TOWN TAXES RISE AS BIG SEWERAGE PROJECT FAILS

Mrs. Heim Chosen Federation V.-P.

Newark Woman Elected To High Post Last Week; Annual Convention Of Club Women Highly Successful

The twenty-ninth annual meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs came to a close here last Saturday noon after a most interesting session. The convention delegates were well taken care of at Residence Hall, Women's College, and all meetings were held in Wolf Hall. Mrs. William H. Evans, first vice-president of the Federation and state chairman of program, had arranged for speakers and music and everything went off as scheduled. Dean Robinson, Mrs. Cobb, president of the Newark New Century Club, Mrs. Heim, retiring president, and Mrs. Hullen looked after the comfort of the guests. Miss Elsie Wright and Mrs. William Holton decorated Wolf Hall beautifully with flowers and club colors.

Mrs. Clarence Fraim, of Wilmington, president of the Federation, presided at the meetings. Dean Robinson and Mrs. Cobb gave the greetings for the College and the Newark Club. Mrs. A. D. Warner responded for the Federation. Mrs. Fraim's resume of the work of the clubs during the year showed much good work done in the interests of health, citizenship, conservation, and art.

The principal address on Thursday was given by H. W. Wheeler, of the United States Forestry Service. The lecture was illustrated and was much enjoyed. The Treble Clef, a musical organization of the Washington Heights Century Club, Wilmington, and Mrs. Leroy Work, gave a musical program Thursday evening. Governor Robinson brought greetings from the State. The address of the evening was given by Mrs. Edward F. White, first vice-president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Her subject was, "What 3,000,000 Women Think of Law Enforcement."

Friday morning was given over to business and an address by Mrs. Walter McNabb Miller, on "Public Welfare." Two addresses featured the afternoon, the first by Miss Lillian Schoedler, executive secretary of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, who discussed "Girls' Athletics, Safety First." Dr. Claude Benner, of the University of Delaware Faculty, spoke on "Democracy and Education."

Friday evening, the Newark New Century Club entertained the delegates at a reception at the Club House. Mrs. Walter Layfield had decorated the rooms most beautifully. Mrs. George Rhodes, club hostess, with her committee, had planned a delightful affair. In the receiving line were: Mrs. Fraim, Mrs. Warner, Dean Robinson, Mrs. Heim, Mrs. Cobb, Mrs. George Rhodes, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Neale, Mrs. W. H. Evans, Mrs. Sudler, Mrs. Boyer, Mrs. Proud, Mrs. Dayett, Mrs. Frank Couch, Mrs. Houghton and Mrs. Pilling.

Mrs. A. D. Warner presented a large birthday cake, glorified with twenty-nine candles. The cake was cut and eaten by the guests.

The closing session on Saturday morning, was a business meeting, at which the following officers were elected to serve for two years: President, Mrs. John B. McCabe, of Rehoboth first vice-president, Mrs. R. W. Heim, of Newark; second vice-president, Mrs. L. B. Harrington, of Harrington; third vice-president, Mrs. Arthur Brewington, of Delmar; recording secretary, Miss Mary W. Mullen, of Claymont; treasurer, Mrs. E. C. Sudler, of Georgetown; auditor, Mrs. Hervey P. Hall, of Smyrna.

OLD HOME REOPENED

Mr. and Mrs. McAvoy Among Summer Residents Here

"Maplehurst," the Lafferty summer home, south of town, will be reopened tomorrow, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ford and family, Mr. Charles Lafferty and Mr. and Mrs. William McAvoy will return for the summer.

Mrs. McAvoy met with a very painful accident about three weeks ago, when she fell while going up stairs and crushed some of the bones in one of her hands. She is still suffering considerably.

Churches To Carry On Union Services During Summer School; Town Pleased

Conference Of Pastors This Week Paves Way For Renewal Of Popular Summer School Feature In Which Community Joins

A series of Sunday evening religious services, to continue through the Summer School session here, a feature in recent years, is assured the community again this summer.

A conference of pastors held yesterday afternoon led to their decision to conduct union community services in the Presbyterian Church each Sunday evening during the next six weeks. The action was taken in response, it is believed, to the expression of disappointment registered on every side at the curtailment of the entertainment and religious program in the Summer School proper. The pastors who attended the conference and arranged the series are Rev. H. Everett Hall, Rev. R. B. Mathews and Rev. Frank Herson.

The pastors will alternate in the pulpit at the services. Choirs of the three churches, it is announced, will be combined for these services, and a splendid musical program is planned for each Sunday evening. The first service will be held next Sunday.

A cordial invitation is extended to the townspeople, faculty and students in the Summer School to attend.

$2200 Pledged For Newark Ambulance

CHAIRMAN J. R. FULTON of the Newark Ambulance Drive today reported the sum of $2200 received in pledges from individuals and firms in the community. $1200 in cash is already in the treasury.

The success of the drive, Mr. Fulton said, assures the purchase of a machine within the next ten days. Delivery will be made forty to fifty days after the order has been placed. No decision has as yet been reached as to the make to be selected.

$3300 will be the total needed for the mercy car and confidence is expressed by the committee that the goal will be reached.

Speeding Train Kills 40-Year R. R. Veteran

John J. Foote's Body Found On Tracks Near Stanton Pumping Station Sunday Morning

Although he had trod the same path from his work each morning for forty years, John J. Foote, pumping engineer at the B. & O. water station near Stanton, made a misstep early Sunday morning, walked out from behind a freight onto the north bound track, was struck almost instantly by a speeding express, and died from his injuries a few hours later. He was 71 years of age.

Mr. Foote, one of the veterans of the B. & O. service, had been working the night shift for exactly two score years. Leaving his post, it was his habit to step across the tracks and down to the roadway along which he proceeded to his home at Stanton. According to reports, trackmen found his body presumably one hour after he had been struck. He was lying in the ditch along the track and still alive.

Special Engine Used.

Hopeful of a chance to save his life employees placed a light engine in service, took the injured man aboard and rushed him to the Delaware Avenue Station in Wilmington, from which point an ambulance whisked him to the Delaware Hospital. Physicians, however, pronounced him dead.

His widow, when informed of the tragedy a few hours later, became hysterical and has been under the care of a physician. The dead man leaves also one brother.

Always active in the performance of his duties, and known to nearly every resident of the community, Mr. Foote's sudden death came as a great shock to Stanton. For many years past, he had been sexton at St. James Church.

Funeral services were in charge of the Stanton Lodge of Odd Fellows, of which the deceased was a member, and were held this afternoon from his late residence.

SYMPHERD LONE WINNER

Newark Contingent Fall In Wilmington Invitation Tourney

Of the six or eight Newark golfers who attacked the difficult Wilmington Country Club course during that organization's annual invitation tournament last week, one managed to go through the finals and beat out the field. He is Dr. W. O. Sypherd, who won the prize in the fifth sixteen. H. A. Turner, Jr., won his way to the finals in the third sixteen, but was beaten out in a close match. Dr. Sypherd's match with George N. Davis went to 19 holes before the winner was declared.

Among other Newark golfers noted as entrants in the tourney were Robert Seasholtz, Prof. C. O. Houghton, F. C. Houghton, George E. Dutton, Ernest B. Wright, J. P. Armstrong.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BAKE

A bake will be held in the Opera House building, by Mrs. J. L. Cage's class of the M. E. Sunday School, June 29, at 10 a. m., daylight saving time.

Summer School Program Fixed

Series Of Lectures Includes Prominent National Figures; Classes Started Monday

Attendance Drops In Summer School

SUMMER SCHOOL this year has not drawn as many students as it has in the past two years. On Monday there were between 270 and 280 students registered. A total enrollment of 300 is expected before the week is out. Last year there were around 400. This falling off is explained by the fact that most of the teachers in the public schools who held provisional certificates have completed their required work in Summer School during the past two years.

The unusually large enrollment at the University of Delaware Summer School this year promises a very successful session. The teachers who are in attendance are looking forward with interest to the lecture and entertainment course to be given under the auspices of the Service Citizens of Delaware.

Although there will be no Sunday evening services this year, the weekly program is interesting and varied, including lectures, music and drama. The public is cordially invited to attend all entertainments, which will be given in Wolf Hall, University of Delaware, at 7:30 Standard Time.

A brief summary of the program follows:

July 1—Aircastle Players in "You and I," by Philip Barry.
July 8—Lecture: "What Do You Know About That?" by Briton Hadden, Editor "Time."

July 22—Lecture: "A Book of American Humorous Verse," by T. A. Daly, of Philadelphia.

July 29—Concert by John A. Thoms, Jr., Harry L. Stausbach, of Wilmington, and Bertrand A. Austin, of Philadelphia.

In addition the students and faculty of the Summer School have been invited to visit Longwood during the season, where a special musical program will be given and supper served.

If you wish additional announcement folders, please notify Miss Mary G. Hunter, 4116 duPont Building, Wilmington; telephone 6105.

MRS. JANE A. CHALMERS

Following a paralytic stroke suffered last Wednesday, Mrs. Jane Ann Chalmers, wife of George Chalmers of near Roseville, passed away at her home last Sunday morning. She was fifty years old.

Mrs. Chalmers, a native of Scotland, had been living in this community for the past twenty-seven years. Known by scores of people as "Aunt Jane," she embodied a kindly temperament and attractive personality that endeared her to all. She had an active and useful life and her passing will be sadly missed by her many friends here.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from her late residence and were in charge of the Rev. Mr. Irvine, pastor of White Clay Creek Church. Interment was made in that church yard.

Mrs. Chalmers is survived by her husband, one daughter, Jane; a sister, Mrs. William Snedden, Toronto; and one brother, William Morrison, of Kely, Scotland.

REAL ESTATE BOOM

Orchard Ridge Section Active In Latest Uprising

A boom in real estate in the Orchard Ridge section is on with several options on lots being held. Professor T. A. Baker has purchased a building lot south of, and adjoining that owned by F. A. Wheelless.

James D. Davis, real estate officer of the Newark Trust Company, is building a new house on the lot between those owned by Mr. Wheelless and Major Underwood. J. C. Willis is the contractor. The house will be of stucco and shingle construction, modern Dutch Colonial type, and will be ready for occupancy October first.

FIBRE SALESMEN HERE

Twenty salesmen of the Continental Fibre Company from New York, Chicago, Boston, Hartford, Detroit, Buffalo, San Francisco, and Seattle have been in convention here Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week. The men are being entertained in the homes of the members of the firm here. Daily conferences at the home office are a part of the program. Headquarters for the group are established at the Deer Park Hotel.

ELECTED TO BOARD

At the convention of the Delaware Pharmaceutical Society which met at Rehoboth last week, Dr. George W. Rhodes of this town was elected one of the members of the Board of Directors.

$175,000 Booze Cache Uncovered

Officers Stumble On Hiding Place Near Christiana; Tenant Denies Possession Of Liquors

State and Federal officers yesterday afternoon completed the biggest liquor raid the State has seen since the advent of the Volstead act, when $175,000 worth of rye whiskey and alcohol were confiscated from a farm between Stanton and Christiana, formerly the old Simmons place, now tenanted by James Callahan, a cripple, together with his sister. Callahan was arrested and held under $1500 bail for a hearing before Magistrate Tinsman, of Richardson Park. The liquor, three truckloads of it, was hauled to Wilmington and locked in cells in the County Building.

The haul, which included pre-Volstead rye whiskey and alcohol, is, according to Federal agents, valued at $175,000 bootleg price. The lot, which required three trucks to haul from the place, consisted of 54 barrels of rye whiskey, several barrels of grain alcohol and 101 five-gallon cans of alcohol, 75 empty barrels and about 300 empty cans were also found on the premises. Callahan was arrested by State Detective Messick on a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

Tenant Denies Knowledge

Callahan denied the ownership of the liquor and informed the officers that he did not know who owned it and did not know it was liquor. The farm is said to have been leased by a man named Frank Kelleher, of Philadelphia. The police are making an effort to locate the man.

Police and State officers, as well as the Federal men, were astounded when they visited the farm as it had the appearance of a regular liquor warehouse and bottling establishment. Labels of various popular brands of whiskey, complete bottling apparatus, coloring matter and a large supply of bottles of various shapes and sizes were found which showed signs of having been in use for some time. According to Callahan he had been employed as a caretaker for three years.

Stumble On Evidence

Good fortune played directly into the hands of the law prior to the raid. As far as can be learned no official notice of the presence of the liquor had been given until Magistrate Tinsman, accompanied by a constable, went to the place Monday to serve an attachment on Paul Barbasm who is said to have lived there. While looking around the place, Tinsman found several barrels of whiskey and cans of alcohol in the barn. He immediately notified the Federal prohibition officers in Wilmington, and the raid was on.

AGAIN HONORED

Mrs. Mary B. Donnell of this town was re-elected president of the New Castle County W. C. T. U. at the forty-sixth annual convention held last Tuesday in the M. E. Church, at Blackbird.

GOES TO HOSPITAL

George L. Townsend went to Baltimore yesterday morning, where he will enter the Johns Hopkins Hospital for observation and treatment. Dr. Pearson accompanied Mr. Townsend.

Must Make New Enlargements Council Says

$15,000 Necessary To Put Disposal Plant In Better Condition; Ten Per Cent Per Hundred Is Added To Taxes

Announcement was made yesterday from Council offices of an increase of ten cents per hundred dollars property tax and a boost of ten cents on capitation tax for Newark to become effective on the next tax bills.

The added ten per cent has been authorized by Council following the failure of their $100,000 sewer project in the western section of the community. Faced by the immediate necessity of enlarging and improving the disposal plant, funds for which were expected from the new sewer assessments, Council looks upon this method as the only way in which the improvements can be made in a temporary manner.

According to the new scale, as announced, the long standing property tax of $1.00 per $100 will now be $1.10, and the capitation tax of $1.00 will go up to $1.10.

Seek Permanent Way

The Post has been informed that about $1300 will be realized the first year from the 10 cent increment, enough, it is said, to complete temporary repairs. Total cost of work at the disposal plant has been estimated, Councilmen aver, at $15,000. Within a few months, they say, ways and means will be evolved to meet the burden through other sources than from the taxpayers here. Rumor has it that an appropriation will be asked from the next Legislature, but this could not be confirmed.

Lack of sufficient signers to the new proposed sewer in the Depot Road and Orchard Ridge sections was a distinct blow to the plans of Council for safeguarding the water supply and providing one whole section of the community with adequate sanitation. Three quarters of the frontage in the plans were required to be signed up to insure the sewer, it is said. Frontage so released totaled little over one-half. Several circumstances combined to militate against the project. The petition, in general, met with little or no interest in many homes.

It has been generally known that all was not going well with the sewer plan, and that something would have to be done shortly to cope with the problem at the disposal plant.

Two Faculty Members Accept Other Positions

Dr. Bevan and Prof. Saleski Go To Important Posts In South

Dr. Bevan, formerly of the History Department of the University of Delaware, has resigned his position here to accept a position of Professor of Systematic Theology in the Theological School of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee. This is Dr. Bevan's third appointment as a member of the faculty at Sewanee.

His first two positions there were in the Department of History. Then he became editor of the Churchman and severed his university connections. Later he again took up teaching and went to an Ohio college. From there he came to Delaware.

Sewanee is the University from which Dr. Hullen, president of the University of Delaware, came. Dr. Hullen was instrumental in getting Dr. Bevan back to Sewanee the second time, and of later securing him at Delaware.

Professor Saleski has resigned his position as a member of the Modern Languages Department of the University of Delaware to accept a position as head of the Department of German at Bethany College, West Virginia. Professor Saleski was offered a large increase in salary and will take up his work at Bethany College this fall. Bethany is located about sixteen miles from Wheeling.

Rose Twirls No-Hit Game For Local Team; Newark Pressing For Lead In Pennant Race

Former High School Star Sets Bay View Club Down In Tight Battle Saturday; Chalmers Scores Homer

The first no-hit, no-run game of the current season in this section was registered Saturday last when "Reggie" Rose, star High School twirler of a year or so back, landed himself in the mythical hall of fame at the expense of the Bay View entrants in the Cecil County League. Newark won the battle, naturally, 5-0.

Only two bases on balls were given by Rose. He struck out nine enemy batters, got one hit, and accepted 13 chances in the field, completing one of the busiest days a pitcher has ever had here in recent years. His feat was acclaimed by his teammates, who greatly aided in supplying splendid support. Richards, the Bay View twirler, was an able opponent, and never let up. He fanned 10 Newarkers during the pastime, and only allowed five hits. Bunching the bingles where they did the most good won the old ball game.

Chalmers Again
The irrepressible "Shorty" Chalmers once more stepped out to take down the hitting honors of the day. Shorty rode one out of the lot for a homer during the afternoon, and led his team at bat. Afield, most of the defensive work was done by Rose himself, handling pop-ups and impotent taps down the baselines. Hopkins and Colmery also played nice baseball.

The Newark club is stepping right along in the league race, under the guidance of Manager Hafer, and are just now fighting for the lead held by Providence. Charlestown, the proud and haughty leaders come here next Saturday for a "crucial" battle against Newark's pride and much will depend on the outcome. A big crowd of rooters will no doubt be on hand. The score:

PROVIDENCE WINS

Providence easily defeated North East Saturday on the latter's grounds by the score of 12-14. This victory again put the Providence boys in the lead after having lost it by a decision of President Ferguson of North East who ruled the game between Providence and North East, played at Providence June 5th, and which Providence won by a score of 4-3, must be played over.

Elkton Still Leads Tri County League

Victory Over Perryville Holds County Seaters on Top; Elk Mills Wins

This game was protested by Carter Simpers, captain of the North East team, on the grounds that Arrants was pitching the spit ball, and although this was not proven at a meeting of the Managers, President Ferguson made the above decision. The entire Providence team hit the ball hard Saturday, driving Bryan from the mound in the fourth inning and continuing their onslaught on J. Hamilton after he relieved Bryan. Charshee, with a triple, double and single, and Peterson and Vansant with a triple and two singles apiece, led the winners with the stick. Deibert's long drive which hit the fence in left field also went for a triple. The score:

Cecil Countians Meet Tonight For Cooperation In Del-Mar-Va Association

Kent county, Delaware, and Cecil county, Maryland, have formally joined the ranks of the other twelve counties on the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association.

Definite action was taken in Kent county, Delaware, last Friday night, when 100 representative citizens, including delegations from eight of the nine election districts in the county, met at a dinner session in the Hotel Richmond, Dover, to vote to canvass the county for 1000 memberships in the Del-Mar-Va unit, a county organization, to affiliate with the 14-County Eastern Shore Association.

Cecil county's formal entry takes place tonight, when committees and delegations meet at a dinner at the New Central Hotel, Elkton, to inaugurate a canvass of the county for the signing up of a minimum of 10,000 to the Cecil fund, one-half to be devoted to financing the program within the county, and the other half to go to the Del-Mar-Va Association as Cecil county's share of the support of the general work. Once the pledges and money are in hand the Cecil County Division of the Del-Mar-Va Association will be chartered, and a permanent local program laid out.

My Father

Who loved my mother, pray tell me,
And made things nice for her to see,
As proud a man as King could be?
My Father.

Who labored hard, from early morn,
A home to beautify—adorn.
To have things fine when I was born?
My Father.

Who worked with lightened heart all day,
With speedy steps came home to stay,
And took me in his arms away?
My Father.

When sleep, at eve, had drooped my head,
Who was it carried me to bed,
Up the stairway, tread by tread?
My Father.

Who bought me toys and fixed my sled,
With jingling bells away we sped,
And through the snow his both feet led?
My Father.

Who sat and shed the silent tear,
When sickness came so very near,
And watched and watched with nervous fear?
My Father.

Who prayed each day for my welfare,
Asked God to guide with tender care,
That I'd seek Him sometime—somewhere?
My Father.

Who said the thankful table grace,
And showed the pleasure in his face,
To see his children all in place?
My Father.

Who watched our progress year by year,
And helped us through hard places steer,
Whose kindly hand was always near?
My Father.

Think who will need our help some day,
When step is slow, when old and gray,
The one who'll not be in the way?
My Father.

Then let us all with one accord,
Bow low our heads and thank the Lord,
There's one, to love, we can't afford,
My Father.

A Preachment

(An editorial written by Everett C. Johnson and reprinted from The Newark Post, issue of May 24, 1911.)

"I do not wish to be absurd and pedantic in reform. I do not wish to push my criticism on the state of things around me to that extravagant mark that shall compel me to suicide, or to an absolute isolation from the advantages of civil society. But I do think we must clear ourselves each one by the interrogation, whether we have earned our bread today by the hearty contribution of our energies to the common benefit?"

The above is something that can be read with profit by all of us. In the Nation, State, and Community, questions of serious import are daily facing us. The whole thought of our people is in a state of transformation. Our ideals, though at times vague, are progressing; practical idealism is taking the place of crude realism. We are beginning to recognize that an Ideal is the only real and the most practical thing in the world—tomorrow. We are becoming less ashamed to tell our dreams: they are the realities of tomorrow. Only the sordid scoff at sentiment.

The ambition of the best of us is to do something really worthwhile. Academic pedantry is falling into ill repute and the demand of the hour is that all must render a service to country and humanity in part payment for advantages and services rendered him. Reciprocity, where each and all have the same advantages, is the theme of the hour. Your idea of the Ideals is accepted only when you can prove its efficiency. The true Insurgent is the Iconoclast who can erect a finer structure on the ruins. The practical that so marks the efficiency in our commercial life has invaded our educational systems, our civil life, and even our religious institutions. The vital question put to the man in public life with his theory of government, to the teacher with his system of education, to the minister with his interpretation of the moral code and social justice, is "will it make good?"

These are the so-called great things in life. We may not do one of these but we can lay one stone "aright every day". We may not be able to win laurels on the field of valor, but we can help a neighbor's boy; we may not be able to sway the multitude from the pulpit or platform, but we can help some mechanic. We may not be able to sing "Home, Sweet Home" as did Jenny Lind, but we can croon a lullaby.

We may not be destined to donate a library to our town, but we can give a magazine to a girl down the street.

We may not be able to do the great things in the world, but remember the little flower, the kind word, the hearty handshake and wholesome "God Bless You", are in our power. Remember the widow's mite, the oil in the cruise, the cup of cool water.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of these, ye have done it unto me". The brightest star of the firmament is seen in the twinkle of a kindly eye. Heaven is reflected in that little crystal of a dewdrop. There are "tongues in trees, songs in the running brook, sermons in stones, and good in everything".

Local as well as National issues demand a leader. What if he is ahead of his time and fails? Failure is the tragedy of success. Schiller was right when he said: "Let him begin the work today on this misshapen stone. Whether he succeed or fail, all alike to him—let him begin the work. And when centuries have rolled away, Providence shall again raise a prince like him upon a throne like his and inspire her new favorite with the same noble purpose."

—C. T.

A Farmer's Classic Lament

Plaintive dissonance from a middle Western agrarian replying to a polite note from one of his active creditors, as reported by the well known "Farm Implement News":

"Gentlemen:—For the following reasons I am unable to send you the check asked for in your recent favor: The crickets, grasshoppers, locusts, Hessian flies, cinch bugs, potato bugs, cut worms, army worms, grub worms, yellow rust, red rust, and wilt took my crop.

"I have been held up, held down, sandbagged, walked on, sat on, flattened out, squeezed and un-squeezed, for federal war tax, excessive profit tax, income tax, carpet tax, Liberty loans, thrift stamps, capital stock, merchant's license and auto tax, and every society and every organization that inventive minds of men can invent to extract what I may not have in my possession—the Society of St. John the Baptist, the G. A. R., the Stoddard Art Club, Woman's Relief, the Navy League, Red Cross, Black Cross, Purple Cross, Double Cross, Children's Home, Dorcas Society, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Jewish Relief and Belgian Relief.

"The government has so governed my business that I don't know who owns it. I am inspected, suspected, examined and re-examined, informed, required and commanded so I don't know who I am, where I am, or why I am here.

"All that I know is that I am supposed to be an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire, or hope of the human race, and because I will not sell all I have and go out and beg, borrow or steal money to give away, I am cursed, discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, hung up, robbed, and nearly ruined, and the only reason I am clinging to life is to see what is coming next."

The World's Call To The Youth Of Today

By LEIGHTON MEDILL

Delivered At Newark High School's Commencement Exercises

Leighton Medill, whose commencement address, delivered at the Newark High School graduation exercises, held in Wolf Hall on Friday evening, June 11, is here reprinted in full, has been an outstanding student for the two years that he has been in Newark High. Coming from Denver, Colo., two years ago, he entered the local high school, where his average for the two years is around 90 per cent.

He was President of the Newark High Student Council and President of the Athletic Association. He won his letter in football and due to injuries received in the first basketball game of the season was prevented from also earning his "N" in basketball and baseball.

At Pueblo High School, which young Medill attended before he went to Denver, he was Secretary of the Hi-Y Association, member of the debating society and of the band. In a prize essay contest, conducted by the City of Denver, he won third prize and this in competition with students of five large high schools.

This fall he will enter the University of Delaware where he will take studies in the School of Arts and Science.

Never in history has there been opened up to the youth of the world, greater opportunity for gaining personal success and giving world service than today. Scientifically, economically, socially, artistically—this twentieth century has great things to offer to the youth of today. The progress of centuries has culminated in the possession of knowledge hitherto unthought of in the wildest dreams of our predecessors. But even then the world is but in its childhood as far as the real attainment of scientific knowledge goes. Men are entirely ignorant of thousands of things which this generation may be instrumental in helping to solve. Through science we are enabled to travel on the land as fast as the wind, on the sea we can travel with unbelievable swiftness, and in the air we are as birds of the wing. In the dizzy heights overhead we are like mighty eagles, careening, swooping, and darting with lightning-like swiftness.

Aircraft only some twenty years old is far from being perfect, but it will play an important part in the further development of the countries of the world. Not only will it play an important part in our mail service and forest service, but it will be one of the principle means of fast travel employed by the commercial world. Its future practicability can scarcely be realized by the everyday mind. Man upon his mechanical bird has at last broken down the barriers of the North Pole and has sailed over the top of the world—thus accrediting one more scientific point in favor of man against the terrible elements. Through science man is slowly but surely attaining the heights of perfection. As he has made giant strides towards conquering the limitless expanse of air far above the earth, he has likewise done much in the bringing to light the many treasures far below the earth's surface.

Vast deposits of minerals lie hidden far in the heart of mother earth, and great tracts of land await reclaiming by the building of such mighty dams as the well-known Roosevelt dam in Arizona. Unequaled success and glory awaits the man who will harness the Colorado river and thereby furnish plenty of water and power to the bordering barren wastes of land. That great body of water, the Niagara River, was harnessed and now generates for man's use, thousands upon thousands of horsepower energy and light, which is distributed throughout the surrounding prosperous country. The Conowingo dam, a local project, is an excellent example of the engineering possibilities opened up to young men of a scientific turn of mind. Many more projects await the far-sighted concern of enterprising young engineers. As man sees fit to build giant dams and power plants his mind readily turns towards such useful and pleasure giving devices as the radio.

Since Marconi invented the radio, thousands of people have been afforded innumerable pleasures by listening to its far-flung concerts and programs. In the commercial world it has paid for itself a thousand times over. Hundreds of lives upon the trackless ocean have been saved by its call across the mighty depths. It makes the proximity of the city so real that the farmer is but a seemingly suburban resident. It brings to the borders of the Arctic region and to the jungle fastnesses of the Dark Continent the hustle and bustle of the throbbing cities.

But radio—that great instrument of unceasing wonder is but in the mere stages of development. It affords constant study and research for it is one of the world's most useful instruments—one whose necessity is realized more and more each day. This wonderful instrument, however, is useless except for that most marvelous thing known as electricity.

This term, when mentioned in practically any part of the civilized world, is readily understood to be that great force which makes our cities alive with thousands of electric signs, street cars and automobiles. But that power! that great mystic power has so meagerly been dealt with that the human mind cannot conceive to what great heights man may be brought through the perfecting and complete understanding of that indomitable force—electricity. This wonderful power, although globe encircling in use is in many cases used along with its contemporary factor—oil. Second to none in commercial importance is oil which, in its different forms, sends the locomotive spinning along the iron way, makes the motor car hum over our network of roads, and supplies us with heat and power. Not until recent years has oil become a world-wide commodity—thus necessitating the development on a colossal scale the rich oil fields of the world. Despite the fact that oil has been sought for and fought for in the four corners of the earth, there still remain large quantities yet untouched by the steel-toothed drill of the oil syndicate.

As time progresses and the scientific world yields its vast hidden secrets to man; then the economic world shall be called upon to simplify and commercialize its value to the use of mankind. To be able to handle the scientific gains, man must build factories successfully. Ships of the air, ships of the sea, and conveyances of the land must be manufactured in large quantities to meet the demand of the ever growing populace. Every time that science turns out a practical invention which lessens the work of man, it must needs be commercialized and manufactured on a large scale. The arts of science and the arts of the economic world work for each other as precisely as do the intricate workings of a watch. The economic side of life has scarcely been touched by the experimental stage of man. It holds an outstretched hand of glittering gold to the ones who will but make its acquaintance.

While man is busily engaged in the

Club Boys Get Fertilizer

Distribution of a ton of fertilizer to be used in corn club demonstration work around Middletown was made early this week by Mr. E. P. Vogel, the Agricultural Teacher of the Middletown Schools. The fertilizer was given for this work by the Triangle Agricultural Corporation of Wilmington and was secured through the assistance of County Club Agent Ed. Willim, Jr., of the Extension Department of the University of Delaware, in cooperation with the New Castle County Farm Bureau.

Six boys, all pupils in the Middletown schools, received the goods. They are: Joseph Armstrong, Edward Armstrong, Eugene Thornton, Jack Piser, Norman Collins and Boyd Armstrong. "Each member of this corn club expects to show at the State Corn Show this winter," said Mr. Vogel, "and we believe that the use of this fertilizer should increase their chances of having good exhibition stuff. I am very glad to know that the Triangle Fertilizer Corporation realizes the value of corn club work in this county and was willing to cooperate with the Club Agent in giving us this plant-food for our boys."

"Two analysis of fertilizer were in the shipment that was delivered this week to the young corn growers," said Mr. Willim, "one is a 2-8-5 mixture and the other a 2-8-10 goods. Two boys received the latter one and it will be used as a test or check against the former. This 2-8-10 is a different analysis than is usually recommended for corn," continued the Club Agent, "but we believe its use will make a very interesting demonstration."

"The use of a goods for corn with such a high potash content is contrary to the usual recommendation of about a 2-12-4 goods," is the statement made by Prof. G. L. Schuster, Agronomist of the Experiment Station at Newark. "But," continued Professor Schuster, "this demonstration of the two goods under the same conditions may prove the need of a higher potash content for our corn in this section."

According to an official of the Triangle Corporation a similar contribution of fertilizer was made to Kent to be used in corn club work there, under the direction of Miss Helen Comstock, Kent County Club Agent.

Grange Corner

Granges in many sections of the country are making very out-spoken criticisms of the government crop reports issued by the Department of Agriculture at Washington. The charge is made that these reports are not only inaccurate and based upon altogether unreliable information, but that they prove exceedingly misleading and have a tendency to injure the farmers' business by giving consumers a wrong idea of crop prospects. In many of these Grange discussions the belief is strongly expressed that it would be much better for the farmers if the crop reporting practice, as at present conducted, were abolished.

In Ohio the Granges are urging the creation of a non-partisan state board of agriculture, with a director and a fair manager, removable only for cause. The Grange will make a vigorous appeal to the taxpayers of the state to take the whole agricultural administration of Ohio out of politics and will have the hearty backing of the farmers of every county.

Three phases of universal Grange practice observed at about this season of the year are evenings devoted respectively by local Granges to entertaining Grand Army veterans and allied patriotic organizations; celebrating children's night, with appropriate programs for or by the youngsters; attending a Sunday service in a body at one of the local churches.

The Grange in Vermont has changed the date of its annual meeting from December, in which month it has been held for the past 50 years, to October, and the session of the coming year will be held during that month. The increase in automobile transportation is the principal reason for the change.

Poultry Profits On Increase In State

Hatchers, In Particular, Plan More Expansion For Next Year

The poultry raising industry in Delaware which for many years has been an important one is not anywhere near its fullest development, according to plans being made by poultry raisers now. Just how many baby chicks were hatched this year no one knows, but it is known that the hatchery men have decided to increase the capacity of their hatcheries by more than 300,000 chicks by next spring. It might be a safe estimate to figure that there will be at least 100,000 more increase above this added 300,000 capacity, these being small hatcheries that handle five to ten thousand baby chicks each spring.

One hatchery man who has a capacity of 50,000 chicks has arranged to increase his equipment by 50,000 more and another man who had a capacity this year for 30,000 chicks has also bought equipment that will give him nearly 100,000 output. This man states that he has orders now for next spring totalling his entire output this year, and he proposes to add to this by advertising his product through the winter in poultry magazines.

That the big poultry raisers appreciate the value of the poultry department established last September by the State Board of Agriculture, may be easily verified by any one who makes inquiry of these men. Dr. Frank Hare since last September has supervised the testing of 40,000 chickens for trace of white diarrhea and by the end of this month, will have certified to more than 100 flocks and given them marks placing them among accredited flocks.

"The whole art of government consists in being honest."

Admission task of making himself the possessor of the paper American citizen, he must needs be ready to heed the call to the social world for world service. Socially the world is in drastic need of men and women who will build up the morale of its respective nations.

The world with its unceasing wars, the world with its plagues, the world with its numerous casualties greatly increased by the never ending stream of inventions—sends a call through-out its entire length for men and women who will take up the duty of healing the stricken and care for the dead. A greater gift to mankind cannot be given than the offering of your invaluable services for the betterment of your fellow beings. America must help! American men and American dollars working in cooperation will help put Europe back into the race and her shattered arts and her disabled factories will once more make their impressions on the face of the earth.

The World War, that infernal machine of destruction, ate the youthful vitality out of the warring nations of Europe. Gone for a generation are the painters, sculptors, and writers. They had to lay down their pens and brushes and take up arms in defense of their country. Shattered are the hopes of the war-wrecked men of Europe. Gone are their high aspirations. Their time has been put to the rebuilding of the devastated parts of the country that were laid waste by the cannons of war. In the meantime the war-ravaged countries of Europe have kept a hungry gaze towards America for help. Europe's morale has been broken and her men who should be claiming great honors as artists and musicians have gone to their everlasting sleep beneath the blood-red poppies which mark their graves.

Our brave soldiers must not have died in vain for making the world safe for democracy, but will have as their reward the assurance that their brave souls will have bound America and Europe together in a tie of brotherly international understanding and political harmony. This great nation, through the present-day use of mighty ships and aircraft, has become a close neighbor of Europe and an interested participant in her affairs. America must lead the way and show the European countries how a great Republic can carry on its political and social affairs in an exceedingly intelligent and fair way.

Since this great nation of ours established upon the ideal of pure democracy and fraternal and bound by the ties of honesty and love of fair play, has failed to make men keep in sight these ideals which made this republic great, she must needs send forth an appeal to her youth to prepare itself for the giving of its self-made devotion in order that honesty and pride may be the ruling factors in the running of the government.

The conscientious voter who goes to the polls with his heart and soul filled with the responsibility of his task is mighty scarce and rarely found. For the most part the citizen casts his vote not caring about the man, but simply for the party. Alexander Hamilton, one of our greatest statesmen, declared that financial compensation could never equal the great honor of holding office under the American flag. When men hold office for the honor of same and for the self-guarding of America's interests; then, and then only, will we have a country of mutual understanding and perpetual prosperity. The time has come when honest and upright men are at a premium in the political world.

In the face of all these opportunities the youth of today is called upon to bring into play every available fiber of its being in order that it may be better enabled to compete in the race of life. Youth must be of strong character and with great initiative or doing big things. It must be far-sighted and conservative, clean and upright, and above all filled with the love of God.

When youth is summoned by Life's clear call to take its place in the ranks of men, may its clear-toned answer swell upon the breeze and carry the message that its vision is clear, its soul pure, its heart true, and its strength for furthering the world's glory is as unbounded as four corners of the earth—such may be youth's answer to the call of the world.

We, the Merchants

believe in Newark. We see its many possibilities and have faith in their being realized. Newark has everything to make it the most progressive town in Delaware—whole-hearted cooperation alone is needed. This we believe is coming.

We are doing business in Newark to serve Newark residents. We do not ask shoppers to buy from us blindly, but it appears only fair that they should try us first. We, the Newark merchants, believe that we can sell you the same merchandise at a lower price than you can purchase it anywhere else.

By shopping in Newark you save car and bus fare and give the support to local merchants that is necessary if Newark is to develop successfully.

The next time try Newark first.

BUY FROM THE HOME MERCHANTS

Why go to the city to shop?

If you will give the local merchant your patronage, we can have stores here equal to those in the city.

Who is called on first to help in the betterment of the town? The local merchant.

When you trade at home you not only keep the money in Newark, but you help to increase the value of your own property.

The city merchants are not for us; they are for their own city.

In the city you pay more for your goods, have someone who is not interested in you to wait on you, and if the goods are not satisfactory you find it embarrassing to exchange them.

It is different at home.
