"Five Minutes for Memories"

On a thousand baseball fields today, they celebrate a war That made a land a charnal-place and left a livid scar, On race track and in picnic, they bet and feast and shout And only you, old man in blue, recall what it's about.

To only you, old man in blue, the vivid vision comes, Of battle-cloud and blasted men. You hear the long-dumb drums. And as today you feebly march to where your mess-mates sleep, Your faded eye marks where you'll lie, a scant three paces deep.

Come, spare five minutes from your sport to toast the nation's brave, Let's give a hand-clasp to the man who stands beside his grave. Let shop and field be silent a little while today, Then here's to you, old man in blue, God speed you on your way.

The idea of "Five Minutes for Memories," introduced by the city of Philadelphia in 1911, is becoming more widespread with each recurring Memorial Day. The simple ceremony has sprung from the custom of the Order of Elks, whose most beautiful and significant rite is the eleven o'clock toast to the brothers who have passed away. Then the feasting comes to an end; the jests are silenced; the thoughts of the revellers are with the dead.

The author of the poem, "Five Minutes for Memory," who is responsible for the popularity of the idea, found in the Elk ceremony a hint that the nation might follow in its commemoration of those who died to preserve it. No fault is found with those who take advantage of the holiday for recreation and wholesome merry-making. It is requested, however, that five minutes be given, for a nation-wide solemn observance of the respect due to the heroes of our country. During that brief time the bells of the town will be tolled, and every one within hearing of them should stand uncovered in memory of the nation's dead.

We have reprinted above the poem by Richard J. Beamish.

It was decided to hold a series of socials in the lecture room of the church, to create a spirit of fellowship among the members. A committee was named to arrange for a social at an early date. A general invitation to join the class is extended to all the men and young men of the community. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Big Strawberry Crop Reported In Delaware

According to reports received by William T. Carter, Jr., of the Delaware Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the berry crop in Delaware this season surpasses that of several recent seasons. Two score of refrigerator cars left Bridgeville and Selbyville yesterday for points north. This shipment was preceded Saturday by 30 cars of berries from Sussex county making a total of 492,192 quarts shipped with a few days. The crop this season is expected to exceed that of last year which was 13,000,000 quarts.

Mr. Spaid Visits Delaware

Spaid, formerly superintendent of schools for New Castle county, Madame Barakat of Philadelphia, and Miss Christine Tingling of Virginia, will be the speakers at the annual convention of the New Castle county W. C. T. U. to be held next Thursday in Red Clay Creek Presbyterian Church. The Rev. J. D. Blake, pastor of the church, and Mrs. Edna Shakespear will make addresses of welcome. Devotions will be conducted by Mrs. L. W. Emerson of New York City.

A demonstration of the L. T. L. work will be given by Miss Maude Gaynor, superintendent of that branch of the work. Those who attend the convention are requested to use the 8.20 o'clock Brandywine Springs car from Sixth and Market streets on Thursday morning.

Newark Man To Appear Before Grand Jury

Frank Clark, generally known here as Delaware's crack shot and "friend of everybody," had an unfortunate experience Sunday week at Norristown, where he had recently gone in business. Mr. Clark with a friend was out for a stroll, when they were accosted by a man making inquiries for a town near by. They directed him as best they knew. It appears, however, the instructions were wrong. Later the man, John Strouse, met them, calling them to task for their error. As reported, the man, under influence of liquor, started a fight. Mr. Clark in defense is reported to have struck him.

Later he was found and taken to the hospital where he died several hours later. Mr. Clark, on learning this, voluntarily gave himself up to the authorities. He was released on nominal bail of $2,000 to appear at June Court.

Several citizens of Newark learning of the affair offered Mr. Clark any assistance needed. Investigation of the affair shows the sympathy at Norristown favorable to Mr. Clark.

Children's Day At Salem

Children's Day exercises will be held at Salem M. E. Church on next Sunday evening.

Automobile Accident Near Cooches

Ernest Wilson, accompanied by his sister, Miss Margaret Wilson, and a party of Newark friends, figured in an automobile accident near Cooch's Bridge on Sunday night. Returning from Wilmington on the road from Christiana to Cooch's, at the cross roads near Dayett's they ran into a team owned by Robert Walker, breaking the horse's leg and upsetting the machine. The occupants were thrown from the car in a general mix up. Aside from cuts and bruises no one was seriously injured. Other members of the party were Misses Brady, Moss-crop and Campbell; E. H. Stiver, and Severson Cooling of Wilmington. The report that Mr. Cooling was seriously injured is false. Inquiries made at Wilmington this morning revealed him as all right. The Newark members of the party are getting along nicely, nursing the "scare" and bruises.

Reception At Bishopstead

The Rt. Rev. F. J. Kinsman, Bishop of Delaware, has issued invitations for a reception to be given at Bishopstead this evening, from 8 to 11, in honor of the president of Delaware College, Mrs. S. C. Mitchell, and Dean W. J. Robinson. Invitations have been sent to prominent citizens in all parts of Delaware.

Botanical Prizes Offered

Mr. Francis A. Cooch of Newark, in addition to the botanical prize of $15.00 which he has given for several years, has recently offered a second prize of $10.00. These prizes are to be awarded each year to the two students in botany at Delaware College who make the best and second best collections of flowers native to Delaware.

Board Completes Commencement Arrangements

At a meeting of the Board of Education held last night final arrangements were made for the School Commencement exercises, to be held in the Opera House on Friday night of next week. A complete list of the graduates appears in another column.

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduates will be preached by Rev. Walter G. Haupt, at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church next Sunday morning. Everett C. Johnson will deliver the commencement address. The Delaware College orchestra has been secured to furnish the music at the commencement exercises.

The board of education decided to charge a nominal admission price of ten cents for the commencement. The graduates, however, will be furnished with all the admission cards that they desire for their families and friends. The reason for the charge is the fact that in the past the Opera House on the occasion of the commencement exercises has been so crowded that persons had to stand or sit in the aisles and this was considered dangerous in case of accident.

It was also decided to engage a Goldey College expert penman to fill out the diplomas to be presented to the graduates at the expense of the board. In the past the graduates have been paying for this themselves. Dr. Joel S. Gillfillan, president of the board, will present the diplomas.

The board appointed Miss Esther Ferguson, teacher for the first primary grade, Miss Louisa Swayne, for several years teacher of the sixth grammar grade, resigned to accept a position as teacher in the Centerville school which is near her home in Fairville, Pa. Her successor will be named at a later meeting.

The contract for connecting the primary school with the sewer and installing closets in the basement of the school was awarded to Daniel Stoll, the lowest bidder, his bid being $239. L. B. Jacobs and William Dean were also bidders.

It was decided that pupils who have moved out of the district will have to pay the usual non-resident tuition fee. This fee will have to be paid by next Monday.

KENT HOME-MAKING SCHOOLS CLOSE

Experiment Proves A Splendid Success

After being open for five weeks the two home-making demonstration schools in Kent county will be closed on Friday of this week.

These schools which are located at Viola and Rising Sun, have been conducted under the supervision of Miss Myrtle V. Caudell, head of the department of home economics in the Women's College, and Miss Lyford, a specialist in home economics from the United States Bureau of Education. The schools being an experiment, the Federal government bureau has co-operated heartily in the movement.

Community meetings held at each of the schools last week were largely attended by home-makers of the localities. Miss Frances Foreman of Elsmere, was the teacher in charge and a session was held in each school every other day. Many new and simple suggestions were given those who attended.

Special arrangements have been made for the closing exercises of the schools the latter part of this week, with addresses and other features. The department of home economics of the Women's College will present each home-making school student who has attended the required number of days with an attractive certificate. Dean Robinson of the college, Miss Caudell and Miss Lyford will attend the closing exercises. There are about 20 students in each school, a great majority of them being the actual home-makers of that vicinity.

Next Monday two similar schools will be started in Sussex county, to be run for five weeks, at Midway and White's Chapel.

Mr. Strahorn To Build Garage

Charles W. Strahorn has purchased from Mr. W. P. Wollaston the property on Main street, between L. W. Lovett's furniture store and the residence of T. L. Lilley. Mr. Strahorn will build on this site, a fine modern garage.

Y. W. C. A. At Women's College

The Young Women's Christian Association of the Women's College is an active organization. Its members believe in doing things, and in doing them right at home, as is shown by the impulse they have given to the playground work in Newark. On two mornings a week, the girls on the Social Service Committee of the Y. W. C. A. go to the school playground before school opens, and there for an hour direct the children in organized play. They play all manner of games, "Dodge Ball," "I Spy," "Cat and Rat,"—everything, in fact, that tends to teach co-operation and at the same time to develop leadership, not in the few who naturally "boss," but in the slower children who most need the development. In short, they see to it that every child gets his share in those benefits of recreation which are coming more and more to be realized at a vital part of our educational methods. And the work which the college girls are doing in Newark, is significant not alone in its immediate results. The girls are here getting splendid training which they can make use of in the establishment of playground schools in their home towns.

Exams Are On

Final examinations covering the year's work, begin in the schools and colleges on Thursday.

Indeterminate Sentences Advocated-- And Full Pay for Prisoners

EMINENT REFORMER SPEAKS AT DELAWARE

On of the most stirring Federation Meeting held in Newark, was that of Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing Prison, New York, which is at present conducting one of the most notable experiments in prison reform known Mr. Osborne's share in the splendid work made his alk of special interest. The warden qualified for his office by serving time himself. Mr. Osborne first became interested in the George Junior Republic. Later, he was appointed by the governor of New York, a member of the Prison Reform Board. In order to study the problem at first hand, Mr. Osborne asked for permission to serve time. He has twice since repeated the experiment.

Mr. Osborne began his investigation of prison life by a visit to Auburn Prison, New York, in which are incarcerated fourteen hundred prisoners. The day of his arrival he addressed them at the chapel exercises, telling the object of his visit. Several hours after the talk he received, through the warden, a message from one of the prisoners. The man had respectfully addressed the warden with the remark, "Mr. Osborne wishes to see me. May I talk with him?" Upon being asked why Mr. Osborne wanted him he replied, "Because I am a finished product of the system he is studying. Mr. Osborne upon hearing the incident immediately went in search of the prisoner, with whom he became the best of friends. (The fellow died, by the way, before the expiration of his term). The man declared he began his career at the age of seven months, when he was taken to an orphan asylum. The ethics of the professions that lead prisonward is based upon the rule that one must never squeal on a pal. For this reason Mr. Osborne debated whether he had better try to serve as a prisoner without being known, or conduct his campaign entirely in the open. After consulting several of the prisoners he decided upon the latter plan, and announced his purpose in chapel on Sunday. On Monday morning he donned his uniform and took his place as an ordinary prisoner. He described the horror that every man feels upon being locked in a cell. Sixteen, out of every twenty-four hours, were spent in the cell every week-day; on Sunday, however, with the exception of one and one-half hours in chapel, and the time allowed for breakfast, the prisoners remain in their cells. "Is it any wonder," Mr. Osborne asked, "that there were always more fights following Sundays than any other day? Animals die if confined in this awful manner. Only men live to fight on—maimed for life."

Mr. Osborne denounced as senseless the custom of forbidding all conversation among the prisoners. "One-half the punishments on the books of Auburn Prison," he declared, "are for talking. And for this offense of talking the authorities tie send the man to the one place about the prison where you can talk in peace."

Mr. Osborne paused to give explicit definitions for the terms, "prison" and "reform." "A prison," he declared, "is not a place of punishment; it is the deprivation of a man's liberty. All other things only irritate a man—nothing can compare with the loss of liberty. There is no such thing as a confirmed criminal, except as the courts make. He is the result of a system which turns loose a man before he is fit to be returned to the world. Reform is something that comes from within. Therefore 'prison reform' can come only from within the prison."

The speaker discussed in detail the working of the Mutual Welfare League, as carried forward at Auburn, and Sing Sing, in New York and Chelsea in Connecticut, the Prisoners' Road Building camps, and the Honor System. The purpose of a prison, Mr. Osborne declared, is to cure disease, just as a hospital. What is the record? In New York state two-thirds of the inmates are residuists—those who are serving a second sentence. One man, whom the speaker knew, at twenty-nine years of age, had experienced only six years of liberty; from reform school to prisons; from prisons to state penitentiaries. Again at least 40 per cent of the prisoners in New York State leave the prisons afflicted with tuberculosis. But even this awful disease is not their worst malady. They carry with them the disease of sin, which they spread as their revenge, broadcast upon the world. "A prison should be a place of banishment," Mr. Osborne declared, "and not a place of punishment. The man should be banished because he is unsocial. It is impossible to measure the sentence of any man. No court of law can or should attempt to make the punishment fit the crime. I know of one man in prison, charged with five different things. The one for which he was sentenced is the only one of which he is innocent. He has served eleven years. The prison is merely the place for a host of us who have been caught. Men high in office in the very prison departments, perhaps, are more corrupt, more criminal, than the criminals themselves. There is no real dividing line between the prisoner and the honest man."

Mr. Osborne declared his lack of patience with the sentimental feeling for the prisoner. "The great majority of prisoners themselves," he said, will agree that they ought to come to prison; the only thing they say they ought to have is a square deal."

The reform system in practice at Sing Sing, inaugurated by Mr. Osborne about two years ago, has been marked with unusual success. The basis of the system is an appeal to the manhood of the prisoner. The garden believes the success of the venture rests largely upon the principle of loyalty. The old guards have been dismissed. The men are allowed to converse in a natural manner; they mingle freely, at the recreation hour, in the prison yards—all radical changes from the old regime. Each man knows by running away or breaking the laws—although the opportunity lies all around him—he is endangering the privileges of 1700 pals.

Mr. Osborne reviewed the faults of the old prison system, mentioning (1) the housing of the inmates at Auburn Prison the cells are 7 feet high, 7 1-2 feet long, and 4 feet wide; at Sing Sing 6 1-2 feet high, 7 feet long, and 3 1-2 feet wide. This can mean nothing but steady degeneration of mind, soul, and body. The new system would put men on the farm or out in the open. (2) The labor system. "The contract system," Mr. Osborne declared, "is the worst possible system that can exist. There is in it absolutely no incentive to work. Personally I worked in the Auburn prison for six days, and ended forty-one cents in debt—for fines are charged for every slight offense. The new system would pay every man a decent wage for his work, by means of which he will be able to support his wife and family. Prisoners should not be permitted to work as a slave works. There is no reason why the inmates of our prisons should not receive while there practical lessons in political economy. (3) The system of silence. The most unnatural, the most abnormal thing in the world, is for a man to ignore altogether his power of speech. Since the formation of the Mutual Welfare League at Sing Sing this restriction has been abolished. The regular officers and guards have been dismissed, the prisoners themselves electing their own. A iatur ecommonwealth has been established which has a train of interests of its own. "It is a very democratic little colony," Mr. Osborne said. "At the last election the former president of a bank, and a former burglar of a bank, were candidates for the presidency. The first field day was held last Fourth of July; a second was held on Labor Day, and similar sports are planned for the coming holidays. The result has been a wonderful improvement in discipline. Until two years ago the vigilance of the guards was doubled on a foggy day—almost invariably there would be several attempts to escape. Since the inauguration of the new system not one prisoner has attempted to escape. (4) The monotony of prison life. It is hard to imagine the paralyzing monotony of the life of a prisoner. At Sing Sing we believe in having things happen. (5) The awful sense of being constantly watched."

Under the old system there isn't a single thing a man can do naturally but breathe. Is it calculated to develop a sane and healthy mind? After the introduction of the new system at Sing Sing the number of cases of insanity among the prisoners decreased from 124 to 64 in 2 months. Again the old system with its guards, necessarily meant brutality. The guard didn't dare to stop and inquire. To hesitate was ruin. The brutality of the system was frightful. There was not one sensible, one decent thing; not one thing in it to make men better. It was pure imbecility.

"We are trying, in its stead, the application of ordinary common sense to the prison system. We are theorists, just as those who believe in the attraction of gravitation. Freedom inside the prison walls will certainly make the man better fitted for freedom. As Gladstone said 'It is liberty alone that fits man for liberty.' We turn men out every day practically unfit to get along with the world."

A Canadian writer in a commemorative ode to King Edward the VII, declares America inhabited by a people who "Forever they are dreamers, who make their dreams come true. We are not a practical people, as illustrated by our long list of inventors. We are the greatest dreamers the world has ever known. In New York we have had a vision of bringing the blessings of liberty to prisoners. We believe the prisoners will be fit to live in the world again until our dream comes true."

Get Busy At Once

This is the time to begin your warfare against the fly, and precautions taken now are work all sorts of preventives later on. Every fly that you see buzzing through your rooms and allow to live may breed millions, each one of which may in turn breed millions more. Very often a housewife will not take the bother to chase a single fly, whereas if her rooms were filled with any number of them she would start a clearance at once. If she could only realize that the numbers would never be there if she killed the single one perhaps she would exert herself more at the first glimpse of the dreadful pest.

The spring of the year is the breeding time for flies. In another month, for every single fly that you allow to live today, you will find hundreds of thousands. Let that sink into your mind thoroughly. That first fly you just saw buzzing about in the sunshine—look through and beyond that single fly and see its thousands and thousands of progeny. Don't you think you will save time and trouble later on by killing that single fly now?

Swat the fly! Let this be your slogan if you wish to keep your household free of sickness and disease this summer. Teach your children to swat them, too; they will do it gladly if you just arm them each with a weapon which looks very much like a miniature tennis racket made out of flexible wire, and turn them loose in the rooms. They will make a game of it, and will clear up all the flies in sight.

It is much easier to rid your home of flies now than later on, for you will only have one or two now. But go at them vigorously and eliminate them entirely now. If you are apt to be careless about them now, why, look around your family and think of the hundreds of forms of death lurking in one fly and of the danger to those dearest to you. If you would not bestir yourself to wage this just warfare for your own sake, at least do it for the sake of your families,—and do it now.

Automobiles In Delaware

Delaware has one automobile to every sixty-eight persons living in this State, according to figures presented in a recent issue of the Municipal Journal. This is slightly below the average for all the states in this country which is an automobile to every 56 persons. Delaware stands twenty-ninth in the list of forty-eight states in this respect.

Pennsylvania has one automobile to every 72 persons; New Jersey one to every 44 persons; Maryland, one to every 66 persons. Rhode Island, whose registration is three times as great as that in Delaware, has one automobile to every 47 persons.

Delaware had a registration in 1914 of 3,050 automobiles and the gross registration revenues of this State were $35,672. Rhode Island had a registration of 12,331 and revenues amounting to $157,020. Pennsylvania's registration was 112,854 and revenues $1,785,039; New Jersey, 62,961 automobiles with revenues of $14,536.50; Maryland, 20,213 automobiles with revenues of $268,231.07.

Iowa has one automobile to every twenty-one persons, leading in this respect while Mississippi has the fewest compared with population with one automobile to every 329 persons. Altogether the total number of automobiles registered during the year in the forty-eight states was 1,711,339 and the total gross registration revenues amounted to $12,270,035.78.

The securing of this exclusive right to sell Luther Burbank original seeds is but another indication of the progressive policies of this store to give the unusual at all times. Look for the Burbank seal upon every package of seeds you buy. It is the "Sterling" mark of quality and genuineness, and for your protection.

With every $1.00 purchase of seeds we will present you with an interesting and instructive book in which Luther Burbank himself gives valuable directions on "The Culture of Flowers, Fruits, and Vegetables."

It is alleged that the closing of the polls by Burris' direction, cost William H. Cook, the sitting Republican councilman for the ward, his renomination, for which he was defeated by Captain S. B. Atkins. On the other hand, it is claimed that the Cook supporters were rallying Democrats to his support and the polls were closed to secure fair play. Atkins' nomination has been regularly certified.

Delaware Men Talk Of Exercises At Hopkins

On Tuesday morning, May 25, Assistant Professor Dutton, of the English department, spoke at chapel on the recent exercises at Johns Hopkins in connection with the installation of Dr. F. J. Goodnow as president and the formal opening of the buildings at Homewood. With Dr. Harter and Professor Conover, Mr. Dutton represented Delaware College. After sketching briefly the history of the Johns Hopkins University, he spoke of the many famous men who represented our leading colleges and universities. These included President Lowell of Harvard; President Hibben of Princeton; President Hadley of Yale; etc. In closing his talk Mr. Dutton said: "In regard to the present day controversy concerning so-called 'vocational education' (that is, practical training to the exclusion of theoretical and cultural training) the following words spoken by General Goethals, the builder of the Panama Canal, in his address opening the engineering building of the University demand our consideration as the verdict of the man best qualified to speak with authority on the subject:

"Such an education (i. e. that of the engineer)," said General Goethals, "should include, therefore, not only the technical but the cultural subject, so as to round out the man in all directions, and by enlarging his perception and vision to cultivate ideals and imagination so essential to the engineer for success; in fact, imagination is as much a requisite for the engineer as for the artist, for he should be able to picture to himself the completed structure before work on it is begun and to foresee many of the difficulties that will arise, in time to meet them."

"In recent years the requirements for admission to the law and medical schools have increased, so that now the leading schools for these professions require the applicant to be possessed of an academic degree or its equivalent. The engineer's education should be just as broad. The engineering school should prescribe the same qualifications for entrance."

"After all it is not the amount of technical information gained that is of importance. What is needed is so to train the mind that it can grapple with reasonable hope of successful issue, the various problems that will arise in after life, and this is accomplished best by a thorough grounding in and mastery of the theory of the fundamentals. The practical work can come later in life and in so far as the school is concerned should be subordinated to theory and mental training."

PEOPLES' COLUMN

A Letter Of Explanation

Doubtless many, who read the article "Shall it be a Home or the Poorhouse" and also read the letter of Mrs. Kierski, both of which were published in last week's issue of the Post, are wondering what is to be done with the money that has been collected for the aid of the old lady in question. Since last week's issue of the Post I have had a personal talk with the old lady in question, Mrs. Whittaker, who was very happy to know that she was going to be taken care of by her friends. She does not feel humiliated by what has been done for her. The home to which the lady wishes to be sent is on Gilpin Ave., Wilmington, Delaware. The charge for admission for a woman of her age is $250. Now if there is anyone having family connections, or if there is anyone having a specific interest in Mrs. Whittaker's welfare who wishes to put her in the home mentioned above, she will be only too glad to go. But until definite information is received that the sum is forthcoming we will continue to receive contributions through the Post. In case the amount is received from any one party the money collected will be returned to the donors. Will you please give the subject careful consideration and contribute accordingly?

In giving, think of these lines of Lowell's:
It is "Not what we give, but what we share
For the gift without the giver is bare."

A Friend.

B. & O. Blunder Repeated

Editor of the Post:
Sir—Newark patrons of the B. & O. R. R. owe Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell and other public spirited citizens a vote of thanks for securing the consent of that company to continue Newark as a stop for the 1 p. m. north-bound express, long one of the best patronized of our trains. It was formerly due here at 1.08 but it now comes at 1.02, six minutes earlier and makes the trip from Washington to New York in just five hours. Under the new schedule which went into effect last Sunday this train was not scheduled to stop here but acting on advance information of the change Dr. Mitchell sent a very forcible protest to Baltimore the result of which was a belated order to stop this express daily at Newark. The strange and stupid thing about this matter is that exactly the same blunder was made by the company last spring and it was necessary for a delegation to go to Baltimore to convince the officials of their error—for mistake it was or they would not have rectified it.

Is it the settled policy of the road to discriminate against Newark with every new schedule? It looks that way.

Big Stock Of Wet Goods

State Detective McCoy, Chief of Police Tobin, Justice Nickerson, gave Robert Williams, a barber of New Castle, an auto ride to Greenbank on Friday after finding in a cave dug under the floor of his shop a keg of beer and enough whiskey, gin, and rum to stock a bar. The justice committed Williams for Court in default of $500 bail.

The Government Talks Postal Savings Banks

Every person in the United States ten years old or over may open an account in a postal savings bank after July 1st, according to an instructive leaflet on the Postal Savings system just issued by Postmaster General Burleson. This important extension of the service will be made possible by permitting persons living in communities so sparsely settled as not to justify the designation of their local post offices as regular savings banks to open accounts by mail.

Governor Dockery, Third Assistant Postmaster General, who has direct supervision of postal savings, was so impressed by appeals from all over the country to open postal savings accounts by mail that he took up the task some weeks ago of working out a feasible and safe method of meeting a demand well illustrated in a letter from a Saline County Missourian, who resides many miles from a postal savings bank.

"Having a few hundred dollars saved from fifty years of hard and assiduous labor and skimping economy on the part of my wife and myself, we concluded to deposit it in the Postal Savings Bank of —. We wrote to the postmaster at that place and received reply to the effect that none but patrons of that office could deposit in that office which is very disappointing news to us. Our little farm is not large enough to support us and land is so high that it is impossible for us to buy more with what little we have saved and we are so old that we can't labor much now and we would be so glad to lay by at least enough to put us away in decency."

Under the plan adopted by the Postmaster General for opening accounts by mail an intending depositor, residing where there is no regularly designated postal savings bank, will apply to his local postmaster who will see that necessary identification data is prepared and forwarded to a nearby post office authorized to accept deposits. The intending depositor will then be given permission to forward his first and subsequent deposits by money order or registered mail direct to the postmaster at the banking point for which receipts or certificates will be issued. He may withdraw all or any part of his postal savings by mail and on demand together with any interest that may be due him.

The new leaflet points out that any person ten years old or over may open an account in his or her own name; that an account may be opened by a married woman free from any control or interference by her husband; that post office officials are forbidden to disclose to any person except the depositor, the amount of any deposits; that withdrawals may be made without previous notice; and that the Government guarantees to repay all deposits on demand with accrued interest.

The leaflet will soon be printed in 22 foreign languages for distribution through local post offices. The foreign-born citizen has taken very kindly to postal savings, and literature in his own language will be of great assistance to him. In a recent article, Postmaster General Burleson commented on the foreign-born depositor as follows:

"Upwards of 500,000 depositors now have accounts in the Postal Savings System and they represent every nationality on the earth. They also represent almost every known occupation—professional men, theatrical people, mechanics, laborers, fishermen, pack peddlers, etc. But the majority are wage earners, and of this class the foreign-born largely predominate. A census of depositors taken by the Post Office Department shows that approximately 40 per cent (200,000) of the depositors are foreign-born citizens and they own more than 50 per cent of the deposits—splendid evidence of the confidence of our newly acquired citizens in the ability and good faith of their adopted country to fulfill its obligations."

"There is another reason which led immigrants, unfamiliar with our language and business methods, to turn to the Government to safeguard their humble savings and that reason is the disastrous experiences many of them have had by the failures of bogus 'private banks' offered by swindlers of their own tongue who have preyed mercilessly upon their loneliness and credulity."

Postal savings receipts have broken all records the past year. During the eight months prior to April 1st there was a net gain in deposits of $19,000,000, as against a gain of $8,000,000 for the same months the year before. Thousands of new accounts have been opened and the millions made up largely of hidden savings have been turned back into the channels of trade just at a time when there was pressing demand for every dollar.

Rain put a stop to all Delaware-Maryland League games on Saturday. The local fans were much disappointed as Newark was scheduled for a home game with their old rivals Elk Mills and the prospects were good for a large crowd. This was to have been the last game for Hoffecker with Elk Mills as the big twirler has signed with one of the clubs in the Blue Mountain League and is to join the team this week. With Hoffecker in the box the Elk Mills contingent felt sure of taking the game while the locals were equally sure that Newark would win with Hogan in the box. The rain started before the game was started and Elk Mills will play a double header on their next trip to Newark.

No action has been taken as yet relative to the protest of the local club over the fifteen inning game that was awarded to Parkside by Umpire Hastings. President Davies will likely refer the matter to three arbitrators for their decision unless an agreement is reached to play the game over. It is the general opinion that the game will be played over as Newark had excellent grounds for the protest.

One game on Saturday and two on Decoration Day will likely make a number of changes in the standing of the various clubs in the league. Newark goes to Elkton on Saturday and New Castle Monday morning while the Traction Co. will be here for the afternoon game on Monday.

Rain Stopped Delaware Game
After three innings had been played with neither team scoring the game between Delaware and Muhlenburg had to be called on Saturday because of rain. "Bob" Wallace was in the box for Delaware and was in fine form. Only nine men faced him in the three innings and of these he fanned seven.

Delaware has but two more games on the schedule with the exception of the Alumni game to be played during Commencement Week. St. John's of Annapolis plays here this afternoon and Western Maryland on Saturday. There will also be a dual field and track meet Saturday afternoon with Drexel.

The Blue and gold baseball team has been going fine for the past three or four weeks. Early in the season poor fielding lost two or three games but since the latter part of April the team has struck its gait and has been winning consistently. Until today Delaware has won five and lost three games. Three games, two with Muhlenburg, and one with Moravian, were called off on account of rain. Delaware defeated Baltimore Polytechnic 9 to 3; Rock Hill 2 to 0; Washington College, 9 to 6; Haverford Baseball Club, 4 to 0; and Temple University, 5 to 3. Games were lost to Drexel 11 to 6; Swarthmore, 7 to 2; and Johns Hopkins 7 to 6.

The work of the pitchers Hoch and Wallace has been especially good and with good support neither of them would have lost a game so far this season. The entire infield with the exception of Horsey at second gave some weird exhibitions in several games.

The work of O'Daniel back of the bat has shown great improvement since early in the season. He is a hard worker and puts a lot of "pop" in the game and has handled the two pitchers fairly good. His greatest fault has been his throwing to bases but he has also improved of late in this respect.

"Mike" Fidance wrenched his ankle in the Temple game and "Bake" Taylor will likely cover third in the remaining games.

Manager Ellison of the Newark baseball team of the Delaware-Maryland League has announced that all future home games will be called at three thirty instead of three p. m.

Continental Fibre Baseball team will play the Third Ward Athletic Club of Wilmington on the Delaware avenue grounds next Saturday. On Monday morning at 9 a. m. the team will meet the Luxemburger A. C. of Wilmington, and in the afternoon the Perryville team, at Perryville.

The Dog

I've never known a dog to wag His tail in glee he didn't feel, Nor quit his old-time friend to tag

At some influential heel. The yellowest cur I ever knew Was, to the boy who loved him, true.

I've never known a dog to show Half-way devotion to his friend; To seek a kinder man to know, Or richer, but unto the end The humblest dog I ever knew Was, to the man who loved him, true.

I've never known a dog to fake Affection for a present gain— A false display of love to make, Some little favor to attain. I've never known a Prince or Spot That seemed to be what he was not.

But I have known a dog to fight With all his strength to shield a friend, And, whether wrong or whether right, To stick with him until the end. And I have known a dog to lick The hand of him that men would kick.

And I have known a dog to bear Starvation's pangs from day to day With him who had been glad to share

His bread and meat along the way. No dog, however mean or rude, Is guilty of ingratitude.

The dog is listed with the dumb, No voice he has to speak his creed. His messages to humans come By faithful conduct and by deed.

He shows, as seldom mortals do, A high ideal of being true. —American Field.

Rehearsals For "The Jonah" In Progress
Rehearsals are again in progress for "The Jonah," which is to be repeated in the Newark Opera House on Monday evening, June 7.

as a part of the Delaware College Commencement program. It is expected that "The Jonah" will be fully as great a success this time as it was in April. "The Jonah," it will be remembered, is a lively, snappy three-act comedy of real life. It is "chuck full" of both laughs and good common sense. The caste is made up of the best of local amateur actors, and the acting has a smoothness and finish very seldom found in amateur plays. Indeed "The Jonah" has been declared by many to be the most interesting and enjoyable play ever given in Newark.

Dr. Claxton Predicts Woman Suffrage

In a notable address before the graduating class of Fairmont Seminary, one of the leading girls' schools of Washington, D. C., with students and alumnae present from almost every state, Philander P. Claxton, Commissioner of Education of the United States, predicted the early dawn of woman's suffrage.

"You might as well stand on a bridge over the Mississippi and with a whisk broom try to sweep back the waters as they rush to the sea," said Dr. Claxton, "as to attempt to stem the tide of public opinion in favor of votes for women."

"When the people of Memphis hear that the Mississippi has reached flood-tide at St. Louis, they know the flood will reach them. Just as the floods in rivers are caused from little rivulets and smaller streams, so is the flood of public opinion for woman's suffrage being made up in the United States. Nothing can stop it.

"The graduating classes of 1915 have greater obligations and greater opportunities than any class ever graduated in this country, because the war in Europe has given America her great opportunity and unless we take the leadership in everything we will be recreant to our duty. The young women graduated this year will have a larger opportunity in the world's work than any graduated before. So it behooves the girl graduates of 1915 to consider their opportunities and obligations very seriously, for with the coming of suffrage they are going to have a great opportunity to help make laws of the future and those laws will be only as just as public sentiment makes them. You young women will have as much to do in the creation of this public sentiment as your brothers."

Dr. Claxton's vigorous endorsement of woman's suffrage has caused much favorable comment in the National Capital, especially on account of the widely representative audience before which it was delivered.

thing to execute the deed of 1732 on parchment, and another thing to execute it on the disputed territory.

Work on the line, according to the accepted agreement had been carried on by the commissioners for a period of three years. Mason and Dixon adopted the peninsula east and west line of their predecessors, also the radius and tangent point, in fixing the northern boundary. Vistas or paths, about eight yards wide, were cleared through the forest. Negotiations with the Six Nations were completed, and by June 1767, the party set out, with an escort of fourteen Indians and an interpreter. A stone graven with the arms of the Penns on the one side, and of the Baltimore family on the other, was placed at every fifth mile on the line. Smaller stones marked with "P" on one side and "M" on the other were placed at the intermediate miles.

Roving bands of Indians, in spite of the escort, gave the band much uneasiness, and on the 29th of September, twenty-six of the assistants quit work for fear of the Shawnees and the Delawares. But in spite of this danger, and with but fifteen axemen, the men pushed on. At length they reached a point, two hundred forty-four miles from the Delaware river, and within thirty-six miles of the whole distance to be run. Here, in the bottom of a valley, on the borders of a stream marked Dunkard Creek on their map, they came to an Indian war-path winding its way through the forest. "Here," the Indian escort told them, "it is the will of the Six Nations that the surveys shall be stayed." There was no alternative but obedience. The surveyors returned to Philadelphia, where they received an honorable discharge.

The greatest fame of the Mason and Dixon line, however, rests in its political, rather than its geographical, significance. During the years preceding the Civil War, it became fixed in men's minds as the boundary line between the north and south; as the line of which separated those of antagonistic opinions concerning slavery. And as such it goes down in history.

Dollars Out At Work

In a recent brief statement one of the big life insurance companies tells about the work done by the dollars paid in as premiums by policyholders.

"In its home office," the company says, "is a steel safe about the size of a large bedroom. This safe has in it about $300,000,000, represented by stocks and bonds. In other safes nearby are another $300,000,000 or more, represented by real estate mortgages and titles to property, and so on.

"The dollars themselves are not in these safes; they are all out at work. Each safe might be regarded as a sort of cloakroom, where the dollars leave their hats and coats and then go out to work. Each of these dollars we regard as a little slave working hard every day without taking any holidays, without taking any vacations, and each one earning about 4 1-2 cents a year for the company."

Policy holders send into this company money at the rate of $40 a minute for 300 working days of the year—nearly $5,000,000 a month, more than $58,000,000 a year.

Of actual cash the company probably does not keep at hand more than comes in ten days. Very promptly money is put to work. At what?

As soon as it comes in, the company says, "the money is set to work building railroads, making locomotives and railroads cars, erecting office buildings and business houses, and performing a great service to society all over the land.

"In other words, it is immediately invested in railroad and municipal bonds and estate mortgages."

Of course, what this money earns adds to the fund held to pay the claims of policyholders. Last year, for instance, this company paid out $118 for every $100 received from policy holders—a record probably equaled by every sound old company, and made possible by the policy of keeping money constantly and safely employed.

It is well worth while to get and study the financial statements of the big insurance companies. They are among our biggest and most successful investors.

Fire Under His Pillow

Putting his trousers of the pockets of which contained about $100, his day's receipts, under his pillow, Morris Krystal, a storekeeper at 16 East Front street, Wilmington, went to sleep on Saturday night. Later he smelled smoke and grabbing his trousers put them on. He found his bed on fire and pretty soon his trousers also. He got them off quickly and rescued his cash but his hands were scorched. A bunch of keys and some loose matches in another pocket had caused the trouble.

Morning Blaze At Millsboro

Millsboro on Sunday morning faced destruction from a blaze which started in Alfred Burton's store and spread to the town hall and lodges' hall, two other stores and three dwellings, causing a loss of $15,000. Residents after a hard fight controlled the blaze.

that makes it the unquestioned "big value but low priced" car of the world.

We do not ask you to buy a Studebaker because of the record a specially constructed car may have made in this, that or the other race, when driven by an expert racing driver. No—but we do ask you to investigate the performance of the Studebaker in every-day use, under every day conditions, and in the hands of thousands of average drivers. It is the use to which you will put a car that should determine its value to you. Let us show you what the Studebaker has done and will do in the service to which you expect to put it. If you ask why Studebakers are better—why they give and always have given thorough satisfaction—consider the aims, ideals and honesty of purpose behind them; the quality of Studebaker materials; the vast extent and intensiveness of Studebaker manufacturing methods; the excellence of their engineering design; and the fact that in each and every important or vital particular these cars welcome comparison with the highest priced.

You will find them competing with cars that sell at prices $500 higher; and you will also find them showing higher quality throughout.

Studebaker prices are lower because these cars are completely manufactured in Studebaker plants, carry but one profit, and impose no middleman's tax on the buyer.

Joshua A. Marvil

Joshua H. Marvil was born in Little Creek hundred, Sussex county, September 31, 1825. When he was nine years of age he lost his father and it was a hard struggle on the part of his brave and devoted mother to maintain the six children that were left to her unaided care. So pressing were the home duties, so constant the labor on the farm that young Marvil had little opportunity for instruction at the school house three miles away. But there was a latent energy in the boy that was bound to develop and overcome one by one the obstacles to success. When he was twenty years of age he became a sailor, but soon learned the trade of shipbuilding. In his 28th year he began the manufacture of agricultural implements. Success soon followed. In 1870 he commenced his business by manufacturing crates and baskets, which became one of the largest industries in the county. He was elected governor in 1894. Soon after his inauguration there were rumors of failing health, and on the 8th of April he died. At that moment party strife was hushed, party differences forgotten, and the men of every shade of political opinion paid tribute to the memory of a good man.

The Mason And Dixon Boundary Line

Trouble over the boundary line, between the colonies of the Calverts and the Penns, running over a period of one hundred and thirty years, resulted in the Mason and Dixon boundary line—a line destined to become one of the most famous in all history. Both Penn and Lord Baltimore owing to overlapping grants from the king, claimed the fertile strip of land lying along the coast, now the state of Delaware. This resulted in a boundary dispute, twice argued before the English Court of Chancery, both decisions being given in favor of William Penn. Finally in 1750 the verdict was accepted by all concerned. In 1763, Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, mathematicians and surveyors, were sent to run the boundary line. The surveyors landed in Philadelphia in 1763, and began their work at once. A line was to be run due west from Cape Henlopen, across the Peninsula, from whose center another line should be drawn tangent to a circle twelve miles from New Castle, where a meridian from the tangent point should be continued to within fifteen miles from Philadelphia, whence should be traced the parallel of latitude westward that was to divide the provinces. Should the meridian cut a segment from the circle, the segment was to be a part of New Castle county. This parallel of latitude is the Mason and Dixon line of history. But it was one

NEW GARAGE ON MAIN STREET

Plan To Complete Building
By August

The new garage, being erected by A. F. Fader, promises to be one of the show buildings of the town. After inspecting several buildings of this kind Mr. Fader and the contractor, George Griffin, have designed what appears to be an exceptionally fine structure from an auto standpoint. The building will be two stories, of brick and concrete construction of the fire proof type. The size will be 55 by 85 feet. The first floor will have a main centre entrance with office and store room on one side, the other side will be used as a show room.

In the rear of the building will be the storage room. This has a decided advantage of being clear span floor space. An elevator will lead to the second floor. This floor, the same as the first floor, will be of steel and concrete, held by four 30-inch steel girders weighing 3 1-2 tons each. On this floor will be the machine and repair shop and extra storage rooms. The roof will be of asbestos supported by 3-ton steel trusses.

In order to make every provision of fire-proof construction, the steam heating plant will be installed in a building adjoining the garage.

Altogether, Mr. Fader expects to have a model garage with a capacity of storage for 65 cars, aside from the business quarters and machine room. Everything has been planned to meet the requirements of the rapidly growing business built up by Mr. Fader.

The exact design of the face of the building has not been definitely decided upon but something attractive is the surprise in store.

The business at present is enjoying its usual boom, fourteen advance orders for cars being on the books waiting delivery.

The transfer will be made on or before August 15th.

Fraternity Purchases

Building Lots

The Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity has purchased two lots at the corner of Gillespie avenue and Depot Road from D. C. Rose, and it is understood will build a new fraternity house there. The purchase has been the cause of considerable critical comment, due to the fact, that it has been requested that nothing be done until the Expansion Plan of the College be made known. Just whether the plan will affect in any way the fraternities is not known. There is, however, considerable sentiment and division of feeling on the question. The proposed Commons on the campus will no doubt have some bearing on fraternity regulation by the Board.

FARM SURVEY

REPORTED

Statistics Compiled For Farmers' Benefit

An interesting report of the survey made several weeks ago of 65 farms in lower New Castle county, comprising what is called the "Middletown Area," by County Agricultural Agent Levi H. Cooch, with the assistance of Messrs. Brown and Keyes from the United States Department of Agriculture, has just been submitted by Mr. Cooch to the government and the Delaware College Experiment Station. The survey was made to ascertain facts relative to farm and tenant labor, incomes and many details of value to the farmers of the State are contained in the report.

On most of the 65 farms the report says, the quality of the cows is inferior, the average receipts per cow being only $51; nine of the best farms showed the average receipts per cattle unit of $83, while only two could show receipts of $100 per cattle unit. With improved stock, or at least a pure-bred bull, a silo and five or ten acres of alfalfa, the farmers of lower New Castle county could increase their farm labor incomes very materially.

Although opinions differ, the records taken in southern New Castle county indicate that a wide diversity of enterprises, with from two to four main sources of income, is more profitable than specialized farming. Nearly every one of the sixty-five farms surveyed had from three to four sources of income that were over 10 per cent of their total receipts.

In figuring up the efficiency of man and horse labor on these farms, the report says that out of the possible 310 working days in the year, the average man worked 202 days in productive labor, while the remaining 98 days were taken up with chores and unproductive labor, such as trimming hedges, mowing headlands, fencing, taking the children to school, visiting, etc. An average of the best 17 farms shows that each man worked 233 days out of the 310, or 36 days of productive labor more than on the average of the 65 farms surveyed. On the majority of farms in the "Middletown Area" are horses are small and plentiful. Because of insufficient weight three horses are usually kept where two horses of a little heavier could do the work. On the average of the 65 farms, each horse works but 63 days of ten hours, or two hours a day for the year. Fewer horses with more weight would lower the cost of horse labor very materially.

On the 65 farms surveyed, 50 are rented and have an average labor income of $1,168. The 15 that are operated by their owners showed an average income of $300. This is not a fair comparison, however, as these 15 were much smaller farms than the average of those rented, hence they were doing a much smaller business. On the other hand, the class of tenants in the "Middletown Area" is far above the average, as only one had a minus labor income, while four of the owners who operate their farms went behind last year.

To sum up the conditions as they exist today, clover and timothy will produce a satisfactory crop once in about six years. Alfalfa grows well where it has been tried and therefore appears to offer a solution of the hay problem on the majority of farms in lower New Castle county. A number of farmers top-dress their grass land with nitrate of soda, and under favorable conditions are able to show a yield of from one to two tons of good hay per acre.

Ten farmers grow an average of five and one-half acres of asparagus, yielding $169 per acre. On these farms the average labor income is $1,656, or $488 more than the average labor income of the 65 farms surveyed.

Last year 29 farmers grew an average of 6.3 acres of tomatoes, which returned gross receipts of $44 per acre. It is doubtful whether the crop was raised at a profit. On these farms the labor income averaged $1,119 or $49 below the average for the 65.

On 43 farms there was grown an average of 16 acres of sweet corn, which returned gross receipts of about $29 per acre. As it costs about $20 per acre to grow this crop, the profits cannot be high.

With an average labor income of $1,412 and landlords making an average of 8 per cent on their land investment, the records show the "Middletown Area" of New Castle county to be one of the best agricultural sections of the country. Both landlords and tenants are being well repaid for their labor and capital invested.

In taking the records back to the farmers, it is quite remarkable to find so many different ideas as to why this demonstration was made. Some evidently took the matter as a joke, others were of the opinion that in some way it would increase their taxes or those of their landlords, while a few thought a plan was on foot to ascertain the value of the land in order to give information to a syndicate, forming to buy up some large tracts of land. About half of the 65 really seemed to appreciate that the demonstration was made with no ulterior motive.

Five Minutes For Memory Observed In Pennsylvania

Martin G. Brumbaugh, the governor of Pennsylvania, has issued the following proclamation, concerning the observance of "Five Minutes For Memory."

"In the early sixties a mighty army of heroic Pennsylvanians, under the call of Lincoln and Curtin, marched to the defense of their country and to undying fame. Others since have followed their patriotic example. A nation that does not honor its heroic dead is not worthy the respect and loyalty of the living. A nation that is not great in reverence and in gratitude cannot endure.

"There, I, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby issue this proclamation, and earnestly request all our people to observe May 30, 1915, as Memorial Day.

"As a part of the fitting observance therefore, I request that bells be tolled from 12:00 noon until 12:05, that flags be placed at half mast, and that all citizens stand with heads uncovered, and in solemn silence during this period."

Fine Percheron Filly

On the Charles H. LaSferty farm near Newark, they have a fine five weeks old Percheron filly, that weighs three hundred and fifty pounds.

Tests now making by the Wilmington Board of Health, is stated show that much of the city's milk supply is far below the standard. The Board is said to be seeking to have the City Milk inspection placed under its jurisdiction.
