NEWARK FROM A BUILDERS' POINT OF VIEW--SOME VERY STIRTING FIGURES

Mr. Editor:—
In reply to your request for a few observations upon the growth of Newark, and such other comments as I might see fit to make along municipal lines, I might for a beginning observe that Newark is quite an old town, antedating the American Revolution, and in all those years should have acquired a large fund of township wisdom and experience. Whether it has or has not, I am perhaps not qualified at this time to say. With a population of, possibly, 2500, the impression upon a stranger coming among us, would be that for the age of our community we have not much to show in the way of progress, and indeed it must be true that our forefathers, pretty generally moved with a very deliberate gait. When I first knew the town, about twenty-eight years ago, the building of one or two, or may be three, modest homes, with incidental property improvements, would about constitute a year's growth. But for the last 16 years I doubt if we ourselves fully realize all that we have been doing.

Commencing with 1895, running along for a period of ten years, to 1905—I find there were 43 to 45 houses built, having a value of about $70,000, being a very large percentage of increase over the preceding twelve years. During the time of 1905 to 1910, five years, there were 66 dwellings erected, approximating in value $100,000. The increase means about one-third more in number of houses, and more than as much in value, in one-half the time. For the year 1910, I find 43 were built, or in process of building, having a value of at least $75,000. A remarkable coincidence is to be noticed in connection with the above figures, in that for the year 1910 we have practically the same number of dwellings, and of the same value, as for the ten years of 1895 to 1905, (one per cent increase).

Surprising as these figures are they do not include conservative estimates of the American Vulcanized Fibre Co.'s buildings of $60,000; the Continental Fibre Co.'s of $75,000; J. S. Thomas Co. of $25,000; Curtis & Brother, $25,000; Delaware College buildings, of $45,000. Add to all this extensive remodeling and home improvements, such as Newark Opera House, S. J. Wright's home, and properties on opposite side of the street, the Methodist Church extension, Benj. Campbell's Elkton avenue improvements, H. M. Campbell and Wollaston's store additions, and many others of equal and less magnitude, together with nearly outlying properties, and a general brightening up, throughout the town, which we may reasonably put at one-tenth of the value attached to the new homes, viz.: $21,000, giving us a grand total of $463,000 or nearly half a million for material progress in sixteen years. I feel very sure that I have under-estimated rather than over-estimated. This is a record to be proud of, and a town to declare by.

Though in this article I have indicated only our stable character and solid worth, yet there are other features worthy of thoughts and expressions from an abler mind than mine. If I were writing a boom paper, which I am not, I would speak of our splendid location for industrial plants and for homes; of the country surrounding and the cities nearby affording us the advantages of both, I would speak of our material prosperity and creative comforts; of the educational, moral and social environments, tending thereby to induce right living. Splendid as are all these things, they of themselves are not sufficient to promote our best interests and permanent welfare. There is work for our best citizenship, a united and self-sacrificing citizenship, the work of sewerage, piping, macadamizing, lighting, &c., for the town as we would for ourselves. Bearing for a year or two financial burdens, though heavy for the time, would result in the accomplishment of a completed work, a work that cannot, however, be done in a year, and a task that needs the cooperation and encouragement of us all. Reach out for a new industry now and then, and in the reaching, employ the same methods adopted by other successful communities. Yes, it means work, and we are working and doing well. But we can do better. The sewer commission can get together this week and shape up the result of the survey. In two or three weeks we should have real figures of cost, and if so valuable, get the needed bill through the legislature before its adjournment; otherwise the project is dead for two more years. The impetus we are now enjoying is of real value, and I have faith to believe that we are moving on to a larger Newark and a splendid future.

Yours truly,
GEORGE W. GRIFFIN.

DEADLOCK AT DOVER

Both branches of the General Assembly at Dover are deadlocked owing to the failure of the Republicans to get together on a slate for permanent officers. Republican caucuses have not helped the situation up to this hour. Senator Drexler, of Sussex, who was supposed to be in the lead for president pro tem. of the Senate, was shivered at the last hour, and Darlington Fenn, of New Castle, has been the leading candidate for all ballots. Senator Fenn has only lacked one vote of enough to elect him. The slate, agreed upon by the caucus, was:

President—Darlington Fenn, of Greenbank.
Secretary—Walter J. Harrington, of Felton.
Reading Clerk—P. Harry Willey, of ridgeville.
Enrolling Clerk—Joseph C. Lawson, of Wilmington.
Sergeant at Arms—John S. Palmer, Lewis and Rehoboth Hundred.
Chaplain—Rev. A. W. Lightbourne, Dover.

In the House only two ballots were taken for Speaker, neither resulting in an election, George W. Tebo and Dr. T. O. Cooper each receiving 13 votes and Alfred B. Moore, 9.
The New Castle county delegation is making a determined fight for its rights. It wants the Speaker and other things which belong to the county, if right. If the delegation had submitted to what was planned, the county would have received practically nothing.

A New Year's Party

A New Year's party was held at the home of Miss Carrie Jamison on Saturday evening, December 31. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing games and music. At a seasonable hour refreshments were served. They had their hostess good night after seeing the old year out and the new year in.

Those present were Misses Helen Price, Alice Sanders, Marie Gregg, Ethel Gregg, Ethel Pierce, Edith Jaquette, Ethel Shew, Ethel Rutter, Mary Barney, Laura Davis, Helen Newlin, Lydia More, Mildred Gregg, Messrs. Grover Whitman, Edgar Jaquette, Leonard Pierce, Roland, Caville, Fred Sanders, Edwin Gutrie, Gravelle, Ralph Egnor, John Heavellow, Clifton Cameron, William Gregg, Robert Gregg, Louis Pennock, Mr. and Mrs. Jameson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gregg, Mrs. Alexander Gregg, and Mr. and Mrs. James Spence and son, Curtis, of Andora, Md.

Christmas Dance

On the evening of December 29th, the Yuletide festivities centered around the Opera House. The large hall was brightly with holiday trimmings, the skilfully arranged background of fragrant cedar boughs creating a pretty contrast to the red bells which seemed about to tinkle with their abundance of good cheer.

The floor shone with a waxen smoothness that told plainly the quality thereof and enticed the feet of all lovers of the dance to "step the tune".

"When Music arose with its voluptuous swell,
And all went merry as a marriage bell."

About seventy-five couples, representing the neighboring cities of Wilmington and Philadelphia, and the towns of Middletown and Elkton, and Kennett Square, participated.

Sandwiches and coffee, ice cream and cake were served in the banquet hall.

The dance has been pronounced by every one, a splendid success. Especial credit is due to Messrs. Ernie B. Wright and Harold I. Salmon for their management and to S. R. Choate for the beautiful decorations.

Meeting Of The Building And Loan Association

The Building and Loan Association met last night to transact the routine business.
The death of George W. Williams was noted and a committee was appointed to draft resolutions to be presented at the stockholders' meeting in March.
C. A. Short was elected Treasurer to fill Mr. Williams' unexpired term.

FIRST MEETING OF COUNCIL FOR THE NEW YEAR

Council met at its regular meeting last Monday night with D. C. Rose presiding. There were four members present.

After the regular routine of business the committee recently appointed to investigate the conditions of the electric light and water department, made the following report:

The Council of Newark—
We beg to submit herewith our report on the financial condition of the Light and Water Department.

This report is based upon an examination of eighteen yearly statements as issued and audited by the various Councils.
After finding it practically impossible to arrive at a definite result from an examination of each statement separately, we have proceeded upon the assumption that the town has two principal sources of revenue—
1—From Taxes.
2—From Light and Water Department.

Therefore, if it can be shown that a larger amount has been received from taxes than has been expended for the town account, it would seem to indicate that the difference had been expended for the support of the Light and Water Department.

If on the other hand it can be shown that a larger amount has been expended for the town account than has been received in taxes, it would seem to indicate that the amount of difference would be the approximate profit from the Light and Water Department.

In either of these cases proper consideration must be taken of any increase or decrease in the amount of bonded and floating debt.

Proceeding as outlined above we find the amount received from taxes for eighteen years to be $102,527.76; and the amount for town account during the same period including the proper appropriations for street lighting and fire protection to be $86,880.33, or an excess of taxes received over expenditures for town account of $15,647.43. To this should be added an increase in bonded and floating debt of $8,900, or a total difference of $24,547.43, which amount, this committee believes represents the loss of operating the Light and Water Department for a period of eighteen years, or an average loss per year of $1,363.39.

The amounts given only represent the actual loss in dollars and cents as no allowance has been made to cover any depreciation whatever, although we believe if this item was considered it would very materially increase the loss shown.

We believe that a large amount in labor has been charged the town account in various ways, which should have been charged the Light and Water Department and if it had been so charged it would have further increased the loss of this department.

In support of this conclusion the statement for 1904 shows no labor charged the Electric Light Dept. and Charged Electric Light Department for 1895.....$4.38 Charged Light & Water Dept.
for 1896.....$63.73
for 1900.....62.31
for 1901.....55.53
for 1903.....50.65
for 1905.....52.08

These amounts are supposed to be the entire expenditures for labor required in these departments over the Superintendent and Fireman's salaries for the years mentioned.

The proposed increase in rates will not be sufficient we believe to put the plants on a paying basis, and make proper allowance for depreciation.

THIS COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS—

1. That for the best interests of the taxpayers it would seem to be desirable to effect a lease of the Light and Water Department.

2. That such a lease be made for 20 years or longer.

3. That the amount received in rental be not less than a fair excess over the amount of bond interest.

4. That the lessee be required to keep up the plants and accessories and be limited as to charges.

5. That the town be protected by suitable bond.

6. That if Council cannot effect this lease under its present charter, that the necessary changes be made immediately to make such a lease legal.

J. P. WRIGHT,
HOWARD LEAK,
DAVID C. ROSE,
Committee.

The report was unanimously accepted.
The committee was continued for the purpose of getting bids for the lease or sale of the plant. They have already several companies in view. Ordinances establishing a new light and water rate were given a final reading.

This ruling will go into effect at once.
Notices will be forwarded to all property owners at an early date. On the water, a rebate of 10 per cent, is offered to all who pay within the time limit. The light rents will be made in monthly payments.

The Elk River company's proposition was not considered on account of the possibility of renting or selling the plant.

THE EDUCATIONAL NEED OF DELAWARE THE VIEW OF A CORNELL CO-ED.

(Written for the POST.)

The pride of the men in the women of the race is characteristic of civilized nations—not the kind of pride that shuts them in the harem away from the world, but pride in the fact that woman is queen of the home, has her distinctive place in the social world and is now a prominent factor in the important movements of the day. One of the many ways in which this pride has expressed itself is in the higher education of woman. To this end various colleges and institutions of learning have been founded solely for the education of women; others have opened their doors to women and later have seen the wisdom of their decision. Can it be that the men of Delaware are any less proud of their women relatives and friends or that they are less considerate of their welfare than the men of other States; or, is it that the lawmakers themselves are less far-sighted, or do they think the women of Delaware less capable than those of other States, that they have to seek in other States what should be home privileges?

Again, why does the State of Delaware take such pains to educate its sons, giving them the best the land affords along intellectual lines, when sooner or later the majority of these same sons will select one of these untrained women for his companion. Can the standard of the home which is almost invariably set by the wife and mother be what it would have been had that same mother had a preparation for her life work equal to that which was given her husband?

In this day when special training is demanded in every walk of life, is not the most vitally important work, home building, left in untrained hands—and untrained through no fault of their own? Is not the State, when it makes no provision for the training of its women, neglecting its own aims since it must either lower its standard of education or increase the time thus increasing the cost? Other States have recognized this and have either colleges for women or have opened their doors equally to men and women—this latter is especially true of the West. In no East this has not been so frequently done nor with us does it seem so desirable.

If Delaware has thought of comparing its educational advantages for women with those of other States it will find that its neighboring States have ample facilities in its training and normal schools for preparing for the important profession of teaching, recognizing the necessity for special preparation in this as for other professions. Or, if compared from the point of view of colleges alone Maryland has its Goucher College and the Johns Hopkins which has opened its long closed doors to graduate women students; Pennsylvania its Bryn Mawr; New York its Vassar, the Teachers' College and Cornell, the last two being co-educational; Rhode Island, the smallest State in the Union, has Brown University, Massachusetts has Wellesley and Smith, while at Cambridge, the home of the oldest and most conservative university, is offered to the women of the country, an education equal to that of the men by giving them at Radcliffe, the woman's annex to Harvard, the University curriculum, under the Harvard instructors.

Is Delaware not equally prepared to offer similar advantages to its women by establishing a woman's college in connection with the Delaware State College at Newark? Here is a splendidly equipped college with ample campus space for the erection of a recreation hall for women students, its laboratories ready for use and sufficient building space in the immediate vicinity for the erection of a dormitory.

Delaware, through the established college at Newark seems to be in a position to give economically and at the same time a distinctively individual and independent college life to its women. The first is of minor importance as compared with the value of educating women. The latter, however, represents no minor phase in a woman's life. With many, and I think I may say with most girls, the going away to college is second only in importance to her wedding day. To her an arduous long time before she enters upon the new life. To the girl herself it becomes the REAL education in comparison with which all previous education sinks into insignificance. It means no small thing, therefore, to take a young girl just budding into womanhood, from the protection of home and home friends. Here all her views of the world and mankind have been formed and here they still are subject to the experience and wisdom of her parents. But entering college places her in such a position that she must rely entirely upon her own judgment under all circumstances. She too, has reached that stage in her development, where she needs the companionship of young people of her own age. This part of her training for the future should be conducted under careful guidance.

Preparation for all phases of life cannot be made in the laboratory and lecture hall and this training for social intercourse has come to be recognized as much a part of higher education as the work of the college itself.

The woman, as well as the man, is entitled to her distinctive college life. Her training here should prepare her to correctly estimate and to see the essentials that go to make up life in their proper relations. This ability to correctly place values is as much important to the future home maker as to the man or woman preparing to enter the business world. When our students enter college they are not of an age nor have they had the training which enables them to distinguish between essentials and non-essentials and until they have acquired some ability to so arrange the intercourse of students that social intercourse of students that social care and under judicious guidance as the intellectual life? With their own dormitory life properly chaperoned and looked after by a competent woman as well as by the interested women of the town, social relations would be established which would go far toward the education of both men and women for the future. Would not the presence of women who are ambitious to acquire higher intellectual attainments be a pleasant addition to the social life of the town? For while many of the college women do not represent the wealth of the State, they do represent the homes that stand for progress and culture, is it not, after all, the women and men of progressive ideas who control the development of the country?

Ex-President Eliot once expressed himself to this effect that a well educated man was the one best prepared to meet the problems of life most effectively. Does not the man's problems often become the woman's problems also and does not his success in solving these problems frequently depend upon the extent to which his wife can become his co-worker? All along the line history has shown that the most successful men have been aided and encouraged by women who have enjoyed the highest social and intellectual training of their time. A prominent minister at Ocean Grove this summer expressed the same thought rather tersely. In speaking of woman as a factor in promoting her husband's career he said, "Friends, when you see a man sailing triumphantly upon his life, you may depend upon it a little sign of a woman is towing him along." At the present time statistics will show that where women have enjoyed the benefits of a higher education they are filling responsible positions with credit to themselves and with honor to themselves and the State.

Up to this period of its history Delaware has done but little to place its women upon the same intellectual footing as its men. The intellectual residents of the State will agree that it behooves the law-makers and the people at this, the psychological moment, in the history of Delaware College, to provide, in connection with the college, for the higher education of women.

NEWS NOTES HERE AND THERE

Mr. Frank Pennock is seriously ill at his home near Union.

The members of White Clay Creek Church paid their respects to their pastor last Thursday. A pleasant social hour was spent at the manse.

The high school has, so far, shown more hustle in the piano contest than the Grammar grades. Stanley West, student in the tenth grade is in the lead for the fifteen dollar cash prize.

Several have suggested that an arrangement to enable the box-holders at the post office to get their mail on holidays would be appreciated.

Misses Martha Strahorn and Jennie Raub attended the holiday dance given at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, last week.

T. Jones has purchased the handsome black mare formerly owned by the late Dr. Morrow, of Elkton. The horse is standard bred—Red Wilkes, and was sponkne of last summer as the Blue Ribbon for style and class. Newark whips will have to look well to their laurels.

The first of the inter-class basketball games will be played in the college gymnasium tomorrow evening. The regular season will open on Saturday, January 7th, when Delaware will play the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy.

Mr. Ellis Kilmore, of Newark, and Miss Gertrude Lindsey, of Upland, Pa., were recently married in Chester, Pa., by Rev. Amos Johnson.

Mr. Reuben Friedel has removed his family from Felton to Newark. His new home is in the Vandegrift property at the East end of town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wright and Mr. Norris Wright were among the Newarkers attending the Dover Christmas dance last week.

In a recent issue of the POST the statement was made that Mr. William Reed was "finishing his brick-laying trade" in Virginia. This should be corrected, since Mr. Reed is already skilled in his line, having received $1 per hour for work done in Virginia.

Miss Harriet Zehly is acting as substitute in the Seventh grade. The regular teacher, Miss Smith, is suffering from the effects of neuritis.

Some excitement was caused in the town on Monday night by the burning of a four gallon oil can near the large oil tanks along White Clay. The alarm was sounded, but before the company had collected in response the news came that the blaze was nothing serious.

The Misses Fader entertained friends at dinner on New Year's night. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fader, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Conner and Mr. Howard Griffin, of Norfolk, Va.

Prof. Houghton had the misfortune to fall and break his wrist on Monday evening.

Mr. Lewis Pierce has rented the Paxson farm near Stanton, to which Mr. and Mrs. Pierce will move on March 15th.

Coach McAvoy, Lieutenant Stayer and Prof. E. L. Smith attended the meetings of the Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association held at the Murray Hill Hotel, New York City, December 27th and 28th.

A way freight coming north on the Pennsylvania road was derailed near the Newark station, about 4 p. m. last Friday. The accident was caused by the improper working of a switch. A wreck train was nearby and the whole affair was handled with such dispatch and skill that no trains were detained thereby.

Hon. Theodore Armstrong and President of Council J. P. Wright visited Dover Tuesday to witness the organization of the General Assembly.

A New Year's dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, on Mt. Airy Farm, near Newark. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston, Messrs. Harry Brown, Walter Brown, Norris Brown, Bayler Brown, Misses Elizabeth Brown and Elsie Wingate.

W. Lore Eliason and L. B. Cann, Class 1910, Delaware College, who are connected with the General Electric Company at Lynn, Mass., passed through town yesterday on their return from the holiday vacation.

Prof. E. L. Smith and Dr. W. O. Sypher attended the meetings of the Modern Language Association at the College of the City of New York or New York, December 28th, 29th and 30th.

Mr. T. H. Wade spent his vacation in New York, occupied mainly in research work at the Columbia University Library.

The meeting of the Newark Grange announced for Tuesday evening was postponed on account of the unfavorable weather. The same will be held next Monday evening in the College Hall, Newark. An election of officers for the ensuing year will take place. Mrs. Jane Murray, of the Delaware Duckery, is exhibiting her fowls in Baltimore.

Charles Dixon and family and J. J. Place and family, both from Maryland have lately moved to town.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Rose gave a dinner to a number of their friends on New Year's day.

Many of our people are suffering with the grip.

S. K. Chambers, Real Estate Agent, West Grove, Pa., has sold for Brown & Gray their mill property and farm located in London Britain Township, formerly the Yeatman Mill and Homestead, to J. Sherman Dayett, of Glasgow, Delaware, on private terms.

After a recess of two weeks during the holidays, the Club convened in the club room Monday afternoon at the regular hour, the President, Mrs. Delaware Clark, presiding. After an exchange of "Happy New Year" among the members the program for the afternoon was taken up.

Miss Anna Springer gave an interesting account of the life of John Greenleaf Whittier with readings from "Snow Bound", and Mrs. Handy read "The Barefoot Boy."

In the spelling contest conducted by Mrs. Lee Couch, which followed, we were reminded of our own and Whittier's "School Days." The most difficult words from "Snow Bound" were spelled and missed until only two members held their places. I wonder if anyone overheard Mrs. Handy remark as she received from Mrs. Armstrong a beautiful book as reward:

"I'm sorry that I spelled the word, I hate to go above you; Because—the brown eyes lower fell, 'Because, you see, I love you.'"

Special Meetings At M. E. Church

Revival services will begin in the M. E. Church next Sunday. The pastor announces services for one week and the continuance of the meeting will depend upon the interest manifested. Rev. J. C. B. Hopkins, of Trappe, Md., will assist the pastor. Mr. Hopkins is well and favorably known here as a musical director. The public is cordially invited.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE IN WILMINGTON SCHOOLS

The Board of Education of Wilmington has recognized the importance of Domestic Science in the schools, by adopting certain recommendations which were prepared by the committee. The following clipping briefly states their conclusions:

The inclusion of the public school was basically from its inception, the laying of a true foundation in those elements of knowledge which people need to discharge readily and efficiently all the duties and responsibilities of every day life, but modern conditions impose upon it the necessity for providing the youth of both sexes such instruction and training in industrial and related lines of educational effort as will enable them to become efficient, industrial, social and economic factors in the community in which they may live.

The Board of Education, a number of years ago, very wisely recognized the need of giving the boys of the High School courses, manual training which would bring them into relation with some of the industrial aspects of real life, but we have not recognized the important factor woman is in the home as a business organization, and have, therefore, failed to provide means the training for efficiency in the home, but at this time believing that the making of home tests the worth of the family as a business organization, fixes its character as a social unit and determines its power as an ethical force, your committee in order to continue the good work of former boards, and to bring our schools abreast of those of other progressive communities, would make the following recommendations:

The recommendations provide for the establishment of a Domestic Science department in connection with the High School. It shall after February, 1911, have full charge of the lunch room and furnish noon hour lunch to the pupils.

Miss Jennie V. Gesling was appointed teacher of domestic science at a salary of $1200 per annum, to take effect January 3rd.

NEIGHBORING STATES

The Scott Fertilizer Company of Elkton reports an output for 1910 that is the greatest in its history.

Samuel C. Rowland, of Cecil county, has given a contract for a fine summer home to be built in Port Deposit, to Dennis Shanahan, of Harford county. This is to be erected at a cost of $10,000.

A good suggestion comes from Chesapeake City High School. They have realized $300 from a recent entertainment, which will be used to defray the expenses of the annual historical trip to Washington. No lesson is so important as the one gained from a visit to some spot made sacred by some act of the past.

Dr. Vernon McKnight, of Elkton, a recent graduate of the University of Maryland, has been appointed to the staff of the Sykesville Hospital.

The trustees of the Pennsylvania State College have installed a new course in flour mill engineering. Milling is a large industry into which the college man has entered very little. The general custom is for a young man to learn the trade, and keep at it as learned, except that a few of the tradesmen who have inventive genius make improvements now and then, but no extensive scientific experiments are conducted to improve the process both in economy of manufacture and in perfected product. It is with the aim of teaching scientific methods of milling that this course is given. Then, a student having this scientific knowledge can, with a few months of practical experience, qualify to do scientific milling. With the installation of this new course a mill is being designated by B. W. Dedrick, the head of the department, which will contain the full equipment of machinery that is found in the most up-to-date mill, and in addition will contain laboratories for testing the product and method. The course as installed is made a part of the school of engineering, which in turn is one of the five large divisions of the college. Pennsylvania is the first State in the Union to install in its State College a course in milling which will teach young men the scientific as well as the practical methods, and in addition be a headquarters for scientifically conducted experiments on commercial milling.—E.

About twenty of the young men of Elkton have organized a band, with I. W. Coslett as instructor and Harry Miller as president. It will be called the Excelsior Band.

S. K. Chambers, Real Estate Agent, West Grove, Pa., has sold the farm of the John C. Ferron Estate of 133 acres in Londonderry Township, to Samuel H. Smith, who now occupies it, for $8,670.

Also the double house and lot on Summit ave., and lot adjoining on Edge Hill ave., belonging to Mary G. Cochran, to Robert A. Wilson, Cochranville, who will remove to it in the spring; price, $2300.

Also lot belonging to Jennie Fitch on Jackson ave., West Grove, 50x170 feet, to Armando Vincenti, who is planning to erect a fine stone and pointed marble house early in the spring.

Appalachian Fruit Association

At the recent meeting of the fruit growers of the eastern States which met at Washington the organization was given the name of the Appalachian Fruit Association. The idea is to bring about the raising of better fruit and getting it to the market at less cost in better condition than in the past.

In an address which was delivered by Prof. R. L. Laks, of the Department of Agriculture, the speaker said that the eastern country has the soil adapted to fruit growing and being close to the markets, should never allow the westerners to steal in for a large share.

Alexander Colburn, of Martinsburg, explained the presence of the best fruit at the top of the package and the inferior at the bottom, as according to the orders of contractors who bought by the tree.

Among the officers elected by the new organization is vice-president Francis L. Scooper, one of the Delaware apple kings.

Report Of The School Commission

At a recent conference of the educational authorities of the State the committee which visited the schools with Superintendent Brumbaugh, of Philadelphia, reported that in view of the importance of what they were shown and of the limited time in which to draft a new school law, they did not deem it best at present to present any bill before the Legislature looking toward a change in the school code as it stands today.

The Legislature will be asked to pass a bill giving authority to the County School Commission to frame a new school code, to be presented two years hence. It was also decided that no change should be made at present in the methods of taxation.

A Happy Afternoon

Mrs. C. A. Short provided a delightful afternoon's entertainment for her Sunday School class last Thursday afternoon.

The little ladies enjoyed themselves making paper dolls while they listened to a pretty story. Before they tired of this fascinating play they were invited to join in more romping games. "Aunt Minty" had charge of the dining-room, and one of her cunning little girls dressed in dainty gowns of tissue paper, waited at the place of each little guest.

Those present were Marion Gallagher, Sarah Brown, Elizabeth Tweed, Elizabeth Wollaston, Elizabeth McNeal, Gladys McMaster and Martha Wollaston.

UNDERWOOD STANDARD TYPEWRITER

A LEADER

The principle of construction in the Underwood was found first in the Underwood, and every typewriter seeking business in the same field with the Underwood which has been put on the market since the advent of the Underwood, has been an imitation of, and in general appearance like, the Underwood.

The last "Blind" advocates of importance have now fallen into line, and there is not today a single "blindwriting" typewriter actively on this market. Recall all the arguments you have heard in past years by Underwood opposition, and you will realize what an advance agent to progress the Underwood has been; then bear in mind that the Underwood was the first fully "visible", has had time to develop and improve, and is to-day the most perfect typewriter made.

An Old New Reviews

We have on our table a yellowed and fading copy of the Ulster County Gazette, No. 28, a volume published at Kingston, N. Y., in 1837.

This little four column paper, with news of vital importance at large. It records of the passing days of the paper itself being published in 1837.

The first page gives an account of the House of Representatives proceeding to the speaker's house to present him to the people. It is a brief acceptance of the position of the speaker of the Senate.

Columns of foreign happy copy second place, giving news of the facts which have become history. A note of these foreign clippings, the arrival of the "Factor" mouth we are put in possession of the 20th century inclusive, from which the following selections are made.

An Old Newspaper--Jan. 4, 1800 Reviews Death Of Washington

We have on our table a little paper, folded and falling apart with age, a copy of the Ulster County Gazette, dated Jan. 11, 1800, a weekly paper published at Kingston, N. Y., in the year of long ago.

This little four column paper is filled with news of vital interest to the country at large. It records the events of the passing days of the year 1799, the paper itself being dated January 1800.

The first page gives an account of the Speaker of the House of Representatives proceeding to the President's house to present him with their reply to his message. John Adams' arrival acceptance follows; the same account is given of the proceedings of the Senate.

Columns of foreign happenings occupy second place, giving as current news the facts which have long since become history. A note at the head of these foreign clippings says: "By the arrival of the 'Factor' from Falmouth we are put in possession of London papers to the 20th of October inclusive, from which are made the following selections."

An English account of the battle of Zurich is given, dated October 20th, from the London Gazette; a letter from His Royal Highness the Archduke Charles, discussing "the unfortunate occurrences in Switzerland" as printed, while in many paragraphs through the paper center around the name of Bonaparte.

But probably the reason some thoughtful old grandmothers laid this paper away among those treasures reserved for the future generations, is the account given of the proceedings in regard to the death of George Washington. The inside of the paper is edged with a deep border of black. On the date of December 19th, the attention of Congress was centered on the death of Washington and paying to the nation's idol all the last tributes of respect. We quote from the paper:

"Mr. Marshall, (who afterward became the famous chief justice) with deep sorrow on his countenance, and in a low pathetic tone of voice, rose and addressed the House as follows: 'The melancholy event which was yesterday announced without doubt, has been rendered too certain. Our Washington is no more! The hero, the sage and the patriot of America--the man on whom in times of danger, every eye was turned and all hopes were placed, lives now only in his great actions, and in the hearts of an affectionate and afflicted people.'

"If, sir, it had not been usual, openly to testify respect for the memory of those whom heaven had selected as its instruments for dispensing good to man; yet, such has been the uncommon worth, and such the extraordinary incidents which have marked the life of him whose loss we all deplore, that the whole American nation impelled by the same feelings, would call with one voice for a public manifestation of that sorrow which is so deep and so universal."

More than any other individual and as much as to one individual was possible, he has contributed to found this our wide-spreading empire, and to give to the Western world its independence and its freedom. Having effected the great object for which he was placed at the head of our armies, we have seen him convert the sword into the plowshare and voluntarily sink the soldier in the citizen.

"When the debility of our federal system had become manifest and the bonds which connected the parts of this vast continent were dissolving, we have seen him the chief of those patriots who formed for us a Constitution, which, by preserving the Union, with I trust, substantiate and perpetuate those blessings our revolution had promised to bestow."

"However public confidence may change and the public affections fluctuate with respect to others, yet with respect to him, they have in war and in peace, in public and in private life, been as steady as his own firm mind, and as constant as his own exalted virtue."

"The members of both the House and Senate went condolences to the President--an account of which has been printed in the paper in question. The following extract is from the message of the Senate:

"With patriotic pride we review the life of our Washington, and compare him with those of other countries who have lived in our country."

"Ancient and modern names are diminished before him. Greatness and guilt have too often been allied, but his fame is whiter than it is brilliant. The destroyers of nations stood abashed at the majesty of his virtue. It repressed the temperance of his ambition, and darkened the splendor of victory."

"The scenes closed and we are no longer anxious lest misfortune should follow his glory; he has travelled on to the end of his journey, and carried with him an increasing weight of honor; he has deposited it safely where misfortune cannot tarnish it--where malice cannot blast it. Favored of Heaven, he departed without exhibiting the weakness of humanity; magnanimous in death, the darkness of the grave cannot obscure his brightness."

"Such was the man whom we deplore. Thanks to God his glory is consummated. Washington yet lives on earth in his spotless example--his spirit is in Heaven."

President Adams' reply to these bodies is indeed a tribute to the man: 'I have seen him in the days of adversity, in some of the scenes of his deepest and most trying perplexities; I have also attended him in his highest elevation and most prosperous elation; with uniform admiration of his wisdom, moderation and constancy.'

"The life of our Washington cannot suffer by a comparison with those of other countries, who have been most celebrated and exalted by Fame. The attributes and decorations of Royalty could only have served to eclipse the majesty of those virtues, which made him, from being a modest citizen, a more resplendent luminary. Misfortune, had he lived, could hereafter have sullied his glory only with those supercilious minds, who, believing that characters and actions are marked by success alone, rarely deserves to enjoy it. Malice could never blast his honor, and envy made him a singular exception to her universal rule."

A detailed account of the funeral is given, describing the order of procession, etc. The entire description ends with the words--"The name of Washington will triumph over death; the unclouded brightness of his glory will illuminate the future ages!"

The most conspicuous part of the paper is the last page which is filled with advertising matter. "Luther, Luther, Andres & Co. have this day. Been opening goods both fresh and gay."

He has received near every kind. That you in any Store can find. And as I purchase by the Bale, I am determined to retail. Ready Pay a little lower Than ever has been paid before.

The following articles will be received in payment: Wheat, Rye, Buckwheat, Oats, Corn, Butter, Flax, Ashes and Raw Hides. These articles will be taken in at the Esopie prices. Cash will not be refused. December 24, 1799."

There is also an advertisement of the sale of a "strong, healthy, active Negro Wench."

So, from the pages of the little time-worn sheet we catch a passing glimpse of the dignity and soberness of the time.

THE SEWER

A READING of Mr. George W. Griffith's article on another page suggests the prosperity that is in our midst. His figures reveal the fact that underneath the appearance of "quiet" (a word which so many apply to our town) there is a spirit of hustle and a desire for the best, which is effecting so much among us. The last year has witnessed the building of some fine new homes. Can the town afford to discourage all such enterprise by refusing to seriously try to provide for the improvements which the progressive citizens have a right to demand?

THE SEWER—that proposition has not occupied the place in our thoughts and discussions that it should. Why is not something being done? The chance is at hand and the need for action is immediate. Let us not lose sight of the seriousness of the demand because the more healthful winter weather has wiped out many of the ill-effects of our unsanitary surroundings. There is no time to be lost in the framing of a bill to be presented before the legislature now in session.

THE LEVY COURT

IN ANOTHER column, an account of the reorganization of the New Castle Levy Court, the re-election of John W. Dayett, of Pencader as president, is given in earnest recognition of a successful term. We have just reason to be proud of our local representatives, President Dayett and Chairman of Finance Committee Thompson.

The work of the Court has been one of progress along substantial conservative lines. A prominent Deawaren, one acquainted with public affairs for many years, said at Dover, yesterday, that New Castle had the best Levy Court he had ever known in the State. The members are in thorough sympathy with the good road movement on conservative lines. With additional funds used in the business-like manner heretofore practiced, New Castle county will have a system of roads, abreast the times comparing well with those of other States.

GOOD WORK

AMONG the persistent workers for the public good, who deserve words of praise are the members of the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

The last Legislature of 1909 appointed a State Tuberculosis Commission with an annual appropriation of $15,000 "to care for indigent consumptives and provide one or more dispensaries in each county."

A review of the work accomplished since that time reveals a record which is a creditable one. Nine dispensaries have been established, a visiting nurse in each county, visits all dispensary patients and keeps a record of the cases, milk, eggs and medicine have been given to destitute patients; while 757 patients have been treated, visited and recorded in the dispensaries. Do we realize what a safeguard has been this thrown around our community?

Probably no phase of this work has resulted in more good than their efforts along educational lines. A certain part of the world has, for a number of years, been convinced that the disease is a preventable one; among other classes these demonstrations, of caution and care are still necessities. The Commission represents a body of unsalaried workers to whom we owe much, and should certainly receive the heartiest support from the entire community which it protects.

LET DELAWARE EDITORS MEET

FROM time to time suggestions have been made to form an editorial association of the State. If such a body could organize and keep up an active existence, there is no doubt but that it would be of some good and benefit. If this should prove impossible would it not be a good plan to have an informal meeting at Dover some time during the present session of the Legislature?

Some States have these associations the value of which can scarcely be estimated.

An interchange of ideas and good fellowship would not in any wise hurt the press of Delaware.

Illness Of Paul Gillis

Paul Gillis, Ex-Sheriff of New Castle county, is very ill with pneumonia. Last week he attended the funeral of G. W. Williams he caught a severe cold. His son, Harry Gillis, representative in General Assembly from Wilmington, was telegraphed for on Tuesday. Mr. Gillis is now living with his son-in-law, near Hare's Corner. He is well known in this locality, having been for many years a resident of Pencader Hundred.

Though the patient is very weak the chances for his recovery are good.

J. W. Dayett Honored

J. W. Dayett, of Cooch's Bridge, at the recent organization of the Levy Court, was unanimously re-elected President of that body, receiving a total of six votes.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

FARMERS' WEEK AT DELAWARE

On account of lack of attendance during Farmers' Week last year it was deemed not to offer a short course in agriculture this year, and as a result no winter courses were advertised. However, the work of Agriculture at the College has become so well known and the farmers of the present day are appreciating the value of a technical training in their vocation to such an extent that a number of young men have come to the College at this time with a request for some special class-room work in Agriculture. The College, of course, will meet this demand, and is opening its doors to all who care to enter at this time for a two months' course. Special effort will be made to adapt the instruction to the students entering now, so that no special preparation is needed to appreciate it.

AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE OF BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Agricultural Committee of the Board of Trustees has under consideration the needs of the Agricultural Department with special reference to Legislative action at this session of the General Assembly. It is probable that they will ask for an appropriation to cover the construction of a dairy building on the College Farm, to complete the repairs on the old barn and tool sheds, to finish the stabling in the new dairy barn, and perhaps to build a new tenant house.

DEMAND FOR SOY BEANS.

There promises to be an unusual demand for soy bean seed for the coming season. In a letter received from a large dairy and cattle breeder of Massachusetts, it was stated that soy beans will come as near solving the problem of growing protein on the farm as we will ever get. He proposes to grow 40 acres for his own use this year. A large farmer near Delaware City is planning to put in 80 acres for feed and soil improvement. Prof. Grantham has just finished computing yields on the varieties grown at the College Farm the past year, and some of them are unusually promising, having made yields of 47 bushels per acre.

Dr. Cook returned Sunday night from his trip to Minneapolis. He reports a good attendance at the meeting of the Society for the Advancement of Science, and states that the papers read by himself and Dr. Bassett at the meeting were highly appreciated by those engaged in similar lines of work.

Dr. H. P. Bassett attended the meeting of the Society for the Advancement of Science, held in Minneapolis last week. From there he went to his home in Kentucky for a short visit, and will return to Newark next week via Washington.

A New Industry

The following clipping from the Kennett News and Advertiser suggests opportunities for a live Board of Trade.

A typewriter manufacturing company has to move from its present quarters in Philadelphia, and would like to locate in some smaller town. They would like to know what inducements Kennett has to offer. Here is a chance for our town to secure a big industry. The company is already established, has large orders, and would ultimately employ 500 hands. Our business men should not miss landing this prize if possible. Now is the time to act—Kennett News and Advertiser.

Entertained Friends On Birthday

Mr. Kerr has passed his seventy-sixth milestone. A pleasant evening was enjoyed by those present who expressed the wish that their host would live to enjoy many more such anniversaries.

FOR THE BEGINNING OF THE NEW YEAR

"We wish you a happy New Year."

But is the year happy that brings disappointment to the heart's most cherished hopes—that denies every opportunity for which the spirit has pleaded and which the will has sworn to achieve—that turns the feet of aspiration back to the level paths of drudgery and tedium and absorbs in stupid gray the colors of young imagination's dream? Shall all this be named gladness?

Perhaps it may prove the soil of gladness when the years are older, but now with the disappointment all new, it is enough to remember that it one will, one may forthwith grow in the same soil, for the flowering of this new year just beginning, a blossom which though it make not glad, shall richly beautify the summer of the soul's content.

Cheerfully accepting the allotment of life that has fallen to you, putting away vain repinings and all privilege of self-pity, submit yourself with determination to the beauty of calmness, simplicity and spiritual rest. So even dull and disappointing monotony may in the end be blessed not only for cessation from one's own agitation, but in due turn for an opportunity of ministering quietude to hearts yet restless than your own. "We wish you a happy New Year"—but far rather the grace to make it a year of perfect beauty."

—The Continent.

Every day is a fresh beginning.

Listen my soul, to the glad refrain,

And spite of old sorrow and older sinning.

And troubles forecasted, and possible pain.

Take heart with the day and begin again."

—Susan Coolidge.

No one ever regarded the first of January with indifference. It is that from which all date their time, and count upon what is left. It is nativity of our common Adam. Of all sound of bells (bells the music highest bordering upon heaven), most solemn and touching is the peal which rings out the old year. I never heard it without gathering up of my mind to a concentration of all the images that have been diffused over the

the superior value of young, vigorous, low-branched trees, planted on fertile land, cultivated, but not taxed with any other crop. They would have learned the advantage of apples being always hand-picked and handled as carefully as eggs from the tree to the consumer. It is the slight bruise that makes the early rot, and rotten apples are good only for the garbage can.

All these points and more are taught by our Agricultural Departments. They are known to our farmers. New methods of apple culture are coming into vogue, and the Eastern apples will re-establish its somewhat faded prestige. In every apple-growing State a new interest is developed in apple culture. The farmers of Pennsylvania are alive to it. Apple growing is an important and profitable feature on many farms, and when all the ancient and scale-blighted trees have been uprooted and banished, and young trees of the best varieties are growing in their places and kept guarded from scale infection there will be no inducement for the apple growers of the Pacific Coast to ship apples to Pennsylvania.—The Press.

The Pig Is Mightier Than The Pen
FARMER VERSUS EDITOR

I am here to say that the man who owns eighty acres of land and who has brains enough to tell it, makes the lot of country newspaper men look like the last sad remnants of a Dutch lunch.

The farmer has the best of it all around. He is as independent as the American Express Company. He doesn't have to write a soulful obituary over the remains of some peak-headed bloke who caved his wife's ribs in with a grub stake and kept on display an exhibit of cut plug profanity that would make the efforts of a steam-boat mate sound like a meeting of the Epworth League. He doesn't have to go into raptures over the beauty of an open-faced bride with a cast of countenance that would blow out the gas, and he can say what he dum pleases about a candidate for Congress something no newspaper ever dared to do unless he had just lost the postoffice.

The farmer isn't required to lie until his back teeth fall out, about the sterling manhood of a groom with ears like a cauliflower plant, and the brain power of a shoat. He doesn't have to run a piano contest for the most beautiful young lady in the community, make everybody sore about the winner, and then print a seventy-five cent half tone of the beauty that looks like a tincture of grandama at the age of thirteen.

There is nothing in the farmer's curriculum that obliges him to paint the local soprano as a heaven sent songster, when in fact she has a voice that would make a guinea weep. He isn't called upon to paint the virtues of a prominent citizen who earned his money by collecting notes with a draw share and who would have an attack of heart failure if suddenly separated from two bits of real money.

The farmer can stand on the street corner and roar about smallpox in town until his whiskers curl up like a lean man with the wind colic, and if the newspaper man runs a three line item to the same effect his advertisers will land on him and make him resemble a crushed fruit salad. If the printer opens his head about the presence of slot machinery, penny-ante and holes in the wall, every candidate he supports at the primary election will have about as much show of nomination as a one-legged man at a hurdle race. The farmer can sit on his front porch and if a newspaper japs a view that the preacher ought to be chasing a curycumb over a milk cow instead of filling a large room with thin ozone and misinformation, he will lose subscribers so fast that he won't have the circulation of a cold storage egg.

The farmer does not have to impress a chaste kiss on the moist nose of his foreman in order to keep him from getting drunk on press day, neither does he have to get somebody to go on his note when the devil carelessly feeds a pair of pipe tongs through the cylinder press or the cats chew the lining off a new set of rollers.

The farmer can express his opinion of the new Methodist preacher in a firm loud voice, on the four corners, and if the printer ventures to express the view that the preacher ought to be chasing a curycumb over a milk cow instead of filling a large room with thin ozone and misinformation, he will lose subscribers so fast that he won't have the circulation of a cold storage egg.

The farmer can express his opinion of the new Methodist preacher in a firm loud voice, on the four corners, and if the printer ventures to express the view that the preacher ought to be chasing a curycumb over a milk cow instead of filling a large room with thin ozone and misinformation, he will lose subscribers so fast that he won't have the circulation of a cold storage egg.

The farmer does not have to impress a chaste kiss on the moist nose of his foreman in order to keep him from getting drunk on press day, neither does he have to get somebody to go on his note when the devil carelessly feeds a pair of pipe tongs through the cylinder press or the cats chew the lining off a new set of rollers.

There is no law which compels him into filling four columns of space with clogged think-tank and a stickful of brain food.

If the editor takes two days off in fishing in succession, his patrons call him a loafer and take their job work to the other office. If he works until he is bowed over like a fat man with cramps, people say he is too stingy to hire extra help. If he contributes $2 to the W. C. T. U. and wears a boiled shirt on Sunday, the banks call in his notes with a noise like a wooden-legged man falling on a tin roof, and if he refuses to dig up for the Woman's Relief Corps supper, he is branded as a miser and avoided as if he had the hives.

The farmer can look every man in the face and tell him to go where there is no premium on coal slack, and if the printer informs a man who tries to beat him out of four year's subscription that he is so crooked that he couldn't go to sleep in a round house, he is liable to be reduced to the consistency of a corn-starch pudding.

In view of these facts why is the profession overcrowded? There are several reasons.

One is that man is a vain bird and is never happier than when he is a yapping in inotype slugs. Many a man would rather dispense fourteen columns of crooked rhetoric and reform spelling once a week and live on ossified liver and iced tea, than shave the warts off a calf's head and hold a pail for a sucking calf, even though he can fill up on green corn and side pork until he wheezes like an accordion with the asthma.

There are others, including a fair sprinkling of jack-leg lawyers and law-strung school teachers, who have imbibed the notion that the editor's life is softer than the head of a two ply sport. These rush in with a $500 outfit and wind pressure that would blister the lining out of a steel range and fill a long felt want with the grace of abandon of a hare-lipped hired girl at a beauty show.

Nothing ever drives these startlings out of the profession except sudden death or the sheriff. Then there are those misguided, ambitious politicians who believe the easiest way to clasp a fat office to your bosom is to become the editor of a newspaper. They usually fade away like a goat on a string bean diet, carrying through life a look of hopeless sorrow and remorse that would wring the tears from a porcelain egg.

If the newspaper man knew the joys and independence of the farmer's life, he would kick himself up to a peak until he looked like a rat-tailed file for continuing to make himself the door mat of the stiff-necked and ungodly community. Gentle communion with the kine is far better than animated converse with an irate subscriber with fists like a premium ham and the disposition of a hyena. Let us reform, brethren, and get close to nature's heart with a three-tined pitchfork and a self-feeding manure spreader.

We will live longer, as the married man said, and if the worst comes to worst, we can live on rutabagas and rock salt, which we have no doubt is an improvement over our customary diet. Then "Back to the soil" will be the pass word and "Soh Boss" the grand hating sign of distress.—Rann

KILMON-
TALKS ABOUT FEED

Everybody is talking about Pure Food Products and a wave of reform has swept the country—the outcome of which is all food products are what they are labelled to be.

We Sell That Kind of Groceries

But in this reform we have lost sight of the feed for animals.

JUST TAKE THE SUBJECT OF MIDLINGS

MIDLINGS is often written on the bag—and mill sweepings IN THE BAG.

How can you tell good middlings?

The color of MIDLINGS is WHITE.

Now if you get a bag marked MIDLINGS and they are dark—that means MILL SWEEPINGS.

Now all the proof you need to this statement is just to come take a look at the MIDLINGS I am selling, any farmer in this section will agree with me when they compare the PURE WHITE MIDLINGS and MILL SWEEPINGS.

H. R. TYSON'S RECORD SEASON

Sixty-Eight Times In The Money With A Total Of Seventy Starts—Five Horses Score
Forty-One Victories

Herman R. Tyson, the well-known and popular young trainer and driver at Newark, Del., certainly established an enviable record during the past season, indeed it was a record, when the elongated young reinsman drove on the half mile track forty-one winning races, and was in the money sixty-eight times out of a total of seventy starts, being unplaced but twice. To accomplish this Mr. Tyson used but five horses. All the races excepting one, which was a $1,000 stake, were purse events, with an individual value ranging from $500 to $500. The total winnings of the stable were upward of $10,000, a very good sum for an individual driver to reap from one season's harvest on the two lap rings.

Mr. Tyson's string consisted of Zimmerman (6) 2:11 1-4 by Kingmore, who won fourteen races out of sixteen starts. This pacing son of King-more was without a record when the campaign began.

The six year old pacer Ellen Brown, by Silent Brook, began the season with a record of 2:10 1-2 and closed it with one of 2:10 1-4, after competing in fourteen races without once being unplaced. Torino Wilkes (5) by Bohemia Boy, was the other pacer in the string, which began the season a "green" and after participating in fourteen events went into winter quarters with a record of 2:16 1-4, and was the only member of the stable to be unplaced during the campaign—twice being outside the money. The other two warriors were trotters. Sir Thomas Lipton, by Tetcher, started the season with a record of 2:23 1-2, and after starting in fifteen events, winning ten of them, getting second money four times and third once, closing with a new record of 2:19 1-4.
Charley Mitchell, by Marcyclus, began the season with a record of 2:18 1-4, and after starting in eleven races, annexing eight firsts and three second moneys, concluding the season with a record of 2:14 1-4.

Starting at Wilmington, Del., on July 19, the Tyson horses were raced at Tascy, Va., Pocomoke City, Md., Easton, Md., Wilmington, Del., Bethlehem, Pa., Baltimore, Md., Roanoke, Va., Lynchburg, Va., Richmond, Va.,
Winston, N. C., Greensboro, N. C.,
Salem, N. C., Raleigh, N. C., Charlotte, N. C., Columbia, N. C., and wound up at Augusta, Ga., eighteen weeks in all. In addition to the marks given to the above named horses in his charge, he gave St. Louis, by Count Louis, a record of 2:11 3-4.

While the season just closed has been a record one, however, the rise of this clever reinsman has not been meteoric. Last season—1909—he enjoyed his share of success, one of the leading winners he campaigned being Pencader, like h., 2:11 3-4 (half mile track) by King Albert, dam Josie Wilkes by George Wilkes. This son of Tyson's old pupil started ten times and won eight of his races, and is now in the stud in Maryland.

During the late nineties, while in the employ of L. F. Cochran, Jr., of New-York, Tyson raced with success the horses owned by Mr. Cochran, probably the most prominent being King Albert, by King Natwood, who obtained in 1899 a pacing record of 2:09 1-2, and the following year a trotting record of 2:12 1-2 at Read-ville in September. At that time Tyson, who was then but a youngster, gave evidence of possessing the ability which in later years has developed until the past season he made the great record referred to. Tyson has trained for most of the prominent horseowners of Delaware, Maryland,

Virginia and that section.

During the winter months the horses are quartered in Tyson's town barn in Newark. In the spring they are moved out to the half mile track—Huber Driving Park—just on the outside of the city, and it is here that such horses as previously named as well as Caffeno, 2:07 1-2, Gitchie Mau-ro, 2:09 1-4, and many other fast record horses have received their early education as taught by this astute and capable trainer. In the winter quarters are now Gitchie Manito, b. h., by Jaybird, dam Kate Patchen, by Mambrino Patchen, a pacing stallion, that Tyson gave a record of 2:09 1-4
on the half mile track at Titusville, Pa., in 1906. This horse is now used for stud purposes, and is owned by Mr. Tyson and W. A. Wenger, Harrington, Pa. Caffeno, 2:07 1-2, by Co-Kuser, 2:11 1-4, owned by John Watters, of Baltimore, Md., who maintains a stock farm and was for years the sponsor of the trotting meeting given at historic Pimlico; Ashland Bird,
2:15 1-4, trial (2:09 1-4), by Ashland Wilkes, dam Heir-to-Law, is one that considerable is expected of in 1911.
John W., 2:17 1-4, by Alverton, Singgerly Wilkes, 2:23 1-2, by Gov. Patterson, Bertha Pong, (2) 2:23 1-4, by Baron Deot, Hal Chimes, 2:24 1-4, by Tandy Chimes, Star Bingen, trial 2:20, by Bingen, Good Friday (full brother to Passenger Charn, 2:13 1-2), Allison, by Torino, is a green trotter that several wealthy owners have sought for manure racing; Zimbar, by Alcantara, is a very fast green pacer, that Tyson held over for the slow stakes of 1911. As a two year old this pacer demonstrated he possessed phenomenal speed. These horses, in addition to the ones raced this season, are now being jogged daily and will be prepared for the campaign of next year.
