RESIGNS AS MANAGER OF ELK MILLS TEAM

Ex-Sheriff Lewis A. Seth, for the past four years manager of the Elk Mills baseball team of the Susquehanna League, tendered his resignation to the Board of Directors of the Elk Mills Athletic Club last week.

In the four years that Seth has headed the Millers, the team has won three championships and came within one game of being in the series last year. The club too has met with financial success and now has one of the finest parks in the Susquehanna League; a grandstand erected last year cost $1100, yet the team finished the season with all debts paid and money in the treasury.

While the manager did not disclose his reasons for resigning it is rumored among his friends that he is thinking strongly of entering the political field as a candidate for sheriff.

MEN'S BARACA CLASS

The Men's Baraca Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Sunday School has an enrollment now close to 50. The attendance last Sunday was 40. Officers are, president, R. A. Burnett; vice-president, Clarence Foster; secretary, George Baker; treasurer, Daniel Krapf; teacher, Prof. Harold Tiffany. Every Sunday morning they assemble in the Baraca Room at 9:45 for prayer and meditation on the class lesson. Next Sunday they will have Easter exercises. A class picture was taken last Sunday.

The class will hold a banquet in the Sunday School auditorium on Thursday evening, April 24, at 6:30. Any man will be given the hand of fellowship that evening, all are welcome even though they may not be a member. It is hoped to have 100 men around this Brotherhood Table.

The class will extend an invitation to the Methodist Men to meet with them on Sunday morning, April 27, at 9:45 o'clock. The class aim is to "be doers of the Word, not hearers only."

ADDRESSES DINNER GATHERING

Dr. George H. Ryden of the History Department of the University of Delaware, gave an address in Wilmington last night before the Delaware Section of the American Chemical Society, at a dinner meet. His talk was on "Caesar Rodney in the American Revolution."

TO INSTALL OFFICERS

Deputy Great Pocahontas Viola F. Ewing and her staff from Newark will visit Yowah Council at Bear, Del., on Thursday night and install the officers for the ensuing term.

TAX RETURNS ARE NOT FILED

Large Number Of Taxables Have Failed To Comply With The Law

A canvass of the State income returns filed for 1929 indicates that approximately 15,000 residents have not yet filed their returns which were due March 15, 1930. These taxables may file without the addition of the $5.00 penalty at any time before April 15, the State Tax Department announced today. After that date notices will be sent to all delinquent taxables and the penalties asserted in all cases of persons who have failed to file their annual report for 1929 which is required even though the taxable had no income during the year, or had income less than the personal exemptions allowed him.

The law requires that every taxable file a return. The word "taxable," as defined by the law includes as a taxable, every citizen or resident of Delaware, 21 years of age or over, minors with net incomes of $1000 or more, as well as fiduciaries, guardians, trustees, agents or representatives of the taxable. This comprehensive definition makes it necessary for every one in Delaware to give attention to their obligation of filing their State income tax return, if this duty has not yet been done.

This flat penalty of $5.00, it was pointed out, operates against all taxables regardless of whether notice was given them or not, after April 15, and in addition to this penalty upon notice of the liability for the return and failure to file it within 30 days after such notice, a taxable loses his rights to appeal from an assessment of tax made by the Tax Department, except through the procedure of paying the tax due and making claim for refund of any amount which he considers overpaid.

Although blank returns have been mailed to all taxables, new blanks may be obtained from the State Tax Department, No. 2 East Ninth street, upon request by those who have not yet filed for the year 1929.

ENGINEERS PICK NEW OFFICERS AT DELAWARE

The April meeting of the University of Delaware chapter student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was held after dinner at the Blue Hen, the meeting taking place in Old College.

Guests at the dinner were: J. J. Murphy, salesman in charge of Central Stations and Educational work; W. C. Gray, are welding specialist, both of whom are connected with the Philadelphia office of the General Electric Company; and J. W. Kenworthy, of the Lincoln Electric Company, Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Gray and Mr. Kenworthy addressed the meeting.

Previous to the talks a special program arranged and conducted by Herbert Fritz was presented. This program was in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers which was celebrated by the National Society on April 6, 7 and 8, in New York, Hoboken and Washington. Pictures were shown and short statements of appreciation and accomplishments of some of the great leaders of the society were read.

At the business meeting officers were elected for the next collegiate year. Those are as follows: President, Joseph Moran, Wilmington; vice-president, Jack Parkinson, Norwood, Pa.; secretary, G. L. Ricard, Wilmington; treasurer, H. C. Harris, St. Georges.

The new officers will take charge of the May meeting of the society.

EDUCATION BOARD PRESENTS REPORT

Interesting figures relative to the cost of schools of the State are contained in the annual report of the State Board of Education for 1929.

One of the most interesting portions of the report is a brief history of Public Schools in Delaware by Dr. H. V. Holloway, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The public school system in Delaware was established in 1829 so that last year was the 100th year of the public school system.

Dr. Holloway begins his brief history with a copy of the letter sent by Willard Hall, father of the public school system in Delaware, to James A. Bayard, then United States Senator from Delaware in which the subject is urged.

The history of the school system is traced briefly from that time until the present day when there are now 41,000 pupils in the schools of Delaware and nearly 400 school houses. The number of school houses is decreasing, however, on account of the consolidation of school districts in order to get the advantages which come from large and well organized schools.

COLLEGE FAVORS REPEAL OF LAW

Majority Of Faculty And Students Are Against Present Conditions

More than 70 per cent of the student body and faculty of Delaware College, University of Delaware, either favor modifying the Volstead act or repeal of the eighteenth amendment, according to a poll last week.

The poll was conducted by the Review, the weekly student publication. Students and faculty members of the Women's College were not included in this poll. Of about 400 ballots sent out, 304 were returned. The Review announced the results in this week's issue.

Less than 30 per cent of the total voted for strict enforcement of liquor laws. The total vote follows: Enactment of the Volstead act, 105; repeal of the eighteenth amendment, 109.

In taking the poll three questions were also asked relative to the drinking habits of those voting. Of the total, 143 replied that they do not drink; 129 replied that they drink often, and 139 that they drink occasionally. This shows that more than a majority of the student body and faculty members drink intoxicating liquor.

The separate vote for the students and faculty members was as follows: Students—Enforcement of the prohibition laws, 79; modification of the Volstead act, 98; repeal of the 18th amendment, 91. To the three questions, 129 replied they do not drink intoxicants; 18 drink often, and 118 drink occasionally.

Faculty—Enforcement, 12; modification, 8; repeal, 17. Fourteen replied they do not drink intoxicants, three drink often and 19 drink occasionally.

BOY SCOUTS MEET WITH JR. MECHANICS

The American Flag Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. invited the Boy Scouts of the local troop to meet at their regular meeting on Monday evening, April 14. Twenty-six scouts with their leaders attended the meeting and joined with the lodge members in giving an interesting program. The first aid team was given a problem which it worked out to the satisfaction of its audience. Scouts Burke and Singles demonstrated the sending of messages by the semaphore code; Scouts Wilson, West Frazer showed how to tie a number of knots and explained the use of each. The musical and impersonation skits presented by Ott Widdoes, Jr., and Eugene White, were loudly applauded.

The Mechanics furnished some pleasing musical entertainment; vocal solos by Wesley Dempsey were particularly well received. After the serving of refreshments a team of nine Scouts was picked to play the Mechanics' team at indoor baseball in which contest the scouts were somewhat outdistanced by their seniors but put up a good game.

The Juniors are planning several trips. They go to Harrington April 24, Smyrna May 8, Downingtown, Pa., May 16. Come out next Monday night to hear particulars.

Bear in mind the trip to Tiffin Home on May 29.

Next Monday night Prof. Ira Brinser will be present with a message, "What the Board of Education of Ohio thinks of the Tiffin School."

SLIGHT FIRE AT MORRIS PROPERTY

Fire in an apartment on the second floor of the property on Delaware avenue, owned by Huey Morris, caused slight damage Saturday afternoon. The fire is said to have started from a gas stove. The local firemen were called out, but only had to use a chemical stream to extinguish the blaze.

SPECIAL EASTER MEETING

Seven a. m. is the time scheduled for the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Newark Presbyterian Church, on Sunday, April 20. The society president will lead this meeting, which annually at Easter time, takes the place of the ordinary Sunday evening service. All guests, young people and adults will be given a hearty welcome.

HEAD OF CHRISTIANA CHURCH

Bible School at 10 a. m. An opportunity will be given at the close of the Bible School for any who may desire to unite with the Church. Holy Communion service at 11 o'clock. Baptism of children preceding this service. All members and friends are requested to be present. You cannot afford to miss this Easter service.

APPOINT DELAWARE AVIATION POLICE

Superintendent C. C. Reynolds, of the State Highway Police, announced this week that he had appointed Privates Boyer and Sullivan of the State Road station as the State's first members of the "aerial police" unit.

Officers Boyer and Sullivan will not be expected to take to the air in pursuing their duties, Superintendent Reynolds explained, but will merely make it their business to see that airplanes, used in Delaware conform with the various provisions of the State aviation code.

The work of the two officers will be lightened by the fact that Bellanca Field, the only public airport in the State, is located very near their headquarters on the State road. The only other landing field is the private field on the estate of H. Belin du Pont.

U. OF D. TRACKMEN SECOND IN MEET

The University of Delaware track team finished second in a triangular meet with Swarthmore and Drexel at Swarthmore Saturday.

Swarthmore won the meet, compiling 79 1-3 points. Delaware's total was 32 1-3. Drexel's score 14 1-3.

Dave Benson led the Delaware lads in scoring, getting six points.

The summary:

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Parrish, Swarthmore; second, Walker, Swarthmore; third, Wells, Delaware. Time, 25 and 15 seconds.

NEWARK CLUB WOMEN VISITED CLAYMONT

Members of the Newark New Century Club were guests of the Claymont Club at a reciprocity meeting Monday. The Newark Club presented the program.

Two vocal solos by Mrs. Samuel Smith entitled, "John Olden" and "Zedier Zee." As these selections were old English ballads, Mrs. Smith wore an old English costume to match the setting.

A monologue, "A Bridge Game," followed, presented by Mrs. J. Pearce Cann. Next on the program was a group of Chinese songs by Mrs. Muselman, accompanied by Miss Nell Wilson.

The program was concluded with two more English ballads sung by Mrs. Smith, "Another Day" and "Needles and Pins," accompanied by Mrs. Northrup. Tea was served by Mrs. William G. Robelen.

GAINS MADE BY SOME CANDIDATES WHO HAVE BEEN IN THE RUMBLE SEAT; OPENING FOR HUSTLERS

It Will Take Work and Plenty of It to Win the Beautiful Chevrolet Coach

SECOND PERIOD VOTE SCHEDULE CLOSES SATURDAY NIGHT

Scores today, in The Newark Post's $2,000 Free Gift Distribution, show substantial gains by participants who, up to now, have been either in the second division or on the lower steps of the ladder of runners-up. Indeed, it will not be at all surprising to see several participants, who have not yet been introduced to the stellar position, soon passing well-known campaigners in their upward climb.

The action of the scores reflects, in a general way, the present situation. That is, there is no telling at all about anything from day to day. Those who have been in commanding positions for days seem, unless they get into the harness in a real way this big second period, to be letting an opportunity slide by.

Some Real Opportunity

Some candidates have been sympathizing with themselves. Others realizing that some will do just this are making the grade on high. Seemingly, some participants have not yet realized the fact that their campaign is in their own hands. You govern your destiny. And if you want to idle these big second period vote making days away why, certainly, it is your privilege. And you must expect to take the consequences. Idleness, self-sympathy, a put-it-off-until-tomorrow spirit will never get you subscriptions, votes or gifts.

This week is Banner Week. These are SPEED-EM-UP DAYS. Every participant is expected to be heard from this week in a big way. That is, a BANNER REPORT. We are wondering if some of you are doing anything at all this week. Certainly, a Banner Week report is not at all unreasonable to expect from you. Make your Banner Report Saturday night before 10 o'clock. Of course you should have a goodly number of subscriptions. Subscriptions are what make real votes and real votes win prizes. You can make yourself heard from Saturday. Wednesday saw several subscriptions turned in, more undoubtedly Saturday. It is a good idea, isn't it, these subscriptions? And they come, easier than you expected don't they?

Frankly, this second period is about the most important time of the entire campaign. Votes are bigger now than they will be later. Subscriptions count more votes now than ever again. Hundreds of new subscriptions are available. And there are many renewals available. Frequently you can extend subscriptions already given in the campaign, repeating a genuine harvest of votes. Why, an entirely new participant can find in this big second period the opportunity to earn anyone of the gifts he or she desires. That is the honest truth. The opportunity is here. And the same opportunity is here for you who have already accepted.

Marking unusual activity among participants and unusual lethargy among others, today's scores offer plenty of food for thought.

It takes work to win. Workers are the ones who will ride away in the Chevrolet Coach May 3, or win the cash prizes.

3,000 votes in the circulation campaign of The Newark Post end April 19. Few of the candidates realize just what that means. It means that they lose a great number of votes for each subscription they fail to turn in this period. The loss of those votes might mean the loss of the Chevrolet coach or the big cash prizes. It is time for action.

There are a few candidates who are awakening to the possibilities before them this week, and from every side comes reports of records to be broken Saturday night. It behooves every candidate to redeem all promises, to plan new fields in which to work, in fact to "dig in" as they have never before, as there is some mighty big money at stake, and the one who thinks, plans and secures the biggest results between now and the end of the second period, is going to have the best chance of winning that Chevrolet coach for their very own.

Some of the candidates have the

PRICE JACKSON SOARS INTO THE LEAD IN EXCITING CAMPAIGN

When he was shoved into second position last week, Price Jackson made up his mind that he would top the list in Wednesday's report, and he accomplished his goal. He is now leading a strong field, and several of his competitors are so near the top position that it is entirely too close for comfort. Miss Lillian R. De Vine climbed into fourth position and promises to show the other candidates how to get subscriptions during the next two days, and from the way she is going, will give a mighty good account of herself before the race is over. Mrs. Eastburn made a good showing and went into fifth position, and with a few of those nice size subscriptions will have her bidding for highest honors. A. O. Seeds, Miss Beck and Mrs. Powell are after subscriptions while the big vote period is in effect. None of the candidates should make the vital mistake of being satisfied with what they have done up to date, for such action is going to be a sad disappointment to the one who does such a thing. The candidate who will hear their name announced as the winner of that Chevrolet Coach will not rest on what has been done in the past but what is accomplished from now on. This race is just like a race of any kind. Any race is won on the home stretch, and the candidate who slows up at this important time is going to be out-distanced—leaving you trailing in the dust—"an also ran."

Candidates Are Making A Mistake

Because it has rained a little during the last few days, some of the candidates have scooted to cover and have slackened in their efforts. That may prove to be fatal to some of them, as the business lost while hibernating might mean the loss of that $658 Chevrolet Coach. With the big vote period ending Saturday night, some of the candidates had better get busy and stay busy if they hope to be in at the finish.

Disqualifications In Order

One of these days will see names dropped from the list, and certain candidates disqualified who fail to get their reports in as they should. Candidates will please remember that this campaign is strictly a business proposition for both themselves and this office, and we insist on the regularity of these reports, even to the discount of pleasure. A word to the wise is sufficient, and if you are an offender, take heed. We are offering you big money for your work, and we expect results. Failure to report Saturday means disqualification.

MAKE YOUR BANNER REPORT SATURDAY.

Jeanne Smith Tells Us Just What We Are Worth To the Census Taker. 4 Cents Each. That Is What the Census Taker Gets

I wonder if you know just how much you are worth to the Census taker? Only 4 cents each. Now laugh that off. You and I together are worth 4 cents, but if I could arrange to get fired, you'd be worth 2 cents more. That's because the census enumerators have to fill out an extra sheet for unemployed. They get 4 cents for each name with the requisite information. Personally I'd feel better if I were worth at least 5 cents, but we'll let that go. What price losing your job? Two cents says the census taker. It's a hard life, but don't weaken. The other day, bright and early, the census taker came to our house. And oh boy, was he curious? He started in by wanting to know how old we were, and if we were orphans, did we own the house, and how much it was worth. But we fooled him because we didn't own it. Then he wanted to know where we were born and where our parents were born. I decided right then that it was no use to try and keep the family secrets from Uncle Sam. So I started in and spilled the beans. I told him my politics, how much income tax I paid, what the boss said when I asked him for a raise, and many other interesting details of my private life, which was not at all necessary. But if that isn't human nature for you; he walked out on us. Right then I decided that I wanted the thrill of service for humanity. I decided that I too would help Uncle Sam take the census. I ran over to the garage for the old flivver and together we started out. Finally I found a census taker. I parked the car and got out. "I thought I would like to help you to take the census," I suggested. But he didn't seem to see it that way; he even went so far as to tell me that he thought he could get along better without my assistance. Well, I could see that I was not going to get very far that way, so I thought I would try and find another enumerator to assist. So the flivver and I romped onward, escaped a couple of trucks by luck, not good judgment. (This is just to show you what chances I took for the purpose of helping Uncle Sam.) Well, I finally discovered another census taker, just about to ring a door-bell. In a second I was right with him. "I'm supposed to see how you take the census," I said firmly. Of course I didn't say who was doing the supposing. And before he could answer me back, the door opened. A very large woman appeared, with her head wrapped in a red bandanna. "If you have anything to sell, I don't want any." She thought we were canvassers. I could see that; she started to slam the door. "Hold everything," I said, while the census taker put his foot against the door. "I am the census taker, I'm from the Government," my companion said. "Well, you can't scare me," said the woman, trying to get the door shut. "We don't want to scare you," I said in a soft feminine manner. "We just want some information." "It's the law," said the enumerator. "Haven't you heard about the census taker?" "Well, how much does it cost?" she asked, superstitiously. "It doesn't cost you anything," I said; "we just want your name and some facts, everyone must answer us, or they will get arrested." "Can't you come back?" and again she tried to close the door. "You don't have to be worried," I tried to reassure her. "All right, then," she said, she starts to melt a little. "I will tell you what you want to know, but right here on the door step. You can't come inside, I'm alone in the house." "All right," said the census taker. He opened the big book and tried to write. "Come in," she said. "I would have asked you in at first, but my house isn't cleaned up. To tell you the truth, I just got up out of bed. A few years ago there was a man come here and he said that he was from the Government and he was a robber." "Oh, did he steal anything?" I asked. "No; my husband came in and he ran away." Well, sir, finally she decided to answer our questions, and I want to tell you she hemmed and hawed a lot. She wasn't going to tell us how much the property was worth. Nor she wasn't going to tell her husband's age. That was an odd situation, I thought. I just couldn't figure that out until she came over to me and started to whisper. "He is ten years younger than I am." Then she seemed to have a change of heart, she seemed to get better and better; finally she had answered all our questions. She left the room for a moment and returned with some real home-made wine. She wanted us to have just a little sip to keep up our courage. "I know it's a tough job," she said. "I know that you must meet a lot of people that treat you mean." She did not like it when the census taker and I refused, but she did give us an invitation to come back some other time later. "O K," said the census taker, "we will be back to see you at the end of the next ten years."

A GARDEN HINT FOR MY READERS

Just why there is a dearth of shrubbery in so many gardens I have never been able to understand. Surely it cannot be because people do not like it. More likely it is because of lack of space. Of course, in the average garden, frequently a space reaching from the back door to the gate, a distance of possibly fifty feet, and from a high board fence to a high board fence, a distance of at thirty feet. I must admit shrubbery is out of the question.

This does not mean, however, a bush-less garden. Far from it; for even a small space, provided you have rich soil and sunshine, you can have one really fine specimen of almost any ordinary shrub, which when in bloom will be like "Aunt Hannah's patch-work quilt, brighter than tomorrow." Shrubs in most cases are not nearly so particular about their environment as most plants. But even so they refuse to do their best when planted in an angle between two highboard fences, which prevents their receiving either sunshine or fresh air. When your garden is small, the corner opposite the back gate at the foot of your ground is undoubtedly the best location for a shrub. In this way it will never be in the way of clothes that are being dried, and at the same time provide a pleasing vista from the house. But as I said before, no shrub will ever do good in an angle of a high board fence. So if you will have shrubs, and I hope you will, remove the high board fence and in its place plant a hedge or use a low wire fence. By removing the high fence you will seemingly be increasing the size of your garden, and you will also be adding to its sunshine. In a sunny garden you have such a wide choice of shrubs, and the most of them reliable varieties. There are, however, eight varieties that I consider well suited for the average city garden. The first is Azalea Hindogiri, a Japanese variety bearing masses of a fiery red blossom. It is a low growing shrub which you are sure to admire. The second is the old-fashioned lilac, which we all love. The third is the ever-jubilant forsythia, which unfurls its golden petals before the last snow flakes are melting. And the fourth the berberis thunbergii, Japanese barberry. The fifth variety, spiraea Van Houttei is the most beautiful of all spiraea. Sixth there is the syringa; seventh there is the prunus Japanese; the eighth variety let me suggest the deutzia gracilis.

Letters to Jeanne

"Jeanne" answers all questions relating to problems of married life. Names and addresses should be added to letters, as a mark of good faith, but of course will not be published. Write "Jeanne," care of The Newark Post, Wilmington Office, 809 Tatnall Street, Wilmington.

A long engagement is hardly a fair test for love, it's more like an endurance test. It's a rare thing for love to survive the endless waiting, the countless misunderstandings that are sure to arise when an engagement is carried over a period of years. Endless waiting surely takes the edge off romance. As a rule the lover grows lax in his attention, and why not? Isn't the prize all wrapped up and waiting to be delivered? Why shouldn't he take the girl's love for granted, he figures; the girl, on the other hand, begins to wonder and finally grows sensitive. Her imagination plays tricks with her nerves. "Maybe he does, maybe he doesn't," and then the trouble begins. Here is Virginia D., engaged three years and still waiting. Her wedding is at least two years overdue. I doubt if it will ever take place.

Dear Jeanne Smith: Do you believe in long engagements? I have been engaged to a man for three years, he is 31 years old, I am 26; I have given up all my friends for him. We used to discuss our future together, but recently he has avoided all mention of marriage. It isn't a problem of money; he said that he wanted to be absolutely sure that we loved each other. Don't you think that if he isn't sure after three years that there is a possibility that he doesn't care at all? I love him, but he takes my love for granted. He has stopped paying me the little attentions a girl expects, but he still comes to see me often. He goes out with other girls occasionally, but you should hear him rave when I so much as look at another man.

Virginia D.

Answer.—Ask him about it. If the young man hasn't made up his mind after three years, it isn't very likely that he ever will. Of course, you are in a much better position to judge him than I am. If he goes out with other girls, then I see no reason why he should expect you to sit home and wait for him. If he takes your love for granted it seems to me that it is your cue to give him something to think about. You might ask him point blank what he intends to do. After he has monopolized three years of your time and still insists that you limit your friends to him, surely you have a right to know whether you are really and truly engaged or if he considers you merely a playmate. Your own good sense tells you that all is not well. Why don't you get busy and find out for yourself?

Jeanne Smith.

Dear Jeanne Smith: I am 36 years old, have been going with a boy 19. We live very close to each other, in fact we are neighbors. He has been to my home many times but, mostly when some of my folks were at home. Well, here is my story: One evening when we were alone, he asked me for a kiss. At first I hesitated, but finally consented. Do you think I did wrong? Having asked a very good friend of mine about it, she seemed shocked, and said what it some of the neighbors had found out. She was sure that my reputation was ruined.

Shirley M.

Answer.—One kiss will not ruin your reputation, but at the same time it is always a good "motto" to avoid the appearance of evil. And you know or should know that convention does not approve your entertaining the young man in your home when no one else is there. You are rather young to begin courtship in real earnest. Now here is my advice, continue to be friends with the young man, but put off the love making for several years. This will safeguard you as well as fool the newsy friends.

Jeanne Smith.

Dear Jeanne Smith: Can you please tell me if it is possible to remedy this defect? My nose is rather wide and slightly flat, the bridge between the eyes is all right, but the width is very noticeable in the center and at the tip. Every one tells me I am nice looking, but to myself I feel very much to the contrary. It bothers me very much and helps to make me self-conscious. If you can suggest some remedy or treatment to remedy this defect, I should be very grateful. I am quite young and do dislike to think of going through life with such an ugly feature.

A Reader.

Answer.—You will soon outgrow the self-consciousness about your nose. Still you are quite young, and therefore oversensitive about your personal appearance, and since every one thinks you are pretty, I am inclined to agree with the majority of opinions. If the shape of your nose was a real disfigurement, you may be sure that your friends would not hesitate to tell you. However, I can promise you this, that you will not spend the rest of your life regretting that you have not had a different type nose. As you grow older you will have a different sense of values. So what appears tremendously important to you now will not seem so later. Almost any grownup will confirm what I have said. In the meantime you avoid the style of hairdressing that accentuates the wideness of the nose. For instance, do not wear straight bangs. If your hair is bobbed be sure that the ends of the hair at the sides of the face stop either above the level or at the end of your nose, not on a line with it. If you are letting your hair grow arrange it in a dip in front of each ear, bringing the ends behind the ears and curling them in ringlets across the back of your neck.

SHOPPING WITH JEANNE

Dear Nell:

The evening gowns are simply superb this spring. Even if you haven't the slightest intention of buying any one of them, do go into the shops and cast your eyes on these gorgeous creations. Everything is so utterly feminine, and the long skirts, and the trains are quite intriguing. They have, however, put a tiny train on many of the evening gowns, that is not long enough to gather up and would, I'm afraid, cause considerable trouble at dances; for receptions and operas or concerts it is ideal. There is a new gadget known as the "topper" for that package of cigarettes, which insist on spilling loose tobacco shreds all over one's pocket and oftentimes in a girl's hand-bag if she smokes in the public hall. It is of lagging an open package of a popular brand of "ciggies" around. It has a trick top and holds the pack intact so that it won't collapse. You might let me hear from you if you're not too busy with your bridges and incidentally with the children.

Always,

Jeanne Smith.

A FEW weeks ago I wrote in my column about the Carmine Shop, 1004 Delaware Avenue, Wilmington. Now here is the story: If you are thinking about giving the children a party during the Easter holidays, why not do this? You can rent this attractive tea-room and have a very tempting repast served for a very reasonable price, and then, don't you see, all the trouble and worry will be eliminated from you. If you are interested, why not stop here and have Mr. Carmine explain all about the arrangement. I know that he will be glad to do this, and I am sure you will be delighted. Carmine's, 1004 Delaware Avenue, Wilmington.

ONCE Man-O-War was really challenged. A stout-hearted little colt, John P. Grier, moved into the lead in the stretch at Havre de Grace, and for a few fleeting moments thrilled forty thousand spectators into a benumbing silence. For the first time in his racing career he felt the sting of the whip. He lengthened his stride a trifle, his actions became a little smoother. He withstood his one great challenge like the good thoroughbred he was. Camm Bros. and Kindig, printers in Wilmington, have been challenged many times for their exquisite engraving and printing, but they always come out with flying colors. So if there are any spring weddings in the offing among my readers that have not selected their wedding invitations and at home cards, I sincerely hope you will get in touch with the printing company. I'm sure you will like their work. Camm & Kindig, 12th and West Streets, Wilmington.

ALL the smart world knows a real achievement in bags when it sees it. The new hand bags that are being shown at the Joshua Conner's Luggage Store, 235 Market Street, Wilmington, are almost all copies of importations from Paris. A black pin seal with a black strap and trimmed with silver would be quite smart to wear with one's spring ensemble. Another chic model is a navy blue calf-skin with a black strap and silver trimmings. As to the linings of these bags they are handsome, and the same can be said of the fittings. All together they are a fine collection of bags, I think better than you can find elsewhere in Wilmington or Philadelphia for the same reasonable price. Conner's, 235-37 Market Street, Wilmington.

I THINK that brides are almost as fussy about their wedding rings as they are about their engagement rings. So I feel that I simply must tell you about a wonderful display that I saw last week. Suffice it is to say, at the Willard Davis' Jewelry Store, 831 Market Street, Wilmington. Really, I think it would be a sacrifice to try and describe the loveliness of these rings on mere paper. So I am going to extend an invitation to my readers to visit this store and get a real thrill. This display of wedding rings is really exquisite. Willard Davis, 831 Market Street, Wilmington.

WHO wouldn't like to go out for dinner, when you can get such delicious food as is served at the Delaware Tea House, on the Lincoln Highway between Wilmington and Newark. Of course, I am sure that all my readers are familiar with this lovely tea house, because you know they serve a wonderful full course dinner, spring chicken or steak, and all the fresh spring vegetables as well as piping hot rolls and a delectable dessert. Drive out today and have dinner. I'm sure you will enjoy it. Delaware Tea House, Lincoln Highway, between Wilmington and Newark.

I WONDER just how Mozart or Bach or the great Beethoven would react if they could come back to life in this age and hear their matchless compositions played by an unseen and unknown performer, snatched from the air and reproduced to them sitting in their own comfortable arm chair, full, rich and true in tone. Truly, wonders will never cease. What can be more wonderful than the new Atwater Kent radio. All of which reminds me that while in the McAbie Piano Store, No. 2 East 7th Street, Wilmington, last week I heard the newest model, really it's a perfect marvel. Stop in and see it. I know you will like it. McAbie's, No. 2 East 7th Street, Wilmington.

LADY LUCK is still with us. The Levy Shoe Store, 223 Market Street, Wilmington, known to the best people in Delaware as Delaware's oldest and most reliable shoe store, is still at the head of the list for smart shoe styles for men, women and children. Their most popular price is $4.95, and I am here to say from personal experience that you can't even compare it for price, style, nor quality in this town. The children's shoes range from $2.45 to $3.95. You will always find a pleasant atmosphere at Levy's. They are always willing to go out of their own way to please a customer. 223 Market Street, Wilmington.

THE deep tones of the organ, the expectant hush of the waiting guest, the maid of honor has given the last touches to the bridal veil, and at last here comes the bride, her gown of ivory crepe, as snowy as the petals of a magnolia, with softly gleaming pearls, her lovely soft, delicate tulle veil, designed to catch happiness in its gossamer folds. Shagrins, 608 Market Street, Wilmington, is where I found this beautiful bridal finery. If you are going to be married, please do not select your trousseau until you have consulted Shagrins, 608 Market Street, Wilmington.

MENU

Here is a good recipe and easy to prepare. Ham and pineapple combination. Fry a slice of ham, remove it from the pan, put in some round slices of pineapple and cook them until they are brown on each side. Place them on top of the ham and serve one slice of pineapple with the ham to each person. This looks nice and tastes almost heavenly. Try it, I know you will like it!

HOUSEHOLD HINT

Foods in a refrigerator will take on the taste of fish very easily. Therefore, take the precaution of wrapping the fish carefully in waxed paper. Then lay it on the top shelf. The odor should not permeate the refrigerator.

BEAUTY HINT

Even naturally curly hair has its straight days. But a steaming towel will restore the curly loveliness in a few minutes. You can also develop a natural wave this way. Try it some time.

A Light In the Dark

The scientist is generally supposed to be a skeptic.

Solving riddles that have puzzled humanity for ages, he often reaches the point where he believes there are no more riddles to solve. He has small patience with mysteries. Things that the eye cannot see and the hand cannot touch are apt to be dismissed as empty fancies and futile dreams.

Furthermore, since this age has science as its great guiding star, this skeptical turn of mind is becoming popular. Looking ahead, it is quit possible to foresee a generation that scoffs at all mysteries and pitches the spirit out of the window.

But there are scientists and scientists. Some of them look into the darkness and see no end to it, forever; others can find, glimmering far off but steadily, a light that makes the darkness dissolve.

There is, for instance, Dr. William J. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., one of the most famous surgeons in all the world.

The other day, Dr. Mayo took occasion to mention his religious beliefs. To a newspaper reporter he made this remark:

"I know there are many to whom I cannot demonstrate the existence of God and the human soul as I can demonstrate some point in surgery to a class. But in my own heart I know there is a God and I know there is a human soul. Call it by any name you want, there is something in humanity that is above and beyond any material calculations of science."

It might be a good thing for us to tack that little remark up somewhere, so that we should not forget it. As the years go on, and science comes to take an ever-larger position in our lives, we shall need it more and more.

For there is no use blinking this fact: if the net result of this age of enlightenment is to make skeptics out of us all, the race faces a very dismal and unhappy future.

We may talk all we like about happiness and the purpose of life. For most of us, all existence finally comes down to the old, old question—"If a man die shall he live again?"

If science ever succeeds in convincing us that the answer is "no," science will have proved itself a curse to the race and not a blessing.

But it may be that science will tell us nothing of the kind.

Dr. Mayo is as truly great a scientist probably as any man living. He has spent a lifetime studying the tremendous problems of life and death. And now he is able to reassure us:

"There is something in humanity that is above and beyond any material calculations of science."

That is what we need. It is not too much to suppose that that is the answer that all scientists will one day give; admitting that the greatest of mysteries is still a mystery—but a mystery that is touched with a bright glow of undying hope.

Obeying An Impulse

We don't know much about T. J. Jeffries, who is a retired Philadelphia broker; but we have a fellow-feeling for him for he seems to have yielded to a very widespread human impulse.

Mr. Jeffries set out last fall to go to Scotland. But when his ship got there he decided that just riding around on a boat was more fun than anything else he could think of; so, instead of getting off to visit Scotland, he stayed on the boat—and he's been on it ever since. He has crossed and recrossed the Atlantic and has gone on a trip to the West Indies, and he says that he's having such a good time that he'll just stay abroad a while longer.

Probably all of us have felt that way at times. To be traveling just for the sake of traveling is a lot of fun. There's something luxurious, lazy and satisfying about a steamer trip; who hasn't felt the impulse to stay on and indulge in it for weeks at a time?

CATTLE BAN FOR SUSSEX

Lower County Can Only Receive Outside Cattle On A Permit

The Delaware State Board of Agriculture and the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry have been conducting the tuberculin testing of cattle in Sussex county, under the area plan. In order to prevent the introduction into Sussex county of cattle affected with tuberculosis, all cattle entering Sussex county must conform to this regulation.

This order prevents the entrance of any cattle into Sussex county from Kent and New Castle counties and from outside the State, unless they have passed certain satisfactory tests and unless evidence is presented from the official of the State of origin that such cattle conform to the Delaware requirements for cattle entering an area where the tuberculin testing is being or has been conducted under the area plan. Certificates to move cattle into Sussex county from New Castle and Kent counties may be obtained from the State Board of Agriculture, at Dover.

The Delaware Law provides a penalty of fine or imprisonment for any violation of these regulations, which are as follows:

"No cattle for dairy, breeding, feeding, or pasturing purposes shall be brought into areas where tuberculosis eradication is being or has been conducted under the area plan except cattle from herds under Federal and State supervision in this or some other state, and no cattle shall be sold or offered for sale within or be brought into the above described areas unless proof in writing shall be furnished to the Delaware State Board of Agriculture that such cattle have come from under Federal and State supervision, and have been tuberculin tested within ninety days prior to their being brought into such areas, except that cattle moved directly from accredited herds will be accepted if tuberculin tested within one year prior to their being brought into areas tested or under test, and that cattle from herds under Federal and State supervision where the entire herd has passed one clean test, will be accepted, when moved directly from the clean herd, when tested within six months. Cattle from modified accredited areas must have been tested within six months prior to their entry into areas affected by this regulation.

"Dairy, breeding, feeding, or pasturing cattle entering an area where tuberculosis eradication is being or has been conducted under the area plan which have not complied with the requirements of the above paragraph shall be held in quarantine, separate from other cattle, at destination or at such place as may be designated by an officer or agent of the State Board of Agriculture, until after the cattle shall have passed an approved tuberculin retest, within a period of sixty to ninety days after entry into the area. The maintenance of the cattle during the period of quarantine and the tuberculin retest shall be at the owner's expense.

"No steers for feeding or grazing may be brought into the above mentioned areas unless they have passed a tuberculin test satisfactory to the State Board of Agriculture or unless under a special permit issued by the Delaware State Board of Agriculture. "Steers, bulls, cows, or heifers for immediate slaughter may be shipped to regular slaughter centers, but to no other places in the State without permission from the Delaware State Board of Agriculture.

"Any person or persons violating any of the provisions of this regulation shall be subject to the penalty of fine or imprisonment as provided in the Laws of Delaware, 1929."

Gains Made By Some Candidates

idea that there are no more subscriptions to be gotten. There is no truth in that sort of talk is evidenced by the results that new candidates of the campaign are securing, and they are going right over the same territory which some of the other candidates are supposed to have covered. There is a goodly number of subscriptions to be secured in Newark. There is a lot of rural territory which has not been touched. Although some subscriptions have been reported from the outlying towns and communities, fifty per cent of the available subscriptions have not been touched. Perhaps they are a little hard to get, but if they had been easy to secure, these wonderful prizes would not have been offered.

Competition is growing very keen in the campaign and the race is very close. Those who work the hardest this period are going to have the advantage over their competitors as it will require over one subscription next period to earn as many votes as this period. And the candidates who realize this advantage and acts accordingly will certainly not regret it May 3, when that splendid Chevrolet coach and cash prizes will be awarded to the persons holding the highest number of votes.

CHAIRS NEEDED IN THE KITCHEN

"A high stool in a kitchen is as necessary as a chair in the dining-room, and the habit of using it should be acquired," says Kate Henley Daugherty, County Home Demonstration Agent. "One can easily sit while washing dishes, paring the vegetables and ironing the clothes. One should be careful to select the right type of kitchen stool for there are good types and poor types.

"It is also desirable to have a small rocker in the kitchen so that when waiting for something to cook one can relax a few minutes and let nature ease some of the tired lines from the face.

"A wood or coal box on legs and casters does away with needless stooping and enables one to easily roll it to the door to be filled and save tramping mud and dirt in the kitchen during bad weather.

"A dish drainer will eliminate drying three acres of dishes a year, thereby saving energy and time in drying dishes as well as making and laundering tea towels.

"A garbage can near the sink, or work table, with a pedal to step on to lift the lid saves steps as well as stooping, and is one of the greatest conveniences that the home-maker can have in her kitchen. These can be purchased from one dollar up.

"A number of New Castle county home makers have made or purchased service or tea wagon for transporting food and dishes between dining room and kitchen, which is an especially fine labor and time saver where one has a large kitchen or dining room. Specifications for making these service wagons can be obtained free by writing the Extension Service of the University of Delaware.

"Shelves so high that they require stretching are a bane in any kitchen. No shelf should be so high that one cannot see the articles on it easily. This saves stretching both neck and arms. Shelves that reach to the floor are equally as bad for they require much stooping and back bending.

"A kitchen clock, order pad and calendar are also listed among the labor savers of a kitchen. Needless trips to other rooms of the house to see the time of day, to look up a date on the calendar or trips to the grocery store all come under waste steps. An order pad with pencil attached near the cabinet will save one extra trip to town for supplies.

"One of the greatest labor savers which I have in my own kitchen is the tables covered with a plain pattern of cork linoleum. This linoleum is fruit juice stain proof and hot things can be set on it without injuring it and it is easy to keep clean. Also a steam pressure cooker which I have had for ten years still reigns as queen of my kitchen in saving time, labor and fuel."

Every detail mentioned here may seem relatively unimportant, but in reality each one is important. Each pays dividends in factories by reducing fatigue, and it does the same in the home factory, which is the kitchen.

ARTISTIC SIGNS BEING DEMANDED BY ADVERTISERS

The new architecturally correct built poster panels are demanded by the advertisers of today, according to Paul C. Hessler, of Hessler, Inc., the leading outdoor advertising firm of Delaware and the Eastern Shore. Where formerly twenty so-called poster panels or bulletin boards were sold to a customer, now two or three are sold him, and the outdoor advertising is adjusting itself properly to other surroundings. Mr. Hessler attributes this to the fact that as time progresses the industry develops in an evolutionary manner, and not in the revolutionary manner, even as any other business.

The outdoor advertising medium is just about ready to leave the stage of adolescence, according to Mr. Hessler, and he believes in a few years it will be regulated in such fashion by those who control the medium, that it will be distinctively an asset to any community. It will be more and more constricted in districts where the masses of people congregate, to wit, the cities and only in the business districts of the cities in such an attractive manner that it will at once be pleasing to the eye, beneficial to those who use the medium and part and parcel of a busy city and State.

Hessler, Inc., today has less than one hundred and fifty poster panels and bulletins on the highways of the State, compared with over four hundred over four years ago. The company has carried on a great modernization and beautification work, and this is illustrated in the Southern entrance to Wilmington. What formerly was a very displeasing sight to the eye has been improved so that today the approach to Wilmington from down state has become much more attractive and clean.

The day of the clustered bulletin boards has passed. Outdoor display near historic points along the highways, in suburban districts and cities have been taken down, as well as those obstructing long views or a spot of scenic beauty.

ALPHABET SOCIAL

Here is quite the newest yet—Mr. and Mrs. Alphabet. Will entertain on Saturday eve. It will be fun, you may believe. One cent a letter for your names. Is all it costs to join the games. And frolic in an alphabetical way. We'll all be sad if you stay away. For we need the money, you the fun. Save your pennies, be sure and come. To Odd Fellows' Hall, be there at eight.

Saturday, April twenty-sixth, is the date. And the L. G. E. your hostess will be. You'll have a good time for a small fee.

FEW BUSES HALT AT R. R. CROSSING

Startling Facts Contained In
Report To Parent-Teacher
Association

Startling figures showing how many schools in Delaware outside of Wilmington do not have sufficient safety protection for children when they are in school and when leaving the school grounds are revealed in the preliminary report of the survey being made by the Delaware Parent-Teacher Association and the Delaware Safety Council.

Of 176 schools reporting thus far, only 32 schools maintain buses that are brought to a stop at grade crossings when conveying children to school. There are 67 districts that have no safety protection at all.

Other figures that speak for themselves are:

Only 11 school districts have traffic officers near busy crossings.

Only 24 districts have automobile signals at crossings used by school children.

Only 127 school buildings have adequate exits; 27, adequate fire escapes; only 106 schools with doors opening outwards and 121 with exits unobstructed.

This report, while incomplete, was discussed at a joint committee meeting of the Delaware Parent-Teacher Association and the Delaware Safety Council last week in the du Pont-Biltmore.

The survey is divided in three sections—the community, the school building and grounds, and safety education, and has for its purpose the accumulation of information on hazards which will enable the Delaware Safety Council educational program to be shaped to meet the needs as existing and to provide information for the individual Parent-Teacher Association to do remedial work.

It is expected that other Parent-Teacher Associations which have not yet completed their survey will submit their findings to the committee at a later date. A summary of conditions found and reported to the committee revealed many pertinent factors with reference to the location of specific hazards adjacent to the school buildings. The conditions of the buildings from a fire hazard viewpoint and the program of safety education are now receiving emphasis.

Of the 176 schools covered by the Parent-Teacher Association reports, 119 participated in the Safety Council Fire Inspection Campaign, 66 have Junior Safety Councils organized, 47 have School Boy Safety Patrols, and 16 are participating in the Inter-Council Accident Reporting Contest.

Complete results of the survey are being entered in the National Congress of Parent-Teacher Safety Competition.

TO PLANT CELERY.
RICE FOR DUCKS

At a meeting of the State Game and Fish Commission it was decided to plant duck food seed, celery and rice, along the shores of the waters of the State for the migratory birds to feed on. This has been deemed necessary to attract ducks and other birds to Delaware soil.

Practically every mill pond in the State has been supplied with ring perch brought from Indian River.

UNDULANT FEVER PREVALENT IN STATE

Undulant fever, which is often diagnosed as typhoid fever because of the many similarities of conditions attending this disease, is prevalent throughout the entire State of Delaware, according to reports coming to the State Board of Health.

Cases have been reported in Lewes, Milton, Dover, Newark and close by Wilmington.

According to Dr. Arthur C. Jost, executive secretary of the State Board of Health, the only accurate way to diagnose undulant fever is by a laboratory test.

Fortunately, undulant fever is not as dangerous in the way of fatalities as typhoid fever in this State. It is a disease, Dr. Jost states, that is almost entirely rural. It is believed to come from affected cattle and pigs.

FORESTER TO PLANT 20,000 SEEDLINGS

State Forester Taber has arranged for an extensive planting of seedlings on the abandoned ground along the highway from Milford to Selbyville for the Coleman du Pont Road, Inc. According to Mr. Taber, when General du Pont bought the 200-foot right-of-way through Sussex county, he offered to lease the 150 surplus feet of the highway not used, to the farmers whose land fronted on any part of the highway. The charge was a nominal one, but $1 a year, and the farmers were not cashed for fourteen years and then only to maintain Mr. Pont's property rights.

This effort of Mr. du Pont's is an experimental way to try to educate farmers of Sussex county the value of forestation. Mr. Pont will plant 20,000 seedling trees a stretch of road between Milford and Selbyville.

VIEWS WORK OF STATE P-T.A.

President Ennis Gave His Report At Meeting in Dover On Saturday

Dr. T. Ennis, president of the State Parent-Teacher Association, at the annual meeting of the association at Dover on Saturday afternoon, gave his annual report for the year. He pointed out the purpose of the association is to create and arouse public opinion and interest in better schools, and inasmuch as public officials proceed with improvements only as they receive the support of opinion, it is important that explanation, and when the demonstration of desired improvements be presented to the public. "Just as our forefathers of colonial and Revolutionary period solved the tremendous problems of their day, so must we face problems equally tremendous and vastly more complicated. Many logically believe that educational methods are inadequate for the present. We Delaware branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, an organization, have, as you know, approached this problem in an open mind, but with a courage of necessity. We have formerly had the facilities for securing and studying all scientific data. We have studied the phases of the problem, and we come to have faith in modern progressive methods of education, and we are doing our best to aid in getting the information to the public. The response of the local association has been most gratifying.

The Parent-Teacher Association also had as an objective, adult education and the association will be used as an organized body to make the night school an easy success. Fifteen child classes have been the outgrowth of interest in adult education. In the future, the chief program of the P. T. A. may be more highly speeded and intensified. It has been stated that this organization in Delaware reaches twenty per cent of the rural population. The membership this year is larger than it was last year, totalling 11,081, a gain of 244 over last year.

The address of the afternoon was given by Dr. Jesse H. Newlon, director of the Lincoln School, N. Y. City, subject being, "Modern Education." He emphasized the necessity of greater interest in education and educational values and made a comparison of the methods used years ago to those of the present day.

Awards of vases in recognition of special service rendered during the year were made to the following: New Castle County—Augustine, Blackbird, Center Grove, Deakyness, Delaware City, Edge Moor, Hockessin, Howell, Milford, New Roads, Newport, North Star, Oak Grove, No. 130, Pleasant Valley, Port Penn, Stanton, Taylor's Bridge, Walker's, Welsh Tract.

Kent County—Cedar Grove, Church Hill, Clayton, Cowgill's, Denney's, Frederica, Hollandville, Kenton, Little Creek, Oak Grove No. 13, Pratt's, Tomahawk.

Sussex County—Cannon, Cedar Grove No. 17, Dagsboro, Dorothy, Eldorado, Ellis Grove, Fisher's, Lincoln, Messick's, Morgan's, Neal's, Pepper's, No. 151, Reynolds's Hill, Seaford, Smith's, Stockley, Sycamore, Tussocky, Wainwright's, Wooden Hawk, Wesley.

Honorable mention—New Castle County: Hillside, Petterson's, Richardson Park. Kent County: Bennett's, Gale, Bethesda, Diver, Houston, Leipsic, Raughley's, Woodside. Sussex County: Lord Baltimore, Bethel, Blades, Delmar, Ellendale, Gumboro, Hollymount, Kings, Sunnyside.

At the afternoon session musical selections were given by the members of the singing classes from the adult night schools, led by John W. McFadden.

Dr. Allan Hulsizer, director of the Georgetown Elementary School, which will become a demonstration unit in the fall, in discussing the factors which might limit the school mentioned that this type of work is not experimental in public school systems, citing the work done by Dr. Newlon in Denver. He said the State Board is sympathetic, that he has confidence in the staff and that the attitude of the parents is important. He expressed the conviction that the Parent-Teacher Association should continue to show its interest in the demonstration school project.

Dr. H. V. Holloway, secretary of the State Board of Education, emphasized the fact that since we live in a changing civilization, our education must change constantly. Education, he said, which is a peculiarly personal thing, ought to help the individual to become self-helpful, self-directing, self-asserting, self-sacrificing.

STATE GETS BIDS FOR NEW HIGHWAYS

Bids aggregating $588,957.10 were received by the State Highway Department Tuesday for roads and for planting trees along the dual and St. Georges. LIEUT.-GOVERNOR AT ANTI-SALOON CAUCUS

Representatives from the different churches and temperance organizations met in Dover Thursday afternoon in Wesley M. E. Church at a meeting called in the interest of the Anti-Saloon League in Delaware, Delaware having been set apart as a separate unit from Maryland.

Lieutenant-Governor, J. Henry Hazel, presided over the meeting and introduced the two speakers of the afternoon, F. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, and the Rev. Roscoe W. Vining, the new superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Delaware, both of whom spoke of the work of the league and the contemplated program. Mr. McBride was asked many questions by those present as to the wet and dry hearings in Washington and the effect the hearings were having. A nominating committee was appointed to present names for permanent officers to be elected at a meeting to be held some time during the month of Webb, the Rev. Disston Jacobs, Mrs. A. L. Waller, A. A. Wilmont and J. Henry Hazel.

URGES SPRING CLEANLINESS

According to Dr. A. C. Jost, executive secretary of the State Board of Health, Delaware is fairly free at this time of any contagious or infectious diseases.

He urges all citizens to use due precaution in the Spring months as to cleanliness about yards, alleys and other places where rubbish is likely to accumulate as a preventative against drawing flies and other vermin which are breeders of disease.

WORK PROGRESSING ON STATE ROADS

Work on roads for which contracts were awarded several weeks ago is progressing under the best of conditions, according to Secretary Craig of the State Highway Department.

There are six road contracts in progress, including those of the Milford Cut-off of one and one-half miles; Blackiston Cross Roads to Maryland line in West Dover, three and one-

THE straw stack in the barnyard of a farmer fell over one morning and buried four valuable cows and several hogs. Calling his neighbors who had telephones, the farmer asked them to come at once to help save his endangered livestock. The neighbors began arriving with their pitchforks within a few minutes, and their combined efforts succeeded in digging out the cows and hogs without the loss of one.

DELAWARE DEFEATED

BY F. & M. SATURDAY

After giving one of the worst exhibitions of fielding seen on Frazier Field for some years the University of Delaware baseball team on Saturday was defeated by Franklin and Marshall 8 to 7 in 10 innings.

Delaware's infield contributed nine errors, Reitzes, Hill and Taylor each having two and Roman three. Skura was the only member of the infield who did not boot the ball around. The team had plenty of punch and had the game won a couple of times only to boot it away again. Rube Hall pitched much better ball than the score indicates and kept plugging but his support was such that no pitcher could have won under the circumstances.

Franklin and Marshall started the scoring in the first inning getting a run on Dorsey's hit, a stolen base, Reitzes' error and Smoker's single. They added another run in the fourth on Johnson's home run drive. Delaware tied up the score in the fourth on hits by Hill, Reitzes and Roman and Taylor's sacrifice and took a two run lead in the fifth on singles by Hall, Steele, Hill and Roman.

Franklin and Marshall scored a run in the sixth on Mazloff's single and errors by Roman, Taylor and Hill and four more in the seventh which gave them a three run lead. A base on balls, a couple of errors and hits by Sponsler, Dorsey and Smaker brought these four runs in.

Delaware scored another run in the eighth on Roman's walk, Taylor's single and an out and tied the score in the ninth when two runs were scored on Snowberger's single, Steele's walk and hits by Hill and Reitzes. The visitors won the game in the tenth on hits by Mazloff, Smoker and Horst.

Hill led the attack for Delaware with four hits, while Reitzes had three and Roman two. The score:

INSOLVENCY GAINS IN

STATE DURING YEAR

Business insolvency increased slightly in Delaware during the first quarter of the present year, as compared to the corresponding periods for the years 1929 and 1928. Since January 1, to the close of the first quarter this year, 12 firms have failed, and the total liabilities have reached $223,633. In 1929 there were nine firms which failed in the same period of time, and only eight in the previous year.

This, however, does not indicate that business conditions in Delaware are suffering to any great extent. A record of all the firms which became insolvent during the first quarter shows that the percentage in Delaware is comparatively low. In Maryland, during the year 1929 and 1930, there were 88 firms which failed each year. This was a decrease over the previous year, when 108 firms discontinued business. The record of the failures compiled by the R. G. Dunn and Company, also shows that the entire group of States comprising the South Atlantic States, has a lower general average for failures than any of the other groups, with the exception of the Pacific Coast States.

Bank suspensions, however, were higher in the South Atlantic group, with a total of 21 suspensions, and liabilities of $6,878,000. New England States, with only one failure for the first quarter, are second to the Pacific States, where no suspensions were reported.

Lodge Notes

A. O. U. W. OFFICERS INSTALLED

Last Thursday evening a number of members of Anchor Lodge, No. 4, of this place, visited Wilmington Lodge, No. 1, the occasion being the regular semi-annual installation of officers. The Grand Lodge officers were present and performed a double installation, officers of both lodges being inducted into their chairs. The new officers of Anchor lodge installed were: Past Master Workman, Miss Elizabeth Lindell; Master Workman, Miss Alice Fell; Foreman, Lewis Fell; Overseer, George Gravener; Outside Watch, Miss Jennie Whitman; Treasurer, James Frazer.

A very pleasing banquet followed the business meeting, and the Newark Workmen were royally entertained by the Wilmington Lodge.

As important business is to come before the lodge, a full attendance is requested at the regular meeting tomorrow evening at 7.30.

MINEOLA COUNCIL, D. OF P.

The Chiefs of Mineola Council, No. 17, D. of P., were raised to their respective stumps on last Wednesday sleep by Deputy Great Pocahontas, Della Bowers and her staff, from Wynema Council, of Wilmington. The staff is made up of Past Pocahontases from the different Councils of Wilmington, and their work is beyond comparison.

The Chiefs raised were: Prophetess, Jennie Schaefer; Pocahontas, Lillian Messick; Wenonah, Florence Krapf; Powhatan, Margaret McAllister; Keeper of Records, Elsie Wiedman; Collector of Wampum, Viola Ewing; Keeper of Wampum, Sara Tryens; First Warrior, Georgia Palmer; Second Warrior, Laura Mearns; Third Warrior, Evelyn Houghton; Fourth Warrior, Olivia Houghton; First Scout, Mary Brown; Second Scout, Melissa Eissner; First Runner, Stella Eli; Second Runner, Florence Sult; First Councillor, Eva Sporgell; Second Councillor, Nettie Conner; Guard of the Forest, Mary J. Greenplate; Guard of the Teepee, Amanda Astle.

After the impressive ceremony of raising the Chiefs of the Council, there were short talks on Redmanship by Great Chief of Records Edward McIntire, Great Junior Sagamore Ben Cooper and others which were both interesting and instructive. Councils from Union, Bear, Wilmington, Cherry Hill, Md., and North East, were represented.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Herman A. Messick, who was called home on April 19, 1928.

Weep not that his toils are over.
Weep not that his race is run.
God grant we may rest as quietly
When our work like his is done.

'Till then, yield with gladness
His soul with God to keep,
And rest with the sweet assurance,
He giveth His loved one's sleep.
Sadly missed by his many friends.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear husband, Samuel T. Stewart, who departed this life April 20, 1929.

He is gone but not forgotten,
Never shall his memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Around the grave where he is laid.
Loving Wife.

CLUB PLANS FOR HUGE CROWD AT EASTER DANCE

Members of the Company E Club are planning for the largest crowd that has appeared at any dance in the Elkton Armory for its Easter Ball, which will take place Tuesday evening from nine until one o'clock.

Jean Goldkette's Casa Loma Orchestra, which has the contract to furnish the music for the affair, is expected to be in excellent fettle as the result of a week's vacation and, according to reports, will provide the best music that has been heard in this section of the country.

As usual, the decorations will present a novel appearance with the motif of Easter predominating. Plans call for an artificial ceiling of purple with a huge white cross worked in, making the richness of the purple stand out.

To the rear of the orchestra platform are strung streamers, also purple and white, while over the entrance will shine the sign announcing the affair. The orchestra platform is now about three feet high, in order that the entire group of patrons may view the novelty and entertaining numbers of Jean Goldkette's Casa Loma Orchestra.

Radio station WILM is broadcasting an announcement of the affair nightly between selections on records.

Programs will be in purple and white, as were the announcements for the dance. The members of the Company E Club announce that it is not necessary to present an announcement at the door Tuesday evening, as it has been impossible to reach everyone interested in the affair with a personal invitation.
