AUDIENCE THRILLED BY FRIEDA HEMPEL

Noted Coloratura Soprano Sings Famous Jenny Lind Program

An audience that filled Mitchell Hall to the doors heard Miss Frieda Hempel in her Jenny Lind concert last Friday night in the second of this year's college hour program.

Most of those present were apparently agreed that Miss Hempel sang in excellent voice throughout the concert. The flexibility and scope of her famous coloratura soprano were fully evident in all the selections and won the enthusiastic applause of a warmly appreciative audience.

While scheduled to sing the famous Jenny Lind program exactly as it was executed by that famous soprano on her arrival in the United States, Miss Hempel made a few substitutions towards the latter part of the program, singing two old German songs which she later sang for a New York audience.

One of the most popular selections was the aria from "E. Puritani." Many declared that it was in this, more than in anything else Miss Hempel sang, that she showed her full command of diction and tone.

The Jenny Lind program was originally arranged with a number of more popular songs. Miss Hempel's execution of these took the audience by storm and she was recalled repeatedly for encores. "Coming Through the Rye" and "Dixie Land" were outstanding in this group.

"The Echo Song," made famous by Jenny Lind herself, also drew forth exceptionally enthusiastic response from the audience. In this song Miss Hempel accompanied herself on the piano, as did Jenny Lind, and sang the difficult calls to the oxen at the end.

The next college hour on October 28 will consist of a presentation by the Shakespeare Players of New York. Throughout its existence this group has elicited the hearty recommendations of leading critics and has attracted considerable attention throughout the country for its methods in producing Shakespeare's plays. "Julius Caesar" will probably be the one given here.

FOOTLIGHTS CLUB INDUCTS TWO MEN

Adams And Josephs Taken Into Alpha Psi Omega Thursday Night

On Thursday evening, October 16, the Alpha Psi Omega inducted two new members, Malcolm Adams and Al Josephs. The initiation was held in Mitchell Hall, after which several musical numbers were played on the new organ. Following the program at Mitchell Hall, the club adjourned to the De Luxe. With these new members, the Footlights Club is looking forward to a very successful year. Anyone interested in the club or in working on the play should see Stanley Salsburg or Paul Smith.

Rehearsals for "The Circle," which will be produced in Mitchell Hall, on November 7, are going forward with great rapidity. The first act has been rounded into shape and this week will be devoted to the second act. Every person in the cast is showing his, or her, experience with past plays, and the students of this campus are in for a surprise on the night of the play.

RUSHING SEASON NOW UNDER WAY

Frank Squillace Advises Freshmen About Fraternities; Social Functions Take Place

At a meeting of the Freshman class which was called by the Inter-Fraternity Council on Wednesday, October 15th, Frank Squillace, president of the Council, instructed the class in regard to rushing. The most important facts that were brought out by Squillace were:

1. That on Wednesday at noon, October 15, the rushing season for fraternities opens and Freshmen will be permitted to enter all the fraternity houses and that they are further advised to go to as many of the houses as possible.

2. That each house will have a house party on Saturday night, October 18, and Freshmen are also advised to go to as many of the parties as they can.

3. That each fraternity is allowed another rushing party in the form of a smoker, banquet or theatre party, to be held any time at all before Wednesday, the 22nd.

4. That on Wednesday, the 22nd, rushing season ends at noon and Freshmen will be required to turn in their choice of fraternity between the hours of one and five o'clock at the Dean's office. All that is necessary is for them to write on a slip of paper the following: "MY CHOICE OF FRATERNITY IS....." and the signature underneath this.

5. Freshmen are advised to make no definite decisions until they have been to all the houses and until the final time for handing in a bid arrives.
Squillace stressed each point clearly to the Freshmen and emphasized the importance of rushing season.

CHORAL SOCIETY HOLDS FIRST MEETING TONIGHT

This evening after the organ recital by Firmin Swinnen the Choral Society will have its first business meeting and rehearsal. One hundred and forty persons have signified their intention of joining the Choral Society and eighty have already had tryouts. There is still a need for persons with tenor voices, and anyone who can sing tenor is urged to tryout. Of the number from Delaware College who signed up for the Choral Society only a small percentage have reported for tryouts. It is believed that this unusual opportunity will receive more general response when its full nature and value is better understood by the student body.

SCHOLASTIC STANDINGS ISSUED; PHI KAPPA TAU HEADS FRATERNITIES

Seven Students Make Perfect Average; Seniors And Juniors Lead Classes; Entire Student Body Averages 1.33

Dean G. E. Dutton has announced the scholastic standing of students of Delaware College for the second term of the college year 1929-1930. The index numbers used in his report have the following significance: the number 3 denotes an average of A (the highest possible average); the number 2 denotes an average of B; the number 1 denotes an average of C.

The average scholastic standing of the entire student body of Delaware College for the second term was 1.33. The average for students from Delaware was 1.36; the average for out-of-state students was 1.23. Seventy-six students earned an average grade of B or better, and were consequently placed on the Honor Roll for the term. These students came from the following high schools and preparatory schools: Wilmington, 32; Delmar, 3; Friends, 3; Middletown, 3; Smyrna, 3; Georgetown, 2; Laurel, 2; New Castle, 2; Salesianum, 2; Seaford, 2; du Pont, 1; Lewes, 1; Milford, 1; Millsboro, 1; Newark, 1; Wesley Collegiate Institute, 1; Out-of-State, 16. Of these students thirty-six were in the School of Arts and Science; thirty-five were in the School of Engineering; and five were in the School of Agriculture. Twenty-four were Seniors; and twenty-six were Juniors; fourteen were Sophomores; twelve were Freshmen. Twenty-one per cent of the entire student body were on the Honor Roll. Of the students who entered college from Delaware high schools and preparatory schools, twenty-two per cent were on the Honor Roll; and of the students who entered from out-of-state high schools and preparatory schools, twenty per cent were on this roll.

The following named students were on the Honor Roll:

Six Men Credited With Touchdowns; Sloan And Green Tally Extra Points

ENTIRE BLUE AND GOLD SQUAD SEES ACTION

SLOAN FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

At a meeting of the Varsity team before the Gallaudet game last Saturday, Sam Sloan was unanimously elected captain for the entire season. He has been acting-captain for the previous two games. Sloan, although only a third-year man, has to his credit enough experience to prove himself a capable leader. As right end he is a double threat, being strong on the offensive as well as on the defensive.

CAMBRIDGE STUDENTS BET ON PASTORS

"Sunday Sermons Sweepstakes" Sidetrack Sleepy Sundays

Cambridge, England (IP)—The varied restrictions which tend to make life dull for Cambridge University students on Sundays no longer held any threat to the happiness of a large number of the undergraduates since the inauguration of the "Sunday Sermons Sweepstakes."

Unwittingly, the pastors of 12 local churches play the biggest part in the operation of this newest and strangest sporting event which has already become famous.

What it amounts to is betting on the length of the Sunday sermons of the pastors.

In the rooms of the organizers of the sweepstakes are charts showing the records of past performances by the devines, and their bets ranging from two shillings to ten shillings may be placed up to 11 o'clock every Sunday on any one of the day's preachers.

A group of official timers take their stop watches to the various churches with them, and keep careful track of the number of minutes over-time each pastor preaches. (Continued on Page 4)

BLUE-HEN-REVIEW COMBINATION PLANNED

The Publication Committee presented a new plan to the student body which will permit them to buy both the Blue Hen and the Review for six dollars. The amount may be divided on a half term basis; that is, the students may pay three dollars each semester. This plan has already met with unusual success by the two upper classes, the Juniors and the Seniors. The editor of the Blue Hen, Harold Plummer, has already selected his staff. The following men have been chosen: McCully, Chandler, Herb Townsend, M. L. Adams, Walker, McDowell, Rosenblatt, Burton, Ed. Conaway, and Fox. The final effort to find out whether the publication will be supported will be the issuing of ballots, which will be found in the mail boxes of each student. If favorable, the ballot should be signed and turned in immediately. The form of the ballot is as follows:

I do subscribe (joint subscription) to the "Blue Hen-Review." I (have or have not) subscribed to the "Review."

Delaware piled up a 38-0 score with Gallaudet, Saturday, before 2,500 spectators in Frazer Field. Most of the scoring was in the third period, except for a touchdown in the first and last quarters respectively. Delaware started, "Boo" White kicking off to the 40-yd. line. Branner ran the ball 7 yards during the next three plays. White punted to the 25-yd. line. Williams of Gallaudet received the kick and ran to the 35-yd. line where Sloan smeared him with a pretty tackle. Gallaudet was thrown for a loss on the next two rushes, and was forced to kick. Hahn caught the ball on the 30-yd. line and tore through a broken field to the 52-yd. line. After being held, White kicked but the wind carried the ball back to the 50-yd. line. Branner blocked a pass on Gallaudet's first play. On the three following plays the mutes just failed to make first down and since they didn't try to kick, Delaware received the pig-skin on the 40-yd. line. Kemake sprinted around left end for a 20-yd. gain. After several plunges, Hahn completed a pass to Kemake for first down. "Boo" White dashed through the line fifteen yards for a touchdown. The try for the extra point was fumbled. The first quarter ended after Gallaudet had kicked the ball over the goal-line. Starting the second quarter on the 20-yd. line, Branner and White each made first downs. The Blue and Gold losing ground on a rush and a lateral pass, White kicked from the 25-yd. line over the goal line. Gallaudet was forced to kick, the ball going out of bounds on the 30-yd. line. Delaware was held and Gallaudet received the ball there, but was thrown for a loss and kicked to Hahn who carried the oval from the 30 to the 45-yd. line. Branner and White then made first downs after which Gallaudet held the Blue and Gold for four downs, but were themselves held and forced to kick to mid-field as the half ended.

DELAWARE SUCCUMBS TO PENN SOCCER TEAM

Victors Take Early Start; Delaware Misses Excellent Chances

Last Wednesday Delaware lost its first soccer game to the University of Pennsylvania Jay-Vees by a 4-0 score, on River Field. Perhaps not quite up to the fight of the game, the Blue Hen booters allowed Penn to dribble right through our backfield and score three goals within the first five minutes of the game. Then the Chicks tightened up and took the ball up to Penn's backfield for the greatest part of the remainder of the game. Penn got another break in the first half and scored their fourth goal. Although Delaware missed enough goals in even up the score, they played a wonderful offensive game the entire second half. With more strength in the backfield, Delaware should make out much better with State Teachers' College in our only home game which is to be played Thursday afternoon on Frazer Field.

A WORD ABOUT THE "RUSHING SEASON"

Considering ourselves in a position to give valuable advice to certain Freshmen, we do not hesitate to do so. The matter concerned is the "rushing season" and its direct object,—fraternities. First of all we want to mention that we do not take an unfavorable stand toward the fraternity question; we honestly feel that a fraternity is the heart of college life,—scholastically and otherwise,—even though the non-fraternity students made a higher average than fraternity students.

Take heed, Freshman, and do not let some one sway your opinion by telling you just how pretty his fraternity's pin looks on your sweater. Remember that you can buy a sweater for a few dollars that will match any fraternity pin. Do not, above all things, believe everything that one fraternity group will tell you about another fraternity: that they owe more money than they can pay, that their dues are the highest on the campus, and that their social functions are below par. It's a lot of nonsense; try to use your own judgment and take to heart only those remarks which will be of benefit to you. Finally, do not rely on too many promises that you will be a Druid, Blue Key, and Derelict, let alone a two or three-letter man, class officer, and member of the Student Council. There aren't enough positions to go around.

Decide what group of fellows you would like to live with for four years. One house is almost as pretty as another. The thing that should count in your final choice is what is in the fraternity house,—(not meaning furniture)—and not the house itself.

THE SIXTH EDITION OF "DELAWARE NOTES"

We were proud to announce, last week, the publication of the sixth edition of "Delaware Notes." Proud, naturally, because we were able to advertise our faculty,—not as being young and inexperienced.

According to the articles written therein, we confess,—not sadly,—that we have exceptionally well-read tutors at the University of Delaware. Being especially capable in specific fields, these professors prepared papers on matters relative to their courses. The articles, besides being interesting, were practical, and the authors certainly deserve more credit than a mere honorable mention.

The book covers the major fields of learning at the College. The Agricultural Department is taken care of by research work resulting in a contribution entitled "The Extraction of Pectin from Pectic Materials." The Arts and Science Department is represented by a historical paper on "The Delaware Constitution of 1776," and two articles from the Economics Department: "Myths and Measurements of Racial Superiority," and "The Industrial Revolution and the Reform Bill of 1832." Reproductions of the addresses delivered at the dedication of Evans Hall cover the work of the Engineering Department.

Such excellent work should be an inspiration to the undergraduates. Perhaps it would be a valuable and practical book that contained the final works of students well-versed in their respective departments. Merely a hint; but if an undergraduate is willing to make sacrifices as did Dr. Crooks, there might be a "Delaware Notes" by the students as well as one by the faculty.

Deep Water

Someone asked me the other afternoon what my intentions were in writing a column of the sea, whether I was endeavoring to give impressions of a sailor's life or whether I was trying to give the actual events occurring in a sailor's life. May I answer yes to both questions? Since true impressions cannot be made without actuality, may I add that both are necessary in such a column?

Mr. James C—, who describes himself as being a "deep water sailor," and as one who had read with astonishment my portrayals of sea-life, wrote me from down state, where he had chance to see a copy of The Review in the home of a student, that he disagreed with my assertion that sailors are never romantic, never noble, never anything but bums and derelicts. Instead, said Mr. C—, the average sailor takes love and women as he finds them, for good or for bad. May I present two poems in support of my assertion? The first comes from the lips of brawny, keen-eyed hands before the mast, let us say. . . .

"Oh! A-roamin' we must go,
A-roamin' we must go,
With never a thought for the weather,
But a smoking pipe and nought's better,
With many a gal in many a port
But my love to her forever!"

"Oh! A-sailin' we must go,
A-sailin' we must go,
The trade wind's out 'o the west,
The lookout's lashed to the nest,
But a stormy sea can't frighten me—
A white-capped sea's the best!"

"Oh! A-searchin' we must go,
A-searchin' we must go!
Though weary hearts be lonely,
And homesick soul be lonely,
We'll chant a song while we roll along—
She's waitin' for me only!"

Thus does the brawny, keen-eyed hand before the mast search for his true love. Often he finds her, only to be deceived and disillusioned. Often he is happy and confident of the future, but not always. There is still the element of danger and distrust, for love never flourished in abstentio. It is a tender flower, needing much attention and care. Hence it is that in the heart of every sailor there is a vague feeling of unrest, of uncertainty, a groping for the perfect, which is never found. Another poem, say from the lips of an officer, will bear this out:

"I've a call from the sea, and a whispering voice
That haunts me and draws me from shore;
To a place where silvery beaches gleam
And a golden-hued bird guards the door
Of a tropical palace, a haven of rest,
Where cockatoos love in the trees,
Where a maid dressed in yellow faces the west
With her hand to her brow, toward the seas.

"To this tropical palace, this haven of rest
Where dreams are the end of the world,
I'll travel the road leading out of the west
To the land of my heart, and the girl.
There, on the beach, 'neath the sweet-scented palms,
We'll live 'till our time comes to die.
With her lips close to mine we'll enter the calms
Of our harbor of love, in the sky."

So it is with love on the high seas. If Mr. James C— happens to read this, will he kindly tell me his reaction?

It's a grave problem choosing a college. One can't be sure whether a big university or a small college will make a boy's father the wiser.

Lifeguard (with girl in arms)—Sir, I have just resuscitated your daughter.

Father—Then, by gad, you'll marry her!—Penn. Punch Bowl.

OF LOVE

This week, among other things, I fell in love. That in itself probably has no direct bearing on our several cosmogonies; but I mention the fact to show how hopelessly broadminded I am.

Intolerance, in many respects, is a gift to be compared with seven league boots or an invisible cloak, particularly for those whose business it is to have many things to fight about from day to day. It is not hard to fight; but it certainly is hard for a reasonably intelligent person to have sizeable points at issue, for knowledge relentlessly reconciles all things.

But of love: The girl is married. That fact has even less significance, although it automatically implies caution and reminds me that I am peculiarly adapted for getting myself disagreeably embroiled in family affairs. Yet I certainly profit! The fact is, I can not in all the stretch of my misspent youth find anything else that will serve to sharpen my wits.

I would like to forget to add that this girl very probably counts me as one whose chief function is to constitute a unit of population. And here I profit even greater; I grow viciously morbid for brief but effectual periods, and I value highly anything that stirs my spiritual bog.

Strangely enough I am given to drawing moral conclusions from everything that happens to me. Every unit that goes to form the content of the physical world seems to infer something essentially didactic, from circular skirts to slide rules. The same goes for non-physical world, except that the process is more acute.

Thus I have come to the more or less interesting conclusion that to fall in love is a moral obligation. Moral, I said! Nor do I refer to the theoretical duty of the individual to propagate the species. That, I think, is a matter of taste, like Roquefort cheese; if you think it interesting to have children, go to it. But don't try to tell me you're doing the world a favor.

What I mean is this: That, since we're here, it is fundamentally our duty to make the most of it; and making the most of it includes developing ourselves to the full in every possible direction, particularly in the matter of esthetic potentialities. I cannot, for the worthless life of me, see how anyone can possibly lay claim to substantial sanity or even mere prescience who has not succeeded in falling in love. How can one say he appreciates the sense of taste who has never tasted sweetness, and how can one say he savors life who has not been able to feel the sensation of love?

There is no more pathetic and no more dangerous ignorance in high places than that of the touchstone philosopher one meets frequently who dismisses our love affairs lightly and ascribes them to the usual vagaries of youth.

Foolishness! Is it possible that love in any form whatever can be foolishness? If there is a girl,—and doubtless there is—who seems to be the essence of all creation and has an appropriate reaction on the suprarenal glands, let no man tell you of how you will grow older and wiser and of how now you are merely "passing through a stage." I cannot deny that you will grow older. "Tis true 'tis pity, and pity 'tis true!" But wiser? No. To be intellectually superior to love is something for which you had better not hope. . . .

I am not straining to emulate Havelock Ellis. But there are times when inexperience is wiser than experience. And here I speak with the advantage of inexperience. I am convinced that man is truly himself only as he has been modified in his contact with women. You can be assured on biological grounds, if nothing else, that there will be no time in your life when this modification process will be more painfully and delightfully effective than right now.

And then it is eminently desirable to acquire as early as possible some facility in the art of associating oneself with women. Personally, I need an extension course, or something. But here one must make some concession to experience. This is being written in the De Luxe Candy Shoppe, Ltd., the very stamping ground of D. Cupid. The University, I think, would do well to recognize the place, even with all the embellishments, as one of its most valuable classrooms wherein is offered the elective course L 1 or L 91, as the case may be.

But seriously, you may thank the Young Lady for this: She is doing you much more good, very much more, than any professor you ever saw.

INDIANS POW-WOW: THEN LOSE GAME

Lawrence, Kans. (IP)—The beat of tom-toms and chanting of braves echoed over the campus of Haskell Institute here as more than 1,000 Indians, attending a nation-wide pow-wow incident to the game between Haskell and the University of Kansas, participated in the war dance of their forefathers.

The spectacle was held in the athletic stadium of the government's Indian School. The braves tramped across the chalk lines of the institution's football field, the modern battle ground of Indian youths.

Following the dances the Indians participated in a colorful pageant depicting the history of a number of Indian tribes.

The next night, a band of present-day Indian warriors, Haskell's football team, went on the war path against the University of Kansas eleven, and lost by a score of 33 to 7.

It was the first meeting of the two teams in 10 years. The pow-wow, called in celebration of the resumption of athletic relations between the two schools, was intended at first only for graduates and students of Haskell. It was nation-wide, however, when Indians from all parts of the country announced they would attend.

According to a statement issued by Ed Bardo, the Department of Physical Education is ready to start Jay Vee and intra-mural sports. All those interested are advised to report to the Gym the early part of the week, as equipment will be issued and a league will be formed.

In addition, your honor, I had just answered three Federal questionnaires. Then this bird comes along and wants to take moving pictures of my cheese. It was more than I could stand—I patted him in the

COLLEGE MEN ENTERING
FIELD OF AVIATION

College education is becoming an increasingly important asset in commercial aviation, and the man who has preceded his aeronautical training with a year or more of college now stands a greater chance of success in the field. That is the belief of T. Lee, Manager of the Boeing School of Aeronautics, Oakland, Calif., one of the nation's largest accredited flying schools.

W. E. Boeing, founder and chairman of the Board of the various Boeing aeronautical enterprises, last year offered scholarships having a cash value of $7100 at the Boeing School of Aeronautics. Scholarships were offered to undergraduates of approved American colleges and universities. Winners of the 1930 scholarships were: Ralph J. Moore, Stanford University; Lloyd H. Speelman, Mount Union College; Charles W. Sharp, University of Nebraska; R. M. Harris, University of Washington.

"Aviation is an industry, not a stunt or a game," Lee stated recently, in addressing an assembly of college instructors at San Francisco. "There is no short cut to success in the industry; training is essential."

"The progressive aviation executive, pilot or mechanic must look on his technical training in terms of time and expense, in the same manner that he would consider training for any expense, in the same manner that he would consider training for any other profession."

"Since the recent stabilization of the aviation industry, men who have college education as well as technical training are stepping into positions of considerable responsibility."

Of the graduates and students of the Master Pilot and Mechanic courses at the Boeing School of Aeronautics, 70 per cent are men with one or more years of college education.

Lee said that aeronautical training was becoming systematized to a degree comparable with that for engineering, law or other professions. Among the ground school courses offered with the flight training at the Boeing School are airplane fabrication, engines, radio telephony, air law, aviation, meteorology, mathematics, aerodynamics, drafting and design and business methods.

The Boeing School of Aeronautics is operated under the sponsorship of Boeing System, flying air mail, passengers and express over the Chicago-Oakland-San Francisco and the San Diego-Seattle airways.

St. Louis (IP)—Plant life was speeded up and literally turned upside down in a small experimental garden when student botanists here made plants grow upside down and mature in half the usual time.

By the aid of chemicals, ultraviolet rays and other means the plants were made to lose their sense of gravity and sprout their roots above the ground while others grew during the night under the treatment of the students.

COLLEGE HOUR ARTIST

No top-notch boxer trains more assiduously for a fight than does Frieda Hempel, the Jenny Lind of today, for a concert.

"To gain and retain one's place in the musical field one must first of all be temperate in all things," asserts Madam Hempel. She outlines her daily activities as follows:

Arises at 7:30 o'clock (sometimes a little later.)
Takes hot, then cold baths.
Eats light breakfast, then goes for 30 minute walk.
Rests, and does a little reading and writing till luncheon.
Rests again for a short time before practicing. Divides practice into three half-hour sessions.
Has tea, plays golf, rides horseback or shops till 6 o'clock.
Takes dinner at 7 o'clock. Attends concerts in evening, but goes to bed early enough for eight hours of sleep.

MEXICANS LOSE NO TIME

Washington (IP)—Scarcely had the Spaniards conquered Mexico when they began to erect a university, according to an article written in "The Pan-American Magazine," by C. E. Castaneda.

Permission was received from Charles V in 1551 for the establishment of the Royal and Pontifical University in Mexico. The university was officially opened two years later with a regular faculty and a small group of students.

For some time there has been a question, the author says, as to whether Peru or Mexico had the first university, but the evidence points in favor of Mexico.

The Mexican institution has remained in operation constantly from the time of its founding to the present day, and many of the leaders of the Mexican government and private life have been its graduates.

INDIAN ATHLETE

AT HASKELL

Lawrence, Kans. (IP)—For the first time since the days of Jim Thorpe, an Indian, Wilson Charles, 22-year-old Oneida, has given credence to the traditional athletic prowess of the Redskins.

"Buster," as Charles is known on the Haskell Institute campus, won by 250 yards the 1,500 meter event of the decathlon at the A. A. U. meet in Pittsburgh. In this event he defeated the fast Jim Stewart, University of Southern California athlete.

In the 10-event competition, Charles relies chiefly on his running ability. He is also a star football, basketball and baseball player at Haskell.

Only Our Opinion

THE DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Ed Bardo for the work he is doing in developing—or should we say establishing?—a real department of physical education.

The old system was deplorable. Grades were given in the course it is true, but based on what? Merely on the number of times one cut the course. Although three cuts were allowed in the course, according to the faculty ruling on cuts, each one taken reduced the student's mark one full grade. That is, perfect attendance insured the student of a grade of A; one cut reduced his grade to B, and so on.

Now, at last, this method of judging one's ability in the physical education course is gone. In its place has been established something which is really of importance and value to the students. The Freshmen will probably not agree now, but they will when they mature enough to recognize the benefits to be derived.

There is another very important aspect to the matter and it was brought out by Lt. Jolls in his speech at the pep-fest before the George Washington game. The high schools in the State of Delaware, with a few exceptions, have very poor physical education courses, or, in some cases, none at all. The State school officials are beginning to see the seriousness of this defect. They realize that they are "behind the times." Therefore the readjustment is under way. Only last year there were eight jobs in Delaware high schools open to graduates of this University who were trained in physical education. And not one man here was qualified for any of the positions.

Thus we should recognize that the present movement here is to prepare men for such opportunities. We hope that in a few years this school will have a physical education course worthy of that name. Mr. Bardo has undertaken a difficult but worthy enterprise.

singing the "Alma Mater" the Freshmen formed a large circle and gave the "Oh-Allah" yell. They also formed a line on each side of the team as Delaware's team re-entered the field, this time clad entirely in gold jerseys that they might be more easily distinguished from Gallaudet men who had blue jerseys.

White kicked off to Gallaudet on their 40-yd. line. They were held, being forced to kick against the wind so as to gain only 10 yards on the punt. The Mutes held Delaware who in turn kicked. The Mutes, after getting the ball on the 30-yd. line and failing to gain on plunges, tried a forward which Haggerty intercepted. A rush gained 5 yards, bringing the ball to the 30-yd. line. Here "Doggy" Hahn heaved a long forward to Sam Sloan who was stopped on the 3-yd. line. A mighty rush carried the ball to the one-yard line on which Delaware was held until fourth down when Branner dug his way through the line for a score. A pass, Hahn to Sloan, brought the score up to 19-0.

White kicked to the 25-yd. line, where the Mutes were held until they punted against the wind without gain. The Blue and Gold rushed the ball for first down in three plays. Hahn passed a neat forward to Donoghue which netted another touchdown, raising the score to 19-0. The kick failed.

"Boo" White kicked off again, Gallaudet receiving the punt on the 30-yd. line only to be forced to punt. Hahn grabbed the ball and ran ten yards from the 30-yd. line. Hahn passed a lateral to Haney who fumbled. Fortunately the pigskin bounced so that he regained it and tore around right end for a fourth touchdown. A pass Hahn to Branner, was grounded. Score, 25-0.

Temple, Gallaudet's halfback, kicked off for them. Craig ran the ball from the 20 to 30-yd. line, where Delaware gained but little. Hahn kicked a long, high one to their 30-yd. line, where the Mutes were smeared for a loss, and their kick blocked. "Stretch" Pohl grabbed the ball and dashed over the last white line increasing the score to a 31-0 lead. The try for extra point failed.

The last quarter started with the Delaware's second team men entirely substituted for the first stringers. After several kicks back and forth and several minutes of mid-field scrimmage a long pass, Green to Meyers, netted a touchdown. Green scored the extra point, completely overwhelming the Mutes by 38-0.

During the remaining half of the last quarter every man on the second and third team were substituted. While no spectacular gains were made, the scrubs were gradually forcing Gallaudet down the field as the final whistle blew. Gallaudet played a mighty good game considering their handicaps and much lighter weight. In fact they were entirely outclassed by our gridders.

The second team did not start, although there were rumors that such an event took place. There were only three changes from previous varsity line-ups: Donoghue at left end; Raskin at left guard, and Branner at halfback. The line-up:

Delaware	Gallaudet
Donoghue . . . L.E. . . . Monaghan

KAPPA ALPHA

Kappa Alpha enjoyed another house party Saturday night in their newly refinished home. The music was furnished by four members of brother George Madden's band with harmony by Dick Long and Ross Ford, the K. A. Duo, during intermission. Dick and Ross are well known to radio fans for their snappy songs. The floor was well filled throughout the evening. Ice cream and cake were served as refreshments along with cider, which was on tap all evening.

The patronesses were Mrs. Eastman, Mrs. Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Townshend, Mr. and Mrs. Rees, and Mr. DuBois.

SIGMA NU

The chapter entertained royally the past week. Wednesday a smoker was held for the Freshmen and many of the alumni, eats, music, and entertainment abounding. Saturday was crowded full, climaxed by a real Sigma Nu House Party. Music was furnished by Steuber and his Band.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

A smoker was given by the chapter on Wednesday evening, followed by a house dance on Saturday night, both affairs being well attended. The final smoker of the rushing season will be held at the Chapter House this evening.

THETA CHI

Last Saturday night the Theta Chi Fraternity held their annual Rushing Season House Party. It was one of the peppiest affairs ever held at the house, due to the tireless efforts of our social committee. The rooms, decorated with appropriate Halloween effects and a fire in the grate, gave the place a very "homey" atmosphere.

CHICAGO FRESHMEN TO STUDY CLASSICS

Twenty selected University of Chicago freshmen, half co-eds and half men, will begin a two-year study this year of 200 classics of literature, ranging from Homer to Freud. They will be taught by President Robert M. Hutchins and Dr. Mortimer Adler, associate professor of philosophy.

The first ten authors selected, for study during the first quarter this year, are Homer, the Bible, Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, Heroditus, Thucydides, Aristophanes, Plato, and Aristotle.

Considerable latitude will be allowed the students in the books by these authors which they wish to select.

MAYBE THEY DON'T NEED IT!

"No practice until further notice—hit the books," is a sign recently posted on the training room door of the University of Wisconsin football squad by Coach Walter T. Meanwell, who seldom loses a member of his team through low grades on their art.

novelties were passed among the dancers, making the rooms look like a cross between a gigantic spider web and a miniature snow storm. This, combined with the good music supplied by Emil Tessen's orchestra, made the party a very gay affair. If a crowded house is proof of a good time, everyone certainly enjoyed himself.

The patronesses for the evening were Mrs. Houghton and Miss MacDougle.

PHI KAPPA TAU

The smoker Thursday night was a grand success. The brothers were very much pleased with the large attendance and the interest shown by the Freshmen. The Kennett Song Birds, with the help of Brother Givan, furnished song and music that proved an enchantment. Pretzels were abundant and the cider keg had a good flow.

On Saturday the scene was a most enjoyable house party, the music being furnished by Bob Cummings. Halloween decorations enlivened the atmosphere. Punch was served. Card tables and a bushel of apples furnished entertainment for the guests who did not bring a partner.

SIGMA TAU PHI

Sigma Tau Phi held its annual Rushing House Party last Saturday night. It was a gala event, attended by alumni, active men, members of the Freshman class, and visitors from the Pennsylvania, Dickinson, Penn State, and Temple chapters.

The House was recently renovated and especially decorated for the affair in school and fraternity colors. A novelty program was presented by Miss Irene Howard, lately of the Dux Café, New York. The Brownies furnished music for dancing. Refreshments were served.

HARPER'S ANNOUNCE POETRY CONTEST

A new anthology of American college verse will be published in May 1931 by Harper and Brothers, it has been recently announced by the publishers. The book will consist solely of poetry written by students attending college during the 1930-31 college year. It will be edited by Miss Jessie C. Rehder, Randolph-Macon '29 and Columbia University '30.

All students, either undergraduate or graduate, attending any college during the current year, are invited to submit poems for inclusion in the anthology. The verse will be selected for publication solely upon their literary merit, it was announced. If the venture is a success it is expected that it may become an annual affair.

The verses may be written upon any subject, but must be limited to fifty lines or less. Students wishing to make contributions should mail their manuscripts to Anthology of College Verse, c/o E. F. Saxton, Harper & Bros., 49 East 33 Street, New York City, or to the Editor of The Review. All contributions must be in the publishers' hands by December 10, 1930.

"HERM" WALKER INJURED

Due to a kick received in the Delaware-George Washington game, Herman Walker, Varsity guard, is in the Homeopathic Hospital suffering from internal injuries. Despite newspaper rumors that he will be out for the rest of the season, "Herm" expects to be out of the hospital in a few days, let alone his higher aspirations to be back on the line in the Swarthmore game. Here's hoping that Walker sees action again this season.
