TELLS OF MODERN ARABIA

Speaker Tells
Club Women
Of Country

"The Jewish people have transformed Arabia," Dr. C. Stanley Mylrea, who has spent 31 years practicing medicine in that country, told 75 members and guests of the Newark New Century Club at its regular meeting Monday afternoon.

"The citrus industry, especially oranges and grapefruit," he said, "has been so developed that 1,000,000 cases were exported last year and there is even talk of increasing this yield to greater proportions."

"Splendid model farms have been constructed," he continued, "with the latest improvements in milking, farming, butter making, and poultry raising, and it is interesting to note that never before has Arabia been an agricultural country."

Newark Faces A Crisis

To be or not to be — That is the pressing and immediate question faced by the Flower Hospital, one of Newark's most important, least appreciated, and most worthy institutions.

Silently and uncomplainingly enacting the role to which it was dedicated by Mary C. Ford, its founder, twelve years ago, the Flower Hospital has succeeded in riding numerous financial storms to continue its service—service that is seldom appreciated until the urgency of its need is magnified by illness or accident.

That's the present state of affairs at the Flower Hospital. The picture is a true one, presented without exaggeration.

Money—financial support—is needed at once, if the institution is to continue.

Those same civic forces that combined to retain an ambulance for Newark are needed to guarantee the existence of the hospital for the community as a whole.

As a means of relieving the immediate pressure of an empty till, Miss Ford and some of her friends have planned a card party to be held in the Newark New Century Club on the night of May 11. Newark can help to remove the present financial pressure from ITS OWN HOSPITAL by supporting the card party, not alone by purchasing tickets, but by donations of prizes and helping to arrange the manifold details leading up to the affair itself.

National Hospital Day is to be marked on May 12 and it is timely that Newark do its share of celebrating the occasion by aiding the one institution that answers the hospitalization needs of the town and sector.

On top of the immediate needs, which are real and urgent, something should be done about creating a permanent fund or foundation toward the institution's upkeep. Emergency after emergency has been met during the twelve years the hospital has existed, but little has ever been accomplished by way of removing the cause of the emergencies.

Clubs, civic organizations, lodges, patriotic societies and groups, town officials, industrial leaders, and trustees of the University of Delaware—all of whom should recognize the need for a properly financed and sufficiently maintained hospital in the community—should get together for the purpose of establishing a permanent basis of supporting the institution.

The only regular income received by the hospital is a monthly check of $80 paid by the University of Delaware. And that check is promptly reduced to $25 when the monthly rental for the hospital building, owned by the university, is paid back to the source of the original amount. Contrary to the opinion that is rife in many sections of Newark, the Flower Hospital does not occupy a rent-free building.

Other fixed charges include electricity, water, coal, food, supplies, and numerous incidental items. The insufficient sum of $25 a month is the only guaranteed amount expected to cover the budget. Higher economies are not needed to demonstrate the impossibility of the task.

"Old Timers" Honored By Local Lodges This Week

Red Men Meet
Past Great Sachem Frank Balling opened the Red Men's meeting held Monday night in Fraternal Hall with the flag salute and singing of "America."

"Loyalty and Long Service" was the topic of the main address of the evening, given by Past Great Sachem Horace B. Lilley, of Maryland. Invocation was pronounced by Norris Pratt and Chairman Albert Lewis introduced the members who have been in the tribe for thirty years or more and presented each with a carnation.

Lt.-Gov. Edward W. Cooch, affiliated with the organization for 36 years, responded for the group of old members.

SENIORS ON TRIP

Senior Class
Of N. H. S. Now
In Washington

Over fifty members of the senior class of Newark High School left at noon yesterday for Washington where they are spending three days sight-seeing. Of the sixty-six students in the class, only twelve remained at home.

With the Lafayette Hotel as its base, the class will visit Mount Vernon, the Capitol, Congressional Library, Supreme Court and many other places of interest. W. K. Gillespie and Miss Ann Gallagher, members of the faculty, are acting as chaperones.

Funds for the trip are accumulated from class dues, the annual senior play and other benefits given during the school year.

Students On Trip
Members of the class making the trip are: Helen Anderson, Margaret Beale, Raymond Beyerlein, Jane Black, Evelyn Bowlsby, Melvin Brooks, Burton Collins, Robert Cooper, Catharine Dempsey, Robert Egnor, Jacqueline Ernest, Virginia Evans, Ellen Foster, Olive Fulton, Arthur Gifford, Doris Grant, Sara Godwin, John Grundy, Drexel Harrington, Jane Hastings, Anna Hayes, Helen Louise Irwin, Grace Johnson, Edward Kozlowski, Violette Leak, Mary Lee, Oliver Lehtinen, Kathleen Little, Olive Lomax, Vernon Lovett, Elsie McCormick, William McGee, Eleanor McVey, Helen Maloney, Edward Morgan, Helen Murray, Mable Murray, Wilson Murray, Blanche Neal, Jean Owen, Jack Picé, Elizabeth Pierson, Robert Plinick, Wilson Price, Clifford Slack, Rose Smith, Louis Staats, Wilson Stevens, Florence Swain, Louise Talucci, Anne Tarr, Katharine White, Frances Williams, Ruth Wilson, Albert Gregson.

Annual "May Hop" To Be Staged At Elktion Armory
The annual "May Hop" will be staged at the Elktion Armory on Friday evening, May 6, under the sponsorship of Company "E."

Delaware Grange Plans To Play Host To County Session At Newport, June 2
By Robert M. Yearsley
Lecturer, Delaware State Grange
Delaware Grange held its regular meeting Monday evening with Master B. B. Taylor presiding. Plans for entertaining the New Castle County Pomona Grange session at Newport on Thursday, June 2 were discussed. The Grange will observe "Music Night" on May 9. During the lecturer's hour Dr. Douglas Gay spoke on "Cancer Control."

Harmony Grange met Monday evening. After a short business meeting a dance was enjoyed by the young people. It was announced that on May 2, State Master Clarence E. Jester and Mrs. Jester would be the guests of Harmony. At this time state master will present silver certificates to about twenty-five members who have belonged to the Grange for 25 years. Mrs. Harry Brackin, chairman of the home economics committee, reported that she will have charge of the program on May 9 and that a variety sale will be held in connection with it. May 16, Harmony Grange will receive the traveling pennant from Central Grange and on May 18 will deliver it to Stanton Grange.

NEWARK DELEGATES SELECTED BY SCHOOL

Anne Tarr, Ellen
Foster And Jane
Hastings Local Representatives

Anne Tarr, Ellen Foster and Jane Hastings, students at the Newark High School, have been selected to hold offices in the "Girls' State" which will be held at Dover on Saturday, under the sponsorship of the American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary and the 40 and 8. Mrs. Harold Sheaffer, Mrs. P. D. Lovett and Allan F. Cooch, Jr., commander of J. Allison O'Daniel Post No. 1, will accompany the group.

W.C.D. Cooperates
The Women's College, University of Delaware, is cooperating in the program by supplying an acting governor, lieutenant governor, and the other state elective officers. Each high school is invited to send a girl "senator," a "representative," and a girl to serve as an attaché in the House of Representatives.

An address will be made by Lt.-Gov. Edward W. Cooch and others prominent in political circles, and the girls will learn how to organize the Senate and the House and how the Legislature conducts its business. A number of Delaware's actual legislators will be present to assist and guide them.

The girls may go to Dover fully prepared to introduce one or two "bills" each. These will be read or listed by title only, but completed bills may be introduced if the representatives have them ready. They may introduce bills dealing with any subject.

Material concerning these two topics will be given to the girls after they arrive in Dover. A one-hour lunch period will be enjoyed and the afternoon session is expected to adjourn at about 3:30 p.m., standard time.

The tentative program for the "Boys' State" which will be held on Saturday, May 14, is as follows: registration, 9:00-9:30 a.m.; county caucuses to elect governor, lieutenant governor and other elective officers, 9:30-9:50; joint session to hear Governor Richard C. McMullen, 10:00-10:30; pictures taken, 10:30-10:40; morning sessions of Houses at 10:40; adjournment at noon.

Following the lunch period which will end at 1:30 p.m., the Houses will re-assemble for a discussion of the bills on Civil Service and Social Agencies. A conference between representatives of the Senate and House will then be held and the session will adjourn at four o'clock.

To Discuss Bills
The boys are expected to be prepared to discuss these bills which are now being prepared by qualified lawyers. Copies will be mimeographed and distributed to the schools at least one week before the affair will be held.

Many of the elective officers of the state, members of the Senate, members of the House of Representatives, and various attaches of the last session of the Legislature will be on hand to assist the boys and to instruct them in their work. All of the members of the American Legion and of the 40 and 8 are invited to be present and it is hoped that school superintendents, principals and teachers will be on hand to observe and assist.

Through the courtesy of Superintendent of State Police John R. Fader, special officers will be in Dover on the days of the girls' and boys' state.

Lesson for May 1

FOLLOWING VISION
WITH SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:14-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—All things are possible to him that believeth.—Mark 9:23.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Only Jesus Could Help.
JUNIOR TOPIC—At the Foot of the Mountain.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living Up to Our Knowledge of Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Following Vision with Service.

One of the lessons that seems hard to learn and keep constantly effective in the life of a Christian is that mountain-top experiences of spiritual uplift are not an end in themselves but a preparation for service. All too often we come to regard such times of peculiar blessing, whether in the privacy of our own room, or in the great conference of Christian workers, as something which should glow warmly in our own hearts, making us glad in the Lord, and not as a background and preparation for ministry to others. One might just as well hope to feed the physical body constantly without any work or exercise and keep in good health, as to feed the soul on good things, do nothing for God or fellow-man, and still avoid what someone has called "spiritual dyspepsia."

The writer has just attended a most unusual and blessed Bible conference, the leaders of which righteously apprehended this truth. Evangelism was the matter chiefly in mind, but instead of announcing the theme of the week's meetings as "Evangelism," the program presented it as "Preparation for Evangelism." That is sound spiritual sense. We came not to discuss evangelism itself so much as to prepare ourselves to go and evangelize. God help us to do it!

Jesus rightly characterized the time in which he lived as

I. A Faithless Generation (vv. 14-19).
"Jesus found in the valley disputing scribes, a distracted father, a demon-possessed boy, and defeated disciples." The unbeliever which called forth the rebuke of Jesus "is revealed in different phases. There were the scribes, wilful and persistent; there was the father, unwilling; there was the boy, irresponsible; there were the disciples, unconscious; there was the whole atmosphere was an unbelieving atmosphere" (Morgan).

As we look at that depressing picture of long ago, let us consider ourselves lest we also be tempted to "limit God" by our faithlessness. The most casual reader of Scripture cannot help but see that God seeks out and honors faith, and as we begin to study God's Word with care we realize that the fundamental of all fundamentals is really to believe God. Some Christian men and women are living out a tremendous testimony for God by fully believing Him and His Word, but many of those who profess to follow Him actually make Him appear ridiculous before the world because their unbelief makes Him out to be a "small" God instead of the infinite, eternal, omnipotent God.

II. The All-Powerful Saviour (vv. 22-27).
The keynote of our first division might well have been the sad words "they could not" in verse 18. But now the Son of God has come and the new keynote is the inspiring words of verse 23, "all things are possible to him that believeth." There is no problem too difficult for our Lord; there is no sorrow too deep for His comfort; there is no challenging opportunity too great for His enabling power.

A distressing fact that emerges as one becomes acquainted with Christian work and workers is that the work of God is being hindered by men and women who deny their testimony by their destructive works. One wonders if much of it might not be stopped "dead in its tracks" if the ones against whom the attacks are directed were first to see that their own life is blameless before God and then trust Him to meet the issue. He is able. Read Isaiah 54:17, and it you are a true "servant of the Lord" claim your "heritage."

III. Prayer the Connecting Link (vv. 28, 29).
The disciples in chagrin at their inability to deal with the difficulty of the demon-possessed boy, having witnessed the power of Christ in delivering him, begin now to realize that evidently even though unconscious of it, they had come into the powerless position of unbeliever.

What a solemn warning there is for us in the experience of these followers of the Lord. Like the termite who destroys the very life and strength of wood—and yet leave it apparently whole, only to crumble in dust when it is put under the pressure of daily use—are we spiritually destructive influences which all but unconsciously destroy the virile strength of the Christian. Prayerlessness is the most effective weapon of Satan at this point. Without prayer there is no power. Real problems are not successfully met nor are opportunities grasped "out by prayer."

If you have a new canary who refuses to sing there is the possibility that the little creature is simply lonely and lacks inspiration. In such instances, canaries have been known to start singing when a whistling tea kettle is placed on the stove a few times a day and allowed to boil.

For a delicious, jiffy dessert, try Refrigerator Whip: Into 1 cup of whipping cream (whipped), fold ½ cup of graham cracker crumbs and 1 cup of peach or other preserves. Pile in a sherbert and chill. This is a particularly suitable dessert to make up several hours, or a day in advance. And stored in the clean-washed, properly moist atmosphere of a modern air-conditioned ice refrigerator, this dessert will retain all its delicate flavor and fluffiness until serving time.

Refreshments at a card party can be served with lightning speed by the use of clever table trays or covers that are easily and inexpensively made. Each tray is the size of the card table top, and is made of she-lacked composition board, with a one-inch frame or "apron" that fits over the table. Handles are placed on opposite side. Before the guests arrive each tray is spread with a cloth and completely set with a service for four. Plates of cake and sandwiches, covered with damp cloths, are even put on. Perishable foods are in the refrigerator, all ready to serve. Each tray is then quickly carried in and all the guests are served at once.

UNNECESSARY FEAR

JACK WOOTEN

Poor, emaciated little Tommy. He almost went into spasms when he saw the big dog. His mother, too, was afraid. When the canine started barking, she did not continue on her way home as she had intended; instead, with her child's trembling hand in her own, which was little more steady than his, she turned suddenly and scurried into Mrs. Reed's yard.

"Oh, mercy!" she shrieked to her neighbor, who was working in her flower bed, "that horrible dog almost bit Tommy."

Mrs. Reed smiled. "Fifty wouldn't harm a flea," she said. "He was only speaking to you, Mrs. Crouch."

Afraid Of Dogs

"I'm so afraid of dogs," the mother panted, "and Tommy almost has convulsions every time he sees one. I wish I had some remedy for it."

"There's a very simple remedy," Mrs. Reed put down the four-prong rake as she spoke. "Come into the house and let's talk it over while Tommy plays out here in the sunshine."

"Oh, I wouldn't think of that," Mrs. Crouch said. "Tommy isn't accustomed to the sun; it always gives him fever."

Mrs. Reed sighed. Then she looked at her neighbor squarely in the face. "I'm going to speak in a very plain way," she said gently, but firmly. "It isn't God's natural sun rays that give your boy fever. You have not understood how to care for him, and you have deprived him of some of nature's choicest gifts to humanity. No wonder he is afraid of dogs. There aren't many sound nerves in his body to resist fear, and you make matters worse by being afraid yourself. Did you ever stop to think, Mrs. Crouch, that Tommy is afraid because you are afraid?"

Longed For Opportunity
"No—O, no," the woman responded. "I've always been so nervous myself that I haven't taken time to think."

"Exactly," replied Mrs. Reed. "I've noticed that myself, and I've been longing for a good opportunity to give you some helpful advice. I'm so glad you came this morning. You see," she continued, with a smile, "I've brought up four children, and I believe I know something about their needs."

"Tommy has the disposition of a real boy, and if you will only give him the chance to develop it, he will make you proud of him. But he will find it hard to amount to anything until you do two things: first, get yourself into better physical condition; second, let your boy get out—just a little while each day, at first—and romp and play like other boys, and always encourage him to be brave instead of being fearful of nature and nature's children."

"But he's delicate," said Mrs. Crouch. "I'm afraid—"

"Don't be afraid. You must conquer your own fear before you can hope to have Tommy conquer his. Get out in the open air yourself, and get a nice coat of tan. Take

Roses

ROSES WERE an important part in the gardens of Ancient Rome. It is generally believed that the rose was the first flower to be cultivated for its ornamental value.

TO HAVE A good rose garden, we first of all must have good rose bushes to start with. A fair price must be paid if you want quality and this is as true with rose-bushes as with merchandise.

IN SELECTING your roses, keep in mind that a short stocky or heavy plant is better than a taller light one.

IN SETTING our roses, spread the roots out in the pit. Cut off bruised or broken roots with a sharp knife as otherwise decay is liable to set in.

ROSES ARE generally grafted upon some other understock. If suckers come up from the root stock, cut them out; otherwise they will spoil the rose in time.

ROSES SHOULD be pruned in the spring before growth begins. During the summer the shoots that have blossomed should be cut back to within two or three leaves of their point of origin.

A GOOD PLACE for grass clipping is around the roots of your roses. As they get dry work them into the soil and spread fresh ones over the top.

THE INTENSITY of color in roses is apt to vary from season to season. A handful of iron filings in the soil around the roots will often keep red roses from bleaching.

PICK OFF faded rose blooms to prevent the ripening of seed. If the flowering stem is cut back on the hybrid tea, the new growth will often produce nice blooms later in the season.

STANTON

By Miss Emma S. Maclary

Stanton, April 27.—Dr. Walter E. Gunby, district superintendent of the Wilmington Conference District was the guest speaker at the Stanton M. E. Church on Sunday Morning. In the evening, Rev. E. H. Collins, pastor, started a series of sermons on "The Watchword for Today."

The Stanton School P.T.A. will serve a roast beef supper tonight in the school. Following the supper, the last meeting of the P.T.A. for this year will be held, and the annual election of officers will be conducted.

Pupils of the Stanton School, under the direction of Miss Helen Martin, will present a demonstration of Swedish folk dances and songs at the Glassboro, N. J., meeting of Music Teachers of Southern New Jersey, April 30th.

Physical examinations for children who will enter the Stanton school in September were given at the school on Monday by Dr. J. R. Downes, state health doctor.

The 4-H Club of the Stanton School met on Wednesday afternoon at which time members made reports on the projects they are now carrying out. Plans were also completed for the entertainment which the 4-H Club will hold Friday evening. Proceeds will be used to defray expenses of members who attend the 4-H Short Course at the University of Delaware.

Newark Faces A Crisis

It will not be in existence many days, however, unless the community demonstrates its intelligence by recognizing an obligation that has become a crisis.

The Flower Hospital needs money. Public support at the card party on May 11 will relieve an immediate situation of need, but something permanent—a cause that should have been launched years ago—is necessary to insure the institution's continuance in the future.

Newark, what's your response?

A JOB WELL DONE

School and college boys receive their share of notice in the public prints for ability in athletics, excellence in classroom work, debating skill, and other branches of school life wherein unusual feats are performed. Too little attention is paid to girls, however, many of whom equal the accomplishments of their brothers and, in numerous instances, surpass them by more superior deeds.

We take time out, therefore, to mention the work done by the retiring staff of the YELLOW JACKET BUZZ, a six-times-a-year paper published by students of Newark High School.

In Anna Hayes, retiring editor, the paper has had the services of a forceful, efficient, and capable guiding hand. Answering every requisite demanded by an exacting field, Anna Hayes has maintained the decorum of a refined lady and the charm of a delightful miss in completing a task that has been known to alter the disposition and personality of individuals with an inferior breeding of gentility.

The daughter of an outstanding newspaperman, Anna Hayes has more than fulfilled the hopes her capable father must have nourished in connection with her efforts in the publishing field.

No little of the success gained by Anna Hayes can be credited to an efficient staff that worked with her during a trying year. At no time, however, did the editor fail to show the spirit and capabilities of a leader worth following. The entire staff merits congratulations.

The Junior Issue of the BUZZ, scheduled for release next week, is being prepared by Vivian McMullen, the new editor, and a new staff. In greeting them, we extend best wishes for a successful year that embraces a continuance of the innovations launched by the retiring staff.

RAILROADS BOOST DELAWARE BUSINESS

Delaware benefited substantially from the expenditures of the railroads in 1937 for materials, supplies, fuel, new equipment and payrolls, it is revealed in a special study which has just been completed by the Bureau of Railway Economics of the Association of American Railroads.

Railway purchases in Delaware last year totaled $2,102,896, the report shows. Of this sum, $1,912,024 was spent for materials, supplies and fuel, while $190,872 went for new equipment (not including that built in company shops). These purchases were made in 34 towns and cities located in all of the three counties of the state.

Wages paid to railway employees in Delaware during 1937 amounted to $7,270,661.

The review discloses that, for the nation as a whole, the railroads last year paid $1,133,361,468 for the more than 70,000 different items which they use. Materials, supplies and fuel cost $966,383,000, and expenditures for all new equipment (except that constructed in railway shops) totaled $166,978,468. More than 12,000 towns and cities located in 2,683 of the 3,072 counties of the United States derived direct benefits from this large volume of railroad buying.

In 1937, the country's rail carriers also distributed $1,983,990,485 in wages to their employees, the report says.

TVA INVESTIGATION

Directly as a result of the long feud between Chairman Arthur E. Morgan of the Tennessee Valley Authority and the other two directors, Harcourt A. Morgan and David Lilienthal, a Congressional investigation of that government agency will be begun shortly.

The controversy among the TVA directors was brought to a climax when Chairman Morgan in public statements made serious charges against his fellow members of the board a few weeks ago and suggested a Congressional investigation.

When President Roosevelt later called the members of the board before him, Chairman Morgan refused to present evidence in support of his charges, on the ground that the President was not in a position to make a thorough investigation, and Morgan again demanded a Congressional committee.

The President then removed Morgan from office, and after several days of wrangling Congress by a joint resolution ordered the investigation by a joint committee of the Senate and House. The resolution enumerated 20 points to be investigated, but authorized the inclusion of any other matters pertaining to the TVA's administration and policies.

All hearings and decisions of the joint committee are to be made public, and the committee is to report its findings not later than January 3, 1939. The committee will include six Democrats and four Republicans, drawn equally from Senate and House.

SCREEN SNAPS

State Theatre Briefs

Reuniting four who contributed so largely to the success of "Topper" a few months ago, "Merrily We Live" was directed by Norman Z. McLeod, has Constance Bennett as one of its stars and Billie Burke and Alan Mowbray heading the supporting cast.

Sharing stellar honors with Miss Bennett is Brian Aherne, equally at home in romantic or comedy roles. In this production he has opportunity for both. In the guise of a tramp who is in reality a novelist, he is admitted to the Kilbourne mansion and given the post of chauffeur. He stays on to gain material for a novel and because he has fallen in love with the debutante daughter, Jerry, played by Miss Bennett.

Miss Bennett plays the part with zest and apparent delight in its many-sidedness. Jerry Kilbourne is a spoiled and spirited product of the modern age and the blonde star gives a portrayal that is both amusing and sympathetic. Patsy Kelly, Ann Dvorak, Tom Brown, Bonita Granville, Marjorie Rambeau, Clarence Kolb and Phillip Reed are others who add to making "Merrily We Live" one of the most hilarious pictures of the current season.

Monday and Tuesday

A star-surrounded by stars! That's Shirley Temple, America's top-ranking star in her best-of-all musical, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

Stars by actual count 40 of 'em, were assembled from the screen, the musical world, playwrighting profession and from among dance directors when Darryl F. Zanuck ordered this great happiness hook-up.

The star-studded cast includes: look at 'em . . . Randolph Scott, Gloria Stuart, Jack Haley, Phyllis Brooks, Helen Westley, Slim Summerville, Bill Robinson, Alan Dinehart, J. Edward Bromberg, Dixie Dunbar, Paul Hurst, William Demarest, Ruth Gillette, Paul Harvey, Franklin Pangborn, the Raymond Scott Quintet and many more.

Topping off a list of six new song hits by Gordon and Revel, Pollock and Mitchell, Pokrass and Yellen, and Raymond Scott . . . Shirley adds a reprise of all the star songs from her previous starring pictures.

Stars? There's millions of 'em!

Wednesday

It seems that the "Vanishing American" has been hiding in film studios "property" warehouses! 20th Century-Fox found that all the old-fashioned wooden Indians which used to stand before early American cigar stores have migrated to Hollywood, and that here would be no trouble in casting one for a scene in "The County Chairman," one of the great classics of American humor by George Ade.

Will Rogers is starred in the title role, which he portrays as only America's beloved humorist could play it. With Will in the part of a small-town political firebrand who knew all the big-town tricks.

One of the most amusing of this season's comedy dramas, is "Paradise for Three." The novel plot is carried out to perfection by the excellent performances of Frank Morgan, Robert Young, Mary Astor, Edna May Oliver, Florence Rice, Reginald Owen, Henry Hull and Herman Bing. Morgan portrays the rich capitalist who wins a contest and as a reward is sent to an Alpine resort for two weeks. To enjoy his vacation he masquerades as a poor man, making his valet, Owen, act as a man of wealth. Morgan's daughter, Miss Rice, and his housekeeper, Miss Oliver, find out about his plan and inform the hotel to play up to his whim, but to treat him well. They mistake him for another contest winner, Young, who is actually an unemployed man. From then on things begin to happen, especially when Miss Astor, a woman of the world, sets out to trap Morgan, having also learned the truth about him.

John Golden Announces Mail Order Department

John Golden has established a separate mail order department in his office as a result of the unusually large number of out-of-town requests for seats in advance for Gertrude Lawrence in Rachel Crothers' "Susan and God" at the Plymouth Theatre.

To enable proper functioning of the plan, choice seats have been allotted for use of this new department, the attaches of which are assigned to this duty alone.

The volume of mail orders has reached proportions where it was too heavy for handling by the Plymouth box office staff without interfering with the window sale. A separate mail order department is seldom established except with monster spectacles in over-the-top theatres.

Presbyterian Church Team Takes Crown From Texaco

The Presbyterian Church bowlers staged a stirring rally Monday night to cop the Monday Night League championship from Texaco by a 3-2 count.

In the five-game playoff, the victors trailed 2-0, but came through to cop the last three games and the crown. Dave Crowl was high for the defeated combine while A. E. Tomhave led the winning contingent.

Marion Winona Smith of Winnipeg graduated from technical high school at the age of 14, winning the governor-general's gold medal.

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN
WILLIAM F. ALLEN

BUSINESS—Economists feel that instead of under-confidence on the part of business men, over-confidence was the cause of the present depression. They observe that the automobile industry pushed sales on easier terms than ever before; raw material prices as well as those of finished goods have been pushed up; and inventories of goods have shown a rapid increase.

LABOR BILL—Many types of measures have been proposed for the wage-hour legislation. Now a measure has been brought out from the House Committee on Labor. The bill would start out with a 35-cent minimum wage for all interstate industry except agriculture, and with three years, the bill would increase the minimum to 40 cents an hour. Hours would be similarly regulated, starting at 44 hours, then to 40 hours within two years. The Department of Labor would have charge of the bill.

BANKER—Through its various lending agencies, the Federal Government has become the U. S.'s greatest banker. The Government is equipped at present to loan money to business men, to State and local governments for construction, to individuals for home construction, and to farmers for crops.

NAVAL CONSTRUCTION—Favorably reported by the House Committee on Naval Affairs is a bill limiting profits on naval construction contracts to 10% of the contract price and all such profits in excess of 10% to be paid into the Treasury.

SOCIAL SECURITY—Lump sum claims for benefits under the old-age insurance program of the Social Security Act certified during March numbered 21,858. The average amount certified was $38.29. Payments amounting to $3,425,234.44 to pay 114,927 claims have been certified since the Federal old-age insurance plan became effective. March payments totaled $836,867.87.

Hackett-Williams Wedding Took Place On Saturday

The marriage of Miss Gladys Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, New London Avenue, and Andrew Hackett, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hackett, also of Newark, took place on Saturday at the home of the bridegroom's parents. Rev. S. C. Blackledge officiated at the ceremony.

A reception, attended by about 75 friends of the couple, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan, Jr., and Miss Ella Morgan, all of Philadelphia; Miss Catherine Hackett, of New York; and Mr. and Mrs. G. Laws and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bell, of Wilmington.

Mr. Francis Lea was best man and Mrs. Lea maid of honor.

Summer Round-Up To Be Held At 9 A. M. Tuesday

Summer round-up for children who will enter the Newark Public Schools in September will be held at 9 A. M. on Tuesday in the high school building. Parents may register their children at that time. Every child must be six years old by January 1, in order to enter school in September.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE

By SYLVIA PHELPS

Local Student Elected

Margaret Hogan, of Newark, has been elected president of the commuters for the next school year. "Peg," a junior, is a home economics major. She will be one of the class attendants in the May Court on May 13. Last week's elections also decided that Sarah Robinson, a freshman from Wilmington, is to be the future treasurer of the Student Government Association.

Girls interested in French, German, or Spanish have been invited to attend the "Modern Language Afternoon" in the Hilarium on Thursday. All three languages will be represented in the program.

The Intercollegiate Student Chemists Convention will be held here on Saturday, April 30. Besides a special luncheon at noon in Kent Dining Hall in honor of the guests, a dance will take place in the evening.

Thanks to arrangements made by Miss Harriet Bailly, Director of Fine and Applied Arts, a new exhibition is to be seen in the art gallery of the Memorial Library. These pictures are reproductions of paintings from the famous Carnegie collection, and include a number of familiar portraits and scenes by well-known artists. The gallery is open to the public from eight until five o'clock on weekdays, and from two until five on Sundays.

W-C-D

All Classes Represented

For weeks Women's College students have been busy helping to make successful the last E-52 play of the year, Ibsen's great tragedy, HEDDA GABLER, which will be shown in Mitchell Hall on Friday evening, April 29. All four classes at W. C. D. are represented in the cast. The by-the-time-famous Morna Press stars in the title role. Dorothy Counahan, veteran actress of countless college productions, will make her last appearance in an E-52 play as Mrs. Elvsted. Jane Trent plays the part of Aunt Julia, while Martha Ziebuski is Bertha, the maid.

Staff chairmen for HEDDA GABLER are Helen Black, properties; Janet Grubb, scene painting; Edith Holden, business manager; Phyllis McClain, costumes; and Thelma West, make-up.

Sale Of Cows Announced By Guernsey Cattle Club

Three purebred Guernsey cows, Donna's Gypsy Girl 346034, Daisy's Fern Girl 454062 and Milly's Auburn Girl 45559, were sold recently by R. B. and E. J. Jarmon, of Newark, to Albert O. Gray, Jr., of Kirkwood, according to the American Guernsey Cattle Club, Peterborough, New Hampshire.

Other sales, according to releases were: Royalist's Giddy Daughter 524833 by Est. Ebbva V. Krebs, of Wilmington, to Ferris Dempsey of Newark; and Fourth Emily's Enna Again 524823 by Est. Ebbva V. Krebs to Gladys Wainsley, of Newark.

A purebred Guernsey bull, Sherwood Forest Model Padrone 243923, was sold by J. L. Pratt, of Fredericksburg, Virginia, to C. M. A. Stine, of near Newark.

John E. Fisher

Confined to his home at the Academy Apartments since last Wednesday, Mr. Fisher has returned to his duties as projectionist at the State Theatre, following a serious throat infection.

Mr. Fisher complained of feeling ill and was ordered to bed by Dr. E. Earle Weggenmann, who diagnosed his ailment as a streptococcal sore throat.

He is now fully recovered, however, and was permitted to leave his apartment yesterday.

MERMAID RECEPTION PLANNED

Affair To Be Given For Rev. And Mrs. Wills

By Sara A. Pennington

Mermaid, April 27—Arrangements have been started for the reception being given in honor of Rev. and Mrs. T. O. M. Wills to be held May 13. The committee comprises Mrs. Clarence Jester, Mrs. George Knott, and Mrs. John Lynch.

The reception has been delayed until Rev. Wills has completed his examinations at Princeton Theological Seminary. Mr. Wills will graduate in June and Mrs. Wills will complete her course at the West-minister Choir School at Princeton. This will be Rev. Wills' seventh year at Ebenezer Church.

Officers of the Dee Dee Club of Ebenezer M. E. Sunday School were elected last Friday night, as follows: president, Miss Kathleen Little, vice president, Miss Betty Staats; secretary, Raymond Beyerlein; treasurer, Paul Nelson and George Lynch was received as a new member.

Hygienists Visit School

The dental hygienists in the county visited Harmony rural school Friday and cleaned the teeth of the students in the first three grades.

Delegates of the Milford Cross Roads P-T-A, who will attend the state convention in Smyrna Saturday, are: Mesdames George Allcorn, Anna Cameron, Leonard Nelson, Gilbert Walker, and Maskie Johnston.

This association has completed its health project this year with all the students having perfect teeth, as the dental corrections have been made.

The Ebenezer Mite Society was entertained last Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Allcorn.

Mrs. John Lynch had charge of the program as follows: jokes by Mrs. M. Johnston; recitation by Doris Allcorn; reading by Mrs. Essie Little; the journal by Mrs. Emma Buckingham, and games by Mr. Allcorn.

"Rally Day"

"Rally Day" will be observed by the Red Clay Presbyterian Church School on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock D.S.T. The primary and intermediate departments will give exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ball, Calvin and Willard Ball, Miss Annie Derickson, and Miss Margaret Derickson attended a family dinner served Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dennison in Kennett Square, Pa.

Miss Sara Pennington attended the first state-wide library meeting of the New Jersey Library Commission held last Thursday in Trenton, N. J. She was one of the group of ten librarians and custodians from Delaware present at this meeting.

Mrs. Virgil Simpson and her infant daughter, have returned to their home on the old Peach farm from the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington.

The annual picnic for the Milford Cross Roads Choral Club is being planned for May 24 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Ball on Creek Road.

Flash, a Los Angeles prize dog, has had a gold tooth fitted to replace one knocked out by a baseball.

Nine men have served as Vice President before becoming Chief Executive.

Obituary

Miss Mary O'Donnell

Miss Mary A. O'Donnell, age 66, died in Wilmington on Wednesday, April 20. She was a former resident of Newark, having lived with her sister, Miss Margaret O'Donnell, on Delaware Avenue for a number of years.

Solemn requiem mass was observed at St. John's R. C. Church of Newark, on Tuesday, April 26, with interment in St. John's Cemetery.

Sarah Margaret Clark

Services for Mrs. Sarah Margaret Clark, who died on Saturday, April 23, were held at the residence of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Annie Clark, of Elliott Heights, on Wednesday, April 27.

A native of Glasgow, the deceased celebrated her ninety-seventh birthday on April 14. She has been living at her daughter-in-law's home for twenty years.

Born in 1841, the daughter of the late Andrew and Martha Harmon, Mrs. Clark was a descendant of James Smith, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Her husband, George M. Clark, died in 1909.

Interment took place at Head of Christiana Cemetery.

Joan Erhart, 19-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto W. Erhart, of Capital Trail, died at the Doris Memorial Hospital, Wilmington, on Tuesday, April 26, of diphtheria. A brother, Theodore, age 6, was killed recently when struck by a car at the intersection of Capital Trail and Ogletown Road.

Interment took place on Wednesday, April 27, in the White Clay Creek Cemetery.

Sports Outfit

Ideal for resort wear and casual sports is this two-piece ensemble worn by Anne Shirley, co-featured with Sally Ellers and Louis Hayward in "Condemned Women." Her soft woolen jacket repeats the same canary yellow of her sheer wool skirt and is barred with a green the shade of new grass and a rich beige. A brown off-the-face sailor of fine straw, chamolys yellow gloves, a large brown suede purse and brown pumps of suede complete the ensemble.

Interment took place at Head of Christiana Cemetery.

Greek ideas are still practiced a great deal, in which diseases are divided into hot and cold, acid and alkaline sicknesses," the guest speaker said.

"Transportation has naturally improved," he said, "and it is now possible to cross the desert from Bagdad to Damascus by motorcar in about twenty hours, a trip that used to take six weeks by camel."

Board Members Elected

At the business meeting which preceded the address, Mrs. J. P. Cann, Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson and Mrs. L. A. Stearns, were elected to the Corporation Board.

Mrs. A. D. Cobb and Mrs. J. Fenton Daugherty were chosen delegates to attend the state convention at Rehoboth in June with Mrs. Donold Armstrong and Mrs. Hugh F. Gallagher as alternates. The dumb waiter, recently purchased, was used for the first time, when the hospitality committee, headed by Mrs. Gallagher and Mrs. Millard Darrell, served tea.

Successors will be elected at the session on May 9, to take the place of the following retiring officers: Mrs. R. T. Jones, president; Mrs. Carleton E. Douglas, first vice president; Mrs. William Bernard, second vice president; Mrs. Henry C. Reed, recording secretary; Mrs. George L. Schuster, corresponding secretary and Mrs. J. Irvin Dayett, treasurer.

Introducing New And Complete Line Of 1938 Crosley Shelv

Roamin' with Rutledge

Baseball's Black Eye

One of the outgrowths of "chain-store" baseball is the so-called school for young players. Major league clubs and many leading minor league organizations are sponsoring schools that are increasing in number every spring. The hunt for playing talent is unceasing and has been pushed to the point where boys in their teens get more than passing attention from scouts sent out at great expense to round up players of promising ability.

With class D leagues, such as the Eastern Shore loop, springing up all over the country, youngsters are provided with "opportunities" for proving their right to follow in the footsteps of the Hubbells, DiMaggios, Deans, Gehrigs, and other greats.

In some cases (where young players develop, advance in their chosen profession), class D circuits are doing a good job. But for every boy who moves forward from the lowest bracket—the apprentice group—of organized baseball represented by class D leagues, there are more than ten lads who find their ambitions and hopes buried in disappointment.

Baseball officials must learn to deal with that youthful ambition and hope, cultivate it where actual ability exists to back it up, and stifle it at the outset where ability is lacking or has limitations, otherwise baseball will suffer by its own selfishness.

Ruthless Exploitation

Recent action on the part of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, nabob of everything connected with organized baseball, indicates that officials are against many practices of "chain-store" organizations. Officials, however, are powerless to stamp out the numerous evils that exist in connection with teams holding "farm" interests. The teams themselves must help.

Baseball is too fine a game and has been conducted on a basis of honesty that merits something more than the treatment it will receive if the ruthless exploitation of young boys continues.

Unless team executives get wise to themselves and begin to cooperate with their own league officials in limiting the practices of "chain-store" organizations, baseball will be faced with a national storm of indignation that will make the days of doubt following the gambling expose of 1919 seem like a summer breeze.

A Case At Home

Three boys from this locality—Jackie Meyer, Havre de Grace, who played for Continental Diamond Fibre and National Fibre in the local twilight league last year; Doug Woodworth, Oxford, and Earl (Dinty) Richardson, Rising Sun, attended a training school conducted by the Baltimore Orioles at Thomasville, Ga., this spring.

Flashes

By Bill Fletcher

TACTICS EMPLOYED BY COACHES OF ATHLETIC TEAMS ARE AS abundant as hay fever victims in the "good old summertime" and vary as much if not more than the "in and out" weather we've been having for the past couple of years.

Some roar, bellow, yell, shout, and rave; some plead, cajole, wheedle and beg; some suggest, advise, counsel and offer suggestions.

Ed Burdo, the University of Delaware's track and swimming mentor, who has had his ups and downs with his charges, likes to classify himself as a faculty advisor and not as a coach.

His theory, employed during the swimming season, was accepted enthusiastically by the students and a glance at the final standing bears out that the plan was a success, for one sport at least.

In his coaching work, Ed merely "suggests." An athlete is permitted to participate in the event in which he has the most interest and the plan thus far has succeeded in paying dividends.

Practice schedules are passed out at the beginning of the season to all candidates and Ed is always on hand to offer suggestions, answer questions, settle disputes or show 'em how it's done.

There's a lot of psychology in his method.

THE VANISHING BALL TEAM—What happened to the Bloomsburg Teachers' College diamondmen after they left Frazer Field Thursday afternoon? A deep, dark mystery was created on the day following the Teachers' Frazer Field performance when they failed to show up for a tilt with Loyola College.

What happened? Kidnapped? Held for ransom? Nobody knows. As the story goes, the troupe that pulled the vanishing act had been anxious to play Loyola and after a lottus talk thisaway and thataway, Friday was finally set as the date for the engagement.

The Greyhounds were ready to play and were awaitin' and awaitin' but an hour's warnup was enjoyed and still no opponent. The umpire, the scorers, the spectators, and everything else necessary was on hand—but no Bloomsburg.

Maybe they felt so low following the shellacking the Hens gave them that they slipped into the cracks

BI-STATE LEAGUE START SCHEDULED FOR SUNDAY

Cullen Books Charges For Games At Milford And Federalsburg; Battle Under Lights; President Acts Against Demand Of Stubborn Star

By "The Roamer"

With the opening of the revived Bi-State League scheduled for Sunday, local followers of independent and sandlot baseball will be provided with a crowded slate that promises to develop into the most active summer in many years.

Face Shore Clubs

Ellis P. Cullen, business manager of the Newark entry in the Bi-State circuit, will lead local combines into action at Milford on Saturday and at Federalsburg next Tuesday night in pre-season tests for Eastern Shore League teams in those towns.

Victors Over The Feds Last Year

The Jackets do not figure to create any upsets in their coming clashes. Due to the fact that the University of Delaware team, which plays Rutgers at Frazer Field on Saturday, and Lehigh at South Bethlehem on Tuesday, will be using Roberts, Daly, Wharton, George and Sheats from the Jackets line-up, the local delegation will be handicapped at both Milford and Federalsburg.

Test For Rookies

Cullen will likely choose a team for the Shore dates to be selected from Mike Peterson and Herb Knotts, catchers; Reggie Conway and Paul Whiteman, pitchers; Vic Willis, Jackie Meyer, Dinty Richardson, Shorty Chalmers, Bill Barrow, and Bones Egnor, infielders, and Jack Edmondson and Boney Jackson, with Peterson, Whiteman, Conway, and Knotts alternating in the outfield.

Dropped by the Dover team, Conway, Meyer, and Richardson will play against Milford at the request of Manager Val Picinich, former big league receiver, who is anxious to look over the trio as prospects for his team. Conway will probably pitch against Milford, and Whiteman will likely toe the rubber in the night fracas at Federalsburg on Tuesday.

Ready For Rivermen

With Darlington opening at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds and a new Elkton team, assembled by Jack Dickinson, helping Bel Air raise the curtain, a hot reception is being planned for Havre de Grace by Manager Shorty Chalmers at Continental Field Sunday.

Unmindful of a 6-3 victory scored over the Rivermen in an exhibition affair at Havre de Grace last Sunday, Chalmers will toss the best team available into action Sunday in an effort to get off on the right foot.

With Boney Jackson slated to hurl, the Newark team will probably be made up of Roberts, catcher; Egnor, first base; Daly, second base; Chalmers, shortstop; Barrow, third base, and Whiteman, George, and Edmondson in the outfield.

Meeting Held Tuesday

Managers and directors of the Bi-State loop held a lengthy conference at Havre de Grace Tuesday night. Contracts were approved and final details concerning the opening of the season discussed.

President Thomas T. Preston

Joppa, officiated, with the assistance of J. Lee Johnson, secretary-treasurer.

Terms and their representatives were: Havre de Grace, Austin L. Leithiser, manager, and Mayor George Pennington; Newark, Ellis P. Cullen; Elkton, John Dickerson, Jr.; Bel Air, Gilbert Cooley; Darlington, Clarence Ward, and Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Sergeant Eddie Hower.

In upholding the adoption of a ten-mile radius for the signing of players, directors of the league automatically barred Allen (Bud) Lloyd, disputed infielder who caused the original Bi-State circuit to fold up last year, from participation during the first half of the split season.

Darlington Refused

A resident of the Darlington territory, Lloyd refused an offer from that team, but made a reported acceptance to play with Bel Air, where he performed last year.

Darlington was willing to release

Lloyd to anyone in the league, but President Preston, following a vote by team representatives, upheld the ten-mile radius ruling.

The present Bi-State wheel is an outgrowth of the Intra-County circuit that has functioned in Harford County, Maryland, for the last seven years.

HIGHLETS DIVIDE TWO GAMES

Goldie Topped But Nottingham Wins In Rout

Newark High School opened the 1938 baseball season Thursday by registering a 5-4 victory over Goldie College. John Grundy, working on the hill for the Jackets, held the Wilmington batsmen to three runs in the third inning, and both came through with single tallies in the fifth.

Newark, however, broke the deadlock in the seventh, scoring the winning marker with none out.

Norman Brooks, diminutive center fielder for the Jackets, nabbed batting laurels for the afternoon by smashing three singles in four appearances at the plate.

Presbyterians On Rampage

Combining 18 hits with nine Newark errors, a slugger West Nottingham Academy team took the Jackets into camp Saturday, 18-4.

Dougherty, Grundy, and Smith all looked alike to the potent Presbyterians.

Outside of a bad first inning, when his offerings were found for five hits, Chase, Nottingham hurler, had too much on the ball for the Newarkers.

Following two unearned Nottingham runs in the initial frame, the Jackets took a temporary lead on singles by Norman Brooks, Aiken, Morgan, Gregg, and Stewart. Chase settled down, however, while his mates pounded out their second victory in three starts.

Crow Leads Ebenezer To Pin Championship

Dave Crowl, local pinster, led the Ebenezer Church bowlers to a 3-1 victory over Fairhill Tuesday night, in the rolloff for the championship of the Thursday Night League.

The winners copped the first two games, dropped the third and came back strong in the fourth to conquer their opponents with little difficulty.

A banquet will be held by the loop at the Howard Hotel, Elkton, Md., on Thursday night, May 5, at eight o'clock.

Claims Swim Record

Semion Biochenko, of Moscow, claimed a new world swimming record for the 200 meters breaststroke. Biochenko was clocked in 2 minutes 36.2 seconds, compared with the listed world standard of 2:37.2 established by Jack Kasley at New Haven, Conn., in 1936.

Stewart Nabs Lead In Class B Race As Fossett Retains Perfect Slate

Dropping his second start in three matches, Dandy Don Pierce, defending champion in the Class A handicap pocket billiards tournament at Jimmy Martin's State layout, was laced, 100-47, by Jack Fossett last Thursday night. Fossett is leading the division with three straight triumphs.

With Chuck Daly staging a pair of upsets and Bob Stewart defeating the Class B tourney underwent a wholesale scrambling.

Stewart grabbed the lead with five wins against one reverse. He is followed by Jake Hogan and Harpo Cage with four victories in five engagements.

Tweed Replaces Hill

Dick Tweed, entered in the Class B affair, extended his efforts to the Class A division last week, replacing Don Hill, who was forced to drop his schedule through illness.

Tweed marked his appearance in the upper ranks by trimming George Laskaris, 75-51, last Monday. Tony Sanborn pulled up in the race by registering an 85-73 verdict over Jack Daly, while Arnold Pryor also advanced by stopping Ren George, 100-67, in other Class A matches.

In the Class B bracket, Chuck Daly upset Robinson, 50-30, and managed to outlast Reggie Conway.

Social Notes
Prof. and Mrs. Whittier have had as their guests the mother and sister of the former in whose honor Mrs. Whittier entertained at cards last Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Porter and their daughter, who has been spending the winter at the "Normandie" in Philadelphia, will open their residence on Newark Heights this week.

Mrs. E. W. Cooch entertained the evening card club, last Thursday evening. A large number were unable to be present and there were only five tables. Mrs. C. B. Evans won the lady's prize and Mr. Joseph Hossinger was the fortunate winner of the gentlemen's prize.

The New Century Club expects to have Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, President of Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs as their guest on Monday, May 5th, which is the last meeting of the season.

Birthday Party
Little Katherine Hoeffcker played hostess to a number of her friends last Tuesday in honor of her seventh birthday. Those present were Evelyn and Elizabeth Worrall, Eleanor Brooks, Helen Barnard, Edith Biddle, Mary Potts, Dorothy Hoeffcker and Master Robert Strhorn.

Lecture At High School
Prof. A. V. Vaughn of the Department of History, Delaware College, will address the High School pupils next Friday afternoon at 2:30, on the subject, "Delaware during the Revolution."

Personals

Mrs. Annie M. Cooch of Philadelphia is visiting Mrs. Harriet Curtis.

Frederick C. Clark, formerly of Newark, but now of the Bureau of Standards at Washington, and his brother, Cantwell Clark of Baltimore, greeted their friends here Saturday. They attended the Sigma Phi Fraternity reunion Saturday night.

Miss Nina Cooch of Berlin, N. H., with her nephew Theodore Wolf, Jr., spent several days here this week with relatives.

Miss Emma Blandy of Washington, D. C., is the guest of Miss Fannie Shapleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Conner and son, James of Baltimore, were Sunday guests of G. Fader and family. Mr. Robert Potts is undergoing treatment at the Will's Eye Hospital, Philadelphia.

Professor Alva Agee, director of Agricultural extension work at the New Jersey Agricultural College, was a visitor at the State farm today.

Mrs. James Morris is spending sometime at Fairview as the guest of Mrs. Sarah Worrell.

Mrs. Robert Potts and son, Master R. Curtis Potts, spent Sunday with relatives in Philadelphia.

Mr. Corney Griffith of Wilmington spent last week with his sister, Mrs. George Kelly.

Mr. Edward Cooch is suffering with typhoid fever.

Mrs. Rebecca Wilson was the recent guest of her sister, Mrs. K. S. Landreth, Philadelphia.

Prof. and Mrs. A. V. Vaughn spent several days in Philadelphia last week.

Mrs. E. S. Avis visited Newark friends last Thursday.

Messrs. George Bickling, Chester Ewing and Delbert Smith spent Sunday with friends in Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

NEWARK BOY AS AUTHOR
Newark and the Class of 1910 of Delaware College has produced a budding author—and one of much promise—in Philip Gerhardt Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Armstrong of Cooch's Bridge.

The John C. Winston Company, Philadelphia, has just issued "Fore-ordained," a volume of short stories by Gerhardt Armstrong, who for some unaccountable reason has dropped the first part of his name.

The book of some 200 pages takes its title from the first of the eight stories to be found between its covers. Mr. Armstrong, though having barely reached his majority has seen much of the seamy, sordid side of life as a reporter on a Philadelphia newspaper, and he is frankly an apostle of joy. On the contrary all of the sketches have that sombre note so characteristic of the French masters in the short story art which Mr. Armstrong seems to have taken as models. His aim has been high and his achievement remarkable for one of his years. His friends are predicting for him a very successful career in literary fields.

New Century Club News
There was no program for last Monday afternoon at the New Century Club meeting, the time being given to the reading of the reports of the different committees and the election of officers for the ensuing year. The result of the election was as follows: president, Mrs. C. B. Evans; first vice president, Mrs. Wm. H. Evans; second vice president, Mrs. E. W. Dawson; recording secretary, Mrs. Penny; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Walcott; press correspondent, Miss Todd; chairman of library committee, Miss Alice Kerr; membership committee, Mrs. Neale; Mrs. Houghton, Mrs. Haywood.

Next Monday, May 5th, will be the last meeting of the year when the new president will be installed and an entertaining program arranged for. This meeting will be open to invited guests.

Committee Meeting
A meeting of the Carnival Fancy Work Committee will be at the home of Mrs. E. C. Wilson next Monday evening.

Eleanor Duse liked to do her reading on the floor, lying flat on her tummy with a book before her.

By R. F. SERVICE

Kate Smith, above, who is heard on CBS on Thursdays, is celebrating her eighth anniversary on the air.

Lum and Abner now make two extra copies of their scripts. They are given to their announcer and organizer to be read before broadcast time. The step was taken because Lou Crosby, the announcer, and Sybil Chism, the organizer, have had a hard time stifling laughs at an unusually funny line by the homespun comics.

Peter Van Steeden, above, is one orchestra leader who manages to balance his assignments so that he enjoys an accurate check on the various musical tastes of listeners. On Fred Allen's program, Peter provides the musical background for vocalists, instrumentalists and comedy situations. On the "For Men Only" broadcasts, he sets the proper musical scene for famous people and noted celebrities. And the active Van Steeden averages two college dances a week.

Mary Margaret McBride is always prepared in case she has to fill in with a couple of extra minutes on her CBS broadcasts. Mary Margaret's current act in the hole is about a castle in Ireland that is good for just as much time as she cares to devote to it.

Ginger Jones of "The Skelly Court of Missing Heirs" owns two shows, two setters and four horses. She keeps them at her country home in Kinderhook, Illinois.

BLUE RIBBON FICTION

THE BUTLER GOES TO BAT

"Murgatroyd," said Roger P. Lanning III, "I am definitely in a spot. 'And Murgatroyd,' went on Lanning III further, 'we have just got to do something about it.'"

Murgatroyd nodded owlishly. "Oh, yes sir—quite sir. If I may suggest, sir," he began. Lanning sighed deeply. "You may suggest Murgatroyd," he said profoundly.

"A cold bath and breakfast, sir, and then perhaps, we—"

"Ah quite right, Murgatroyd. I knew you'd have it," interrupted Lanning III gratefully.

Murgatroyd, was Lanning's proud boast, was by far the wisest, the canniest, the-dash-it-all, what more can one say?—gentleman's man in all creation. Time and again he had extricated the exuberant but not too circumspect, young Mr. Lanning from what at the moment had seemed inextricable situations.

There had been, for example, the happy occasion of Mr. Hot-foot Van Rensselaer's celebrated bachelor dinner. It happened that young Lanning had contrived to come under the influence of certain intoxicating beverages, and upon the party's dispersal had, after arriving home, very foolishly managed to encounter his two maiden aunts at their breakfast.

It was known, were it not the founders of certain temperance organizations, at least the most zealous members. Picture, if you will then, our young hero the object of horrified glances. And picture further Murgatroyd to the rescue. How he accomplished the deed to the extent that it became an immediately forgotten incident, with absolutely no repercussions—Lanning never discovered. Murgatroyd, it seemed, was a magician who divulged not his secrets. There had been other moments, too, almost as nearly-catastrophic, when this apparent user of black arts had miraculously saved the day—and days. And so Lanning, it appeared, with cold logical reasoning, had gone to the right man. He was, as he so aptly put it, definitely in a spot. A situation which he could not, he had decided emphatically, accept philosophically or without at least some meagre signs of a struggle. He would, he determined as he dodged away from the cold shower, be a gladiator upon the field of battle.

It seemed that the Aunts Agatha and Abigail, who were approaching perilously close to their allotted three score and ten, had set their minds upon something and could not be moved by any manner of pleas nor petitions. This something which affected young Lanning in the manner of corroding rust was their decision that he, the aforementioned Lanning, their only heir and last of the line, should betake unto him-

Although Eric Sagerquist, the musical director, has played for Queen Marie of Roumania, Madame Ernestine Schumann-Helk and Charles A. Lindbergh, he suffers stage fright when well-known radio stars drop in to watch his broadcasts.

Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard have a rule for happy home life. They rehearse for the Sunday night show with Peg Murray in a radio studio, not by the family fireside. Music at the Nelson house in Hollywood comes from a radio, not from the Nelsons.

Odd quirk of spring radio has a little girl with only an imaginative little singing "Songs of Safety" over the radio to persuade the children of the country to look both ways before crossing the street. The little girl of course is Tommy Riggs' now famous Betty Lou. Tommy (shown above) is helping Irving Caesar put over his safety ditties on the Valley Hour.

Lillian Lauferty, famed novelist and screenwriter, is author of "Your Family and Mine," which gives her a Monday-through-Friday program on the NBC-Red network. She is also author of the CBS favorite, "Big Sister," which gives her a program on two networks.

Alice Hill, of "Betty and Bob," made her debut on the air as a mimic of Greta Garbo in a love scene from one of the film star's movies.

Murgatroyd set his breakfast before him. "Something just has to be done. Do you think, Murgatroyd, that we could devise ways and means?"

"Oh, quite sir," murmured Murgatroyd as he deftly manipulated the toaster. "I'm sure we can sir." Lanning mingled a sigh of relief with the munching of crisp toast. He gazed pensively into his coffee cup. His mind was a complete blank. He had decided to leave all to this most intelligent person.

Murgatroyd cleared his throat. "Mr. Lanning?"

So, he quoth, hopefully, as Murgatroyd set his breakfast before him. "Something just has to be done. Do you think, Murgatroyd, that we could devise ways and means?"

So, he quoth, hopefully, as Murgatroyd set his breakfast before him. "Something just has to be done. Do you think, Murgatroyd, that we could devise ways and means?"

"Yes, Murgatroyd," he looked up quickly, eagerly.

"Beggings your pardon sir," was the reply, "but is not Miss Fairfield having dinner here tonight?"

"Yes," replied Lanning, still eager. "Do you think, sir," went on Murgatroyd, "that Miss Agatha and Miss Abigail could be delayed somewhere until about seven o'clock this evening?"

An unholy light gleamed in Lanning's eye.

"Already, Murgatroyd?" The fellow was a positive genius.

"I think so, sir," he answered. Lanning jumped up.

"Murgatroyd," he proclaimed, "you've made a new man of me. I'll keep 'em away by hook or crook," and he whistled cheerfully and gaily as he left the room.

Tranquil peace, in all its phases, descended upon the Lanning household. The sun, as is its wont, moved steadily across the spotless sky. But Murgatroyd was altogether unaware of nature's prodigious beauty, as he inspected with a speculative eye his master's hidden—well-hidden—liquor cabinet. After a few moments of such contemplative gazing he evidently came to some decision, for his solemn face fashioned itself into a meagre smile.

For with he descended to the deserted kitchen, where with the aid of certain citrus fruits, he proceeded to prepare a liquid concoction, which to all outward appearances seemed to be a very temperate mixture—known to the lady as punch.

Finishing with this, to his evident satisfaction, he repaired to his room, where with the complacency of one whose heart is pure, he slept the sleep of the just.

At five of the clock, he arose. At six, in answer to an imperative ring, he admitted to the spacious reception hall, the contemplated victim, Miss Elizabeth Fairfield, revealed her of her sun parasol and modest hat and admitted her into the drawing room. Politely he commented on the torrid state of the weather, and apologetically he informed her that the Misses Lanning had been unavoidably delayed by an accident, that dinner would be deferred for a few minutes pending their arrival, and in the meantime would Miss Fairfield like a glass of cold fruit punch?

Definitely, daintily patting her moist brow, Miss Fairfield would. Time dragged slowly as she sat stiffly, sipping this most delicious of drinks. The room was unbearably hot and all her efforts to open any of the windows were unavailing. Were it not for the cooling libation, she thought gratefully, it would be impossible to remain there. She squirmed in the chair and loosened her prim collar slightly. The man had disappeared.

She must ask him to open a window. The heat was pressing down upon her in all-engulfing waves. Her head swam dizzily and the room appeared hazy and blurred. Dimly as from a great distance, she heard a door open, and with a great effort she lifted herself to her feet, but her legs refused to support her and she sank back grotesquely. She sprawled there with eyes half-closed, sensed people entering the room. She moved her head drunkenly and opened her mouth to speak, but not a word could she utter, and ludicrously she giggled. Aunts Agatha and Abigail stood aghast, rooted in their steps, their cheerful words of greeting left unsaid, never to be spoken. Diabolical and horror shone from their eyes. Cataclysm and Catastrophe. Disaster and . . . De-nouement. They sniffed the air in the manner of bloodhounds, and in one accord, they turned to each other and nodded menacingly. They marched from the room stiffly and in the hall where stood their precocious nephew, they issued orders grimly that Miss Fairfield be escorted to her home with dispatch, that Lanning III return immediately, and that undoubtedly important matters would be discussed before much time would elapse.

The sun, as it is wont, peered coyly over the horizon, heralding silently the dawn of a new day; and Roger P. Lanning III due to his all-consuming curiosity, broke a habit of long standing, awoke at the break of day and bellowed happily for his man.

Murgatroyd, impeccably attired, appeared. His master smiled jovially at him and quoth cheerfully, "Murgatroyd, you poultroon, it was perfect. How, if it doesn't intrude upon your private secrets, did you accomplish it?"

Murgatroyd smiled deprecatingly. "Oh, it was nothing, sir. My conscience being satisfied that the young lady was . . . as we knew it, an unscrupulous fortune hunter, I had no qualms. I simply placed in the lady's drink a portion of what is commonly known as a 'mickay' and shortly before you arrived I judiciously sprayed the room with . . . begging your pardon, sir . . . a bit of your private stock. I feel sir, that it was all for the good of your family and yourself."

Lanning III smiled happily and slid down in the bed, anticipating slumber.

"Oh," he murmured drowsily, "definitely, Murgatroyd, definitely."

Termite Damage Slow To Show In New Houses

Long Research Reveals Methods Of Dealing With Troublesome Pest

If a new home is built so that the wood can be reached by termites from the ground, termite damage often shows up when the house is from 5 to 20 years old. Many builders and owners still do not realize that the only sure way to keep termites out is to build them out and that proper construction of the house in the first place is a cheap and certain insurance against these destructive insects.

From long research entomologists have learned exactly how buildings may be termite-proofed. Mechanical blocking, filling up cracks, cutting off wood from the ground by metal shields or solid cement are ways to build against termites.

Poisoning The Ground
If these insects are already in the house, simple inexpensive repairs can often be made that will cut them off from the ground and cause them to die. But if termite-proofing necessitates a large rebuilding job which seems too expensive, the insects may be controlled temporarily by poisoning the ground under the house where they have their nests.

Effective poisons are orthodichlorobenzene or a mixture of kerosene and coal-tar creosote. A thorough application of such poisons should remain effective for 4 or 5 years.

Further information on building out termites may be obtained by writing the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Leaflet No. 101, "Injury to Buildings by Termites," and Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine Brief E-338.
