video games, cookies and jewelry.

At Bayard, children are creating their own games by researching topics such as butterflies or space, and making game boards with questions about the topic. Other students have learned about cooking and the basic food groups. These students made donuts, toured Pizza Hut — baking their own pizzas — and visited Hagley Museum to learn about 19th century life and growing food.

At the high school level, class topics include "Writing Up a Storm" where students hook up by computer to national weather centers, study maps, plot paths of storms and write about them. Other topics include "I Was There," where past history events such as the depression and World War II are studied. Students then visit local nursing home residents to learn first hand about the events.

The Baseball Curriculum applies statistics and graphing with field trips to Frawley Stadium, to measure the distance between bases, and Veteran's Stadium in Philadelphia to see a Phillies baseball game.

So how do field trips and hands-on-experiences such as cooking from recipes teach students reading, writing and math?

According to Minnie Hutchinson, a teacher in the academy, when students have to read recipe cards, calculate measurements and write about outcomes of their creations; they see direct application of traditional subjects.

The Christina School District, for the first time, is holding the academy to help tutor students in hopes of better performance on the New Directions assessment test. "With the advent of new types of testing, Christina District officials wanted programs that required more writing and problem solving skills," said Hugh Ferguson, a district representative.

During the academy, students meet from 8 a.m. to noon on Monday through Thursday. The district provides bus transportation.

Classes are a combination of grade levels and students are evaluated, with progress evaluations, not letter grades.

Although some students attend the Christina Academy on scholarships, most students pay $180 to attend the three-week session.

The new session begins on Monday and runs through Aug. 10.

■ For more information about the Christina Academy, call the Christina School District at 454-2000.

Dawson ends busy year as Newark Rotary president

THE CHANGING of the guard for the Rotary Club of Newark included a recap of the busy group's accomplishments during the past year.

Prior to the installation of 1994-95 officers, retiring president Frederick J. Dawson praised the 44 members of the Newark Rotary for their support of an aggressive community and world service program.

He noted that three club members — Robin Broomall, Ed Derby and Jim Streit — tallied perfect attendance at the weekly Rotary meetings at the Holiday Inn in Newark, site of the July 11 installation dinner.

Long-time Rotarian Fred Herald was praised for instituting the club's Community Service Award, the first of which was presented to veteran Aetna Hose, Hook & Ladder Company leader Jim Wood.

Incoming secretary Suzan Pini chaired the club's annual wine tasting party last fall, which netted sufficient funds to provide three full scholarships to Camp Fairlee Manor for deserving youngsters.

Dawson noted that, with little notice, Rotarian Frank Mayer "jumped in" and joined with the Governor Carper's wife to sponsor immunization programs locally. Worldwide, the Newark club continued their financial support of international immunization programs through contributions to the Rotary Foundation, the largest philanthropic organization in the world.

Dawson recalled that the club sent three local students — all expenses paid — to a World Affairs Seminar in Whitewater, Wisc., in addition to the award of $6,000 in local scholarships. Rotarians Josh

As club members applaud his service, long-time Newark Rotarian Stanley Einhorn proudly displays the "Book of Clocks" he received from outgoing Rotary president Frederick J. Dawson. For many years, Einhorn has chaired the Rotary committee that maintains and repairs the Rotary clock, an antique former bank clock that is situated on Main Street outside Machiavelli's restaurant. The clock was vandalized last year and Einhorn contributed many hours to repair the familiar downtown landmark.

Kalin, June Costin and Greg Warren were praised for their leadership.

During Dawson's term, vocational services director Myrle Bowe led the club on a tour of Chrysler's Newark Assembly Plant and saw that Rotary's "Four Way Test" was posted in Newark, Christina and Glasgow High schools.

Last year, the Newark club participated in a Group Study Exchange, hosting a Japanese student for an entire year and entertaining a visiting delegation from England. This month, the club is hosting a young woman from Germany for one month. Dawson praised Derby and sergeant-at-arms Marilyn Maurer for leading these projects.

Last Thanksgiving, Newark Rotarians, under the leadership of Dave McKeon, hosted a holiday dinner at a Newark school that brought 60 senior citizens and 150 first-graders to the same table. At Christmastime, the club hosted its traditional party for members of the Newark Senior Center.

Rotarians Jack Billingsley, Jack O'Leary, Ronald Collins, John Hentkowski and Derby were cited for their efforts to ship thousands of dollars and pounds of used dental equipment for use on the island of Angilla.

The club supported the local Exploring program, sponsored the Newark Easter Egg Hunt, and rang bells for the Salvation Army at the Christina Mall.

Dawson ended his summary by listing the interesting parade of speakers that addressed the Newark club last year, including Congressman Mike Castle, Outgoing president Fred Dawson, of Newark, is congratulated by Rotary District 7630 Governor Harold Reece, left, who praised Dawson's leadership of the Newark club from July 1, 1993 to June 30, 1994. Prior to the presentation, Dawson recapped a busy Rotary year and thanked the 44 members of the Newark club for their support.

University of Delaware president David Roselle and economist John Stapleford.

In addition to Dawson, outgoing officers included: Denis Dowse, vice president; Streit, secretary; Jim Davis, treasurer; Tony Piovoso, community service director; Bowe, vocational service director; Warren, international service director; Steve Crouse, club service; Maurer, sergeant-at-arms; and Broomall, editor of the club bulletin.

Dawson is a Newark-based financial planner. He is well-known for his writings in local and national financial journals and for his regular appearances on First State News and on the national CNBC network. He lives in Silverwood with his wife, Louise. Tonight, he will perform the National Anthem before the Blue Rocks game at Frawley Stadium.

People make the difference

NO DIFFERENT than any other edition, this week our newspaper contains a great deal of "people news." Your community newspaper is one of the last true forums where people doing good deeds can be recognized publicly. We know this is our niche in the marketplace; we direct our efforts each week to get as many names in print as possible.

But this week our pages contain some particularly noteworthy names. Some you know well; others are true unsung heroes.

A familiar face graces our front page. A story details the end of 10th District State Senator James P. Neal's career in public service. For nearly three decades, Sen. Neal has worked in and for our community. His desire for a fair housing law in Newark led to his election to the Newark City Council. Soon, he entered the Delaware House. Then, in 1980, he was elected to the State Senate.

He has served us well and we wish him, his wife of 32 years, Nancy, and his family well. While we will miss his devotion and experience, we are glad that he will have more time to spend with his family.

We have one request of the retiring senator: We hope that he'll continue to conduct his polls at Community Day and continue to supply the results to us for publication.

In this week's edition, we begin a new feature. Dubbed "Unsung Heroes," it is a regular presentation that reveals ordinary people in our midst who make a difference in our lives.

For several weeks, we have asked readers to name residents who deserve public recognition for their community service. Your suggestions were excellent.

This week, we invite you to meet four people who have stepped up the plate and hit a home run. One "unsung hero" began a food drive in his home that has now grown to involve hundreds of other volunteers. Another is a mother who spends countless hours "riding the ambulance" and teaching CPR. You also get to meet the "bubble man" and read about a coach our sports editor describes as extraordinary. We have about a dozen other profiles ready to be printed in future weeks; we welcome your suggestions for future honorees.

Again this week, this newspaper is happy to promote the accomplishments of volunteers and public servants, for these truly are people who make a difference.

Ages and looks can be deceiving

By ART SEDMONT, JR.
NEWARK POST STAFF

HOW OLD ARE YOU? No, you don't have to answer that question if you don't want to, especially if you're one of those who keeps that a secret between God and maybe themselves. For instance, my mother turned 25 this year...again. The funny thing is, she looks so much younger than she is, that she actually pulls the act off sometimes.

Now I know I've got some people interested in how she does this, huh? Well, unfortunately for most, it's not something that can be bought at the store and somehow be applied, swallowed, colored, injected, or peeled-off for that matter.

You see, my mother's youthfulness is mainly due to the natural fact that she originates from the Phillipine Islands, aided as well by the possession of a very humorous outlook on life.

Standing five-feet tall, which no one dares question, with her brown skin and flowing black hair, it's not hard mistaking her as far younger than she is. I distinctly remember one instance she recounted to me that occurred at the high-school where she teaches. She was stopped in the hall by some fairly new school official while classes were in session and slowly realized why this gentleman was reprimanding her. She was outside of class without a hall pass! After her laughter subsided for the most part, she was able to explain to the puzzle-faced man that she was in fact a teacher and not a student as he had mistaken her to be. He joined her in another round of laughter, after which she thanked him for making her year.

Of course, this was several years ago now, but it brings me closer to my topic, which is people's ages. More specifically, how some people you first meet throw you for a loop when he or she tells you their real age.

Take me for example. That's my picture smiling at you there; nice mug-shot, huh? If we were on opposite sides of a bar, would you pour me a cold one without first asking me to empty the contents of my wallet? Neither would most bartenders afraid of losing their license by serving baby-face me.

I'm not complaining, mind you, about looking younger than I am. It would just be nice for once to be given a little credit without having to ask for it, and I don't mean just in the bar/YES-I'm-of-age sense. What I'm talking about is being respected as an adult, albeit young, and accepted at face-value.

I realize respect is a hard-won aspect of growing up that comes with time as one learns from their trials and failures. We're all in training for life, as far as that goes. I know I'm ready, willing, and able

Intellectual, athletic: Life is good!

By MARVIN HUMMEL
NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

THE YOUNG MAN of 15 had had a good week. Having decided he would represent himself to the world as an intellectual with an athletic side, he had started a search for other "men" to play rugby with, and for intellectual books to read and plays to see.

The rugby team concept was going rather well—several "men" gave a tentative yes but wanted to know more about the sport—but they all liked the idea of wearing rugby shirts and playing a whistle-less game which would attract the most discerning of girls (replete with their blazers and tartan skirts) on those crisp fall afternoons. (Once he found some books on how to play rugby, the rest would take care of itself.)

On the intellectual side of his new creation of himself, he had been very lucky. (He wanted to call it karma or kismet, but wasn't quite sure enough of the words to venture beyond "luck.")

In the dentist's office, the soupy, goopy sound of Muzschlock was missing—the classics station, WFLN, was on, Dvorak's New World Symphony to be exact. The young man was forced to use a word he had been saving for a romantic milestone in some not too future year: "Magnificent!" All those instruments joining but always falling back, just missing the New World's shores, but never giving them up—almost as if the composer and the orchestra were saying to all who would hear: "Just to know there is a new world—just to search—just to tell someone else and know he hears—that IS the new world!"

They say each experience puts a wrinkle in our brain—if so, then Dvorak gave the kid a permanent double-fold, a crease, a wale, a furrow!

His intellectual moment was interrupted by the nasal whine of the receptionist: "I'm sorry about the Muzschlock bein' off! Some billin' foul-up! We're workin' on it, you can bet."

He had as much use for art work as most 15 year olds—none! But the next day when he was waiting to get his pre-school physical, he tried the waiting room's sport magazines: a headline on one of them: "Jim Thorpe may lose Olympic medals!" The most scantily clad women in the annual swimsuit issue had on stirrup pants and sweat-shirts. He reached in disgust for the big green book on the table—that medical sadist and his evil white gloves were just one thin door away—and the kid didn't even have a good magazine to keep him distracted!!!

The green book's title was "Great Paintings," and he was about to throw it back on the table when he remembered that paintings are considered intellectual, so he'd give it a shot! (He also may have heard of Gauguin's girls among the mangoes.) But by thumb luck, he opened the oversized volume to El Greco's "Storm Over Toledo." However arch and childish his reasons had been for opening the book, the reasons for not closing it were classic.

Fireman's carnival to open

St. Swithin's contribution to the "dry" situation lamented throughout the East, the centre of the present storm area, has in nowise dampened the ardor of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. in their early carnival planning.

Water and plenty of it constitutes their chief stock in trade and therefore plans for the week of August 2-9 are going swimmingly.

Six of the top department heads in Delaware will be with Governor Russell W. Peterson when he holds the Newark Town Meeting next Tuesday, July 29.

Anti-loitering arrests to be tested in court

Newark's revised anti-loitering law is to be tested in Alderman's Court in Newark on July 30. Two University of Delaware students were arrested last Monday by Newark Police who said the pair refused to move off a sidewalk after a previous warning.

Newark police officials say the police officer happened on a group of "five to seven" youths lounging on a University of Delaware wall near the Beehive Tobacco Store on Main Street Sunday afternoon.

if only given the chance with the right amount of guidance.

In just my first month in advertising at the Newark Post, I feel I've been given that chance along with some excellent mentors. This is in no way a plug of some sort, and I'm not talking cheese-whiz. So far, everything I've been told has held true: that I'm coming on at the best time ever to start in the newspaper business, and I'm learning from the best.

Thanks is all I can say, for the opportunity, and the chance to express myself in such a way. To those awaiting their own chance, I offer part of a lyric from the song entitled "Jack and Diane," "...changes come around real soon and make us women and men..."

Rugby, books and girl lead to quite a week

► HUMMEL, from 8A

The painting was about a Spanish city and a colossal storm breaking over its head. With brushes and paints, El Greco "drew" for the kid (and millions of others) what was happening inside El Greco through what was happening in the sky above Toledo 400 years ago.

The nurse claimed she had called his name a dozen times, and he heard her tell the doctor to check his hearing.

The piece de resistance or creme de la creme (he was never sure which was right) occurred after he walked in on the noisy end of a telephone fight between his brother, the Satyrday Knight and Bourbon dynasties researcher extraordinaire, and his ex-fiancee, Debby.

In spite of their breakup, Debby wanted him to go to a play with her because the long-reserved tickets cost so much and she didn't want to "just throw them away." The Satyrday Knight had answered that he didn't need to put up with her "intellectual bleep" any longer and suggested an alternative use for them.

The gutty kid got on the phone to Debby while the mouthpiece was still hot. Later that evening, a very sleek older woman (21 or 22) picked him up in a very sleek sports car and took him to see The Caucasian Chalk Circle. What he understood of it was great, and he would always associate Brecht with White Diamonds perfume.

He was not afraid of asking an older woman out on a real date, but he couldn't do that to his own brother! Noblesse oblige—was that the word? But he could ask Debby to a rugby game—or was it match—or scrum? He had to buy that book!

Faith City Church to broadcast Christian music

NANCY TURNER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

By June 28, there will be a new station on your FM radio dial, WXHL (FM 89.1). The call letters stand for "Experience His Love", and represent a milestone in Faith City Family Church's community ministry.

"We want to give people something better to listen to than filth," said the Rev. Steven Hare, a native Delawarean who has been the pastor of Faith City Family Church in Newark for ten years.

"About three years ago I had a vision to have an FM radio for the area that was predominantly a music station," said Hare. "I think this area is in lack of a station people can turn to for Christian music 24 hours each day."

The WXHL music will come from automated computer disks and the Morning Star Radio Network, via satellite. It will feature popular Christian hit radio musicians like Sandi Patti, Lamelle Harris, Steven Curtis Chapman, Amy Grant, Michael W. Smith, and Ricky Skaggs, to name a few.

The regular programming schedule will include small vignettes (mini-messages) from area pastors, public service announcements, and it will be an affiliate link with Standard News of the Christian Broadcasting Network (CBN). But overall, it will be defined by its music, music and more music.

"We want people to tune in. We'll get you 'up' and give you the good music without perverting your mind and your soul."

The new station will broadcast 1350 watts over a 35-mile radius. Installed with a price tag of slightly more than $100,000, WXHL joins the growing Faith City broadcasting network that already boasts a television studio and full Christian programming on UHF channel 14 (by home antenna only). The church has been trying to get their television on local cable, but without success thus far.

It is hoped that the daily costs of operating the station will be met by local businesses in exchange for advertisement and by individuals who respond to the station's bi-annual "Share-a-thons".

"I think that every church should have a vision that is beyond its walls and it should have a heart for the whole community," said Hare. "This station is not just to serve one congregation. It is a station for people... to offer an alternative with good today-sounding music without the filthy lyrics."

"I think much of radio today is negative and pornographic," he continued. "I think young people are being hurt by it. It is exciting to be able to offer them great sounding music... the good Lord never said that you had to put on a choir robe and play a pipe organ to do it."

"It's not the method that is sacred, it's the message."

A babbling old Parrot,

Airline travel: How to be a smart consumer

NEWARK OUTLOOK

FROM THE STAFF OF THE COOPERATIVE EXTENSION OFFICE AT UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

This week's author: Maria Pippidi

LOOKING TO SAVE MONEY ON AIRLINE TICKETS? Unfortunately, this is not an easy task because of changing fares and accompanying restrictions. There is often no way to predict whether fares will go up, down or remain unchanged.

For consumers who are not experts in economics and those who don't follow daily events in the ever-changing business of airline travel, here are a few tips for reducing airline travel costs from the non-profit National Center for Financial Education, a San Diego based consumer education group.

1. Advance purchases: Most airlines base their fares on 21, 14, 7 and 3 day advance purchases. Consumers are subject to fare increases until a ticket is purchased and penalties apply for changes after ticketing.

2. Staying over on Saturday night: Most of the lower-cost domestic airline fares and special advance purchases require a stay over in their destination city of at least one Saturday night with a maximum stay of 30 days.

3. Off-Peak hours: People who can travel after 8:30 p.m. (the actual cut off time varies with each carrier) with certain airlines can generate significant savings by taking the so-called "red-eye flights."

4. Companion Fares: Several, though not all, airlines make available companion fares of 2-for-1 fares or some reduced cost.

5. Promotional Fares: Some air carriers offer bulk coupon programs. Senior citizens annual travel passes can provide significant savings for those who travel two or more times per year. Substantial restrictions apply but the savings are well worth it.

6. Alternate Destinations:

Oftentimes travel to a city near your destination city can yield savings. This can be especially helpful in major metropolitan areas where there is a choice of airports. If your traveling to Washington, DC, Miami/Fort Lauderdale, New York, Chicago, Tampa/Orlando, greater Los Angeles and Houston, this may apply.

7. Vacation Packages: Most major airlines make vacation packages available which include airfare, ground transportation and hotels at destination sites. These package deals enable consumers to save travel dollars and enjoy vacations even more.

8. Weekday Travel: Traveling on weekdays (usually Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday) can reduce fares as much as ten percent.

Consider using a travel agent. At times, travel agent rates can be lower than those obtained directly from an airline. Most full service agencies maintain computer link-ups with airlines and can provide information on special discounts and deals available through package tour operators. Best of all travel agents don't cost extra but, rather, save time, money and aggravation.

Symphony Orchestra announces '94-95 series

The Delaware Symphony Orchestra has announced one of the most exciting series in its more than 60 years of making music and, as if that weren't enough, there is no price increase for the 1994-95 season!

Music Director Stephen Gunzenhauser, returning for his 16th season, is offering four kinds of programs to enjoy. They include the oldest of them all, the magnificent Classical Series, the intimate Chamber Series, a Pops Series and some special events.

"Variety and excitement are the key words to describe the 1994-95 season," Stephen said exuberantly. In addition to being excited, he is right!

Before I could get a word in, Stephen went on, "Internationally acclaimed guest artists like Nadja Salerno-Sonnenberg and Rachmaninoff master Dimitri Raster are part of this great season. The spectacle of 'Belshazzar's Feast' with the University of Delaware Choral Union, the Hotel du Pont all-Mozart series are included, and much more. This is a full palette of offerings one can't afford to miss."

Again, he is right.
Let's turn to the seven-offering Classical Series. Each concert will be performed three times, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m., in the Grand Opera House at 818 The Market Street Mall in Wilmington. The auditorium of the old house is a delight to the eye and its acoustics make the DSO's music a delight to the ear.

Nadja Salerno-Sonnenberg will join Stephen and the orchestra to open the season on September 29, 30 and October 1. She will perform the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto. Also on the program is Beethoven's Symphony No. 7, "The Dance Symphony," and a work by Argentine composer Astor Piazzola, "Tangazo," will open the evening.

On November 3, 4 and 5, guest conductor Frank Cramer will perform Bruckner's Symphony No. 3 as the featured work. He will be joined by Marie-Christine Delbeau for Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." There will be a world premiere in this set of concerts. It is Wilmingtonian William Cooper's "Dogwood."

Stephen will be back on the podium December 15, 16 and 17 to conduct Shostakovich's Symphony No. 6 and Rachmaninoff's "Symphonic Dances." Pamela Hickman will be the soloist in Gliere's Concerto for Coloratura Soprano. Nice Christmas present, eh?

The first program of the New Year will be at the Grand on January 12, 13 and 14. A winner of the Rostropovich Competition, German cellist Marie Kliegel, will be soloist for Dvorak's "Cello Concerto. Stephen will also lead the orchestra in Haydn's Symphony No. 94, "The Surprise." A major event those evenings will be the presentation of the annual Alfred I. du Pont Award for composition and an opportunity to hear a new work by the honored composer.

Guest conductor Henry Charles Smith will be on the DSO podium February 16, 17 and 18 to perform Brahms' Symphony No. 1 and Respighi's "The Birds." The orchestra's own Jay Hildenbrandt will join Mr. Smith and the orchestra for the featured work, Fossberg's Serenade for Euphonium.

On program number six, March 16, 17 and 18, the maestro will welcome bass-baritone Terry Cook and the University of Delaware Choral Union for a complete performance of Walton's "Belshazzar's Feast." The program will open with Holst's "The Planets."

The Classical Series will close with a program presented on April 20, 21 and 22. Russian pianist Dmitri Raster will join Stephen and the DSO for Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2. Also to be heard those evenings will be Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 4 and Mendelssohn's "The Hebrides Overture."

Once again this year, the Chamber Series will be offered in the Gold Ballroom of the Hotel du Pont. At intermission in the Ballroom Foyer, those fabulous Hotel du Pont desserts and champagne, all included in the price of your ticket. No wonder so many people like chamber music in Post Country!

The music of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart will reign supreme this year and what a perfect spot in which to hear it, the Gold Ballroom.

Pianist Julie Nishimura will join Stephen and the Delaware Symphony Chamber Orchestra for the first concert on October 11, at 8 p.m., which includes the Piano Concerto No. 12, K. 414; Adagio and Fugue in c minor, K. 546 and Divertimento No. 10, K. 247.

On November 29 our maestro will lead the Delaware Symphony Winds in the Serenade No. 12, K.

384a and the Serenade No. 10, K. 370a. March 7 will find the Delaware Symphony Strings in a program which includes "The Musical Joke" and some other surprises.

The fourth evening, May 2, will find Stephen and the Delaware Symphony Chamber Orchestra back with guest artist Cynthia Carr on horn.

There is a Pops Series and some special events as well. For a brochure with the entire season, ticket prices with special deals, etc., you may call the Delaware Symphony at 302-656-7374 or drop them a line at P. O. Box 1870, Wilmington, DE 19899.

American Seniors slip past National

By BRETT LOVELACE
SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

The loser's bracket in All-Star competition can either mark the end of a season for a team or another chance to forge toward a championship. Cross town rivals Newark National and Newark American both know the feeling of that situation.

The two teams duelled Saturday in the Senior District 2 loser's bracket semifinal at Stanton-Newport Little League complex as American pounded out 14 hits to defeat National 6-4.

"I don't really mind playing in the loser's bracket," said American assistant coach Ray Bedford. "There's no layoff you just keep going."

American made it's presence known in the bottom of the second inning when Joe Vignola (2-for-2, 3 rs) cracked a leadoff double and scored on John Hall's (3-for-3) single. American pitcher George Griebel cruised until the fifth behind strong defense from third baseman Mark Thomas, Shortstop Jason Bedford and first baseman Kevin Murphy.

Despite threatening throughout the early innings National was unable to cash in a run until Jordan Donovan singled home pinch runner Dave Peyton to

Canal girls winning again this summer

Majors win district championship

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

STANTON — The Canal Major League All-Star team dominated every phase of the game on its way to a 15th straight District II crown.

Canal ripped Suburban 19-0 Wednesday night at Stanton Junior High to complete a three-game sweep through the district, in which it outscored its opponents 58-8.

The District II champs advance to the best-of-three state championship series starting July 29 at Lewes against the District I (downstate) champion.

"We're just rolling along," said Canal Manager Bill Nefosky. "We're looking forward to the states; we know the downstate teams have really improved and we expect it to be a tough series."

Pitcher Allison Deboda gave up just two hits and struck out six to help lead Canal to the victory over Suburban. In 10 innings of work during the district tournament, Deboda gave up just four hits, struck out 12 and, most importantly, did not give up a run.

"It's been fun," Deboda said after the district title game. "We thought we'd be able to good. All Canal teams have always been real good."

The winners broke open a tight 1-0 game with eight third-inning runs. Deboda and Stacey Watson picked up hits in the inning that was otherwise dominated by walks and errors. Erica Richardson, Jessica Marley, Watson, Lisa Scanlon, Melissa Perez, Annie Nefosky, Deboda and Stephanie Rice all scored in the rally.

Canal put the game out of reach in the fourth inning with six more runs. Watson, Megan Richardson, Erica Richardson (two-run triple) and Kelly Stanwell all picked up hits in the inning. Both Richardsons, Marley, Watson,

Seniors in district title tilt

NEW CASTLE — The Canal Senior League All-Star softball team looked like a Canal Senior League All-Star team in Saturday's 21-2 romp over Suburban in the winners' bracket final of the District II Senior Softball Tournament at the New Castle Little League complex.

The win advances Canal to the district championship game Friday night at Newark American at 7 p.m. The winner of the losers' bracket final game between Suburban and Stanton-Newport will have to beat Canal twice.

After having an unusually close call in the opening round (a 5-3 win over Stanton-Newport), Canal got back on track as pitcher Kelly Baker scattered seven hits and kept the Suburban offense bottled up all game.

"I think we played a lot better," said Baker, a 14-year-old. "This was more like Canal."

The winners broke open an 8-2 game, scoring 13 runs over the last three innings.

"Any pitcher feels better when the team scores a lot of runs," Baker said. "That definitely made it easier."

Baker, whose complete game victory was her first as a Senior All-Star, helped lead the 1992 Canal Major All-Stars to the World Series with her pitching. Although she saw action as a member of last year's World Series Senior team, Baker was very happy to be back pitching in a big game for Canal.

"It's the first All-Star game I've pitched in since I was 12," she said. "I was really ready to play. I'm glad to be able help the team out."

Offensively, Canal banged out nine hits and took advantage of 16 bases on balls as nine different players scored runs.

Canal Major baseball team goes after first title

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

MILLCREEK — The Canal Major League Baseball All-Star team is on the verge of league history.

No 11-12 year-old baseball team from Canal has ever won a district championship, but with Monday night's 3-1 come-from-behind victory over Brandywine in the winner's bracket final of the District II Major Division Tournament, this team is just one victory away from becoming the first.

Trailing 1-0 — and without a hit — in the fourth inning of Monday's game at the Midway Little League complex, Canal scored three times to take the lead. Pitcher Nate Husser then kept Brandywine scoreless over the last two innings to secure Canal's victory.

"This was the first time we've had to come from behind," said Canal Manager John Hollenbach, whose team had cruised through the first three games of the tournament by a combined score of 38-4. "It's a great credit to the kids."

"And Nate just got stronger as the game went on. He had been sick for a few days, but really came on strong."

The winning rally started when, with one out, Husser beat out an infield hit. Matt Nichols followed by reaching on a walk. After Nichols and pinch-runner John Thompson advanced to second and third base on a wild pitch; Shawn McCarthy belted a two-run single up the middle and eventually scored on the play when Brandywine threw the ball away.

The win advances Canal to Saturday night's championship game, which will be held, ironically, at Canal at 7 p.m. The loser's bracket survivor — either Brandywine or Newark National — will have to beat Canal twice to win the district championship.

"It's definitely nice to be in this position," Hollenbach said. "But we haven't won anything yet."

Brandywine's lone run came in the third inning when Scott Henning singled home Daryl Holcomb.

Hollenbach credits his team's defense and pitching for much of its success.

Husser struck out six Brandywine batters while giving up just four hits. His performance marked the fourth straight in the tournament that Canal pitching has not

Swim league provides excitement

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The summer is well-known for its youth baseball and soccer events; but let's not leave swimming off the list of exciting events that area kids get a chance to participate in during the summer.

Swimming may not get the publicity of baseball or soccer, but if you want excitement and thrills, all you have to do is go to a Suburban Swim League meet.

From parents lining both sides of the pool to kids doing cheers to hot dogs and water ice, a swim meet is an event full of fun.

All age groups come together. The six-year-olds swim in the same meet as the 18-year-olds (in different races of course); the parents sell 50/50 tickets and other assorted fund raisers. Generally, the whole family is involved in these twice-weekly outings during the summer.

Many of the state's best high school swimmers get their starts in the Suburban Swim League.

The swimmers may be the hardest working athletes of all. There's early morning practices and after school practices during the high school season and, for the swimmer who wants to stay on top, workouts the rest of the year as well.

POST GAME

All this is done in the relative anonymity of sports such as basketball, baseball and football.

That, however, shouldn't diminish the accomplishments or the fun that these athletes and their families have.

The Suburban Swim League wraps up this weekend with its championships Saturday at the Skyline Swim Club's pool.

It should be a great time for many of the county's best swimmers.

Local All-Star update

With so many games being played, it sometimes is hard to keep track of all the local teams. Here's my best shot of updating the teams still alive.

The Canal Major (11-12 year-olds) baseball team is in the district championship Saturday night at 7 at Canal. The Canal Junior (13-year-olds) played in the district title game Thursday night against Midway at Frawley Stadium.

The Newark American Senior League All-Star team also advanced to

Word leads Newark National Majors past Stanton-Newport

By JOHN HOLOWKA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

STANTON — Dubin Word is the word these days.

Word crushed three home runs and a double for seven RBIs and helped Newark National eliminated Stanton-Newport 15-0 Saturday in an 11-12 Major League losers bracket game at Crosley Field called after five innings.

The win, coupled with Monday's win over Suburban advanced National to the loser's bracket final Thursday against Brandywine.

"We have always hit the ball pretty well," said Newark Manager Dick Vitek. "We don't usually hit that many home runs, but the ball was really jumping out of here (Saturday). We're also used to a field that's about six feet longer, so some of those were warning track balls on our field."

Newark jumped on Stanton starter Chris Hornberger for seven runs and six runs in two innings as the All-Stars sent eight men to the plate in the first and seven in the second.

In the first, Robby Hines led off with a base hit, Keith Shuck doubled and then Word hit his first homer, a 210-foot shot to center field. Bo Hollyday's walk and Jerry Denney's RBI-single gave Newark a 4-0 lead.

Hines, who scored three runs, walked to start the second, went to second on a walk to Shuck and scored on a wild pitch. Word doubled home Shuck for a 6-0 advantage.

Newark starter Jim Ashton went four innings, gave up one hit and struck out five. He was relieved in the fifth by Hines, who finished the game.

The All-Stars scored four runs in the fifth courtesy of back-to-back homers, Word's two-run shot to right-center and Hollyday's solo shot to centerfield, and Clay Carroll came in on two wild pitches and a throwing error.

In the fifth, Newark scored six more times. Hines walked to lead off the inning and came home on Shuck's RBI-fielder's choice and Word's third home run to right field staked Newark to a 12-0 margin. Ashton knocked in Hollyday, who walked and then scored on an outfielder error. James Vitek, in to pinch-run for Denney, scored on Dave Maloney's RBI-single to conclude Newark's scoring binge.

"I don't think we were ready to play our first game (a loss)," said Manager Vitek. "We've

Blue tops Gold in All-Star clash

It was your classic David versus Goliath matchup. The Gold League stars rely mainly on defense and timely hitting, and for our purposes, represent David. The Blue, on the other hand, is most definitely Goliath in our scenario.

The Blue had composed a lineup that even "Murderers' Row" would have been proud of. They boasted stars that don't hit home runs, they destroy softballs. On paper, it looked to be a pitcher's nightmare.

In pre-game batting practice, it looked as though Gold pitchers Ken Scott and Joe Krawczyk would have to experience that nightmare first-hand as the Blue belted softballs with authority.

Even those who have been around the game for years seemed to be impressed with the quality of this bunch of players. Blue first-baseman Butch Simpson, one of the elder statesman of softball in Newark was impressed, "I feel humbled by these guys."

No matter how much talent the their opponents had, one could not convince the Gold to roll over and die. They play a good brand of softball too, and sometimes pride can be your biggest asset.

In game one, the Blue drew first blood. D.J. Maderis singled and Dave Michalowski doubled to set up first and third for Paul Hale who's sacrifice fly scored Maderis for the game's first run.

In the first, the Blue scored 3 runs on four hits. More importantly, the Gold was able to avoid the longball. They answered with a run of their own in the bottom of the inning as they capitalized on two Blue miscues.

In the fourth inning with two outs, Gold outfielder John Friel misplayed a flyball and the Blue was in business. With the bases full, outfielder Jira Brown stroked a two-run single and that would be all the Blue would need.

The Blue held on for a 6-2 victory despite the power outage from the league's top longball hitters. The Gold supplied the balls for game one and no one could accuse them of being "juiced."

"We should have used new balls," said one of the Bonk Twins. Of course Gold manager Jack Slack was aware that new balls would mean more homers so maybe he made the managerial move of the day by selecting a type of ball which would give his team an advantage. Good thinking Jack!

Ironically, the Gold out hit the Blue stars 9-7. Game one fell a little short of the offensive explosion that was anticipated. "They didn't hit well," said Slack, "and we hit even worse."

Brown was the Blue's star going 2 for 3 with 3 rbi's. For the Gold, Friel (2-3, 1 rbi) and Gary Neall (2 hits) were the hitting standouts.

On the defensive side, Pat Bonk came up with a nice diving catch for the Blue and John Hermes of the Gold displayed possibly the best arm in the league as he nailed Mark Wilkinson attempting to tag at first base.

In game two, much to the surprise of many, the Blue squad once again went homerless.

After the Gold was retired in order, the Blue went to work manufacturing runs. Mike "Sparky" Clarke got things started as he "crushed" a swinging bunt single. Brett Nichols and Scott Murray followed with singles to load the bases. The Blue then got back to back sacrifice flies from Ernie Hopkins and Brian Marini before Steve Hess' two-run double capped a five run first inning.

In the top of the sixth with the score 7-3 the Gold bats came alive. Dave Dickerson singled and then Bill Gatter plated him one batter later. Cleanup hitter Rich Burris connected on his second double of the game and the Gold had runners at second and third with two outs for Mike Hadley. Hadley slammed a double to bring the Gold to within one run at 7-6.

In the sixth, the Blue tacked on two more runs to seal the win on the strength of a Steve Germani double and a Steve Grundy triple. The final score was 9-7 in favor of the Blue but you got the sense that the Gold had scored a moral victory.

For the Gold, Scott Gee (2-3), Burris (2-2, 2 rbi's) and Hadley (2-3, 2 rbi's) provided the offense. For the Blue, Hopkins, Hess and Jim "Bucky" Buchanan each had two runs batted in.

So for another year, the Blue League can boast of their superiority as a division but they shouldn't get to comfortable because the play-offs are almost here and anything is possible. One gets the sense that Gold teams just relish the role of being the underdog.

Wizards win home finale

Sellers gets goal in second OT

The Delaware Wizards defeated the Connecticut Wolves 1-0 last Friday night in the team's regular-season finale at Glasgow High.

With less than a minute gone in the first half, forward Jon Sturmfels took a 20-yard shot past Wolves Goalkeeper John Voight that bounced off the crossbar.

That would be a sign of things to come as the Wizards outshot the Wolves 13-3.

It wasn't, however, until the second overtime period when forward Joh Sellers headed a cross past Voight that the Delaware was able to score.

Sellers goal was all that was needed as Wizards' goalkeeper David Whitcraft earned the shutout and win.

The offensive Most Valuable Player in the game was Chris Morgan while Whitcraft took the defensive honors.

The Wizards final two regular season games will be Friday at Cape Cod and Saturday against the Boston Storm.

Canal Big League girls win division

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

GLASGOW — The Canal Big League softball team continued its winning ways, sweeping a double-header from Stanton-Newport Sunday evening to lock up the division championship.

Canal ripped Stanton-Newport 8-0 and 19-3 to improve its record to 6-0 and clinch the league championship.

"The girls have done a great job," said Canal Manager John Capuano. "What we tried to do was get as many players back from the 1988 Major League All-Star team as we could. We didn't get everybody but we do have some good players."

Kati Salony pitched a shutout to lead Canal in the first game while a 15-hit attack and strong pitching from Alaina Burgess were keys to the second game.

Canal broke open the second game, which it led 4-1 after three innings, with six runs in the fourth inning. Megan Hart, Salony, Laurie Brosnahan, Kim Bonvetti, Tammy Hylenski and Megan Capuano all had hits in the inning.

Eight more runs in the seventh inning provided the final margin of victory.

Jen Olson blasted a two-run double to lead the last-inning barrage that saw Brosnahan, Amy Blouse, Olsen, Megan Capuano, Christine Reno, Burgess, Nichole Capuano and Salony all get hits and score.

"We hit the ball well," Capuano said. "This is a pretty good team."

Next up for some of the team members will be the Big League state championship. The team will be a District II All-Star team comprised of Canal and Stanton-Newport players and will play the District I team in a best-of-three series starting July 29-30.

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

The Canal All-Stars won their third straight game in the District II double-elimination tournament with a convincing 18-2 victory over Suburban on Friday night in a 11-12 Little League winners bracket game at Clark Field.

"It's been a total team effort," said first-year Canal All-Star Manager John Hollenbach, who substituted freely after an 11-run second inning. "We were able to clear the bench and get subs in and they hit well. It's really a coach's delight. We have 14 players on the roster and the ones that aren't starting are close to being starters."

Canal batted around in the pivotal second inning and came up with 11 runs on six hits and a pair of walks.

Winning pitcher Brock Donovan's grand slam with one out made it 6-0 and scored Kevin Maloney, who was safe on a fielder's choice and Tim Vaillancourt and Devon Wiley, who each walked.

In the inning, Jimmy Needles had two base hits and two RBIs, Matt Nichols clouted a run-scoring double, while Matt Folke, Nate Husser, Shawn McCarthy, Vaillancourt and Maloney all singled for Canal.

Donovan, who homered in his third straight game, became the third Canal pitcher to notch a post-season victory, going six innings and surrendering two runs, four hits and striking out seven batters.

"Donovan has been hot lately, but then all the kids have been; it's always a team effort," said Hollenbach. "McCarthy's been hitting and Husser's always hitting. In the tournament he had six singles in 10 at-bats."

Canal put four more runs across in the fourth following a single by Needles, two walks, Maloney's RBI-double and Husser's single.

John Thompson walked home with the third run and Chris Lloyd singled in a run coming off the bench.

"We're lucky we can afford to substitute," Hollenbach said. "In fact, some of the subs are better hitters so we have to decide on hitting or defense. That always makes it difficult for me."

In the fifth, singles by Maloney and Husser and a sacrifice fly by Donovan closed the scoring for Canal.

"It's hard to know what the competition is like," said Hollenbach, looking forward in the tournament. "The first thing I told the team was to put these (first three victories) behind them and concentrate on one inning at a time, one game at a time. Things will fall into place then."

"I knew a lot of the players from the first year I coached. But I think the key our success this year is surrounding myself with good coaches and two or three other volunteers who are helping us out in practice."

tie the score 1-1 in the fifth. "We had trouble getting runs across because everytime runners were out there they would make a good play and shut us down," said National manager Pete Zarzycki.

Donovan spelled National starter Bobby Trzonkowski in the fifth who pitched the night before against Claymont but was touched for two runs on a throwing error by first baseman Paul Oakes. "Errors will hurt any team," said manager Zarzycki. "But I will never condemn a player for trying."

National answered back in the sixth when Trzonkowski and Chris Adams scored to tie the game 3-3.

American rallied in the bottom half for three runs. Bedford opened the attack with a double to left. Thomas followed with a triple scoring on an over throw to third. Murphy delivered the sixth run with a single to score Vignola.

"We really knocked the ball around today," said American manager John Hall. "When you keep the ball in play you're gonna score runs."

American closer Mike Duncan relieved Griebel in the seventh. National attempted a short lived rally when Oakes plated Andrew Allen to shake the deficit 6-4. But Duncan toughened to stymie Adams with the final out.

"This was the best team I ever had the pleasure of coaching," said Zarzycki. "American is a good team and I'm sure they will play strong throughout the rest of the tournament."

The loss eliminated National from the tournament and American will face Brandywine in the loser's bracket final Monday.

Senior girls advance to title game

► SENIORS, from 1B

"It was a good game for us," said Canal Manager Ralph Sassaman. "All 14 girls played and all 14 contributed. We got over the first-game jitters we had against Stanton-Newport and played a solid game."

Canal got off to a good start, scoring four runs in the first inning without getting a hit. The first four batters — Kristin Nau, Jamie Sassaman, Jodi Mandichak and Adrienne Maloney — all walked and came around to score.

The defending state champs scored another run in the second as Sassaman —who scored four times in the game — was hit by a pitch and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

Three more runs in the fourth inning on RBI singles by Mandichak and Lisa Delcollo improved the Canal lead to 8-2.

Any thoughts of another close game went out the window in the fifth inning as Canal exploded for six more runs. Amanda Cariello had a run-scoring double while Maloney added an RBI single. Nau, Sassaman, Mandichak, Maloney Delcollo and Baker all scored in the inning.

"This was a much better game," said Brenda Marley, who has been the starting catcher on three previous World Series teams.

Canal scored two more runs in the sixth inning as Brandi Redrow singled and scored on Maloney's hit. Baker also scored after walking.

Five more runs in the seventh provided the final margin of victory.

Newark National nips Naamans 5-4

NEW CASTLE — The Newark National Major League All-Star team kept their district title with a 5-4 victory over Naamans Wednesday night at the New Castle Little League complex.

Dubin Word belted a three-run home run (his sixth of the tournament) in the second inning to give National a lead it would never surrender. Keith Shuck blasted a two-run homer in the first inning as homers accounted for all of Newark's scoring.

Robbie Hines pitched a complete game with seven strikeouts to earn the win on the mound.

The win advanced Newark National to a loser's bracket final meeting with Brandywine — a team it lost to in the opening round.

The winner of the Newark National-Brandywine game will play Canal Saturday night at 7 p.m. at Canal.

never dropped to the losers bracket before, but with one more loss to go (until elimination), I tell the team up front if we lose we get on the bus and go home.

"The teams get tougher near the end of the tournament.

Newark cracked 10 hits of three Stanton pitchers, took advantage of seven walks and numerous wild pitches and fielding errors. The All-Stars stranded seven runners on base.

Stanton had a chance to score in the second, but a play at the plate tagged the runner out for the final out. In the fourth, Stanton had men on second and third with one out, but a line drive snagged by short-stop Shuck and a strikeout stymied the threat.

NEWARK BABE RUTH'S 13-YEAR-OLD ALL-STAR TEAM

Members of the District II championship team include: Erica Richardson, Megan Richardson, Kelly Stanwell, Erin McGlynn, Jessica Marley, Jennifer Hetland, yielded more than two runs.

Another factor in the team's success is that the players, through playing together, are very familiar with each other. Six members of this year's Canal team played together successfully as Delaware Diamonds in a 10 year-old national tournament in Iowa.

"We really have a good bunch," Hollenbach said. "They have a great attitude. They push [the coaches]. They always want to keep going."

If the team keeps playing like it is, the players could be going a long way.

Good luck to all the local squads.

Canal nine year-old All-Stars rally for 9-8 victory

The Canal nine-year-old All-Star team defeated Naamans 9-8 Saturday to win its opening game of District II nine-year-old tournament.

Trailing 5-0, Canal rallied for the victory behind winning pitcher Bubba Sassaman. Sassaman also added a single and three runs-batted-in to the cause.

Daniel Richardson and Chris Stoddard added two hits each while Marcus Alexander and Joshua MacDonald contributed a hit apiece. MacDonald also scored the winning run.

Tuesday night Canal romped past Midway 18-3.

Richardson was the winning pitcher, giving up just one hit while striking out nine batters.

Offensively, Matt Smith led the Canal charge with a double, triple and five runs-batted-in. MacDonald added two hits and four RBIs; Sassaman had two hits and three RBIs while Nick Poore each chipped in two hits as well.

Canal will play Saturday afternoon at 1 at Claymont's Dyer Field against Brandywine.

Newark National nine year-olds romp to win over Suburban

 -Look for quality fabric and good construction in clothing.
 -Choose clothes with simple trim that is of good quality and requires the same care as the rest of garment.
 -Before buying a garment, check fabric labels and care instructions. Is it wash-and-wear? Can it be dried in the dryer? Avoid clothing that requires special care such as dry cleaning.
 -Read and follow care instructions to make clothes last longer.
 -Dress up or modify an outfit you already own. Accessories can add a new look to last year's wardrobe for a minimal cost.
 -Store clothes properly to protect from sun, moths, mildew and stretching.
