

J. Wilkins Cooch Elected Editor Of Review As Wilson Goes To France*BOTH FORMER EDITOR AND KIRK JOIN FOREIGN STUDY GROUP
AT LAST MINUTE*New Student Council Representative To Be Elected Tuesday

At a recent meeting of the staff of the Review, J. Wilkins Cooch was elected Editor-in-Chief for the rest of the year. Election of a new editor was necessitated, when W. Emerson Wilson, the previous head of the staff, joined the Foreign Study Group for study in France. It was a great surprise to learn of Wilson's departure, and indeed he had not expected to leave until a few days before the departure of the group. With him went W. W. Kirk, also a member of the staff and student Council Representative.

There are few other changes in the staff of the Review. Wilson has been appointed Paris Correspondent and several articles are expected from him, giving news of the group in France. George Fink has been appointed Literary Editor and will review books and plays every week. Robert Glover, as assistant manager of baseball automatically becomes football editor. For the time being the position of copy editor will remain vacant.

The election of a Student Council Representative of the Review staff will be held on Tuesday in the regular College Hour period. All of the Senior members of the staff are eligible for election, unless any of them withdraws his name. The Senior members include Joseph Flanz, Wilkins Cooch, Richard Rinard, Charles Kimble, E. T. Rickards, Herbert Cohen, Harold Leshem, Edgar Hare, Jr., Charles Middleton, Walter Tindall, Marcus Torelli, Jacob Handoff and Nathan Weinstock. The election will be held by the Sophomores and Upper classmen.

Athletic Tickets
Now On Sale*Students Must Have Tickets With Them To Be Admitted to Games

The system of admission to athletic contests has been radically changed this year. No student will be admitted to any game throughout the entire season without showing his ticket book, or leaving a deposit at the ticket office to be refunded when he does produce the ticket. Always bring books with you and do not present detached tickets as they will not be accepted.

Any student may sell these ticket books and receive a commission of fifty cents for every book sold. The price is only $5.50, and covers every home contest throughout the year, so it should be a very easy matter to earn at least the price of one's own athletic fee.

Any one interested in selling these tickets should get the orders and money first and then apply to the Athletic Director for the books, as the Athletic Council cannot issue a large number of tickets and then spend a long time trying to collect the money. Now is the time to get started, for the first home game is only a week away. Get busy and earn some spare cash, and at the same time help the University and its athletics.

PURCHASE RINGS

Since the opening of college the Junior Class has been quite active in the work of selecting class rings, which they hope will be a standard for future classes to copy as a ring for all future classes at the University of Delaware. A committee composed of John MacDowell, Robert Glover, Benjamin Phillips, and Marston Fox has selected a ring patterned after that of the University of Oregon. The price is fifteen dollars, and at present thirty men are being solicited to purchase rings so that the proposition may be put over. For some years there has been talk of getting class rings, but it has remained for the present Junior Class to do much about it. Last year's Senior Class purchased rings, but only a few of them were obtained, and the class of 1930 has done nothing at all about the matter.

The Junior Class has already begun plans for the Junior Prom. Nothing definite is obtainable as yet, but it is hoped that the dance may be the finest Junior Prom ever given at the University.

Mr. Wm. Grant Lewi, Jr., who was formerly connected with the English department of the University, and who is now living in Galesburg, Illinois, was a guest last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Clay Reed.

Football Schedule

Rutgers at New Brunswick—October 5.
Ursinus at Newark—October 12.
Susquehanna at Newark—October 19.
Mount St. Marys at Emmitsburg—October 26.
Swarthmore at Newark—November 22.
Drexel at Newark—November 9.
P. M. C. at Chester—November 16.
Haverford at Haverford—November 23.

Heavy Schedule Is Planned for J. V.'s*Doc Doherty's "Sons" To Meet Several Strong Teams

Although the Junior Varsity football team has not been picked as yet, the squad when organized will face one of the strongest schedules ever attempted in recent years.

Three games have been scheduled thus far with leading teams of this vicinity. All the opposition will be Wilmington eleven and are scheduled as follows:

Oct. 11—Beacon, Home.
Oct. 18—Salesianum, Wilmington.
Oct. 25—Goldey, Wilmington.

Games are pending with Wesley Collegiate Institute, Newark High, and Franklin and Marshall Academy. According to "Doc" Doherty the line-up for the Jay Vees will not be known until the "weeding out" process is applied on the present varsity squad previous to Saturday's game with Rutgers. Twenty-four men will be carried on the squad, and from the showing of the large number of promising candidates no position will be "cinched."

A study of the teams on the schedule reveals the type of opposition that is to be encountered. Beacon, inaugurating its initial season of football, will pry off the lid with the Jay Vees. It is reported that Coach Naylor has some experienced material with which to mold a strong eleven. Salesianum although suffering the loss of many of last year regulars, has enough reserve strength to form the nucleus of a team that is typical of that institution's former eleven. Goldey's sensational team of last season is nearly intact and should make a strong showing again.

APPOINTMENTS MADE BY MILITARY DEPARTMENT

After some delay, the Review has obtained a list of the appointments to the cadet officers, both commissioned and non-commissioned. The major for this year will be Henry Simpson, who has been distinguished for the past three years for his proficiency in military. Rodman Steel will be cadet adjutant, and A. J. Taylor, C. R. Ford, and I. S. Taylor will be captains of "A," "B," and "C" companies respectively. J. H. Smith will be captain of the band.

Cadet Major—H. D. Simpson, Battalion Commander.

Many Changes Mark
Faculty Roster*Twenty-Five New Members Appointed To Staff; Several Valuable Professors Lost

The opening of college this year sees the loss of several valuable professors and the advent of twenty-two new members to the faculty. This is a little more than the usual number of changes and the loss of some of the professors is somewhat of a blow to the school.

The loss of Dr. David O. Evans was quite a surprise to many not only of the student body, but also of the faculty. Dr. Evans has left to teach in Western Canada, and Professor Byam has been appointed Acting Head of the Modern Language Department in his stead. The departure of Professor H. V. Olsen will also be a source of regret to many.

The following new members have been appointed to the faculty:

Experiment Station

L. A. Stearns—A. B., Ohio Wesleyan; A. M., Ph.D., Ohio State University. To be Chief Entomologist, replacing Dr. H. L. Dozier, resigned.

Joseph E. Vaile—A. B., A. M., University of Illinois. To be Instructor in Horticultural Experiment Station, replacing Mr. G. F. Gray, resigned.

L. L. Williams—S. B., Alabama Polytechnic Institute; S. M., Cornell. To be Assistant Entomologist, replacing Mr. H. G. Butler, resigned.

M. W. Goodwin—S. B., Massachusetts Agricultural College. To be Assistant Research Chemist, a new position in the Experiment Station.

Women's College

Edna E. Fowler—A. B. University of Washington; A. M., Teachers College, Columbia; Two years study in France. To be Assistant Professor of Fine Arts. Added to the staff of the Department of Fine Arts on account of leave of absence granted Miss Rachel Taylor to establish a work in the public schools of the State under the direction of the State Board of Education.

Myrtle N. Volkhardt—A. B., Wells College; A. M., Columbia University; Two years graduate study in France.

To be Instructor in Modern Languages. Added to the staff of the Department of Fine Arts on account of leave of absence granted Miss Rachel Taylor to establish a work in the public schools of the State under the direction of the State Board of Education.

Eleanor T. Lincoln—S. B., University of Minnesota; A. M., Radcliffe. To be Instructor in English.

Mrs. H. Clay Reed—A. M., University of Pennsylvania. To be Instructor in History, replacing Mr. H. Clay Reed, on part time leave of absence.

Louise D. Price—A. B., A. M., Wellesley. To be Instructor in Chemistry, replacing Mrs. H. S. Kennedy, resigned.

Junia C. White—A. B., Flora McDonald College, graduate study Johns Hopkins University. To be part-time assistant in Biology, replacing Miss Grace Aggar, resigned.

Eleanor B. Edge—S. B., University of Delaware. To be part-time Assistant in Chemistry, replacing Miss Rebecca Gallagher, resigned.

Delaware College

F. Alton Wade—S. B., A. M., Kenyon College. To be Instructor in Chemistry, replacing Mr. W. B. Wade, resigned.

James C. Kakavas—S. B., S. M., Massachusetts Agricultural College. To be Instructor in Bacteriology, replacing Assistant Professor H. R. Baker, resigned.

Maurice Munger—S. B., in M. E., University of Minnesota. To be Instructor in Mechanical Engineering.

Edward Whitney Cannon—S. B., University of Delaware. To be Instructor in Electrical Engineering, replacing Mr. Albert V. Krewatch, resigned.

A. B. Ziegler—A. B., University of Pennsylvania. To be part-time Instructor in Department of Athletics and Physical Education.

Charles M. Myers—1st Lieutenant, C. A. C. U. S. A. To be Assistant Professor of Military Science and Tactics.

Delaware College and Women's College

J. Fenton Daugherty—S. B., Dickinson College; S. M., Ph.D., University of North Carolina. To be Associate Professor of Physics, succeeding Dr. George Paine, deceased, as Chairman of Department.

Joseph S. Gould—A. B., A. M., Clark University; Ph.D., Brookings Institution of Economic Research. To be Assistant Professor of Economics, replacing Professor H. V. Olsen, resigned.

C. Bradford Mitchell—S. B., A. M., Wesleyan University. To be Instructor in English, replacing Miss Nora B. Keely, resigned.

Zeigler To Coach
U. Of D. Gridmen*New Football Director Is Former Star Of Penn*"GUS" ZEIGLER

The services of A. B. "Gus" Zeigler have been secured for the ensuing year as head coach for football. Zeigler was chosen upon the recommendation of the University of Delaware Athletic Council and head physical director "Joe" Rothrock.

Coming to Delaware with an enviable coaching record, "Gus" shows every evidence of continuing his successful tactics at this institution. His first coaching experience was gained at Mercersburg Prep in the years 1908, '09 and '10. The following two years he served at Exeter which he believes to be one of the best preparatory schools in the East. For the next three years he was line coach at Penn, West Virginia and the Haverford School, respectively.

In 1916 and 1917, Zeigler was active on the other side of the continent, coaching at the University of California. He was inactive the following year, and in 1919 he returned to the Haverford School. During 1920 and 1921 he acted as line coach again at the University of Pennsylvania. The two years previous to his introduction with Delaware football he was mentor at P. M. C.

Zeigler first came to Delaware in 1924 as assistant to former Coach McAvoy, who is now at Vermont. He was then inactive till 1927 when he returned to coach on part time. He is now acting in the capacity of head coach on full time.

"Gus," besides being a competent coach, distinguished himself on the gridiron during his college years. He played the positions of guard and tackle alternately on the Penn teams of 1903, '04, '06 and '07. "Gus" had the signal honor of being chosen on the All-American eleven selected by the late Walter Camp.

In speaking of the chances for a good season, "Gus" expresses much optimism. He believes that the squad, although composed mostly of Freshmen, is progressing rapidly for this early stage of the season and will be "ready" when they meet Rutgers on Saturday.

ALPHA PSI OMEGA TO PRESENT PLAY SOON

Alpha Psi Omega has already begun to make plans for the work of the coming year, and preparations for the first play are already under way. The reading committee is now engaged in selecting a play, and expect to be able to announce its choice shortly. It is expected that the first production will be given in about a month, and that it will be followed by several other plays. Leon de Valinger, president of the Chapter, announced that he expected this to be a year in which Alpha Psi Omega would do big things on the campus, both in the presentation of amateur productions and also in the promotion of interest in drama on the campus. Further announcements will be made in a short time.

SOCCER TEAM WINS PRACTICE GAME

The University of Delaware soccer team played a practice game with Newark High School yesterday, beating the High School team by a score of 4 to 0.

Building Program
Of The University*Plans Being Rushed For W. C. D.
Gym Auditorium Progressing

Students returning to college last week were surprised and gratified to note the progress made on the new buildings being erected on the campus. The work on the completion of the engineering building, which had been delayed due to a delay in obtaining materials, has begun in earnest and is being rushed as fast as possible. Weather conditions have not been favorable, but in spite of that fact considerable progress has been made.

Mitchell Hall, the new auditorium, for which the corner stone was laid on convocation day, is progressing rapidly. Most of the structural steel work is completed, and the bricklaying is now being rushed, together with the concrete work on the main and balcony floors. It is expected that the building will be finished in the second term.

The remodeling of the interior of Mechanical Hall to make additional classrooms is practically completed, and several classes are being held in that building.

Plans for the new gymnasium for the Women's College are still in the stage of development. The preliminary plans are practically completed, and will soon be sent to the architect for the preparation of the final plans. Due to the cut in the requested appropriation it will be impossible to build the building as large as had been hoped. Unless fifty thousand dollars more is forthcoming, it will be impossible to have a swimming pool in the building, and the main gymnasium floor will be only forty-five feet by eighty-five, instead of sixty-five by eighty-five. If the funds are not forthcoming the building will be built in such a manner that it may be enlarged to its proposed size at any time that the money is obtained. It is hoped that the amount now lacking may be obtained before the contract is let, so that the entire building may be built at once. It is expected now that the plans will be given to the contractors some time in December, and that the building will be ready at the beginning of college next fall.

Bids for the construction of a new and enlarged heating and power plant were opened on the 25th of September. The estimated cost of the plant is $75,000, of which $30,000 has recently been donated by Mr. Pierre S. du Pont, one of Delaware's most generous friends and benefactors. It is hoped to have this plant completed in a few months.

It is the hope of many of the students that with the completion of Mitchell Hall, a new dormitory will be built opposite Harter Hall, to give the campus some of the balanced effect that is planned in the completed campus as the architects have proposed. Such a building would be a great improvement to the looks of the campus, and would do much to show to visitors the ideal that is hoped for by those who are planning for the future of the University. Also, the need for additional dormitories is being strongly felt this year. Many of the students are being compelled to find rooms in town, and many are obliged to commute, because of the lack of rooming facilities.

Since the present Senior class entered college, much has been done to improve the looks of the campus, and several buildings have been built. It is the hope of many of the class that the foundations of some more may be laid before their official connection with the University is ended.

SIGMA NU FRATERNITY HOLDS HOUSE PARTY

Delta Kappa Chapter of Sigma Nu Fraternity opened its social season last Saturday night with a house dance. This was the first party to be held in the new house and was very well attended. The patronesses were Mrs. Francis A. Cooch and Miss Margaret Clerihew.

The Officers' Club of the University of Delaware held a dinner at the Blue Hen Tea Room, Wednesday evening.

Delaware Opens Grid
Season Tomorrow*Faces Rutgers In Hardest Game On Schedule; Large Following Expected

The University of Delaware football season will open tomorrow at New Brunswick, New Jersey, with Rutgers College as the first opponent. The local team is very much on edge for the contest and are quite anxious to try their prowess on some heavier opposition than the Jay Vees afford.

Practice this week has been greatly hampered by the wet weather, but the thought that Rutgers is also suffering from the weather is some relief. Up to this week practice had been held almost daily, and the team had learned most of the rudiments and need only a scrimmage or two more to give them experience in putting the basic principles into practice.

In Rutgers, Delaware is facing what is perhaps the strongest team on the schedule. Last Saturday they defeated Providence with a score of 17 to 0, and early this week they defeated Princeton, 7 to 6, in an unscheduled practice game. Delaware has not yet had an opportunity to try her mettle, but is hoping for big things.

A large following is expected to go to New Brunswick with the team tomorrow. The cheer leaders will be there in full force and there should be nothing lacking in the spirit of the Delaware stands. It is hoped by officials that as large a crowd as possible will go along to help with the cheering and help Delaware in her most crucial contest of the year.

Student Council To Give First Dance
Next Saturday*Hollander's Orchestra to Furnish Music for Opening Social Event

"Scop" Barton after earnest labor, and with the cooperation of the other members of the Student Council, has now almost everything ready for the coming year. The Rat Tribunal will get under way next week, so it behooves the Frosh to mind their P's and Q's. The Council has also appointed a Commons Committee to enter any complaints against the meals served in the Commons. One man will be elected from each class, and if any of these men receive any complaints from the Student Body, they will in turn take them to Mr. Wilkinson, and he will carry them through for readjustment of correction.

Due to the care taken by the Student Body in keeping the rules regarding the hours the radio was to be played the time will be extended and the radio enthusiasts will be able to enjoy themselves for a longer period.

On Friday night, October 12, the Student Council will hold its first dance of the new term, and every one will have an opportunity to attend.

Freshmen are not barred, but rather are cordially invited to attend, the dance being primarily to introduce the new men to the social life of the campus. As an added attraction to the first year students, they do not have to carry matches or obey any other Rat Rules on that evening. Walking on the grass is permitted, providing one does not get one's feet wet.

The dance will be held at the Armory from 8:30 to midnight. Al Hollander will furnish the melody for the occasion, and if there are any doubts as to the ability of this orchestra, any one who attended the Farewell Hop can enlighten the doubters.

The admission is (only) two dollars per couple; and tickets may be purchased from any of the members of the Council, or at the Armory on the night of the affair.

FOUR SCHOLARSHIPS AT WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Announcement has been made at the Women's College, University of Delaware, that the Delaware Branch of the American Association of University Women has awarded through its committee two scholarships of $200 each to the following two members of the freshman class: Audrey Crossgrave, of Newark, and Dorothy Welton, of Cheswold.

It is also announced that the Wilmington High School scholarship of $100 was awarded to Maude M. Grice, and the Newark High School Alumni scholarship of $100 to A. Dorothea Chalmers.

Lola Garrett, graduate of the Women's College, class of 1924, has received the degree of Ph. D. in psychology, from the University of Chicago.

THE NEW EDITOR

With the election of a new editor, the question always arises in the minds of the student body, as to what changes are impending in the policy of the paper, and in its management. The loss of the previous incumbent was rather a surprise to all of us, and we feel rather in the place of someone else than our own and that any radical changes would be out of order. A statement of policy is perhaps in order. The main aim of the staff will be to print all the news obtainable relating to the University and which will be of interest to the students. We favor no particular causes, and foster no particular group, but believe, as do all Delaware men, in betterment of athletic conditions, speedy completion of the building program now under way, and general betterment of the University. As to such minor subjects as conditions in the library, complaints about the military department, enforcement, or lack of enforcement of Freshmen Rules, interclass and interfraternity spirit, compulsory subscription to the Review, later hours at the Women's College, and the food in Commons, we will treat them in their turn, and in accord with their particular merits as they come up, with no dogmas to set forth on any particular subject. Like our Presidents, we are "neither pacifists nor militarists," and likewise we take no definite sides on any issue, but try to view with impartiality both sides of all the questions that confront us during the course of the year. Those that are expecting sensationalism will be disappointed, but those who expect news will get it if it is obtainable. As in the past, the columns of the Review are open to all who wish to contribute. Letters to the editor are welcomed at all times. We promise to print all those worthy of printing, but they must be printed with the writer's name, according to the regulations of the publication's committee. The Review does not guarantee to endorse the sentiments in all the letters it prints, but it agrees to give a place for the opinions of every student, subscriber, or friend of the Review, or friend of the University. And so we make our first bow.

DELAWARE AND ATHLETICS

The problem of the relation of the individual student to athletics at Delaware has been discussed in this column for several years by several editors. Indeed the oldest copies of the Review obtainable, show here and there editorials about school spirit as exhibited on the athletic field, and the attitude of the students to intercollegiate athletics in general.

This year we believe that the attitude is changing. From one of general indifference, the spirit seems to be changing to one of active interest. The spirit that is being manifested in regard to the Rutgers game is but one example of the interest the students are taking in the contests in which the University is represented. The way the students flock to watch the practices is another example, and an important one. There seems to be less criticism and more of constructive effort shown this year than for several years.

Now is an opportunity for each student to help put athletics on an even firmer basis than they have ever been at the University of Delaware. The opportunity is being given to every student to sell athletic tickets, and as an added incentive a good commission is being offered for every ticket sold. It should be no trouble for almost all of the students to sell one or two tickets, at least, and numbers of the students can sell more than that. Not only does this aid the student financially but it gives him a chance to render vital aid to the University and the Athletic Council.

The value of this is hard to state in words. Each ticket sold, and even each person interviewed, whether he buys a ticket or not becomes an advertisement to Delaware's athletic contests. Those who buy tickets will come to the games, and bring others with them. This will bring many people into direct contact with the college and may be, in the long run, of help to the University in time of some other need.

All of the money obtained by the sale of these tickets goes, of course, for the benefit of local athletics. Without increased funds the school cannot hope to continue to compete with the schools in her class, but with the money which may be obtained from the large sale of these tickets, she can continue with the schools which are more heavily endowed, and may rise to the position which she once held in the athletic world.

We urge therefore, that every student do his best to sell as many tickets as possible and help put across in a large way one of the biggest experiments that has been tried in this line at Delaware, for several years.

QUOTA CLUB MEMBERS GUESTS OF W. C. D.

The dinner meeting of the Wilmington Quota Club was held at Kent Hall, Women's College, Monday evening, with about 36 members of the club and the faculty of the University present. Dean Winifred J. Robinson, of the Women's College, was chairman of the affair.

President Walter Hullihen made an address on "The University of Delaware." He gave an interesting history of the growth of the town and the University. He showed how the Women's College had grown out of the original strictly male school, and had coordinated with the Men's College, until at present the two colleges are on an equal footing and of almost an equal number of students.

In discussing the upkeep of the University, President Hullihen pointed out that the income tax of the State of Delaware equals the combined income tax of nine other states.

A greeting was read from Arthur G. Wilkinson, business administrator of the University. College singing, led by Miss Mary E. Gillespie, was enjoyed by the guests. Following the dinner members of the faculty of the University entertained at a social hour in the Faculty Club rooms in Residence Hall. Cards were played and a generally informal time was enjoyed.

Members of the club attending the affair were: The president, Miss E. B. Mullen; Miss Sarah H. Truax, first vice-president; Mrs. Nettie Baynard Davis, third vice-president; Miss Florence M. Ellicott, secretary; Miss Mary L. K. Armstrong, Mrs. Bertha Bailey, Miss E. Virginia Baynard, Miss Idarene F. Black, Mrs. Helen G. Brown, Miss Louise C. Davis, Miss Virginia Davis, Miss Alta M. Durstein, Miss Grace E. Ellingsworth, Miss Violet L. Findley, Miss Ella M. Fisher, Mrs. Bertha M. Foster, Miss Mabel S. Haley, Miss Emma S. Jackson, Miss Mary A. Jones, Mrs. Anna D. Justis, Miss Grace Martin, Miss B. E. Mullen, Miss Carrie M. Richards, Mrs. Anna Roberts, Miss Winifred J. Robinson, Miss Sallie Sharp, Miss Edna Stuart, Mrs. E. M. White, Miss Addie Williams, Miss Mary C. Zebly, president, and Mrs. Walter Hullihen were guests of the affair.

Moon Worshipper

Once upon a time there was a student that came to college, curiously enough, for an education. He borrowed four thousand dollars at six per cent which would put him in debt four thousand, nine hundred and sixty dollars on graduation day. Debt, however, is an excellent stimulus for a young man, statistics proving that one's chances of success are in direct ratio to the amount of money one owes. This is a tried and true American theory, and one not open to dispute. The gentleman who financed him figured thus: Out of the money the boy owes he carries a five thousand dollar life insurance policy with me as beneficiary. His death, therefore, though regrettable, would not inconvenience me. When he leaves college he will have a difficult time earning enough to live on, let alone discharging his indebtedness. Perhaps I shall employ him, and an employee does not talk wildly of making over the firm, or failing that, deserting for employment with a competitor. No, he will be completely tractable, and I can make what disposition of him I see fit for some years to come. All this is as it should be, for I am his benefactor, and have given him an Education.

The boy, being a natural sort of a chap, wanted to go out for some of the college activities that so absorbed his classmates. He played football sufficiently well to stick on the squad for the first year, and he otherwise attempted to make his mark on the campus so that his backer might be pleased. The particular college he had selected had long been desirous of doing something drastic about its not too impressive scholastic standing. It Took Steps. That is, it increased the number of hours a week that a student must take to secure a degree, and the indifferent, the incompetent, and the laggard were dropped by the wayside. In order to make ends more nearly approach each other, the boy obtained part time employment in the town. His day became budgeted, leaving no idle moments for the dreams that had first endeared him to his backer, and made him a person worth writing about. His brain was charged with principles, theories, and r. p.m. Where he had woven fantasy, he now compressed steam. His instructors nodded approvingly; he was an Apt Student. The drawing speech and fanciful metaphor that had delighted his companions in earlier days gave way to a curt manner and factual conversation. The seed of a Villon that had been in him died, and in its place there grew the soul of a Morgan. He was on the road to success.

After the proper length of time he was graduated, and, as his benefactor had foreseen, entered into his benefactor's service. He was surprised to find that the man who had so readily advanced the money for his education should advance him so slowly in the direction he had educated him to go. He found that he was being trained for the position of Ideal Subordinate. One day the boy and one hundred thousand dollars in negotiable bonds were missing. You can hear a heart-rending tale of the ingratitude of man if you talk to the boy's employer.

This is really a story for a poet; I have not told it.

NEWARK MUSIC SOCIETY HAS FINE PROGRAM

Schedule Arranged For Fall and Winter Musicales, Begins October 17

Dr. George H. Ryden as president of the Newark Music Society has announced that the following program will be given by the Society this year: October 17—Musical at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Pearce Cann, 201 E. Main street.

November 14—Musical at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Holton, College avenue and Kent way.

Both are lines of national defense

THE Mississippi was a menacing flood. The telephone was the first line of defense, for over its wires the work against the flood was directed. Maintenance crews performed the same service as did telephone men in the signal corps in the war.

In the daily life of the nation, just as surely as in emergency, the telephone meets an ever-growing stream of demands.

To do this successfully the Bell System's expansion program embraces trans-oceanic telephony through the ether and under the sea, to ships at sea and planes in the air—and above all, wire facilities that will carry the voice, the typewritten word, the picture to every corner of the land.

Library Acquires Many New Books

Mr. Moses Encourages Increased Use of Building, but Pleads for Less Noise

Quite a number of undergraduates put their hearts as well as their minds into the use of the Memorial Library, Elliot L. Moses, head librarian, intimated yesterday in commenting on the use of the building as a point of contact between the Women's and Men's Colleges of the University. Nevertheless, it is his opinion that the average underclassman is bashful.

Mr. Moses declared that he has no objection whatever to using the library as a sort of midway rendezvous. In fact, he is of the opinion that such freedom will give the technical tomes therein a bit of sex appeal and will stimulate interest in books.

However, all this must be done with becoming propriety, he warned. His observations on the habits of students, the fruit of many years experience in this work, were included in a plea for less noise. The physical nature of the building, he said, is such that the slightest sound reverberates throughout the entire structure. Intimates undertones are to be encouraged.

As to the bashfulness of underclassmen, Mr. Moses was loth to generalize. However, nothing more clearly proves the existence of this trait, he conceded, than the iron clad tradition of seating in the reading room. There has never been any rule in the history of the library, he said, which requires girls to use the side of the room nearest the Women's College and for men to use the other side.

"It just happened," he said in explanation of this phenomena. The tradition does not hold for the periodical room and many persons, Mr. Moses said, have found it highly amusing that such a condition should prevail in one room and not another of the same library. He pointed out that a similar situation at the University of Wisconsin was remedied by repeated announcement that no sex lines existed in the library there.

Efforts are being made by officials of the Memorial Library to stimulate the use of the institution as a bureau of information. Mr. Moses pointed out that every municipal library is used extensively for this purpose. A library contains every sort of information, he reminded, and students should avail themselves more of this facility. The matter has resolved into a mild form of "Ask Me Another" campaign.

Due to the enlargement of the library's collection, it has been found necessary to install more stacks. This work is nearing completion now and the stacks, which have been temporarily closed to students, will be reopened shortly.

Welding Shop Given To University

Oxweld Co. Donates $5,000 Worth of Equipment to Engineering Department

Dr. Walter Hullahen, President of the University, announced at the Convocation Exercises, that the Engineering Department was the recipient of a valuable and useful gift from the Oxweld Company. The gift is a complete equipment for a gas welding department to be installed in the new Engineering building, and is valued at about $5,000.

The equipment, which will be installed in a laboratory 20 by 40 feet, consists of torches, tables, manifolds, welding rods and metals, including the special alloys for gas welding in airplane construction. The gift came through R. W. Boggs, head of the technical publicity department of the Oxweld Company, in New York. Mr. Boggs recommended the gift after a trip here in which he was impressed by the progressive spirit of the Engineering Department of the University. The Oxweld Company has, of course, no commercial connection with the University.

In addition to the gift of the equipment, the Oxweld Company will give a course to Mr. J. L. Coyle, a member of the teaching staff of the Engineering Department in order to keep the shop courses in welding up to date. Mr. Coyle will be at the Oxweld laboratories for the period between semesters, and for one month next summer.

The Oxweld Company is a subsidiary of the Carbide and Carbide Corporation, a holding corporation which also controls the Linde Air Products Company, and the Prest-O-Lite Company.

From an engraving of the time in Harper's Weekly

Autumn of '79

WHILE Yale and Princeton were battling to a tie at Hoboken, New Jersey, a small group of scientists, directed by Thomas A. Edison, was busy at Menlo Park, only a few miles away. On October 21, their work resulted in the first practical incandescent lamp.

Few realized what fifty years would mean to both electric lighting and football. The handful who watched Yale and Princeton then has grown to tens of thousands to-day. And the lamp that glowed for forty hours in Edison's little laboratory made possible to-day's billions of candle power of electric light. In honor of the pioneer achievement, and of lighting progress, the nation this year observes Light's Golden Jubilee.

Much of this progress in lighting has been the achievement of college-trained men employed by General Electric.

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE FOREIGN STUDY GROUP ABOARD S. S. CARONIA

The picture represents the seventh group of students who sailed on the Caronia, July 17th, to study one year in France under the auspices of the University of Delaware Foreign Study Plan. This year's group is made up of 67 students from about 40 Universities and Colleges throughout the United States.

Under this plan students spend their Junior year in France. In order to be accepted it is necessary that the students be in the upper third of their class and recommended by their college. Upon arriving in France they spend the summer at the University of Nancy studying the French language. In October they go to Paris and take up the regular Winter and Spring terms at the Sorbonne, returning home in July of the following year.

The plan was originated by the late

Professor Raymond Kirkbride of the University of Delaware and has been made possible by Mr. Pierre S. du Pont of Wilmington, who has contributed funds to provide a large part of the overhead expenses.

Mr. Arthur G. Wilkinson, Business Administrator of the University of Delaware, who traveled to France with this year's group to attend to financial matters at headquarters, stated upon his return that he was very much impressed with this year's group of students. He speaks highly of the treatment received from the Company's staff on the S. S. Caronia, who spared no efforts to make the party comfortable and happy.

Upon arriving at Paris, a dinner was given at the Trianon Palace Hotel, Versailles, at which a number of prominent people were present, included in which were members of the Faculty of the Sorbonne.

Soccer Team Has Heavy Schedule

Large Squad Reports for Practice; Many Freshmen Out

Due to the fact that a number of last year's men have already reported for practice, this year's soccer outlook is quite favorable. Captained by "Gummy" Collins, the other letter men playing this year are Smith, Walter Lee, Jim Caulk, McVaugh, and Snowberger, who will probably play on the line, while Jackson, who was out most of last season, due to injuries, will be the mainstay in the backfield. Most likely Hall, Murray and Bob Robinson will play back, while Paul Smith and Goldberg will play on the defense. Waddington is carefully protecting the goal, making it very probable that he will hold down this position. Stradley, who had lots of soccer experience, is quite capable of taking care of an outside position. A number of Freshmen, some with little experience, have reported for practice, and they are showing plenty of promise to make the team.

This year's schedule, much harder than last year's, is featured by a game in Atlantic City. The team will spend Saturday night and Sunday in the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel. A game with Temple is pending, whereas the soccer schedule is as follows:

University of Pennsylvania, away—October 16.

Penfa. State Teachers' College, away—October 25.

Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, away—November 26.

Franklin and Marshall, home—November 29.

Swarthmore, away—November 8.

Haverford, home—November 15.

NEW MAGAZINE FOR WRITERS APPEARS

Of particular interest to local readers is the fact that "Manuscripts" appeared on sale at the local bookstore this week. It is edited and published by Willis H. Kinnear in Indianapolis, Indiana. It is something entirely new in the field of magazine publications. The format is unique and the purpose is very unusual. The magazine caters to the younger writers throughout the United States, primarily to those who are attending universities. It is being published in the interest of the college writers and their professors. "Manuscripts" is being distributed on a national scale and has the support of many prominent literary men. Robert Morris Lovett, Norman Foerster and Edith R. Mirrielees are advisory editors. In addition to these names there appear those of William Lyon Phelps, Peter Munro, Jack and Paul Kaufman. One very unusual fact well worth mentioning is that "Manuscripts" has the cooperation of the Heads and members of the English departments of the largest universities of the country. The magazine is filling a place in the field of magazine publications too long left unfilled.

Mr. Bartell, from Dover, the representative of Liggett and Myers, has recently paid a visit to the Review. Mr. Bartell is always a welcome visitor, because not only does he carry samples of cigarettes with him, but he cheerfully gives them to the students. Come again, Mr. Bartell, and make yourself at home!

Fencing Team Starts Practice

Large Squad Reports for Early Training

In spite of its handicaps, the fencing team started practice officially last Monday. A good bunch of Freshmen turned out, and these men are now progressing rapidly in learning the ways of swordsmanship. The chief handicap, both for novices and veterans, is the absence of Captain Carswell, who so ably coached the fencers during the last three years. In his absence, the veterans of last year are instructing the new candidates and coaching each other.

The veterans are Edgar Hare, Jr., Capt. Kenneth M. Frisbie, Frank Sasse, Solomon Blum, Malcolm Adams, and Walter Davis. Among the Freshmen who have reported for practice are H. Johnson, Melson, Rash, Wormuth, J. Brown, W. D. Burton, C. Cohen, L. Cohn, S. Shapiro, and W. Klund. All these men look well at present, and a few show unusual ability. More candidates are requested to come out—from any class—as several good men are needed. Candidates should report directly to Capt. Hare in the gym any afternoon after 3.30.

Leon de Valinger, manager of the team, will be glad to see candidates for manager from any class. Here is an important position which will soon be open.

The schedule has not been completed yet, but the teams which Delaware will probably meet are Lafayette, Rutgers, Philadelphia Central Y, and possibly one or two others.

PLEA FOR THE "NEW MAN" IN ARTHUR STRINGER'S NOVEL, "CRISTINA AND I"

Arthur Stringer, heretofore the champion of the Feminists, believes the time has come for the New Man to assert himself. He sets forth his views in a novel, "Cristina and I," which has just been published.

The Feminists, it seems, have had their fling. It isn't the New Woman we need now, but the New Man, the Masculinist, who will be brave enough to be honest with women. In a series of Socratic dialogues Cristina and I—I being the author—come to the conclusion that the new world is fairly ruled by gynocracy. Americans treat women with a deference almost unknown in other countries, and history teaches that any civilization which has allowed woman-rule has always and inevitably slipped into decadence.

One of man's cleverest inventions, it transpires in the novel, was the modesty of women. Since American women acquired freedom they are now a bit weary of that worn-out sex chivalry. Man, so long as he has been magnanimous, but this silly and chivalrous idealization of woman has sadly interfered with her destiny.

The New Man, or the Masculinist, must be honest with women. It is not easy for men to be open and above-board with women because women have declined to be open and above-board with themselves. Now women want to be more than ornamental, and they are. They do honest work in an honest way and thus they find less and less need for deceiving men. But men have been "chivalrous" for so long it's become organic, and though they know there's something wrong about it, they can't quite help it. Man still likes to regard himself as a lord of creation, but women insist that the age of apes is over. Tired, as they are, of that antiquated sex condescension, women prefer to stand on their own feet than on the old pedestal where they weren't as comfortable as they pretended to be. Modern woman is getting along all right. But what about the modern man?

Arthur Stringer dedicates his new novel to "The women who have disagreed with me, knowing they will continue to do so."

"OUR SECRET WAR," by Thomas M. Johnson.

Thomas M. Johnson says "Our Secret War" is 90 per cent true. The ten per cent he attributes to the difficulty people find in remembering clearly eleven years after the World War, and in the need for concealing identities.

"Our Secret War" tells true stories of the part played by American Secret Service during the World War, and of historical events which influenced war and peace and which were so successfully kept from the newspapers. The book reveals the names of our spies and spy-chasers, an unsuspected army within an army, who fought a war against German agents in our midst—and caught some. Mr. Johnson's book states that there were perhaps 40,000 or 50,000 spy-chasers under cover in the A. E. F., besides the mysterious I. P., Corps of Intelligence Police, a company of adventurous men whose picturesque tale is here told for the first time.

Nothing in fiction can compare with these thrilling true stories of the anonymous "Q." Milada Jameheck, Captain Voska, Agents A-1 and A-2, Bella Donha and many others. The book reveals the plots to kill President Wilson and General Pershing; the surprising story of how American secret service in Switzerland "fed" a German woman spy faked papers indi-eating a fictitious big American attack in Alsace which fooled her superiors; and the thrilling tale of how one American I. P. stopped Spanish desperadoes from destroying a great munitions dump and another broke up a conspiracy to bring about Bolshevism in the A. E. F., involving a well-known American Red.

This is a book of strange tales of strange people, spies and counter-spies, messengers, forgers, crooks of all sorts, of all nations and both sexes; of code messages in secret ink hidden beneath a dead rabbit's skin, inside a false tooth, in a baby's intimate draperies.

This is Mr. Johnson's second book on the war. The first, "Without Censor," published last year shed new light on the greatest American War battles. That book has received high praise from British and American authorities including Newton D. Baker, Generals March, Harbord, Nolan, Major General Sir Frederick B. Maurice and many others.
