School Enrollment Above All Estimates; No Final Count Yet

Latest Count Is 1807, Topping Highest Pre-term Predictions;
Immediate Hiring of Three Grade Teachers
Necessary; May Use Main St. School

Latest enrollment figure at the Newark schools is 1807 pupils and more are still enrolling, Wilmer E. Shue, district superintendent, announced this week.

This exceeds all expectations, Mr. Shue said, pointing out that a pre-term survey indicated a top enrollment of 1775. Even that would have been well above last year's total of 1706.

Crowded classes, ranging as high as 41 pupils per room, will necessitate the immediate hiring of three more elementary teachers and possibly another high school instructor, Mr. Shue said.

In a search for more space, the use of the old Main Street school, now undergoing repairs, is being considered. A decision on whether to open the building to elementary classes will be made at a meeting of the Newark Board of Education tomorrow night, Mr. Shue said.

Mr. Shue pointed out that the accepted standard for class size is 25 pupils per teacher and that in recent years the Newark classes have averaged 32 youngsters. He hopes to regain the latter distribution through the addition of new teachers.

To date the breakdown for the enrollment is 966 pupils in grades one to six, 741 in grades 7, 8 and 9, and 100 in the New London Avenue school. Pre-term estimates put the total elementary enrollment figure at about 860. The high school has fewer students than anticipated and the lower grades many more.

Mr. Shue also disclosed that seven Newark teachers completed work to ward their master degrees in the summer. Among them are William Morrison, commercial instructor, who studied at the University of Michigan; Catherine Bonney, mathematics, University of Delaware; and Doris Dean, home economics, University of Delaware; Elsworth Hoffman, industrial arts, University of Delaware; Neil Osborne, arts and crafts, University of Delaware; Cora Saunders, sixth grade, University of Delaware.

In addition, Mrs. Della Caswell completed work on her bachelor's degree at the University of Delaware.

Of the 76 teachers now on the faculty only three now lack bachelor degrees, according to Mr. Shue.

Young Poffenberger's badge covered a variety of fields including first aid, athletics, forestry, life saving, rocks and minerals, metalwork, personal health and public health.

The session was held in the Academy building under the direction of Scoutmaster William McLaughlin.

PTA 'Get Acquainted' Meeting On Thursday

A "get-acquainted" meeting on Thursday, Sept. 20, will mark the opening of the fall and winter season for the Newark Parent Teachers Association.

Nancy M. Dianich, of Newark, is among 3000 new students expected to enroll at Michigan State College for the fall term.

The total enrollment will be about 12,500, according to estimates by Kermit Smith, registrar.

State Highway Dept. Is Again Studying By-Pass Around City

Officials Here Again Ask
For Route To Ease City
Congestion

The plan for a by-pass traffic route skirting Newark on the east and south from Capitol Trail to Glasgow Road to relieve congestion in the city, has been revived by officials here.

A proposal for such a route has been made to the State Highway Department, which has agreed to give it some study, Francis Neide, city supervisor, said this week.

Some time ago, the department turned down the city's request for a by-pass, citing figures to show that most traffic using the eastern and southern approaches to Newark either originates or terminates in the city, thus making a through route unnecessary.

According to Mr. Neide, the department was using 1948 figures to support its case. He believes the situation has changed a great deal since then. Morning and evening commuter traffic here, which has risen steadily the past year, is made up to a great extent of out-of-town motorists who would readily use a by-pass city officials believe.

The route proposed by the city would leave Capitol Trail near Polly Drummond Road and go south to Chestnut Hill road, which would be widened and improved to provide a route west to Glasgow Road and on to Maryland.

Whether or not anything will come of the plan is unknown in view of the highway department's previous reluctance to consider it. However, Mr. Neide said he has outlined the city's position in several conferences with highway officials, who have at least agreed to take the proposal "under advisement."

Meanwhile, the city engineering department is pushing plans for Delaware and Cleveland Avenues to provide new easterly entry to the city in an effort to relieve congestion on Main Street.

Once completed, these plans will be turned over to the highway department, which already has agreed to carry out the work at state expense.

Herbert Meyer Is Named To National Accountants Unit

Herbert E. Meyer, Newark, has been accepted as a member of the National Association of Cost Accountants, a spokesman for the Philadelphia Chapter said this week.

Mr. Meyer is employed by the Chrysler Corporation.

The national association is the largest accounting organization in the world, consisting of over 28,000 members.

William Warwick Appointed C. of C. Executive Secretary Succeeding Mrs. Nancy Axinn

William J. Warwick, 212 W. Park Place, has been appointed executive secretary of the Newark Chamber of Commerce, succeeding Mrs. George Axinn, who has held the post since January.

Mrs. Axinn is leaving Newark soon to accompany her husband to Badger, Wisconsin. Mr. Axinn, who is agriculture extension editor at the University of Delaware, has obtained a leave of absence to attend the fall term at the University of Wisconsin.

Mrs. Axinn, the Chamber's first executive secretary, took a leading hand in the recent reorganization of the business group and formation of a more active community program. She was responsible for the organization of several civic and merchantile projects, including the highly successful Dollar Days held here this summer.

Mr. Warwick, who says he will continue Mrs. Axinn's policies as secretary, plans to open a Chamber office at his home, 212 West Park Place. He said he will outline plans in the near future for the Chamber's fall and winter program.

The commission is also expected to push other phases of the building program, including the large scale extension to the high school gymnasium and the purchase of additional materials for the shop-agriculture building now under construction.

On the local commission are Newark's four school board members: W. Franklin Wilson, Joseph McVey, C. M. Olson and J. P. Cann, plus two state board of education members, Eugene H. Shalleross, Middletown, and J. Othum Small, Wilmington. Dr. George R. Miller, state supervisor of public instruction, serves as executive secretary to the commission.

Although the turnout was surprisingly light in Saturday's referendum here, the voting was overwhelmingly in favor of the proposed building program. The final count was 250 to 77 for the $275,000 bond issue which will be the district's share in the $700,000 program.

Supt. Shue, though pleased with the outcome of the referendum, expressed "keen disappointment" at the turnout, pointing to the fact that of the five to six thousand potential voters in the district only 327 showed enough interest in school affairs to fill out a ballot.

The total included eight favorable and one negative vote from the Glasgow district, recently merged with Newark. The attorney general advised Newark officials to count the Glasgow ballots separately in order to avoid possible legal difficulties should an appeal be filed against the recent court decision upholding the consolidation of the districts.

Ruth Rehn, 20, an International Farm Youth Exchange delegate from Germany is now a guest on the John A. Redding farm near Newark. Her visit is part of the same FYVE program which has taken Helen Samendinger, of Foxden Farms, to Germany for the summer.

Born and reared on a 100 acre general farm near Heidelberg, Ruth has gone to vocational and agricultural schools in Germany. Although she had only a six-day course in English, she can now speak and understand the language. Ruth has already visited on farms in Wisconsin and Texas.

Ruth will stay at Reddings for three weeks. She'll be able to help with some of the harvesting, and see how the dairy herd is managed. She'll go to 4-H Club meetings, and other farm meetings.

"Americans are as careful in preserving their land as we are in Germany," Ruth says. She doesn't think farm people here have to work as hard, though.

This exchange of young farm people was made possible in Delaware by funds contributed by people of the state. Four-H Clubs and Home Demonstration Clubs, and other farm organizations contributed, and their funds were matched by the Delaware State Bankers' Ass'n. The whole effort is directed at building increased understanding between rural people of the United States and the rest of the world.

Plan 3-Minute Electric Current Shutdown Sunday

Electric current will be cut off here for about three minutes during the mid-afternoon on Sunday, Francis Neide, city supervisor, said today.

The brief shutdown is necessary, he said, in order to make minor adjustments at the power substation on East Main Street.

Electric lights, as well as all electrical appliances, including clocks and refrigerators, will be affected by the brief blackout, he said.

Bond Buying Aids Inflation Checks

The defense bond selling drive now in progress in Delaware is a companion to the Office of Price Stabilization in helping stem inflation, Harry McC. Winchester, district OPS director, declared today.

The price official said that voluntary savings through buying bonds take out of the public's pockets the rising amount of earnings produced by the defense boom. This, he said, means less money and fewer price increases with their inflationary effects.

As a further means of stemming inflation, Mr. Winchester urged present holders of E-bonds to keep them beyond the 10-year-maturity date—many of such bonds now being due and payable. He pointed out that about 24 percent interest is realized in holding them.

Officials To Push School Construction Okayed In Vote Sat.

Local Building Commission
Asked To Meet
Tomorrow

Immediate steps to expedite the $700,000 school building program approved for the Newark district in a referendum here Saturday are being planned, Wilmer E. Shue, district superintendent, said this week.

A meeting of the local building commission has been requested for tomorrow night to consider the appointment of an architect and the selection of a site for the 12-classroom elementary building proposed for the Capitol Trail area.

The commission will also be asked to start arrangements for issuing the $275,000 in local bonds authorized by voters here as the district's share in the overall program.

The commission is also expected to push other phases of the building program, including the large scale extension to the high school gymnasium and the purchase of additional materials for the shop-agriculture building now under construction.

On the local commission are Newark's four school board members: W. Franklin Wilson, Joseph McVey, C. M. Olson and J. P. Cann, plus two state board of education members, Eugene H. Shalleross, Middletown, and J. Othum Small, Wilmington. Dr. George R. Miller, state supervisor of public instruction, serves as executive secretary to the commission.

Action On City Building Code Expected Tuesday By Council

Measure Setting Minimum Rules For Safe Construction Is Scheduled For First Reading; Calls For Appointing Full-time Building Inspector

A city building code, setting up minimum regulations for safe construction here, is scheduled for its first reading at next Tuesday's meeting of the City Council at 8 p.m. in the Academy building.

Both city officials and local contractors agree that the proposed code will fill a long felt need here, according to Francis Neide, city supervisor. He cooperated with John P. Sinclair, city solicitor, in drafting the measure, which is based on a model code of the Building Officials Conference of America, Inc., and is similar to the New Castle County building code.

Purpose of the measure, Mr. Neide said, will be to "safeguard the life and welfare of the individual and community from structural, fire and sanitary hazards due to unsafe and improperly planned construction."

The measure calls for the appointment of a full-time building inspector, whose job would be to see that all new construction adheres to the regulations.

Once the measure is adopted, all requests for building permits would have to be accompanied by construction plans that not only meet the requirements of the zoning ordinance but also those of the code.

The latter would cover all phases of new construction. Health standards, for instance, would take into consideration plumbing and heating installations, provisions for ventilation and even the size of rooms.

Fire precautions would mean regulations calling for adequate escape paths from all buildings, as well as generally safe construction. Public buildings would be required to have a sufficient number of fire escapes and other special features.

Regulations calling for sound construction in all buildings, including adequate foundations and supports, would also be called for by the code.

The building inspector would be empowered to stop work immediately on any construction found violating the code, and the offender would be liable to a $200 fine for each infraction, plus $10 for every day the violation continues.

If the proposed code is approved at the first reading Tuesday night, it probably will come up for its final reading and passage at the Oct. 2 session.

Also scheduled Tuesday night is the final reading of an ordinance limiting parking on three more streets here.

The ruling would forbid parking on the East Park Place, College Avenue between East Park Place and the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge, on the west side of Annabelle Street and on the south side of Beverly Road within the area of the University Garden Apartments.

Councilman Frank Durnall and Donald Hill voted against the measure at the first reading last week, but the majority carried.

Mr. and Mrs. David Van Pelt of Newark have bought the former Holton home, and part of the original acreage from Hill and Dale Nichol, to whom George Holton recently sold his farm. Mr. and Mrs. Van Pelt plan to eventually farm the place, but are at present employed elsewhere. The family moved in Sept. 6. Their son is a sophomore at Newark, and Little Barbara has just joined our Southbankers in the fourth grade. Welcome to the community, Van Pelt!

Here are the present figures on our enrollment from London-Britain. Mrs. Grace Ford Northbank teacher, has 11 first graders, 10 second graders, 12 third graders. Mrs. Ada Walters, teacher at Southbank, has 15 fourth graders, 8 fifth graders, and 12 sixth graders. Our seventh graders number 7 and our eighth graders have 7 members. There are 9 members of the high school freshman class, 4 sophomores, 2 juniors and 5 seniors.

With the beginning of the fall activities, may we clearly state our position as your correspondent? We would like it understood that we undertake this column as a community service and would appreciate your participation and cooperation in this matter. To be specific, for goodness sake, if you know anything which it would be appropriate to mention to others don't hesitate to ring Kemblesville 2171 and give us the information.

Mrs. Clarence Loeve informs me that she is now accepting orders for Christmas cards, which are being sold as part of the ways and means enterprises to make money for the London-Britain Home and School League. The cards are very lovely, and most reasonable.

The Daniel W. Comlys of Trenton have been guests at the George Kalb home during their recent vacation and profess to greatly enjoy our rural atmosphere. We confess that we agree there is nothing like a golden September day in these beautiful hills.

The John Alcock family enjoyed a long weekend up Cape Cod way at the home of the Alcock grandparents, and Miss Anne Alcock returned with them to "these parts" for a few vacation days in our community at the home of her brother and his family.

The George Kalbs enjoyed a few days in New York at the American Chemical Society Convention this past week.

The Loyal Workers Guild of the New London Presbyterian Church will meet Sept. 17.

Sept. 19 will bring the organizational dinner of the Men's Group at the New London Presbyterian Church.

The first meeting of the London-Britain Home and School League for the 1951-1952 season will be held on the third Tuesday of the month because a zoning meeting was scheduled for the tenth.

LITTLE THINGS about the Stars

By GEORGE LILLEY
NEW YORK, N. Y. — Lowell Thomas, the newscaster, is in his 21st year on the air—the longest continuous run of any program of any type in radio. His voice has been heard by more of his fellow mortals than any other voice in history—Franklin Roosevelt, Churchill and Adolf Hitler included. Listeners have tuned him in, says one sturdy statistician, over 100 billion times. Thomas' success has been achieved without pomp, "behind-the-scenes" predictions, fluffy gossip or other tricky embellishments of the trade. Salted with a twinkle of humor, his art has consisted of straight, unflowery reporting based on a real knowledge of his business. Lowell Jackson Thomas has written 41 books, lectured in 90 countries, spoken face-to-face with more people than any other man in the world. At 48, the veteran reporter prefers tough skiing, hard riding, and, as ever, getting about the world. Often accompanying him is Lowell Thomas, Jr., 27, whom he has schooled meticulously in reportorial work.

Lowell Thomas, Jr. ... father knows best Lowell Thomas

TOPICS OF THE "D.A."

Like a good detective, some of radio's smart "whodunit" writers appear to be able to sense crime cycles. The day after a broadcast on "Mr. District Attorney" (Wed. nights, NBC) concerning truck hijacking by FBI agents of a hijacking syndicate became front-page news.

A second story on the program dealt with crooks who, posing as television inspectors, stole sets from homes. Two days later New York police cracked such a burglary ring. Recently the show told of a jailed racketeer conducting a dope trade behind prison bars. Newspapers, next day, reported the story of a trusty who confessed using his warden's office to sell such drugs.

Veteran Ed Byron, producer, and Bob Shaw, scripter, who get out "Mr. D.A.", spend time in criminal hang-outs, keep both ears wide open. Their alert stories aren't always coincidence.

Dan Seymour: Editor and emcee of "We the People," now a full-fledged television show, Friday nights, NBC-TV. Dan has been a "We the People" fixture since 1943, when he came to the program as an announcer. After the regular emcee left the show, dozens of candidates of candidates were auditioned before the producers realized that the fellow they really wanted was standing right on the other side of the microphone. As "We the People" editor, Dan's the man who selects guest program stories, makes an Amateur college grad, and later was announcing at show of its time, Ma. CBS. He's married, father of a boy and three girls.

NEWARK TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

From Issue of Sept. 15, 1926

Ambulance Call

The Newark ambulance was on duty last Monday night. Ten-year-old Margaret Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Murray, whose home is across from the Delaware Tea House on the Lincoln Highway, was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington, with an attack of appendicitis.

The operation was a serious one, and, although the child is recovering, she is still quite ill.

Child Injured

Catharine Shellender, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Shellender, West Main Street, was painfully injured Saturday morning while coasting down Quality Hill in her express wagon. Several stitches were necessary to close the wound in her leg.

Elizabeth Hall, who was with her at the time, escaped with a cut on her head.

Carnival Profits

John R. Tulton has completed his report of the firemen's carnival. This year the gross receipts were $12,652.49. The expenses for the running of the carnival and the goods amounted to $7,435.91. This makes a net profit of $5,216.58.

Hotel Remodeled

The Washington House, on Main Street, is to be remodeled. The old front porch will be torn down and replaced by a modern store front. Indications are that the building will be one of the most attractive in town.

Fishing Party

Mrs. Charles Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Trull, Miss Katharine Steel and Miss Helen Steel, of this town, and Miss Hazel Wrenn and Miss Mary Littlejohn, of Philadelphia, will return today from a fishing trip to Machipongo to which place they motored last Sunday.

The Sick

Miss Kathryn Holton returned Sunday from the Homeopathic Hospital, where she had undergone an operation for the removal of tonsils.

Mr. Fred Strickland, who has been ill, is about again.

Mrs. S. J. Wright is reported as much improved.

A skin disease known as impetigo has been prevalent among school children in this town, and parents are warned that the disease is contagious.

Personals

Mrs. Alex Cobb will accompany her husband next Saturday to spend a week at the Eastern Exposition at Springfield, Mass.

Miss Elizabeth Tiffany entertained her little friends on Amstel Avenue at an informal party at her home last Saturday evening.

Morris Ewing spent last weekend at Crumpton, Md.

National 4-H Fund To Aid Farm Youth

10 Millions Set For Educational Needs

A ten million dollar five-point program to meet the needs of rural youth was announced recently in Washington, D.C., by the National 4-H Club Foundation of America.

A non-profit educational organization, the Foundation was established in 1948 to serve rural young people. No government funds are used in carrying out the foundation's program.

One of the projects scheduled soon is research into the developmental needs of rural youth. In the past, little attention has been given to the rural child's "growing up" problems, according to E. W. Aiton, Executive Director of the Foundation. The Foundation will arrange a scientific research study into the needs of rural youth at different age levels. It will last over a period of several years, and will be done by a research organization not connected with any youth agency.

A special program for advanced training of extension workers is also planned. Emphasis will be put on training county extension agents. Special summer courses and institutes may be developed.

Synthetic Rubber In Paper Offers Novel Uses, DuPont Claims

After spending three years and almost a million dollars on research, the Du Pont Company, it was announced today, has developed a new economical way to add its synthetic rubber, neoprene, to paper.

Instead of coating or saturating the finished paper, as in older methods, the neoprene is now added in latex form to the pulp just before it is made into paper. The result is a new family of low-cost specialty papers made directly on the paper machine.

Outstanding advantages of the new papers are wet strength, chemical resistance, and all-around improvement in physical properties.

These properties will give rise to superior paper products of many kinds, the company said. One now under development is a porch, or summer, rug for indoor or outdoor use. Woven of twisted neoprene paper, these rugs have excellent abrasion and wear resistance; they can be washed with soap and water and hung up to dry without sagging or losing their shape.

Disposable diapers are another promising possibility; they are made with soft absorbent paper on the inside, wet-strength neoprene treated paper on the outside.

Double-wall insulated bags for cold bottles or cans of beer use neoprene treated paper so the bag won't break when water condenses on the containers and soaks the paper.

One manufacturer of plastic installed ordinary backing material, asphalt saturated paper, with neoprene treated paper to make it more pliable and easier to install in cold weather, and to eliminate the danger of smudging walls during installation.

In the industrial field neoprene treated paper has undergone successful field trials in such applications as gasket paper, multiwall bag paper, wrapping paper, box board, and industrial filter paper.

DuPont announced that it will not itself manufacture any of these papers — its role will be to supply neoprene latex and technical assistance to the paper industry.

To the American People...

Probably never before has there been so much at stake in the preservation of the freedom which we have enjoyed since the birth of our republic. All of us that possibly can do so should participate in its defense and this we can do by regularly purchasing Defense Bonds, thereby maintaining a strong economy essential to our free way of life.

Faithfully yours,

G. C. Marshall

New FHA Law Hikes Maximums On Loans

Ceilings Jumped On Federal Support

A new law enables the Farmers' Home Administration to make loans for farm operating expenses up to $7,000 now. It also places a new ceiling of $10,000 on the indebtedness outstanding at any one time. The maximum repayment period is seven years. Before, the initial loan limit was only $3,500, and maximum indebtedness $5,000, and repayment period was five years.

"In amending the loan terms, Congress has recognized that costs of farm operating expenses have increased sharply," say officials of the FHA in Washington. A farmer needing a $3,500 loan in 1946 would require a loan of $5,900 for the same needs in 1951, they say. In the past, the FHA has had to turn down many young veterans and other farmers, simply because they could not provide adequate financing under the old system. Loans are made only to farmers who are unable to get necessary financing from other sources. Local farmer committees approve each applicant.
