The thrill of victory...

ON ONE of the biggest weekends of the year for high school sports, St. Mark's High and girls soccer were the biggest winners.

The Spartans captured state titles in both softball and baseball. It was the school's seventh and eighth state championships of the school year — a new record.

Freshman Dana Travis pitched a two-hitter as St. Mark's bested defending champion and previously unbeaten Brandywine 3-0 in the championship game of the Delaware

High School Softball Tournament.

The Spartans' baseball team, behind a two-hit pitching effort from sophomore Brian Hudock, topped Brandywine 6-3 and gave outgoing coach Tom Lemon a state title (fourth overall) in his final game.

Newark High dropped a 4-3 heartbreaker to defending state champ and unbeaten Alexis I. DuPont in the two-day, eight-overtime state championship girls' soccer game.

The game was the longest ever (boys or girls) in Delaware high school soccer history.

Climate at CHS much improved, Vann says

JOHNNY VANN walked slowly into his office in Christiana High School with track and football coach David Jones. The two men were trying to find a way to fund a trip to Hershey Park for the girl's track team, who beat Glasgow's champion relay team this year.

"I am so proud of this team," Vann said as he glanced over crisp, white budget forms.

Vann is wrapping up his first year as principal of CHS. He said, "The road was bumpy at first, but everyone has adapted well to Mr. Vann's new rules."

Vann said that once Christiana high students realized that he was going to take a tough stand on "nonsense" and that fighting would result in expulsion or alternative placement, the fighting stopped.

"That was the tone we wanted to set," said Vann. "We wanted the other students see that the disruptive ones were no longer here."

Vann said that as principal, he does not enjoy doing things like that. "I am an instructional leader and my job is to encourage students to remain in school," he said, "but I have to think about the majority of students."

Vann said that the kids have adjusted to the stricter policies because of their consistency and fairness. "When kids see that you mean business, they respect that," he added.

ACCORDING TO THOSE INVOLVED, the two ethics complaints filed against city councilman Harold Godwin took separate, circuitous and unrelated routes to reach city hall in Newark within 24 hours of each other.

On May 27, civic activist Shirley Tarrant filed papers in which she alleged that Godwin attempted to block the appointment of University of Delaware professor Leslie Goldstein, nominated by councilmember Nancy Turner, to the city Board of Ethics.

According to Tarrant, Godwin asked that the item be removed from the council agenda on two occasions and sent a memo to other councilmembers objecting to Goldstein not being "politically neutral."

Tarrant stated that she believes the real reason

Newark's top cop could hit the road

Hogan may have decision to make

This time next week, Newark's respected police chief may be pondering what he described as a "most difficult decision."

William A. Hogan, Newark's top law enforcement officer since August 1987, is one of two finalists for the police chief's position with the Roanoke County, Va., Police Department.

"If I am honored with an offer — and I do not have one at this time," Hogan said Tuesday, "it will be a most difficult decision to make. I and my family are very satisfied here in Newark and it would be very difficult to leave."

Virginia officials are expected to make their decision on a new chief next week. A contingent from Roanoke County was expected to be in Newark yesterday meeting with Hogan's references and gathering other information.

The 46-year-old chief said the Virginia position is "the first post that I've applied for in 10 years." He said the Roanoke County job offers him the opportunity to continue his professional growth in an area "with a quality of government equal to that of Newark." Another big attraction for Hogan is that his mother and brother live in the Roanoke Valley area.

City hall buzzed this week when a memo announced Hogan's finalist status. "Everybody is happy for him. Bill's done a great job, but the memo caught us by surprise," one city employee said Wednesday.

In a public hearing on the city police Jan. 28, speaker after speaker traveled to the podium to praise the department and Hogan's leadership.

Del. Attorney General Jane Brady declared "the Newark Police Department and Chief Hogan have one of the best relationships with a community that I have ever seen."

Hogan

This week, a Main Street business operator echoed the praise. Gene Danneman, president of the Newark Business Association and operator of the Copy Maven, said, "he's been very responsive to the needs of the business community and it's a pleasure to work with him."

Danneman credited Hogan's leadership with halting a serious cruising, loitering and vandalism problem on Main Street. "Kids hanging on the sidewalk used to scare my customers away when I first opened my business," she said.

Hogan continues to cooperate, the business leader said. Many credit a 9:30 p.m. parking ban on Main Street with solving the cruising problem but increased demands for parking today have changed the tide. "In spite of his reservations, he's willing to work with us to experiment and repeal the parking ban."

But Hogan has his detractors. Privately, some Newark officers have complained of the changes Hogan has instituted in the Newark department. When the NPd moved into its new headquarters adjacent to city hall in the fall of 1993, the Newark Post published a special section titled "Hogan's Heroes." One Fraternal Order of Police leader and police supervisor called to protest the headline and stated "he isn't my and a lot guys' hero!"

The other finalist is the 51-year-old captain of the Roanoke County Police Department's criminal investigation division, who has been with the Virginia law enforcement agency for 17 years.

Roanoke County's sworn police force is nearly twice the size of Newark's and serves a population of 80,000. The department is up for reaccreditation by the national Commission on Accreditation of Law Enforcement Agencies. Following years of preparation under Hogan's leadership, this spring Newark's department became one of a few police organizations in the country to earn the distinction. Newark was only the second municipal force in Delaware to be accredited.

Fire at Roy Rogers site

Nobody was injured after a fire broke out Wednesday afternoon at the old Roy Rogers site on Main Street in Newark.

A fire in an office in the center of the building was brought under control in 30 minutes, according to city fire marshal Kenneth Farrall.

Farrall said the cause of the fire is under investigation. "The fire did heavy damage to the roof and smoke damage throughout the building," noted Farrall.

Students with drug apparatus found in NHS stall

Newark Police report that on May 27 around noon, a teacher at Newark High School responded to a complaint that a male student was seen in a women's restroom.

Upon entering the lavatory, the teacher found three students crammed in the same stall. The students — a 18-year-old female, a 16-year-old male, and another female, age unknown — reportedly held a hypodermic needle and other paraphernalia commonly used to inject drugs.

According to police they confiscated a small amount of a substance believed to be heroin. The case is pending warrants.

No charges have been filed as of press time, police said.

Robbers sample fare at Ground Round

Newark police are investigating the late night hold-up of a popular South College Avenue eatery on June 3.

According to police, a lone white male entered the Ground Round restaurant at 11:55 p.m., just before closing time. The robber displayed a handgun and demanded money from the staff.

The suspect escaped with an undisclosed amount of cash.

Worker charged in peeping incident

A maintenance man at Southgate Apartments has been charged with trespassing in connection with a "peeping Tom" incident on May 28.

Newark police were summoned to Marvin Drive about 12:38 a.m. when a white male wearing a baseball cap was observed looking into a window at 17 Marvin Dr. Subsequent investigation led to the arrest of Richard R. Weitzmann, who was charged with trespassing with intent to peep. He was released pending his arraignment in Alderman's Court of Newark.

Driver flees after hitting cyclist

At press time, Newark police were continuing their investigation of a rush hour, hit-and-run accident along a busy Newark thoroughfare.

Police said a 14-year-old male riding his bicycle was struck while crossing Library Avenue near College Square on June 3 around 4:45 p.m. The vehicle is described as a blue-and-white Bronco or Blazer. Police suspect there may be damage to the windshield.

The driver, described as a white male, in his 30s, fled eastbound on Route 273.

The boy was taken to Christiana Hospital his condition is unknown.

Anyone with information about the vehicle or driver are asked to call police at 366-7111.

Newark man arrested for assault

Delaware State Police have arrested a Newark man for an assault after he allegedly used his vehicle to strike a man he had just had an argument with. Nathaniel Cain, 41, of Egret Court, Newark, was arrested by state police after he reportedly used his 1986 Plymouth Voyager to run down another 41-year-old Newark man.

According to a release issue by Cpl. Walter Newton, the two men had become involved in an argument at 39 Albe Dr. in the Old Baltimore Pike Industrial Park, Newark, on Saturday, May 24, at 5:45 p.m. The argument had escalated to the point where Cain got into his vehicle and pursued the victim.

The victim was taken to Christiana Hospital where he was admitted for neck and spine injuries. Cain was charged with assault 1st and arraigned at Court 11 in New Castle. Cain was held on $2,000 secured bail pending a preliminary hearing in the Court of Common Pleas in Wilmington.

Suspects in two robberies sought

The Delaware State Police is investigating two robberies that occurred in the late evening of May 25.

The first robbery occurred at 10:15 p.m. at the Movie Madness Video Store located at 10 Salem Village Square, Newark.

According to a release issue by Cpl. Walter Newton, two store employees were closing the store when two suspects approached them and displayed handguns. The suspects forced the employees back into the store and removed money before fleeing the scene. The suspects are both described as black males in their early 20's.

State police are also investigating a second robbery that occurred on the 25th at 10:40 p.m. The second robbery took place at Henry's Exxon located at 4830 Kirkwood Highway when a black male, 19 years old, entered the store and displayed a handgun. Police said the gunman held the store clerk at bay while removing currency from the register. The suspect fled the scene in a faded gray older model Toyota or Mazda vehicle with Delaware plates.

Anyone having any information on either robbery is asked to contact the Delaware State Police at Troop 2 at 323-4411.

Mother approached at College Square

According to Newark Police, on May 29 around 8 p.m., a Newark woman was menaced at the College Square Shopping Center while getting into her vehicle.

Police said the suspect engaged the woman in conversation as she put her children in the back seat of the vehicle. The man followed the victim around to the driver's side of the vehicle. As she entered her vehicle, the man ran to the passenger side and tried to open the door. The driver pulled away.

The suspect is described as a light skinned black male with dark brown hair, a beard that may have been fake, was 6 feet tall, weighing 180 pounds, and wearing a white tee shirt. No injuries were reported.

Anyone with information is asked to call police at 366-7111.

Scam alert

New Castle County Police have issued a scam alert concerning the potential reappearance of con artists and organized thieves.

According to police, organized bands of thieves, sometimes called "travelers," have traditionally targeted senior citizens or affluent communities. They travel the east coast using various means or scams to obtain property or cash from unsuspecting victims. Generally these groups appear when the weather becomes warmer and people are more active.

A common tactic used by these individuals is to cause a distraction to divert the victim's attention. One or more suspects will engage the victim while others enter the victim's house and remove property. Some of the ploys include asking for directions as if lost, asking for help looking for a lost pet, asking for a glass of water, or faking an injury.

Other tactics include home repair scams. The suspect will claim to have excess materials from a previously accomplished job and quote an unbelievable price. The suspect will often ask for a deposit and not return to accomplish the job or use inferior or sub-standard materials.

Distinguished journalist speaks

Geyer's career has been a whirlwind of groundbreaking journalism: She was the first American journalist to stay in the mountains and report on the Guatemalan guerrilla movement; the first to find Dominican President Juan Bosch in hiding during the Dominican Revolution and report his views; the only American to interview Argentine President Juan Peron; one of the first journalists to interview the Ayatollah Khomeini; and the person who interviewed Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia when all American reporters were forbidden to enter the country.

Her interview with Fidel Castro resulted in the 1991 book, "Guerrilla Prince: the Untold Story of Fidel Castro."

During the course of her career, Geyer was held by the Palestinians as an Israeli spy, was imprisoned in Angola for writing about the revolutionary government and posed as a waitress at a Mafia wedding — an effort that earned her the Chicago Newspaper Guild prize for best human interest story.

Her career is detailed in her book, "Buying the Night Flight: The Autobiography of a Woman Foreign Correspondent," first printed in 1981 and revised and issued in a second edition in 1996.

The new edition tells of her career in a man's world and includes her eyewitness account of the fall of the Soviet empire. It also chronicles her recent experiences as a columnist.

Nearly identical ethics complaints held unrelated

► ETHICS, from 1

Godwin opposed Goldstein, successfully appointed by council on May 27, is because Goldstein filed a lawsuit against Godwin's service station in 1981.

On May 28, Scott Bowling, who filed another ethics complaint against Godwin during his recent unsuccessful bid for Godwin's council seat, also filed a complaint this time alleging the same facts as those presented by Tarrant.

Goldstein said she did not know city councilmember Nancy Turner and did not "particularly" want to serve on the Ethics Board when Turner first called her.

"Someone gave her my name and after she told me the Board hardly ever met, I agreed to have my name put up for the appointment," said Goldstein.

About six weeks after that initial telephone conversation, and "shortly before the most recent council meeting," Goldstein said Turner called again and asked to meet with her. "During the meeting Nancy asked me if I knew of any reason for Hal Godwin to block my appointment," explained Goldstein. "I told her I have a history with Hal and told her about the lawsuit."

Goldstein added, "It was widely known when Godwin first ran for council (13 years ago), because I told a lot of people about it then."

However, said Goldstein, she did not have any proof that Godwin remembered it.

On May 16, Tarrant showed up at the Newark Post with the information that she had uncovered the fact of the lawsuit and wanted to write a column about Godwin and the appointment. Tarrant has been an unpaid columnist for the Newark Post for many years.

Asked at that time about where she had heard about the lawsuit, Tarrant said "I have my sources."

However, in a telephone conversation on June 3, Tarrant said, "I'll tell you who told me, Nancy did after she called Leslie Goldstein."

Tarrant continued, "But this didn't start with Nancy, it started with me. I told her to call Leslie Goldstein and find out if there was any reason Hal Godwin might not want her on the Board."

According to Tarrant, Turner shouldn't be "vilified" about questioning Godwin in council about this matter. "She was about to reveal the lawsuit then, but the rest of council cut her off," claimed Tarrant.

Tarrant said that she did not talk with Goldstein about the matter before filing her complaint, and

ETHICS HEARING:

THE ETHICS BOARD will meet on June 19 at 1:30 p.m. to hear the complaints filed by Shirley Tarrant and Scott Bowling alleging unethical behavior by councilmember Harold Godwin in regard to the appointment of Leslie Goldstein to the Board.

According to Goldstein, who was appointed to the Board by city council in a unanimous vote on May 27, she will not sit on the Board to hear the matter.

"I called Board chairman Frank Forester and told him I had to excuse myself," said Goldstein. "Of course he understood."

Goldstein said it is possible that the Board may want her to appear as a witness.

although she called Godwin about the stalled appointment, she did not mention the lawsuit to him.

Tarrant ultimately did not write the column but instead filed an ethics complaint on Tuesday, May 27. "I hand carried the complaint to the homes of all the members of the Ethics Board," Tarrant explained.

Both Tarrant and Turner said they have never discussed the matter of the appointment with the other complainant, Scott Bowling.

"I had no conversation with Scott Bowling about this," said Turner.

Tarrant said she was "completely stunned" when she heard about his complaint. "I'm really sorry he filed his," Tarrant said. "It sort of complicates the situation."

According to Bowling, he did not "take any notice" when the matter of Leslie Goldstein's appointment to the Ethics Board first was taken off the agenda before the city election in April.

Bowling did recall discussing the matter with Turner right after the election. But it was only when it was taken off the council agenda a second time that Bowling claimed he got "suspicious."

Bowling

He said he asked councilmember Jerry Clifton why the appointment was removed again and was told that "some councilmembers had reservations" about the appointment and they wanted to study it some more.

"I didn't know Goldstein, I had never met her, but I knew of her background," asserted

Bowling, "and that didn't sit well with me."

Bowling said he later "heard rumblings" about legal problems between Godwin and Goldstein. "Someone I know in Abbotsford who works at the University happened to mention that it was too bad about Leslie Goldstein's appointment being held up because of an old legal matter," explained Bowling. "They didn't know if it was true, but I said 'that's easy enough to find out.'"

Although he did not file any supporting document with his complaint, Bowling claimed he went to the Court of Common Pleas and found the 1981 lawsuit.

That's really all he needed. "The issue was as clear as day," said Bowling, although he added that he would not have filed it if Godwin made the old lawsuit public.

It is unclear how Bowling knew about the memo from Godwin sent to the Mayor and Council on April 29, although he makes reference to it in his complaint.

Despite this, he did not talk to Godwin or wait for the final hearing on the appointment.

Armed with suspicion and a 16-year-old lawsuit, Bowling said he planned to file the ethics complaint before the council meeting on Tuesday, May 27.

Clifton said he was at Turner's house on Memorial Day, and she showed him a copy of the lawsuit that was filed with the complaint against Godwin the next day.

On May 27 at 5:55 p.m., Clifton said he received a telephone call from Turner telling him that Scott Bowling had left a message on her answering machine saying that Bowling had filed an ethics complaint that day.

"I was going to file it on Tuesday," Bowling confirmed, "but I got stuck in traffic and the City Secretary's office was closed so I had to go back again on Wednesday."

On the morning of Wednesday, May 28, Clifton said he called the City Secretary's office and asked about the Bowling complaint. "Sue Lamblack said, 'it's news to me.'"

Asked if he discussed the filing of the complaint with anyone else before he did so, Bowling said no.

In a conversation with the Newark Post on Tuesday, Turner stated without equivocation that she never discussed the Goldstein matter with Bowling. She then hung up, saying she wanted to watch Court TV.

During a follow-up telephone call, in which it was explained that she might want a chance to respond to questions because a news story was being prepared, Turner twice stated, "I have nothing to say," before again hanging up.

Climate of Christiana H. S. excellent, principal says

► PRINCIPAL, from 1

"They have also seen that I can laugh and joke, that I'm not a 'horse of a different color,'" he said.

"I don't want the kids to see me as an icon," Vann said. "I'd rather have them see me as a father figure."

Vann said he maintains an open-door policy for students, staff and parents because he feels it is essential to be available for all of them. "If a parent takes time off work to see me, it's important to them," he said.

"When a parent says, 'Thank you. You're doing a good job,' that's rewarding," said Vann. "To walk into the halls, see them shining, and the corridors clear of kids (during class time)," he said, "makes all the hard work worth it."

Some other changes that have occurred, Vann said, are that the kids seem to be happier, and the "climate of the building is excellent."

Vann said the kids don't hang in big groups in order to "watch their backs," and any harassment is dealt with promptly.

"The teachers feel more empowered now," Vann said, "because they know disruptions will be dealt with and followed up on."

Vann said he has been pleased with the support he has received from parents, teachers, and the district. "We also have an excellent custodial staff and good security," he said.

The principal plans no major changes for the 1997-98 school year, but said he would like to add more activities for the students, such as more plays and field trips. "I tried to get a steel band to play at a lunch festival for the students, but all the bands I contacted were booked," he said.

Vann said his initial impression that CHS students were among the most disrespectful he had ever seen may have a little premature.

"The kids are ready for more freedom," Vann said, "and I am pleased and happy with them."

'If you gotta work,' Newark's the place

Assistant City Manager retires

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Sitting in an office crowded with brand new chairs, no two alike, has been part of "business as usual" for city employee Fred Herald for 12 years.

"We're trying out the chairs for an order to replace all the ones in the municipal building," explained Herald, who will retire on June 30. "All the departments have taken turns trying them."

Among other things, the administrative assistant to city manager Carl Luft is responsible for advertising and reviewing all bids for city equipment.

Herald has meticulously guided the city through hundreds of bids, from developing specifications with department directors, to advertising, evaluating and presenting the results to city council, and finally issuing the purchase orders.

"I pick committees to evaluate what's available when we need office equipment and they tell me what seems the best option for them," explained Herald, before adding with a laugh, "We choose people who aren't shy about saying what they think."

Other areas of Herald's job include human services and emergency management. "We eliminated the city human services department shortly after I started," explained Herald. "So it was added to my responsibilities."

Herald said the Hudson State Service Center through referrals to the Newark Area Welfare Committee now handled most of needs of city residents. "The service center sends the vast majority of people to the welfare committee," said Herald. "The city appropriates a certain amount of money and funnels it through the committee."

Herald said the committee was one of the few welfare agencies he had known which had no administrative costs. "We've trusted them to handle the funds and deliver services," said Herald. "It's worked well."

Although preparation and administration of an emergency management plan for the city has been a significant part of Herald's duties, it has been turned over to another department now that he's retiring.

"We took that function to the building department and the city fire marshal to stay on top of," said Herald. "Carl Luft was concerned that he just couldn't find someone to do all that I do now."

Despite its demands, his job with the city manager was actually Herald's fourth career. "I worked for the Newark Police for 26 years," said Herald. "Before that I had a drywall business that dried up in the recession."

Moving to Newark after his military service, Herald also had an insurance business briefly. "I never wanted to be a policeman but I heard about the job when I needed one and I had a family to support," he said. "I liked it when I got into it and eventually rose to be Captain before I retired."

Herald thought he would only work for the city manager for four or five years when he started. "I'm only retiring now because my wife is leaving MBNA," he said. "We're going to travel for the first 12 months and then come back here to live."

Although counting down the days, Herald said "if you gotta work," the city of Newark is a good place to do it. "The city provided me with an opportunity to raise my family and I'm grateful for that," he said. "I made the contribution expected of me, and I was treated fairly in return."

Nevertheless, when asked what he would miss about the job, Herald quickly replied, "Nothing," and added that his only regret was that he didn't do it earlier in the spring. "I have a boat and I would like to be there now," he said.

Don't freeze out new jobs

WE GIVE DUE CREDIT to New Castle County Executive Tom Gordon's efforts to make substantial reforms to government, and in particular to cap runaway development. However, we do question the wisdom of his proposed six-month freeze on rezoning and development requests.

Gordon's intentions are laudable. The traffic jams we experience every day are clear evidence that something's amiss. The county must rewrite its laws concerning overcrowded roads and schools, sewers and other development concerns. It must deal with such issues as they are, not as they should have been.

However, we're fearful of the message that a blanket "closed door" policy might have to companies eyeing the county as a home, especially if the move would provide jobs. While the City of Newark is not affected by Gordon's proposal, New Castle County cannot afford to promote any anti-business image, even if for a short time.

With the retooling of the Chrysler and GM plants, it's very possible that related businesses — as well as others — may want to relocate here. Telling the prospects they must wait six months — no exceptions — to even begin a rezoning or permit process could easily send them looking in Maryland, Pennsylvania or New Jersey.

THROUGH THE WOODS

Suddenly at home

By MARY PETZAK

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

MY FATHER DIED last night. He went the way he always said he wanted to, probably asleep, watching television on a Sunday evening.

He had lived mostly alone for the last few years, although he spent some time with a lady companion after my mother died in 1977.

Since his retirement that same year, he had tried to make a life for himself without ever having planned for being alone.

He traveled a little, meeting his lady friend while on a trip to Bermuda in 1978. He went to Florida and San Francisco and Hawaii with her on later jaunts.

Five years after my mother's death, he sold their long-time home in Delaware County, Pa., and started a whole new life with his friend at a retirement community hall in New Jersey.

He was worried that my brothers and I would not want him to do that, but we wanted him to live, and live well, wherever he was happy.

In 1985, he had a triple heart bypass and needed months to recover. We all thought that was the beginning of more or less permanent incapacity but my father never agreed with us.

He recovered fully and continued to play pool with a league at the community and even delivered Meals on Wheels for people who were really old.

He joined family and friends in dancing and celebrating at social events. We have pictures of him doing the Hokey-Pokey at my daughter's wedding in 1991.

In 1992, he had to have his colon removed when cancer was detected. I stood beside him and held his hand when he came out of surgery, helplessly trying to send comfort and ease the pain I knew he felt.

He looked so small and frail as he gazed up at me that day. But he recovered from that operation also, enduring chemotherapy and medication and living with a colostomy.

His relationship with his friend, always rocky and often leading to temporary partings, came to a permanent end two years ago. He moved to an apartment near their home in New Jersey because he said that was where his doctors were — and his friends.

First, there was the woman who owned his apartment building. Almost young enough to be his daughter, she let him "help her out" adjoining store.

Because his apartment had access to the store, many times he served customers when she was away or too ill to come in herself. One of the few times they quarreled was when she tried to bring in "outside" help because she thought my father was too old to be alone there.

And no matter where he lived or how long, my father always had "cronies." Drinking buddies we sometimes called them, although in truth, they were many times much more than that.

In these last years of his life, they provided him with companionship and a sense that he was still a part of the world. They also helped him, repeatedly finding parts and repairing his car which he insisted on driving, even doing his laundry when he was hospitalized the last time.

Two weeks before Easter, he went to the emergency room with a congestive heart problem. My brothers and I anxiously took turns making the almost two-hour drive to see him, thinking this was really the end.

During that week he told me he never wanted to go in a nursing home or be confined to the house. "This is how I see it," he said, sitting in his hospital room. "It's like you're walking along the street, and as you're walking, parts of you drop off or stop working."

"One day you just fall down and don't get up. People come and look at you and say, 'Oh, he's gone away.' That's the way I want it to be."

On Easter, we had our last family dinner at my house, with my children and my grandchildren and my father. He had once again recovered well enough to enjoy himself and there was a lot of silly talk about the impending birth of two more great-grandchildren because both my children were expecting.

Late in the day, my 3-year-old grandson wanted to play hide and seek. My husband and son-in-law took turns hiding with him and from him, because he was too nervous to hide himself for long and it scared him when the "hider" jumped out and surprised him.

My father finally couldn't resist getting into the act. He agreed to help my grandson look for my son-in-law. They found him, and as usual my grandson came shrieking back to where the rest of us were talking.

Running right behind him was my 84-year-old father, laughing so hard he could barely breathe. That's how I'll always remember him — living and laughing and

Commencement exercise at UD to surpass those of former years

Plans are completed for the commencement Exercises of the University of Delaware for this year. The exercises will cover a period of three days and promise to surpass all former years.

The program will begin on Saturday, June 10 and continue until Monday, June 12. The exercises will be conducted by Daylight Saving time.

Daylight Saving is opposed at meeting

Daylight Saving came in for a slam at the meeting of the New Castle County Pomona Grange, held at Stanton, last week.

That the new time was an expense and a hindrance to the farmer and a detriment to the health and happiness of children were the principal points brought out by John Banks, Master of Diamond State Grange in his welcoming address.

Banks pointed out the many ways in which the tillers of the soil declare they are hindered and put to great expense in their work.

New Library

Construction is expected to start in the fall, for the Newark Free Library. The one-story, air-conditioned brick structure will occupy 15,000 square feet on West Delaware Avenue site near Newark High School.

Designed for future expansion, the library will be a completely modern resource center for the information, education and recreation of the 70,000 Newark School District residents.

Total project cost, including site preparation, furniture and equipment, is estimated to be 7000,000.

The great big building boom

Contractors and speculators are busy mapping out plans of action for acquiring and developing large tracts of land in preparation for a construction explosion in New Castle County.

The building boom will leave in its wake, thousands of new homes, hundreds of new apartment units, and several new shopping centers.

The building explosion will center around Newark, stretching north into the Pike Creek Valley region and south to Glasgow.

Gymnast qualifies for nationals

Gymnastics isn't your typical spring sport; but Samia Sarif isn't your typical high school athlete either.

Sarif, a senior at Newark High, qualified for a national gymnastics competition in Las Vegas, Nev. from June 17-21.

"I'm just ecstatic about making it," said Sarif who plans to major in psychology at Delaware. "It means so much more this year."

Arcade opening gets cautious Newark OK

Newark City Council will allow an arcade to open this month in the Newark Shopping Center despite opposition from city officials, the police chief, and several council members.

Traveling a necessity for legislators

To: The editor,
From: Timothy U. Boulden
House of Representatives

Some members of the media have recently placed under the microscope the travel logs of a number of my colleagues. I think it is important to shed some light on what often goes on at many of these out-of-state conferences.

As first-year Chairman of the House Transportation Committee I was invited to a meeting of the Northeast Legislative Transportation Coalition, which is under the auspices of the Council of State Governments' Eastern Regional Conference.

Much of the conference agenda was dedicated to briefings on the future of AMTRAK and the reauthorization of ISTEA (Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991). These are two topics that directly impact Delaware and deserve a good deal of attention from the General Assembly.

As author of a house resolution that encourages Congress to reauthorize ISTEA, I found it helpful to meet those legislators supporting such action. A reauthorization of ISTEA would allow Congress to make no significant changes to the program and continue providing the same amount of federal dollars to states based on their transportation needs.

It is clear that without a move to reauthorize the legislation with the same amount of funding, some states, including Delaware, would need to find other revenue to pay for various transportation necessities. Delaware cannot afford to lose this federal funding commitment.

Preserving AMTRAK's rail operations along the heavily traveled Northeast Corridor was another main focal point of the conference. AMTRAK president and CEO Thomas Downs spent some time with conference members, primarily discussing a proposal to dedicate a half-cent of the federal gasoline tax in order to keep rail traffic moving along the corridor. By attending the conference I was able to express my support for AMTRAK's continued service in the Northeast.

The briefings also included discussions on the proposed merger of CSX and Conrail railroads. The plan especially impacts Newark because the CSX line travels through the City. With the future of the rail industry constantly taking new shape, Daniel King with the U.S. Department of Transportation addressed what impact such a merger may have on Delaware and the rest of the country, as well as some options the states may have in order to be more involved in the process of divvying-up various rail lines as the number of mergers increases nationally.

Some may ask "why travel out of state to talk with the feds" or "why not invite them to our great State." As an elected official I have a responsibility to represent my constituents in the best way I see fit. Sometimes it means traveling beyond Delaware's borders to ensure our State gets the attention it rightfully deserves.

We need to invest more for children's safety

To: The editor
From: Sen. Liane M. Sorenson
Senator, 6th District

As a result of recent high-profile incidents of child abuse, many people have been asking what we can do to prevent such tragic consequences. Some have suggested that holding caseworkers strictly accountable is the most important part of the solution.

Certainly, individual employees in the Division of Family Services should be held responsible if an incident happens as a result of their negligence, gross misjudgment, or inappropriate handling of a case. But focusing only on fixing blame will not solve the larger problem.

Unfortunately, most cases of child abuse and neglect are complex. Surprisingly, it is not always easy to confirm such cases. In two prominent cases recently, for example, DFS workers took the children to a hospital as part of the investigation of reports of serious physical abuse, but the doctors involved found no evidence of abuse.

In my experience, problems related to these cases can occur in any part of the system: DFS, the courts, law enforcement, the schools, and the medical community. Senator Myrna Bair and I introduced a bill that would establish an officer of Child Advocate to serve as an ombudsperson for children. The advocate would be an attorney who could provide independent oversight of the Department of Services to Children, Youth, and their Families with the power to investigate cases, periodically review institutions and facilities, recommend policy changes and take legal action on the child's behalf.

Another problem with the system is that the case loads of DFS workers are well above the national average and higher than workers can safely handle. If a worker has a case load of 30 to 40 clients it is extremely difficult to give an individual case the attention it needs. I serve on the Joint Finance committee and will make it one of my priorities to see that we get more trained workers.

Investing resources to make sure caseworkers are highly trained and have manageable caseloads will be an important part of the solution. It will also require special diligence and sensitivity to the safety of children by all of us.

If you get more calls from your creditors than from mom, we can help.

NEWARK OUTLOOK

Art and culture can add to daily grind but also relieve us from it

■ This weekly feature on the Lifestyle page is authored by the staff of the Newark-based Cooperative Extension Service.

ONE OF the more difficult parts of balancing work and family is seeing to the children's cultural education. When we come home tired, longing to stretch out to relax, it's hard to play taxi; delivering children to lessons, practices, rehearsals, and meetings.

Parental involvement in children's activities is important for them and for you. You can help to take the grind out of your hectic life by getting involved yourself. You could double the fun by taking lessons with your child. My sister just joined her daughter in ballet lessons. They set out to increase flexibility, build muscles, and improve their posture. Dance generally helps develop self-confidence.

You could drive madly to get the kids to music lessons on time, but you could be like some families and spend evenings practicing the family orchestra at home in the living room.

By Maria Pippidis

Some people are great at teaching the arts at home - look at Maria in The Sound of Music. Even without mountains and lakes, you can provide opportunities for creative drama in your home. Kids love to pretend and use imagination. Through drama, children develop critical thinking, ability to work with others, and a healthy sense of emotion.

To be an artist you must really "see" the world around you. Parents, grandparents... really all of us can share in the pleasure of sharing our curiosity and life discoveries with children we know and love. Provide kids a wide variety of art materials and methods for their experimentation. If you aren't artistic yourself, the library has great books for reading aloud together about works of art from the past and present.

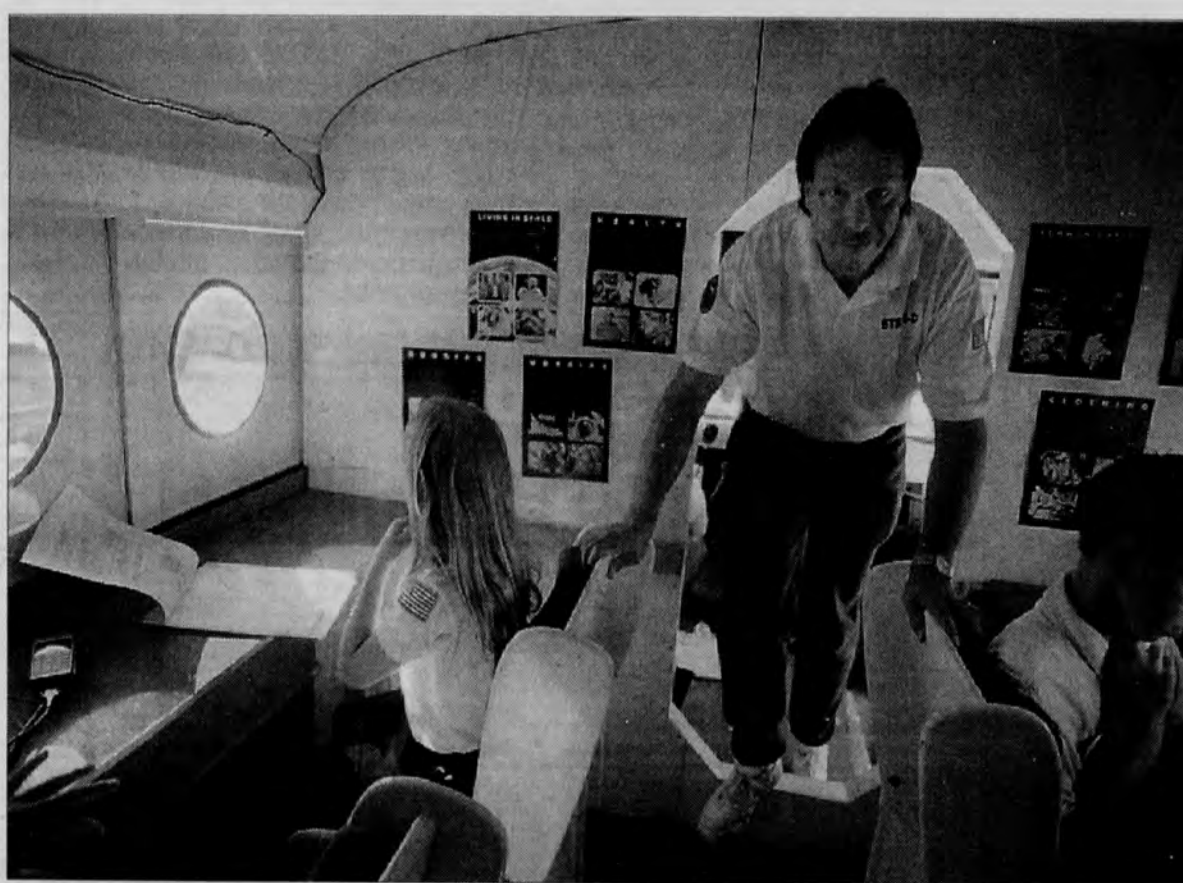

Language is a part of our culture that parents can easily promote. All young children love to make jokes and puns, sing songs, invent names, and here or tell stories. It's a short step from and teach kids about creative story telling.

If an adolescent or teen asks for writing inspiration, you can suggest riddles, a story about a day when only impossible things happen, first sentences that set up strange and intriguing situations or dialogue between two related objects, such as your feet and the sidewalk.

It's up to your children- and your one last nerve- to decide which teams, lessons, and activities they will pursue. But with arts funding being critically eyed, it's more important than ever to personally support your children's cultural education. Without it we will lose our quality of life and endanger our most important skill-creative problem solving.

COUNTDOWN TO TAKE-OFF!

DOWNES STUDENTS TAKE-OFF!

Students at John R. Downes Elementary School in Newark recently "launched" their own space shuttle. Student "scientists" and "astronauts" at the Casho Mill Road facility spent many school days preparing for the simulated launch as part of a statewide program that is designed to bring science, math, technology and career choices into the curriculum. "Launching A Dream" is the continuation of an annual statewide aerospace education program in its sixth year coordinated by Dr. Stephanie Wright. It is the culmination of the cooperative efforts of students, teachers, parents, and businesses at various "mission" sites like Downes. This year, shuttle improvements were continued by parent volunteers from Downes. All of the students were given the opportunity to participate in some aspect of the project such as the schoolwide "naming the orbiter" and logo design contests, hot air balloon lessons, a space Science Fair and astronaut selection. Additional assignments included mission control, flight planners and controllers, and security and public affairs officers. The Downes crew will simulate pre-, post- and in-flight shuttle activities. The payload included an exchange of data from long-term experiments including plant growth and comparison, animal behavior, water and MARS soil testing, crystal growth, and communication and map reading skills. This shuttle embarked on its maiden voyages to the Dover Air Force Base, where crews docked it with a C-5 Space Station. During the Dover rendezvous, Lt. Gov. Ruth Ann Minner, Dover AFB representatives and other dignitaries extended greetings, viewed the orbiter and experiments, and shared in a goodwill space lunch.

A new theater comes roaring into the county

A NEW THEATER has made its debut on our peninsula. Its dimensions are a bit strange for a theater space. It is only 73 feet long. It is only four seats wide and designed for two people to a seat. Every seat has an operating window next to it. There is only one aisle and it runs down the center.

There is no stage in this new theater. The actors work in what theater people call "The House," the place where the audience is seated. By the way, only 46 people may witness each performance. Lighting is minimal but very effective.

Its location? That is perhaps the strangest part of this new theater. Its location depends on the time of the day and day of the week because it does move about on a pre-ordained route and on a schedule announced about a year in advance.

As far as the adjective "new" to describe this theater, that is even a bit of a problem. You see the structure was built in 1929 but only became a theater in May of this year. Sound confusing? It really isn't. It is just my way of introducing a new "Murder Mystery Theater Train" which is now operating on the Wilmington & Western Railroad, Delaware's oldest shortline railroad, founded 130 years ago in 1867. It is still operating over the same right-of-way as the original railroad.

The new train operates the fourth Tuesday of each month from May to November. It departs W&W's Greenbank Station on the Newport-Gap Pike at 8 p.m. Four professional actors get the audience involved very early as a mystery begins to unfold. As the train makes its way along the historic Red Clay Valley, travelers begin to witness some unusual events.

The intermission finds the train in Hockessin, Delaware, at The Back Burner Restaurant. Here the actors and patrons can take a break and discuss the mystery, ask questions of each other, propose solutions, etc. While this is going on the folks at The Back Burner are loading the train with their gourmet desserts and Green Mountain coffee. When all the goodies are aboard, another part of the train is opened to the public and then the conversation and questions are over dessert and coffee.

Adoptions From The Heart

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

The completion of the mystery and its denouement occur as the train moves back through the darkened valley to Greenbank Station. The entire performance, with the delightful intermission, takes just over two hours. There was a dress rehearsal in May which included the train trip and the stop at The Back Burner. I was on board and enjoyed myself immensely.

One question came up several times as we talked about the new train. Why run on the fourth Tuesday of the month? Well, Executive Director David S. Ludlow had a quick answer, "The first three Tuesdays of each month the Wilmington & Western Railroad operates its very popular dinner trains to three different restaurants along the railroad's right-of-way. This mystery train with dessert and coffee rounds out our month and does not conflict with weekend activities."

To my question of more mystery trains, Ludlow responded, "If these trains become nearly as popular as our dinner trains, we will certainly offer more runs in the future. Remember, we began our dinner trains with only one night and one restaurant and have added more in response to public demand."

A little later in our conversation the executive director added, "We have already had calls wanting to charter a mystery and dessert train for a private party —

The Wilmington & Western Railroad's Murder Mystery Train moves through the darkened Red Clay Valley for its dress rehearsal late in May. It is the most unusual theater seen around here in many a day.

the way people do the dinner trains right now — and we hope to have that option in place late in June."

Our state has had some unusual places used as theaters. This is certainly one of the most interesting, but let us not forget how The Delaware Theater Company got its start among us. It was in an abandoned fire hall on French Street in Wilmington. To see how it has developed one only has to visit "The house that Cleveland (Morris) built" at 200 Water Street.

Ridership on the Mystery Train is by reservation only. I can tell you that the month of June is sold out, as was the premiere run in May. The cost for the evening including the train ride, performance, dessert and coffee is $35 per person. For more information or reservations you may call 302-998-1930. See if you can figure out "Who dun it?" before the trains gets back to Greenbank.

All aboard!

A vain half-shelled old Clam
 Was shellfishly sham
 When about to be dropped in a chowder.
 Clam refused to clam up
 In the fish-lover's cup,
 And assaulted him louder and louder.

A corrupt chiropractor
 Cracked his knee on a tractor,
 And slapped lawsuit on poor tractor's owner.
 Chiropractor: bad crook;
 The judge threw him the book.
 He is now a most disjointed loner.

Why is the grasshopper the most nervous of insects?
 It's so jumpy.

What happened to the psychotic pasta cook?
 He went off his noodle.

The patience of oldsters can be sorely taxed by unruly behavior.

Bolts of lightning are mostly unsparing to both humans and trees.

■ Author's note: Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws — the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope Newark Post readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

Reading benefits Bear Library

Students and teachers at Brader Elementary School raised over $1,300 to help build the Bear Library in a recent one-week Reading Marathon.

Mrs. Grunow's morning kindergarten class brought in the most pledges. Other top classrooms were Ms. Oshumbum's morning and afternoon kindergartens, and Mrs. Stewart's second grade. The top student, earning more than $150, was MacKenzie Nicholson in Mrs. Drummond's afternoon kindergarten.

Other top students were Nikki Gayle, Carl Brown, Ronald Johnson, Margaret Murray, John Skopowski and Ariana Turiansky.

Over 25 students were top fund raisers in their classes and over 40 students brought in more than $10.

Area businesses and groups supplying gifts and awards for the student/participants included Carvel Ice Cream, Encore Books, Subway, McDonald's and the Friends of the Bear Library.

AARP makes pitch for Medicare

Almost 100 area seniors and others interested in the future of Medicare attended a community forum at the Newark Senior Center on May 29.

Sponsored by the American Association of Retired Persons, the forum featured local, state and national AARP leaders familiar with the problems facing the health care program.

"Medicare may not be on the front page right now, but it should be," said Delaware AARP president Richard Johnson.

Johnson added that Medicare is fundamental to the lives of 93,000 older and disabled persons in Delaware as well as their families who care for them.

According to AARP, without short-term changes, Medicare will go bankrupt in the year 2002. The group asked those at the forum to urge their members of Congress to act on Medicare to protect their interests.

An announced plan by the White House and Congressional leaders to reduce an estimated $115 billion in Medicare increases over the next five years would extend the Medicare Trust Fund to 2007. The plan also includes modest premium increases for recipients while new preventive health benefits would be added to the program.

However, Bill Clark, coordinator of AARP/VOTE, the all-volunteer community advocacy arm of AARP, said it is only a promise at this point. "It is up to everyone of us to hold Congress accountable to deliver on that promise."

Fitness and humor were high on the list of programs at the recent Health and Wellness Fair at the Newark Senior Center. Dr. Joyful presented ways to stay healthy with laughter. The center's fitness room and swimming pool were open for those who wanted to try out those on-site facilities. More than 40 exhibitors and organizations held low cost screenings and provided information on mental and physical well-being as well as safety and nutrition for older persons. County exec, council push hold button on development

An unprecedented response to sprawling growth in New Castle County was this week by the County Executive's office.

County Executive Thomas P. Gordon and the seven members of County Council are taking action to stop all new development in New Castle County for six months while county planners craft new standards for land use throughout the county.

County council and County

Executive Gordon worked together to outline the first stage of the county government growth management strategy.

During this six months, strategic planning among county lawyers, planners, specialists, council members, citizens and the County Executive will generate comprehensive legislation to address everything from septic system standards to new zoning throughout New Castle County, the announcement said.

"Our workload of new projects is so constant that our planners and attorneys cannot get the time to develop any new standards for land use planning," said Gordon. "With the prospect of semi-conductors coming and all the growth associated with other economic opportunities, we must get some time to create the best standards, as well as a streamlined system to process requests quickly and fairly. Our goal is to create a level playing field for everyone — residents, businesses, developers — which ensures quality of life in New Castle County."

In the spirit of cooperation, County Council and the County Executive agreed to the public announcement of this initiative, to be followed by council action both in resolution form and by ordinance.

County officials agreed that the more public notice the better, so that all interested persons may become fully informed about this change.

"This is exactly what many other governments have done across the country," said County Attorney Bill Rhodunda. "In fact, the comprehensive plan adopted by County Council calls for this temporary halt of rezonings, to accommodate the creation of the implementation legislation now needed."

Gordon had agreed to defer county government action to allow the recent land use summit to occur. Last week, the summit participants issued their recommendations. County officials participated in that summit and were anxious to respond quickly to county residents' concerns about growth, traffic congestion and quality of life.

On April 3, the New Castle County Comprehensive Development Plan Update became law. County Council must now enact specific legislation for "developing a growth management strategy that will protect the rights of landowners, preserve the quality of life in New Castle County and will insure the demand for economic growth will be balanced with the need to protect and serve the vital interests of its citizens."

County government has a significant need to allow adequate time for all county personnel to research and develop all the information which county officials will need to make the best decisions for our citizens. Said Gordon, "This 10-year plan is the most important thing that this government can do for our residents. It must be done right. Everyone blames someone else for all the headaches associated with unplanned growth in this county. That finger pointing has accomplished nothing more than a game of shadows on a wall. Tough decisions will be made, so our professionals need the time to focus, think and respond. By Dec. 31, 1997, those decisions will become the law in New Castle County."

Some of the initiatives being researched include:

- Public health and environmental safety issues surrounding wastewater treatment and groundwater quality;
- Flood plain and drainage issues;
- Impact fees;
- Consideration of transfer and purchase of development rights to preserve agricultural rights and open space;
- Intergovernmental coordination and annexation;
- Historic preservation;
- Housing;
- Traffic congestion and transportation issues;
- Adequate community facilities to serve new growth.

Those development proposals placed on hold will include the following:

- Submission, processing and approval of any rezoning applications by the Land Use Department, Planning Board and County Council;
- Submission, processing and approval of any new minor, major or resubdivision plan, conditional use application, floodplain application, traffic impact study or other special study the purpose of which is to accommodate additional development; and
- Any building permit based on the approval of a record plan more than five years old for which construction has not commenced.

Any individual who has preliminary plan approval and who believes that the six month delay impacts the fair, reasonable and equitable use of their property may apply for relief from this initiative through June 30. The construction of public facilities, such as schools, prisons, libraries, etc., will be exempt from the provisions of the legislation.

Spartans rule diamonds

St. Mark's tops Brandywine 6-3 in baseball final

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

ST. MARK'S IS NO STRANGER to state championship baseball games and Brian Hudock, while only a sophomore, is used to pitching in big games.

That combination was perfect as Hudock pitched a three-hitter to lead the Spartans to a 6-3 win over Brandywine in the championship game of the Delaware High School Baseball Tournament Saturday afternoon before 1,200 fans at Frawley Stadium.

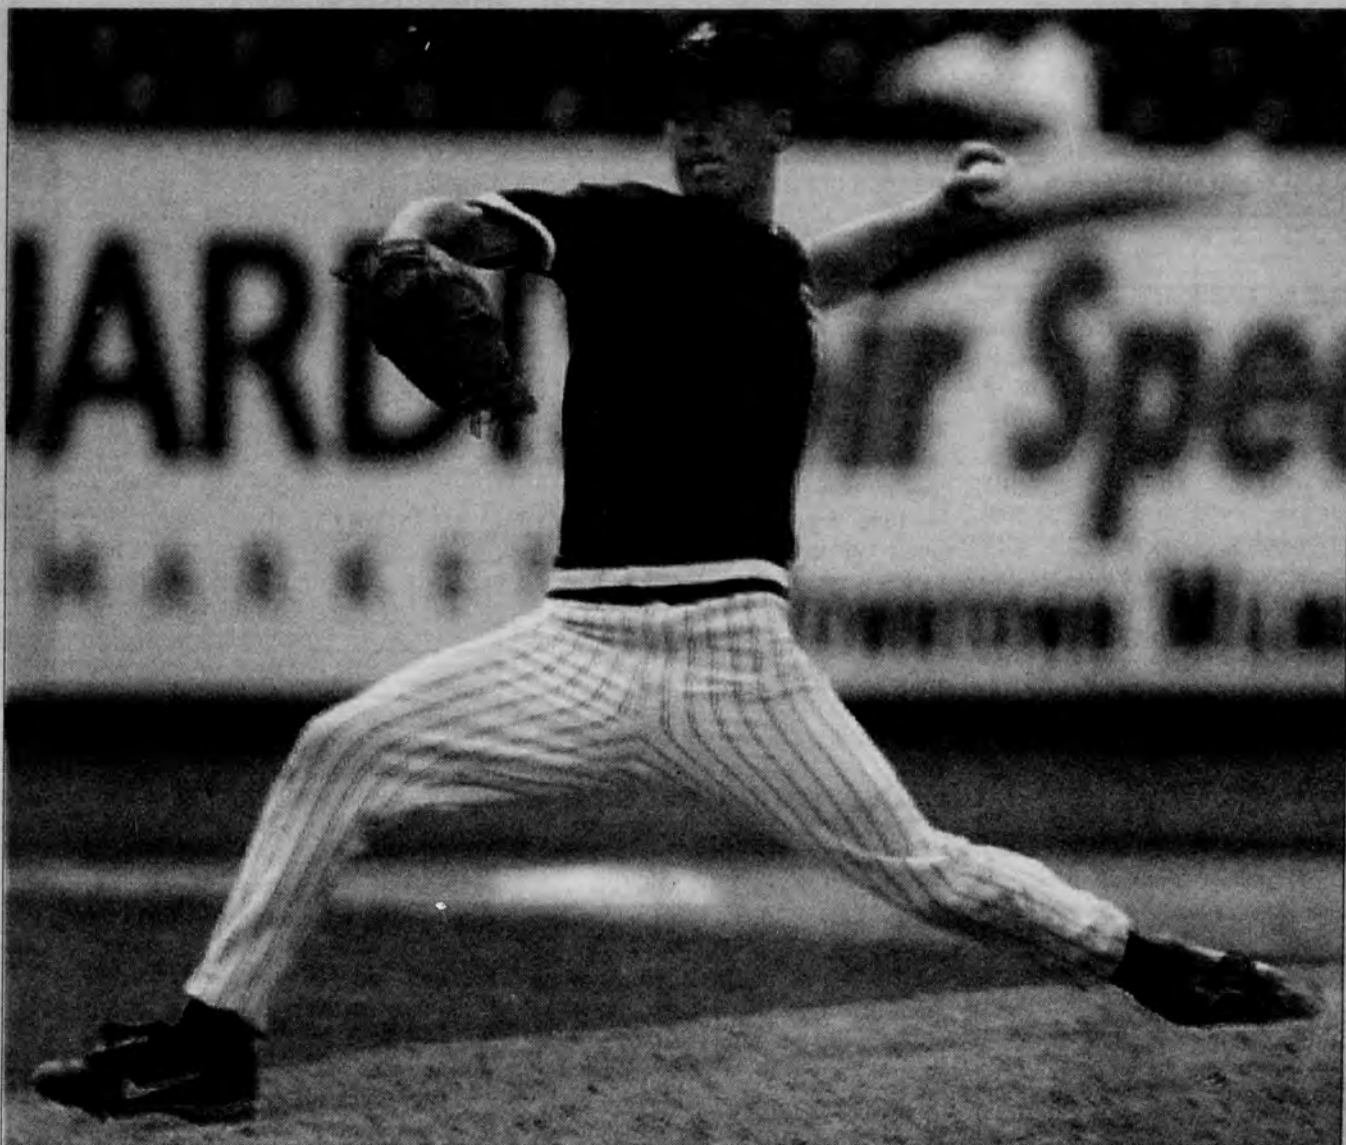

The title was the Spartans' fourth with the others coming in 1985, '88 and '94.

Hudock, who helped lead Midway Little League to the state and Eastern Regional championships on its way to a third place finish in the Senior League World Series last summer, struggled a bit early but finished strongly.

The Bulldogs picked up two runs in the first inning, taking advantage of a hit, error and two walks.

After the Spartans tied the game in the second inning, Brandywine picked up another run on two hits in the third inning. Hudock didn't allow a hit after that.

"I had some first-inning jitters," said Hudock, who due to a shoulder injury didn't pitch much of the season. "But I settled down and my control got better when I found my right release point."

Travis hurls two-hitter to lead Spartans' softball team to title

By MARTY VALANIA

ST. MARK'S HIGH PLAYED THE ROLE OF GIANT KILLER PERFECTLY.

The Spartans knocked off top-seeded Brandywine 3-0 Saturday before over 600 fans at Caravel Academy in the championship game of the Delaware High School Softball Tournament. The win gave St. Mark's its second state softball title overall and its first since 1981. The Spartans finished the year with a 19-2 record.

The Bulldogs entered the title game with impressive credentials. They were undefeated and defending state champions. They were winners of 28 straight games dating back to last season. Brandywine was also the top-ranked team in the state and they were ranked 19th in the country. The Bulldogs finished the season with a 21-1 record.

Despite Brandywine's impressive resume, it was St. Mark's which was clearly the better team Saturday.

The Spartans' freshman pitcher Dana Travis fired a two-hitter with nine strikeouts and no walks to outduel the Bulldogs' Carrie Green — the 1996 state player of the year and a two-time first-team all-state selection.

Defensively, St. Mark's played flawlessly with center fielder Julie Sullivan highlighting the effort with an outstanding running catch in deep right-center.

Offensively, the Spartans collected five hits — including two doubles — and only struck out three times against Green.

"We were confident coming in," said the Spartans' left fielder Amanda Cariello. "We knew they were a good team and that Carrie Green was a great pitcher. But we still felt we could win the game."

The Spartans picked up their first run of the game in the third inning. With one out, Leighann Hlywak, batting in the ninth slot in the order, blasted a double to the base of the fence (215 feet) in left-center. Two batters later, with two outs, Sarah Weir followed with a double of her own to score Hlywak and give St. Mark's the lead.

St. Mark's improved the lead with two more runs in the fifth inning.

Jen Nicolais led off with a single to center field. Two batters later Hlywak reached first base as the third strike got past the Brandywine catcher.

Nicolais scored when Travis reached base on an error and Hlywak scored on Weir's single.

Travis took care of the rest.

The right-hander dominated the Bulldogs, never facing more than four hitters in one inning. The only two hits she gave up were an infield slap and a blooper into right field.

"I know our team has a good defense," Travis said. "I might get into trouble sometimes, but our defense can handle anything."

"Dana just got better and better" said St. Mark's coach Guy Townsend, who captured his first state championship. "She really was in control and did a great job."

"This was a total team effort. Everybody did a super job. When your number nine hitter hits a double like that, it shows how tough everyone in our lineup is."

"And when Julie Sullivan made that great catch in right field, I think that was a turning point in the game. That took some wind out of [Brandywine's] sails."

Newark falls in thrilling soccer final

A.I. goal in 8th OT stops Jackets

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE OVER-USED CLICHE "neither team deserved to lose" truly applied to the two-day, eight-overtime championship game of the Delaware High School Girls' Soccer Tournament.

Alexis I. DuPont's Kelly Kolodczak scored an unassisted goal in the match's 172nd minute to give the undefeated and top-ranked Tigers a 4-3 victory over heartbroken Newark on a rainy Monday night at Caravel Academy. The goal completed the longest, and probably the most exciting, high school soccer game (boys or girls) in Delaware history.

With five minutes to play in Saturday night's regulation the Yellowjackets, with a 3-1 lead, appeared poised to claim their first state championship. Nearly 48 hours later they were forced to watch as A.I. celebrated an improbable four-goal comeback.

Kolodczak's shot, from about 10 yards out, skidded on the wet ground, through a maze of players providing visual interference, and past Newark goalkeeper Meredith McIntosh. The goal, which ignited a wild celebration by the Tigers, stunned the tearful Newark players, many of which lay strewn across the soggy field.

"It was a great game and I couldn't be any prouder of our players," said Newark coach Hugh Mitchell. "We played our hearts out against a great team. A.I. gave up just one goal all year, and that was on a penalty kick. No one scored from the field on them and we were able to get three goals."

"[A.I.'s] a great story. But there's no better story than right here."

A.I. finished its season with a 19-0 record and ranked 19th in the country.

Newark finished with a 15-2-2 record and received votes in the final national Top 20 poll.

Like the weather, Newark's hopes were far better Saturday evening.

The Jackets, on two headers by Julie Marx within three minutes of each other, took a 2-0 lead. Both goals, which occurred midway through the first half, came in similar fashion — one off a corner kick and the other off a restart. Jill Cope assisted on both.

The lead was improved to 3-0 in the game's 34 minute as Cope rocketed a shot from 18-yards into the upper right part of the net.

"We really played well," Mitchell said Saturday night of the game's first half. "We played well mentally and physically. We did it all."

A turning point, however, came with just three minutes to play before halftime. A.I., on a restart of its own, took advantage of a Newark breakdown and Beth Belanger capitalized by burying an uncontested shot into the upper right corner of the net.

The goal cut the Jackets' lead to 3-1 and gave the Tigers' renewed life.

"There's a big difference between being up 3-0 and 3-1," Mitchell said. "Especially against a team as good as A.I."

The second half featured relentless pressure by the Tigers. Newark, though, did not relinquish a goal and still led 3-1 with just five minutes to play.

That's when Belanger struck again. The freshman finally broke the Yellowjackets' defense with a goal that came just under the 5:00 mark.

"We were getting tired, trying to hold them off," Mitchell said. "I knew once they got that second goal we were going to be in trouble."

Indeed. After the second goal, and time still running out, the Tigers swarmed the Yellowjackets' net and Belanger popped in the equalizer to send the game to overtime.

All four of Saturday's overtimes were dominated by A.I. The Tigers peppered McIntosh with shots from all angles. McIntosh, aided by a superior effort by sweeper Emily Marx, was able to keep A.I. from scoring the winner.

Newark had a chance of its own to win the game in the fourth overtime. With just under four minutes to play before the game's suspension, the Jackets rushed down field on a break-away. But the shot directed toward the open and begging right side of the net slid just outside the post.

"We had our chance," Mitchell said. "Right there was a great opportunity. It just didn't work out."

A.I. outshot Newark 25-9 during Saturday's play.

The teams reconvened Monday with the first two 20-minute periods following Saturday's overtime script.

A.I. again applied constant pressure but Newark's stingy defense didn't allow a goal. The Tigers outshot the Jackets 9-2 during Monday's play.

The two scoreless periods pushed the game into sudden death overtime once again.

Mitchell then, in an effort to kick start his offense, made a gutsy move by moving sweeper Emily Marx out of the box and up top in an effort to generate some scoring opportunities.

"That was the plan all along," Mitchell said. "We decided if we fell behind before sudden death or if we got to sudden death, we would move Emily."

"We didn't just come here to be another opponent. We came here to win."

The strategy did give the Jackets some extra offensive push but was unable to produce a great scoring chance before Kolodczak ended the drama.

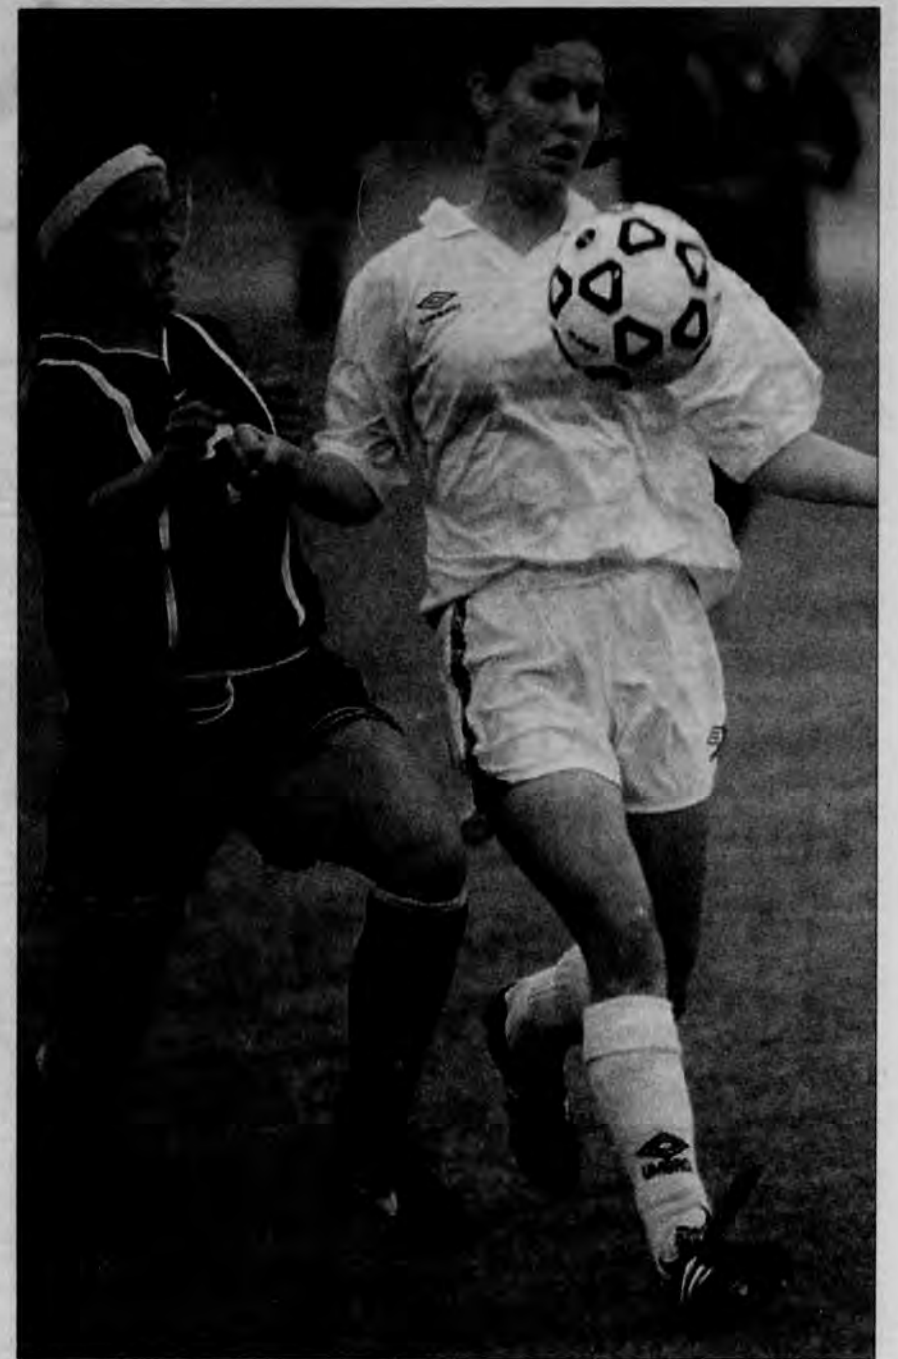

"This was a great testament to girls soccer in this state," Mitchell said of the epic game. "We've come a long way in a very short time."

Decide game in one day?

The championship game was the longest in Delaware High School soccer history, topping the 1993 boys state championship game in which Salesianum nipped St. Mark's 1-0 over 166 minutes and two days.

While the decision to suspend play is obviously made with the players' physical condition in mind, it may neglect the players' mental condition.

After playing the semifinal on Wednesday, the players gear up for Saturday's climax. To play that long (40 minutes of regulation and four 10-minute overtimes) and not have a conclusion is very frustrating. To have to sit around for two more days with the state championship still weighing on their minds (now for five straight days) is almost unbearable.

Both Newark's Hugh Mitchell and A.I.'s Mike McFarland, after going through it (and before Monday's play resumed) thought it would be better to settle everything in one day.

"The World Cup uses a shootout — even in the championship game," Mitchell said. "What are we — bigger than the World Cup."

It may be something to consider in

Emily Marx's effort heroic

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IT WOULD BE HARD TO FIND a more heroic effort by any athlete in any sport during the entire school year than the one Newark High senior Emily Marx gave in the two-day state championship marathon against Alexis I. DuPont.

Marx, playing with a broken nose suffered in a practice on Thursday before the title match, was stellar at her sweeper position for the duration. She made save after save especially in Saturday's overtimes when the Tigers applied relentless pressure.

"I don't think I've seen a better effort — by a girl or boy — in all my 25 years of coaching," said Newark coach Hugh Mitchell after the game Monday. "She was very courageous."

During Monday's extra sessions Marx, while making another save, took a ball to her nose and had to come out of the game. But when the sudden death phase started, there she was back in the game.

Several other high school coaches in attendance, without even knowing about the broken nose, mentioned that she was the best player on the field during the game.

That's quite a testament considering all the great players on both teams and the fact that she had the injury.

Mitchell is a class act

If Hugh Mitchell doesn't deserve a state championship, then I don't know who does.

CHAMPIONSHIP NOTES

Mitchell is the consummate coach. He could coach any sport and do well.

The Yellowjackets advanced to the girls' championship match this season with a team that included four freshmen and one that included two starters that never played soccer before practice began March 1.

His boys' soccer teams have consistently been among the best in the state. Yet, he has never quite captured the state title. Before coaching girls' soccer he coached the Newark girls' tennis teams to six state runner-up positions. Three of those times he missed the state title by just one match somewhere during the tournament.

Mitchell also coaches winter volleyball and has incredible success in that endeavor. Just this past winter he coached the Delaware Diamonds, which were one of the elite volleyball teams on the East Coast.

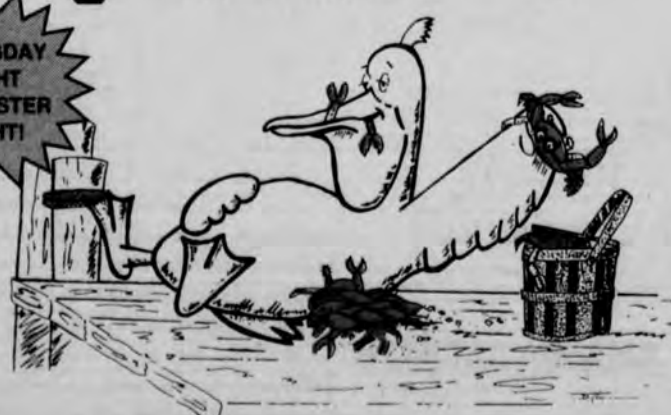

Despite some of the most heartbreaking losses ever (Monday's loss to A.I. being one) in high school tournament play, Mitchell has always been gracious, even at times when it would have been more than forgivable not to be.

One of the reasons why he has gotten to the brink of a title so many times is that he has done such a great job of coaching.

While Mitchell certainly doesn't need a state title to validate an outstanding coaching career, it would be richly deserved feather in his ever-present cap.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

CORY SHELDON - NEWARK HIGH

By MORGAN HURM

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

NEWARK HIGH gained its first-ever state golf champion last Wednesday.

Cory Sheldon, after finishing second to Dover's Chris Wisler the past two years, shot a 36-hole total of 145 (72-73) at Rehoboth Beach Country Club to win the Delaware High School Golf Tournament.

Sheldon, who is headed to the University of North Carolina-Wilmington on a golf scholarship next fall, edged Wisler by three strokes.

"I'm thrilled to death," Sheldon said after the tournament. "I play in a lot of tournaments and that helped get me tournament-tough for this."

The tournament capped Sheldon's brilliant high school career, which also saw him win the 1994 and '96 Blue Hen Conference tournaments. While holding the number one spot on the Yellowjackets' golf team all four years, Sheldon compiled a 51-5-2 record in match play. He was also medalist in 41 of those matches.

Ironically, Sheldon's outstanding golf career came about because of a horrifying injury.

As a youngster Sheldon starred on the local youth baseball and soccer fields. But in the summer of 1989 he suffered a broken third vertebrae in his neck in a water slide accident.

After surgery and months of therapy, he was told by his doctors to avoid contact sports and the risk of re-injury that came with them.

As a result, baseball and soccer were out and golf was in.

Sheldon took up golf and, under the tutelage of former LPGA professional at DuPont Country Club's Louviers course, prospered.

"Patsy taught me the basics and mental commitment it takes to not only win, but consistently learn and improve."

The senior is also Newark Country Club's reigning club champion. Sheldon shot 79-74-73 and an amazing 66 to win last summer's club championship.

In addition, he has won 14 junior tournaments around the country and qualified for match play in the prestigious U.S. Junior Amateur.

The St. Mark's High baseball team celebrates the state championship victory over Brandywine at home plate at Frawley Stadium.

TOURNAMENT NOTES

Lemon goes out in style

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Hollywood could not have written a better ending to a coaching career than the one Tom Lemon experienced Saturday.

Lemon's St. Mark's High baseball team defeated Brandywine 6-3 Saturday afternoon at Frawley Stadium in the championship game of the Delaware High School Baseball Tournament. The win gave Lemon, in his last game after 20 years of coaching at the school, his fourth state championship.

"I'm happy as punch," said Lemon, who after being an assistant for four years was the head coach for the past 16. "The kids came up big. I thought after I heard that the softball team won [beating Brandywine 3-0 for the state title earlier Saturday] that it could be a St. Mark's kind of day."

It certainly was and that is completely appropriate for somebody who was part of the school's first graduating class and now works as the school's Alumni Development Director.

Lemon, 42, completes his career with a 244-75 (a .765 winning percentage) record, eight trips to the state championship game and four titles — 1985, '88 and '94 were the others.

The season was a tough one for the coach. His father, Charles, passed away in the middle of the season.

"It's been an emotional roller coaster for me and our team," Lemon said of his last season. "It has not been an easy year for us. I tried to keep my emotions out of it — last game, win it for the Gipper and all that — and just play. I thought we were good enough and we had a shot with Brian Hudock on the mound."

The fact that Lemon was in his last game was certainly not lost on his players.

"It was his last game and we really wanted to win it for him," said Billy Cooper, who had two hits. "He's done so much for this team and this program that he really deserves it."

"He's a great man," said first baseman Chris Birch.

Lemon will continue with his Alumni Director duties at St. Mark's.

What a day, what a year

St. Mark's and Brandywine began the year way back in September with one of the wildest high school football games you'll ever see.

The Bulldogs won in overtime that day but it was the Spartans who had the upper hand as the two schools did battle in Saturday's softball and baseball state championship games.

St. Mark's topped previously unbeaten and defending state champion Brandywine 3-0 in the softball state title game and the Spartans' baseball team knocked off the Bulldogs — the state's top-ranked team — 6-3 in the championship.

It was the first time ever that the same school won the softball and baseball championships.

Hudock helps Spartans to title

► BASEBALL, from 19

"And when we got those first two runs, I really relaxed."

Eric Trzcinski tied the score 2-2 with a two out, two-run double down the right field line to score Anthony Argiroudis and Neil Jarom.

After Brandywine picked up a run in the top of the third, the Spartans answered in the bottom of the inning.

Bill Cooper led off with a single, stole second, moved to third base on a passed ball and scored on Chris Birch's sacrifice fly to center field.

The Spartans took the lead for good with two runs in the sixth inning.

Andrew Veveiros led off with a walk and Lou Davis followed with a bunt single. Veveiros, on the bunt, advanced all the way to third base. He then scored on a ground ball by Jason Kraiss. Hudock doubled home Davis to make the score 5-3.

The Spartans added another run in the seventh inning as Jarom led off with a single and pinch-runner Robbie Walters stole second base and moved to third on a passed ball.

He scored on Veveiros' double down the left field line.

The win improved St. Mark's record to 16-5 and gave the school, and outgoing coach Tom Lemon, a fourth state championship.

"I watched Brandywine warm up and thought they were an exception-

I didn't see a team I thought was better than us.”

al baseball team," said Lemon, who was 4-4 in state title games. "I said to a couple of our coaches, 'I'm glad we only have to play them once and not in a best-of-five series.' I was hoping to get one chance to roll the dice and our kids came up big."

Hudock, who struck out 10 Brandywine batters, also led the Spartans at the plate with a single, double and an RBI. Jarom added two singles, a walk and two runs scored. Trzcinski and Veveiros added doubles while Cooper and Davis each contributed singles.

Despite dropping two games to both Salesianum and St. Elizabeth and finishing third in the Catholic Conference, the Spartans had confidence they could win the tournament.

"I knew if our pitching held up we could play with anybody," said Cooper. "The pitchers really started to pick it up in the middle of the season and did great throughout all four games of the tournament."

The Spartans, after an 8-5 start to the season, won their last eight games on their way to the crown.

"Even though we lost some games and didn't play real well early," Lemon said. "I didn't see a team I thought that was better than us. I saw some teams that were good, but I thought we were as good as anybody and had a shot. To be honest, I thought we kind of under-achieved early on."

Lemon finished his 16-year career as head of the St. Mark's baseball program with a 244-75 record.

tournament victory over Ursuline as the game that really got the Spartans' momentum going.

"I think after we were able to beat Ursuline so soon after they knocked us off was a big key," the coach said. "We gained a lot of confidence after that game and that carried right on through to [the championship game]."

Spartans end great athletic year

► SPARTANS, from 22

The day was a perfect way for St. Mark's to close out an amazing athletic year.

The softball and baseball titles were the seventh and eighth state championships won by St. Mark's this school year.

"It's just been an incredible year," said athletic director Tom Rosa. "This is the best year we've ever had."

In fact, it was the best year any school has ever had.

The Spartans also won state championships in boys' soccer, girls' cross country, volleyball, girls' basketball, girls' swimming and wrestling.

There are 22 high school sports in Delaware that have state championships. To have one school win 36 percent of them is amazing.

Crowds are good

No doubt helped by one of the spring's finest days, the crowds for Saturday's three state championship games were all impressive.

Over 600 people attended the softball game at Caravel Academy.

With the work that coach Steve Baker and assistant Mike Salony put in to get the field ready, it's no wonder the softball tournament committee likes to use Caravel for big games.

The state championship baseball game at Frawley was attended by over 1,200 fans - tying a record set in 1994 when St. Mark's played Caesar Rodney at Frawley Stadium.

Over 800 fans were treated to the unbelievable (first part anyway) girls' soccer championship game between Newark and A.I. DuPont.

Several hundred more showed up at the Monday portion of the contest.

That game was also played at Caravel.

Spartans knock off Seaford in semifinal

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

APPEARING in state championship games is becoming pretty routine for the St. Mark's High baseball team.

The Spartans, behind the three-hit pitching of John Warren, ripped Seaford 9-0 in last Thursday's semifinal of the Delaware High School Baseball Tournament at Frawley Stadium. The win was St. Mark's sixth straight and advanced to its eighth state final - all since 1985.

The Spartans lost to Newark in last year's state championship game.

Offensively, the Spartans banged out six of their 10 hits on their way to six runs in the first two innings.

Bill Cooper, Chris Birch and Andrew Veveiros all collected hits while Birch, Anthony Argiroudis and Neil Jarom picked up the RBI in the three-run first inning. Birch, Argiroudis and Jarom also each picked up an RBI in the three-run second inning.

Those runs were more than enough for Warren.

"I felt my control was pretty good," said Warren, who gave up just one run in two complete game tournament victories. "I was able to hit my spots and any time you get that many runs it makes it a lot easier."

Warren, a left-hander, struck out eight and got out of a no-out, bases-loaded jam in the fourth inning without surrendering a run.

"That's was a gutsy performance right there," said St. Mark's coach Tom Lemon. "He felt after he got out of that jam that he was going to get his complete game. He had a super performance and he's had a great tournament."

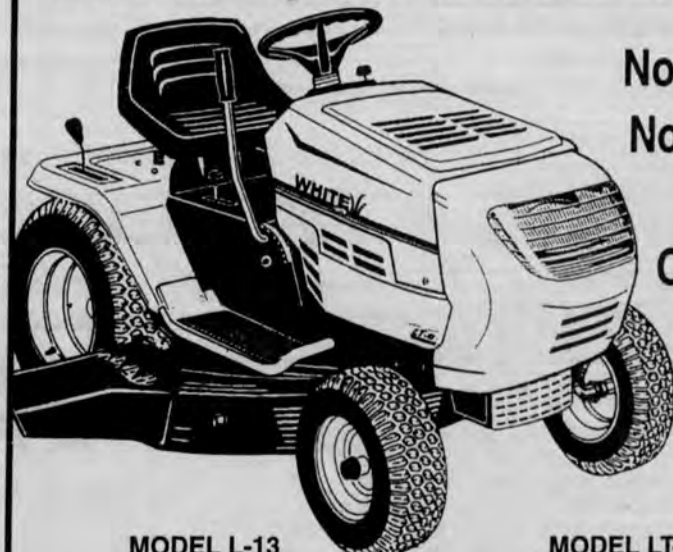

St. Mark's added a run in the fourth inning as Cooper doubled and a scored on Argiroudis' double (his third RBI of the game). The Spartans picked up two more runs in the fifth as Veveiros and Lou Davis hit back-to-back singles and came around to score.

"We played well," Lemon said. "We beat a good team in Seaford. That's a good win for us."

Historic building owners honored

The New Castle County Historic Review Board recently presented its annual Historic Preservation awards.

Contrary to popular opinion, owners of historic buildings, even those on the National Register of Historic Places, are under no obligation to preserve them. The Board stated that they seek to recognize those persons and places which lend "something irreplaceable to our quality of life in New Castle County."

Among the winners this year were the former Rankin House, now the Deerfield Golf and Tennis Club at MBNA on Paper Mill Road, and the George Evens House on Main Street.

According to the Board, the Rankin House was honored for MBNA's transformation and adaptation to modern use of an important piece of the community's heritage.

Built about 1820, the residence belonged to a family whose ancestors were among the first settlers in Delaware. The white-stuccoed home is now the guest house at the Club.

The George Evens house, built in 1863 by a Delaware College Trustee who owned a store and brickyard in Newark, was purchased and renovated by the University of Delaware. The award noted the meticulous restoration of the home with its red brickwork and black iron veranda with leaf and vine decorations.

The Board said they were honoring both the acquisition and preservation as well as the respect for history evidenced by the home's location next to the dramatically new Trabant Student Center. The home is now the Academic Services Center.

Other sites honored this year include: Centre Friends Meeting House on Centre Meeting Road; Worth Estate on the F.M. Kirby Campus on Centreville Road; Chapel, Wilmington and Brandywine Cemetery in Wilmington; Mount Pleasant Church and Parsonage on Philadelphia Pike; Iron Bridge (privately owned) over the Brandywine near the Hagley Museum; Taylor's Bridge School on Flemings Landing Road; Thomas Robinson House in Claymont; and the Huguenot House on Taylor's Bridge Road.

PUBLIC WORKSHOP #2 US ROUTE 301 MAJOR INVESTMENT STUDY CONTRACT #88-113-01

The Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) and the Wilmington Area Planning Council (WILMAPCO) are jointly sponsoring a "Route 301 Major Investment Study (MIS) Public Workshop", June 12, 1997, 4:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. at the Hodgson Vocational-Technical School, 2575 Summit Bridge Road, Newark, DE.

The MIS is a review process that examines a wide range of transportation strategies prior to initiating new Federally-funded transportation infrastructure projects, which is required under the auspices of the 1991 Federal Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act (ISTEA).

The Route 301 MIS process is looking broadly at the relationship between land use and transportation. The goal of the MIS is to accomplish four basic tasks:

- carefully examine the future land use in the Route 301 area;
- develop several alternative future scenarios of how that land use might occur;
- identify alternative transportation systems which serve that future land use.

This workshop will focus on the connection between land use and transportation demand, analysis of travel by purpose, the identification of future problems, the approach and possible multi-modal solutions to the problems.

Interested persons are invited to express their views in writing, giving reasons for support of, or opposition to the proposed. Comments will be received on site or can be mailed to DelDOT's External Affairs Office, P.O. Box 778, Dover, DE 19903. If requested in advance, DelDOT will make available the services of an interpreter for the hearing impaired. If an interpreter is desired, please make the request by phone or mail.

For further information contact the Office of External Affairs at 1-800-652-5600 (in DE) or 302-739-4313 or write to the Office of External Affairs at the above address.
