Serial rapist apprehended

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Residents in the tri-state area might be able to sleep better at night since New Castle County Police announced it believes the serial rapist, plaguing this area for more than three years, has been caught.

The serial rapist attacked women while they were sleeping in their homes during the night.

New Castle County Police Chief Thomas Gordon said at an Aug. 22 news conference held at New Castle County police headquarters, that on Aug. 21 Michael Siple, 29, of Chesapeake City, Md., was arrested by Ocean City (Md.) police for illegally entering an apartment and the attempted rape of a woman.

A New Castle County police press release states, "... after intensive investigation (New Castle County police detectives) are convinced Siple is the serial rapist who has been preying on women in New Castle County from 1989 until 1992."

Gordon said they believe Siple is the serial rapist based on a pattern of behavior, which includes attacking a woman home alone and wearing a mask or covering the victim's face during the rape. This pattern, similar in all the New Castle County rapes, was followed in the attempted rape in Ocean City.

New Castle county police have arrest warrants on file for Siple for a rape charge and other charges are pending.

"The Newark police department," Lt. Roy Clough, head of criminal investigations for Newark police said, "will wait until DNA results to make any charges in the serial rape cases, unless the attorney general says otherwise."

He said Newark police want to be very

City council lowers 'boom-boom' penalty

By HEATHER HARTRIM
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Newark police's "boom-boom" ordinance rumbled past city council members at Monday's meeting.

The ordinance, found in the criminal noise code, was added to the city's traffic code after being amended by Councilman Hal Godwin. It defines the illegal amplification of car stereos and other sound devices, such as horns, to beyond 50 feet from a moving or stationary car.

As the ordinance reads in the criminal law, first-time offenders are subject to a criminal arrest with fines ranging from a minimum of $100 to a maximum of $500 with the option of a six month prison term.

The amendment removed the option of imprisonment, which was viewed by council members as being too harsh.

"Imprisonment is out of line," Councilman Tom Wampler said.

Removing the option of imprisonment does not lower the impact of the ordinance, Newark Police Chief Hogan said. "I'm not aware of anyone who has ever gone to jail for playing their car stereo too loud," he said.

With the ordinance now in the traffic codes, tickets can be issued quicker and implications for juveniles, the primary violators, are different. Traffic violations are handled through the Alderman's Court rather than family court, as they are in criminal cases.

This gives juvenile's equal responsibility as adults, Hogan said.

"We like [the ordinance] in the sense that it generates a penalty that is as valuable for kids as adults," he said. "It gives [the kids] more responsibility because parents aren't contacted."

Sergeant John Potts proposed the ordinance to council after numerous complaints from Newark residents, particularly those on Tyre Avenue.

One Tyre Avenue resident, who has lived in her house since it was built in the early 1950s, claims that she can't get to sleep some nights until 3 a.m. as a result of the loud stereos.

"It's a game at night," she said. "They turn it up loud for devilment."

David Langenberg, a first-year Tyre Avenue resident, said he is bothered most by the low bass tones. "It shakes my house," he said.

Langenberg said the worst times are Friday and Saturday nights when kids are cruising Main St.

Wilburfest organizers compromise with City

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

In a recent "spirit of cooperation," the organizers of Wilburfest, an annual University of Delaware student party, met with their opposition in an effort last week to forge a compromise.

In response to this year's party, which attracted about 5,000 people, Newark City Councilman Hal Godwin asked council members to consider banning the party. Legally, however, the party cannot be stopped since it takes place on the private property of five homes on Wilbur Street.

An amendment to the city's large gathering ordinance was proposed instead, but council voted to table the decision until students return to school.

The amendment will not prohibit the party, but will require organizers to reimburse the city for policing costs.

In the meantime, though, a meeting with the organizers of Wilburfest, Godwin, and Emmaus House leaders has helped ease the hard feelings between the different entities as well as spark a compromise.

"Our number one priority is to move the party from Wilbur Street," Godwin said. "I have no problem with the party, but it doesn't respect its neighbors."

Residents of nearby homes and police reports have corroborated Godwin's sentiment.

Accounts of widespread underage drinking, beer cans, male and females urinating on neighbors' property and a general lack of Vandals broke into The Delaware Autistic Center on Brennan Road in Newark Aug. 23, rifled through and wrecked six classrooms, according to a Delaware State police report.

The school, which is part of the Christina School District but serves children state-wide, had paint, food and papers strewn on the floor. Also, the vandals overturned desks and bookcases, overflowed toilets, defecated and urinated on the floor and flooded the rooms by turning on sinks and plugging the drains.

Autistic Director Andrew Bondy said the school has had minor problems with vandalism such as spray paint on the outside of the building and the school being broken into and shaving cream being sprayed in classrooms previously, but nothing this severe had occurred.

Police report that nothing was stolen from the school and estimated the damages at $6,000 to $7,000.

Teachers and staff began cleaning up the rooms Tuesday but also had to teach regular classes at the year-round autistic school.

To accommodate the students space needs, classes were held in nearby schools such as Jennie Smith Elementary School and Sterck School for the Hearing Impaired. Classes also were doubled in size.

Newark parents can get out of taxi business

By NANCY TURNER
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

When time is at a premium, a new company called Kids Kab is helping parents with hefty car pooling schedules to be in more than one place at one time.

Kids Kab was founded in 1991 by Pam Henderson, a mother of three from Michigan with a full time career who was overwhelmed with "trying to be everything to everybody."

It is a prearranged transportation service with 17 franchises that uses vans to shuttle thousands of children around communities to scout meetings, swim classes, orthodontists, movies, and whatever else they might get into.

There are three franchises in this area: Princeton, N.J., Rockville, Md., and Yorklyn, De.

The franchise opened in Yorklyn in September 1993 and currently serves more than 200 regular customers in the Hockessin-Newark-Wilmington area.

"Our main marketing effort is in the Newark area of zip codes 19701, 19711, and 19713," said Brian Finnegan, a co-owner of Kids Kab Yorklyn who, along with owners David and Alide Skinner, brought the operation to Delaware.

Another franchise is soon to open in Dover.

"This is a major growth industry," said Finnegan. "The hardest thing to overcome is having people become aware of what it

Bancroft principal Pritchett honored

By HEATHER HARTRIM
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Maurice Pritchett, named Delaware's National Distinguished Principal by the National Association of Elementary School Principals, has been a principal at Bancroft Elementary school for 20 years. A Newark resident, Pritchett has dedicated his life to children. "The students come first," he said. "I really love the kids. It's like their all my own."

Elaine Lewis, teacher, parent and PTA secretary, can attest to Pritchett's dedication to the children. "He's outside every morning to greet them," said Lewis, a nominator for the NDP award. "He knows the majority of students by name. The students know that he cares that they're coming to school."

Pritchett uses to intercom to announce students' achievements. "He announces kids achievements both in and out of school," Lewis said. "Everyone feels like they belong."

When planning PTA sponsored field trips, Pritchett makes sure all children can afford everything, Lewis said.

A team of teachers who wrote a letter of recommendation for Pritchett's portfolio agree. "He reaches into his pockets as quickly as he does into his heart, without hesitation," the teachers wrote.

Money is one thing that Bancroft doesn't run short on. The teachers and administrators have written and received several grants for technology. Pritchett is proud of his staff's efforts and the resulting computer program.

The school has a computer lab and computers in the library. Pritchett hopes to remove the wall that separates the two and make a large multi-media resource room. "We almost had enough money this year," he said. "I hope we can do it for next year."

Bancroft principal Maurice Pritchett honored as a National Distinguished Principal.

Along with the advancements in technology, Pritchett is proud of the safety of the school. This summer murals were painted in bathrooms and on the walls of children working and playing.

"I'm trying to make the students feel at home," he said. "I want them to treat it like a home away from home, with respect."

Pritchett, while focussing most of his energy on the children, also stays involved in the community.

He attended Bancroft for grades seven through nine, when it was a junior high school. Those were the days before court-ordered desegregation.

"It was just different," Pritchett said. "Kids just walked to school. There was little bussing."

Pritchett went back to Bancroft as the community school coordinator in 1971. He was promoted to assistant principal in 1973 while completing a master's degree in educational administration at Villanova University and then to principal in 1976. "It was different for me," he said. "I became the boss of the people that taught me."

Two of his aunts were teachers at Bancroft and they, along with his grandmother inspired him to become an educator.

"I went to Delaware State College on a basketball scholarship and I didn't know what I wanted to do," he said. "[My aunts and grandmother] were teachers so I thought that I'd try it. It was the best decision I've made."

Pritchett was in the school when desegregation became a court order.

"It started a whole new ball game," he said. "It's worked out well. We have more equipment and beautification than before desegregation."

Pritchett's wife, Juanita, has seen all these changes with him. They have been married for 26 years and have four children.

He and his wife will attend ceremonies in Washington D.C. Sept. 29 and 30. Included in the festivities will be a black tie ball with President Clinton.

DNA links can be semen, hair, blood or skin and can be taken from the rape victim, bedding or the scene of the rape.

Gordon said Siple is having DNA tests done, which are being sent to The FBI Laboratory in Washington D.C. to be analyzed. He said results will take about 6 weeks.

The two rapes in Newark believed to be linked to the serial rapist occurred at Towne Court Apartments July 6, 1990 and Christina Mill Apartments Nov. 8, 1991.

The serial rapist's last believed attack in New Castle County occurred in North Wilmington's Straford Apartments Dec. 8, 1992.

Rapes linked to the serial rapist in the Newark area include Chestnut Crossing Apartments Jan. 3, 1992 and Aug. 17, 1992; The Elms Apartments Sept. 6, 1992; Maple Square Trailer Park Oct. 10, 1992; Stones Throw May 8, 1992 and Henderson Place Apartments Sept. 27, 1991.

Other rapes linked are one in Cecil County, Md. Jan. 26, 1990 and in West Town East Goshen, Pa. Dec. 15, 1991.

Police said Siple was caught by Ocean City (Md.) police when he broke into a woman's apartment and tried to rape her.

The woman was able to escape from Siple and run to her balcony, screaming frantically for help. Police said two Ocean City Bike Patrol Officer's heard her scream, responded and caught Siple fleeing from the apartments.

CORRECTIONS

An error was made in the August 5 issue. In the article titled "Two Christiana principals attend leadership academy at UD" the academy was said to be funded its first year by a $40,000 grant from the Delaware Department of Education. The correct amount of the grant given by the U.S. Dept. of Education is $400,000.

A piece of information was excluded from the August 19 article on WNRK. The frequency is 1260 AM.

Two errors were made in the Home Depot hunting for home article in the Aug. 12 issue. The correct name of the church is Old Fort U.A.M.E. and the cemetery one-fourth of an acre. The church was incorrectly identified as was the acreage.

The Newark Post strives for accuracy, however, when errors are made, they will be corrected in this space.

Compromise an important step

THE WILBURFEST ORGANIZERS have decided to compromise with Newark City Council on how to handle future bashes. This is an encouraging sign.

Wilburfest — albeit a good time for a good cause (the Emmaus House) — has caused problems for residents in the area of Wilbur Street. There isn't much debate about this. However, devising a law or ordinance just to get rid of Wilburfest isn't the way to go either.

This is a college town and has been for over 150 years. The University of Delaware certainly is not something new.

We are not the only town in the country that has a university in it. Newark is not the only one to have problems with wild or large parties.

Surprising as it may sound, many of these other communities have learned to co-exist with the universities in their area.

Rational and reasonable dialogue is the way most of these other places have developed a good relationship between the town and college. This was how the Wilburfest problem has been handled.

City Council agreed to delay a vote on the subject until the students came back. In the mean time, the organizers have decided to look for an alternative spot for the day-long party. If no spot can be found, they have agreed to limit the crowd to 3,500 (over 5,000 attended this year) and raise the ticket price to $10.

In the future, the students will have to pay for the security; previously it has always been at the city's expense. This is good news to all city taxpayers.

This compromise seems to be a good faith attempt to rectify concerns of some Newarkers. Kudos to both sides for sitting down and talking.

Congratulations to title teams

IT'S ALMOST UNHEARD of for one Little League to send two teams to two different World Series.

Canal Little League, though, did exactly that this summer. In fact, it's the second time in three years that Canal has sent two softball teams to the World Series. This year's feat, however, was made even more amazing by the fact that the boys 11-12 year-old baseball team joined the 11-12-year-old and 13-15 year-old girls in regional play.

At one point last Sunday, Canal had teams playing in Bristol, Conn., Kalamazoo, Mich. and Portland, Ore. It's safe to say that Canal was the only league in the country that had teams playing coast to coast.

Besides the on field success, one of the most satisfying things about the accomplishments of these teams is the way the boys and girls represented Canal, our community and Delaware when traveling to other parts of the country.

The play and actions of these teams makes all feel good to be part of this community.

Congratulations are in order to everyone involved with the teams and the league.

This not only includes the players and coaches — who put in endless hours of hard work — but the parents and relatives as well. Everyone associated with these championship teams gives up eight weeks of the summer to play, coach, support and cheer.

It's a tremendous effort and everyone should share in the success.

EDUCATIONAL PERSPECTIVE

Ball players, teachers have it rough

By JACK BARTLEY

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

It is hard to resist the temptation to write an article about the baseball strike. So, I won't.

I was inspired by an article by Bill Lyon, a sports writer for the Philadelphia Inquirer, in which he compared salaries of teachers and major league baseball players and the reactions of people when faced with the possibility of a strike by either group. He noted that most people react in a similar fashion (righteous indignation) when issues of salary cloud the horizon, even though teachers provide a highly necessary and important service to the community at a salary several orders of magnitude less than ball players whose primary product is entertainment.

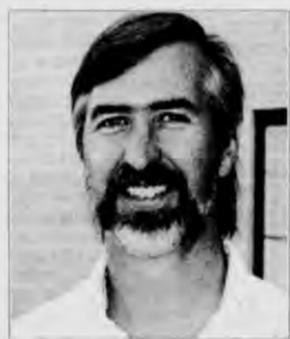

Why is the reaction so similar?

It is probably due to the fact that many similarities exist between teachers and ball players. For instance, both groups work less than a full year. Teachers work from September through the middle of June leaving two and one half months of vacation. However, as discussed in last month's column, "vacations" are not what they used to be since many teachers continue to work in the schools throughout the summer or attend classes at local colleges and universities.

Major league baseball players

■ A contributing to the Newark Post for the past two years, Bartley is a teacher and volleyball coach at Glasgow High manage to squeeze in a mere five months of time off between the last pitch of the World Series and the opening of spring training. Unfortunately, many players cannot enjoy this limited amount of free time at home due to inclement winter weather and must spend extra money to travel to their condos and villas located in warmer climes.

Another similarity between ball players and teachers are salary figures. Bobby Bonilla of the Mets will lose $31,148 as a result of the players' strike. This is about the same salary figure for a teacher with a masters degree and several years experience. The difference is that poor Bobby loses that amount each day of the strike since that is the amount he "earns" daily by hitting and catching a ball, while our hypothetical teacher would have to be on strike for an entire year to accrue such losses.

Teachers and ball players both have articles written about them while they are on strike. Money-grubbing, heartless, and irresponsible are terms frequently employed (pick one and apply it to the appropriate group). However, it is rare to see an article about how difficult life for a teacher is while on strike. Not so for ball players.

Baseball players apparently face extraordinarily debilitating circumstances while idled in the throes of pre-negotiations posturing. The front page headline (front page!) of the August 19th Philadelphia Inquirer, a Pulitzer Prize winning paper many times over, dealt with Curt Schilling's boredom while on strike.

This moving article (I won't explain how I was moved) delineated how difficult it was for Curt to find enough raison d'être to get up and walk across the street to his country club, drive his Lamborghini or Corvette through Chester County country roads, take a dip in his Jacuzzi, play pool or watch one of his two televisions. Come to think of it, I guess that makes for more interesting reading than a story about a teacher coming off a picket line, revving-up a sporty Plymouth Voyager and heading home to crack a cold one while watching Jeopardy in front of a 19 inch Toshiba.

Fortunately for Christina School District residents, students, and teachers, there will be no strike this year. The successful "Win/Win" negotiations created an atmosphere

WANT TO LEARN ABOUT FOREIGN CULTURES?

Hosting foreign students can benefit families as well

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Do you know in China tea is grown from seeds that look like malted milk balls? Or that in Germany only police officers are allowed to have guns and they turn in their firearms when they get off of work?

Newarkers can learn these and other facts about international students by participating in the Home Hospitality Program.

In the program, local families and single people befriend a foreign student attending the University of Delaware who is new to America.

The program was started by the United Church Women in the 1950s, according to Melora Davis, public relations person for the program.

"When just a few foreign students came to the University of Delaware, they recognized that the students were in limbo," Davis said, on why the program was started.

Now about 3,288 foreign students attend the university and the program coordinators are currently looking to match local families and individuals with 150 international students arriving in Newark this week.

Davis said basically foreign students need someone to show them around and teach them about culture in the United States. She said also visiting foreign professors teaching at the University of Delaware also participate in the program to learn local customs.

Host families, Davis said, can live New Castle County and surrounding states and are only required to meet with the student when they arrive at the university. She said after the introduction meeting, the structure of the relationship is up to the host and the foreigner.

"The object of the program is to provide a small support system for students to get them in American homes and show them American culture," Davis said. She said host activities range from taking the foreign students shopping, to dinner and recreational activities such as baseball games, to the beach or the movies.

Other activities could include having the students over during holidays — although a lot of foreign students travel during holidays — for dinner or providing housing for a few days when the student first arrives until the dormitory opens or the student finds accommodations.

The international students come from Asian countries, Europe and South America and are mostly graduate students in their late teens or early 20s. The students can pay for their own activities and speak English.

Davis, who has hosted many foreign students since the 1960s, said recently she befriended a Korean girl who she took grocery shopping, to the mall and to thrift shops to find basic housewares for the girl's new apartment.

For more information about the program, call Melora Davis at 292-8621.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To: The Editor
From: Bharat J. Gajjar

In the year 1971, my two children, Meeta (7) and Ajay (8) were the only Asian-Indian kids in an all white school. One day Meeta came running home looking very unhappy. She said, "Daddy, why am I this color? The kids tease me and I don't like it."

I told her, "You are an Indian from the great land of Bharat called Hindustan, which is 10,000 miles away. Sweetheart, you are of golden color, you are my beautiful golden girl. These people who tease you sit in the sun for a long time just to look like you. They'll even spend money to go to tanning salons. God made you perfect, just the way you are, and God made others different. We have to accept each person as they are."

When I was a boy in India the darker neighborhood boys teased me by saying Dhoda, Dhoda, Gathoda; Kala Kala Krishna." This means: whites are donkeys and blacks are Lord Krishna. I ran to my mom crying and asked why was I so white. She said, "Lord Krishna is not black, he is blue like the sky as he is God. Now stop crying and go play."

Some Indians call all white people Europeans or pale face or potatoes without skin. Meeta was very happy hearing my discourse, but I told her that you must respect and love all people of all color. Meeta liked being called my golden girl.

In Philadelphia, 1953 at the time when I was in college, my American friend asked me if I wanted to go to the Atlantic City seashore. We drove there, then took a walk on the beach. At that time, there were no African-Americans on the beach. As we were walking, one man came running up to us and told me that I had the most perfect tan he had ever seen. He asked me what brand of lotion I used. When I realized he was serious, I told him that I make my own. As we parted he kept looking at me wondering if I was telling him the truth.

Color is skin deep. Anyway, this world is beautiful because there are people of many colors, races, shapes and statures. Variety is the spice of life.

of cooperation in which administrators and teachers could forge an equitable contract and secure ratification months before the start of a new school year. Your tax dollars, generated by referenda that are sometimes as difficult to pass as a kidney stone, ensure the continuation of a school system in which the children of our community receive the knowledge and skills necessary to be successful in life from dedicated professionals in a nurturing and caring environment.

Unfortunately, the major league baseball strike continues. You will be unable to have the privilege of paying $5 to park a mile from the stadium in which you will get to watch an anti-sized (from your overpriced seat's point of view), $1.5 million utility infielder strike out with two men in scoring position while the squirmy kid behind you dumps a cold Pepsi down your back. All that remains of the gustatory joy of consuming a $2.50 hot dog, with no mustard, in a roll that has been steamed with the alleged meat until the two are inseparable and washed down with a small, warm $4 beer is a fleeting memory (and occasional gas). Finally, the delight of the inevitable one hour traffic jam that gives you the time to reflect on the disheartening loss you just witnessed as the result of the competent manager lifting one inept $4 million pitcher for another inept $3 million dollar pitcher is gone for the summer.

Go, teachers! Go, Blue Rocks!

Private security force on patrol in area

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

One of the unfortunate side effects of fast-paced population growth is the increase in crime that often accompanies it.

Bill Harden, acting media coordinator for New Castle County Police, said the crime rate in the Newark and Pencader areas has "gone up with the marked increase in population," a population that county planners predict will increase almost 72 percent by 2010.

From this situation, a business with the capacity to profit both the community and their own bank accounts, has emerged.

Private security businesses are seeing an increase in demand for security patrol officers in neighborhoods plagued with crime or neighborhoods taking proactive measures to avoid it.

The Lackawanna Detective Agency, Inc., in particular has opened two new accounts in the past three months for patrol services in Admiral Club Apartments, on Kirkwood Highway, and Huntley Glen-Langley Park rental community, near Fox Run Shopping Center.

James P. Hetherton, president and founder of Lackawanna and a retired Wilmington police officer, said the company's first account for community patrol was in 1975, when the company opened. The neighborhood was Four Season's Strawberry Run apartment complex and until recently the demand for similar jobs hasn't surfaced.

Hetherton said the communities his company serves are hoping to control noisy parties, car break ins, underage drinking and vandalism.

"Most trouble coming from complexes is caused by outsiders," Hetherton said. "People looking for something to steal or wreck."

Hetherton's officers are trained as security personnel, not police, but some have fulfilled the requirements necessary to carry a firearm. They cannot make an arrest, but can hold a person, in handcuffs if needed, until police arrive.

Residents who live in Huntley Glen or Admirals Club might have noticed Lackawanna's officers. They patrol neighborhoods in used police cars painted black and white.

Hetherton said he believes it is better for the officers to be in full uniform, so they are noticeable to would-be criminals as well as the community.

Referring to his days on the Wilmington Police Force, Hetherton said, "One aspect of police work I never liked was plain clothes undercover, it bored me...I liked dealing with the public better in a uniform because you were more readily identifiable."

As far as the signal his officers send about a neighborhood's safety, be it negative or positive, Hetherton said, "If I moved into apartments, I'd feel better knowing the area was patrolled."

"We have to look the part, I'm very strict in uniforms," Hetherton added. "We stand out but can't be accused of impersonating (the police)."

When the officers establish themselves in a community, Hetherton said it isn't uncommon to start getting calls from residents who report disturbances.

In fact, Hetherton said community feedback about his officers and their black and white patrol cars has been positive.

Lackawanna, taken from the name of an Indian tribe and a Delaware western railway, employs 42 people. Some employees are in Lackawanna's undercover detective branch and others are security officers.

The officers are trained in public relations, Supreme Court decisions on search and seizure, and methods of non-lethal force to be used when apprehending a suspect.

"The last thing you want to use is a weapon," Hetherton said.

Seventeen of Hetherton's employees have left to become police officers.

Newark made rape cases inactive

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Newark police investigated the serial rapist cases full-time until just two months ago.

Newark police officer Susan Farrell worked with New Castle County police on the Rape Task Force from Oct. 1992 until June of 1994.

At that time, Lt. Roy Clough, head of criminal investigations for Newark police said, a decision was made to make the case inactive since it had been more than a year and a half since a rape linked to the serial rapist had occurred in New Castle County.

Clough said Farrell worked on the Rape Task Force investigating leads called into the serial rapist tip line.

Farrell worked full-time on the task force for 15 months, was cut back to three days a week in the beginning of 1994 and then was taken off the rape cases in June of 1994.

Clough said nothing had happened in the investigation and there were no clues since the North Wilmington rape on Dec. 8, 1992.

He said with clues diminishing and one person being two percent of Newark police's work force, the decision was made to concentrate on more recent criminal cases.

"We felt we had exhausted most leads at that point," Clough said.

Clough said Ocean City police should be commended for quickly contacting New Castle County police.

OFFICE MANAGER-EDITORIAL ASSISTANT

THIS IS AN IMPORTANT STAFF POSITION that far exceeds the traditional receptionist role! In addition to answering phones and operating the "nerve center" of our busy newspaper offices, this key staffer plays a major role in the solicitation, selection, typesetting and editing of important columns and sections of our popular newspapers.

A PLEASANT PERSONALITY and basic office skills are necessary, but the best candidate will complement these essential qualifications with a basic knowledge of editorial procedures or the ability to learn them.

NO MATTER HER OR HIS BACKGROUND, the best candidate will be a person who loves serving his or her community, is organized and efficient in office skills, understands the newspaper business or is experienced in customer service. We will select only a candidate who can successfully join our devoted team of newspaper professionals.

OUR SALARY IS COMPETITIVE and our company benefits are excellent, including group BC/BS health insurance, life and disability insurances, vacation and sick leave, tuition reimbursement and a 401-K plan. Employee-paid dental insurance also is available. The Newark Post and New Castle Business Ledger are published in Newark by Chesapeake Publishing Company, a chain of 48 publications that stretches southward to Williamsburg, Va.

IF WE HAVE STIRRED YOUR INTEREST, and you are a qualified applicant, deliver your cover letter and resume immediately. All replies will be held in the strictest confidence. CPC is an equal opportunity employer.

Wilburfest compromise forged

► PARTY, from 1A

composure were heard by council members during their July 11 meeting.

If an alternative cannot be found, Godwin said organizers agreed to limit the amount of tickets sold to 3,500 and probably raise the ticket price from $6 to $10, as well as provide their own security people.

"If I want it relocated, it puts the burden on me to do the homework," Godwin said.

Suggested alternatives were the Carpenter State Park or university-owned land.

Newark area State Senator, James P. Neal, said the state needs to be sure this party is in character with what the park stands for, before any decisions are made.

"It's a borderline event," Neal said. "We still need to negotiate."

Neal said he is also concerned about party's distance from the university, "if it's too far away the students won't go."

Godwin contacted university officials about housing the party and "surprisingly they didn't slam the door in my face," he said. He said he plans to continue looking at alternatives.

He said he plans to schedule a public meeting discuss the party sometime this fall, probably at the student center.

Mary Ellen Green of the Emmaus House, a non-profit homeless family shelter, said she is pleased that Wilburfest organizers have made the commitment in August for an advance plan with consideration to their neighbors.

Angela Stockman, Wilburfest organizer, was out of town and unavailable for comment.

CVS robber caught

PARENTS TO PICKET FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL?

Metts promises Smith will be fixed

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Parents are threatening to picket and keep their children home from the first day of school at Jennie Smith Elementary if the Christina School District does not fix water leakage and air quality problems at the school.

Christina Superintendent Iris Metts has promised, weather permitting, that the school will be ready and safe for students to return to classrooms there in two weeks.

"I will personally make arrangements to have Smith kids in another building if the work is not done, but I assure you it will be finished," Metts said.

More than 35 parents turned out at a meeting Tuesday afternoon to discuss their complaints about the school's condition to Metts and other school district officials.

Parents demanded the roof and floor of the school's gym be replaced, all water-stained ceiling, floor tiles and lights be replaced throughout the building and leaking pipes be fixed.

Vice President of Jennie Smith PTA, Vivian Sartori, said the school's gym has been shut down since December of 1993 because of air quality with the roof leaking and the gym emitting a "pungent smell."

"The gym smelled so bad that it was impossible to hold anything in there," Sartori said.

When the gym was closed last year, Smith students watched videos, learned about health and exercised in classrooms.

Sartori said besides the problems with the gym, there is water damage in the main hallway, store room, third grade wing and window leaks in four second grade classrooms.

Dr. Capes Riley, district assistant superintendent of planning and facilities management, is supervising the school clean up.

Riley said the gym roof and floor will be replaced and other reported roof leaks will be fixed by the opening of school.

He also said damaged ceiling tiles, electrical fixtures and cracked floor tiles will be replaced and summer cleaning will be completed by the first day of school. Leslie Crevier of Newark, who will have a first and second grader at Jennie Smith this year, said she will picket the school if that's what she has to do to benefit her children.

She is worried about the safety of her children and the other students.

"I don't think they (district officials) realize what a big problem and safety hazard it (the school's condition) is," said Crevier. "Children are not replaceable and the school administration is getting paid to guarantee the safety of my child 100 percent."

Parent Donna Reed said the leaking roof and pipes at the school have created a rotten ceiling, mold and mildew.

"The PTA has been very quiet and patient about this," Reed said, "but they want the school fixed before students return for the new school year."

Metts said also Batta, an independent environmental testing agency, will come in before the start of school to test the air quality.

Kelsch to challenge Amick in Republican primary

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Nancy Kelsch, Republican candidate for Newark area State Senator in District 10, will face State Representative Steve Amick in the primary election Sept. 10.

Kelsch is no stranger to the election process. She ran for the 23rd district representative seat in 1988 and 1992, but lost in the primaries.

This year Kelsch said people asked her to run for the state senate, and she is. Some of the issues important to her include education and safety.

"The reason I'm running is because I believe people are more important than the party," Kelsch said. "Laws should be directed toward building character for people and society—not solutions that don't work."

Kelsch said the Brady Bill recently passed in Congress, was an example of solutions that do not work.

"If they had passed the law before Brady was shot it wouldn't have saved him from being shot," Kelsch speculated.

A home school teacher for five of her grandchildren, Kelsch said she believes it is important to introduce phonics into the schools.

"With the 'New Directions' the state is trying to get new text books," Kelsch said. "Why shouldn't they be phonics books?"

If elected, Kelsch said she would like to see higher wages for teachers and more enthusiastic teachers for students.

Although unfamiliar with local interest in a highway bypass around Newark, (sought after by residents and government officials concerned about truck traffic) Kelsch said she is concerned about safety on the roads.

If elected, she said she would work to get reflectors placed on the highways.

When asked why constituents should vote for her, she replied, "Because I don't see politics as a game...I see going to Dover to be a public servant not a politician."

Nancy Kelsch

Kelsch and her husband of 37 years, Dave, moved to Delaware in 1973 and have lived in Fairfield ever since. They are members of St. John's Catholic Church in Wilmington.

ROTARY CLUB ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR TRIP TO SOUTH AFRICA

Five week, all expenses paid trip slated

The Newark Rotary Club and Rotary International, District 7630, are accepting applications for an all expense paid, five-week trip to Port Elizabeth, South Africa, in March 1995, according to Greg Warren, the Newark club's Director of International Services.

District 7630 includes 42 Rotary clubs in Delaware, including Newark and Glasgow, and the Eastern Shore of Maryland. The Group Study Exchange (GSE) team is an educational activity designed to promote international understanding through travel and person-to-person contact. The annual program provides travel grants covering air fare, meals, and housing for teams of non-Rotarian professionals in paired exchanges between countries, Warren said.

The GSE team will consist of four members, male or female, and there is no age restriction. Members must have been actively engaged in a profession for at least two years at the time of application, with the intention of remaining in the work force in that field so that the exchange impacts their long-term career paths. Team members cannot be related to a Rotarian by blood or marriage. Warren said will be selected through a two-interview process. The first interview will be held Sept. 17 and the second Sept. 28.

The South African team will visit the United States later in the year, according to Warren. Team members study the institutions and ways of life in each other's countries, develop personal acquaintances, and exchange ideas. Guest teams visit schools, businesses, government institutions and historic and scenic points of interest. They participate in religious, cultural and recreational activities in the host country. Each member spends five days studying his or her profession as practiced abroad. Team members are accommodated in local homes in order to personally experience family lifestyles in the host country.

Applications must be received by Aug. 31. The Newark Rotary Club may propose two candidates and all candidates must be endorsed by the sponsoring club. Interested people should contact Warren at 731-7264 or call Newark Rotary president Denis Dowse, 328-6738.

Rotary International, founded in Chicago in 1905, is an organization of more than 1.2 million business and professional men and women united in more than 26,000 clubs worldwide. Their mission is to provide humanitarian service, to encourage high ethical standards in all vocations, and to help build good will and peace in the world. Rotary International is non-political and non-sectarian.

is. It's still a new concept."

Kids Kab is a "membership organization" that works like this. Parents register their children at the Kids Kab office at 1153 Yorklyn Road in Yorklyn where they issued an I.D. card for safety and security. The travel schedules and payments are prearranged in advance with the parents so there is never any cash exchanged between the child and driver.

When it is time to ride, children are picked up by one of Kids Kab's 15 seat vans equipped with seat belts and uniformed staff and driven to their destination. If the destination is "home", and no one is there when they arrive, the driver delivers the child to a second, preauthorized location, like a relative's house or parent's office.

Kids Kab drivers undergo strict qualification screening, pre-employment security and drug testing. They are trained for the job, "but they also just simply have to be very good with children," said Finnegan.

There is so much bad news out there these days. There's news about people who are out there driving high or who are child molesters. We have to be extremely diligent about who we hire. We can't afford to have anything like that happen."

Finnegan says that most of the drivers are either mothers in their 30's and 40's or men who are in their 50s or 60s.

In addition to transporting children to after school activities, Kids Kab is being used by many private and parochial school students as their regular means of transportation to and from school. This is especially convenient for working parents on snow days. In some cases, "hub stops" have been scheduled. Hub stops are possible when there is a group of children going to the same school from the same neighborhood. By using hub stops, parents benefit from the lowest fares.

Many child care establishments like Salem Village Day Care, Hope Lutheran Day Care, and The Ministry of Caring in Wilmington have found that insuring and maintaining transportation vehicles is cost prohibitive, so they contract with Kids Kab to shuttle little ones to special events.

When organized groups travel locally between 10 and 2 p.m., the average cost is about $3.50 per child, round trip.

Otherwise, the individual service (for example a child going to school or a scout meeting) averages about $7 per trip.

The cost is lower than that of a commercial taxi cab.

"People love this," said Finnegan. "There are just so many people out there who are double income families.

And depending on the age of the child, they are usually let out of kindergarten or school at a time when the parents are working. What do you do? Even if kids are older and going to public school, what do they do when they get home?"

Active children are often involved in after school activities.

We're just making sure that they get to all the places that they and their parents want them to be, safely."

Elinor K. Brown, 76, bookkeeper for Weekly Post

Newark resident Elinor K. Brown died Monday, August 15, 1994 of cancer at home.

Mrs. Brown, 76, retired from the Newark Weekly Post, where she was a bookkeeper from 1955 until the paper was sold in 1976. After that, she worked at Jake's Floor Cleaning, Newark, until 1986.

She was a member of the auxiliary at Veterans of Foreign Wars J. Allison O'Daniel Post 475, Newark.

Her husband, Fred J. Brown, died in 1988. She is survived by a daughter, Katherine L. Sharp of Newark; two stepchildren; a sister, Genevieve Houston of Watertown, N.Y.; a granddaughter, Jennifer A. Fowler of Newark, who helped care for her, and eight step-grandchildren.

Service and burial were private.

Instead of flowers, the family suggests contributions to Tri-State Hospice, Newark.

Frances A. Szabo, 78, school nurse at Ursuline

Newark resident Frances A. Szabo died Tuesday, Aug. 16, 1994 of heart failure in Wilmington Hospital.

Mrs. Szabo, 78, was a school nurse at Ursuline Academy for 20 years before retiring in 1979.

She was a member of St. Matthew's Catholic Church, Woodcrest.

During World War II, she was a captain in the Army Nurse Corps.

Mrs. Szabo is survived by her husband, Stephen Szabo; two sons, Gerald M. of Humble, Texas, and John S. of Elkton, Md.; five daughters, Mary E. Fitzpatrick, Kathleen A. Bonk and Elizabeth M. Sheehy, all of Wilmington, Christine L. Tryens of Albuquerque, N.M., and Joanne F. DeHaven of Colo de Caza, Calif.; two brothers, Edward Hurley and Daniel Hurley, both of Cleveland; and 15 grandchildren. Her twin sister, Florence Haas, died Jan. 26.

Mass of Christian Burial was Aug. 18 at St. Matthew's Catholic Church. There was no viewing. Burial was in All Saints Cemetery, Kirkwood Highway.

Instead of flowers, the family suggests contributions to Ursuline Academy, Wilmington.

Clara Ann Justice, 80, retired hospital worker

Newark resident Clara Ann Justice died Wednesday, Aug. 17, 1994 of respiratory failure in Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Justice, 80, an attendant at Delaware State Hospital for 15 years, retired in the mid-1960s.

She was a member of Pike Creek Valley Baptist Church and Silver & Gold Club in Pike Creek.

She enjoyed gardening, quilting, crossword puzzles and traveling.

Her husband, Dexter L., died July 21. Mrs. Justice is survived by her son, Kermit H., former secretary of the state Department of Transportation, Wilmington; five daughters, Juanita Liskey of Naperville, Ill., Barbara White, Shirley Brown and Debra Justice-Sarver, all of Newark and Susan Justice of Woodacre, Calif.; a sister, Lora A. Jackson of Elkton, Md.; 20 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

A service was held Aug. 20 in Hicks Home For Funerals, Elkton. Burial was in Gilpin Manor Memorial Park, Elkton.

Macie Jean Marlow, 44, active in Baptist church

Bear resident Macie Jean Marlow died Tuesday, Aug. 16, 1994 of complications from diabetes in St. Francis Hospital.

Mrs. Marlow, 44, had worked at the 76 Truck Stop, Bear, the Hot Shoppes at the rest stop on Interstate 95 and at Christiana Mall.

She enjoyed freshwater fishing, making ceramics and collecting clowns and teddy bears.

A native of Hamlet, N.C., her family moved to Delaware in 1954. She was a 1968 graduate of Christiana High School.

Mrs. Marlow also was a member of Good Shepard Baptist Church and its building and church fellowship committees.

Mrs. Marlow is survived by her husband of 23 years, George B. Marlow; and a brother, James Wayne Horne of Newark.

A service was held Aug. 18 at Good Shepard Baptist Church. Burial was in Gracelawn Memorial Park, Minquadales.

Instead of flowers, the family suggests contributions to the church.

Andrew G. 'Whitey' Eckrich, 74, worked for Getty Oil

Bear resident Andrew G. "Whitey" Eckrich died Wednesday, Aug. 17, 1994 in Christiana Hospital of a heart attack after being stricken at home.

Mr. Eckrich, 74, had been a construction maintenance supervisor at Getty Oil's refinery, near Delaware City. When he started there in the mid-1950s, the refinery was operated by Tidewater Oil. He retired in 1985.

After retiring, he volunteered at the LPGA McDonalds, Leukemia Society and Junior Diabetes local golf tournaments.

In the 1960s, he was in charge of the refinery's annual all-day children's fishing tournament at Becks Pond. Earlier, he was a Boy Scout scoutmaster in the Wilmington area.

He was a member of M&C Athletic Club at Getty's refinery and of St. Helena's Athletic Association. He enjoyed fishing, golfing and playing baseball with the Southside Eden and Hilltop teams in Wilmington.

He was a Marine Corps veteran of World War II and the Korean War.

His wife, Lillian Eckrich, died in 1975. He is survived by two daughters, Patricia E. Merkel of New Castle and Deborah A. Williams, with whom he lived; a brother, Joseph of Rehoboth Beach; a sister, Frances Dellinger of Millsboro; six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

A memorial Mass was offered Aug. 22 in St. Helena's Catholic Church, Penny Hill.

Instead of flowers, the family suggests contributions to Little Sisters of the Poor or the Ronald McDonald House.

Mixed emotions greet new school year

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

LOCAL KIDS AND TEENS will soon trade sunny days at the beach and sleeping in late for the routine of going to class, getting assigned homework and taking tests.

That's right, the 1994-95 school year begins for most students on Thursday, Sept. 8.

But the year is not just full of work, some kids are looking forward to field trips, student assemblies, reading contests, football games and seeing their friends.

"I'm excited to go back and see my friends again," said Candance Corbett, soon to be a seventh grader at Kirk Middle School. "I want to meet my new teachers and go on field trips."

Candance said she and her sister, Kristen who will be a fifth grader at Pufalski Elementary School, have spent about $50 on school supplies such as book bags, folders, pens and pencils.

Kristen is excited to go back to school, she said, because her teacher last year had a baby and will bring the baby to class for show and tell.

Although she is ready to go back to school, she said she rates her summer a perfect 10. "I went to Atlantic City and Rehoboth Beach for a week and I am going to Cape Henlopen for a week," Kristen said.

New Castle Baptist Student Brittany Ewald, a fifth grader, said she is worried about going back to school and having a tough teacher. Brittany said she has not yet been shopping for school supplies or new clothes. "I need two or three new outfits," she said.

Newarker Jennifer Calloway, going to be in fifth grade this year at Faith City Christian School, was shopping recently with her mom for school supplies at Kmart in College Square Shopping Center.

"It's exciting to think about seeing all my friends again," said Jennifer. But she said she is not looking forward to the homework. This summer, she said, was spent swimming, playing tennis and watching television.

Wilson sisters - Kelly, 15, and Kimberly, 11, of Elkton, Md. were also recently shopping for school supplies at the Newark Kmart.

"I'm dreading going back to the routine of school," said Kelly, soon to be a sophomore at Rising Sun High School.

Kimberly will be a sixth grader at Cherry Hill Middle School in Elkton. "I'm nervous about going into a new school and making mistakes," she said.

The Boys and Girls Club of Glasgow has kept children and teenagers busy this summer with swimming, ping pong, foosball and computers.

Newarker Jason Rodgers, going in fifth grade at Bayard Elementary School, said it will be fun being back in school. "I want to learn and get back to social studies," said Rodgers.

Newarker Antoine Haskins, a Bancroft fifth grader, said it will be good to wear new clothes to school but he is sad to see summer end.

Gauger Middle School student Terrell McLean, is going into seventh grade. "I'm happy school's starting to have gym class and see friends, but I had a fun summer going to South Carolina for a family reunion."

Maurice Rogers a Gauger Middle School Seventh Grader said he is ready for school to begin because summer for him has not been that exciting.

Drew-Pyle Elementary School fifth grader Kyle Hockaday said he feels great about school beginning. "I want to meet new friends," he said.

Evan Martin, soon to be a sixth grader at Pulaski Elementary School, said he looks forward to his favorite subjects of English and gym classes but will miss sleeping in late.

Some high school students this summer have been hanging out on Main Street in Newark. The following Glasgow High students hang out at Q Stix Billiards.

Glasgow High School Senior Nicole Ruggiano said she is already feeling pressure about college decisions and wishes summer could keep on going. "I want to go to two football games, build a float, go to prom and have another summer vacation," she said.

Sophomores Nick Fede, Jeff Kulas and Jim Hofmann can't yet relate to Ruggiano's pressures.

Fede said he is enthused about seeing his friends. He said his summer rocked and was cool.

Kulas said he heard sophomore year is easy so he's not worried about his subjects but is concerned about finding his classes on time.

"I just want to get back and start to play sports," said Hofmann, who plays soccer, wrestling and baseball.

Main Street activist receives poetry grant

By NANCY TURNER
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THERE IS POETRY in the ebb and flow of community change. No one knows this better than David Robertson, a local poet and community activist who has made his home on Main Street since 1981.

Robertson was recently chosen to receive an Individual Artist Fellowship in the amount of $2,000 for fiscal year 1995 from the Delaware Division of the Arts. Ninety-two artists applied and Robertson was one of only fifteen who were awarded the coveted fellowships.

Robertson came to live in Newark 21 years ago by accident when the transmission in his car gave out. Being a struggling student at the time, he couldn't see borrowing the money to have the transmission repaired so he polished his bicycle riding skills and stayed.

He lives above 90 East Main Street Cafe, so it is natural that his is a popular face among the shaded white cafe tables on the sidewalk below. From this outdoor extension of the Cafe, (he uses it for his terrace), he becomes a part of the scene of people, changing weather, and community evolution that will become fuel for his page.

"The music of words is very important to me," said Robertson, who has been writing since he was in high school in the 1950s. "I love words. I love the sounds of language when it is moving in a very lyrical or dramatic way. I love rhythm."

He doesn't write in traditional verse, but in verses that he describes as having "rhythm and shape" and "a strong sense of past."

Robertson is a celebrant. "Even though I write about something that disturbs, hurts or angers me," he said, "I have to be able to celebrate somewhere in the poem."

At its best, Robertson says that his poetry does not have a planned ending while it is being written; but rather, it surprises him with unexplored places. "It's like writing with my eyes closed," he said.

One collection of Robertson's work revolves around his childhood and growing up in the 1940s in a row house, which was located in a working class neighborhood called Overlook Colony in Claymont, Del.

Entitled "The boy Who Learns to Open His Eyes," the sequence begins with a snapshot of Robertson's mother while she was pregnant with him and wearing a boldly flowered dress in the backyard.

The journey of youth is continued with the incorporation of other delightful images like "the two old lady bees" who used to buzz around "my old apple tree grandfather."

In another poetic sequence Robertson deals more seriously with the fragmentation of community that he has witnessed during his lifetime.

"When I look at my childhood in Claymont," said Robertson, "I am struck by the fact that it was a watershed period in our country's evolution. In the 1950s we had a proliferation of housing tracts. In the 1960s and 70s we had malls and shopping centers and a resulting breakdown of what we knew as 'community.'"

Even our present town of Newark is nothing like the Newark I knew in the 1970s. So much has been lost in terms of the things that bond people together.

"Community means so much to me because I have experienced what a cohesive community can be like in Claymont and later in Newark in the 70s," said Robertson.

"Community doesn't have to be just a thing of the past, but to preserve it, it has to be lived out," he said. "You can't put it in place and go away and forget about it. It must be constantly renewed because it is always evolving."

Robertson balances his penchant for words with physical action. As a community preservationist, he worked with citizens to try to save the State Theatre on Main Street from demolition. He joined many of the same Newarkers in protest when it looked like the University would tear down the George Evans House and most recently, last month, fought and lost to save the back part of Dougherty Hall from demolition.

Robertson is currently the vice president of the Newark Arts Alliance and the facilitator of Friends of Newark.

Although Robertson chooses to maintain a materialistically simple life in Newark, his role in the community is complex and vital. Whether it is through his written verse or his community involvement, he is part of the glue that helps bond Newarkers together.

Robertson says that he has no plans of leaving town anytime soon. No doubt, it was a good thing when his transmission broke down here. In the most desirable sense of community, one might say that he's stuck here...that we are stuck together.

It is not unreasonable to feel depressed when the harvest of one's dreams is all but nil.

Author's note:

Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws - the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope Post readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

4-H is a variety of fun and learning

NEWARK OUTLOOK

FROM THE STAFF OF THE COOPERATIVE EXTENSION OFFICE AT UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

The start of school offers parents an opportunity to catch their breath. Families settle back into a familiar routine and begin planning for the remainder of the year. Parents are looking for children's activities which are fun and educational and that their children will enjoy.

One activity that fits the bill for many area families is 4-H. At one time 4-H was only for rural youth. Today, urban and suburban kids make up the largest portion of the nation's 4-H enrollment. In Delaware, half of the state's more than 20,000 4-H members live in New Castle County.

Today's 4-H programs are heavy in science and technology based learning experiences. Two major areas of emphasis for 4-H in this time have been environmental stewardship and work force preparedness.

Right now, two local 4-H'ers are spending the week at a Honda motorcycle plant in New Jersey learning about technology and its place in the work force of the future. Other 4-H clubs operate their own businesses, where kids learn important concepts such as getting to work on time and keeping records.

This past spring, five Newark 4-H'ers from Holy Angels School designed and carried out a complex poultry-nutrition project. Kids involved in these kinds of projects are developing the skills they'll need to succeed in the workplace of the future.

A lot about 4-H hasn't changed. The 4-H program is still a great place for teens to learn and practice leadership skills. This summer, more than 100 teens participated in the 4-H camp counselor-training program and 80 of these teens volunteered as counselors at the University of Delaware 4-H day camp.

Another thing that hasn't changed is the way local clubs reach out and volunteer in the community. The Fantastics 4-H club in Newark regularly volunteers at the Newark Senior Center and the Delaware Food Bank. The Highlanders 4-H club in Wilmington is a huge supporter of both the Ministry of Caring and the Mary Campbell Center. Kids learn important social skills and social responsibility in these types of activities. A recent study at Texas A&M University showed that former 4-H members were more likely to be involved in community organizations as adults than non-4-H members.

Also, the faces in 4-H have changed.

In Delaware, more than 20 percent of 4-H members are minorities as are about 25 percent of the 4-H camp counselors. The All For One 4-H club in New Castle is made up entirely of African-Americans. The Fantastics 4-H club in Newark is starting a pen pal program with kids in the newly independent nation of Uzbekistan. This program could lead to an exchange program in the future.

The newest addition to the 4-H program is the Cloverbuds—4-H clubs for 5- to 7-year-olds who are too young to join a traditional 4-H club. They have regular meetings and participate in the same activities other 4-H'ers do, but without the competition. Cloverbud groups depend on volunteers, so if you're interested in volunteering let us hear from you.

There is no cost to join 4-H. For more information about 4-H, call 831-8965 or send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Join 4-H, 035 Townsend Hall, Newark De 19717-1303.

Dickinson Theater Organ Society begins 25th season

The King of Instruments" is alive and well in Post Country. Centuries ago the pipe organ earned this title and it has never been relinquished. The most spectacular pipe organ in Post Country resides in the John Dickinson High School building on Milltown Road. This year the John Dickinson Theater Organ Society is celebrating its 25th anniversary!

The theater organ at Dickinson is authentic by any measure. It came from the old Boyd Theater in Philadelphia and has been lovingly cared for at its new home for 25 years.

Years ago, just about every pipe organ capable of all kinds of sounds because it accompanied the silent film and later was used as an interlude or as part of the live acts performing at the theater. By very definition, a theater organ is orchestral in nature because it was expected to make the sound of an entire orchestra in the auditorium.

The concerts offered by the Dickinson Theater Organ Society are catholic in scope. Rarely does one of the soloists perform just one kind of music. The events may include music from the 20s to the 50s, jazz, big band music or scores from Broadway and Hollywood and the classics.

The 25th anniversary season opens on Saturday, October 22, at 8:15, with East Coast artist David Peckham at the console. David is resident organist at Elmira New York's Clemens Center where he recently recorded his first CD. He has appeared locally from coast to coast but this is his first stop in Delaware.

John Sewell will be in charge of the Kimball Organ on December 3. His musical talent covers many areas. His credits include the McDonald's commercial theme, a Columbia album, "Dream A While" and the sound tracks for the movies "Alien" and "Superman." DTO's Bob Wilhelm tells me John "picks them in" wherever he performs including the Fox Theater in Atlanta and the famous Paramount in Oakland.

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

The first artist of the new year is probably the best known organist in our area because of his work on channel 6. The January 28th soloist is Larry Ferrari. Through his Sunday morning concerts and many concerts in the Delaware Valley, Larry has become an institution. This appearance is also an interesting bit of history. Larry performed the last concert on the organ in the Boyd Theater and the first one when the organ was moved to Dickinson High School.

An artist who has appeared just about every season since 1974 will be the March 11 soloist at the high school. He is Clark Olivera. He has a knack of blending classical and popular music in one program. Several years ago he performed an all-classical concert there. His pedal work is simply amazing and his arrangements are nothing short of brilliant.

The April 22 guest artist, Clark Wilson, is a reed voicer for the Schantz Organ Company and is in great demand as a final finisher for both classical and theater organs. He has performed at the American Theater Organ Society national conferences and last played here in 1992.

Donna Parker will end the season on June 3. Formerly with organist with the Los Angeles Dodgers, she now works for Rogers Organs as artist relations and educational resources manager. She is also a church organist and a member of "Trio Con Brio."

As an additional fun event, the Dickinson Theater Organ Society has scheduled a Holiday Carol Sing for December 6. It will feature Don Kinnier at the organ. The concert will also include a silent movie comedy, a sing-a-long, an appearance by the Weis 'n' Heimers' bell ringers and, you guessed it, a visit from Santa. This is not part of the season and tickets are only $1 at the door.

Since we are on the topic of prices, let me tell you they are very low for the quality of the performances. Season tickets are only $39. Advance sale tickets to a single concert are $8 and at the door, the price is $9. There is always plenty of free parking for the concerts.

For more information, or to order tickets, you may contact Aggie Pringle, Dickinson Theater Organ Society Ticket Office, 915 Wilson Road, Wilmington, DE 19803. You may call 302-995-5630.

Enjoy!

Bender moves from Caravel to Hodgson

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

GLASGOW — Lou Bender will have a new address this winter.

Bender, one of the most successful basketball coaches in the state, will move from Caravel to Hodgson this year.

Bender, after compiling a 28-18 two-year record at Caravel, replaces Chuck Haney, who resigned to concentrate on his athletic director duties at Hodgson.

The Silver Eagles were 3-18 last season.

"I'm real excited about the opportunity," said Bender, 56, who has coached at Delcastle, Wilmington College, Alexis I. DuPont and Salesianum in his 27 years of basketball coaching. "Hodgson really is a great school. The kids want to be there and I can tell you that it is a lot easier to coach kids who enjoy what they're doing and where they are than ones that don't want to be there."

Bender has seemed to specialize in turning losing programs into winning ones. He turned downtrodden Alexis I. into a conference champion. Caravel was a woeful 1-18 the year before he took over the Bucs' program.

The coach, who will continue to teach driver's education at Delcastle, has racked up 315 victories in his career and

Canal Seniors finish third in the world

Loss to Naples ends
season

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — The Canal Senior (13-15) All-Star softball team ran into an old nemesis last Friday in the Senior League World Series' loser's bracket final. Unfortunately for Canal, the result was the same as in three previous trips to Kalamazoo.

Five-time defending world champion Naples, Fla. ended Canal's season with a 6-1 victory over the local team. Naples went on to defeat Pinole-Hercules, Cal. twice (6-0, 8-0) Saturday to capture its sixth straight title.

Friday's game marked the fourth time in the last four years that Naples team defeated a Canal team in World Series play.

The Southern Regional champs scored two runs in each of their last two at-bats to break open a tight 2-1 game and advance to Saturday's championship round.

"We just struggled to hit," said Canal Manager Ralph Sassaman. "But we had a great year. Hey, we finished third in the world."

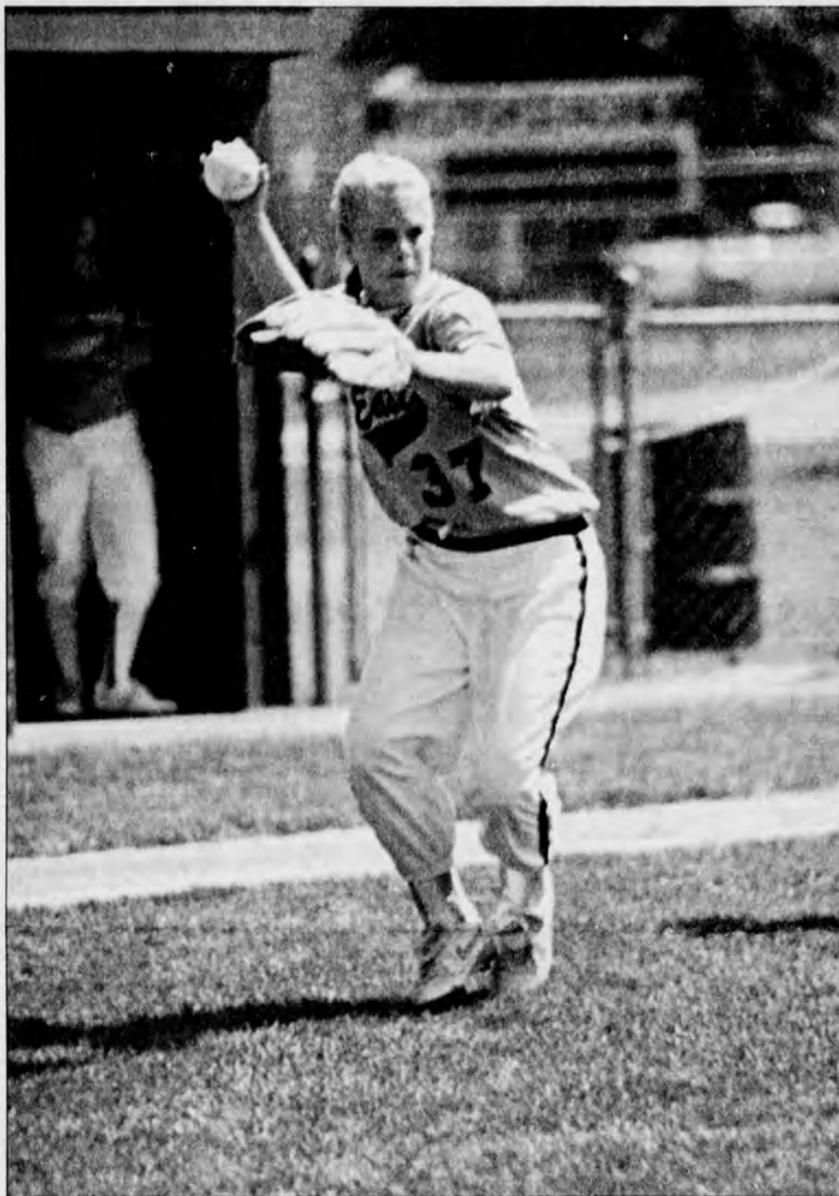

Canal played the game just 18 hours after losing a heartbreaking 3-2 decision to Pinole-Hercules in the winner's bracket final Thursday night. Did that game carry over to Friday?

"I think so," said Adrienne Maloney. "We thought we should've won and to come back right away is tough."

"But [Naples] is a good team. They always play well. We just didn't step it up."

Naples jumped on top with two first inning runs.

Canal Majors capture fourth place in Series

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The Canal Major All-Star softball team had an impressive showing in the Little League Softball World Series last week in Portland, Ore.

The team, after dropping its opening game 4-0 to eventual champion Waco, Tex., bounced back to rip the Philippines (the Far East entrant) 11-1 and Canada 21-1 before being eliminated by Essexville, Mich. — the Central Regional champion.

"I'm real proud of the kids," said Canal

Manager Bill Nefosky, whose team compiled a 13-2 record on its way to a fourth-place in the world finish. "They never quit, they always worked hard. They were just a pleasure to be around."

One of the highlights of the tournament was Erica Richardson's no-hitter in the win over the Philippines.

Richardson struck out 15 and walked just three on her way to her sixth win of the tournament.

Leading the way offensively for the Delaware champs was Melissa Perez, who belted a two-run home run in the first inning. Annie Nefosky ripped a triple and Erin McGlynn and Stacey Watson added doubles to the cause.

Allison DeBoda pitched a five-hitter in the 21-1 romp over Vancouver, British Columbia. Offensively Canal banged out 15 hits.

The Eastern champs scored three runs in the first inning, four in the second, two in the third and six each in the fourth and fifth to provide the final margin of victory.

Those two wins advanced Canal to a meeting with Essexville, Mich. in the loser's bracket semifinal.

Canal, however, made some key errors and found itself behind early on the way to an 11-2 loss.

"I thought we were the better team," Nefosky said. "But we picked the wrong time to play our worst game of the tournament. We made some errors and got ourselves in a hole."

Canal opened World Series play with a 4-0 loss to Waco — the Southern Regional champion.

"We hit the ball but we just couldn't advance the runners," Nefosky said of the

World Series experiences exciting

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Another summer has come and gone and two more Canal Little League softball teams went to the World Series.

The Majors set off on unexplored territory, traveling to Portland, Ore., after the Major Division World Series was shifted from Kalamazoo, Mich.. The Seniors went back to Kalamazoo for the third straight year.

Both teams won two of four games and represented Delaware and the East very well.

The Majors, who finished fourth, gave eventual champion, Waco, Tex., its toughest test of the tournament in a 4-0 loss. After winning their first two games decisively, the Seniors were oh so close to taking command of the Series but dropped a 3-2 decision to Pinole-Hercules, Cal. in the winner's bracket final of the double-elimination tournament. They then fell 6-1 to eventual champion (and six time defending champion) Naples, Fla. and finished third.

From all accounts Portland was a great place to have the World Series. The Canal girls were treated to everything from a snowball fight on Mount Hood to a trip along the cliffs of the Pacific Ocean.

Kalamazoo was again a wonderful host as players, coaches, parents, fans and even writers renewed acquaintances like it was a reunion week. I guess that happens when a league qualifies a team four straight years.

Everyone involved with the league and teams should be commended. It's an arduous road to the World Series with tough games, long van rides, nights in hotel rooms and the inevitable bickering that comes with a large group of people being together every day for over a month.

The coaches (Bill Nefosky and Charlie Marioni of the Majors and Ralph Sassaman and Ed Abshagen of the Seniors), under tremendous pressure to continue the league's unbelievable winning tradition, did a wonderful job under sometimes very difficult circumstances.

Ex-Spartan Borkowski signs contract with N.Y. Mets

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

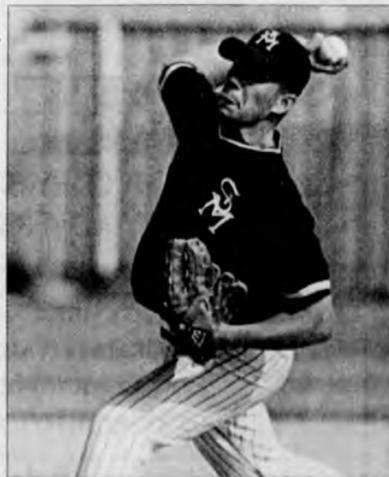

Former St. Mark's High pitcher Rob Borkowski signed a professional contract with the New York Mets last Friday.

Borkowski, who helped lead St. Mark's to the state championship this past spring, will attend Wilmington College this year before reporting to camp at the end of April.

"It was a tough decision," said Borkowski, who was chosen in the 31st round of Major League Baseball's Amateur Draft in June. "It's like a dream come true. I guess every little kid dreams of becoming a professional baseball player."

"I went back and forth with it several times. In fact, just two weeks ago I was convinced that I was just going to go to college. But then I went to a Mets-Phillies game (the last one before the strike) with a Mets scout and we talked about a few things."

"After that they upped the money and agreed to pay for all my college, it made my decision easier," Borkowski said.

Walton's Drillers win NABF state title

Walton's Drillers were crowned the NABF College Division state champions recently as they swept Green Acres three games to none in a best-of-five state championship series.

Walton's swept past All-Trans two games to none in the best-of-three semifinal series to advance to the championship.

Leading the way for the Drillers in the championship series were Chris Aiello (3-for-9, 3 RBI), Shane Noonan (6-for-9, 3 RBI), Scott Quinn (4-for-10, 5 RBI) and Troy O'Neal (3-for-6 3 RBI).

Brian Swed pitched a complete game, giving up just two hits while Bill Mellon was credited with the other two wins.

Walton Corporation, a Newark based drilling contractor, attempts to take advantage of local talent by selecting many players that have attended are high schools and have gone to play college ball at Wilmington College, University of Delaware, Washington College and West Chester.

"It's very rare to have a team as close knit as ours," said Walton's Manager Andy Feldmann. "That, combined with the talent we have, has made for a great season."

Urbanski, Jack Birch, Cliff Brumbaugh, Troy O'Neal and Curt Schnur.

Andy Feldmann managed the team while Charlie Gummy, Paul Murphy and Frank Aiello served as coaches.

The National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF), in existence since 1914, is the oldest continuously operated amateur baseball organization in the country.

Hens' Daryl Brown named preseason Offensive Player of the Year

University of Delaware fullback Daryl Brown was named the Pre-season NCAA I-AA Offensive Player of the Year by Don Hansen's Weekly Football Gazette.

Brown, a candidate for the Walter Payton Award (I-AA equivalent of the Heisman Trophy) is Delaware's all-time leading rusher entering his senior season. He has already rushed for 3,286 yards in three seasons, including a school record 1,469 yards last season.

This season Brown needs just 1,150 yards to become the all-time leading rusher in Yankee Conference history, surpassing Paul Lewis' 4,436 yards for Boston University from 1981-84. Brown's current total is eighth best in Yankee history.

Brown, a senior from Landover, Md., was a first team selection along with Marshall University's Chris Parker at running back. The Blue Hens' Pat Mulhern was the only other Delaware selection. Mulhern, a senior from Wallingford, Pa., was named to the third team defense. A total of 13 Yankee Conference players were selected to the first, second and third teams.

Other selections from the Yankee Conference were center Andre Maksimow and cornerback Chris Helton from B.U. to the first team; while defensive end Brian Corcoran from UMass and cornerbacks Maurice Glenn from Richmond and Dwight Robinson from James Madison were named to the second team.

Quarterback Robert Dougherty, kicker Mike Morello and offensive tackle Mike Pedone of Boston U.; Richmond running back Uly Scott and linebackers Greg Applewhite of William & Mary and Clint Dunn of James Madison were third team selections.

Tom Bodine, a senior linebacker from Western Carolina, was named the pre-season Defensive Player of the Year.

Earlier this month, junior offensive tackle Shannon Trostle and Mulhern were selected to the Sports Information Directors' pre-season first-team All-American team while Brown was on the second team.

All the 1994 University of Delaware fall sports teams have either opened practice or are getting ready to.

The men's and women's soccer teams, volleyball and field hockey are all preparing for the upcoming season.

The men's and women's cross country teams as well as the women's tennis team will open practice Monday, Aug. 29

Blue Bombers will be back for another season

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Surviving the early years is the key to new businesses — the basketball business is no exception.

Despite losing money, the Delaware Blue Bombers did, in fact, survive their first year in the Atlantic Basketball Association. The Bombers recorded a 13-14 record (fourth place) and qualified for the playoffs.

"We incurred some losses," said General Manager/Coach Scott Barker. "I don't want to comment on the magnitude; but we got through the year on our own finances. We always met payroll and we didn't have to take out a loan.

"As with any first-year business, you just don't know [if it can survive]. We didn't have any multimillionaire owner bankrolling the franchise. We had to do it on our own.

"Fortunately, we were able to get enough people through the door to keep going. I think we did really well."

The franchise hopes to break even this season. To achieve that, the team has embarked on an aggressive marketing campaign aimed at the corporate community.

Sponsorships for all home games (from a $4,500 MVP to a $1,200 Community Night) are available. The sponsor receives different perks ranging from strategically-placed banners, program ads, public address system announcements and free tickets.

The Blue Bombers are also looking for sponsors to be on their schedule card and tickets. There will be halfcourt and three-point shootouts that the team hopes will also be sponsored.

Attracting new fans is also a goal of the team.

The Bombers, who averaged about 600 fans per game last season, played their home games at Newark High, but that won't be the case this year.

The team will play its home games at Wilmington High this season.

The Bombers are also hope to be able to showcase the quality of play that fans will be able to see.

The league bills itself as a minor-league that attracts many players right out of the nation's top college programs. Last year the top ten scorers in the league all came from Big Ten, Atlantic Coast Conference, Big East, Pac-10 and Southeastern conference schools.

"The league fills a niche," Barker said. "There are many great basketball players and great fans in the East. This type of league is an alternative to players going overseas. It's a stepping stone to the CBA and, possibly, the NBA."

Indeed, several players moved up to the CBA last season; and several others received invitations to NBA tryout camps.

The Bombers, as well as the rest of the league, hopes that the fans will recognize that kind of talent and attend some games.

"We want people to come out once," Barker said. "Once they do, we feel they'll like what they see and keep coming back."

Canal Blue wins 13-14 tourney

Canal Blue defeated Naamans 4-3 to win the District II 13-14 year-old basketball tournament.

David Crossan's sacrifice fly scored the tying run in the bottom of the seventh inning. This was followed immediately by Matt Geoudeux's RBI single to win the game and the tournament for Canal.

The winning pitcher was Andy French.

Canal Blue went undefeated in the District II special tournament.

Borkowski signs with Mets

► BORKOWSKI, from 1B

According to Borkowski, the Mets plan to assign him to Port St. Lucie in the Florida State Rookie League next spring.

Borkowski plans on working out through the fall and winter on his own before reporting to camp.

"The Mets talked about sending me to instructional league," he said. "But my family wanted me to get a year of school under my belt."

"I'm going to visit the Mets and they will give me a regimen to follow. I'll do that and play in a fall league to get ready for the spring."

Bender moves to Hodgson

has twice been voted the state Coach of the Year (1982 and 1990).

Bender stressed that he is leaving Caravel on good terms. "There's no hard feelings," he said. "It was a good opportunity. I just got tired of all the things an athletic director has to do — especially with me teaching outside the building. It was just very hard to do the things I had to do."

"This gives me an opportunity to just concentrate on coaching; that's really what I want to do."

game, won three straight games before being eliminated by the Maryland state champion last Monday.

By finishing fourth, Canal became the highest finishing Delaware team in Eastern Regional play in four years. The team displayed a lot of character and was a great group to be around.

They showed their true colors while in Connecticut as twice they made the 50-minute drive from Bristol to Orange to loudly cheer on the Canal Senior girls in their Eastern Regional.

Congratulations to Manager John Hollenbach and the rest of the team for a great summer.

The Canal Major girls softball team finished fourth in the world. Members of the team include (bottom row from left to right): Kelly Stanwell, Christine Carliello, Jennifer Hetland; second row: Stephanie Rice, Melissa Perez, Annie Nefosky, Stacey Watson, Holly Sloniewski, Erin McGlynn, Megan Richardson; third row: Erica Richardson, Lisa Scanlon, coach Charlie Marioni, manager Bill Nefosky, Jesse Marley and Allison DeBoda.

opening game. "[Waco] played a different style of ball than we were used to. They got runners on and bunted them around. They were aggressive and took advantage of everything.

"We thought that we would be able to come back and play them in the final but it just didn't work out."

Team enjoys trip to West Coast

One of the bonuses to qualifying for this year's Little League World Series was a trip to Oregon.

The Canal team and its followers were treated to a wonderful stay in the scenic Northwest.

"It was great!" Nefosky said of the trip. "Nobody associated with the team had ever been to Oregon. It was entirely different - the scenery and everything."

The team spent time touring the state, seeing the rocky cliffs of the Pacific Ocean and having a snow-ball fight on Mount Hood.

"It's just a beautiful state," said the manager. "We could've easily stayed and just traveled around for two weeks.

"Our goal was to get to the World Series. Once we accomplished that I really wanted the girls to have fun. We wanted to win but we weren't so worried about practice as we were about letting the girls enjoy the experience."

Naples again ends a Canal All-Star season

► NAPLES, from 1B

Both runs came in traditional Naples' style, a slap that bounced over the charging infielder, a stolen base, two sacrifice bunts and taking advantage of an untimely error.

Canal cut the lead to 2-1 in the fourth inning as Jodi Mandichak doubled to right-center and eventually scored on two infield ground balls.

The reigning champs, though, answered in the fifth, scoring twice as they strung together four straight hits. Mandichak pitched five innings for Canal before being relieved by Kelly Baker in the sixth.

Two more runs in the sixth sealed the victory.

"I think the thought of playing Naples gets to us," said catcher Brenda Marley, who got the team's only other hit during the game. "We all thought that this was the year we could win [the championship]. We just didn't hit a lot."

Canal finished the World Series with a 2-2 record and completed its summer with a 15-5 record to go along with district, state, Mid-Atlantic and Eastern Regional championships.

Ten of the girls on the 14-player roster will be eligible to return next year, making Canal a threat to earn a fourth straight trip to the Senior League World Series.

Loss to Calif. hurts chances

► CALIFORNIA, from 1B

Adrienne pitched a great game. We just couldn't get anything going."

Canal was unable to take advantage of its limited scoring opportunities in the game.

The best looked like it was started in the fourth inning when Delcollo beat out an infield single. Mandichak followed with a hump-back line drive that the shortstop was able to make a fine catch on and then double-up Delcollo, who, thinking the ball was into left field, was on her way to second base.

"That was a great catch by the shortstop," Sassaman said. "Instead of having two runners on with nobody out, we had nobody on and two out."

The game turned out to be the pivotal one for Canal in the World Series. A win would've advanced the team to Saturday's championship game, where it would've had to have been beaten twice. A championship certainly wasn't a sure thing but, with a day off, Maloney could've come back to pitch the first game.

Instead Canal had to drop into the loser's bracket and immediately play five-time world champion Naples, Fla. - who after losing 1-0 to Pinole-Hercules Tuesday - barely survived a 2-1 thriller against West Portage, Mich. (a team Canal ripped 10-3) in its first loser's bracket game. The Southern champs, though, got things rolling as the week went on, defeating Central champion - Georgetown, Mich. - Thursday.

Canal's Adrienne Maloney earned a pitching win and blasted a home run in the Eastern Regional champs' first win of the Series over Michigan. Maloney became only the third player in World Series history to hit a home run over the fence in Kalamazoo.

A LOOK AT COMMERCE IN AND AROUND NEWARK

UD OFFICIALS TALK ABOUT MAIN STREET

'Build it, they'll come'

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

CITY OFFICIALS, residents and national experts on downtown revitalization have all had their say recently about what is best for Newark's Main Street, but what do University of Delaware officials think?

"If you build it they will come," said University President David P. Roselle, referring to interior and facade improvements for Main Street businesses.

Such improvements, according to Roselle, would go a long way to help businesses attract more customers.

Roselle said he is pleased to see some of Main Street's businesses such as Klondike Kate's, Treats and Machiavelli's have invested in their business by improving their appearance. He went on to speculate that structural improvement "is hinged upon a property owner's good return on their investment."

"It would be kind of interesting to look at the places that have made recent large investments in their infrastructure and find out if they have gotten a good return on their investment," Roselle said.

Katherine Ashleigh, general manager of Klondike Kates said the restaurant's recent renovations, which "virtually doubled" the floor space, have "drastically increased" their business.

Domenick Sicilia, who wears two hats— one as the vice president of the Newark Business Association and the other as the manager of the university's Bob Carpenter Convocation Center, speculated businesses' draw would increase if more were open at night.

"If we had several more businesses opened at night on Main Street, people would find parking places behind the stores (necessary because there is no parking after 9 p.m. on Main Street," Sicilia said.

John Brook, university vice president of government affairs, said, "If it could be shown that it would be profitable if they (owners) invested, then they would...Owners have not made the investment necessary to stay competitive."

One of the reasons Brook said he believes businesses have been able to avoid costly renovations and remain profitable is Newark's captive market—university students.

"If it weren't for the students, Main Street would be gone," Brook said.

Meanwhile, Roselle said the university is "trying to do its part" to improve the area.

"Our end of Main Street looks good," Roselle said. "The city has done a good job also, with the sidewalks and trees."

Roselle cited renovations to the George Evans House, Elliot Hall, as well as a new parking garage and student center, a public park and landscaping as some examples of the university's contributions.

As far as the perception that the university is "the bad guy," a feeling evidenced by recent community opposition to the new student center and parking garage, Brook said, "To be criticized in that way is hard to understand, we all love Newark as much as those people do...what have they done to contribute positively to the community?"

Sicilia said, "There is something that we (university) can do to turn that around...but no one wants to step forward and take the responsibility."

Donating "intellectual capacity" from university educators who specialize in economic, urban affairs and architectural disciplines as well as facilities and open space for special events are some of the ways Roselle said the university is willing to help.

Students back, merchants rejoice

By HEATHER HARTRIM
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

While students finish packing, Newark area businesses start stocking their shelves.

Kmart in College Square is already stocked with refrigerators, telephones, rugs, crates, and extra-long bedding. The store also features garbage cans and folding chairs that boast the University of Delaware Blue Hen logo.

"The return of University students is like a second Christmas for us," Steve Pajka, assistant manager, said. "We start planning for it as early as spring."

They're not alone. Many Newark merchants are gearing up for the return of students, who will be moving in this weekend. The first day of classes is Sept. 1.

The National 5 & 10, which was incorporated in 1931, has received extra shipments of merchandise. Everything from notebooks and school supplies to UD clothing, including Delawareware, are available.

Woolworths, in Newark Shopping Center, is busy stocking shelves with students' favorites. Mattress pads, bike locks, laundry products, hangers, and a complete assortment of items for residence hall living are some of the best sellers, according to store manager Glen Waesco.

A sampling of other Main Street businesses that are stocking up to sell their wares, whether they be workout suits, hammers or bikes, to incoming students follow:

- Employees at Mailboxes, Etc. have been busy receiving incoming freshman packages. The store will feature 99 cent color copies on their new color copier and 5 cent copies for students on the regular machine. The store has added a full line of school supplies and will continue to offer mailbox rentals.

- Scott's True Value Hardware Store ordered extra extension cords, telephone supplies, desk lamps and picture hooks, in an effort to meet students' demands.

- Bike Line is having a back-to-school sale on bikes and locks. The store is offering $20 off each bike or a free Kryptonite lock.

- Delaware Sporting Goods donated a rollerblade party as a door prize for the new student program.

- The new Stroehmann's Outlet in Newark Shopping Center is stocking up on munchies. The store specializes in discount bakery and snack goods.

- Jude at Jude's Diner will offer discounts to students during the first couple weeks of school.

- Q-stix, in Newark Shopping Center, is planning to expand this September. Ten new billiard tables will most certainly meet students' demands.

- Brunswick Blue Hen Lanes features college ID night Thursdays. Students can play from 9 p.m. to close for $1.25 a game.

- Mellon Bank is giving gifts to new clients. They are also featuring a prize drawing.

Just For You SENIOR CITIZEN SERVICE DIRECTORY

KEEPING YOUR COOL IN THE HEAT

KEEP COOL. Spend as much time as you can in cooler surroundings, such as a cooler room in your home, an air conditioned shopping mall, senior center, public library or movie.

AIR CONDITIONING can provide lifesaving relief from heat stress, especially if you have a medical condition like heart disease.

COOLING WITH FANS. Fans can draw cool air into your home at night or help to provide good indoor air circulation during the day. Air movement reduces heat stress by helping to remove extra body heat. (When it is extremely hot, a fan may cause you to gain body heat by blowing very hot air over your body.)

BATHS AND SHOWERS. Cool baths or showers (with water temperature around 75°F) provide amazing relief from the heat. Cool water removes extra body heat 25 times faster than cool air.

CLOTHING. Wear as little as possible when you are at home. Lightweight, light colored, loose fitting clothing is more comfortable in hot weather. Cotton is very comfortable. Wear a hat or use a parasol or umbrella to protect your head and neck when you are outdoors.

DRINK OFTEN. In hot weather, your body needs more water. Don't wait until you are thirsty, because your body needs more fluid than thirst will indicate. By the time you feel thirsty you may already be dangerously low on water.

- Drink often and in reasonable amounts. Don't try to drink a lot of coffee or tea. They are all right in moderation, but water is your best bet.
- If you have a disease, a medical condition, or a problem with body water balance, check with your doctor for advice on how much water you should drink in hot weather.

SLOW DOWN. Take it easy, especially at the start of hot weather when your body is less prepared for the heat. Physical activity produces body heat. WATCH WHAT YOU EAT. Avoid hot foods and heavy meals. They add heat to your body. Try using your stove less. Cook your meals during the cooler part of the day.

WATCH SALT USE. Check with your doctor before you increase the amount of salt or potassium in your diet. Do not take "salt tablets" without your doctor's permission.

AVOID ALCOHOL. Alcohol interferes with your body's fight against heat stress. It can put a strain on your heart.

OFFICE MANAGER-EDITORIAL ASSISTANT

THIS IS AN IMPORTANT STAFF POSITION that far exceeds the traditional receptionist role! In addition to answering phones and operating the "nerve center" of our busy newspaper offices, this key staffer plays a major role in the solicitation, selection, typesetting and editing of important columns and sections of our popular newspapers.

A PLEASANT PERSONALITY and basic office skills are necessary, but the best candidate will complement these essential qualifications with a basic knowledge of editorial procedures or the ability to learn them.

NO MATTER HER OR HIS BACKGROUND, the best candidate will be a person who loves serving his or her community, is organized and efficient in office skills, understands the newspaper business or is experienced in customer service. We will select only a candidate who can successfully join our devoted team of newspaper professionals.

OUR SALARY IS COMPETITIVE and our company benefits are excellent, including group BC/BS health insurance, life and disability insurances, vacation and sick leave, tuition reimbursement and a 401-K plan. Employee-paid dental insurance also is available. The Newark Post and New Castle Business Ledger are published in Newark by Chesapeake Publishing Company, a chain of 48 publications that stretches southward to Williamsburg, Va.

IF WE HAVE STIRRED YOUR INTEREST, and you are a qualified applicant, deliver your cover letter and resume immediately. All replies will be held in the strictest confidence. CPC is an equal opportunity employer.

How To Save Money On Your Family's Clothing
-Buy color-coordinated clothing which can be mixed and matched.
-Buy all-season styles, fabrics and colors when possible.
-Buy clothes of a design that will stay in style
-Look for quality fabric and good construction in clothing.
-Choose clothes with simple trim that is of good quality and requires the same care as the rest of garment.
-Before buying a garment, check fabric labels and care instructions. Is it wash-and-wear? Can it be dried in the dryer? Avoid clothing that requires special care such as dry cleaning.
-Read and follow care instructions to make clothes last longer.
-Dress up or modify an outfit you already own. Accessories can add a new look to last year's wardrobe for a minimal cost.
-Store clothes properly to protect from sun, moths, mildew and stretching.

Grand Opening

New Models Now Open

The excitement is here! The Lane at Amberfield. A neighborhood that offers a terrific location, a choice of homestyles and wonderful designs. Two or three bedrooms, airy turned staircase, deck, full basement, all appliances, and the option to add a loft. Come celebrate our Grand Opening with special prize drawings each week in July.

THE LANE AT AMBERFIELD

Townhomes from $93,000
834-0488 • Open Sat. & Sun. 12-5, Fri. & Mon. 3-7
Located on Rt. 40, 1.5 miles west of Rt. 7. Turn into Wellington Woods and follow signs to The Lane at Amberfield.

Special Offer For Next 5 Buyers

Don't miss the opportunity to enter The Oaks lifestyle. An intimate community of 25 homes, with cozy cul de sacs. Homes with two-story foyers, soaring cathedral ceilings, two car garage and full basement. As an added incentive, we're offering the choice of FREE hardwood or ceramic tile in the foyer, or French doors to the next five buyers.

THE OAKS
Single family homes from $152,900
731-9744
Open Fri. - Sun. 12-5, Mon. 2-7
Located on Old Baltimore Pike between Walther and Salem Church Roads.
