Girl Scouts Plan Local Cookie Sale Beginning Friday

300 Brownie, Girl Scouts
To Participate In Drive
For Support Of Program

More than 300 Girl Scouts and Brownies in the Newark Area will participate in the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale which starts tomorrow, Feb. 26 at 4 p.m., and continues for nine days, until March 6.

The girls will sell two types of cookies—sandwich cream and chocolate mint—in a house-to-house campaign throughout the Newark area.

The cookie sale is the only money-raising project of the Girl Scout organization during the year. A portion of the profits of the cookie sale remains in Newark for the support of the Girl Scout program in the district, and Wilmington area Girl Scout Council reserves some of the proceeds for the maintenance of established camps and camping program.

Co-chairmen of the cookie sale in Newark are Mrs. Linwood Waldrige and Mrs. Clinton Woodman. One mother or leader from each troop has volunteered to be responsible for the distribution and sale of cookies, and for the money collected by that troop.

The following women are cookie sale chairmen for the Brownies: Mrs. Charles Burnette, Troop 27; Mrs. John W. Carrow and Mrs. Lawrence Polminter, Troop 33; Mrs. Robert Powell, Troop 87; Mrs. Robert King, Troop 110; Mrs. Earl Saunders, Troop 112; Mrs. William E. Taylor, Troop 109; and Mrs. Arthur Bennett, Troop 151 of Christiana. For Intermediate and Senior troops Mrs. Samuel McFarlin is chairman for troops 4 and 64; Mrs. Robert Hall, Troop 230; Mrs. Augustus Able, Troop 1; Mrs. Theodore Jones and Mrs. Harry Reynolds, Troop 13; Mrs. Wm. McNetney, Troop 103; Mrs. Myrtle Watson, Troop 21; Mrs. Leighton Jackson, Troop 8; Mrs. Gustave Steinel, Troop 156, of Oglethorpe; and Mrs. Gilbert Barlow, Troop 80, of Christiana.

Our own Brownie Troop is being organized and is soon to have its first meeting.

There are 17 girls interested and Mrs. Robert Farney, Mrs. William Moore and Mrs. Thomas Farrow are getting things underway.

Weekly Brownie meetings will be held at the Brookside School but the day hasn't been chosen.

Four members, Mrs. R. O. Maninger, Mrs. Jos. Zappo, Jr., Mrs. David Geisinger, and Mrs. L. K. Howes are attending the tailoring classes at the University each Wednesday evening, under the guidance of Miss Pierce.

The next monthly meeting of the Brookside Home Demonstration Club will be the second Monday in March at 8 p.m., at the home of Mrs. L. K. Howes, 4 Korda Drive.

A demonstration of how to sharpen knives and shears and how to do things with vegetables will be conducted.

Check SS Benefits Before Retirement Official Advises

"Millions of workers make social security contributions every pay-day but relatively few of them take the time to inquire about their rights until after they have retired," Myron Milbourn, manager of the Wilmington social security office, said today. He suggests that all people covered by the system protect themselves and their families by inquiring before retiring.

"Before retiring at age 65 or later, each worker should have a full understanding of the requirements for becoming insured in the system," he continued. "He should know the best time to file his application and the method which will be used in figuring his monthly payments." Milbourn pointed out that the matter of benefits which may be payable to the worker's wife and unmarried children under 18 years of age, in case of the breadwinner's death, is of prime importance to every family head," he added.

"It is quite essential," Mr. Milbourn said, "that the holder of every social security card tell the member of his family what their rights to benefits may be if death comes to him at any age. They should be told where the social security card is kept and that in the event of death, it should be taken to the nearest social security office as soon as possible, and an inquiry made as to who is eligible for benefits."

All prospective beneficiaries of social security should know that payments are not made automatically at the time of retirement or death, but that an application must first be made. Promptness in filing the application was emphasized by the Wilmington manager, since monthly payments cannot be made retroactively for more than six months. "The lump-sum death payment must be applied for within two years after the worker dies," he said.

Information about all these situations is presented in a new 1954 edition of "Your Social Security," a booklet which will be sent free upon request at the local social security office, 813 West Street. In any event, for information concerning any phase of social security, always get in touch with your nearest social security office.

For great is Thy mercy toward me, and Thou hast delivered my soul from the lowest hell.
—(Psalm 86, 13.)

Life would be unendurable indeed if we were not assured by the Word of God that the repentant sinner can change himself and be changed, through the forgiveness and the mercy of the Lord Almighty, into goodness and righteousness—delivered from the hell of his own making.

University Theater Plans To Present Connecticut Yankee

"A Connecticut Yankee," the Rogers and Hart musical comedy that played 135 performances on Broadway, will be given by the E-52 University Theater in collaboration with the U. of D. Music Department next month with three Wilmington students playing the leads.

Instead of the usual all-week stand, the show will be presented March 18, 19, 20, 25, and 26, covering two weekends.

Again for "A Connecticut Yankee," special rates will be offered for theatre parties, a plan which was well received for the last production, "The Importance of Being Earnest." More than 300 persons saw the play as members of parties. Theatre party reservations can be made by writing to Mitchell Hall in Newark.

The musical, an adaptation of Mark Twain's classic, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," is being directed by Thomas B. Pezz at the Department of Dramatic Arts and Speech, with Bertram D. Gable of the Music Department as musical director. Herman D. Middleton, also of the drama department, is technical director, and Miss Elizabeth F. Crook, assistant professor of music education, is choreographer.

"Connecticut Yankee" tells the story of a man who is knocked unconscious by his girl friend at a party before their intended wedding and the events that follow when he awakes under a tree, not far from King Arthur's castle, 1400 years earlier.

Dairymen Receive Farm Home Week Awards At U. of D.

Five Delaware Farmers
Honored For Dairy Work

Five Delaware dairy farmers and three supervisors of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association received awards during Farm and Home Week at the University of Delaware.

Receiving cash awards and plaques as part of the dairy program on Wednesday, were: Irvin M. Armstrong, Middletown; Medford Calhoun, Greenwood; Russell Bowdler, Harrington; H. Wallace Cook, Elkton, Md.; and Maurice Adams, Harrington.

All five winners have accredited herds and are members of breed associations, all have very good to excellent pasture-forage programs with the lowest feed cost records, and all have taken an active interest in farm and community improvement.

Armstrong has 36 registered Holstein cows that average 11,898 pounds of milk and 415 pounds of butterfat a year. His was the lowest feed cost for last year. He is using outstanding herd sires, has a clean healthy herd and according to the DHIA, has made considerable progress in the past year.

Calhoun and Son have 18 registered and grade Guernseys producing 8,628 pounds of milk and 393 pounds of butterfat. Their pasture-forage program is rated excellent. Bowdler, with 13 registered and grade Holstein cows averaging 11,302 pounds of milk and 429 pounds of butterfat, uses artificial breeding, has an excellent pasture set-up and a low feeding cost for his herd. Cook has 17 registered Holstein cows and is president of the Holstein breed association. His herd averages 11,151 pounds of milk and 424 of fat. Adams has a herd of 19 registered Holsteins producing 13,142 pounds of milk and 513 pounds of fat.

Two DHIA herd supervisors were given plaques and cash awards and another received honorable mention for completing accurate herd records and taking an active interest in the county testing program. They are high scorers: Russell N. Abel, Newark, supervisor for New Castle County DHIA circuit No. 1; and honorable mention winner Byron Schauer, Georgetown, Sussex County circuit supervisor.

The awards are sponsored by the National Dairy Products Corporation of New York City, and are accepted in Delaware by the board of directors of the DHIA.

Winter Protection For Trees, Shrubs Advised By Expert

Ice and snow storms that sweep large sections of the country in winter are sometimes as disastrous as beautiful. But normal winter snows are usually beneficial. Native trees, shrubs and other plants have the hardiness needed to take the usual rigors of winter in stride. They help to build a magnificent landscape picture with their patterns of snowflakes and a sculptured grace when covered with a soft white burden of snow.

But wet or heavy snows may cause considerable breakage and winter rains that freeze as they fall can create disastrous damage leaving maimed and twisted trees over wide areas.

Where wet clinging snow is the main problem, home owners can do much to help shrubs and smaller evergreens by brushing away the heavy white blanket, advises L. L. Swanger, field representative of the Davey Tree Expert Company. Ice is something else again.

When all outdoors is in a deep freeze and every tree and shrub wears a suit of icy winter armor, there is little the householder can do beyond helping a few prize specimens close to the home. When temperatures moderate the best method to quickly remove the ice is to get out the garden hose and spray branches with warm or tepid water.

Ice should never be removed by chipping or breaking as the trees and shrubs beneath the glassy surface may be injured. Neither should ice-melting chemicals be used.

Delaware Drops Overtime Test, Championship Shot To Drexel

Hens Lose 63-60 Crucial Contest To League-Leading Dragons After Tying Score At 58 With Fourth Frame Rally; West Chester Crushes Delaware By 64-49 Count

After an unimpressive 64-49 loss to the visiting West Chester Teachers on Wednesday evening, Delaware's Mid-Atlantic Conference champions shifted into overdrive against the unbeaten, league-leading Drexel Dragons at Carpenter Fieldhouse on Saturday night—tied the score at 58 points with a fourth period rally—and finally lost an overtime battle, 63-60, along with their championship chances.

Trailing West Chester by six points at the end of the first period on Wednesday, the Hens moved to within a point of the Rams at the half, outscoring the visitors 14-9 in the second quarter, but subsequent developments were dull for Delaware devotees as West Chester romped to 19-12 and 30-13 advantages in the final periods.

Bob Mesick, Jim Kinch, and Jack Waddington led the Delaware scoring with nine points apiece, with Vince Grande and Ed Kwiatkowski close up with eight and seven tallies for the Hens.

Drexel, undefeated in six conference starts, met the defending champions in Newark on Saturday and thanks to the strenuous efforts of Capt. Frank White, Delaware was still very much in the contest at the half.

In the third quarter, the Dragons rolled on to a 47-36 advantage and were on top by 11 points in the early stages of the fourth, and what had all the earmarks of being the final quarter.

But Fred Emmerson's Blue Hens, with their backs to the wall, played like the champions they are and pounded back a tough, uphill grade to catch the Drexels at 58 points with seconds to play.

Big Jim Kinch, in the pivot spot, tried a hook shot which rolled around the rim with Delaware's hopes ebbing from every seam in the last gasp of the fourth period, but the gremlins were favoring the visiting Dragons and the ball rolled out instead of in and the game went into overtime.

Shocked by the near defeat, Drexel jumped into a three-point overtime lead when Bill Harley converted a free throw and Ed Roman banged one through the hoop from the playing floor.

But Delaware was still reluctant to play dead. Miller came up with the ball after a lousy scramble under the backboard and flipped in a pair of points for the Hens for a 61-60 count and while Delaware was part of the Drexels for an uncontested, tying point, the Hens unwittingly and most undesirably fouled Harley who had cashed in on a foul, seconds before.

Harley got two chances—and missed them both.

And then the Fates handed the Hens some of the same treatment. Ed Kwiatkowski's one-hand jump shot rolled out, and Kinch failed to catch a close one that could have rolled either way.

Dan Promisto, high scorer for the Dragons, was fouled and converted one out of two free tosses, and with the score 63-60, Capt. Frank White tried for the tying point, and missed.

In the scramble, another foul was called against the Hens and Drexel added their third point as the game ended.

Swimmers Extend Undefeated String For 13 Victories

Krusberg Twin Winner In F&M, West Chester Meets For Hen Mermen

Coach Harry Rawstrom's powerful Blue and Gold varsity swimmers left two more sets of opponents wallowing in the Hens' wake last week as Delaware surged to first in all ten events last Wednesday in Taylor Pool, defeated the Franklin and Marshall mermen, 63-21, and on Friday night copped nine out of ten events at home to sink the West Chester Teachers, 61-23.

The victory over West Chester was the 13th in a row for Delaware and the 13th in a row for Rawstrom over a span of two seasons.

Delaware's Lorin Krusberg came through with twin wins in both events, copping the grueling free style 220 and 440 events, while Fred Freibott was a double winner, taking the 100 and 200 yd. freestyle.

Jack Ryder, Delaware freshman ace, set a new record in diving against the F&M freshmen, piling up 87.7 points to top the record of 55.4 established by Freibott last year.

Delaware's team of Stewart, DiMaio, and Apostolico took the opening event from F&M by swimming the 200-yd. medley relay in a time of 3:20, and Bill Reyhold was third in Krusberg's victorious 220-yd. free style effort.

Dick Goodley won the 50-yd. free style race in 25.5, Duff and McDaniel were first and second in the 150 medley course; and McKinley and McWilliams finished one and three in diving competition.

Freibott and Goodley were a win-place combination in the 100; Zutz and Stewart finished first and third in the 200-yd. back stroke; while Wagner and Duff breaststroked the 200-yd. course for first and second places.

Reyhold was third for Delaware as Krusberg won the 440 and the Hen team of Apostolico, Goodley, McDaniel and Freibott won the 400-yd. relay in 4:06.6.

Against West Chester, Ted Zutz replaced Stewart in the 200-yd. relay team as Delaware won the opening event; and Krusberg, Freibott, McKinley and Freibott again finished first for the Hens in the 220, 50, diving, and 100-yd. competition.

Zutz, Wagner, Krusberg again, and the 440 relay team of Apostolico, Duff, McKinley, and Goodley won the 220-yd. backstroke race; the 200 breast stroke event; 440 free style, and 440 relay.

And one day in mid-March, we played the role of observer during a run of strippers in the Indian River Inlet. From dawn to 11 a.m. not a fish was in evidence, but in the following hour some 50 strippers averaging about 15-lbs. apiece were hooked by the jetty jockies from the rockpiles—and it was something to see, at least.

We had the questionable distinction of being among the very few who failed to get a single strike from the school of fish moving in from the ocean.

They do catch strippers from the Delaware beaches during the winter. All you need is the constitution of an Arctic walrus, the patience and determination of the Newark Yellowjacket cage squad and Harve Swartz, and the luck of Lew Worsham.

The season closes for the taking of Delaware "pike" or pickerel with the end of February, and the frigid fresh water fishermen will have to usually content themselves with yellow perch, crappie, hickory shad, catfish and carp until the law is lifted in June. Bass are out, too.

Rip Smith called while we were out last week and to explain his unpopularity with a group of fishermen who were conducting operations near Thompson's Bridge on White Clay Creek last Saturday.

While their worm-baited lines trailed neglected into the pool full of suckers and fallfish, Rip took 30 fish in as many minutes before an audience that understandably chafed at the performance.

Francis Tolomeo, a discouraged billiards contestant but still optimistic concerning his golfing potential, has admitted a minor passion for surf fishing. And Jack Fosssett, when the coffee-cup conversation took a Florida turn, became a bit dreamy-eyed in recalling the snook fishing down around the Ten Thousand Islands off the West Coast.

F. A. "Rich" Richardson called yesterday to inquire about the immediate surf fishing possibilities in Delaware. As an ice-fishing fugitive from Michigan's bleak winter fastnesses, Rich apparently likes to do the hard way, and if there is a more difficult way of taking fish than by surf fishing from a Delaware beachhead, we haven't discovered it.

The Delaware surf is slow at best, and the Michigan Man was informed that it was practically futile to expect any return from his surf fishing efforts before May—and results were doubtful even then.

"I'd like to give it a try sometime soon," Rich said wistfully. "May's a long time off. Isn't there any chance of getting a fish in the surf now?" he asked.

Well, there is—but it's a long shot chance that even a hopeful horse player would scorn.

Several years ago, there was quite a run of striped bass along the Delaware-Maryland coast, and Mac McCarty at Dowsy Beach, along with a number of the hardy pros from Delaware, Maryland, and the New Jersey jetties assembled in the Diamond State's icy, oceanfront, white water for several field days when the strippers were stacked along the beach like silvered cordwood.

Dave Coverdale, surf-casting brother of Newark's fire-eating councilman, talked us into a trip down to Fenwick Island on a late day in February when the striper run was at its zenith—and we got there after most of the action was over.

Early morning excursions are advisable during the more torrid months, but in February we settled for a later start and arrived on the ocean coast at about 9 o'clock to find the surfmen staggering over the dunes with 3-ft. lengths of rockfish taken with block fin squid in the wee hours before dawn.

We couldn't quit after seeing that kind of evidence and the day wore on while we wore out with no more action than that encountered with snagging onto an occasional bit of driftwood.

Late in the evening, Sam Cumpston who was toiling to our right with a Calcutta pole and a chunk of tin squid, hooked the lone striper of the day to prolong our freezing exposure for another hour into darkness.

And one day in mid-March, we played the role of observer during a run of strippers in the Indian River Inlet. From dawn to 11 a.m. not a fish was in evidence, but in the following hour some 50 strippers averaging about 15-lbs. apiece were hooked by the jetty jockies from the rockpiles—and it was something to see, at least.

Sullivan Submits New Shoulder Pad For Grid Athletes

James V. Sullivan, Delaware's freshman football coach, has developed a shoulder pad for football players which has attracted considerable attention among coaches and sporting goods manufacturers.

The new pads were worn last season by Delaware's linemen and not one wearing the experimental equipment suffered shoulder injury. The Sullivan pad differs from the conventional pad in that it provides both inside and outside cantilevers giving greater protection to the shoulders of the wearer. The pads weigh no more than those presently in use.

Following the trial by Delaware players this season, Coach Dave Nelson described the pads to a friend and former teammate, Iowa Coach Forest Evashevski, who has since placed a sizeable order for his Hawkeyes.

Within the state of Delaware, William Penn and Newark High Schools have both purchased some and several other coaches have evidenced interest. The pads are being manufactured by the MacGregor Sporting Goods Company of Cincinnati.

Lulu Perez's rapid rise in the ranks of the top featherweights reaches a climax when he comes up against ex-champ, Willie Pep, at Madison Square Garden on Friday, Feb. 26, on the weekly Cavalcade of Spots telecast and broadcast.

Willie Pep, twice world's featherweight champion, has one of the most fabulous records in boxing history. Active as a pro since 1940, he has amassed a record of 187 wins while suffering only 5 losses against the finest of opposition. During this stretch Pep ran up two winning streaks of 62 and 73 fights, respectively.

Becoming champion back in 1942 by defeating Chalky Wright, Pep held the crown until upset by Sandy Saddler in 1948. Willie gained his title back the following year only to lose it to Saddler again in 1950. Now 31, Pep appeared in 11 bouts during 1953 and added 11 more wins to his record. He is now ranked as the division's No. 1 challenger.

Perez—both a clever boxer and good puncher—turned pro in 1951. With 23 wins in 27 starts, Lulu is now ranked fifth among the featherweights. A series of TV appearances this season against Davey Gallardo has helped make Perez a great favorite among home audiences.

Lulu has had his sights on this match with Pep for some time and realizes how valuable a win over Willie can be for him. Only 20 years old, it could be that Perez will be challenging for Saddler's title before reaching voting age.

Perez—both a clever boxer and good puncher—turned pro in 1951. With 23 wins in 27 starts, Lulu is now ranked fifth among the featherweights. A series of TV appearances this season against Davey Gallardo has helped make Perez a great favorite among home audiences.

Lulu has had his sights on this match with Pep for some time and realizes how valuable a win over Willie can be for him. Only 20 years old, it could be that Perez will be challenging for Saddler's title before reaching voting age.

Lulu Perez's rapid rise in the ranks of the top featherweights reaches a climax when he comes up against ex-champ, Willie Pep, at Madison Square Garden on Friday, Feb. 26, on the weekly Cavalcade of Spots telecast and broadcast.

Willie Pep, twice world's featherweight champion, has one of the most fabulous records in boxing history. Active as a pro since 1940, he has amassed a record of 187 wins while suffering only 5 losses against the finest of opposition. During this stretch Pep ran up two winning streaks of 62 and 73 fights, respectively.

Becoming champion back in 1942 by defeating Chalky Wright, Pep held the crown until upset by Sandy Saddler in 1948. Willie gained his title back the following year only to lose it to Saddler again in 1950. Now 31, Pep appeared in 11 bouts during 1953 and added 11 more wins to his record. He is now ranked as the division's No. 1 challenger.

New Sleeper in Canada's Largest Car Order

A TYPE of sleeping car never seen before in Canada is now in service between Montreal and Chicoutimi and is the first unit received by the Canadian National Railways of 359 new passenger cars — the largest single purchase of rolling stock in the history of Canadian railroading.

Above is the "Eastport," the first in a series of 52 sleepers of this type. Smartly dressed in the Canadian National's new exterior colors; green, black and gold, with maple leaf monograms fore and aft, the "Eastport" series contains four open sections, four double bedrooms and eight duplex roomettes, an original sleeping car arrangement.

An electro-mechanical air-conditioning system with automatic thermostat control eliminates the need for use of natural ice for air-conditioning or cooling of drinking water. Each room has its individual control for heating, air-conditioning and lights.

At right is a family group in the smart new connecting double bedrooms. Each bedroom has lower and upper beds with foam rubber mattresses, enclosed toilets and separate wash stands. During the day, beds disappear from sight and two more in each room provide seating area.

Cook Should Count Current Blessings Specialist Advises

U. of D. Nutritionist Cites 50 Yrs. Progress In Feeding Of Families

Today's cook should count her blessings, believes M. Gertrude Holway, extension nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware. "When we compare the home-maker's job of feeding the family today with that of 50 years ago, we can see the countless improvements that have come about through research," the nutritionist says.

Our grandmothers had no Basic 7 nutrition pattern to guide them in developing good family eating habits to include vitamins, minerals and proteins. Thanks to nutritional research we now have food plans that give adequate diets even for lowest income groups.

We have learned the important relationship between food and health. Vitamin enrichment of flour, bread, margarine and other foods has raised the general level of health in our country.

Food quality has improved, too. Chemicals are now added to foods for eye appeal, keeping quality, retaining color, texture and flavor, and in some instances to make foods easier to prepare. Foods are better protected against insects, contamination and mold. Packaging and marketing practices developed through research make it possible to transport fresh foods to all parts of the country and give the homemaker a wider selection for her menus.

Advances in preservation methods, pre-packed and pre-cooked foods, washed and trimmed vegetables, dry and concentrated milk — and these have considerably shortened the time necessary for meal preparation.

Then, too, our total food supply has increased through advances in production. These include insect and disease control of food crops, better feeding of livestock, and improved varieties of fruits and vegetables that excel in flavor and are adapted to both freezing and canning. Emphasis is on quick production and tailoring of products to meet consumer requirements, such as the "apartment size" turkey and tender young broiler.

Economist Advises Chicken Dinners For Winter Saving

Tender, golden-brown broiled chicken for dinner will brighten up any winter day.

Broilers are an especially good meal-time choice right now, since supplies are plentiful and prices lower than usual. W. T. McAllister, extension farm economist at the University of Delaware, explains that high production to meet holiday demands has brought a lot of these light-weight chickens onto the market.

"We expect broiler supplies to continue plentiful for the next few weeks at lower prices," McAllister predicts. He stresses that broilers are a good buy, both for family dinners right now and for storing away in the freezer.

Food shoppers can produce their poultry either dressed or ready-to-cook. Dressed birds have not had head, feet or insides removed. Ready-to-cook birds need only be wiped off and seasoned before cooking. Although ready-to-cook chickens cost more per pound, the actual cost of meat averages about the same for both types.

Home Economics School Entertains High School Girls

Friday Open House Held To Acquaint State Girls With Home Ec Potential

The University of Delaware School of Home Economics held its annual Open House last Friday afternoon for high school girls from all over the state to acquaint the girls with the university and with the home economics field.

Following registration at 12:30 p.m. in Mitchell Hall, the guests heard various speakers introduced by the president of the Home Economics Club, Marjorie Shank. Dr. John A. Perkins, president of the university, extended a welcome and emphasized the importance of an education; he also stated that a girl should be proud to enter the ever-growing field of Home Economics.

Miss Beate Collins, Dean of Women, welcomed the group and discussed the dormitory facilities for women on the campus.

Miss Irma Ayres, Dean of the School of Home Economics, explained that the field of home economics is unlimited with vast opportunities.

A movie film gave the visitors a look at the university and its campus life, and after the general session, the girls were conducted on a tour of the campus by members of the club.

After the tour, the girls joined discussion groups conducted on subjects relating to both home economics and college life—groups led by home economics girls under instructor supervision.

A tea in Smythe Hall concluded the event.

YOUR HIGHWAYS
 by JAY SCOTT

(No. 15 of a series)

Atomic-powered automobiles "are out of the question, not only for the next decade, but probably forever," says Gordon E. Dean, recently retired Chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Forecast: Motor transport will employ in 1975 a total of 14 million persons at a composite pay check of 47 billion dollars.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce has told Congress that Federal aid for highways should be confined to roads used primarily by traffic in interstate commerce of importance to national security.

Mrs. Herbert C. Coleman of Montgomery, Ala., has driven a motor car for 50 years, motoring through 45 states, without an accident or a flat tire. She owned her first auto—a Stanley steamer in 1902.

President Eisenhower gave up driving 15 years ago because he had too many things on his mind to drive safely.

There will be 85 million motor vehicles on America's highways by 1975, predicts a U. S. Bureau of Roads engineer.

The costs of road maintenance are sizable. State road studies estimate that it costs $275 to $550 per running mile to annually maintain a 20-foot wide cement concrete highway—$400 to $750 for bituminous mixes, and $650 to $1100 for untreated gravel.

The nation's trucks and trailers haul 90-billion ton miles a year—equal to more than 90 trips to the sun with a 10-ton load.

From 1924 through 1950 over $3 billion were paid to states for highways. They didn't buy one mile of road because the states diverted the highway use taxes for other purposes.

"The opportunity to serve is always greatest where there is a real need."

After two years as principal of the grammar school at Port Penn, Dr. Sypherd earned another bachelor's degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1900 and his master's and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard University in 1901 and 1906, respectively. He came to Delaware College as head of the department of English and history in 1906 and remained as head of the English Department until 1944 when he became acting president and then president following the death of President Huthlun.

When Dr. William S. Carlson became president in 1948, Dr. Sypherd became Delaware's first and only holder of the title, university professor. He retired in June, 1947, at which time the university conferred upon him the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

His other books on the Bible include "The English Bible, Selections," published in 1923, "The Literature of the English Bible," published in 1933, and his latest work, "Jephthah and His Daughter."

Recently, Dr. Sypherd made news when he contributed one thousand volumes from his personal collection to the Memorial Library.

BUYING A HOME

Is a LIFE TIME EVENT with many people

It is of the utmost importance that they buy where the whole family will be happy, in a neighborhood where you have neighbors that you like and who will like you. THAT'S LIVING at its best. Anywhere else would be just a house and a place to live.

Experience has taught us that in selling homes it is most important to sell homes that people can pay for without stress—not to oversell a trusting client. It is not good business to sell them a location in which, to the best of our knowledge, they will not be happy in years to come.
