

Twirp Season Arrives, "Evening In Paris" Dance, Party

It's not Sadie Hawkins! What is it then? Why, Women's Weekend, of course! Remember, too, girls, this is Leap Year and therefore you should have a date all lined up for this big weekend of fun and entertainment.

Friday night will be spent semi-formally in the Parisian atmosphere of the Field House with dance music furnished by the Delmelodians from 9 until 1. Jean Sloman, as Chairman of Decorations, has done a fine job with her committee in transforming the Field House into "An Evening in Paris." Favors will be presented to the gentlemen at the dance, and free refreshments will be served at Old College Lounge.

Saturday afternoon, Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon will be filled with parties, treasure hunts, the Middle Atlantic Swim Meet and the basketball game with P.M.C. Parties are up to the discretion of the individual dormitories.

All commuters are invited and urged to attend, and are asked to sign up with the dormitory to which they are affiliated.

Betty Boyce is general chairman of the affair and the following are the other committee chairmen: Chaperones, Sue Brown and Joanna Newton; invitations, Barbara Lillquist and Ann McCormick; Tickets and accounts, Mary Bueche and Ann Catts; orchestra, Esther Fouracre; refreshments, Sue Brown and Joanna Newton; miscellaneous, Jane Winters and Mary Ann Lindale.

Visiting Scholars Highlight Annual Education Meeting

The presence of several outstanding visiting scholars will highlight the 34th annual Education Conference, to be held on campus Friday and Saturday, March 7 and 8.

Foremost among the noted educators who will attend the meeting is Dr. William S. Gray, Director of Research in Reading at the University of Chicago since 1920. He will address the first Friday evening session on "The Nature of Meaning and Factors Influencing Its Development." Dr. Gray has also written many articles for the yearbook of the National Society for the Study of Education.

The conference is again fortunate in the presence of J. Conrad Seegers, Dean of Temple University Teachers College. Dr. Seegers will conduct discussions in Critical Reading. In this field, as well as in that of vocabulary development, Dr. Seegers is nationally known among educators for his diligent research and co-authorship of several books.

The success of the conference should be favored even more through the work of Gertrude H. Williams, Assistant Professor of English at Miner Teachers College in Washington, D. C. Miss Williams is the only Negro educator attending the conference. She is a graduate of Boston University and a former reading consultant at several well-known universities. The discussion group she will lead has its theme of conference "Directing" (Continued on Page 8)

Cherry Blossom Princess Petitions Due Mon.

GERTRUDE H. WILLIAMS

Last Year's Winner Had Fine Trip

The 1952 Cherry Blossom Princess from the state of Delaware will be nominated by your petition. Nominations have been open all week and will close at noon, Monday, March 3.

Petitions for a candidate should be submitted through the college mail and addressed to The Review. Thirty signatures are required on each petition. A person may sign only one petition.

Any candidate must be a resident of the state of Delaware, and an enrolled student at the university. She must be unmarried and between the ages of 18 and 25.

Election from the list of nominations will be held Thursday afternoon, March 6, and all day Friday, March 7. The candidates will be presented at College Hour, Thursday, March 6.

Alice Martin was Delaware's 1951 Cherry Blossom Princess. She speaks of the trip to Washington, sponsored by the News-Journal Company of Wilmington, as "the most wonderful time I've ever had." The News-Journal Company sponsors the Delaware Princess and pays her expenses and those of her family while in Washington. Included in their expense is a $300 wardrobe which the Princess picks out herself, all the traveling costs to and from the National Capital, and the five-day visit in Washington.

Miss Martin stated that "The News-Journal Company and the Delaware Society in Washington certainly treated their Princess royally." She says that the Cherry Blossom Princess "will find much to enjoy during her reign in Washington but will have even greater pleasure in her memories afterward."

AEPi's Play Hosts To Annual Meeting

Rho Dauteron Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity will be host to the Annual Middle Atlantic A. E. Pi Conclave March 28, 29 and April 1 at the University of Delaware. One hundred-fifty delegates are expected to attend the weekend functions highlighted by a semi-formal dance at the DuBarry Room of the Hotel DuPont and the Regional Basketball Tournament.

Carl Goldenberg is general chairman, assisted by Ralph Schwab, conclave treasurer; Dave Schulman, band committee; Mark Rappaport and Alfred Isaacs, accommodations chairman; Leo Zuckerman and George Flamm, date committee; and Joe Gluck, publicity chairman.

Players Prepare For "One Touch Of Venus" Production

The E-52 Players will present their fourth annual musical, "One Touch of Venus," in Mitchell Hall on March 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15. Forty-six students are now rehearsing industriously with Miss Crook's, director of the dancing; Mr. Fennema, director of the singing; and Mr. Pegg, who is director of the entire production.

The Players were honored to acquire special permission from Mr. Gene Bone and Mr. Howard Fenton for the use of their latest song, "White Magnolias." Jean Thomas will sing the song as a special attraction in the first act, followed by Judith Kase and Jair Dos Santos, who will dance a duet.

Other outstanding production numbers which can't be overlooked are a hilarious comedy song, "Way Out West In Jersey," sung by Joy Murray, Jane Banks, Rodney McWerter, George Chamlin and Bill Pogh, and "Very, Very, Very," sung by Marty Snyder and Mary Lou Conover.

The cast includes:

Venus	Joan Matthews
Molly Grant	Mary Lou Conover
Rodney Hatch	Rod McWerter
Whitewash Savory	Preston Ough
Rose	Marty Snyder
Gloria Kramer	Jane Banks
Mrs. Kramer	Joy Murray
Taxi Black	George Chamlin
Stanley	Dave Allen
Mrs. Moats	Norma Levine
Bus Starter	Tony Mitchell
Police Lieutenant	Bill Moore
Zuvetti	Elbert Chance
Dr. Rook	Harvey Porter
Matron	Barbara Baker

Dr. Perkins Proposes A Dean Of Students Office

By TED SANDSTROM

In an attempt to clarify and substantiate rumors circulating concerning the reorganization of the offices of Dean of Men and Dean of Women, The Review interviewed Dr. Perkins and presents here a report on the situation as it exists now.

At the June meeting of the Board of Trustees, President Perkins expects to propose the establishment of a Dean of Students office, to replace and improve upon the present system of handling student affairs through the Coordinating Committee.

The new plan of administering student affairs will retain the office of Dean of Women. The Dean of Students will also be the Dean of Men, and director of the program of student affairs. The Chairman of the Committee on the Coordination of Student Affairs now exercises this second function. The new plan will in no way alter the present status of the offices of the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women.

This plan for a change in the administration of student affairs was proposed by Dr. Perkins in his 1950-51 President's Report. "I hope that in the next year all concerned will see the wisdom of integrating student affairs work under a Dean of Students," wrote Dr. Perkins in his report.

Reasons For Proposal

His reasons for the proposal were explained in the report. "I tend to hold the Chairman of the Coordinating Committee to a responsibility exceeding his authority which is simply that of a committee member. . . . The Deans of Men and Women and the Director of the Psychological Services Center are supposedly responsible to the Committee. For a Committee to give administrative direction is next to impossible and for the chairman to do so may be considered as usurpation."

In explaining the function of the new Dean of Students, as he proposes it, Dr. Perkins suggested that the person should have professional training in student personnel work. The Dean of Students would operate without the Coordinating Committee as it exists now, but could set up such advisory and judicial committees as are appropriate. In addition faculty members will continue to act as advisers to student organizations.

Williamson Makes Survey

Actually the change in the Student Affairs program originated during President Carlson's administration. Dean Williamson, a consultant from the University of Minnesota, was invited by President Carlson to make a survey concerning conditions here and to submit proposals for a Student Affairs Program. His proposals were twofold: the establishment of a Coordinating Committee, a temporary measure; and, as an ultimate goal, the creation of a Dean of Students office. Now, after a few years delay, the ultimate goal of Dean Williamson's report is within the realm of reality.

In summary, we can expect that there will still be an office of the Dean of Women, contrary to certain persistent rumors, and an office of the Dean of Men merely under the title of Dean of Students.

Engineers Prepare Display For Weekend Open House

Plans for displays in the engineering department during Open House have reached an advanced stage. Contributions from the four schools of engineering will comprise a large portion of the Open House schedule.

The mechanical engineers will make their debut with demonstrations of machine design, time and motion, heat power and internal combustion engines. Featured among the many amazing exhibits will be a small scale power plant and generating station, a unit illustrating the "knock" inside a gasoline engine, numerous test engines and equipment of various types, machining instruments such as lathes, grinders, and shapers, welding equipment, and various classroom material.

With intentions of being surpassed by no one, the chemical engineers are portraying the coordinate series used in dealing with any chemical process — pulverizing, drying, crystallizing, filtering, evaporating, electrolyzing, etc. Among the array of engineering ingenuity, visitors can expect to witness a small distillation tower, all types of fluid flow experiments, metal working and testing operations, and an operating distillation tower, formerly used for development work in the manufacture of synthetic rubber, which illustrates pilot plant study in industry.

The third portion of the program is sponsored by the electrical engineers — a group which could more properly be dubbed the "Mystifiers." Their division of the Open House tour is introduced with a dazzling exhibition of illumination and lighting. Following this is a viewing of the Main Electrical Laboratory with more quizzing displays such as the Jumping Ring, the National Bank of Newark, d.c. motors, and an F.M. transmitter. The industrial electronics display consists of a precipitron, ignition rectifier, x-ray apparatus, voltage regulator, and a spot and seam welder. Another of the numerous additional exhibits which should prove interesting and instructive is a mass radio display by RCA.

The civil engineers, the men of the level and transit, show evidences of holding their own with their technical comrades. On the campus in front of Evans Hall, a typical highway curve will be staked out! The fluid mechanics laboratory features an experiment of water flowing over dams and through spillways. In the soil mechanics laboratory will be a collection of all essential soil testing equipment. Other exhibits include a scale train model, photos, and models of engineering operations such as timber connectors, concrete cores, construction materials, and relief maps.

This list is not complete! In fact, it includes but a fraction of the total ensemble of miracles of modern engineering. In addition to the exhibits mentioned, there are . . . but wait, you'll witness the rest when you get there!

Basketball Champs?

On Saturday night, Delaware's regular basketball season will come to a close in Carpenter Field house. The Blue Hens will meet P.M.C., the team that beat them 111-87 earlier in the season.

If Delaware won on Wednesday night over Haverford, then the Delaware-P.M.C. game will be decisive. Delaware must win, otherwise P.M.C. will walk off our court with the Middle Atlantic crown, a tragedy that occurred last year with Swarthmore. For just this reason alone, Saturday's game should be a good one.

The Blue Hens will be seeking revenge. The earlier defeat was a bitter one, because Earle Wentzel scored 48 points to set a record on the Cadets court and the 111 points was a P.M.C. team record.

In the last four or five games our team has looked good. However, the game Saturday will be the most important one of the season and a cheering capacity crowd will be an excellent stimulus for a Delaware win. So come to the game and cheer the Blue Hens to victory!

An Abstract

Spring Approacheth

Winter is fading into spring. We shall remember the winter of 1951-52 as a very happy one here on a friendly college campus. The only severe weather came before the holiday vacation on the day of the Christmas Dance, and we took it then in holiday stride. We saw the campus completely white for the first time in several years. The snow resolved into slush and mud, and we felt more at home again.

As we see the first traces of another colorful spring-time approaching, we eagerly await it but remember that the season is only an assistance to the blossoming of happiness. Wonderful things can happen in winter, and they have this winter. Some will fade with the budding of the trees, some have already faded, some will never fade. At least memories of winter, 1951-52, will never fade.

The coming of spring means to some 350 seniors the home stretch of a collegiate career. Graduation Day looms but three months away. Seniors may be expected to enjoy a deserved last fling. A great turning point is approaching for them.

May we welcome springtime, 1952 and hope that it brings to the Delaware campus all that fall and winter have, and that extra something, the intangible magic of new growth and color and life that only spring can bring forth.

Faculty

Wanted: Comments

Elsewhere in the Review, Dr. Bernard Phillips has written a guest editorial on "Some Thoughts on Responsibility." It is a well written and thought-out article, something the Review would welcome from the other faculty members.

Perhaps the faculty feels we do not want their opinions, for the Review seldom receives letters from them. On the contrary, the editorial staff would welcome thoughts, ideas, or opinions of the faculty.

The truism, "the older a man gets, the more he knows," is one that has not been of enough benefit to the student body. Another truism, "a man either learns by experience or through the experience of others," shows why we welcome expressions of feelings from the faculty.

Student-faculty relationships would be promoted if faculty members would send us their comments, for the students would take a positive attitude toward any faculty member who expressed himself rather than constantly "beating around the bush." On a small campus such as this, personal rapport should be on a high level.

Promote better feelings, faculty, and give us the benefit of your knowledge by sending us your comments!

...Neath The Arches

By TOM O'DONNELL
 With JACK FAIRCHILD

The SGA thinks that a Student Radio Station on our campus would be an excellent idea. It suggests that a committee be set up to poll other schools of comparable size to discover their technical, financial, and programming angles. With such knowledge, a background would be laid for the actual commencement of operations. Anyone who has any bright ideas or suggestions or who would like to be on the committee, please contact "Neath the Arches", c/o The Review.

Since a month or so before Christmas, questioning glances have flashed across the library everytime the "old man with the white beard" walks through. For those of you who have asked us, he is William H. Meredith, Goldey College alumnus and retired after working forty-five years with the Westinghouse Electric Corporation in Pittsburgh. He came back six years ago and lived with his sister outside Newark because it is his original home territory. He now lives at the Deer Park Hotel and spends about six hours every day in our library reading for pleasure on a great variety of subjects; the rest of the day he likes to exercise by walking around the town.

The beard is an "accident". Last September he was on his sister's farm and "working so hard that he never bothered to shave". He keeps it because he gets a "kick" out of the novelty of it and the friendly comments it draws.

He requested that his motto be included in the article about him: "Do it the right way." He believes those few words are the essence of success—moderation in the vices and emphasis on development of the mind and body. "All you young students could benefit from those words." Stop and speak with him; he is a very interesting fellow.

All you men who have been invited to Women's Weekend are very lucky. It promises to be a big and wonderful affair. From the dance and the dorm parties right down to the Sunday afternoon picnics and scavenger hunts, a more perfect weekend could not be attempted—give it your full support.

Rehearsals for "One Touch of Venus" are going fine. Do not miss it on either March 11, 12, 13, 14 or 15. The E-52 Players present only one musical each year; and if you saw last year's, we are certain that you are looking forward to this year's performance.

They're Off!!

By ASSAULT and BATTERY

Well we are still running around campus with our feathers trying to get people to laugh at our jokes. Oh well, we can't expect everything. Anyway, our thought for the week takes the form of a poem:

The one who thinks our jokes are
 lowd
 Would straight away change his views,
 Could he compare the jokes we print
 With those we cannot use.

Our scratch sheet last week was pretty small and we were glad to see that most of the entries ran. Well, for the old faithfuls, here goes.

A wedding ring is like a touniquet, it stops your circulation.

While visiting one of the frat houses, we heard a voice yell, "Hey, you guys, cut out that swearing—I've got a woman in my room!"

He kissed her on her rosy lips;
 How could he then but linger?
 But oh—when he caressed her hair,
 A cootie bit his finger.

One broom to another, "I think we're going to have a little whisk broom; we swept together last night."

Tex: Hey sheriff, any nice girls in this town?
 Sheriff: Sure, they're all nice.
 Tex: How far to the next town?

When a girl finds that she isn't the only pebble on the beach, she generally becomes a little boulder.

Some Thoughts On Responsibility

By DR. BERNARD PHILLIPS, Professor of Philosophy

While no one would want to minimize the significance of the decision of the S.G.A. to pay for the damages to the Lafayette campus, neither is there proper warrant for deducing from it the conclusion which seems to be implicit in the editorial entitled "Responsibility and Liability" which appeared in last week's Review. What must not be overlooked is the disturbing fact that the S.G.A. as a body was presented with this grand opportunity for expressing its sense of responsibility precisely because some Delaware students as individuals acted with extreme irresponsibility. In these circumstances, self-congratulation seems premature; and if the entire episode is kept in mind—the infliction of the damages as well as the payment therefor—then it will hardly be possible to conclude with the writer of the editorial that "It is a concrete example of the kind of collective responsibility that the university wishes to see exhibited before further social privileges are extended."

Responsibility Assumes Two Levels

There are two quite different levels of responsibility which it is unwise to confuse. In one sense, responsibility may connote the willingness on the part of the majority of a group to assume liability for the misdeeds of any of its members. This kind of responsibility was exhibited in the action taken by the S.G.A. In a deeper sense, a group or an individual may be characterized as responsible when there is the assurance that there will not be any misdeeds to be atoned for or any damages to be made good. A man may be a responsible driver in the sense that if he kills you, he may be depended on to provide for your widow and children; or he may be a responsible driver in the sense that he may be counted upon not to become involved in an accident. While it is desirable to show both kinds of responsibility, the presence of one sort of responsibility can not be taken as a sure indication of the presence of the other sort. And the laudable action of the S.G.A. does not per se permit of the inference that the student body in its entirety is now characterized by the second and deeper sense of responsibility. Indeed the writer of last week's editorial has no expectations that this action will prove an effective deterrent to further misdeeds. He concludes with a very disturbing prediction and one which incidentally undermines the very contention which he sought to establish in the first half of the editorial, to wit—"Certainly future bills are to be expected, after such a precedent has been set."

So far as any organization does not have complete assurance in respect to the individual behavior of each of its members, it is bound, in matters affecting the group interest, to institute various regulations and to enforce these with some system of supervision, policing, or chaperonage. This is not necessarily a reflection on the integrity of the majority of its members, and only the morbidly over-sensitive will take it personally. The normal, law-abiding citizen does not view the policeman as a standing insult to himself and as a reflection on his own trustworthiness. For the policeman is not there to restrain the law-abiding citizen from doing something which, but for the presence of the policeman, he would be bound to do. The function of the policeman is to protect the interests of the law-abiding citizen from the assaults of those few who seek to be laws unto themselves. And one may be justifiably suspicious of the real motives of a man who laments the existence of the police force as an affront to his incorruptible virtue.

Honor System Possibilities

Whoever still feels righteously indignant over the imposition of certain social regulations and continues to regard it as a slur on his personal character should also, it would seem, be moved to protest the university's policy of "chaperoning" examinations. Only here it will hardly be possible to claim it as the conscious intent of the faculty to withhold responsibility from the students. For only those with very short (and convenient) memories will have forgotten how recently the faculty expressed its willingness to accept an honor system, if the students themselves were prepared to accept full responsibility for such a system. The rejection of the honor system by student vote can hardly be taken as tangible evidence of any strong faith on the part of our students either in themselves or in one another.

Girls

I think that I shall never see
 A girl refuse a meal that's free;
 A girl whose hungry eyes aren't

 A girl who looks at boys all day
 And figures ways to make them

The Cheerleaders Challenge

By MARY JANE GUENVEUR

Recently the announcement was made about the stadium plans for next fall. To the school it was great news—we accepted it, yet let it drop, thinking: "Won't that be nice next year?" We all think of the stadium as something new that will be for our convenience in the future. What we should realize is that having our own home stadium is a challenge to us, a challenge for action that should begin now. If we are to use this stadium to its fullest functioning, it should be more than a convenience. It should be an instrument to promote school unity and spirit. It should be an integral part of the school and should be considered as our showcase to outside communities. Therefore, don't you think we should have float parades, flash card tricks, an active participating cheering section, and an all out effort to elevate spirit throughout the school?

All of the school organizations will soon be busy making plans for next year, so why not include the possibilities of these ideas for next fall. If we plan full weekends around our Saturday afternoon games, we will be keen competition to all of those neighboring colleges which seem to attract so many of our students because of their "big college weekends." In this way we would have 100% attendance at the games and a more active and cooperative student body.

So, what do you say? Let's think this over and take action now so that next year will not only have a new stadium, but also a new unified and spirited University of Delaware.

Playbill

By GIL KOFFLER

The E-52 Players put out the welcome mat last week for the Pennsylvania Players, a dramatic group from the University of Pennsylvania. In a joint playbill offering, each group gave a one-act play—the E-52 Players, a comedy called Know Your Neighbor; the Penn Players, a Eugene O'Neill drama entitled Where the Cross Is Made. Having visitors present plays on our campus is an excellent idea; it adds variety to our dramatic programs and allows the student body to compare the E-52 Players with similar organizations. The E-52 Players can benefit by observing the acting and general know-how of the visitors. Everybody wins.

Know Your Neighbor was a mildly humorous play about apartment-house living in New York. After a rather slow start it went along amiably enough, introduced varied characters one at a time, and pointed up the lonesomeness-in-a-crowd aspect of Manhattan life and the repercussions that may occur when you try to change it. From the production aspect, it mixed some very good theatre (perfect timing of the telephone, doorbell, and Pat Thaddeus) with some very bad theatre (winking, blinking lights, and a hand from backstage cooly pulling the backdrop aside). Also, it seemed rather silly to darken the stage for property changes which could, despite the darkness, be seen by the audience, when it was just as easy and more foolproof to pull the curtain. However, no one seemed to mind these peccadilloes, and the play itself was not exactly a dramatic masterpiece.

Shows Excellent Casting

Know Your Neighbor was unusually well cast, and exhibited some of the best acting and promise-of-things-to-come that this reviewer has seen in a playbill. Keep your eye on Margaret Taylor, who handled the difficult "siren" role excellently, and on Harvey Porter, who equalled his polished performance in Marco Millions. Frances Evans squeezed every laugh out of her role, and Dan Robertson was perfect as the juvenile gum-chewing jitterbug. Penn Green and Marianne Kirkpatrick, real-life roommates, put over their mother-and-daughter parts very well, and Virginia Wells and Pat Thaddeus tied everything together with fine performances. Their parts required some of the most difficult acting, and both of them deserve bigger roles in the future.

The guest production was an ambitious and, on the whole, seasoned presentation. Lack of space prevents a detailed analysis, but the over-all effect was not particularly exciting to me. Somehow the supernatural elements failed to come past the footlights, and I was left calmly observing the actors, who were very worked up about the

Dr. Hu Emphasizes China's Problems

By VERA LAIR

Dr. Hu, who visited the campus as a visiting scholar, held several seminars and gave a public address on Thursday evening, February 21. One of the main points of his speech was that he did not think the Chinese, conditioned by centuries of history and culture, will ever become good communists.

The philosophy of communism is diametrically opposite to the prevailing culture of the Chinese. However, the communists had no trouble taking control, not because of the appeal of their philosophy, but because the Chinese were at the end of their rope and needed a change. Any government that even promised economic reconstruction could take control of the Chinese government. That was the secret of the ease with which the communists took over China.

Chiang's Government

Dr. Hu made the point that Chiang-Kai-Shek started out as a good man with a good government. The reasons for the failure of Chiang's government were: 1) it became corrupt; 2) its political power was killed by tremendous inflation which turned everybody against it; one of the great strengths of the communists comes from the fact that they stopped inflation.

Dr. Hu emphasized that nobody knows how much of the reconstruction program is really being carried out and how much is just on paper. He said, however, that reconstruction received a definite setback when China entered the war in Korea. From the Chinese domestic viewpoint, the entry into the war was a tremendous mistake.

Dr. Hu stated that China's great need is economic development, and if the Western powers had started a program on the order of the present Point IV program on a large scale in China, it is quite possible that the communists could not have taken control.

China's High Birthrate

Dr. Hu was asked about China's population and high birthrate, and asked whether economic development to raise the standards of living wouldn't defeat itself by increasing the birthrate. His reply was that it is in the Chinese character to want sons to carry on the name; but since there is danger of some dying from both starvation and disease, the family simply have more sons in order to make sure one stays alive to carry on the family name. When the family has a daughter, it has to keep on having children to make sure of enough sons. The Chinese are realists, and when and if health and standards of living are so improved that the sons are no longer in danger of dying, the Chinese will have fewer children. Therefore, Dr. Hu expected a rise in living standards to result in a decline in the birthrate.

IVCF Members Attend Grove Chapel Services

The members of the Delaware chapter of the Inter-varsity Christian Fellowship journeyed to Grove Chapel at Havertown, Pennsylvania, on Sunday, February 24, in order to participate in the evening services. Four carloads of Delaware students made the trip.

The two Young Peoples' meetings were marked by talks by Biddle Foster and Dixie Foster, Ben Hatch and Jack Wiberg led the singing in the two groups, while Barbara Ochler and Doris Crouch acted as pianists.

During the regular evening worship service broadcast over WPEN, several students gave testimonies of what Christ means to them, and Biddle Foster, past president of the Inter-varsity, presented the purposes and a brief history of IVCF. Jack Wiberg, president of the group, sang a solo. The sermon was delivered by the pastor, Reverend Johnson.

Following the evening service, a hymn sing was led by Dixie Foster, and a brief message or witnessing was given by Jack Wiberg. This closed the series of the services.

Are College Men Men?

Here's a challenging letter to the Syracuse Daily Orange from a couple of local coeds:

Dear Editor: Before entering college we had great expectations concerning the college man. Needless to say we were gravely disappointed.

What has happened to the rugged, outdoor man? He is no longer rugged. He eats soft food, sleeps too much, and considers the slightest physical exertion too much for him. He is never outdoors, his social life being centered around the parlor.

An energetic game of chess or a snappy bull session is all the exercise he gets. One glance at his apparel would make you doubt whether he is even a man.

Masculine individuality has become a mirage. It seems that everything he does is inspired by the group to which he belongs. His aim in life is determined by what others have decided to be worthwhile goals. He no longer has the power to think and decide for himself.

As an example, when he is on a date, the girl must be prepared to decide what movie they will see, what they will do afterwards, and she must even plan to spend the evening entertaining the man, who has lost the power to take an active part in conversation.

Obviously something has to be done. Here is a challenge to the men of Syracuse University. A few months ago you denounced us girls for wearing slacks and jeans, etc. We would be only too glad to give them back to you, if you'd begin to earn your pants.

Delaware Mermen Play Host To Middle Atlantics On Saturday

By DAN ROBERTSON

Tomorrow, Saturday, March 1, is a big day for swimming coach Harry Rawstrom and his well trained team of frogmen. The Hen swimmers will play host to the Fifth Annual M.A.C.S.A.C. after splashing their way to one of Delaware's most successful tank seasons, a campaign which saw the natators win eight out of their nine conference meets. The Hen's only loss was to Lehigh, last year's Middle Atlantic champs.

Many people may be confused by the long-sounding initials M.A.C.S.A.C. They stand for Middle Atlantic Collegiate Swimming Association Championships. This drawn-out name represents an aggregation of ten schools: Lehigh, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, Dickinson, Westchester State Teachers, Swarthmore, Drexel, Pennsylvania Military College, Lafayette, and Delaware. They are all schools from the Middle Atlantic region and are of the same type and size, that is, small colleges.

Delaware Faces Rough Competition

Representing their various schools will be the top 115 or 120 men of all events. Watching these swift swimmers will be an expected audience of around 300 people from all parts of the Middle Atlantic region. The trials will start at one o'clock in the afternoon. These trials will consist of both the 300 yard medley relay and the 400 yard freestyle relay, diving, and the 40 yard freestyle. All other events will be held at night. The night events begin at 7:30 and will consist of heats which will be timed finals.

Although Delaware promises a good fight this year and is second best team, there will be many rough waves in the form of various individuals from the rest of the schools. Ivan High from Franklin and Marshall is favored to take the 1500 yard free style. Dick Goodley has as good a chance as anyone to cop the 50 yard free style dash. His toughest competition will be Dave Potter from Swarthmore. Charlie Presnell figures to be the leading contender for the diving event. He'll have to be in top form, however, for he's coming up against Hobs from Lehigh, the one man who handed Presnell his only defeat this season. Both Charlie and Coach Rawstrom feel that the feat can be accomplished. Tony DiMalo has two worries staring him in the face. Tony will represent the Hen bid in the 200 yard breaststroke event. Huryot from the favored Lehigh team and Montague from Lafayette are Tony's obstacles in one of the hardest of the races. Lorin Krusberg is the Hen's hope for both the 220 yard freestyle and the 440 yard freestyle. Lorin is just recovering from a cold that laid him off for a couple of days, but as this paper goes to press, he feels confident that he can give Bob Nick from Lehigh a good fight. Art Mayer has been victorious in the past season in the 150 yard individual medley relay. The individual medley relay has been added to the line-up this year as a result of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Association's ruling making freshmen eligible for four years on a varsity team. The purpose behind the addition was to give more contenders a chance for competition. Art has consistently broken his own records this season and is a promising candidate for not only the individual medley relay but also the 200 yard backstroke event. George Ester, who achieved recognition in last year's Middle Atlantics by breaking three records, will plow through Taylor pool with a good chance of first place in the 100 yard freestyle.

Meet Promises Excitement

Delaware's indoor track squad took an 85-28 lacing Saturday at the hands of a strong University of Penn cinder team in a practice meet in Carpenter Extension. New records were the order of the day as the Quakers copped five new Field House records, with outclassed but valiant Delaware ekeing out one first place, a tie for first, and several second places in a 13 event field.

Delaware's big Ed Cunningham used his beef to put the shot to a first place tie with Franklin of Penn with a toss of 38' 5 1/2". Blue Hen Peters, ex-schoolboy star at Smyrna High and Wesley Junior College, established a fast time of 2:07.8 in the 880 yard scamper. Frosh Jim Flynn sprinted his way to second in the 50 yard dash.

Shootin' The Breeze

By DORRANCE BARRELL

Bill Mikvy, Temple's much publicized basketball ace, who has been in and out of the scoring doldrums all season long, appears to have reverted back to his sensational playing form of a year ago. Tops in scoring throughout the nation last year, Bill seems to have picked the tailend of the present campaign to redeem himself in an otherwise lack-luster, dismal court season both for himself personally and for the Owl quintet which has dropped something in the neighborhood of 15 games.

Two weeks ago, the tall "Owl without a vowel" ran wild in Muhlenberg's Rockne Hall by racking up a record 46 point total as the Philadelphia college nosed out the Mules in an overtime game. And last Saturday his 31 markers paved the avenue for an upset 76-67 win over the best ball club St. Joseph's has had in many court seasons.

All this seems to be a kind of anti-climax to an upside down, baffling and generally hectic year of play for the Temple squad. There were charges during midseason by Philadelphia newspapers that the Temple outfit was conspiring against both Mikvy and the Owls' coach by refusing to pass off to the Temple star, and the aim of the squad reportedly was to produce such a disastrous win and lost count that their mentor would get the old "heave-ho" from the Temple powers that be.

Admittedly, things looked somewhat funny when Mikvy tallied 36 points in a Temple scrimmage against the Philadelphia Warriors, and held the former Utah great, Vern Gardiner, to a scant couple of top-ins. If he could score and play like that against the great "play for pay" ranks, what was holding him back in games such as Temple's losing effort here against the Blue Hens early this season, in which the Philly eager shot less than a dozen times and emerged from the game with a measly (for him) 12 points?

Well, the answer behind many of his sub par collegiate performances during the year will probably never come to light. The only thing the basketball public does know is that Mikvy and his teammates—no matter what happened earlier this season—are finishing up this now ancient basketball campaign in true winning, thoroughbred style.

Roomings:—Genial Hen trainer Gus Seaburg and his wife Ruth, were feted Sunday night by Coach and Mrs. Dave Nelson to a smorgas-borg dinner, with the entire Athletic coaching staff also on hand for the affair. The popular couple received a silver tea set from the various Delaware mentors and their wives—Fred Emmerson is guest speaker at the next weekly meeting of the Philadelphia Sports Writers at the Pen and Pencil Club—Gene Lent bagged 5 goals up at Rutgers University Saturday, but Delaware's stickmen fell by 23-11 margin. This was the second game of lacrosse in which Lent, a senior, has ever participated. Catching on fast!

Mat Season Ends; Hens Down Mules

Headed by big Jim Michaels, the Blue Hen matmen closed a highly successful season by downing Muhlenberg 23-11 Saturday. With a good crowd on hand, the Delaware men chalked up victory number six to record the wrestlers' best log in the school's history.

Jim Michaels, 177 pound senior from P. S. duPont, finished his outstanding wrestling career at the university by pinning Ray Dotton in 5:09. With this win Jim added five points to his season total to make him leading scorer of the team with thirty-three points, also establishing a new Delaware scoring record.

There never was much doubt about the outcome of the meet Saturday as Delaware jumped to a 10 point lead when Len Clapp and Don Rumer both notched pins. Paul Catts and Jerry Angulo were each decimated, Catts losing his bout on a take-down in the closing seconds of the bout. Rodriguez won his third bout of the mat campaign by decision, but Frank Stevens was pinned by the Mules' Jim Cressman. Michaels and Schultz followed with successive pins to close out a very enjoyable afternoon.

The wrestlers enjoy a two-week layoff in which to prepare for the Middle Atlantics to be held at Swarthmore. The matches this year are scheduled March 7 and 8 at Swarthmore. From the sterling record compiled by the Hens this year, it is hoped they continue their fine work in the meets in March.

123-lb. Class: Clapp, D., pinned Beach in 1:24.
130-lb. Class: Rumer, D., pinned Dechee in 5:27.
137-lb. Class: Adams, M., decided Catts, 8-6.
147-lb. Class: Billy, M., decided Angulo, 10-2.
157-lb. Class: Rodriguez, D., decided Peters, 4-0.
167-lb. Class: Cressman, M., pinned Stevens, 6:30.
177-lb. Class: Michael, D., pinned Dotton in 5:09.
Heavyweight: Schultz, D., pinned Stauffer in 1:34.

ECAC Appoints Nelson To A Three-Man Panel

Athletic director and head Delaware football coach Dave Nelson was recently appointed to a three-man panel of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference to conduct an investigation of both actual and desirable practices in sports. The other two coaches nominated by the executive council of the ECAC are Lewis P. Andreas of Syracuse University, and John W. Bunn of Springfield College.

Various vital topics such as the length of spring football and other out-of-season practices, number of contests, and length of season will be delved into by Nelson's committee.

Delaware Seeks Victory To Insure Play-off With PMC

By JIM O'NEILL

Delaware's impressive basketball record of 15-6 will be put on the line Saturday night at the Field House when Woody Ludwig's P. M. C. cadet five invades Blue Hen territory looking for its second conquest of the campaign over our Emmersonmen, having previously bowled them by the now infamous 111-87 score. If Delaware drops this twenty-second and final game of the closing season, then the Cadets from Pennsylvania will clinch the Middle Atlantic court title. With the engagement on Delaware's home court this time, instead of P.M.C.'s diminutive gym, the Hens may well avenge their early slaughter at the hands of "Eagle Earl" Wentzel and Company; such a defeat would deadlock both colleges and a play-off game would prove necessary. By virtue of their previous defeat by the Cadets, the Blue Hens will definitely be underdogs. They will be out to show everybody that the first game was just a mistake. Let's help the Hens to the victory road by doing our part and turning out en masse at the Field House and ringing the rafters for Captain Billy Utt and his teammates.

Last Week's Record

Looking back over last week's court play, our hoopsters, displaying that fine type of ball that has been characteristic of them this season, won two crucial Middle Atlantic Conference tilts. On last Wednesday night, the Dragons from Drexel Tech journeyed down to Delaware. By the end of the first half, the Hens were behind by a score of 31 to 28 but in the third period they began to find the hoop and they emerged from that frame with a 53-47 lead. The last period was a duplicate of the third with Delaware romping home to a 66-53 win. Dick Goldberg, Billy Utt, Dick Evans and Jim Kruzinski all hit for double figures, Goldberg showing the way with 16.

Saturday night, Coach Emmerson's boys romped to an easy victory over an outgunned Swarthmore quintet by a score of 74-55. The initial period ended in a 19-19 tie. The second period the Hens opened up with 21 big points to take a 40-28 lead at half-time. By the end of the third period, Delaware was leading 58-39. This was increased to 74-55 at the final whistle. "Dodo" Kruzinski sparked with 15 markers while Evans, White, Goldberg and Utt also contributed heavily in the scoring column. Joe Carroll, the league's top scorer, banked 20 points to cop individual scoring honors for the game.

Intramural Hi-Lites

By FRED BROWN

As the first of March approaches, the final games of the 1951-52 intramural basketball season are being played. This year there have been three leagues and at this late date the outcome of only one league has thus far been decided. Harter Hall of the Eastern League, long the doormat of the loop in other years, has finished its schedule of nine games undefeated. This independent ball club is one of the best yet formed in intramural ranks. The other independent league, the Western loop, is in a deadlock between the Hustlers and the Jokers. These teams, both undefeated, will meet the first week in March. In the red hot fraternity league, Sigma Nu and Theta Chi are vying for top laurels. These two strong contenders have been boasting undefeated slates, but will have met before this is published. Sigma Nu, which is led by big John Kinter and Jim Moneymaker, have a well-rounded ball club which can give anyone trouble. The favored Thetas, with much height and considerable speed, play a good brand of ball as exhibited in their stunning win over highly regarded Sig Ep. Follow

Perhaps a lot of you have already begun thinking about summer vacation — no reflections on the joys of study. Anyway, I have been thinking too, and perhaps you would benefit from some of the information which I have been able to gather. Many of you will be primarily interested in making as much money as possible to help defray the expenses of college. If so, then I am afraid that my information won't help you very much, but here goes anyway.

Lots of people are interested in traveling, seeing new faces and new places without spending too much money. There are many organizations which sponsor student tours, work camps, etc. with this factor in mind. Perhaps two of the most widely recognized of these are the American Youth Hostels, Inc. and the American Friends Service Committee.

Youth hosteling is one of the many attempts to further the development of universal human understanding through group living experiences. Small groups of young people, under a trained leader, travel by foot and/or bicycle through scenic regions in the United States and overseas, staying at various Youth Hostels along the way. This type of project provides one with opportunities to see more, do more, learn more and make more friends for less money than do many other types of tours.

These sponsored trips last from four to eleven weeks. They are planned through New England, Nova Scotia, Southern Highlands, Mexico, Hawaii, Southwest Europe, the British Isles and other locales.

The American Friends' Service Committee sponsors several volunteer service projects including a work camp program. It (A.F.S.C.) is an organization which is endeavoring to promote international, industrial, and interracial understanding through opportunities for constructive service.

Work camps are located in areas in the United States, and overseas also bring into focus some of the basic problems of society. Campers work towards solving these problems through cooperative action. They may help in community building projects, recreational organization, or they may even conduct English classes.

There are vast opportunities for anyone interested in participating in such service projects. Incidentally, since "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" there are many activities in which the campers share outside of the daily work schedules. It is lots of fun.

If you are interested in a full summer of work, play and informal education at low cost I suggest that you write to:

Eight of the nine fraternity bowling teams went into action last Monday night at the Newark alleys and when the noise of falling pins had subsided, four clean-sweep victories had been recorded. Last year's championship KA team made a strong bid to repeat by opening with high total pins, high team game, and high single game, Bob Wright's 194. The KA win came at the expense of a SPE combine that did not appear to have reached top form. Both of last year's contenders, PKT and ATO recorded impressive decisions. PKT dropped PKA and ATO reversed last year's defeat at the hands of Theta Chi.

Top clutch bowling of the evening was turned in by Sigma Nu's Dixie Foster who scored a vital mark in the tenth frame of the first game to nip Delta Tau Delta by five pins. AEPi, ninth contender in the league, sees competition for the first time next week.

this column for the results of these important final contests.

Intramural swimming will take place March 11 in Taylor Pool at 7:30 p.m. Sigma Nu, perennial winner of this event, will meet very tough opposition from many highly improved fraternity teams. Teams interested in entering should clock their men and turn the times into the athletic office by March 5. Events to be run are the 50, 100, 200 free, 100 breast, the 100 back, diving and a 200-yard relay. One man can enter two events plus the relay and two men from one team can score in any one meet. The scoring will be 5, 3, 2, 1 for the respective finishes and the relay will be scored 10, 6, 4, 2. All fraternities and independent men interested in this phase of intramurals are urged to participate.

ample of the Golden Rule. The atmosphere of fantasy is sustained throughout by an entirely new technique of double timing. Everything happens in jazzed-up, extremely rapid succession. It is cinematic humor at its best, but it is not farce. It comes close to the human problems of social living. This interest in contemporary social problems is characteristic of Italian movies as a whole.

The last of the three movies is English—Jena Renou's The River, a story about an English family living in India. It is told through the romantic eyes of a young, sensitive girl as she retells the details of her first love. It is one of the most warmly human movies I have ever seen and is done in beautiful technicolor with some breath-taking shots of Indian scenery.

America Sees Finest Foreign Films

These three pictures show the breadth of movie subject matter that is coming to us from abroad. New York possesses the largest audience for foreign movies where many new, intimately small theatres are being completely devoted to showing foreign movies. Of course, in defense of American films it must be said that we are being subjected to only the finest of foreign films whereas every hackneyed Hollywood production eventually comes across our film screens.

I really wish more foreign films could be brought to the university and that more Delaware students would experiment in the international theatre. After all, a free movie is a free movie.

Students Reveal Their Opinions In Poll Concerning Deferment

By MARV BALICK

This is the third of a series of articles revealing the results of student opinion on a national basis. The questions asked were of vital interest to all college students. A poll of student opinion on these questions was taken on campus a few weeks ago by The Review, under the guidance of the Associated Collegiate Press.

The question which is analyzed in this week's article is that of the draft situation. In the poll students were asked: Should students be deferred? If so, which ones? The results nationally as compared to that at the University of Delaware:

Speech Dept. Joins National Hearst Oratorical Contest

Last Monday, Dr. Ray Keesey, Associate Professor of Dramatic Arts and Speech, announced that the speech department is planning to enter the Annual Hearst Newspaper Tournament of Orators. The oration must be original, delivered without reference notes, and within six minutes. The general subject is, "Henry Clay, Patriot Statesman"; however, the orator may focus on just one aspect of Clay's achievements, instead of attempting to cover the entire subject.

Any student is welcome to enter the contest. Sometime on or before April 2, local elimination finals will be held with three members of the faculty acting as judges. The Delaware winner will attend the Maryland area competition. The Eastern zone finals, in which winners of the area contests will participate, will be held in Albany, N. Y., early in May. First prize for the zone contest is a 500 dollar savings bond. Prizes for the national finals to be held in Detroit, Mich., May 14, include a 1,000 dollar bond first prize. Sponsors for the contest are the Baltimore News-Post, Sunday American, and other Hearst newspapers throughout the nation.

The selection of Henry Clay for the subject of the oration is both timely and appropriate; timely because 1952 marks the one hundredth anniversary of the death of the eloquent Kentucky orator and "great Compromiser"; appropriate because the generation before 1850 was marked by the influence of the "great triumvirate"—Clay, Webster, and Calhoun.

Dr. Keesey is in charge of the contest as it applies to the university. He said that he would be very happy to discuss the contest with any interested students. He commented, "I will be happy to supervise the writing of the student's oration and to work with the persons individually on rehearsal and oratorical techniques." Dr. Keesey may be seen at his office in Mitchell Hall or can be contacted by phone, University Extension 381. All interested students should see Dr. Keesey as soon as possible to enroll in the contest and receive further information about it.

DSTA Meets On March 3

The next D.S.T.A. meeting will be on Monday, March 3, at 7:30 p.m. in Brown Hall Lounge. At this time, Mr. Walter Kabis, Director of Recreation at Governor Bacon Health Center, will be the speaker. In April, the D.S.T.A. is planning a state-wide meeting and banquet. This will include the high school clubs, the high schools without clubs and other teacher training institutions.

1. All students should be deferred	22%	29%
2. Only the better students should be deferred	54%	44%
3. No student should be deferred	12%	12%
4. No opinion	6%	7%
5. Other	6%	8%

State Students' Opinion

A few comments from students at Delaware:

A freshman majoring in psychology believes that "there should be universal military training before college." A freshman co-ed in education says "once a student has started his education, he should finish it and not have it interrupted." A sophomore co-ed drama major is of the belief that "students who show interest and the required higher level of intelligence should not be thrown away. Brains are just as important as manpower." A co-ed junior in liberal arts had this opinion, "Separation of best from worst seems to be the best type of discrimination, even from the point of view of national interest. The armed services needs the best of our men. Only those who are studying something vital should be deferred."

Non-Residents' Opinion

Some comments from college students from other sections of the country:

A midwest student majoring in conservation takes the long view. He comments, "American future will soon be in the hands of us students. Sadly enough, we will sooner or later get our share of the fighting, but let us get our education first." A co-ed in music considers it a matter of principles. "Since I don't feel that universal military training has any constitutional or moral basis, I cannot suggest that one small group of people be spared from an unconstitutional and immoral law."

Some deferments should be given only to those taking technical courses. Says a senior in liberal arts, "Only students training for special and needed social positions in the professional field should be deferred—to guarantee a fair supply in the future."

But others think the basis should be scholastic sincerity. "If he's trying, let him stay," says a sophomore in engineering. And a New York co-ed taking costume design feels that "those most interested in their work should be deferred."

Phi Kappa Tau

The children from Our Lady of Grace Orphanage at Ogletown literally took over the Phi Tau House last Wednesday evening. Everywhere you looked, in almost every corner of the house, you could see these small figures with balloons in their hands beating some poor unsuspecting Phi Tau over the head—and the brothers loved it.

We sincerely thank Miss Collins and the Home Economics Club for making the cookies for this occasion and we especially thank Sue Anderson, Marty Forsyth, Marilyn Colwell, Diane Lease, Doris Sadowski, Barbara Nespor, Joan Archer, Joyce Trout, Nancy Toby, Ann McCormick and Margie Shank for their special effort in helping us entertain the children. From the comments after the party, the brothers enjoyed it more than the children did.

Our congratulations are extended to Bob Redden who recently became engaged to Barbara Fooks.

Rho D's sterling five finally broke into the win column last Tuesday night with a close decision over Delta Tau Delta—30-21. Starring for the Apemen were Barry "Lady Killer" Seidel, Ralph "Gordon the Warden" Schwab, and Carl "Golden" Goldenberg.

Royal visitors were welcomed to the A. E. Palace last Saturday night as the brothers put on their first annual Harlem Party. Four beautiful dancing girls along with "Zeke" and the "Desert Song" provided the entertainment. Among the honored guests were Joel "Conn Kid" Sears, Lenny "It could be worse" Rosenbaum, and Larry "Is nothing sacred?" Cooperman. Hats off to the social committee for putting on one of the finest affairs of the year.

Seen at the house last week were former brothers Mal Silberman, Jerry Eisenman, Favel Chavin, and Corporal Joe Yucht.

See all you lucky ones at Women's Weekend?

Alpha Tau Omega

On Saturday, February 23, Epsilon Rho installed its new officers for the coming year. They are James F. Cranston, Worthy Master; Russell B. Myers, Worthy Chaplain; Richard Chappell, Worthy Keeper of Exchequer; Leonard M. Whann, Worthy Keeper of Annals; William A. Harkins, Worthy Scribe; Donald Renshaw, Worthy Usher; George W. Hammond, Worthy Sentinel; and Vandyke J. Pollitt, Palm Reporter. Jim, Russ, and Dick also held offices last year.

Congratulations to our new brothers, Bill Phillips, Al MacWright, and Bob Jamison, who were initiated on Saturday afternoon. Attending the ceremonies were Brothers William A. Mosher, head of the university Chemistry Department, and Roland M. Mills, alumnus, and past Worthy Master of this chapter.

Congratulations are also in order for Dick Hammond and Jim Scotton, who gave their last party as co-chairmen of the social committee, on Saturday night. Both men have done a wonderful job the past year, and all of us at the ATOMIC club appreciate their diligent work.

Women's Weekend is almost here! Who will be the lucky brothers?

Congratulations to Frank "I got Durante beat" Albers, who finally became an active after serving a lengthy pledgeship of nearly 3 years. Recently he pinned "Pidge" Barlow, who really deserves a dozen roses for such a patient wait.

Saturday night the brothers turned the house into a French tavern in order to entertain 35 or 40 lovely French girls. Ooh, la, la! The skit was presented by brothers Roseberry, Vallar, Gesell, Tunis, Hughes and Russo. Just off the boat were chorus girls Ritchie, Carmichael, Jester, Tunis, and Rowland.

Now running loose on our campus is Bill "I'm available" Kitchie, who received his pin in Monday's mail. He might offer competition to Frank "Yellow Socks" Hewlett, who is one of the best star gazers of the present day.

Delta Tau Delta

The house was honored last week with a visit from Hugh Shields, the national executive vice-president of Delta Tau Delta. He spent last Thursday at the Shelter and with our chapter advisor, Dean Shuster.

Wednesday night was the occasion of not one, but two pinning celebrations, when brothers Willis Hoch, and Bill McMasters announced the pinnings of Lucy Lasher and Rose Marie Grieg. Best wishes. Serenading promptly followed on South Campus and a few more adventuresome brothers ventured to Landenburg to serenade Rose Marie.

The brothers are looking forward to the annual Delt Founders Day banquet in Washington on March

7. It is always a great affair, with the Maryland and George Washington U. chapters participating also.

Tom "pin boy" Mulrooney is getting the bowling team in shape for the coming season. The team will be sparked by such able bowlers as Charlie Hann, George Gronde, Jack Phillips and Satch Howlett.

Kappa Alpha

On Friday night, the chapter had the great pleasure of extending a warm welcome to many of its former greats at the annual alumni smoker. A surprisingly large group made the affair led by Dick Armour, John Witherford, Carl Walbeck, and Fred Gause. The following night the K. A.'s expressed their good will by sending an invitation to all Theta Chi's to be our guests for a houseparty. A great contingent featuring Bill Butler, Peggy Mooney, John Williams, Pat Emmott, Tony Catola, and Janet Van Sant plus many other notables joined with the "old reliables" Dave Kirby, Jackie Ford, Walt Swenehart, Adlee Parks, Bob Davis and Sally Moore in making it one of the finer houseparties. It is a fond desire of the K.A.'s that the idea of interfraternity houseparties will gain more support in the future and we earnestly look forward to the time when we shall have the opportunity.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 34...THE FERRET

Descended from a long line of distinguished researchers, this studious scholar has burned too many gallons of midnight oil to gloss over a subject lightly. Especially such an important item as cigarette mildness. He burrowed into the matter with his usual resolution and concluded that a "quick puff" or a "fast sniff" doesn't offer much evidence. Millions of smokers agree there's but one true test of cigarette mildness.

It's the sensible test...the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

After all the Mildness Tests...

Last Saturday night a sizeable contingent of OX's journeyed to Pennsylvania to take part in the nuptial festivities of brother Rocco Carzo, Sr. Led by prexy Don Kiddoo, the boys had a real fine time. Among those present were "The Saint", "Back-Seat Charlie" Sullivan, Duke Bernardo and Ed Cunningham. Best wishes are extended for luck and happiness to Rocky, now in the Air Force, and his bride.

A lively party at the KA house, given jointly by the rebels and OX also attracted quite a few brothers. Tony Cotala, Bill Guerney and Bernie Janicki were part of the group who will testify to the fact Kappa Alpha knows how to throw a real blast.

Preparations are already under way for the big Bowery Brawl which is scheduled to come off on March 22. Pledges are forbidden to shave until this date. Harry Dunn seems to be setting the pace for the actives with a fine set of red chin whiskers.

Pi Kappa Alpha

The social pace accelerated at the house atop the hill on West Main Street last week. An impressive turnout for our house party, with the entire assemblage in a festive mood, lent itself to making the affair a roaring success. To revel with us, brother Frank Lane returned for a brief vacation from his U.S.A. duties. Frank is now in transit to California.

Also with us: Lt. Bill and "Mouse" Thomson, Burrell Crompton and fiancée Betty Pillow, Jim Cowan and Irene Toulson, Phil and Dorothy Taylor, Don Shannon and fiancée Jeanette Johnson, "Moose" Adams and Lyn Orlic, and many, many others.

May we take this occasion to thank our very fine chaperones Sgt. and Mrs. Evans, and Sgt. and Mrs. Maccerrone. We hope you enjoyed your evening with us as much as we enjoyed having you.

And may we also wish the very best of everything to Delaware's fairer half in the long awaited Women's Weekend. Good luck and have fun!

SIGMA NU

This past weekend saw the house really rolling at the pledges' annual house party. Led by Sigma Nu's new comedians, Nick Paxson and Charley Tjersland, the brothers had a gay time amidst the decorations, costumes, girls, etc. We salute our pledge class for its work in producing a very successful party.

Sigma Nu is proud to announce the pledging of Johnny Loomis. Welcome into the ranks of Delta Kappa Chapter, Johnny!

Keeping to tradition, the brothers invaded South campus Wednesday night to serenade Ruth Webb and Pat McCall Sigma Nu sweethearts of alumnus Dale Harrison and Bob Wilcox, respectively.

Many brothers including Charley Pressnell, Captain Charley Lloyd, Dick Goodley, George Comegys, George Ester, and Art Mayer, and pledges Marty Apostolico and Jack McDaniel, will be in the competition this weekend as Delaware enters a strong team in bid for the Middle Atlantic Swimming Championship. Don Rumer, Jerry Angelo, Tom Schultz, and Captain Paul Catts, helped to bring to a close the most successful wrestling season (6-1-1) in Delaware's history Saturday.

whole thing. The actor who played the part of the captain's son maintained his fever pitch of mysteriousness and intensity, with practically no shading, throughout the entire performance. A little contrast or a gradual building-up would have been a great improvement. Perhaps the above remarks are over-critical, however; the Pen Players are a polished group, their production was of a high calibre, and the play they chose was, in my opinion, overly difficult for a college organization.

Visiting Scholars

Primary Children to Read for Meaning."

Broening Presents Curriculum
Another special feature of the conference is the presentation for the first time of the New Curriculum in English by Dr. Angela Broening in an address to the Saturday Luncheon Meeting. Dr. Broening was co-director of the national committee which began work on the new curriculum in 1945. The culmination of six years of labor will be the public presentation of the new method.

The conference gets under way Friday afternoon with the General Registration in the lobby and the first general session on "The Role of the Teacher" in the auditorium of Mitchell Hall. Following this, the real work of the conference begins in earnest as the educators attend special discussion groups concerned with the primary, intermediate and secondary school levels of educational problems.

On Friday evening as they assemble for their second session, the educators will be extended the greetings of the University by President Perkins.

In addition to their other activities, the members of the conference will visit special educational exhibits in Wolf Hall from 4:45 Friday afternoon and from 11:30 to 12:00 Saturday morning.

The leadership of the visiting scholars will be amply supplemented by faculty members of the University. Among these are William O. Penrose, Dean of the School of Education, and Russell G. Stauffer, Director of the University's Reading Clinic. Senior students in Education will serve as some of the resource people in the discussion groups.

Participation in the conference, nevertheless, is not confined to educators and students of education, says Dr. Stauffer. All students of the University are invited to attend any of the discussion groups in which they are interested. Registration blanks and programs may be obtained by interested students either at the Reading Clinic or through the School of Education.
