Challenge Of Future, Keynote
For C. of C. Banquet Speaker

Paul Blasedell, Director Of Insurance Information Institute Addresses Annual Meeting; Bissell, Meade, Swendsen, Tracy Named To Board; Senior Center Cited

The challenge of the future with its unprecedented human population expansion was stressed by Paul Blasedell, director of industrial relations for the Insurance Information Institute, as guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce last Tuesday night in the Aetna Fire Hall on Ogletown Road. Blasedell cited the "megalopolis from Portland to Richmond" with its ever increasing population and complexity, and the need for individual and concerted planning and action to provide progress.

Vice-President

John L. Murray

"To do nothing is to invite destruction," he warned.

Concerning rising automobile insurance costs, Blasedell deplored the high accident rate with "1965 was the worst year in history with a $10 billion economic loss." He added that with insurance, as in all business, when a firm is "powerless to reduce the cost, it must reluctantly increase price."

"Most of the people in the world want the same things—peace and prosperity," he said, citing his impressions of the Soviet Union after a trip abroad last summer. There was no evident antagonism towards Americans; Russian smiles were a rarity; and the personality of the people was "as drab as their streets and homes," and "you can buy anything if you have the rubles," he said.

Language Barrier

"There is no chance of compatibility with normal channels of communication," Blasedell said, citing the language barrier as a major problem in American-Russian understanding.

Four directors were elected for three-year terms—Harry Bissell of Howard Johnson's in Newark; Harold J. Meade, Wilmington Trust Co.; Harold M. Swendsen, Newark Lumber; and Worth Tracy, Budd Co.

President Silas W. Pettit conducted the meeting, and George M. Worrlow was toastmaster.

Mayor Joseph A. Shields congratulated the chamber for its progress and for work conducted for the benefit of the city, and Ross Anderson, executive vice-president of the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce, stressed the need of businessmen for an active chamber, and the organization's dependence upon active membership.

Peggy Cronin Alden, president of the Newark Soroptimist Club, discussed the Soroptimist-sponsored, Newark Senior Center, and requested community support of this project for senior citizens. The center is located in the former waterworks building provided by the city on East Main Street for recreational use by older residents.

F. Racine Stafford was chairman of the banquet committee which included Robert Rowlands, Walter Mitchell, Frank Stanitski, Harold Meade, and Granville Smith.

Opening of the banquet was by the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce, which is a non-profit organization for the purpose of promoting the economic and social progress of the city.

Local Post Office Picketed By Group Of 7 UD Students

The Newark Post Office was picketed for an hour last Sunday by seven University of Delaware students protesting the Jan. 4 killing of a Tuskegee Institute student civil rights worker.

The students protested the killing of Samuel Young Jr., a Negro rights worker, and the Georgia House of Representatives' refusal to seat Julian Bond as an elected Negro legislator.

Participants in the brief demonstration said they picketed the post office because it is the only federal building in Newark.

The picketing lasted from 1 to 2 p.m. "I think that we didn't get more of a crowd because of the pressures of final exams and late semester work," said Jeffrey Steen, a freshman at the university and organizer of the protest.

Youth Conference
On Traffic Safety
Slated On Campus

Teen-Agers To Meet Here At Student Center, Weigh Driving Habits, Program

The Delaware Safety Council announced today that Delaware's annual youth conference on traffic safety will be held on Wednesday, March 23, at the University of Delaware.

The planning committee of teen-agers representing Delaware high schools has met on three occasions at the university Student Center to plan for this conference.

Chairman of the committee is Martha Schuler of P. S. DuPont High School, with Vice-Chairman Walter Gebhart of Friends School. Other youths on the planning committee are Bill Witham, Dover High School; Pat Veen, Christiana High; Don Goclum, DelaWare; Sue Stuart, Brandywine; and Donna Emory and Mark Jones, Seaford High School.

The committee has chosen the following discussion topics: value and harm of dragstrips; motor-scooters; licensing; image of the teen-age driver; driver education in the schools; and safety devices in cars.

Principal adult keynoteers chosen by the committee are Fred Agabashian, Indianapolis Speedway driver; and Samuel McKay, former safety director of the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania and Delaware, who will speak at the conference.

Former U. D. Prof
Dies In Michigan

Former professor of history and political science at the University of Delaware, Dr. Marshall M. Knappen, 65, was found dead at his home in Kalamazoo, Mich., last Monday.

Knappen left a note saying he was taking his life because he was suffering from Parkinson's disease, police said.

A member of the faculty of Western Michigan University, Knappen retired from the University of Delaware last January. He had held the position of H. Fletcher Brown professor of history and political science for five years after serving as visiting professor for two years.

Born in Sioux Falls, S. D., he attended South Dakota State College and graduated from the College of Wooster (Ohio) in 1921. A Rhodes scholar, he received BA and MA degrees from Oxford and returned to the United States to earn an MA degree in theology at Princeton Seminary, and a PhD from Cornell.

He served as pastor of the First Congregational Church in Redfield, S. D., and held teaching positions at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and the University of Chicago.

During World War II he was chief of religious affairs for the Office of Military Government for Germany. His publications include four books dealing with international relations and history.

He died of a heart attack while on a lecture tour of the Midwest.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. M. M. Knappen, and two sons, Dr. Marshall M. Knappen Jr., and Dr. William M. Knappen.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church, 292 West Main Street, Newark.

Interment will be in the Delaware State Cemetery, Newark.

He was a member of the Delaware Historical Society and the Delaware State Historical Society.

He was a member of the Delaware State Bar Association and the Delaware State Teachers Association.

He was a member of the Delaware State Music Association and the Delaware State Art Association.

He was a member of the Delaware State Chess Association and the Delaware State Golf Association.

He was a member of the Delaware State Fishing Association and the Delaware State Hunting Association.

He was a member of the Delaware State Boating Association and the Delaware State Camping Association.

He was a member of the Delaware State Skiing Association and the Delaware State Snowmobiling Association.

He was a member of the Delaware State Ice Skating Association and the Delaware State Figure Skating Association.

He was a member of the Delaware State Roller Skating Association and the Delaware State Figure Skating Association.

Christiana High Senior Lecture Course
Cited Success For College-Bound Pupils

A new course for college-bound seniors at Christiana High School has just completed a very successful first semester, according to Principal Gilmore B. Ott.

The Senior Lecture Course was planned by seven faculty members representing the English, physics, and social studies departments, the vice-principal, and a guidance counselor.

The committee was formed when research revealed that recent graduates from Christiana High felt that upon entering college for the first time they were bewildered by large lecture-type classes and were lost in actual note-taking and study procedures.

With this problem in mind, the committee with Edwin D. Stowell, chairman, set about organizing a lecture series under faculty sponsorship.

First, an introductory series was conducted by three members of the committee at Christiana.

Letters and telephone calls followed, inviting key people from the Newark school district, the University of Delaware, and industrial and scientific organizations from Newark and Wilmington, to take part in the series.

The senior lecture became a half-credit course, meeting three times a week, with curriculum in three areas — humanities, social, and physical sciences.

Speakers at the senior lectures have included Principal Gilmore B. Ott with "History of Education," Dr. Daniel Casey of the University of Delaware, on "Relationship of the Classics to the Humanities," Dr. E. H. Rosenberry, University of Delaware, on "Poetry," Harriet Bailey, former head of the art and art history department at the university, with "Art and the Humanities," Dr. Charles Adair of the university on "What Is a Social Scientist?" and Dr. Claude Foster of the Tatnall School with "Purpose and Meaning of History."

Dr. G. Gorham Lane of the University of Delaware staff will speak next Tuesday on "What Is Psychology?"

Tape recordings were made of each of these lectures, and small group discussions are held with the students and committee in which students point up key ideas presented by the speaker.

Testing by written composition is used to evaluate results, although no attempt at grading other than satisfactory or unsatisfactory is used with the senior lecture course.

Bus Trip To Art Museum Planned By Newark YWCA

Mrs. Edward Ginter, chairman of the Alice P. Smyth Center Newark YWCA, announces that registrations are being taken for the bus trip to the Philadelphia Museum of Art on Monday, Jan. 31. The bus will leave the YWCA Center at 318 South College Avenue at 8:30 a.m., returning about 4 p.m.

In the morning, there will be a guided tour of the Arensberg Collection of 20th Century paintings and sculpture, and in the afternoon, Mrs. Wilcox, the former Mae Maffeo, will conduct a tour of another art collection.

"We plan to have lunch at the museum cafeteria, and reservations should be in by Jan. 24," Mrs. Ginter said.

Public Relations Chief

Philip A. Toman

Toman Selected For 2-Man Team To Discuss P-R

Assistant to the superintendent for information services in the Newark school district, Philip A. Toman will join Dr. Wilmer E. Wise, state director of research and publications, as a two-man team for presentation of "The Importance of a Sound, Continuing Public Relations Operation to Every School System," at a meeting of the Delaware School Boards Association next Thursday evening in Central Junior High School.

Wise and Toman will present general guide lines for a public information program, and illustrate them with examples of what the Newark school district has been doing in this respect.

The program will be repeated in Frederica on Thursday evening, Feb. 3, for the benefit of down-state school boards.

Slated For Japan

BILOXI, Miss. — Airman Third Class Grover K. Eggleston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel B. Eggleston, Jr., 1001 Capitol Trail, Newark, has graduated at Keesler AFB, Miss., from the training course for U. S. Air Force air traffic controllers.

Airman Eggleston, a graduate of Christiana High School, is being re-assigned to an Air Force unit in Japan for duty.

Gay Ghosts Feature Noel Coward Comedy To Be Presented Feb. 10 Thru 12 By UDG

"Blithe Spirit," which the University Drama Group, Newark's community theatre, will present Feb. 10-12, is a ghost story. But all ghosts are not sombre ghosts; they can be gay, enchanting, delightful, and amusing.

"Blithe Spirit" is the imaginative creation of Playwright Noel Coward about the dearly departed — with complications. These result in a very funny ghost story. Nothing ever happened quite like the happenings in "Blithe Spirit" — or has it?

The play presents the story of a successful novelist who enlists the services of a spirit medium to help him conjure up interesting copy for a new novel. The medium, Madame Arcati, conjures indeed. Unintentionally she brings back the ghost of the novelist's first wife—but for only him and the audience to see.

417 Fire Alarms
Received By Aetna
During Past Year

Ambulances Travel 33,325 Miles With 1,314 Trips; City Fire Loss $59,136

The Aetna Hose, Hook & Ladder Co. reports 417 alarms received by local volunteer firemen during the past year, with 19,438 men in service, and Aetna fire-fighting equipment traveling 2,351 miles.

Alarms included 153 within the city; 227 in the rural area; 34 calls from other communities for assistance; and three false alarms.

Fire loss within the city was estimated at $59,136, and at $69,750 in the rural area.

The Aetna rescue truck made 142 trips in 1965, with 463 men in service traveling 817 miles.

Aetna ambulances made 1,314 trips during the year with 3,264 men in service, while the vehicles traveled a total of 32,325 miles.

Types of fires attended by Aetna-men during the year included 97 dwellings; 151 wood and field fires; 28 mercantile establishments; 83 automobiles; and three barns.

Eight Pupils Hurt
Enroute To School
In Bus Accidents

Eight Newark public school pupils were injured slightly last Tuesday morning in accidents involving two buses on the way to school.

According to state police, Bus No. 27 from Harmony Hills was hit by a truck at the intersection of Catalina and Dursio drives. The bus was driven by James Clower of Newark.

Seven junior high school pupils were treated for minor injuries by the school nurse, police said.

Meanwhile, a motorist turned his car in front of Bus No. 31 near the bus loading zone at Christiana Junior-Senior high schools.

Bus driver Robert Younger of near Newark, slammed on the brakes to avoid a collision, and an elementary school pupil was thrown against the back of a seat. She suffered bruises, police said and although her glasses were broken, the lens remained intact.

Class Scheduling
For Coming Year
Already Underway

"Many parents are surprised to learn," Newark High School Vice-Principal Edmund A. Anderson, Jr., said yesterday, "that plans for scheduling classes in September generally get underway in October of the year before and that the scheduling process itself is well along by December."

Scheduling is important in the modern school system because it is through this scheduling that the student will meet or not meet requirements for admission to college, technical and vocational schools, and nursing training.

It is only with the proper scheduling of courses that the student can take advantage of the tremendous educational opportunities offered him in the Newark special school district," Anderson said.

This year, Anderson has designed a new type of module scheduling board to facilitate the process at Newark High School. This board, combined with individual counseling and the latest in data processing equipment, enables the children of Newark to obtain maximum return on educational investment.

Cropland Adjustment Plan Sign-ups To Begin Monday

Sign-up for the long-term Cropland Adjustment Program will begin next Monday at the New Castle ASCS Office in the Grange Shopping Center, Route 301, Middletown.

Harry G. Deputy, chairman of the New Castle ASCS committee, announces that sign-up will be on a first-come-first-serve basis.

Farmers will first file a request for agreement. These requests will be reviewed by the county committee and either accepted or rejected.

Farmers whose requests are accepted, will complete a cropland adjustment agreement.

Course On Stock Market Slated To Begin Feb. 17

As part of its continuing education program, the University of Delaware is offering a course in the stock market for the spring semester.

Teaching the investments course will be Dr. Irving C. Koron of Wilmington. The class will meet at P.S. duPont High School for two weeks starting Thursday, Feb. 17, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The course is designed to provide persons with little or no experience, in investments with a better understanding of the stock market.

Registration forms are available by writing to the university extension division, Newark.

Two Newark area residents were elected recently as officers for Nur Temple Shriner.

David H. Cochran of Christine Manor was elected assistant rabban, and Milton L. Draper was elected high priest.

Action On Parking Authority
Deferred To Study Alternates

Petition Presented By Local Businessmen, Property Owners, Requests Further Study; Commonwealth Realty Tract Zoned For Apartments; Business License Slated

After a week's recess, the regular meeting of Newark City Council was reconvened last Monday night with action for creation of a proposed parking authority deferred until next June 1; and the rezoning of a 7.23-acre tract to permit construction of apartments east of the Christina Creek between Welsh Tract Baptist Church and West Chestnut Hill roads.

A petition signed by 26 businessmen and property owners on Main and Chapel streets and on Delaware Avenue, requested council to "withhold approval on a five-member parking authority until alternatives are considered."

Mayor Joseph A. Shields cited the audience of some 50 persons as appearing "austere" but "docile," and Harold J. Meade as spokesman in the audience interjected "not so docile." Meade said that he concurred with the petition. And so did Robert Sheaffer, saying that he represented "most of the merchants."

"You Tell us . . ." the mayor said to the assembly beyond the council railing. "You tell us the direction you think we ought to go." Concerning Main Street parking, he urged that Newark not be placed in the position of Wilmington "where practically everybody left a certain area."

Hugh F. Gallagher, Jr. in the audience said "this is not an affront to the council. We appreciate all that you have done . . . Fear arises from the appointment of a group that will be answerable to no one."

And John R. Fader added "I concur with Mr. Gallagher." Leonard Fossett in the audience said "if it were not for the people who rent the property, it would not be so valuable," and objected to "parking taken off Main Street."

Reginald B. Rockwell urged council not to take action on the parking authority with "I think we will make a big mistake after having brought this along this far." He said that he presented a scale model of a proposed parking mall several years ago that had been "committed to death," and cited a "big difference between the Newark Housing Authority and parking authority," with guide lines established by the federal government in the case of the NHA, but not for the latter. For members of a parking authority to "run roughshod over businessmen," Rockwell said "is unthinkable."

He said that Newark will "reach a point shortly when stores will move out. If this happens many times in downtown Newark, what will property be worth?"

And Irvin Blatt supported Rockwell with "we have got to have parking in Newark. The only way is to establish a parking authority."

Ben Raphael concurred with "I think we should have the authority. If not, we will be pushed back to where we were several years ago."

Provide Own Parking? Harold Meade proposed that property owners provide their own parking area by purchasing necessary land. "The Newark Shopping Center had their own parking lot," he said. And Dr. Clyde vox said that "some of the parking lots around Newark are a disgrace."

"As a taxpayer," George Conway in the audience observed, "I think the business people should be responsible for parking."

The Councilman P. Chittenden said "I think there are reasonable grounds that this is tabled. Nothing can be done until July by state law." And the parking authority matter was tabled pending investigation of alternatives, until next June 1.

At the suggestion of Councilman Olan R. Thomas, an interim report on parking authority proposals is to be presented next April 18.

The 7.23-acre Commonwealth Realty tract west of South College Avenue was rezoned from RS and Business C to RM for apartment construction in a 6-1 vote with Councilman David H. Doehrlt opposing the measure because of potential flooding.

"What is the 50-year flood level?" Doehrlt asked, and replied "We do not know at this time."

Alternatives Councilman Henry R. Folsom, Jr., presented four alternative uses for the tract — to ask the owner to leave the land as it is, which he said would be unfair; to have the city buy the tract for parkland at a cost of some $40,000, when 45 acres elsewhere were planned for park purposes; that the land be used for single family dwellings and commercial operation under the present zoning; and for the construction of apartments.

"Apartments are not a bad use for this land," Folsom said, citing the owner's agreement to dedicate 4.1 acres to the city as open area, along with a 50-ft. strip along the stream.

Ministers attending represent parishes in Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Host for the two-day session will be Bishop John Wesley Lord of Washington.

Head Conference Of 400 Ministers

Mary R. Johnston Dies At Age Of 84

Miss Mary R. Johnston, 84, passed away early Sunday evening at the Brandywine Springs Nursing and Convalescent Home, 505 Greenbank Road, where she had been a patient for the past 11 months. Her death followed a lengthy illness.

Miss Johnston, a longtime resident of Wilmington, was born at Thompsons Station near Newark, daughter of the late John T. Johnston and Priscilla Jane Sentman. She was a member of West Presbyterian Church.

Her only survivors are nieces and nephews.

Services were held Wednesday morning from the Beeson Funeral Home, 412 Philadelphia Pike, Penny Hill, with interment in Head of Christiansa Cemetery, Newark.

State Businessmen Offered Aid In TABS Headed By Economist Cook At University

The University of Delaware will initiate a program to supply latest scientific findings and other help to Delaware's business and industry.

Administering the state-wide program will be a newly-formed division of technical and business service, TABS, established at the university with the help of a federal agent.

Delaware will be among the first states to implement the bill signed into law last September by President Johnson "to promote economic growth by supporting state and regional programs to place the findings of science usefully in the hands of American enterprise."

Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr., designated the University of Delaware to develop and direct the program in the state.

University President John A. Perkins in turn named Robert W. Cook, economist, as director of the new division. During more than two years, Cook has been involved with the state's economic picture, and wrote the economic portion of a recently-published four-volume study of the Delaware economy.

This new division can help the Delaware businessman what the Cooperative Agricultural Extension Service has done for the Delaware farmer," Perkins predicts.

The Agricultural Extension Service, created in 1911 by the Smith-Lever Act, began a partnership between the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the colleges of agriculture in land-grant universities in each state. The cooperative venture has served as a pattern for other federal-state programs, of which the latest is the Technical Services Act.

The new university division TABS will provide services in three broad areas—consultation, information, and education.

Cook said he sees TABS as a kind of clearing house. "We will find those enterprises which need and can benefit from new technology or which need help in the solution of management problems, and do whatever is possible to make the enterprise a more productive part of the state's economy."

Cook said one of the purposes of the State Technical Services Act is to shorten the technological lag, the lapse between time a process or system is available, and when it is in general use.

The consultation service which TABS will provide will be primarily for the small business enterprise, Cook said, but larger firms and corporations also may benefit.

"This program is not intended to supplant consulting firms," Cook stressed.

Information, whether it be technological or business management data, will be furnished to Delaware enterprises.

"For instance, if we acquire some information that could be of value to a plastics manufacturer, we will transmit it to all those Delaware enterprises which conceivably could

Munroe To Teach Delaware History On TV Channel 12

One of the more than 300 extension division courses offered by the University of Delaware this spring will be a television series on Channel 12.

"The History and Government of Delaware" consists of 15 half-hour programs which will start Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The course, with instruction by Dr. John A. Munroe, H. Rodney Sharp professor of history and department chairman, carries one credit and is required of all baccalaureate degree candidates.

But it's also available to everyone in the state—natives and newcomers alike—who would like to learn about the state's history and its governmental structure.

The course was originally filmed in 1964 and hundreds of persons have already taken it. Revisions have been made as needed. Historical photos from various sources augment Prof. Munroe's lectures.

The programs will be shown Tuesday nights at 7:30 over WHYY-TV (Channel 12).

A final examination date and location, probably on the Newark campus, will be set after the course begins.

Registration can be made by mail until Jan. 28. Materials and more information can be obtained from the University of Delaware extension division, 79 Amstel Avenue, Newark.

City Public Works Employees Approve Union Membership

Public works department employees of the City of Newark have voted to join the municipal workers' union, Benjamin J. Campagna, director of public works, reported Saturday.

Campagna said that the vote was 26-2 in favor of joining the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, with 28 of 30 eligible employees participating in the balloting on Wednesday.

Vernon Connell was elected president of the new group, and David Watson was elected secretary.

Results of the election must be certified by the State Department of Labor and Industrial Relations, Campagna said.

After that, he said, the union will draft a proposed contract to be presented to city officials for negotiation.

David Meharg To Discuss Problems Of Alcoholism

"Alcoholism—Disease of Disenchantment" will be the topic for next Thursday's luncheon program at the Newark YWCA.

Mrs. Donald Fiehlhouse, chairman of the luncheon program committee, has announced that David Meharg of the DuPont Company will speak and show a film on problems in alcoholism.

Everyone is welcome to attend these luncheons. Sandwiches can be purchased, or you may bring your own. Beverage is available, and baby-sitting services are offered with reservations by Monday.

The luncheon will begin at 11:45 and end at 1 p.m.

Meharg, a native of Ireland, was educated in England; was a tennis coach, and for the past 15 years he has been with DuPont.

NO HIGH-PRESSURE HELP NEEDED!

KEEP OUR FOOD INDUSTRY STRONG

In 1965 the American consumer spent slightly more than 18 cents of his after-tax dollar for food, compared to 26 cents, fifteen years ago. In 1966 U. S. Department of Agriculture statisticians say, the expenditures will be slightly below last year, and by 1970 expenditures should fall to 17 cents.

This is positive testimony of industry's fine performance in supplying a great abundance of the most nutritious food the world has known, while keeping prices at a remarkably stable level.

C. C. Cook, president of General Foods Corporation, in a year-end statement said that U. S. food producers "have cooperated with government agencies to effectively safeguard the purity of grocery products and to control the information on labels. Food manufacturers and distributors recognize the necessity of a business-government working partner relationship."

"But sound judgment is needed," added Cook, "amid the current clamor for still more 'consumer protection.' The industry needs flexibility to provide the diversity of food products the consumer demands. The consumer must not be overprotected at the cost of being under-served."

He concluded that all segments of the food industry are essential to the inevitable task of feeding the increased numbers of the world's hungry. There is a vital need for keeping the entire industry strong to meet the challenge in the years ahead.

Cotnoir, Mitchell Aid In Canal Problem Of Growing Grass In Low Fertility Soil

When you dig up the ground to a depth of 50 or 100-ft. or more, the soil underneath is almost totally incapable of supporting plant life. This is what the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers found and to add to the growing grass on newly excavated banks of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal across northern Delaware. The canal, which is being widened and improved, connects Chesapeake and Delaware bays and shortens the shipping route along the eastern seaboard.

Because land along the canal was much higher than waterway in many areas, deep cuts had to be made as the canal was widened. To prevent widespread erosion and to add to the attractiveness of the area, banks were planted with grass and other ground covers last summer. But nothing grew. Twice more, the newly graded banks were seeded and mulched, but not a blade of grass resulted.

Representatives from the Corps of Engineers and the commercial contractors consulted agronomists and soil scientists at the University of Delaware college of agricultural sciences.

Leo J. Cotnoir, director of the university soil testing laboratory, ran chemical tests on the soil and found it to be very acid and extremely low in fertility. Because it came from such a distance below the surface of the ground, it was mostly mineral in content, containing almost no organic matter.

Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist, took larger samples of the soil at the university greenhouse. Here he planted grass in the soil, using the same seeding mixture as that used on the canal banks, but even under controlled greenhouse conditions, the seeds did not germinate.

Following Cotnoir's detailed laboratory tests, he added lime and various nutrients to several of the samples. Results of chemical tests and the greenhouse planting tests showed that five tons of limestone and one-half ton of 20 per cent superphosphate per acre would need to be added to the soil along the canal banks in order to improve the soil enough for grass to grow.

"After successful greenhouse experiments, there is little doubt but what the same results will be found

Over the CLOVER

by Dean Belt
4-H Club Agent

It has now been many weeks since the 4-Hers sent cookies to U. S. servicemen in Vietnam. The 3,300 dozen cookies were sent by air to the men several weeks before Christmas, and all arrived in good condition.

Letters of thanks have been pouring in to club members all over the state. I thought you might enjoy hearing from one of these men.

The following letter was written to Rachel Bleckman in response to the cookies sent.

December 12, 1965

Bien Hoa, RVN

Hello Rachel,

I am writing to thank you for the oatmeal cookies. The box was torn apart so they were distributed early. It is a wonderful feeling to know that someone that I don't even know would go to such trouble to help make my Christmas more enjoyable. I want you to know that I, for one, appreciate it. As long as the free world has people like you and your club it is well worth defending.

I am in the 173rd Airborne Brigade Support Battalion. I have been subjected to some hostile fire but not as much as some of the guys. Mostly I just work hard to give our infantry the best support I can.

I am the engineer supply sergeant for the brigade. My primary job is distributing maps. I also store and deliver barbed and concertina wire and other combat barrier materials. The worst part of being here is being away from my wife and 11-month-old daughter. Our crude method of living is tough but bearable. I live in a tent, take showers out of an old oil drum with holes in it, and eat mostly "C" rations. For Thanksgiving I had a turkey sandwich with stale bread. These are a few of the hardships that must be borne.

All in all it is an experience worth remembering. I am glad and proud

Sincerely,

Plucky Girl Launches A Crusade on 'Sourpussedness' in Teachers

The trouble with the grammar school teachers of America is that they all get out of the wrong side of bed in the morning when the alarm clock goes off.

Then, seemingly, all of them breakfast on prune juice or gnaw on a lemon, or both. After that, they vent their ill-humor on the kids at school.

This view, unquestionably in error, is the conviction nonetheless of 11-year-old Janice Lilly, of Choctaw, Okla., who determined to abolish outbursts of "sourpussedness" among the elementary school teachers in her town of 1,700 inhabitants, a few miles east of Oklahoma City.

One might suppose, after talking to Janice's doctors, that this young reformer had more than enough to do just taking care of herself, without worrying about the early morning irascibility of the faculty of 27 young women at Choctaw school.

At the March of Dimes Birth Defects Center, University of Oklahoma Medical Center, Oklahoma City, the specialists tell us that Janice was born with multiple deformities. The child has foreshortened forearms, underdeveloped knees, clubhands, and outward-turning feet; and they add that after seven operations it's a miracle that Janice is able to attend school at all, and without crutches or leg braces. She also rides horseback and a bike, skips rope, outplays most of the kids at basketball, and for her age is a full year ahead at school.

How come this one-little-girl crusade to elevate the morning morale of the teachers at Choctaw Elementary?

"Well, sir, I woke up one beautiful morning," she says, "and like always at breakfast I groaned about having to go to school."

"Like always, my older brother bawled at me. 'Shut up,' (He doesn't know any other words.) But my older sister said, 'You don't make sense. Because most of the time after school, you're making up songs about how much you love school and your teacher, and about your arms not being long enough to hug her. So what're you hollerin' about?'"

"All of a sudden, then, I saw that my sister was right. Most of the time I like school fine. It's just that in the morning all the teachers act and talk like they would love to beat us over the head with a chair leg. Well, I reckoned I could do something about it."

What Janice did was to persuade two stouthearted classmates to join her at school next morning before the bell rang. With arms around each other's waist, they marched the length of a long corridor, howling out "Hello Dolly!" and "Everybody Loves Somebody."

Janice and her co-conspirators were reprimanded and sent home. But the next morning there was a repeat performance (with other choruses they had heard on television or radio), and a few of the teachers unwittingly joined in, together with some 100 small and electrified rebels.

"This was clearly a violation of the rule book," says Principal Lola Williams with mock severity, "which specifies 'decent and orderly conduct at all times enroute to class.' But what could you do? And I must admit that this unbecoming uproar has improved the

"How can we deny one man what we have permitted and are permitting other builders?" Folsom asked concerning minimum building basic floor requirements of 2-ft. above flood level.

City Planning Director John J. Griesbaum observed that the proposed apartment construction was "a treatable project," and that if it was flooded, other existing buildings would be.

And the tract was rezoned as petitioned by Ben Vinton, Jr., of Commonwealth Realty.

New Councilman

The recessed, reconvened meeting was adjourned last Monday at 9:37 p.m., and C. Vernon Steele was sworn in as a councilman for the first district by Mayor Shields. Steele took the place of interim appointee John F. Link at the council table for the special meeting which continued until 10:41 p.m.

Milton L. Draper and H. Griffith Jones were appointed to the municipal pension committee succeeding D. Shelby Brown and Avery H. Goddin, and George F. Conway was appointed to serve the unexpired term of J. H. Becker until Sept. 15, 1968, as a member of the parks and recreation advisory committee.

Proposed ordinances to establish a $5 municipal license fee for local businesses, trades, and occupations; for consolidating the parking meter and general funds; and for regulation of junk yards, were approved in the first of two required readings, with Chittenden opposing the 6-1 vote for the business license.

At the request of the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce, City Manager J. Francis Neide is to conduct a study of intensity and uniformity of Main Street lighting for improved illumination in the business district, and a report is to be presented next Feb. 21.

Mrs. Evelyn Chambers in the audience, reported city eviction of a World War I veteran from his residence at 32 Ray Street. The building was condemned as unsafe structurally, and for lack of sanitary facilities.

"A hazardous structure is better than no roof over his head," Mrs. Chambers said. "If we find him, can he sleep here tonight?" And council agreed that he could, and that effort would be made to postpone scheduled demolition of the dwelling.

"We want a nice neighborhood, but we don't want to get rid of people," Mayor Shields said.

To the timid and hesitating everything is impossible because it seems so.

Braves Of Indian Guides Plan Fellowship Weekend

Sixty-five big and little braves of the Western Branch YMCA are retreating to the winter hunting grounds for a weekend of fellowship.

Indian Guide father and sons of the Newark and Nanticoke nations will spend next weekend at Camp Hilltop in Downingtown, Pa., with the annual excursion for sledding and fun in the snow.

Activities will include singing around the fireplace, and two movies—on the World Series and the American Indian—will be shown to Guides in the evening.

Hawaiian Supper Planned By Girls Of Jr. Troop 362

Junior Girl Scout Troop 362 will entertain a Brownie group on Monday, Jan. 31, from 4:30 to 6:30 at a Hawaiian covered dish supper. Each girl will make her own dish and place mats.

Decorations, hostesses, entertainment, and waitresses will be provided by individual patrols of Troop 362.

The troop's "Promise in Action" for the year is to provide tray decorations for hospitals.

For Christmas, they contributed 30 handmade, decorated, and filled Christmas stockings for the needy.

Troop 362 meets Mondays at the Newark Methodist Church from 4 to 5 p.m., with Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Richtell, and Mrs. McKee as junior troop leaders.

West Coast City Adopts Local Blood Bank Program

The Blood Bank of Delaware's influence has reached the West Coast where it will serve as a model for a similar community blood program in Palo Alto, Calif.

Delaware pioneered the concept of basing a blood program on insurance principles, and its success had led Palo Alto to select the Delaware system after study of community blood programs.

RESIDENTIAL REQUISITE

Employees of the Delaware River and Bay Authority, working at either Delaware Memorial Bridge or on the Cape May-Lewes ferry, will have to become residents of either New Jersey or Delaware before Sept. 1, according to a ruling made at the January meeting of the Authority when Clarence B. McCormick of Bridgeton, became the new chairman. He succeeds Theodore C. Bright of Pennsville, N. J., now general manager of Delaware Memorial Bridge.

NEW FLOWERS

Home-owners will have opportunity to try several new and acclaimed annual flower varieties in their gardens this year. These are the 1966 All-American selections featured in the new seed catalogs. All-Number Dial Telephone System Slated For County

New Castle County telephones which use a combination of letters and numbers will be put on all number basis late this year.

Myrdyn H. Evans, general manager of Diamond State Telephone Co., announced the improvement program and cited several ways in which telephone users will benefit.

Evans said that the conversion program would "standardize dialing in Delaware, as all Kent and Sussex central offices and four of the 12 New Castle County offices now have this system."

He noted also that "this is in keeping with the nationwide trend that has seen 70 per cent of all Bell telephones converted to the all number basis."

He explained that one of the major benefits to telephone users will be improved dialing accuracy and a resulting decrease in inconvenience caused by dialing wrong numbers.

"Several thousand of these errors occur weekly as telephone users dial the number zero instead of the letter O in Porter and Olympia. It also eliminates confusion and errors from sound-alike letters — for example, persons dialing the letter I instead of Y when they want a WYman or SYcamore number."

"The Porter, Olympia, WYman and SYcamore central offices involve almost 90 per cent of the numbers being changed," Evans concluded.

The only change for those now using a combination of letters and numbers will be to substitute numerals for the two letters.

People who have no weaknesses are terrible; there is no way of taking advantage of them.

Chrysler Vet To Retire

Harry L. McWilliams

Harry McWilliams At Chrysler Plant To Be Honor Guest

Cost and general accounting supervisor at the Newark assembly plant, Harry L. McWilliams is retiring from Chrysler Corporation next month after 45 years of service. His retirement will be marked by a dinner given in his honor by fellow employees this Saturday at the Holiday Inn on Route 273 near Ogle-town.

McWilliams, who will be 65 on Feb. 6, came to Delaware 10 years ago as plant accountant at Chrysler's Delaware Tank Plant. When it was converted to an automobile assembly plant in 1957, he was assigned to the position from which he is about to retire.

An Indiana farmboy, McWilliams started work in 1921 as a timekeeper for the Maxwell Motor Car Co. at New Castle, Ind. That company became a part of Chrysler Corp. when it was established in 1925.

McWilliams remained at what is now Chrysler's New Castle (Ind.) Machining and Forge Plant in various accounting positions until 1947. He then was transferred to Helena, Ark., as plant accountant for the Pekin Wood Products Co., which at that time was a wholly-owned subsidiary of Chrysler.

In 1955 he came to the Delaware Tank Plant at Newark.

McWilliams and his wife live in Lancaster Court Apartments, and plan to maintain their Delaware residence.

Married 47 years, they have three daughters, four grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Nardini To Teach Corrections Field Extension Course

A basic course for persons in the corrections field will open at the University of Delaware on Thursday, Feb. 3, with the top corrections official in Delaware as the instructor.

Dr. William Nardini, commissioner of the State Department of Corrections, will teach the 10-week evening class meeting in Room 103 of Sharp Laboratory on the Newark campus.

Designed for institutional guards and personnel, cottage supervisors, and others interested in the corrections field, the course will include such topics as crime and delinquency causation; law enforcement; role of the judiciary; correctional administration; institutional programs and procedures; case studies; and community resources.

Supported by a private grant, the course is open without fee to qualified applicants.

Registrations for the limited enrollment class are being made with the university extension division.

Philosophy Prof To Speak For Unitarian Fellowship

The speaker at the Unitarian Fellowship on Willa Road this Sunday will be Dr. Elizabeth L. Beardsley, professor of philosophy at Temple University, whose topic will be "Judging Human Beings."

With degrees from Swarthmore, Columbia and Yale, Dr. Beardsley, first taught at the University of Delaware, and later at Lincoln University.

As a Unitarian, she has been chairman of the board at the Unitarian Church of Delaware County, Springfield, Pa.

With her husband Monroe C. Beardsley, she is co-author of the book "Philosophical Thinking," and has published a number of papers on ethical theory and philosophy of language.

The public is invited to the 11 a.m. service, when Sunday school classes and a nursery are available at the same hour.

School Dropouts Under 5 Per Cent Supt. Shue States

The Newark special school district student dropout rate is less than five per cent, a figure "considerably lower" than the national average, Supt. Wilmer E. Shue said last week in addressing a luncheon of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at the Newark Methodist Church. Shue attributed the district's low dropout rate to special programs for keeping children in school.

He cited some, calling them too new to evaluate completely.

The programs include pre-first grade for children not ready for a full-fledged first grade at age six; a head start plan inaugurated last summer; and basic skills development for deprived children. Team teaching at junior high level; additional psychological services; grouping of children according to ability; and work-experience plans used along with a basic academic program, were cited.

Shue also said he would like to see grades and grading eliminated from public schools, terming opportunity for children to develop in an ungraded situation with learning for learning's sake rather than for grades, "ideal."

Dropouts are those youngsters who "for any reason do not complete a public school program," Shue said. Shue headed the American Association of School Administrators dropout panel at the national convention in Atlantic City in 1964, and led a panel last spring for the New Castle Education Association on the subject.

Capt. Romont Perkins Scores 28-Sec. Pin To Feature Unbeaten Yellowjackets' Win

Co-Captain Romont Perkins pinned Wilmington High School's Dave Sines in 28 seconds of the 180-lb. event last Friday night in the Newark High School gym to feature the undefeated Yellowjackets' 38-9 victory over the Red Devils after the Newark junior varsity had wilted the Wilmington jayvees 47-3 in a preliminary series of matches.

The 2-0 Yellowjackets of Coach Andy Marcantonio entertain tonight but powerful Conrad this Friday at the local gym, with the jayvees expected to begin at 6:30 p.m. The Newark-Christiana meeting slated for next Wednesday has been postponed a week.

Newark lost but one match to the Wilmington team — when Barry "Pedro" McMin dropped a 145-lb. decision to Patton in the 145-lb. event.

Bob Jackson, 120, and Bruce Jones, 133, wrestled Citro and Torralas to 4-4 and 3-3 draws.

Ron Matthews won by forfeit at 95-lbs.; John Dollins won an 11-1 decision over Dowd at 103; and Co-Capt. Mark Hill decided Attix 4-0 at 112-lbs.

Creighton Beddow took a 7-0 decision over Kirwin at 127; Don Jones, 138, won a 5-2 nod over Rivera; and Dickie Kelley, 154, decided Muth 8-3.

Allen Hart pinned Proctor in 4:32 of the 165-lb. event, and after Perkins' prompt pinning of his man in the 180-lb. division, Newark Heavyweight Bill Murphy wrestled Ellis to a scoreless tie.

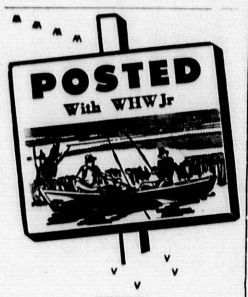

In junior varsity matches, Don Early dropped a 4-2 decision in the 138-lb. class for Newark's lone loss of the evening.

Gary Carpenter and Mike Kerstetter won by forfeits at 103 and 112; Jim Grube pinned his opponent in 1:31 of the 120-lb. class, and Steve Arimoto won a 7-0 decision at 127-lbs.

Terry Doordan, 133, and Bill McIntosh, 145, won by forfeit, and Keith Green took a 5-0 decision at 154-lbs.

Tim Reutter, 165, won a 3-0 decision; Eric Perkins won by forfeit at 180; and Gerry McCormick in the unlimited division, won a 4-0 decision.

Big Bill and Mrs. Skold loyally attended the annual banquet of the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce last Tuesday night in the new Aetna Fire Hall, but the Skolds could well have been representing the Florida State C. of C. Recently returned to Newark from the West Coast of the Sunshine State, and looking unseasonably tanned and fit for Delaware, the blonde Viking and his wife were still a bit starry-eyed after catching 30 spotted sea trout from the warm, emerald Gulf of Mexico in a brief, before-breakfast bit of fishing from their idyllic island home.

"And we're going back—soon!" Bill Skold said with a shiver as a departing guest opened the door leading to the cold Aetna parking lot. Esquimaux, however, would feel pretty much at home in this area at this time, and the ice fishing on the North East River not too far from Newark, can be productive as well as cold.

Jim Kelley and Kinsey Whiteman came back with fish from the North East last week—and Kinsey had a 19-inch.

"I don't know what kind of a fish it was," Mrs. Jim Kelley confessed. But any kind of a 19-inch fish taken through the ice in January is something special.

Big Jim's yellow perch were taken care of on the back porch of the Kelley home by a prowling cat—and that's one way to avoid tangling with hard-to-seize, small fish.

"I don't like fish much, anyway," Mrs. Kelley said with no distress. But Jim was less pleased with the loss of his catch.

Norvin "Rip" Collins, former Delaware sports writer, Brookside resident, Newark Main Street subshop and delicatessen entrepreneur—and now sports editor of the Wilmington Star in North Carolina—received a long overdue dose of salt water fishing indoctrination last fall. And it proved a soul-stirring experience.

We have twisted the Collins' arm a time or two in getting him to try the spring shad and summer surf in Maryland and Delaware—but the results of these local expeditions could well have discouraged an ardent angler. And Rip was far from one.

Some 10 years later, Rip Collins has finally seen the light after trolling for king mackerel, amberjack and bluefish out of Carolina's Southport. But let him tell about it, from his "Sporting Scene" column in the Star.

"The run out was uneventful, if looking at a sea that never seems the same can be called uneventful.

"Then the trolling for the kings began. Others on the trip began to catch them, but the man after losing one because of carelessness, began to feel as though he were an orphan.

THE 17TH: The 17th annual banquet of the Wilmington Sports Writers & Broadcasters Association last night, was one of the best — and it is something of a jolt to realize that 17 years have slipped by since we attended our first WSBA event, when Claymont's Nick Bucci was honored as Delaware's Outstanding Athlete.

With Brandy Davis, Bones Egnor, Winnie Mayer, Bill Murray, Alex Petrillo, Carson Roselle, Swede Swendsen, Dick Ware and Bill Waggoner at the Newark Sportsmen's table, we enjoyed the 17th WSBA party and look forward to the next.

Firechak With 20, Swayze, Cavanaugh Lead CHS Offense

Ed Firechak paced Coach Al Mann's Vikings with 20 points at Christiana High School last Tuesday night as the Vikings easily led Dickinson 39-37 at the end of the third quarter in a strong bid for their first Blue Hen Conference basketball win of the season. But the visiting Dickinsons rallied in the fourth frame to outscore their hosts 12-7 for a final 49-46 count and Christiana loss.

Dickinson is 2-3 for the campaign, and the defeat was the fifth straight setback for the Vikings who share the conference cellar with Newark High School.

Christiana entertains DeLaWarr this Friday evening, and the Vikings play at William Penn next Tuesday, with junior varsity preliminary games slated to start at 6:30 p.m. DeLaWarr and William Penn are 2-3 for the season.

Mann's Vikings were swamped 84-28 last Friday by the powerful Dynahs at P. S. du Pont — 5-0 conference leaders.

Lee Swayze and George Cavanaugh led the Christiana scorers against the Dynahs with nine points each.

Blue Chicks Top Navy Prep For 4-2 Swimming Log

Winning nine of 11 events, Delaware's freshman swimming team, trounced Naval Academy Prep 62-31 at Taylor Pool last Friday.

It was the Blue Chicks' fourth win in six dual meets.

"Suddenly the rod bent almost double, the man managed to wrestle the butt of it into the holder on the chair. He reeled in as hard as he could, but the fish on the other end kept moving about, taking line out when he was ready, allowing the slack to be reeled in when he felt like it.

"I think I've hooked a two-man Russian sub," grunted the man.

"Finally," he brought the fish to gaff. It was a 25-pound amberjack. The man, suddenly aware of the long years behind a desk, just lit a cigarette with shaking hands.

"For awhile there," Rip admits, "I was afraid I would lose him. Then I was afraid I wouldn't."

Continuing from the "Sporting Scene," Rip writes "Then the boat began the run back to Frying Pan Shoals and try out the blues."

"They took out after the feather jigs like they hadn't eaten in months. It was nothing for every line to have a blue."

"Suddenly it was time to run back home. The man sat in the stern chair, looking at the swirling wake, half hearing the muttering of the diesel exhaust."

"He had learned a little bit about fishing. But what was more important, he had a taste of fishing frenzy while fishing for the hard-hitting blues."

"But one thing was sure. There were bigger fish out there and he was going back for them. As many times as he could, he was going back."

Chuck Wagon Champ

While he won't be found among the Champions of the Year recently named by the Thoroughbred Racing Association Board of Selection, Dream Man is worthy of note as a champ in his own right.

The story comes via Bruce Roreham, publicity director at Winnipeg's Assiniboia Downs. No, Dream Man did not win this year's Manitoba Derby, but he does hold a track record for a mile and 6 furlongs at Assiniboia.

Dream Man was imported to Canada by G. Max Bell, the publisher, whose Meadow Court won this year's Irish Derby, and whose Lord Dunsley was third in the Assiniboia Derby. Bred by the late Aga and

Aide Brandy Davis Back With Astros From Brave Band

Joining the new Atlanta Braves as a scout after his release from the Houston Astros last November, Brandon Davis of Newark returned to the National League Houston baseball club last Tuesday with a more responsible job than before.

Brandy, former local high school and Duke athlete who jumped from Class D to major league baseball with the Pittsburgh Pirates within one year, had been a scouting supervisor with the Houston organization for five years.

Davis was released with a change in the Houston front office that resulted in the ouster of Paul Richards as general manager, Luman Harris as manager for the Astros; and Eddie Robinson as farm director.

Tom Smith became director of playing personnel, and it is Smith who is responsible for Davis' return to the Astros.

"Smith contacted John McHale, general manager for the Braves in Atlanta," Brandy Davis said, "requesting permission to talk with me."

"McHale graciously gave me my release. It's all worked out very well. I'm back with my original boss, and have a more responsible job than I did under the old management."

Brandon Davis, who resides at 222 Cheltenham Road in Newark with his wife, the former Miss Sue Ware, is East Coast scouting director for the Astros in charge of an area from Maine to North Carolina, with five scouts working under him.

Duncan To Speak At Capitol Trail Jr. Football Fete

Raymond B. "Scotty" Duncan will be the principal speaker at the Capitol Trail Junior Football League annual banquet next Tuesday at the Aetna Fire Hall on Ogletown Road.

Former Newark High School football coach, Duncan is assistant director of athletics and physical education at the University of Delaware.

Former Newark High School football coach, Duncan is assistant director of athletics and physical education at the University of Delaware.

Letters and awards will be presented to some 220 boys from 10 to 14 years of age, who participated in Capitol Trail Junior Football League play during the 1965 season.

The Rev. Louis V. Rogers, former P. S. du Pont High School football star, and pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Newark, will deliver the invocation.

Steve Leo Jr. Topweight For Main Event At Bowie

Joseph Nechamkin's Steve Leo Jr., whose 1:11 in the Chartwell purse last Saturday was the fastest six furlongs of the Bowie meeting, has been assigned heavyweight of 124 pounds for the 29th running of the $20,000 Southern Maryland Handicap at Bowie Race Course this Saturday.

The Southern Maryland is for three-year-olds and upward at six furlongs, and there are 27 nominations.

Steve Leo Jr. was a length and a half winner over Palm Court in the Chartwell purse after having been beaten a half length by Amstar in the opening Florence L. Purse.

Mark Brown, 27, Chuck Coover, 12 Pace NHS Scoring

Mark Brown scored 27 points to pace Coach Francis Fulghum's Yellowjacket cagers at Dickinson High School last Friday night as Newark outscored their hosts 19-10 in the second period to lead 31-23 at halftime. But Dickinson rallied with 20-14 and 15-5 periods of superiority in the second half to defeat Fulghum's Yellowjackets 58-50.

Last Tuesday night, visiting William Penn stopped the Yellowjackets 76-48 in the Newark High School gym, with Chuck Coover scoring 12 points to pace Fulghum's squad, converting six out of seven from the foul line.

William Penn was undefeated P. S. du Pont this Friday in Wilmington, and the Yellowjackets entertain 4-1 Wilmington High School next Tuesday, with jayvee games at 6:30 p.m. preceding varsity contests.

Donoho, Rylander To Conduct Course In Sport Injuries

Repair and prevention of injuries to young athletes are twin topics for a forthcoming University of Delaware continuing education course.

The six-week course designed for those who work in sports, will meet two hours each Tuesday night, beginning Feb. 22 in Newark.

Course instructors will be Dr. C. Roy Donoho, Newark specialist in internal medicine and allergy, and varsity football team physician for the university since 1947 — and Dr. C. Roy Rylander, with the university's athletic department since 1946 as teacher, trainer, coach and researcher.

Each session will stress practical information—what to do and what not to do—along with pathological aspects of athletic injuries.

Included in the course are ankle, shoulder, elbow, knee, and head injuries, affects of heat, and injuries to trunk, thigh, wrist and hand.

Mail registration materials can be obtained by writing to the university extension division, 79 Amstel Avenue, Newark.

HARNESS RACE RECORDS

Harness racing established national records for raceway attendance and pari-mutuel handle in 1965, the U. S. Trotting Association reports.

Attendance reached an all-time high of 22,893,418 — an increase of 6.33 per cent over the 21,529,780 mark set in 1964. Wagering totaled $1,363,975,699 for a rise of 8.21 per cent.

Viking Varsity Wrestlers Upset By P. S. After Jayvees Of Bell, Klimek Win 25-18

Christiana's varsity wrestlers were upset 27-18 by the surprising Dynahs at P. S. du Pont High School last Friday night after the jayvees of Viking coaches Joe Bell and Ken Klimek had stopped the Dynah junior varsity 25-18 in a preliminary series of matches.

The 1-1 Vikings wrestle 1-1 Dickinson away this Saturday at 1 p.m. In varsity matches last Friday, Christiana's Dwight Hastings was pinned by Godowski in 3:59 of the 95-lb. opener, and then Co-Capt.
